VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — An emergency situation asks more of you in the wav of physical and mental alertness than you are used to. Succeed through the force of will.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Boer and Crimean ----
5 Rattletrap
9 Moved at top speed
14 "Thanks ----!"
15 Exhort
16 Elicit
17 Space-travel agcy.
18 College org.
19 VII
20 Convey from one to another
22 Least adulterated
23 Thing accomplished
24 Machine parts
25 ------ fiddle
28 ----- -- -kind: Poker hand
32 Almost 33 Tories' opposition
34 Female: Informal
35 Fellow: Informal
36 Metric units
37 Cut lengthwise
38 Trickery
39 Sole of a plow
40 Reporter's question
41 Soapstone
43 Drink after a drink
44 Primitive
45 Inferior
46 As hard as ------
49 Shell fragments
53 Staunch
54 Zodiac sign
55 Overhang
56 Break up a sentence
57 ---- Boleyn
58 Revolve
59 Horse
60 Salad ingredient
61 Recital of events

DOWN
1 Destitution
2 Axillary
3 Singer ---- Ponselle
4 Superior person
5 Breathed heavily
6 Miscalculated
7 Seaweed
8 Caress
9 Takes up again
10 Opposed
11 Shoreline recess
12 ---- out: Supplements
13 Fender blemish
21 Forced to depart
22 Pieces
24 Sound harmoniously
25 Icelandic narratives
26 German president
27 Graphite-clay crayon
28 Buy at a given store
29 Stares at 30 Laissez -----
31 Make different
33 Reduce to shreds
36 Move effortlessly
37 Most acute
39 Hindered in growth
40 Command to a horse
42 Stir up
43 Instrument
45 Suffix with micro and mega
46 Horned vipers
47 Statistic: Abbr.
48 Pulled apart
49 Math. quantity
50 California city
51 Morally bad
52 Unaspirated consonant
54 Scientist's workshop

Puzzle Solved.

SHOPS COBS SARD
HOVEL OKIE TBAR
OMEGA MADEPEACE
DER TREY ANTES
TUTOR TASTERS
TOUTED MOTTO
ERRED TOTTERING
AGE SORES NEO MYSTICISM DEVON
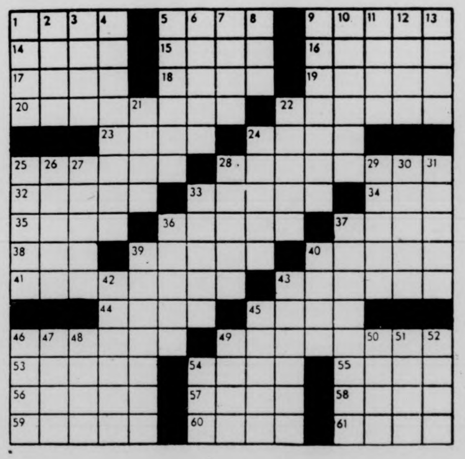
ARULE SERENE
HOTRODS SEDAN
ALIGN TUTU TUB
DIMESTORE CAINE
EVET ADIT ERODE
SERS GAMY SENOR



1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18 19 20 21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
29
30
31
32
33
34
35
36
37
38
39
40
41
42
43
44
45
46
47
48
49
50
51
52
53
54
55
56
57
58
59
60
61

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
NONE
TODAY
VARSITY MEN'S SOCCER — vs. Rhode Island Home 3:30
TOMORROW
VARSITY FOOTBALL — vs. Rhode Island Home 1:00
VARSITY MEN'S CROSS COUNTRY — vs. New Hampshire-Vermont-Bently Home 12:00
VARSITY VOLLEYBALL — vs. Northeastern-MIT Away 1:00
JUNIOR VARSITY VOLLEYBALL — vs. Northeastern-MIT Away 1:00
VARSITY MEN'S GOLF — ECAC Championship at Seven Oaks C.C.
VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY — vs. Bridgewater St. Home 1:00

Netwomen in MAIAW

By ELLEN DAVIS
Collegian Staff

Four top players from the women's tennis team will be competing against the best players from other colleges all over Massachusetts at the MAIAW tournament at Mount Holyoke College this weekend.

Representing the Minutewomen will be singles players Cathy Maher and Carolyn Mooney and the doubles combination of Dawn Minaai and Jennifer Ranz.

Maher and Mooney are seeded third and sixth respectively, so they won't be in action until the second round, which should start at 11:30 tomorrow.

Maher, the number one singles player for UMass, will face the winner of the Boston State-Worcester Poly Tech match in her opening round.

UMass coach Billy expects Maher to make it to the semi-finals, if not the finals. Yu says Mooney also has a good chance of making it to the semi's.

The UMass doubles team of Minaai and Ranz, who are seeded number one, should face their first competition at 10:30 tomorrow.

Sports Notices

FIELD HOCKEY — Any men interested in starting a field hockey team, call Jan Stapel at 546-5922.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL — Any undergraduate woman interested in trying out for the women's basketball team — tryouts will begin this tonight at NOPE gym and will run from 7-9 p.m. Please be prompt and ready to play. Contact coach Mary Ann Ozdarski at room 227 Boyden if you have any questions.

INTRAMURALS — Volleyball officials meeting will be next Tuesday in room 215 Boyden at 5 p.m.

Volleyball entry deadline has been extended to Monday at 12 noon.

Boyden Pool will be closed tomorrow for a water polo meet.

NOPE gym will be closed this weekend for basketball tryouts.

INTRAMURALS — The IM Department will sponsor another "Run for Fun" in the orchard, Sunday morning at 10:30 at the base of the water towers on Orchard Hill.

IM X-country

Undergraduate Women
1st - Michelle Grenier, Pumas 11:45
2nd - Theresa Totin, Pumas
3rd - Stacey Cacace, Pumas
4th - Christie Kuo, Pumas
5th - Laurel Douglas, Pumas
Team Champion - Pumas, 12 pts.

Graduate-Faculty Men
1st - Ed Sandifer, Math 8:00
2nd - George Effinger, Math
3rd - Bob Fisher, Math
4th - John Cade, Math
5th - Bob French, English
Team Champion - Math, 12 pts.

Undergraduate Men
1st - Steve MacDougall, BKP 8:08
2nd - John Bonsignore, EOTNC
3rd - Mark Healy, BKP
4th - Dave Lipinski, BKP
5th - Mickey Baugh, BKP
Team Champion - BKP, 13 pts.

Course length - 1.6 miles

Rowers place seventh at 'Third' Nationals

By JOHN GEVER
Collegian Staff

The varsity crew from Dartmouth won the Third National Invitational Women's Regatta held last Saturday on the Connecticut River in South Hadley.

An illness plagued UMass team could only manage a lackluster seventh against crews from Trinity College, Mount Holyoke, Smith, Amherst, Connecticut College, MIT, and Dartmouth.

Over twenty eight women crews competed in varsity, junior varsity, and novice divisions under cloudy, cold, sometimes rainy and always miserable skies. The only bright spot for UMass fans was the singles event, which UMass won handily in 11:22.6.

The weather, rotten as it was, was downright tropical compared to that endured in previous years. Last year's meet was halted after the preliminary heats by torrential rains and gale-force winds. Trinity College was declared the winner that year, having the fastest qualifying time.

Dartmouth was considered to be the favorite in this year's tourney, and it lived up to expectations by rowing the 1.75 mile course in 9:38.3, beating a surprisingly strong Mount Holyoke squad by 10.3 seconds in an exciting finale.

Mount Holyoke held a slight lead for the first half of the race, but then yielded a boat-length to Dartmouth, which carried it to the finish. Mount Holyoke, which never had a women's crew before last year, also won the junior varsity final, and had the fastest time in the novice category.

The UMass team could only field the varsity eight this year, since illnesses and lack of preparation prevented it from entering the junior varsity and novice races.

Despite the apparent poor showing, coach Doug Frost said, "I'm pretty pleased". UMass rowed about 29 strokes a minute (35 is considered pretty good) and appeared to row well as a team and weren't as sloppy as some of the faster boats.

Frost said the slow cadence could work to UMass' advantage in longer races, when teams with faster cadences might have trouble adapting to the slower pace required (roughly akin to the problems a sprinter might face in attempting to run an 880).

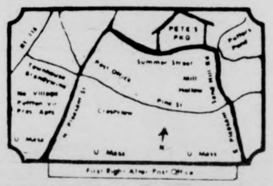
He also explained that the fall meets were only warmups for the spring season, and this race in particular was important primarily for getting experience in competitive racing and for feeling out the opposition.

The next (and last) test of the fall season for the UMass women will be on October 23, in the Head of the Charles Regatta in Cambridge. Around 300 crews and 2000 rowers will compete in this, the world's largest crew race.

Las Vegas Nite
1st floor C.C.
Oct. 15 - 7:30 p.m.
Alpha Phi Omega

OPEN RUSH
BEFORE HOMECOMING GAME AT
KAPPA SIGMA
11:00 — 12:30
REFRESHMENTS WILL BE SERVED
WE'RE LOCATED AT 70 BUTTERFIELD TERRACE
NEXT TO GORMA
FOR RIDES OR INFORMATION CALL 545-2172
SAT., OCT. 15

PETE'S
PACKAGE STORE
144 SUMMER ST., AMHERST
FULL LIQUOR LICENSE
OPEN 9:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Call: 256-6828 for
FREE DELIVERY TO U.MASS.
($5.00 Min.)
NIGHTLY — 6:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m.
FRI. & SAT. — 6:00 p.m.-11:00 p.m.
Unadvertised Specials
Why Fight Traffic?
Easy Parking



WE ARE CLOSE TO:
Townhouse Apts.
Brandywine
N. Village
Puffton Village
Presidential Apts.
Crestview
Mill Hollow
U Mass.
WEEKLY SPECIALS

| WEBER LIEBFRAU-MILCH | NARRA-GANSETT | SCHMIDT'S |
|---|---|---|
|  | 12 oz. cans | 12 oz. cans |
| $1.99 | $5.25 | $5.25 case |

The Happiest of Happy Hours!!
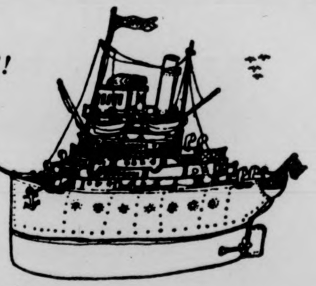
. . . Mellow Atmosphere
. . . Quiet Conversation Over Drinks
. . . Leisurely Dinner.
An Enjoyable Rustic Experience



Dinners
Mon.-Thurs., 5:30-10:00
Fri., 5:30-11:00
Sat., 5:00-11:00
Sun., 3:00-9:00
Our Woodshed is available for banquets, special occasions
Call Ben
for further info.
Join us for Happy Hour
from 3-5pm
After all UMASS home games
The Rusty Scupper
Rte. 9, 529 Belchertown Rd.

Meaningful employment available at the Student Senate Office for WORKSTUDY students. Learn while you earn. Information available: 420 Student Union
SGA is an equal opportunity employer.

→ → → THE POINT ← ← ←
Fri. Oct. 14 7,8:30,10p.m.
CCA, $1.00
presented by JQA Upper

The Chequers Saloon
Amherst, Massachusetts
Sunday Chowdown
GIANT
SUB
$2.00
WHOLE LOAF OF FRENCH BREAD
(Limit 100)
SERVED 4PM-10PM
HAPPY HOUR
4 TILL CLOSE
UNIVERSITY Dr. 549-5861

Come meet the Sisters and Pledges of Chi Omega
We can offer you:
• An alternative living style
• 21 meals a week plus snacks
• An opportunity to get involved
• A closer living atmosphere
Oct. 17 Haircutting demonstration
Oct. 19 Wine & Cheese Party
Oct. 25 Halloween party
Oct. 27 Fashion Show
Nov. 1 Gong Show
Nov. 3 The dating game
All parties are at 7:30. For rides and further information call 545-0162 or 545-2092.
Visit us and you'll see Chi O is the only way to go!

Golfmen travel to NY, compete in ECAC title

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

The UMass mens golf team will try to successfully cap off a fine fall season this weekend when it travels to Hamilton, New York and rugged Seven Oaks Country Club to do battle in the ECAC Championship.

The Minutemen qualified for the championship by finishing in a tie for second place in the qualifying tournament played last week at Glastonbury Hills C.C. The linksters tied for second with URI, three strokes behind Southern Conn.

The Minutemen will be going with the same lineup used at Glastonbury, co-captains Flynt Lincoln and Jim McDermott, John Lien, Jeff Orr and Vic Lahtiene.

This lineup has proven to be a very consistent one, with all five golfers playing very steady, consistent golf, week in and week out.

Thirteen top eastern schools will be competing for the championship, with defending champion West Virginia leading the charge. Other top schools including Cornell, Princeton, West Point, URI, Southern Conn., Salem State, Temple, and Central Conn. will be on hand.

The tournament will be a 36 hole affair, with 18 hole rounds on Saturday and Sunday. The scoring for the tournament will be the best four of five scores counting each day.

The Minutemen, winners of this tournament three years ago on their home course, Hickory Ridge Country Club, finished in a respectable sixth spot last fall, when the tournament was played at Hidden Springs C.C. in Horsham, PA.

Coach Ed Vlach, who has done a fine job in this his first year of command, is hoping his team can continue their consistent play of late, and finish in the top third, which would be an accomplishment considering the competition.

Regardless of how the Minutemen finish, they have played a fine bit of golf of season. They have overcome inexperience and a tough schedule and have done themselves proud.

Stickers battle Bears

By MISSY GALLAGHAN
Collegian Staff

The UMass field hockey team will play host to Bridgewater State tomorrow at 11 p.m. on the field behind NOPE.

Bridgewater defeated the Minutewomen, 1-0, last year. However, UMass coach Judith Davidson anticipates that her team will play its best game of the season tomorrow. "My team is ready to play," Davidson noted. Sophomore Julie Hall believes her teammates will coordinate their offense and defense and win.

The Minutewomen are still undefeated half-way through their season. Last Wednesday, though, they had a close call against Yale. UMass was down, 1-0, in the second half until Julie McHugh scored with five minutes remaining in regulation play. The goal was her second in as many games.

The Minutewomen should be in good physical condition when they battle the Bears. Laura O'Neil, who twisted her knee in the Yale contest, is ready to see action. But Laurel Walsh may miss the game for health reasons.

Men can also get into the field hockey act. Jan Stapel, a native of Holland, is interested in starting a field hockey club for men. If anyone would like more details, call Stapel at 6-5922.

The sticker's Sue Krider will be ready tomorrow when Bridgewater State invades the fields at NOPE for a 11:00 a.m. game. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Volleyers face NU, MIT

By LEO PELOQUIN
Collegian Staff

Hoping to regain the winning touch that it briefly had on Tuesday night, the UMass volleyball team travels to Boston tomorrow to square off against Northeastern and MIT in its third tri-match of the season, scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. at MIT.

The Minutewomen gained their first win of the season, beating Salem State for second place in a tri-match played here Tuesday.

Northeastern, coached by Diane Willcox, beat UMass last year by the scores of 15-9, 15-9 but MIT figures to be the chief concern of the locals.

MIT, coached by David Castanon for the third straight year, rolled to an impressive 19-0 record last year and won both the Division II MAIAW State Championship and the Eastern Small College Championship. The squad went on to compete in the National Small College Championship but failed to place.

From UMass' standpoint, the fact that all of the above took place last year (including an 11-15, 4-15 loss to MIT; might appear to be a reason to breathe a sigh of relief as this is a new season. However, MIT has the same basic nucleus for the 1977 squad (six starting seniors) as it did for the 1976 team and all of them have played for Castonon for three years. The tallest and perhaps the best of the bunch is 6'2" captain Sheila Luster.

UMass will have to play in both the first and second rounds of the competition, facing Northeastern and MIT respectively, so coach Dianne Thompson will have to depend heavily on her bench.

She said, "The team is taking the temporary setbacks in stride. We have the skills. What we need is the consistency to get through the match." She looks for the competition to be close despite the fact that MIT is 6-2 on the year while UMass is struggling at 1-6.

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

NONE

TODAY

VARSITY MEN'S SOCCER — vs. Rhode Island Home 3:30

TOMORROW

VARSITY FOOTBALL — vs. Rhode Island Home 1:00
VARSITY MEN'S CROSS COUNTRY — vs. New Hampshire-Vermont-Bently Home 12:00
VARSITY VOLLEYBALL — vs. Northeastern-MIT Away 1:00
JUNIOR VARSITY VOLLEYBALL — vs. Northeastern-MIT Away 1:00
VARSITY MEN'S GOLF — ECAC Championship at Seven Oaks C.C.
VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY — vs. Bridgewater St. Home 1:00

Netwomen in MAIAW

By ELLEN DAVIS
Collegian Staff

Four top players from the women's tennis team will be competing against the best players from other colleges all over Massachusetts at the MAIAW tournament at Mount Holyoke College this weekend.

Representing the Minutewomen will be singles players Cathy Maher and Carolyn Mooney and the doubles combination of Dawn Minaai and Jennifer Ranz.

Maher and Mooney are seeded third and sixth respectively, so they won't be in action until the second round, which should start at 11:30 tomorrow.

Maher, the number one singles player for UMass, will face the winner of the Boston State-Worcester Poly Tech match in her opening round.

UMass coach Billy expects Maher to make it to the semi-finals, if not the finals. Yu says Mooney also has a good chance of making it to the semi's.

The UMass doubles team of Minaai and Ranz, who are seeded number one, should face their first competition at 10:30 tomorrow.

Sports Notices

FIELD HOCKEY — Any men interested in starting a field hockey team, call Jan Stapel at 546-5922.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL — Any undergraduate woman interested in trying out for the women's basketball team — tryouts will begin this tonight at NOPE gym and will run from 7-9 p.m. Please be prompt and ready to play. Contact coach Mary Ann Ozdarski at room 227 Boyden if you have any questions.

INTRAMURALS — Volleyball officials meeting will be next Tuesday in room 215 Boyden at 5 p.m.

Volleyball entry deadline has been extended to Monday at 12 noon.

Boyden Pool will be closed tomorrow for a water polo meet.

NOPE gym will be closed this weekend for basketball tryouts.

INTRAMURALS — The IM Department will sponsor another "Run for Fun" in the orchard, Sunday morning at 10:30 at the base of the water towers on Orchard Hill.

IM X-country

Undergraduate Women
1st - Michelle Grenier, Pumas 11:45
2nd - Theresa Totin, Pumas
3rd - Stacey Cacace, Pumas
4th - Christie Kuo, Pumas
5th - Laurel Douglas, Pumas
Team Champion - Pumas, 12 pts.

Graduate-Faculty Men
1st - Ed Sandifer, Math 8:00
2nd - George Effinger, Math
3rd - Bob Fisher, Math
4th - John Cade, Math
5th - Bob French, English
Team Champion - Math, 12 pts.

Undergraduate Men
1st - Steve MacDougall, BKP 8:08
2nd - John Bonsignore, EOTNC
3rd - Mark Healy, BKP
4th - Dave Lipinski, BKP
5th - Mickey Baugh, BKP
Team Champion - BKP, 13 pts.

Course length - 1.6 miles

Rowers place seventh at 'Third' Nationals

By JOHN GEVER
Collegian Staff

The varsity crew from Dartmouth won the Third National Invitational Women's Regatta held last Saturday on the Connecticut River in South Hadley.

An illness plagued UMass team could only manage a lackluster seventh against crews from Trinity College, Mount Holyoke, Smith, Amherst, Connecticut College, MIT, and Dartmouth.

Over twenty eight women crews competed in varsity, junior varsity, and novice divisions under cloudy, cold, sometimes rainy and always miserable skies. The only bright spot for UMass fans was the singles event, which UMass won handily in 11:22.6.

The weather, rotten as it was, was downright tropical compared to that endured in previous years. Last year's meet was halted after the preliminary heats by torrential rains and gale-force winds. Trinity College was declared the winner that year, having the fastest qualifying time.

Dartmouth was considered to be the favorite in this year's tourney, and it lived up to expectations by rowing the 1.75 mile course in 9:38.3, beating a surprisingly strong Mount Holyoke squad by 10.3 seconds in an exciting finale.

Mount Holyoke held a slight lead for the first half of the race, but then yielded a boat-length to Dartmouth, which carried it to the finish. Mount Holyoke, which never had a women's crew before last year, also won the junior varsity final, and had the fastest time in the novice category.

The UMass team could only field the varsity eight this year, since illnesses and lack of preparation prevented it from entering the junior varsity and novice races.

Despite the apparent poor showing, coach Doug Frost said, "I'm pretty pleased". UMass rowed about 29 strokes a minute (35 is considered pretty good) and appeared to row well as a team and weren't as sloppy as some of the faster boats.

Frost said the slow cadence could work to UMass' advantage in longer races, when teams with faster cadences might have trouble adapting to the slower pace required (roughly akin to the problems a sprinter might face in attempting to run an 880).

He also explained that the fall meets were only warmups for the spring season, and this race in particular was important primarily for getting experience in competitive racing and for feeling out the opposition.

The next (and last) test of the fall season for the UMass women will be on October 23, in the Head of the Charles Regatta in Cambridge. Around 300 crews and 2000 rowers will compete in this, the world's largest crew race.

Las Vegas Nite
1st floor C.C.
Oct. 15 - 7:30 p.m.
Alpha Phi Omega

OPEN RUSH
BEFORE HOMECOMING GAME AT
KAPPA SIGMA
11:00 — 12:30
REFRESHMENTS WILL BE SERVED
WE'RE LOCATED AT 70 BUTTERFIELD TERRACE
NEXT TO GORMA
FOR RIDES OR INFORMATION CALL 545-2172
SAT., OCT. 15

PETE'S
PACKAGE STORE
144 SUMMER ST., AMHERST
FULL LIQUOR LICENSE
OPEN 9:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Call: 256-6828 for
FREE DELIVERY TO U.MASS.
($5.00 Min.)
NIGHTLY — 6:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m.
FRI. & SAT. — 6:00 p.m.-11:00 p.m.
Unadvertised Specials
Why Fight Traffic?
Easy Parking

Pete's Pkg
Summer Street
Pine St
U Mass
First Right After Post Office

WE ARE CLOSE TO:
Townhouse Apts.
Brandywine
N. Village
Puffton Village
Presidential Apts.
Crestview
Mill Hollow
U Mass.

WEEKLY SPECIALS

| WEBER LIEBFRAU-MILCH | NARRA-GANSETT | SCHMIDT'S |
|---|---|---|
|  | 12 oz. cans | 12 oz. cans |
| $1.99 | $5.25 | $5.25 case |

The Happiest of
Happy Hours!!
... Mellow Atmosphere
... Quiet Conversation Over Drinks
... Leisurely Dinner.
An Enjoyable Rustic Experience

Dinners
Mon.-Thurs., 5:30-10:00
Fri., 5:30-11:00
Sat., 5:00-11:00
Sun., 3:00-9:00
Our Woodshed is available for banquets, special occasions
Call Ben for further info.
Join us for Happy Hour
from 3-5pm
After all UMASS home games
The Rusty Scupper
Rte. 9, 529 Belchertown Rd.

Meaningful employment available at the Student Senate Office for WORKSTUDY students. Learn while you earn. Information available: 420 Student Union
SGA is an equal opportunity employer.

→ → → THE POINT ← ← ←
Fri. Oct. 14 7,8:30,10p.m.
CCA, $1.00
presented by JQA Upper

The Chequers Saloon
Amherst, Massachusetts
Sunday Chowdown
GIANT
SUB
$2.00
WHOLE LOAF OF FRENCH BREAD
(Limit 100)
SERVED 4PM-10PM
HAPPY HOUR
4 TILL CLOSE
UNIVERSITY Dr. 549-5861

Golfmen travel to NY, compete in ECAC title

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

The UMass mens golf team will try to successfully cap off a fine fall season this weekend when it travels to Hamilton, New York and rugged Seven Oaks Country Club to do battle in the ECAC Championship.

The Minutemen qualified for the championship by finishing in a tie for second place in the qualifying tournament played last week at Glastonbury Hills C.C. The linksters tied for second with URI, three strokes behind Southern Conn.

The Minutemen will be going with the same lineup used at Glastonbury, co-captains Flynt Lincoln and Jim McDermott, John Lien, Jeff Orr and Vic Lahtiene.

This lineup has proven to be a very consistent one, with all five golfers playing very steady, consistent golf, week in and week out.

Thirteen top eastern schools will be competing for the championship, with defending champion West Virginia leading the charge. Other top schools including Cornell, Princeton, West Point, URI, Southern Conn., Salem State, Temple, and Central Conn. will be on hand.

The tournament will be a 36 hole affair, with 18 hole rounds on Saturday and Sunday. The scoring for the tournament will be the best four of five scores counting each day.

The Minutemen, winners of this tournament three years ago on their home course, Hickory Ridge Country Club, finished in a respectable sixth spot last fall, when the tournament was played at Hidden Springs C.C. in Horsham, PA.

Coach Ed Vlach, who has done a fine job in this his first year of command, is hoping his team can continue their consistent play of late, and finish in the top third, which would be an accomplishment considering the competition.

Regardless of how the Minutemen finish, they have played a fine bit of golf of season. They have overcome inexperience and a tough schedule and have done themselves proud.

Stickers battle Bears

By MISSY GALLAGHAN
Collegian Staff

The sticker's Sue Krider will be ready tomorrow when Bridgewater State invades the fields at NOPE for a 11:00 a.m. game. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

The UMass field hockey team will play host to Bridgewater State tomorrow at 11 p.m. on the field behind NOPE.

Bridgewater defeated the Minutewomen, 1-0, last year. However, UMass coach Judith Davidson anticipates that her team will play its best game of the season tomorrow. "My team is ready to play," Davidson noted. Sophomore Julie Hall believes her teammates will coordinate their offense and defense and win.

The Minutewomen are still undefeated half-way through their season. Last Wednesday, though, they had a close call against Yale. UMass was down, 1-0, in the second half until Julie McHugh scored with five minutes remaining in regulation play. The goal was her second in as many games.

The Minutewomen should be in good physical condition when they battle the Bears. Laura O'Neil, who twisted her knee in the Yale contest, is ready to see action. But Laurel Walsh may miss the game for health reasons.

Men can also get into the field hockey act. Jan Stapel, a native of Holland, is interested in starting a field hockey club for men. If anyone would like more details, call Stapel at 6-5922.

Volleyers face NU, MIT

By LEO PELOQUIN
Collegian Staff

Hoping to regain the winning touch that it briefly had on Tuesday night, the UMass volleyball team travels to Boston tomorrow to square off against Northeastern and MIT in its third tri-match of the season, scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. at MIT.

The Minutewomen gained their first win of the season, beating Salem State for second place in a tri-match played here Tuesday.

Northeastern, coached by Diane Willcox, beat UMass last year by the scores of 15-9, 15-9 but MIT figures to be the chief concern of the locals.

MIT, coached by David Castanon for the third straight year, rolled to an impressive 19-0 record last year and won both the Division II MAIAW State Championship and the Eastern Small College Championship. The squad went on to compete in the National Small College Championship but failed to place.

From UMass' standpoint, the fact that all of the above took place last year (including an 11-15, 4-15 loss to MIT; might appear to be a reason to breathe a sigh of relief as this is a new season. However, MIT has the same basic nucleus for the 1977 squad (six starting seniors) as it did for the 1976 team and all of them have played for Castonon for three years. The tallest and perhaps the best of the bunch is 6'2" captain Sheila Luster.

UMass will have to play in both the first and second rounds of the competition, facing Northeastern and MIT respectively, so coach Dianne Thompson will have to depend heavily on her bench.

She said, "The team is taking the temporary setbacks in stride. We have the skills. What we need is the consistency to get through the match." She looks for the competition to be close despite the fact that MIT is 6-2 on the year while UMass is struggling at 1-6.

Come meet the Sisters and Pledges of Chi Omega
We can offer you:
• An alternative living style
• 21 meals a week plus snacks
• An opportunity to get involved
• A closer living atmosphere
Oct. 17 Haircutting demonstration
Oct. 19 Wine & Cheese Party
Oct. 25 Halloween party
Oct. 27 Fashion Show
Nov. 1 Gong Show
Nov. 3 The dating game
All parties are at 7:30. For rides and further information call 545-0162 or 545-2092.
Visit us and you'll see Chi O is the only way to go!

Booters host 13th ranked Rams

By MARK MARCHAND
Collegian Staff

Trying to bring its current three-game losing streak to a screeching halt, the UMass men's soccer team hosts the nationally ranked Rams of Rhode Island in a 3:30 contest this afternoon on the field behind Boyden.

The Minutemen, ranked sixth in New England, have lost three straight games by one goal and are looking fo a win to put them back into contention for a berth in the New England Championships.

"We're ready to play one hell of a game," declared UMass mentor Russ Kidd. "We really need this win to vault us back into prominence."

The Rams, ranked 13th in the nation, head into today's contest sporting a record of 4-3. Leading Rhode Island in the scoring department is Dan McCrudden who has paced the Ram offense thus far, scoring 4 goals along with three assists in four games.

Other offensive threats for the Rams include Phil Salice and Otto Schwartz who have both contributed two goals and one assist to the Rhode Island attack.

Defensively, the Ram's biggest name is goaltender Joe Kanzler who sports an impressive 1.42 goals-against average over seven contests. Kanzler has worked for these numbers as he has turned away an average of 10.4 shots a game against some national powerhouses.

Against Rhode Island last year, the Minutemen were losers by a 2-1 score in overtime after having missed a penalty kick during regulation time.

"Our practices this week have been excellent and it looks like we're getting back into the form we were in when we opened the season with three straight wins," explained Kidd. "I'm going to make some changes with some key personnel although I'm not saying anything specific at this time."

According to Kidd, senior co-captain Ed Niemiec has been rested from practice all this week in an effort to get him ready for this afternoon's contest. Niemiec has been bothered for the past three games by a thigh injury that he received in the Keene State game on Sept. 28.

"He's vital to our game; when he's healthy, he controls the midfield for us," said Kidd.

Other than that, the Minutemen will be fielding a healthy squad this afternoon in an effort to start a new winning streak.

"This losing streak really hasn't hurt team morale," said UMass co-captain Larry Aronson. "All of those losses were one goal games that could have gone our way with a break or two.

"We just can't let this bother us because we still have an excellent chance and we're just going to have to go out there and do it."

Booter Banter: UMass mentor Russ Kidd was recently named to the rating board in New England and is now a member of the tournament selection committee...astroturf and a new type of soccer ball played a role in Saturday's 1-0 loss to BU...UMass goaltender Mark Hodgdon is drawing raves from most of the New England coaches according to Kidd...an Alumni game will be held Sunday morning at 11:30 on the Intramural fields with a social to follow...after winning three in a row and losing three in a row, the booters remind one of the streaky Boston Red Sox.

In a play representative of this year's offensively explosive Minutemen, DB Steve Lemay (44) returns an interception 100 yards for a touchdown vs. BU. For more football, see Homecoming Special inside. (Staff photo by Dave Rodman)

Staff Notice

A mandatory meeting for all Collegian sports staffers will be held Monday night at 6:30 in the Collegian offices, room 113 Campus Center. It should last no more than a half hour. This meeting is very important.

Harriers meet UNH, Vt. in first home contest

By KEVIN MCCAFFREY
Collegian Staff

Coach Ken O'Brien will expose just half of his available fire power in a cross country contest at home tomorrow, at noon. UMass will tour the five mile apple orchard course with teams from New Hampshire, Vermont, and Bentley College.

Big guns in the harrier attack, Mike Quinn and Stetson Arnold, will be observing their teammates from the sidelines, as their skills will be reserved for future competition. Lou Panaccione and the brotherly punch of Matt and Tom Wolff will also assume the role of spectator.

Co-captain Frank Carroll and New England steeple chase champ Kevin McCusker will share the burden of leading the squad through the hilly home course. Depth is expected to be provided from veterans Bobby Neil, Neal McGrail and Chet Mysliwicz.

New England Cross Country Poll — Vol. VI, No. 2

| | |
|---|---|
| 1) Providence College | (24) 240 |
| 2) Massachusetts | 215 |
| 3) Northeastern | 183 |
| 4) Bates | 135 |
| 5) Dartmouth | 115 |
| 6) Harvard | 108 |
| 7) Keene State | 86 |
| 8) Connecticut | 71 |
| 9) Holy Cross | 65 |
| 10) Yale | 44 |

Others receiving votes: Boston State, Brandeis, Brown, Maine, New Hampshire and Rhode Island.

The stiffest competition should come from conference foe New Hampshire, who claim the services of senior George Reed, an 8:55 two miler and conference champ in his sophomore season.

"Frankie and Kevin will have to take it out early if they have plans of beating Reed," commented assistant coach Arnie Morse, "the last half mile of the course is downhill, and only a sizeable lead will be able to overcome his strong kick to the finish."

Morse's sub-varsity squad travels to Poughkeepsie, N.Y., for the Marist Invitational, involving 11 teams from various leagues around New York State. Varsity performers Mike Morris, Glenn Lyle, Jay Legere, and Stevie Hilyard will suit up for the trip along with the freshman harriers who boast an undefeated record.

"We're dropping some of the varsity runners down to the JV ranks in an effort to give them experience running up front," said Morse.

The varsity quadrangular meet marks the end of the Minutemen's regular season campaign. O'Brien's forces will resume full strength in two weeks at the Yankee Conference Championships in Rhode Island.

ROADMEN RUMBLINGS

Co-captain Mike Quinn's knee is still questionable as he sits out his third consecutive meet in an effort to heal his strained knee. If Quinn does not run in another meet this year he may retain his eligibility as a junior. Stetson Arnold is also resting this meet after running what teammates termed a "light workout". Arnold ran back to back consecutive miles timed at 4:18, 4:22, 4:58, and 4:16.

Junior Kevin McCusker and co-captain Frank Carroll will provide veteran leadership in tomorrow's meet. McCusker is shown here at Franklin Park. (Staff photo by Dave Rodman)

Collegian Sports

Bill Edelstein

It's in the contract

The contract.

In the world of finance it is holy. In the underworld it is feared. In the game of bridge it is something that must be rigidly met in order to achieve a positive outcome.

In the sporting world, however, the contract has been losing credibility so rapidly that it is fast-resembling the famed "Party of the First Part" agreement drawn up by the Marx Brothers in "Night at the Opera."

Baseball's Curt Flood got the ball rolling, so to speak, a decade ago, when he refused to sign his contract with the St. Louis Cardinals because he disagreed with the Grand Olde Game's reserve clause. The Boston Patriot's Joe Kapp soon jumped on the bandwagon Flood had created and contract disputes were to become as important as final scores.

Recently, John Hannah and Leon Gray continued the Patriots' follow-the-leader tradition by attempting to duck out of contracts they had already signed, claiming they deserved a better monetary fate.

It was just a week ago, though, that the telling blow was delivered. Three months ago, the Boston Celtics traded a pair of second-round draft choices for Houston Rocket forward John Johnson. Celtics General Manager Red Auerbach, no saint himself when money is concerned, recieved Johnson's no-cut contract from Houston. Surprised at the fact that in order to pay Johnson, he would have to hock the team, Auerbach returned Johnson, unopened, price tag still attached, and asked the Rockets if when next they traded the Celtics a ballplayer, they could be so kind as to not fraudulently represent that player's salary.

Now that Houston has its part of the bargain back, however, it also would like to keep the Celts part; the two draft choices. Lawsuits to follow.

When will this silliness end? One can only look hopefully to the future, when UMass head coach Doc MacPherson, great-grandson of Dick, signs college football's first contracted player.

— — —

"A Mr. Horowitz to see you, coach."

"Oh yes, the boy we signed to replace the tight end that was traded to URI. Send him in."

"Uh, coach, there are a couple of things you might want to know before you talk to him."

"Oh? Is he overweight?"

"No, he weighs 260 pounds, just like he said he did, but he claims there's been a misprint on his high school transcript. He's not six-foot-two, he's five-foot-two."

"Well then roll him in."

"It's not that easy. If we try to move him, the strain may kill him."

"Come now. A healthy lad of 19 die from merely standing up?"

"Actually, coach, that number 19 you read was erroneously placed under 'age'. It refers to the number of years he spent as a high school senior. Age-wise, he's 73."

"How do you know that, if it wasn't in his records?"

"He told me himself, just before I handed him a football. That was when he passed out."

"He what!?"

"Only a negative bodily reaction. He's allergic to pigskin."

"Alright, I'll come out there and speak to him. See if you can revive him."

"Better not leave your office, coach. Horowitz has leprosy. No use wasting both our lives."

"At least we shouldn't have too much trouble getting ourselves out of our contractual obligations."

"We don't have to worry about that, coach. Horowitz has a contract with Notre Dame and he's been playing for three years with the New York Cosmos of the North American Soccer League. Besides, we can't afford the extra money he's asking for."

---

TV WATCH

October 15 - October 21

Supplement to the Collegian

Lesley Ann Warren portrays a young woman who on several occasions must fend off the advances of her stepfather (Albert Salmi) in '79 PARK AVENUE' Part I on 'The Big Event' Sunday, October 16 on NBC-TV.

79 PARK AVENUE

Lesley Ann Warren and Marc Singer (in photo) and Michael Constantine star in '79 Park Avenue,' an NBC Novel For Television to be telecast on three consecutive nights.

The six-hour drama, the saga of a girl's slide from innocent teen-ager to infamous madam, is based on Harold Robbins' best-seller.

Marianne, as a hooker, was forced to marry Ross, who is in the rackets with his father. Syndicate boss Armand Perfido (Raymond Burr) suspects that Ross is not to be trusted.

Ross' father, Ben (Michael Constantine), is suspicious that Marianne betrayed Ross to Perfido and orders her back to the brothel at 79 Park Avenue as a madam, to show her good faith.

After Marianne discovers that her father-in-law has taken liberties with her young daughter, she confronts him and, in self-defense, slays him.

Mike (David Dukes), whom Marianne once loved, has become a lawyer and has married the district attorney's daughter. The DA wants to break up the syndicate and Mike finds himself prosecuting Marianne for her father-in-law's murder. Marianne is defended by attorney Martin Stevens (Lloyd Haynes).

Daytime, Mon. - Fri.

MORNING

5:35 ⑦ REFLECTIONS (EXC. WED.)
5:40 ⑦ GREATER BOSTONIANS (EXC. WED.)
5:45 ⑦ FARM AND MARKET REPORT (EXC. WED.)
5:50 ⑦ SUNRISE SEMESTER (EXC. WED.)
5:55 ⑤ MORNING GLORY
6:00 ③ VARIOUS PROGRAMMING
⑤ NEWS
㉒ PTL CLUB-TALK AND VARIETY
6:05 ⑦ REFLECTIONS (WED.)
6:10 ⑦ GREATER BOSTONIANS (WED.)
6:15 ④ SEMINAR
⑦ FARM AND MARKET REPORT (WED.)
6:20 ⑦ VARIOUS PROGRAMMING
6:25 ⑤ NEWS FOR THE DEAF
6:30 ⑤ NEWS
6:45 ④ DAILY ALMANAC
6:50 ⑤ NEWS FOR THE DEAF
⑦ LAS NOTICIAS DE HOY

7:00 ③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ ㉒ TODAY
⑤ CAPTAIN BOB
㊳ UNDERDOG
㊵ GOOD MORNING AMERICA
7:25 ⑦ NEWS
7:30 ⑤ GOOD MORNING AMERICA
⑦ CBS NEWS
㊳ MR. MAGOO
8:00 ③ ⑦ CAPTAIN KANGAROO
㊳ ARCHIES
8:30 ㊳ NEW MICKEY MOUSE CLUB

9:00 ② IN-SCHOOL PROGRAMMING
③ MIKE DOUGLAS
④ CONCENTRATION
⑤ GOOD DAY
⑦ DINAH
㉒ PHIL DONAHUE SHOW
㊳ ROMPER ROOM
㊵ LEAVE IT TO BEAVER
(57) WRITING FOR A REASON (MON., WED.) Dimensions in Culture (TUE., THUR.)

9:30 ④ CHICO AND THE MAN
㊳ SPIRIT OF INDEPENDENCE
㊵ FLINTSTONES
(57) IN-SCHOOL PROGRAMMING
9:50 ㊳ NEWS
9:55 ㊵ WEATHER VIEW
10:00 ③ CORSAIR AND COMPANY
④ SANFORD AND SON
㉒ KITTY TODAY
㊳ TOM LARSON SHOW
㊵ STRUM'N DRUMMERS
10:25 ㊵ HERITAGE CORNER
10:30 ④ ㉒ HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
⑤ ㊵ EDGE OF NIGHT
⑦ PRICE IS RIGHT

11:00 ③ HERE'S LUCY
④ ㉒ WHEEL OF FORTUNE
⑤ ㊵ HAPPY DAYS
㊳ MOVIE 'Die, Die My Darling' (MON.), 'Damn the Defiant' (TUE.), 'Five Finger Exercise' (WED.), 'Cover Girl' (THUR.), 'Golden Boy' (FRI.)
11:30 ② (57) SESAME STREET
③ ⑦ LOVE OF LIFE
④ ㉒ KNOCKOUT
⑤ JOKER'S WILD
㊵ FAMILY FEUD
11:55 ③ ⑦ CBS NEWS

AFTERNOON

12:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ NEWS
㉒ TO SAY THE LEAST
㊵ THE BETTER SEX
12:30 ② (57) IN-SCHOOL PROGRAMMING
③ ⑦ SEARCH FOR TOMORROW
④ WOMAN '77
⑤ ㊵ RYAN'S HOPE
㉒ CHICO AND THE MAN
1:00 ③ MATCH GAME
⑤ ㊵ ALL MY CHILDREN
⑦ YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS
㉒ ㊳ GONG SHOW
1:30 ③ ⑦ AS THE WORLD TURNS
④ ㉒ DAYS OF OUR LIVES
㊳ GREEN ACRES
2:00 ② (57) MUSIC (FRI.)
⑤ ㊵ $20,000 PYRAMID
㊳ BEVERLY HILLBILLIES
2:30 ② (57) VARIOUS PROGRAMMING
③ ⑦ GUIDING LIGHT
④ ㉒ DOCTORS
⑤ ㊵ ONE LIFE TO LIVE
㊳ WALLY GATOR
3:00 ③ ⑦ ALL IN THE FAMILY
④ ㉒ ANOTHER WORLD
㊳ BUGS BUNNY
3:15 ⑤ ㊵ GENERAL HOSPITAL
3:30 ③ NEW MICKEY MOUSE CLUB
⑦ MATCH GAME
㊳ HECKLE AND JECKLE

4:00 ② (57) SESAME STREET
③ DINAH
④ MIKE DOUGLAS
⑤ BIG VALLEY
⑦ MERV GRIFFIN
㉒ BRADY BUNCH
㊳ SUPER HEROES
㊵ LITTLE RASCALS
4:30 ㊳ MUNSTERS
㊵ PETTICOAT JUNCTION

5:00 ② (57) MISTER ROGERS
⑤ FAMILY FEUD
㉒ EMERGENCY ONE
㊳ NANNY AND THE PROFESSOR
㊵ MY THREE SONS
5:30 ② SESAME STREET
③ MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW
④ ㊵ NEWS
⑤ INSTANT GAME SHOW
⑦ CANDLEPINS FOR CASH
㊳ GHOST AND MRS. MUIR
(57) ELECTRIC COMPANY

Saturday, Oct. 15

MORNING

5:50 ⑦ REFLECTIONS
5:55 ⑦ GREATER BOSTONIANS
6:00 ③ AGRICULTURE U.S.A.
④ INTERNATIONAL ZONE
⑤ A BETTER WAY
⑦ SUNRISE SEMESTER
㉒ PTL CLUB-TALK AND VARIETY
6:30 ③ TEACHING CHILDREN TO READ
④ CARRASCOLENDAS
⑤ MC KEEVER AND THE COLONEL
⑦ CAMERA 3
7:00 ③ VILLA ALEGRE
④ SOMETHING ELSE
⑤ JABBERWOCKY
⑦ SECRETS OF ISIS
7:30 ③ ARTHUR AND COMPANY
④ THINK PINK PANTHER
⑤ BARBAPAPA
⑦ CBS SATURDAY FILM FESTIVAL
㊵ UNCLE WALDO
8:00 ② SESAME STREET
③ ⑦ BUGS BUNNY AND ROAD RUNNER
④ ㉒ C.B. BEARS
⑤ ㊵ SUPER FRIENDS
8:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
8:55 ⑤ ㊵ SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK
8:56 ③ IN THE NEWS
9:00 ② MISTER ROGERS
③ ⑦ WHAT'S NEW MISTER MAGOO?
④ ㉒ YOUNG SENTINELS
⑤ ㊵ SCOOBY'S LAFF-A-LYMPICS
9:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
9:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
③ ⑦ SKATEBIRDS
④ ㉒ ARCHIES-SABRINA
10:00 ② ONCE UPON A CLASSIC
㊳ VILLA ALEGRE
10:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
10:30 ② REBOP
③ ⑦ SPACE ACADEMY
④ ㉒ ADVENTURES OF MUHAMMAD ALI
㊳ CARRASCOLENDAS
10:55 ⑤ ㊵ SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK
10:56 ③ IN THE NEWS
11:00 ② PARENT EFFECTIVENESS
③ ⑦ BATMAN-TARZAN
④ ㉒ THUNDER
⑤ CANDLEPIN BOWLING
㊳ HOT FUDGE
㊵ KROFFTS SUPERSHOW '77
11:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
11:30 ② CONSUMER SURVIVAL KIT
④ NEWS
㉒ ㊳ SEARCH AND RESCUE: THE ALPHA TEAM
11:56 ③ IN THE NEWS

AFTERNOON

12:00 ② DANIEL FOSTER, M.D. 'Diseases of the Prostate' Guest: Dr. Patrick C. Walsh, professor of urology at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine.
③ ⑦ WACKO
④ ㉒ BAGGY PANTS AND THE NITWITS
⑤ SUPERBOWL
㊳ MOVIE 'Justice of the West' Clayton Moore, Jay Silverheels. Lone Ranger and Tonto go into disguise to track down a stolen shipment. (1 hr. 30 min.)
㊵ CANDLEPIN BOWLING
12:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
12:30 ② CROCKETT'S VICTORY GARDEN Instructions on dividing and planting rhubarb roots, care for amaryllis and preventitive measures against frost in the garden are on Jim's calendar this week.
③ ⑦ FAT ALBERT
④ ㉒ RED HAND GANG
⑤ ㊵ WORLD SERIES Fourth game of this series will air from 12:30 to 3:30 P.M. if played on the east coast; 4:00 to 7:00 P.M. if played on the west coast. Depending on location of the game, alternate schedule will apply.
12:56 ③ IN THE NEWS
1:00 ② WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW
③ SECRETS OF ISIS
④ MARLO AND THE MAGIC MOVIE MACHNE
⑦ CANDLEPIN CHAMPS
㉒ CHAMPIONSHIP WRESTLING
1:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
1:30 ② WALL $TREET WEEK Host: Louis Rukeyser. 'The Ben Graham Legacy' Guest: James B. Rea, president of James B. Rea and Associates.
③ THE CBS SATURDAY FILM FESTIVAL
㊳ MOVIE 'Frances Goes to the Races' 1951 Donald O'Connor, Piper Laurie. Peter, working for a horse breeder, gets mixed up with racketeers. (1 hr. 30 min.)
1:56 ③ IN THE NEWS
2:00 ② 'TOUR EN L'AIR' AND 'BALLET ADAGIO' Filmed in two parts, the personal and professional lives of a husband-and-wife dance team are examined. The second presentation features David and Anna Marie Holmes in a performance of a ballet 'Spring Water.'
③ SOUL TRAIN
④ THIS IS THE NFL
⑦ MOVIE 'Tarzan's Desert Mystery' 1943 Johnny Weissmuller, Nancy Kelly. Nazi agents invade the jungle and cause trouble for the apeman. (1 hr. 30 min.)
㉒ ROLLER DERBY
2:30 ④ MOVIE 'Fun In Acapulco' 1963 Elvis Presley, Ursula Andress. Young man romances two beauties and acts as part-time lifeguard and nightclub entertainer. (2 hrs.)
3:00 ② (57) GRAND PRIX TENNIS Coverage of the semifinals of the $100,000 Island Holidays Pro Tennis Classic, recorded last weekend, originates from Maui, Hawaii.
③ MOVIE 'Gidget Gets Married' 1972 Don Ameche, Joan Bennett. Gidget finally finds the right man and settles down in suburbia. (1 hr. 30 min.)
㉒ MOVIE 'The Little Giant' 1946 Abbott and Costello, Brenda Joyce. Vacuum cleaner salesman gets into a series of amusing scrapes. (2 hrs.)
㊳ MOVIE 'International House' 1933 W.C. Fields, Rudy Vallee. Story about foreigner living in an International House in China. (1 hr. 30 min.)
3:30 ⑤ ㊵ NCAA FOOTBALL If played on the east coast, game will air from 3:30 to 7:00 P.M.; if played on the west coast, game will air from 12:30 to 4:00 P.M. Depending on location of the game, alternate schedule will apply.
⑦ THE FITZPATRICKS Sean and Jack use the excitement of Halloween to settle the score with an old adversary, and end up making a new friend.
4:30 ③ IRONSIDE
④ SURVIVAL
⑦ CBS SPORTS SPECTACULAR 'Chunichi Cup,' men's and women's gymnastic competition, from Nagoya, Japan; 'Jockey Club Gold Cup,' 59th running for 3-years-old and up at a mile and one-half, from Belmont Park, Elmont, N.Y.; 'World's Strongest Men, Part III.'
㊳ MOVIE 'King Dinosaur' 1965 Bill Bryant, Wanda Curtis. Rocketship lands on a planet where ancient reptiles thrive. (1 hr. 30 min.)
5:00 ② VILLA ALEGRE
④ CORAL JUNGLE
㉒ WILD KINGDOM 'A Day with the Sand Hill Cranes'
(57) NOVA (CAPTIONED) 'Incident at Brown's Ferry' America's worst nuclear reactor accident came close to becoming a nuclear catastrophe. The issue of reactor safety in America's nuclear energy program is examined.
5:30 ② VISION ON 'Containers'
③ ADAM 12
㉒ HOLLYWOOD SQUARES

EVENING

6:00 ② MUSIC 'Music Is...' The premiere episode of a new series emphasizes the importance of music in our lives and demonstrates that all forms of musical expression are valid.
③ ④ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
(57) IMAGES OF AGING 'The Zone of Silence' is an exploration of communication between different age groups—the old and the young, parents and children. Excerpts from 'The Resolution of Mossie Wax' and 'Old Fashioned Woman' provide a study in relationships.
6:30 ② ZOOM
③ CBS NEWS
⑦ BLACK NEWS
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
7:00 ② NOVA 'Incident at Brown's Ferry' America's worst nuclear reactor accident came close to becoming a nuclear catastrophe. The issue of reactor safety in America's nuclear energy program is examined.
③ AGRONSKY AND COMPANY
④ WILD KINGDOM 'Eagle Island'
⑤ NEWS
⑦ LAWRENCE WELK SHOW
㉒ ETCETERA
㊳ ODD COUPLE
㊵ SUPERMAN
(57) ONCE UPON A CLASSIC 'The Legend of Robin Hood' Episode Two. Robin singlehandedly fends off robbers who attack Lady Marion's entourage. At the royal court, King Richard earns his brother John's resentment when he appoints Longchamps to rule instead of John while he fights in the Crusades.
7:28 ③ OPINION
7:30 ③ DAILY NUMBER
④ HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
⑤ THIRD WORLD
㉒ SCHOOLS MATCH WITS
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ POLKA FUNTIME
(57) MUSIC 'Music Is...Rhythm' explains that part of music most immediately recognizable to us, that which we 'feel' inside ourselves, often before we actually 'hear' it.
7:31 ③ HOT FUDGE
8:00 ② (57) ADVOCATES: A DEBATE ON NUCLEAR POWER Intended to add more insight and perspective to the question of nuclear power plant safety, this forum considers the topic 'Should There Be a Moratorium on Nuclear Power Plant Construction?'
③ ⑦ THE BOB NEWHART SHOW Dr. Hartley is nonplussed when his henpecked patient, Mr. Petersen, goaded by Mr. Carlin, asserts himself with far-reaching and hilarious consequences.
④ ㉒ THE BIONIC WOMAN 'Rodeo' Jaime tries to save the life of an OSI scientist who insists on becoming a rodeo champion.
⑤ ㊵ FISH 'Fish and the Rock Star' Former detective Phil Fish must face a hard decision when he is offered a job as a security chief for a rock music idol.
㊳ HOCKEY Boston Bruins vs. New York Islanders
8:30 ③ ⑦ WE'VE GOT EACH OTHER Damon decides to sell some old props in his photo studio and Stewart happily obliges and buys a box of toys for $1.00 only to discover that one of them, an old toy bank, is worth $16,000.
⑤ ㊵ OPERATION PETTICOAT 'And Out of the Sea Came a Marine' Skipper Matt Sherman's submarine, after rescuing a famous war ace, is unable to submerge and is menaced by enemy destroyers.
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
9:00 ② EQUALITY The controversial question of equality in America is examined in four areas: equality of age, sex, race and economic circumstances.
③ ⑦ THE JEFFERSONS If Napoleon and Lincoln could do it, so can George Jefferson - at least that's what George believes.
④ ㉒ NBC SATURDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES 'Something Big' 1971 Dean Martin, Brian Keith. A ragtag band of desperadoes engage in a round robin of wheeling and dealing involving gold, jewels, a Gatling gun, wives and fiancees in this western comedy set in Mexico in the 1870s. (2 hrs. 10 min.)
⑤ ㊵ STARSKY AND HUTCH 'Death in a Different Place' Starsky is shocked when a veteran cop and lifelong friend is found dead in a sleazy love nest, and an investigation reveals a sordid double life.
(57) MOVIE 'Monika' 1951 Harriet Andersson, Lars Ekborg. In this Ingmar Bergman study of young love, a promiscuous girl and her boyfriend are forced into a tragic early marriage when she becomes pregnant. (1 hr. 35 min.)
9:30 ③ ⑦ THE TONY RANDALL SHOW Dating Eleanor becomes an underworld affair for Walter when the couple are forever being followed by a county worker, who has a crush on the lady judge.
9:58 ㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 ② DAVID SUSSKIND SHOW 'You Can Survive a Plane Crash—Here's How'
③ ⑦ THE CAROL BURNETT SHOW Guest: Nancy Dussault.
⑤ ㊵ LOVE BOAT 'Acapulco Connection' starring Charo; 'Message for a Marine' starring Bill Bixby; 'Gotcha' starring Milton Berle.
10:30 ㊳ BOSTON BRUINS WRAP-UP
10:35 (57) MOVIE 'The Silence' 1963 Ingrid Thulin, Gunnel Lindblom. United since childhood in apparent incest, two sisters struggle and part as the younger seeks her freedom in a heterosexual affair. (1 hr. 35 min.)
10:45 ㊳ KING OF KENSINGTON 'The Lottery'
11:00 ③ ⑤ ⑦ ㊵ NEWS
11:10 ④ ㉒ NEWS
11:15 ㊳ CELEBRITY BOWLING
11:30 ③ MOVIE 'The Double Man' 1967 Yul Brynner, Britt Ekland. CIA agent lured to the Alps by the skiing 'accident' of his son finds himself involved in a plot by Russian agents to replace him in the CIA by a man who has been surgically and psychologically transformed to look like him. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
⑤ MOVIE 'Dragon Seed' 1944 Katharine Hepburn, Turhan Bey. Life of the poor Chinese peasants under the brutal occupation of the Japanese. (2 hrs. 45 min.)
⑦ MOVIE 'Les Miserables' 1935 Fredrick March, Charles Laughton. Story of a man who goes to prison for stealing a loaf of bread, escapes, and is hounded by a relentless detective. (2 hrs.)
㊵ MOVIE
11:40 ④ ㉒ NBC'S SATURDAY NIGHT LIVE Host: Hugh Hefner. Guest: Andy Kaufman.
11:45 ㊳ VIEWPOINT ON NUTRITION
12:15 ㊳ ATHLETES
1:10 ④ MOVIE 'Dracula's Castle' 1969 Gene O'Shane, Barbara Bishop. (1 hr. 30 min.)
1:20 ④ MOVIE
1:30 ⑦ MOVIE 'The Deadly Affair' 1967 James Mason, Simone Signoret. (1 hr. 30 min.)
2:15 ⑤ MOVIE 'Song of the Islands' 1942 Betty Grable, Victor Mature. (1 hr. 30 min.)

SUNDAY

WHITE LINE FEVER

'White Line Fever,' a drama of an idealistic young man's struggle against the corruption and brutality of the Arizona trucking industry, airs as 'The ABC Sunday Night Movie,' Oct. 16. Jan-Michael Vincent and Kay Lenz star in this motion picture set in the awe-inspiring Arizona desert.

Carrol Jo Hummer (Vincent), an Air Force veteran, returns home to marry his childhood sweetheart, Jerri (Ms. Lenz). The newlyweds go into debt to finance a large truck, hoping soon to achieve financial independence in the lucrative trucking industry. But Carrol Jo finds himself in a lonely struggle against the crooked conglomerate controlling the Arizona freight business.

Blackballed because he refuses to transport contraband across state lines, Carrol Jo singlehandedly goes after the mob. He is beaten, his truck booby-trapped, his house burned, and he is framed for the hit-and-run murder of his father's old friend, Duane. The last straw is when Jerri loses her baby after a brutal attack.

CONSULT OUR LISTINGS FOR LAST MINUTE NETWORK CHANGES AND FOR EXACT AIR TIME.

Sunday, Oct. 16

MORNING

5:50 ⑦ REFLECTIONS
5:55 ⑦ GREATER BOSTONIANS
6:00 ③ ⑤ CHRISTOPHER CLOSEUP
⑦ LAMP UNTO MY FEET
6:30 ③ CAMERA 3
④ LIVING WORD
⑤ DIRECTIONS
⑦ LOOK UP AND LIVE
6:45 ④ DAVEY AND GOLIATH
7:00 ③ MAN BUILDS, MAN DESTROYS
④ NOSOTROS THEATRE 'Mil Milliones para una Rubia'
⑤ DRAWING FROM NATURE
⑦ PEOPLESCOPE
㉒ LUCY SHOW
7:30 ③ MY NEIGHBOR'S RELIGION
⑤ DAVEY AND GOLIATH
⑦ WOMANKIND
㉒ CATHEDRAL OF TOMORROW
㊳ ROCKY AND FRIENDS
㊵ OLD TIME GOSPEL HOUR
8:00 ② (57) SESAME STREET
③ WE BELIEVE
⑤ ABC SHORT STORY SPECIALS
⑦ ELDER AMERICAN
㊳ YOUNG SAMSON
8:30 ③ MARLO AND THE MAGIC MOVIE MACHINE
⑤ CLIFFWOOD AVENUE KIDS
⑦ LIFT EVERY VOICE
㉒ ORAL ROBERTS
㊳ UNCLE WALDO
㊵ SACRED HEART
8:45 ㊵ DAVEY AND GOLIATH
9:00 ② MISTER ROGERS
④ NOSOTROS
⑤ SUNDAY OPEN HOUSE
⑦ ASIAN FOCUS
㉒ DAY OF DISCOVERY
㊳ POPEYE
㊵ CHRISTOPHER CLOSE UP
9:15 ⑦ SUNDAY MASS
9:30 ② ZOOM
③ UP FRONT
㉒ JIMMY SWAGGART
㊳ JETSONS
㊵ INSIGHT
10:00 ② (57) WRITING FOR A REASON
③ BARRIO
④ INSIGHT
⑦ ECO
㉒ CHALICE OF SALVATION
㊳ TOP CAT
㊵ LATINO
10:30 ③ CORSAIR AND COMPANY
④ FOR KIDS ONLY
㊳ THREE STOOGES
㊵ JEWISH HERITAGE
11:00 ② (57) DIMENSIONS IN CULTURE
④ COMMUNITY AUDITIONS
⑤ NEW HEAVEN-NEW EARTH
⑦ NEWSMAKERS
㉒ NOTRE DAME FOOTBALL HIGHLIGHTS
㊵ GREAT GRAPE APE
11:30 ③ ⑦ FACE THE NATION
④ NEWS
⑤ AQUI
㊳ SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON
㊵ ANIMALS, ANIMALS, ANIMALS
11:55 ㊵ SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK

AFTERNOON

12:00 ② (57) AGE OF UNCERTAINTY 'The Colonial Idea' from the Crusades of the 14th century through the British experiences in India and our own in Vietnam is explored, considering the differences between the myths and realities of colonialism.
③ FACE THE STATE
④ ㉒ MEET THE PRESS
⑤ ㊵ ISSUES AND ANSWERS
⑦ NFL GAME OF THE WEEK
㊳ MOVIE 'Blood Alley' 1955 John Wayne, Lauren Bacall. American merchant marine captain attempts to transfer an entire Communist Chinese village to Hong Kong. (2 hrs.)
12:30 ③ ⑦ THE NFL TODAY A program preceding each National Football League broadcast with news and features on the NFL and other sports news of the day.
④ PATRIOTS '77
⑤ BRIEFING SESSION (World Series may air if played on east coast. Alternate schedule will apply.)
㉒ NFL '77 Football news and features with Lee Leonard, Bryant Gumbel, Regina Haskins and various NBC sportscasters contributing reports from the field.
㊵ CONVERSATIONS WITH
1:00 ② CONSUMER SURVIVAL KIT 'Plug-In Along: Portable Appliances' covers microwave oven efficiency, slow cookers, vacuum cleaners, trash compactors, floor polishers and other so-called convenience items that carry full and limited warranties and the UL label.
③ ⑦ THE NFL TODAY Atlanta vs. Buffalo; Chicago vs. Minnesota; Detroit vs. Green Bay; Los Angeles vs. New Orleans; Philadelphia vs. St. Louis; Giants vs. San Francisco; Seattle vs. Tampa Bay.
④ ㉒ NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE GAME Baltimore Colts vs. Kansas City Chiefs
⑤ TARZAN
㊵ FLINTSTONES
(57) FIRING LINE Host: William F. Buckley, Jr. 'The New Panama Treaty' is discussed by writer Phyllis Schlafly, author of several books on U.S. defense policy and strategy.
1:30 ② ELLIOT NORTON REVIEWS Cast members of the touring Russian revue 'Estrada' talk about the production.
㊵ BULLWINKLE
2:00 ② (57) EQUALITY The controversial question of equality in America is examined in four areas: equality of age, sex, race and economic circumstances.
⑤ MOVIE 'Our Vines Have Tender Grapes' 1945 Margaret O'Brien, Agnes Moorehead. Spirit of a small Norwegian-American town in Wisconsin: all the ordinary things in life are full of wonder and joy. (2 hrs.)
㊳ MOVIE 'Love Me Tender' 1956 Elvis Presley, Richard Egan. Southern family parted by war and divided by love as brothers fight brothers, each seeking the love of one woman. (2 hrs.)
㊵ MOVIE 'Paradise Hawaiian Style' 1966 Elvis Presley, Suzanna Leigh. Out-of-work pilot returns to Hawaii where he and a buddy start a charter service with two helicopters. (2 hrs.)
3:00 ② (57) GRAND PRIX TENNIS Coverage of the finals of the $100,000 Island Holidays Pro Tennis Classic, recorded last weekend, originates from Maui, Hawaii.
4:00 ③ ⑦ THE NFL TODAY Washington Redskins vs. Dallas Cowboys, from Texas Stadium, Irving, Tex.
④ ㉒ NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE GAME New England Patriots vs. San Diego Chargers
⑤ F.B.I. (World Series may air if played on west coast. Alternate schedule will apply.)
㊳ MOVIE 'The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance' 1962 James Stewart, John Wayne. Man terrorizes a small western town and is opposed by only two men - the hero of the town and a tenderfoot lawyer. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
㊵ ADVENTURERS
4:30 ㊵ THE SAINT
5:00 ② (57) BLACK PERSPECTIVE ON THE NEWS
⑤ UNDERSEA WORLD OF JACQUES COUSTEAU 'The Tragedy of the Red Salmon'
5:30 ② (57) SAY BROTHER
㊵ MY PARTNER THE GHOST

EVENING

6:00 ⑤ NEWS
6:30 ② ROMAGNOLIS' TABLE 'A Buffet Table'
⑤ CANDLEPIN SUPERBOWL
㊳ HONEYMOONERS
㊵ SUPERMAN
(57) FRENCH CHEF 'The Spinach Twins' In Julia Child's own kitchen in Provence, France, Simone Beck helps prepare a ham and spinach pastry turnover.
6:45 ③ ⑦ THE NFL TODAY A post-game program presenting scores, highlights and sports news.
㉒ NFL '77 Wrap-up of today's football news with Lee Leonard, Bryant Gumbel and Regina Haskins.
7:00 ② (57) CROCKETT'S VICTORY GARDEN Instructions on dividing and planting rhubarb roots, care for amaryllis and preventitive measures against frost in the garden are on Jim's calendar this week.
③ ⑦ 60 MINUTES
④ ㉒ THE WONDERFUL WORLD OF DISNEY 'Charley and the Angel' Fred MacMurray, Cloris Leachman, Harry Morgan and Kurt Russell star in this comedy about an angel who is assigned to deliver for final judgement the soul of a living man who has not used his time on earth wisely.
⑤ ㊵ HARDY BOYS-NANCY DREW MYSTERIES At an African game reserve, Frank and Joe investigate a huge poaching operation in which a great white hunter appears to be the prime suspect.
7:30 ② SHOW OF HANDS 'Fabric'
㊳ HOCKEY Boston Bruins vs. Montreal Canadiens
(57) PARENT EFFECTIVENESS 'Ruts 'n' Roadblocks' The parenting class tackles the problems of ineffective communication in discipline situations and considers the I-Message as a more understanding alternative.
8:00 ② (57) EVENING AT SYMPHONY 'Voices' by contemporary composer Olly Wilson and Rimsky-Korsakov's familiar 'Sheherazade' are performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under Seiji Ozawa's baton.
③ ⑦ RHODA Brenda is enjoying the luxury of having two boyfriends, Gary and Benny, competing for her attention but when they both show up for a date on the same night she asks Rhoda for help.
⑤ ㊵ THE SIX MILLION DOLLAR MAN 'Killer Wind' Steve Austin, rushing to rescue school children stalled on a mountain tramway as a tornado approaches, is attacked by a gang of bank bandits.
8:30 ③ ⑦ ON OUR OWN A prospective client passes out in Julia's apartment the evening before he signs a contract with the Bedford Advertising Agency, leading to the wildest of rumors.
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
9:00 ② (57) MASTERPIECE THEATRE 'Dickens of London' Episode Eight. 'Magic' Although Charles breaks England's heart as well as all his own book sales records with his weekly publication of 'The Old Curiosity Shop,' his mental state is a growing cause for concern.
③ ⑦ ALL IN THE FAMILY On the eve of a surprise party to celebrate her 50th birthday, Edith is confronted by a rapist and a life threatening trauma that neither Edith nor her family will ever forget.
④ ㉒ THE BIG EVENT '79 Park Avenue' Part one of a three-part story. Lesley Ann Warren, Michael Constantine. Due to the brutal attentions of her stepfather, Marja defends herself with a knife and is sent to reform school, the first step that leads her to an underworld-connected house of prostitution. (2 hrs.)
⑤ ㊵ THE ABC SUNDAY NIGHT MOVIE 'White Line Fever' 1975 Jan-Michael Vincent, Kay Lenz. Exciting drama of one man's struggle against the corruption and brutality of the Arizona trucking industry. (2 hrs.)
10:00 ② VISIONS Filmed entirely on location, Robert Young's 'Alambrista!' follows a young Mexican illegal alien's odyssey – from the back streets of Tijuana across the Mexican border and through the California agricultural belt.
③ ⑦ KOJAK Ken Murray, a rookie cop laid off from the force, finds himself with two jobs, a sick wife, and loan shark problems, making him very susceptible to a bribe. Guest stars Michael Durrell.
㊳ BRUINS WRAP-UP
(57) MASSACHUSETTS
10:15 ㊳ ASK THE MANAGER
10:30 (57) VISIONS Phillip Hayes Dean's 'Freeman' portrays the conflict of a black man unable to find his place in a society of compromised values, much to the distress of his family. Emmy Award-winner Louis Gossett, Jr., Pauline Myers and Dick Anthony Williams star.
10:45 ㊳ THE DRUM
11:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS
11:15 ③ CBS NEWS
㊳ MEDIX
11:30 ③ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'M.A.S.H.' Hawkeye gains custody of a Korean girl during a poker game. 'Kojak: The Frame' A thief accuses Kojak of accepting a bribe. (R)
④ MOVIE 'A Very Private Affair' 1962 Brigitte Bardot, Marcello Mastroianni. Story of girl who becomes an international sex goddess and movie star, but is unable to find personal happiness and love. (1 hr. 30 min.)
⑤ MOVIE 'The Good Earth' 1967 Paul Muni, Luise Rainer. Struggle for survival by Chinese peasants, depicted in time of harvests and droughts. (2 hrs. 45 min.)
⑦ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Massacre and Fort Holman' 1973 James Coburn, Telly Savalas. Fort Holman, an impregnable fortress, is destroyed by a wild bunch of marauders. (R)
㉒ NBC LATE NIGHT MOVIE 'The Outfit' 1974 Robert Duvall, Robert Ryan. Crime drama about two brothers who incur the unforgiving anger of gangsters when they rob a gambling den, unaware that it is mob-controlled. (R) (2 hrs.)
㊵ MOVIE 'Up The Down Staircase' 1967 Sandy Dennis, Eileen Heckart. Young teacher burning to teach the joys of English literature to her students, is continually harassed by the fact that her students are all from lower-income homes and hostile environments. (2 hrs. 5 min.)
11:45 ㊳ WORHSHIP FOR SHUT INS
12:00 ② ARTISTS SHOWCASE 'Babies Bodies' by Gerd Stern.
2:15 ⑤ SUNDAY OPEN HOUSE

---

the week ahead movies

1974 TV Compulog Services, Inc.

SUNDAY

(ABC) SUNDAY NIGHT MOVIE: 9:00 PM E.D.T., P.D.T. - 8:00 PM C.D.T., M.D.T.
"White Line Fever" 1975 Jan-Michael Vincent, Kay Lenz. Exciting drama of one man's struggle against the corruption and brutality of the Arizona trucking industry.

(NBC) THE BIG EVENT: 9:00 PM E.D.T, P.D.T. - 8:00 PM C.D.T., M.D.T.
"79 Park Avenue" Part I. Lesley Ann Warren, Michael Constantine. Forceably subjected to the brutal attentions of her no-good stepfather, Marja defends herself with a knife and is sent to reform school, the first step that leads her—with stops as a taxi dancer and stripper—down the road to 79 Park Avenue, an underworld-connected house of prostitution.

MONDAY

(NBC) MONDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES: 9:00 PM E.D.T., P.D.T. - 8:00 PM C.D.T., M.D.T.
"79 Park Avenue" Part II. Lesley Ann Warren, Marc Singer. Marja, a prostitute, adopts the professional name of Marianne Morgan and weds Ross Savitch, a childhood friend who previously refused to marry her because of her lowly family, but the union is loveless and, not long after, Ross is slain in their living room by racketeers.

TUESDAY

(NBC) TUESDAY MOVIE OF THE WEEK: 9:00 PM E.D.T., P.D.T. - 8:00 PM C.D.T., M.D.T.
"79 Park Avenue" Conclusion. Lesley Ann Warren, Michael Constantine. After Marianne discovers that her father-in-law has taken liberties with her young daughter, she confronts him and, in self-defense, slays him. Her trial brings out several startling facts.

WEDNESDAY

(CBS) WEDNESDAY NIGHT MOVIES: 9:00 PM E.D.T., P.D.T. - 8:00 PM C.D.T., M.D.T.

FRIDAY

(ABC) FRIDAY NIGHT MOVIE: 9:00 PM E.D.T., P.D.T. - 8:00 PM C.D.T., M.D.T.
"Having Babies II" Paula Prentiss, Tony Bill. When Trish is brought into the hospital in serious condition by her desperate husband, Dr. Farr discovers the patient has been taking drugs.

Monday, Oct. 17

EVENING

6:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
㊵ CROSS WITS
(57) ZOOM
6:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ I LOVE LUCY
(57) AS WE SEE IT 'What Happens When It Works?' from Stockton, Calif., tells the true story of high schoolers who spearheaded a citywide effort to prepare for desegregation. 'No More Lunchsacks for Me' from Wichita, Kan., dramatizes how a free school lunch program for low-income families affects desegregation.
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② ZOOM
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) WRITING FOR A REASON
7:30 ② WODEHOUSE PLAYHOUSE 'Mr. Potter Takes a Rest Cure' An American publisher gets more than he bargained for when he visits an unpublished British authoress and her scheming family, which includes a flighty daughter who doesn't want to marry the man her mother has selected for her.
③ DAILY NUMBER
④ EVENING MAGAZINE
⑤ $100,000 NAME THAT TUNE
⑦ THAT'S HOLLYWOOD
㉒ CANDID CAMERA
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ TATTLETALES
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ THAT'S HOLLYWOOD
8:00 ② GREAT PERFORMANCES 'Salome' Richard Strauss' one-act opera based on the play by Oscar Wilde features Teresa Stratas in the title role of the Biblical temptress who asked for the head of John the Baptist. Dr. Karl Bohm conducts the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra.
③ ⑦ LOGAN'S RUN Mel Ferrer guest stars as the high priest of a 24th-century society presiding over a 'Sanctuary' which regards computers as the objects of worship rather than technology from which knowledge is gained.
④ ㉒ LITTLE HOUSE ON THE PRAIRIE 'The Wolves' While Charles and Caroline Ingalls are away, their daughters and young Andy Garvey are terrorized by a hunger-crazed pack of vicious wild dogs.
⑤ ㊵ THE SAN PEDRO BEACH BUMS 'The Winner's Circle' Buddy turns jockey for a day when the San Pedro Beach Bums decide to save a race horse for an old man and his little granddaughter.
㊳ ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
(57) AGE OF UNCERTAINTY 'Lenin and the Great Ungluing' explores the breakup of the old political order by World War I and the introduction of a socialist alternative by the Russian Revolution.
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
9:00 ③ ⑦ THE BETTY WHITE SHOW When John finally feels strong enough to tell Joyce their first divorce was not valid and to beg her to divorce him again, Joyce reacts with all the fury of a woman scorned - twice. (CONCLUSION)
④ ㉒ NBC MONDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES '79 Park Avenue' Part II. Lesley Ann Warren, Marc Singer. Marja adopts the professional name of Marianne Morgan and weds Ross Savitch. The union is loveless and, not long after, Ross is slain in their living room by racketeers. (2 hrs.)
⑤ ㊵ ABC'S MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL Cincinnati Bengals vs. Pittsburgh Steelers from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.
㊳ MOVIE 'Young Mr. Lincoln' 1939 Henry Fonda, Alice Brady. Story of Lincoln's early years beginning in 1832 when he started out as a young lawyer. (2 hrs.)
(57) AMERICAN SHORT STORY 'The Blue Hotel' Stephen Crane's story stars David Warner as a young Swede, filled with tales of the untamed West, who arrives in an 1800s Nebraska frontier town and sets into motion a dime novel-type adventure in which his fears of violence come true.
9:30 ③ ⑦ MAUDE Maude's all-out campaign to get a well-deserved salary raise for one of Walter's female employees backfires when the lady decides to take the raise – and Walter, too.
10:00 ② NEWS
③ ⑦ RAFFERTY In the midst of a startling epidemic of an 'extinct' disease, polio, Dr. Sid Rafferty, confronted with a critically-ill girl displaying polio symptoms, defies the odds, his colleagues and his young patient's hostile parents by diagnosing her ailment as deadly botulism.
(57) DIAMOND RIVERS This documentary takes a close look at the life and times of Geraldo Santos da Silva, a diamond prospector in northeastern Brazil.
10:30 ② MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
(57) VIDEO AND TELEVISION REVIEW 'The Magic Mind of Eli Noyes' Part I. Image manipulation is a recurrent theme in the works of filmmaker Eliot Noyes, Jr. Screened are the Academy Award nominee 'Clay,' 'Alphabet,' 'Bad Dog' and 'Sandman,' as well as an excerpt from 'The Fable of He and She.'
11:00 ② (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW Guest: Prima ballerina Alicia Alonso.
③ ④ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
11:30 ③ ⑦ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'The Weekend Nun' 1972 Joanna Pettet, Vic Morrow. Sister Damian innocently assumes she can work as a probation officer and remain true to her vows, but experiences on the job make her realize she must make a major vocational decision. (R)
④ ㉒ THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: Steve Martin. Guests: Will Greer, Kreskin, George Gobel, Paul Williams.
㊳ IRONSIDE
(57) ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
11:45 ⑤ ㊵ NEWS
12:15 ⑤ SCREENING ROOM
㊵ COLLEGE FOOTBALL '77
1:00 ④ ㉒ TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder.
1:45 ⑤ NEWS
1:55 ⑤ NIGHTSHIFT
2:25 ⑤ AQUI

Tuesday, Oct. 18

EVENING

6:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
㊵ CROSS WITS
(57) ZOOM
6:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ I LOVE LUCY
(57) AS WE SEE IT 'Metco' looks at voluntary busing in Boston, 'Oreo Cookie' from Wichita, Kan., focuses on peer pressure in desegregated situations and 'Interracial Dating' studies attitudes in Portland, Ore.
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② ZOOM
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) DIMENSIONS IN CULTURE
7:30 ② ELLIOT NORTON REVIEWS 'Golda' Actress Anne Bancroft, author William Gibson and director Arthur Penn discuss Israel's Mrs. Meir.
③ DAILY NUMBER
④ EVENING MAGAZINE
⑤ MUPPETS Guest: Bernadette Peters. (If World Series is played, Series '77 will air.)
⑦ $25,000 PYRAMID
㉒ SHA NA NA
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ GONG SHOW
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ ALL STAR ALMOST ANYTHING GOES
8:00 ② (57) LIVE FROM LINCOLN CENTER 'Manon' The New York City Opera's production of Jules Massenet's 19th-century classic is telecast live from the New York State Theater. Beverly Sills stars as a young woman who gets sidetracked from her trip to a convent into a series of adventures.
③ UNDERSEA WORLD OF JACQUES COUSTEAU 'The Singing Whale'
④ ㉒ MAN FROM ATLANTIS 'Hawk of Mu' The strange, ancient figure of a hawk that has the power to cause a blackout along a road, falls into the hands of the evil Mr. Schubert.
⑤ ㊵ HAPPY DAYS If a sixth World Series game is necessary, ABC Sports will provide live coverage of it from the city of the American League Champion. If game does not air, regular programming will apply.
⑦ EVANS AND NOVAK
㊳ ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
8:30 ⑤ ㊵ LAVERNE AND SHIRLEY
9:00 ③ ⑦ M.A.S.H. Major Winchester, conveying the dreariness and frustration of his new situation at the 4077th hospital in a tape recording to his parents, also offers his candid assessment of some of its principal personalities.
④ ㉒ TUESDAY MOVIE OF THE WEEK '79 Park Avenue' Lesley Ann Warren, Michael Constantine. After Marianne discovers that her father-in-law has taken liberties with her young daughter, she confronts him and, in self-defense, slays him. (CONCLUSION) (2 hrs.)
⑤ ㊵ THREE'S COMPANY 'Roper's Car' Greed tarnishes Mr. Roper's integrity when he is led to believe his old car is a valuable classic after he has sold it, for $200, to Jack, Janet and Chrissy.
㊳ MOVIE 'The Story of Will Rogers' 1952 Jane Wyman, Will Rogers, Jr. Story of Will Rogers and the girl he married; his rise to fame and fortune and the marvelous influence he had over others. (2 hrs.)
9:30 ③ ⑦ ONE DAY AT A TIME Ed hopes to have the switch to turn off his daughter's marriage plans when he meets the groom-to-be. (CONCLUSION)
⑤ ㊵ SOAP Jessica Tate has traumatic information regarding Corinne that she must tell Chester; Danny gets a frightening ultimatum from the godfather; Burt has good news for his wife.
9:58 ㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 ② NEWS 'Live from Lincoln Center' continues after a brief report.
③ ⑦ LOU GRANT Pursuing a story on the American Nazis, Billie enters the Brown Shirt headquarters uncovering shocking information.
⑤ ㊵ FAMILY Doug and an attractive female lawyer become friendly after a legal battle, but when the lady gets serious, Doug is both troubled and tempted.
11:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS
㊳ ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
11:30 ② (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW Actress Vanessa Redgrave discusses her role in the new movie 'Julia.'
③ ⑦ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Kojak: Justice Defense' Construction tycoon, who covered up a murder 18 years before, is being questioned by Kojak. 'Double Image' 197) George Hamilton, Barbara Anderson. A diplomat finds his girlfriend dead and discovers she was involved in smuggling. (R)
④ ㉒ THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: Steve Martin. Guests: Andy Kaufman, Bernadette Peters.
⑤ FOREVER FERNWOOD
㊳ IRONSIDE
㊵ TUESDAY MOVIE OF THE WEEK 'Hit Lady' Yvette Mimieux. An elegant, cultured woman's job as a professional artist is the cover for the real occupation she now can't quit - a successful hired assassin. (R)
12:00 ⑤ TUESDAY MOVIE OF THE WEEK 'Hit Lady' Yvette Mimieux. An elegant, cultured woman's job as a professional artist is the cover for the real occupation she now can't quit - a successful hired assassin. (R)
(57) ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
1:00 ④ ㉒ TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder. Guest: Alf Landon, the GOP Presidential nominee in 1936.
1:35 ⑤ NEWS
1:45 ⑤ MOVIE 'Charlie Chan In Panama' 1940 Sidney Toler, Jean Rogers. (1 hr. 45 min.)
3:30 ⑤ BAXTERS
4:00 ⑤ NEW HEAVEN-NEW EARTH
4:30 ⑤ GOOD DAY

Wednesday, Oct. 19

EVENING

6:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
㊵ CROSS WITS
(57) ZOOM
6:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ I LOVE LUCY
(57) AS WE SEE IT In Portland, Ore., Harrisburg, Pa., and Chicago, high school students examine aspects of desegregation including rumors, cultural sexism and ethnic history.
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② ZOOM
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) WRITING FOR A REASON
7:30 ② MONTY PYTHON'S FLYING CIRCUS
③ DAILY NUMBER
④ EVENING MAGAZINE
⑤ IN SEARCH OF 'Witchdoctors' (If World Series is played, Series '77 will air.)
⑦ ㉒ BIG MONEY
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ IN SEARCH OF 'Reincarnation'
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ $25,000 PYRAMID
8:00 ② NOVA 'Joey' Joey Deacon is 55 years old and has been a spastic since birth. This is his autobiography, an acclaimed film which won first prize at the Prix Italia Awards.
③ ⑦ GOOD TIMES 'Willona the Spy' Department store spies Mr. Rogers and Miss Johnson introduce new employee Willona to their nervous trade.
④ GREEN MACHINE
⑤ ㊵ EIGHT IS ENOUGH 'I Quit' Tom Bradford resigns as father when his children accuse him of running the family like an army platoon.
㉒ THE LIFE AND TIMES OF GRIZZLY ADAMS 'A Bear's Life' When Ben, the grizzly, roams far from his lair he gets a few surprises, including an encounter with an Indian medicine man and a wild ride on a runaway covered wagon.
㊳ ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
(57) FORSYTE SAGA 'A Family Festival' John Galsworthy's novels follow the eventful lives of a wealthy English family through half a century. A scandal brews as Jo decides to leave his wife and marry his daughter's Austrian governess.
8:30 ③ ⑦ BUSTING LOOSE After meeting Jackie's ex-boyfriend, Lenny wants to impress her somehow, so he agrees to let Raymond set up a phony fight that he can win.
④ BASKETBALL Boston Celtics vs. San Antonio Spurs
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK

NAVY
NUCLEAR PROPULSION.
THE FASTEST WAY UP
IN NUCLEAR ENGINEERING.

If you want to get into nuclear engineering, start by getting into the Nuclear Navy.

The Navy operates more than half the reactors in America. Our nuclear training is the most comprehensive. You start by earning your commission as a Navy Officer. Then we give you a year of advanced nuclear training. During your career, you'll get practical, hands-on experience with our nuclear powered fleet.

If that sounds like the kind of responsibility you're looking for, speak to: Navy Engineering Programs at Marston Hall
Friday 14 October 1977

9:00 2 CROCKETT'S VICTORY GARDEN Jim offers a second look at Amsterdam's Keukenhof Gardens and demonstrates how to force bulbs for winter blooming.
3 7 THE CBS WEDNESDAY NIGHT MOVIES 'Killer Elite' 1975 James Caan, Robert Duvall. A company that specializes in assassinations and other illegal acts is hired by the CIA to protect a Chinese political activist during his stopover in San Francisco. (2 hrs.)
5 40 CHARLIE'S ANGELS The Angels and Bosley infiltrate a phony UFO club suspected of doing away with wealthy members after taking their money.
22 THE OREGON TRAIL An Army deserter places Andy Thorpe is grave danger when a search party attempts to hunt him down after Andy aids in his escape.
38 HOCKEY Boston Bruins vs. St. Louis Blues
57 GREAT PERFORMANCES 'Pagliacci' Filmed for television at the La Scala Opera House in Milan. Ruggiero Leoncavallo's popular opera stars Jon Vickers, Saina Corsi-Kabaivanska and Peter Glossop in the story of an itinerant clown who discovers that his wife has been unfaithful. Herbert von Karajan conducts.
9:30 2 WODEHOUSE PLAYHOUSE 'Rodney Fails to Qualify' A young man's slow-moving courtship of his lovely golfing partner is jeopardized when a smooth-talking poet sweeps her off her feet.
9:58 40 ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 2 NEWS
5 40 BARETTA 'Lyman P. Dokker, Fed.' Tony Baretta, trying to solve a murder and recover a priceless emerald necklace belonging to an oil sheik, is teamed with an FBI agent who is not what he appears to be.
22 BIG HAWAII 'Red Midnight' When Mitch, a newly licensed pilot, takes his father up for a look at the Mauna Loa volcano, the plane develops engine trouble and Mitch crash lands the craft just as the crater starts to erupt.
10:30 2 MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
57 ARVILLA An intimate portrait of a 63-year-old woman farmer facing insurmountable odds documents the losing struggle in an occupation where male dominance is still virtually unchallenged.
11:00 2 57 DICK CAVETT SHOW 'Responsibility in the Press' Part I. Guests: James Brady, associate publisher of the New York Post, Tom Wicker, associate editor of The New York Times, Ben Bradlee, executive editor of the Washington Post, and CBS News president Richard Salant.
3 4 5 7 22 40 NEWS
11:30 3 7 THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Hawaii Five-O' A top government official is kidnapped and $1,000,000 worth of diamonds is demanded as ransom. 'Crime Knows No Age' 1973 Michael Ryan. A bus accident kills a man with no identification who was carrying a case with $2,000,000. (R)
4 22 THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: Della Reese.
5 FOREVER FERNWOOD
38 BOSTON BRUINS WRAP-UP
40 STARSKY AND HUTCH-MYSTERY OF THE WEEK STARSKY AND HUTCH - 'Terror on the Docks' Starsky and Hutch try to nail the dockworker who killed an undercover officer. MYSTERY OF THE WEEK - 'Mr. and Mrs. and the Magic Studio Murders' John Rubinstein, Lee Kroeger. A dead man's secret haunts a group of magicians. (R)
57 ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
11:45 38 IRONSIDE
12:00 5 STARSKY AND HUTCH-MYSTERY OF THE WEEK STARSKY AND HUTCH - 'Terror on the Docks' Starsky and Hutch try to nail the dockworker who killed an undercover officer. MYSTERY OF THE WEEK - 'Mr. and Mrs. and the Magic Studio Murders' John Rubinstein, Lee Kroeger. A dead man's secret haunts a group of magicians. (R)
1:00 4 22 TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder. Guest: Frank Yablans, former Paramount Pictures President.
2:30 5 NEWS
2:40 5 I SPY
3:40 5 5 ALL NIGHT
4:00 5 BRIEFING SESSION
4:30 5 GOOD DAY

Thursday, Oct. 20

EVENING

6:00 3 4 5 7 22 NEWS
38 HOGAN'S HEROES
40 CROSS WITS
57 ZOOM (CAPTIONED)
6:30 2 ELECTRIC COMPANY
22 NBC NEWS
38 ADAM 12
40 I LOVE LUCY
57 AS WE SEE IT Highlights from previous programs explore the many facets of school desegregation as seen from the student viewpoint nationwide.
6:55 40 NEWS
7:00 2 ZOOM (CAPTIONED)
3 7 CBS NEWS
4 NBC NEWS
5 40 ABC NEWS
22 NEWS
38 ODD COUPLE
57 DIMENSIONS IN CULTURE
7:30 2 ONCE UPON A CLASSIC 'The Legend of Robin Hood' Episode Three. Will and Ralph pledge their loyalties to Robin and the three ride to Huntingdon Manor, where they discover that Robin's heirlooms have been stolen.
3 DAILY NUMBER
4 EVENING MAGAZINE
5 HOUSE CALL
7 GONG SHOW
22 HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
38 DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
40 THAT GIRL
57 MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 3 DOUBLEPLAY
8:00 2 EVENING AT SYMPHONY 'Voices' by contemporary composer Olly Wilson and Rimsky-Korsakov's familiar 'Sheherazade' are performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under Seiji Ozawa's baton.

Trish (Paula Prentiss, center) is brought into the hospital in serious condition by her desperate husband, Aaron (Tony Bill, left). Dr. Farr (Susan Sullivan, right) discovers the patient has been taking drugs in 'HAVING BABIES II' airing as 'The ABC Friday Night Movie,' Oct. 21.

3 7 THE WALTONS As World War II looms, Jason meets a mysterious British girl when the family spends a week at the beach.
4 ACTION 4
5 40 WELCOME BACK, KOTTER
22 CHIPS 'Career Day' Richard Deacon guest stars as Officer Poncherello's high school principal who persuades him to speak at a 'career day' assembly.
38 ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
57 NOVA 'Joey' Joey Deacon is 55 years old and has been a spastic since birth. This is his autobiography, an acclaimed film which won first prize at the Prix Italia Awards.
8:30 4 MZIZI ROOTS
5 40 WHAT'S HAPPENING!! 'Nothing Personnel' Shirley is crushed when she discovers the company that hired her as a secretary isn't interested in her proudly acquired skills, but simply signed her on as a token black.
8:58 3 NEWSBREAK
9:00 2 57 HURRY TOMORROW Filmed in Los Angeles, this cinema-verite documentary examines the drugging of mental patients and psychiatric inmates as it is currently practiced in many state hospitals and mental institutions throughout the country.
3 7 HAWAII FIVE-O Steve McGarrett and his Five-O crew seek the killer of an archeologist who was trying to find the lost grave of King Kamehameha. Geraldine Page guest stars.
4 22 THE RICHARD PRYOR SHOW
5 40 BARNEY MILLER 'Burial' Capt. Miller and his detectives are stymied when a mortician reports a stolen body. Then retired detective Phil Fish steps in to lend a hand in the investigation.
38 MOVIE 'Houdini' 1953 Tony Curtis, Janet Leigh. Biography of the famed escaped artist. (2 hrs.)
9:30 5 40 CARTER COUNTRY 'Baker Buys a House' Part I. Curtiss uses an insurance check to buy the house next door to Jasper, who is not exactly liberated on racial matters.
9:58 40 ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 2 NEWS
3 7 BARNABY JONES Lee Purcell guest stars as the sister of a hit-and-run victim who disappears after the accident.
4 ROSETTI AND RYAN 'Is There a Lawyer in the House' Edie Adams guest stars as a former movie star who now produces commercials and suddenly becomes involved in a homicide case.
5 40 REDD FOXX
57 MASTERPIECE THEATRE 'Dickens of London' Episode Eight. 'Magic' Although Charles breaks England's heart as well as all his own book sales records with his weekly publication of 'The Old Curiosity Shop,' his mental state is a growing cause for concern.
10:30 2 MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
11:00 2 57 DICK CAVETT SHOW 'Responsibility in the Press' Part II. Guests: James Brady, associate publisher of the New York Post, Tom Wicker, associate editor of The New York Times, Ben Bradlee, executive editor of the Washington Post, and CBS News president Richard Salant.
3 4 5 7 22 40 NEWS
38 ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
11:30 3 THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Hurricane' 1974 Larry Hagmen, Jessica Walters. A hurricane destroys a Gulf Coast town and the lives of everyone there. (R)
4 22 THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: Gabe Kaplan.
5 FOREVER FERNWOOD
7 THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'M.A.S.H.' Hawkeye gains custody of a Korean girl during a poker game. 'Kojak: The Frame' A thief accuses Kojak of accepting a bribe. (R)
38 IRONSIDE
40 POLICE STORY-THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL POLICE STORY - 'Line of Fire' A young police officer joins a special unit and must learn to cope with killing. THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL - 'A Salute to the Best Years of Your Hit Parade' Guests: Snooky Lanson, Dorothy Collins, Gisele Mackenzie, Russell Arms, Eileen Barton. (R)
57 ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
12:00 5 POLICE STORY-THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL POLICE STORY - 'Line of Fire' A young police officer joins a special unit and must learn to cope with killing. THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL - 'A Salute to the Best Years of Your Hit Parade' Guests: Snooky Lanson, Dorothy Collins, Gisele Mackenzie, Russell Arms, Eileen Barton. (R)
1:00 4 22 TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder. Guest: Doc Severinson.
2:30 5 NEWS
2:40 5 MOVIE 'She-Wolf of London' 1946 June Lockhart, Don Porter. (1 hr. 20 min.)
4:00 5 AQUI
4:30 5 GOOD DAY

Friday, Oct. 21

EVENING

6:00 3 4 5 7 22 NEWS
38 HOGAN'S HEROES
40 CROSS WITS
57 ZOOM
6:30 2 ELECTRIC COMPANY
22 NBC NEWS
38 ADAM 12
40 I LOVE LUCY
57 AS WE SEE IT Six segments deal with interracial dating, Indian education and other concerns of school desegregation as seen by students nationwide.
6:55 40 NEWS
7:00 2 SAY BROTHER
3 7 CBS NEWS
4 NBC NEWS
5 40 ABC NEWS
22 NEWS
38 ODD COUPLE
57 PAINT ALONG WITH NANCY KOMINSKY 'Poppies' against a blue background blend and contrast perfectly following Nancy's color codes.
7:30 3 DAILY NUMBER
4 EVENING MAGAZINE
5 MATCH GAME
7 SHA NA NA
22 $100,000 NAME THAT TUNE
38 DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
40 MUPPETS SHOW
57 MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 3 MATCH GAME
8:00 2 57 WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW
3 7 THE NEW ADVENTURES OF WONDER WOMAN Wonder Woman struggles against the powers of a popular rock musician who uses special frequency music to hypnotize young women fans into stealing for him.
4 22 CPO SHARKEY
5 40 DONNY AND MARIE Guests: Glen Campbell, Bernadette Peters.
38 ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
8:30 2 57 WALL $TREET WEEK Host: Louis Rukeyser. 'The View from the White House' Guest: Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors.
4 22 CHICO AND THE MAN
8:58 3 NEWSBREAK
9:00 2 MASTERPIECE THEATRE 'Dickens of London' Episode Eight. 'Magic' Although Charles breaks England's heart as well as all his own book sales records with his weekly publication of 'The Old Curiosity Shop,' his mental state is a growing cause for concern.
3 7 SWITCH Pete and Mac go to Las Vegas to help a young woman determine the cause of her pilot-father's fatal crash. Guest stars Wayne Newton, Dionne Warwick, Foster Brooks, Jack Colvin, Pamela Hemsley, George Maharis, Chuck McCann.
4 22 THE ROCKFORD FILES 'The Dog and Pony Show' Jim agrees to help a frightened young woman overcome a mental problem and finds himself embroiled in a bizarre investigation involving the CIA and the mafia.
5 40 THE ABC FRIDAY NIGHT MOVIE 'W.W. and the Dixie Dancekings' 1974 Burt Reynolds stars as an easygoing con artist who loves country music, robbing gas stations and a singer called Dixie - three loves that keep him in the kind of trouble he enjoys. (R) (2 hrs.)
38 MOVIE 'The F.B.I. Story' 1959 James Stewart, Vera Miles. History of the F.B.I., told through the eyes of one agent and his family. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
57 MASSACHUSETTS
9:30 57 BEST OF ERNIE KOVACS Some comical stabs at the music world include a gorilla ballet, an epic Italian opera, a serious visual interpretation of a Bela Bartok piece and another performance by that dynamite musical group, the Nairobi Trio.
10:00 2 NEWS
4 22 QUINCY 'Murder By Self' Quincy investigates the alleged suicide of a young labor leader and finds himself in the middle of a battle between two unions that are vying to represent farm workers.
57 SOCCER MADE IN GERMANY
10:30 2 MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
11:00 2 57 DICK CAVETT SHOW Guest: Author Jessica Mitford.
3 4 5 7 22 40 NEWS
11:30 3 MOVIE 'Hotel' 1967 Rod Taylor, Catherine Spaak. Trials and tribulations at a posh New Orleans hotel. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
4 22 THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: Gabe Kaplan.
5 FOREVER FERNWOOD
7 SECOND CITY TV
38 MOVIE 'Sherlock Holmes Faces Death' 1943 Basil Rathbone, Nigel Bruce. Discovery of subterranean crypt helps solve the murders of brothers. (1 hr. 30 min.)
40 BARETTA 'They Don't Make 'Em Like They Used To' As Tony rides a cross-country bus trying to ferret out a dangerous criminal from the passengers, he is followed by an aging master thief who has been double crossed and will stop at nothing to get revenge and reclaim a fortune in stolen gems. (R)
57 ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
12:00 7 MOVIE 'Bitter Victory' 1958 Richard Burton, Curt Jurgens. (2 hrs.)
12:30 5 BARETTA 'They Don't Make 'Em Like They Used To' As Tony rides a cross-country bus trying to ferret out a dangerous criminal from the passengers, he is followed by an aging master thief who has been double crossed and will stop at nothing to get revenge and reclaim a fortune in stolen gems. (R)
1:00 4 22 THE MIDNIGHT SPECIAL Host: Elvin Bishop. Guests: K.C. and the Sunshine Band, Electric Light Orchestra, Van Morrison, Crystal Gayle, Thin Lizzly, Ronnie McDowl, Mickey Thomas.
1:35 5 NEWS
1:45 5 MOVIE 'Of Human Bondage' 1964 Kim Novak, Laurence Harvey. (2 hrs.)
3:45 5 5 ALL NIGHT
4:00 5 HOUSE CALL
4:30 5 GOOD DAY

the SHOE BIN
open thurs. nites
187 n. pleasant st., amherst, ma.

MOUNTAIN FARMS FOUR 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 - HADLEY MASS.
Adults $2.50 - Students with AMC Card $2.00 - Children $1.25 - Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded

The real story of why President Lincoln was killed.
The Lincoln Conspiracy
G
1
Fri at 5:30,8:00,9:55; Twiliter 5:00
Sat at 5:30,8:00,9:55; Twiliter 5:00
Sun. at 6:30,8:45; Twiliter 6:00

A long time ago in a galaxy far far away
STAR WARS
PG
2
Fri at 5:00,7:30,9:55; Twiliter 4:30
Sat at 2:00,5:00,7:30,9:55; Twiliter 4:30
Sun at 2:00,6:00,8:30; Twiliter 5:30

JAMES BOND 007
THE SPY WHO LOVED ME
ROGER MOORE
PG
3
Fri at 5:00,7:30,9:55; Twiliter 4:30
Sat at 2:00,5:00,7:30,9:55; Twiliter 4:30
Sun at 2:00,6:00,8:30; Twiliter 5:30

THE BAD NEWS Bears in BREAKING TRAINING
PG
4
Fri at 5:15,7:45,9:55; Twiliter 4:45
Sat at 7:30,5:15,7:45,9:55; Twiliter 4:45
Sun at 7:30,6:30,8:45; Twiliter 6:00

CARTOONS SAT. & SUN.
1 and 3 o'clock
All Seats $1.25

THE CREAM
FAREWELL CONCERT
Fri. & Sat. 11:45 p.m.
All Seats $2.00

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI LITE SHOW TICKETS LIMITED TO SEATING

---

HOMECOMING '77

Supplement to the Collegian

October 15, 1977

Parade to 'float' around town

by Bob Davidson
Collegian Staff

In past years, Homecoming has been highlighted by the float parade on the eve of the football game and this year's Homecoming will be no different.

Steven Aznavourian and Kathy Moore, Greek Area Activities Co-chairpersons, have been working hard for the past few months and have organized a parade that they think will be enjoyable to all participants and spectators.

"I think Homecoming is going to be a pretty spectacular event this year," said Aznavourian. He cited improved alumni relations and increased spirit as the reasons for this conclusion.

Aznavourian and Moore have selected four persons to judge the floats in this year's parade. The judges will be: Amherst Town Manager A. Louss Hayward, Amherst Police Chief Donald N. Maia, Paul Hammel, Assistant to the Vice-chancellor for Student Affairs and Dean of Students William F. Field.

According to Aznavourian, applications for floats were open to all student groups and outside organizations. Trophies will be awarded to the best float from a Greek organizatiom, best float from an outside organization and most unusual float.

The UMass Marching Band and a few other groups will also march in the parade.

The parade will step off from Haigis Mall on Friday at 7 p.m., and proceed up Lincolm Ave. and turn left onto Amity St. It will then advance to N. Pleasant St, turn left and return to Haigis Mall via N. Pleasant St. and Mass. Ave. The reviewing stand will be located in front of the Amherst Post Office.

This woman and all the other band members have a busy weekend ahead of them. (Staff Photo by Chris Bourne)

Beat the Crowd

The PEOPLE'S MARKET is open
SATURDAYS
for your convenience

Open 10:30 AM until 5:00 PM    Food Stamps accepted

People's Market is a non-profit, student-run, collectively-operated food store. Volunteers are always welcome.

The Episcopal Church at UMass welcomes you to the ARK

for Worship, Study, Prayer, Fellowship, Counseling and the Sacrements

Holy Communion every Sunday at 6 pm, followed by dinner. All Welcome.

Drop by any time or call 549-6772

578 N. Pleasant St., (just north of Grad Research). Robert Granfeldt, Chaplain

BASKETS

A genuine piece of peoples art. From all corners in all sizes, some with covers some without, some natural some fancy. For bread or fruit, for plants or pencils. Containers for use and beauty.

Faces of Earth

Next to the Amherst Post Office — Open: 9:30-6, Mon. thru Sat.

GOOD LUCK MINUTEMEN

"The Bell of Amherst"
BELL'S PIZZA

65 University Drive

Free Delivery on Campus

Sun. - Thurs.

253-9051    549-1311

---

Poor Richards
Rte. 9
Amherst

SATURDAY
Happy Hour
after the Game
3-7 p.m. OLDIES

SUNDAY
HAPPY HOUR
ALL NITE

HOMECOMING EVENTS

TODAY

Homecoming Float Parade 7:15 pm Hagis Mall
3rd Annual Multiband Concert 8:15 Fine Arts Center
Five-College Dance Concert: Dance as a visual experience 8 pm Graham Hall, Smith College

TOMORROW

Tailgate picnic (Alumni) 12 noon next to stadium
UMass vs., URI 1 pm Alumni Stadium
Benny Goodman Concert 8 pm Fine Arts Center

1917 grad returning 60 grid seasons later

By Ron Arena
Collegian Staff

The scene - Harvard Stadium in Cambridge on a cold and rainy Saturday in September. The UMass football team, in a strong performance, has silenced the partisan fans of the Ivy class by grabbing a 17-0 lead over the Crimson. Most of the fans leave disappointed but John Sauter is one happy man on this raw afternoon.

John Sauter is 85 years old and a graduate of the class of 1917 at the University of Massachusetts. He is a graduate who is proud of his alma mater, a graduate with some fond memories. Sauter has displayed that pride since he left a homey "aggie" campus some 60 years ago.

Sauter says he attends UMas football games "every chance" he gets, and has made the trip from his home in Quincy every spring since hi 25th birthday to sit in on commencement. He has been able to attend only one football game this year, that being the Harvard tilt. His reaction?

"Even the lousy day that it was with the weather, the exhibition put on was something to be proud of,"Sauter said.

"I'll tell you what I miss though is the sideline pass," he continued. "Teams don't use that as much as they used to."

He also recalled th eold statue of liberty play, a formation still sometimes used in the pros. "The end arounds, the double reverses, there's nothing new under the sun," he joked.

Judging by some of Sauter's past stories, however, a lot of things have changed at the University. A quote beside his picture in the 1917 Index claims Sauter "loving the ladies and has a girl in every port." Well, Mr. Sauter is quick to inform that in 1917, 499 of the 500 students at UMass were men. That's a lot of attention for one woman.

Looking ahead to tomorrow's game with Rhode Island, Sauter picks UMass to win, but he strays away from a prediction of the score.

"I wouldn't come within miles," he laughs. "I think the big game will be with New Hampshire again. I really think UMass wil take this one. We have some good things going for us."

Asked if he had any favorites on this years's UMass team, he quickly, and rather oddly, answered with a sharp "no."

"I guess the last time I've really had a favorite was back when UMass had Yogi Berra's son (Tim)."

Sauter describes himself as a football fanatic, saying he used to be a permanent fixture in many football stadiums, including Yale-Harvard rivalries and the old Boston College-Holy Cross match-ups.

"I just love football," he said.

John Sauter is the kind of person a Homecoming was made for. May his day be a good one.

John Martin Sauter

July 21, 1892
Turner's Falls    60 Pleasant Street
Microbiology

Class Football (2).

"Puffy", the cabaret at Eddie's, is also the instructor in modern or classic dancing at the same popular lobster palace. He, like "Eggs", loves the ladies and has a girl in every port. He is also one of the few "blue birds" left on the drill grounds, and the newcomer is startled into believing that there is a real live admiral in our midst.

Parties out - U RI in

By Mike Berger
Collegian Staff

With the many assorted activities of this Homecoming weekend, one would think that it would be tough for the UMass coaches and players to concentrate upon tomorrow's football game with Rhode Island.

But according to UMass head coach Dick MacPherson, the first and foremost thought in all the players' and the coaches' minds is Rhode Island and nothing else.

"It's great to see the idea of Homecoming being brought back to the level it was in the 60's with a good amount of student involvement. But it sure makes it tough upon the coaches and the players to concentrate," said MacPherson.

MacPherson, who is in his seventh year of coaching UMass football, has compiled a record of 37 wins and 24 losses and also has a present season mark of 4-1. He said that in many colleges and universities across the country, the whole football team will spend the last two days prior to the football game away from the campus on Homecoming weekend.

"I wish I could to that here. I know with the Friday night parade and other events that are going on, it will be a great temptation for our players to get wrapped up in it. But we are stressing to our people that our first and foremost objecive is to concentrate on Rhode Island," said MacPherson.

"All the other stuff that goes along with Homecoming comes after 4:00 Saturday afternoon or when the game is over," he added.

After the game, MacPherson, his coaching staff, and players are invited to many of the parties put on by the alumni, Greeks, and students.

"It's tough as hell going to all these parties when you lose and when you lose badly, meaning a bad performance," said MacPherson.

In last year's homecoming, UMass lost to UConn, 28-6, but MacPherson emphasized that the players and the coaches want to forget about that loss permanently.

"It's a new year, with a lot of optimism, enthusiasm, and excitement. We have alot of talent along with disiplined, hard-working players and I really dont think anything like last year's homecoming game will be repeated,"said MacPherson.

In an effort to emphasize the importance of the game, MacPherson has asked his players to get a lot of sleep Thursday night and tonight in an effort to be mentally prepared. Today's practice schedule will be light with all the hard contact aorkouts having been done on Monday through Thursday.

"Homecoming will be a lot sweeter to the coaches, players, alumni, and students if we have a victory. We are doing everything we can to make our players both mentally and physically prepared for Satruday's game against the Rams,"MacPherson said.

In 1968 I fought in the streets of Chicago at the Democratic National Convention.

In 1969 I participated with the SDS in occupying the Administration Building at the University of Chicago.

But, since I met Jesus Christ, I know that

God loves the people

Daniel at 253-5716

Las Vegas Nite

1st floor C.C.
Oct. 15 - 7:30 p.m.

Alpha Phi Omega

WILL THE WINTER OF 1977 BE AS SEVERE AS 1976?

If most of the forecasters are correct it will be, so why not get ready now. Gleason's is all stocked with stylish and practical cold weather outdoor clothing for all your fall and winter needs. Come in early and look over the Quality lines we stock. Also ask us about our early birds/buy special.

Don Gleason — Quality Down Vests
North Face — Down Parkas and Botties
Sierra Designs — Down and 60/40 Parkas
Camp 7 — Down Vests and Mtn. Parkas
Camp Trails — Polarguard Vests & Parkas
Woolrich — Rugged Shirts, Pants, Jackets
Duofold — Quality 2 Layer Underwear
Wigwam — Hats, Socks, and Mitts
Vasque — Hiking Boots
Sorel — Insulated Boots

Also a Complete Selection of Camping & Backpacking
Equipment on display.
(Tents, Packs, Etc.)

HOURS: 9 to 5:30 WEEKDAYS
9 to 5 SATURDAY

PEARL STREET IS ONE BLOCK SOUTH OF MAIN STREET IN THE CENTER.

Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS.

HOMECOMING 77

6TH ANNUAL BLOODY MARY BREAKFAST

SATURDAY 10:30 AM

HAPPY HOUR AFTER THE GAME WITH

Jim Plunkett

THE PUB
AMHERST

sweaters • bags • flannel shirts • vests • jackets • belts • blouses

genesis II
quality clothing
recycled and new

PRE-WINTER SPECIAL
20% off our already low prices on all army shirts, jackets and coats.

65 university dr. amherst, ma.
tel.
549-2747
tues-fri 10-9
mon & sat 10-6

formerly Old Weird Harolds

Football to highlight weekend

Gridders seek 5th

by Rich Eckel
Collegian Staff

Homecoming weekends are supposed to be a time for celebration and partying,. But for Umass football coach Dick MacPherson, too often he has not felt like partying on Saturday night.

Since taking over the head coaching position 10 years ago, MacPherson's teams have managed to win just four homecoming games.

This season's team will be looking to reverse that trend when it seeks its fifth straight victory tomorrow as it plays host to the University of Rhode Island at 1:00 in its annual homecoming game at Alumni Stadium.

The Minutemen, like last season, enter the homecoming contest sporting an impressive 4-1 record. But MacPherson doesn't expect the same letdown that led to last season's loss to UConn and an eventual 5-5 record.

"It's something we won't have a problem with this year because we've got a veteran squad that knows what's expected of them," said MacPherson. "The guys are just going to have to wait until four o'clock before they start celebrating. We are a necessary part of homecoming, and we can put everybody in a good mood on Saturday night, and that's what we want too ."

Before MacPherson and his team can begin celebrating, they must contend with Yankee Conference foe URI. The Rams enter the game with a 2-3 record, and a 1-0 YanCon mark, by virtue of a 28-0 victory over Maine.

In its independant clashes, URI beat Holy Cross, sandwiched between setbacks to Northeastern and Brown. Last weekend the Rams not only dropped a 42-16 decision to Lehigh, but lost one of their primary offensive weapons.

According to URI Sports Information Director James Norman, wide receiver Tom Spann, who was a first team all-conference choice last year, suffered a severly separated shoulder and will be lost to the team for the rest of the season. Spann, a senior,was ranked second among YanCon receivers this season with 17 receptions for 274 yards.

The loss of Spann, but URI has plenty of firepower up the middle to warrant the Minutemen's attention.

Steve Tosches, starting quarterback, is a junior transfer from Idaho State who sat out last season, and leads the highly respected URI backfield. According to Norman, Tosches was also hurt in last weekend's game against Lehigh when he sustained a bad back bruise and had to sit out the second half of the game. However, Tosches' status is listed as probable for tomorrow's contest.

The Rams also boast the running duo of fullback Rich Moser and tailback Leroy Shaw currently rated as two of the top backs in the Yan Con.

Moser, an academic All-American, is averaging 5.1 yards per carry and is eighth in the country in Division Two scoring. Shaw is averaging 4.2 yards per carry and is tied for second in overall rushing yardage in the YanCon.

The Ram defense is spearheaded by linebacker Rom Marhefka, a Clinton native, who is averaging better than 12 solo tackles a game. Marhefka is the first URI athlete in any sport to be named to the ECAD's all-star team four weeks in a row.

Meanwhile, UMass enters the game with some players who have also received recognition as Yan Con standouts. Earlier in the week UMass halfback Bill Coleman was selceted as the conference's offensive player of the week along with New Hampshire's Bill Burnham. Coleman had his best day ever as a Minuteman last week when he carried the ball 30 times for 156 yards. This performance gained the praise of MacPherson.

"We can't ask for anymore than we've been getting out of Billy," said the coach. "We've been trying to get him the ball at least 20 times a game and like all great backs he wants that ball."

Junior linebacker Joe McLaughlin was chosen as the defensive player on the week for his seven tackles, three assists and blocked extra point attempt against BU last weekend. Defensive back Kevin Sullivan was also given honorable mention recognition for his performance last week.

Andy Bernstein

Chris Bourne

Cover photo by Andy Bernstein

4 wins leads to 7th spot

By Judy Van Handle
Collegian Staff

It all began on a sunny Saturday afternoon in West Point,N.Y.

And it did not look promising.

A quaterback named Leamon Hall threw touchdown passes almost at will against a beleaguered UMass defense while leading his Army teammates to a 34-10 victory.

But what has happened in the interim between then and now has been enough to bring visions of a Yankee Conference championship to the minds of many Minutemen grid followers.

After the abysmal season opener, the UMass football team now finds itself ranked seventh nationwide in the latest Division II poll with a 4-1 record.

But you'll never find UMass coach Dick MacPherson looking ahead to the November 12 showdown with New Hampshire which may decide who takes control of the Beanpot for the 1977 season.

"The team promised me we'd never go ahead of one game," MacPherson said. "Hey, Rhode Island will be gunning for us. They're undefeated in the conference too."

But if MacPherson, his players, and any UMass fans were to look back they would see:

- A 28-0 Yan Con opening win over Maine, keyed by a stingy defense and the rushing of Billy Coleman.

- A 17-0 shutout of Harvard in a regionally televised game, which marked the first time since 1972 that the Minutemen have beaten the Crimson.

- A record-breaking passing display by Mike Fallon (five touchdown passes) and Kevin Cummings (three TD's) which led UMass to a thouroughly convincing 54-13 win over Youngstown State.

- And, finally, last week's 41-16 triumph over Boston University. The game was highlighted by Coleman's 156 rushing yards, Hank Sareault's 101, a 34-point second half splurge, and a 100-yard Steve LeMay touchdown run with an interception.

Yes, after that lambasting from the Cadets back on Sept. 10, UMass has shown that it is, indeed, an impressive football team.

And that doesn't surprise MacPherson at all.

"We thought we had a good football team at the start of the season," he said. "The scrimmage with Dartmouth (14-14 tie) just proved what we thought. And in the Army game, the score was really no indication of the game. In the fourth quarter, we felt we still had a chance to win it. But, we fumbled, Army got the ball and another touchdown, and we were just out of it after that."

Like any team that experiences success, the Minutemen can point to several factors which have made the season such a smash.

The backfield of Coleman, Sareault, and Dennis Dent, for one has been simply sensational.

Coleman, a senior, has gained 540 yards and scored four touchdowns to rank second in the Yan Con ground race behind New Hampshire's dynamo Bill Burnham. A workhorse in the backfield, Coleman has averaged 22 carries a game. If he continues along his present pace, he stands an excellent chance to break Paul Metallo's record of most yards gained in a season (860).

Sareault, a 235-lb. junior fullback has sledgehammered his way to 317 yards on the ground thus far. He has averaged almost five yards per carry while scoring two TD's.

Dent, the tiny junior halfback, scored the winning touchdown against Harvard after catching a swing pass from Mike Fallon and fancy-footing his way 69-yards down the sideline. Dent has averaged an amazing seven and a half yards per carry and has also hauled in three passes.

And the quaterbacking situation, which had looked so dismal after Mike Fallon limped off the field at Army with a knee injury, has rebounded to being an integral part of the offense.

Fallon skipped the Maine game, but came back in the Harvard affair to lead the Minutemen to the win. His performance in the Youngstown State game was outstanding (12-18, five TD's), and he again was at the helm of the UMass offense in the BU win.

But behind any rushing unit is an offensive line, and MacPherson has nothing but praise for his men in the trenches.

"We have six great offensive linemen," MacPherson enthused. "The power of it, the strength of it, is just something. They all worked to get that way."

Althoug the Minutemen lost guard Russ Cooke early in the season with a head injury, the entire unit has not seemed to have felt his absence at all.

The starters - Mike McLaughlin, Bruce Kimball, Jim Penta, Gerry Greene, and Ross Schubarth - has combined to blow out the opposition, while subs Alec Westerlind and Rich Bouley have also developed into fine linemen.

"The three tight ends (Moses Williams, Kevin Cummings, and Peter Rankowitz) have all been blocking well, too," MacPherson added.

The receiving corps, led by John Gladchuk (eight catches), Cummings and Chris Kurtz (six apiece) has also come through when called upon.

But the defense, always a prime ingredient of a MacPherson-coached team, has been immense against the run but not always against the pass.

The defensive backfield, which was riddled by Hall, was considered shaky prior to the season. Injuries have taken Dave Croasdale, Todd Holt, and John Beerworth out of action for portions of the campaign, but the bench has picked up the slack.

"Kevin Sullivan and Joe Harrington have been the key to the backfield," MacPherson noted.

Sullivan, an all Yan-Con honorable mention pick last week, and Harrington, who intercepted a pass against Harvard, have stepped in for the injured performers and have done creditable jobs.

And now, with Croasdale healthy again and Holt a possible for tomorrow's game, the secondary should be bolstered in terms of manpower.

"We just can't have any more injuries," MacPherson said in regard to the secondary situation.

As for the rest of the defense, it is "all playing damn good football," according to the coach.

"The inside linebackers (Joe McLaughlin and Peter McCarty) are all playing great, while Phil Puopolo (middle guard) just cements down the center of the line."

While Steve Telander broke a hand in the Harvard game, John D'Amato filled in without a hitch at one of the defensive end spots. Although D'Amato has a slight tear in a muscle in his lower abdomen, MacPherson said he should play tomorrow.

The coach also lauded the play of his other defensive performers - linemen John Willis, David Bemis, and John McDonald.

"When we have a healthy squad, we can play great football," MacPherson stressed.

And now, with half the season gone by the boards, the Minutemen's mentor reflected on his team.

"Success breeds success," he philosophized. "We can't afford a letdown. We're a good football team that's got to stay well."

And if the Minutemen stay out of the hospital bed and stay on the playing field, perhaps a Yankee Conference title is not such an inconceivable thought after all.

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
open 'till 11 p.m. daily
GOOD LUCK MINUTEMEN!!
See us now about our full line of pocket-warmers, nips, and tail-gating supplies.
REFRIGERATORS ARE HERE
AVAILABLE NOW
338 College St. (Rt. 9)
Amherst 253-5384
25 6-8433 EZ Parking

HUNAN
GARDEN RESTAURANT
(Formerly South China)
家酒園南湖
Mandarin Szechuen Cuisine
* Open 7 days a week *
Mon.-Thur. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri.-Sun. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Specials
LUNCHEON $1.25 & up
DINNER $[illegible]
main course - choice of Szechuan Spiced Chicken
or
Sweet & Sour Shrimp
Dinner includes - spare rib, eggroll, chicken wing, fried rice & hot and sour soup
Mon-Wed 5:00-8:00 pm
10 Belchertown Rd.
Rt. 9, Amherst
256-0251
256-0252
Banquet Facilities

PAUL J LANDRY

LANDRY'S MARKET
The Oldest Grocery Store in Amherst
711 Main St.
Amherst
Mon.-Sat. 9-9
Sun. 10-3
You may be able to beat Landry's prices
But you can't beat the Landry's quality!
MEAT
Boneless Chuck Pot Roast 1.09 lb.
Boneless Chuck Steak 1.19 lb.
Bone-in Chuck Steak .69 lb.
Delmonico Steak 2.99 lb.
Breakfast Sausage 1.19 lb.
Slab Bacon 1.39 lb.
DELI
Pressed Ham 1.99 lb.
German Bologna 1.09 lb.
Imported Swiss Cheese 2.09 lb.
BEER
Miller's 12 oz. cans 5.95 case
1.55 6-pack
WINES
Almaden 1/2 gallons 3.79 each
711 Main St. Amherst 253-5387
On the Belchertown Bus Route
(Parking in the rear)

We give you credit

The last thing a college senior needs is another pat on the back.
As a college senior, credit-card offers, promises and congratulations come pouring in. Enjoy it while you can. Because it won't last. Out in the world, you'll have to work things out for yourself. And one of those things is life insurance.
Fidelity Union Life has a plan designed for you: the CollegeMaster®, the insurance plan chosen by more college seniors than any other.
Call the CollegeMaster Field Associate in your area:
Fidelity Union Life
RONALD J. NATHAN AGENCY
[illegible] Main St., Amherst 256-8351

The total look of love

PARISIAN

ARTCARVED

matched bridal sets for bride and groom

Fred J Houck Jeweler

65 N Pleasant St.

Amherst

Top - $20.00 & $22.00
Pants - $24.00

Create a casual duet for Fall. Slip on a 100% cotton top in natural, autumn-weight luxe weave. So outdoorsy over straight-legged corduroy pants. Very comfortable surroundings.

Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-6:00 Mon.-Sat.

FENTON'S

WHOLESALE & RETAIL

Baseball
Hockey

SOCCER
SWIMMING TENNIS TRACK
VOLLEYBALL
SQUASH
BADMINTON

Supplying the Amherst area with the finest in athletic supplies and equipment!!

TENNIS RESTRINGING
&
SKATE SHARPENING

SPORTSWEAR
JOGGING
TABLE TENNIS
LACROSSE
SOFTBALL
HANDBALL
RUGBY

377 MAIN ST. AMHERST
253-3973

Basketball Football

BLUE

Happy Hours

Fri. 3:00-6:00

2 for 1
Vodka Drinks
& PowerHouses

Sat. 3:30-7:30

John Morgan
King of Cape Cod Happy Hours

WALL

Skirt - $22.00

Combine delicate texture, gorgeous prints and the luxury of natural wool, and what do you have but this season's major fashion fabric...challis. Sleek it on in our floral print skirt with elasticized waist and come away with a rich splash of color for autumn combinations.

Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-6:00 Mon.-Sat.

University Dancers to perform at Multiband Pops concert

by Bob Davidson
Collegian Staff

The University Dancers, a performance group composed of dance students and faculty, will make a feature appearance at the third annual Multiband Pops concert on October 14, at 8:15 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall.

According to Richard Jones, director of the group, the dancers will perform two works, "Metamorphosis" and "Turn on to Mangione". Both works were choreographed by Jones.

The dancers will be accompanied in "Metamorphosis" by the UMass Percussion Ensemble, under the direction of professor Peter H. Tanner.

According to Jones, the piece is "My impression of fabric sculpture by Carol Duke and how I perceive it with the music." He added that the piece consists of basic, primitive movements.

Jones said that the Mangione piece consists of freer, flowing dance movements performed to a recording of Mangione's music.

Director of Bands John A. Jenkins said the performance will mark the first time the dance group has been a part of the Multiband Pops concert.

Professor Walter M. Chesnut will make a return appearance at the concert playing the trumpet solo in Herbert L. Clarke's "Debutante". He will be accompanied by the UMass Wind Ensemble.

The solo was originally performed by Clarke with the John Phillip Souza band at the turn of the century and is "the ultimate in cornet virtuosity," Henkins said.

Having received his bachelor of music and master of music degrees from the University of Michican, Chesnut has been active as a soloist, climical and conductor in Michigan and New England. He has appeared throughout Europe as a solist with many touring groups.

Chesnut has been a member of seven symphony orchestras and was the principal trumpet in the Springfield Symphone Orchestra from 1967 to 1973. In October 1975 he was a guest solist with the Boston Pops Orchestra playing the Haydn Trumpet Concerto in E-flat in Amherst and in Symphony Hall in Boston.

Diane Luciani, former Marching Band Feature Twirler, will twirl to the music of "Cabaret" in a special act in honor of the UMass alumni. Luciani is a former world champion baton twirler.

Other groups slated to perform at the concert include the UMass Symphony Band, the UMass Marimbas, the Jazz Workship "Big Band" and Chamber Ensemble and the Umass "Minuteman" Marching Band.

The concert is free and is slated to be a part of the Homecoming celebration.

Vegas night parts gamblers and their money-for charity

By Marianne Tenney
Collegian Staff

Are you playing with a full deck? Even if you aren't ,you will be happy to know that Alpha Phi Omega is sponsoring their thirteenth annual Las Vegas Night this Saturday. The festivities are being held on the first floor of the Campus Center and the doors will be open to the public at 7:30 pm.

The main purpose of Las Vegas night is to earn money for various charities. In the twelve yars that it has existed, $82,000 has been raised, according to APO member Steven Robinson. The money raised is divided evenly, and donated to such charities as The American Foundation for the Blind, The National Hemophilia Foundation, ABC (Amherst Better Chance), Local Council of Boy Scouts, and The National Association for Paraplegics. Last year, Las Vegas Night provided Alpha Phi Omega with $1000 to be donated. This year's goal is to earn $2000 Robinson said.

Another puroose of Las Vegas Night is to provide a "good time for all." Upon entering, $1 admission is required, and in return one recieves $5000 worth of play money. The money can then be used during the evening for gambling purposes. Blackjack, poker, roulette, dice cages, craps, and chance wheels are among the various games avaliable.

During the evening, one can also place a vote for the Royalty person. Voting will cease at 9 pm and the lucky winner will be crowned at 10:00 pm. The candidates pictures have been displayed all week in the Campus Center, and will also be displayed Satruday evening . This year's candidtes range from Sorority women, to a young dog named Pepper.

At 11pm the auction will begin. All the money that will hopefully have been won during the evening will be used to purchase merchandise at the auction.

Tickets at three for $1 or fifty cents a piece can also be bought for the raffle of a 10 speed bike. The evening's festivities will end when the raffling and auction concludes.

Unlike Las Vegas, Nevada the most you can lose is $1.

PLAN TO EAT AT

The Hideout

Pizza-Grinders-Sandwiches-Cold Drinks
103 North Pleasant Street Amherst

Hours 11:30-1 a.m. Daily
til 2:00 on Weekends

home baked breads and rolls — our specialty

LUNCHEON SPECIALS DAILY
for

Good Luck Minutemen

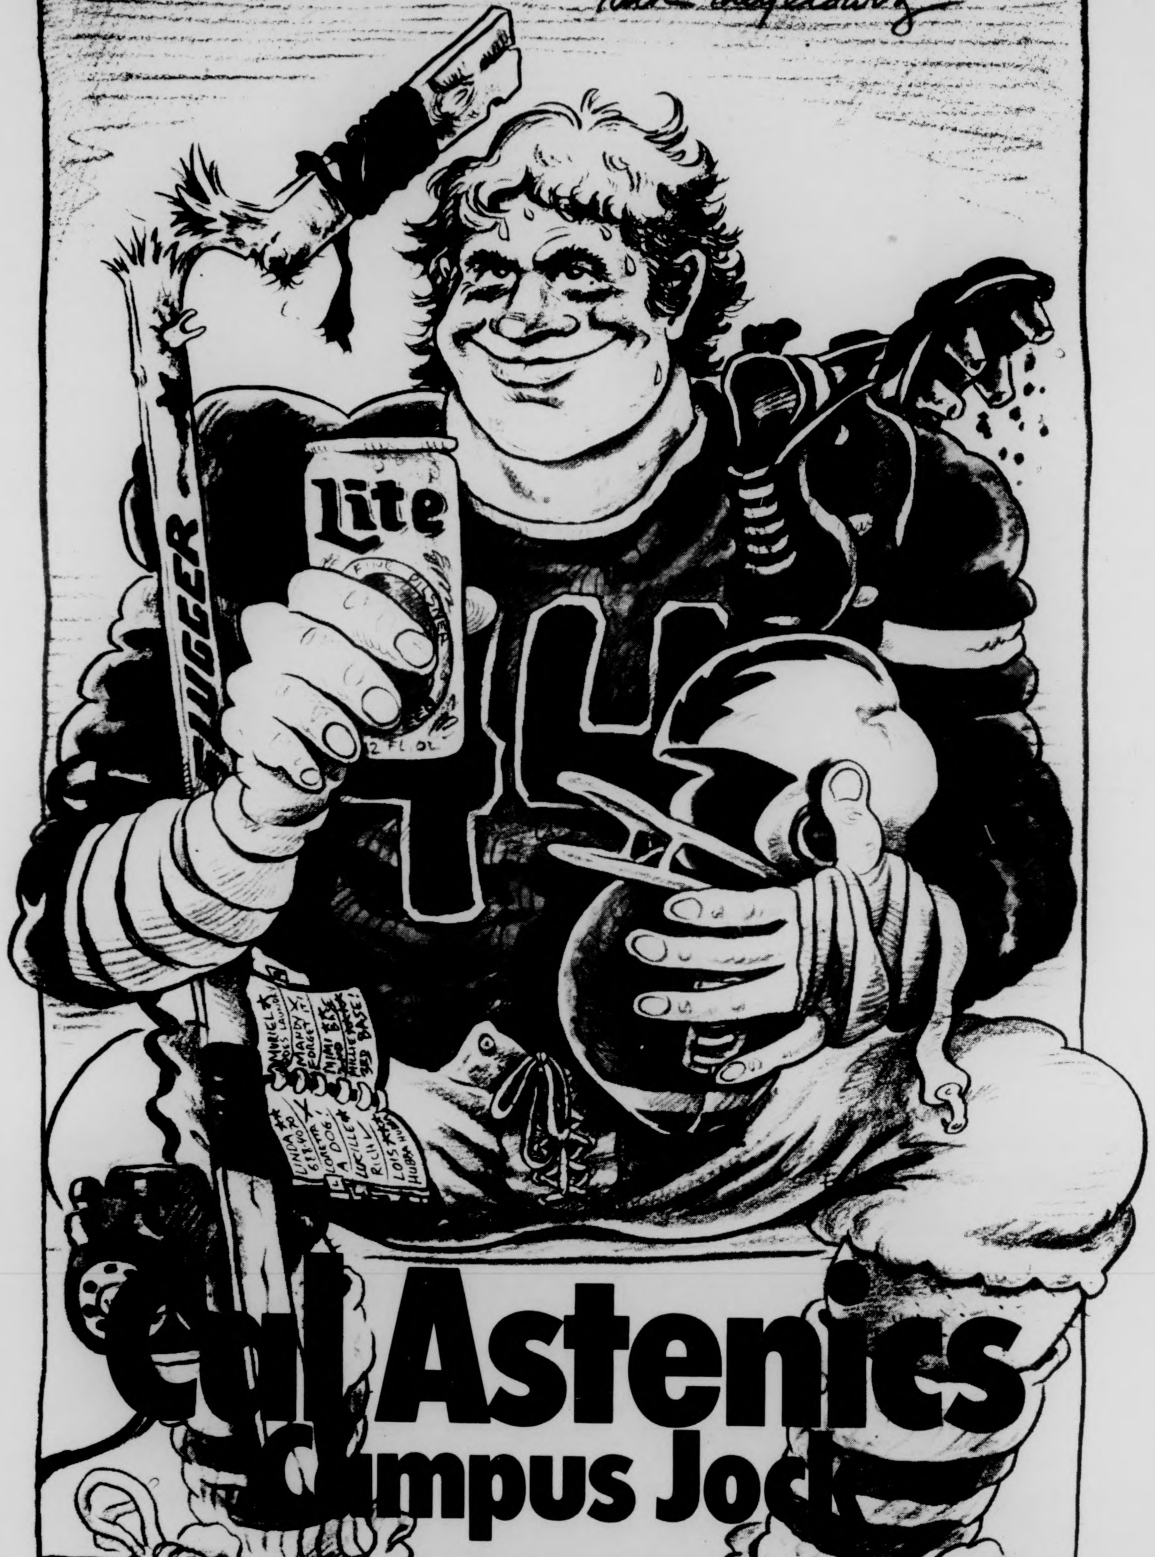
We deliver every day from 5:00 till closing, from 3:00 on Sunday.

DELIVERY SPECIALS
256-0441

Buy two small combo Pizzas & get a small pizza FREE!
10/14 - 10/16

Buy two grinders and get two sodas FREE
10/14 - 10/16

©1977 Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wis.



Thinks college is one big time-out.
Holds school record for most games played.
Once managed to drop 7 passes and 3 courses in same day.
Cal drinks Lite Beer from Miller because it's less filling.
With his schedule he can't afford to get filled up.
Today he has to be in two places at once.
Insists on playing center and quarterback.
Spends spare time going to class.

Lite® Beer from Miller.
Everything you always wanted in a beer. And less.

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 32 MONDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1977

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA. 01003 (413) 545-3500

Pro, anti-union groups talk

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

Representatives of pro-union and anti-union groups met last night in Patterson dormitory, Southwest, in a unionization workshop and agreed the present student government structure is faulty. The methods of improvement form the basis of the disagreement.

Pat O'Donnell - con

Pat O'Donnell, an originator of the Non-Unionist Students group represented the anti-union side. Susan Birmingham of the Student Organizing Project (SOP) was there supporting the pro-union side. Student Government Association Co-President Jon Hite was there to speak on both positions. Steve Ross, Patterson senator, moderated the discussion.

Both sides agreed there were problems with the present structure. "Our energies are so diffused that we can't come up with a way to affect policies," said Birmingham.

O'Donnell said the solution is, "to tinker with the structure we have now." He added "We don't need to throw the whole system out."

O'Donnell continued to say that "the problem is that the senate can't tap the block of apathetic students." O'Donnell said changes needed in the present structure included simplification of the system of recall of senators to make them more accountable. He urged the passage of "sunshine legislation" to help the senate "open up to the people."

Hite said the main problem is "we never consult people who are not into student government." The SGA co-president made two proposals to increase communication between senators and their constituencies. Hite called for the senate to table all motions for one week to allow senators to discuss the issues with their voters before voting on them.

Hite also suggested that senators get signed letters from dorm councils to prove they had met with the group.

The discussion also touched on legislation to recognize students' collective bargaining rights. Hite pointed out there is "no statute which says students can negotiate." Educational laws state the Board of Trustees has all rights to run the University. Although power can be delegated by the board to the students Hite said, "I really don't think the Board of Trustees in a simple maneuver will delegate this authority."

Birmingham responded by saying "Laws come about because they are pressed for ... people can affect decisions by working for them. The point is that we don't necessarily need formal representation to affect academic and residential quality." She cited students who have had informal negotiations with the administration in the past.

She also pointed out the efforts of the student academic council in the economics department.

The question of what students had to bargain with came up in the discussion. Birmingham suggested that student money could be put in escrow until demands were met. She called a student strike an "ultimate" resort.

Birmingham said, "participation is the key, coordination is the key. We should be one organization."

Hite said, "Unionization is an option. Non-unionization is an option. What we have now is an option. Modifications to all of these are options."

Susan Birmingham - pro

Anti-Bakke demonstration cites inequities

By MARK HORAN
Collegian Staff

The first step in a long process of pointing out the facts and implications of the Alan Bakke case of "reverse discrimination" was the purpose of a rally held Friday inside the Student Union, according to Jon Yong, an Asian-American student and member of the Anti-Bakke Decision Coalition.

The California Supreme Court upheld Bakke's claim that the University of California-Davis Medical School discriminated against him because he is white, and the case is now before the U.S. Supreme Court.

The rally, scheduled to be held outside the Student Union, was moved indoors because of inclement weather. Yong addressed the crowd of about 75 people along with three other members of the Anti-Bakke Decision Coalition, Sally Reece, Kelly Brown, and Nikuma Olinga.

Reece, Graduate Student Senate speaker, said a set back for affirmative action meant less minority doctors than the already low number in this country today.

"We have one black doctor for every 4,000 blacks, but we have one white doctor for every 700 whites," she said.

Yong charged UCal-Davis with presenting a poor case to the California courts because "they don't want affirmative action."

Yong continued that affirmative action was needed because minority students are at a disadvantage in all phases of the educational system. He pointed out that medical school aptitude tests are "culturally biased" and "made by the ruling class for the ruling class."

Yong cited a study which revealed that minority students who had already completed two years of successful medical study were found to score worse on the aptitude tests than some whites who had flunked medical study.

Kelly Brown, also a member of the Committee for the Liberation of South Africa, said the Bakke case was just part of a large number of attacks on race in this country of late.

He called the reverse discrimination concept the "cutting edge for white people" that makes them believe affirmative action threatens them. Brown called for "a mass movement to protect the gains that have been made" by minorities in this country.

Nikumah Olinga called for everyone to fight racism on this campus, citing the reported cross burning outside a Blue Wall disco last Wednesday night attended predominately by Third World students as evidence of such racism. He also announced a conference on racism scheduled for Nov. 11-12.

After some 45 minutes of speeches, Stan Kinard, coordinator of the Office of Third World Affairs, pointed out to the gathering there was a commentary in Friday's Collegian which he termed "The most racist thing he had ever read in the Collegian."

In a spur of the moment decision, the demonstrators marched through the Campus Center to confront the Collegian about the column written by Student Senator Bob Melia.

At the Collegian office, Executive Editor William Sundstrom explained the commentary was meant to be a satire of the student senate and he did not realize it would be racially offensive, although he could now see how it could be.

Much discussion was given to the possibility of a Collegian apology being published, but Editor-in-Chief Ronald J. Arena could only say it would be brought up before the Board of Editors.

Despite the explanation, demonstrators were still bothered by what they thought to be a lack of sensitivity for racism by the Collegian, and cited examples in the past they felt proved their point.

Pepper, the Wonder Dog, was a poor loser in the Royalty Person Contest held at Alpha Phi Omega's Las Vegas Night. Pepper is shown here attempting to bite the knee cap of the winner. (Staff photo by Dale Griswold)

Cross burning reports upset brass

By DOROTHY A. CLARK
Collegian Staff

UMass administrators said over the weekend they are dismayed at reports of a cross burning last Wednesday night outside a Blue Wall disco attended predominately by Third World students.

When asked what effect he felt the incident would have on the University, Dean of Students William F. Field said Saturday, "I don't know. I hope all people see it as it probably is," the work of "a couple of drunk idiots."

The cross, a metal T-frame similar to those used for display by vendors on the Campus Center concourse, was seen aflame through the large display window of the Blue Wall by several students attending the disco. It was seen burning shortly after midnight. No one was reported near the structure.

Although two Collegian staff members were notified about 45 minutes after the incident, campus police were not.

According to Paul Campbell and Earl Brown, two UMass students attending the function who went out to inspect the cross after the flames died down, the T-frame was about five-feet high with a span of about two to three feet.

Campbell said there were pieces of charred newspaper on the arms of the structure, masking tape wrapped at the intersection of the metal poles, and a charred tree branch lying at the base of the frame.

Upon inspection of the area Friday by campus police, no traces of the cross were found. The Physical Plant grounds foreman could not be reached yesterday about the possibility of the frame being removed by grounds workers.

Field said if the incident was bigger, perhaps the campus police would have been notified immediately. "The verbal statement 'cross burning,' " he said, "is much more dramatic than the act itself." Field also said he doesn't see the act as representative of a large group action.

Acting Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury, unaware of the incident until Saturday night because he was out of town, said the incident was probably the actions of one or two persons.

"There is no question on the campus that racism is a problem," Woodbury said. "Obviously, there are some people on campus that would do this type of thing."

Provost Paul L. Puryear said he also was unaware of the incident because he was out of town. "I'm very troubled by things of this kind, it takes me back to my days of the South," he said yesterday.

"I'm very disturbed that something like this would happen on our campus," Puryear said, adding that he would be able to comment further after he had obtained more information.

Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery said yesterday of last Wednesday's incident, "It didn't seem to create the concern or interest on the campus as the Hampshire incident, probably because it happened at Hampshire first." A cross was burnt outside a Hampshire College Third World party on Sept. 24.

"I'm sorry to say it doesn't surprise me," Bromery said. "We've got some people in the University community who will behave as some people out there."

Bromery said there is a "disappointingly high level of racism on campus," and "We've been rather complacent in thinking this thing couldn't happen here."

Bromery also said he feels the cross burning at UMass was committed by one or two persons. His major concer, he said, is the fact that people such as these were admitted to the University, due to "a failure in our selection system or our education process.

"Somebody may put it (the cross burning) under the guise of a prank, but I can't imagine it as a prank," he said. "It takes a certain mentality to do this.

"I don't think you ever catch an individual like this; I don't think it's that important to try." It's not just one or two persons who are guilty, he said, but also the peer group that condones this type of action. "It's the friends who surround this individual that need help also," said Bromery.

Homecoming important...Greekily

By DEBORAH GOODWIN
Collegian Staff

Bloody Mary breakfasts, cocktail parties, formals, the Float Parade, the crowning of the Royalty Queen and Las Vegas Night all within the same weekend can only mean one thing: the Greek celebration of Homecoming.

"Homecoming is not as big as it used to be on campus but with the Greeks it still is an important event. Unlike the dorms, Greek alumni have a home to come back to," said Cindy Young of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Rich Wellan of Phi Sigma Kappa said he feels the money spent on the cocktail party, banquet and formal is all worth it.

"We'll all be alumni and will want to come back and have a good time," Wellan said.

Apparently, most of the Greek area residents agreed withe Wellan, sponsoring similar activities for returning borthers and sisters.

According to Young, the Float Parade was the only traditional Greek event left in the system. Four judges from the Amherst area this year awarded Phi Sigma Kappa and Iota Gamma Upsilon "the best overall float" trophy for the theme, "Shear Energy."

The joint efforts of Delta Chi, Zeta Psi and Sigma Kappa won "the most original" float for "Ram and Eggs." The Pub was awarded "best float outside the Greek system" for their theme on Star Wars.

According to Kevin E. Woods from Phi Sigma Kappa, the parade cost between $70-80 and took 50 rolls of toilet paper and 32 hours to make the winning float which consisted of 10-foot tall football players shearing a ram, six feet tall and two feet wide near a goal post.

Chicken wire, old Collegians and toilet paper, and paint were the main ingredients used in the making of the seven floats displayed outside the stadium before Saturday's football game against the University of Rhode Island.

The crowning of Mary Kerr as Royalty Queen and the auctioning of prizes from local stores and restaurants were the highlights of Las Vegas Night, sponsored by the national service sorority, Alpha Phi Omega.

Kerr was sponsored by Phi Sigma Kappa, whose house raised about $100 according to the winner.

According to Rick Goldstein, Las Vegas Night chairman, $615 was raised for charity from the Royalty Queen competition in which 16 sororities and fraternities sponsored a candidate. With money counting as a vote, the house with the most money won the award.

According to Mark Tobin, entertainment director, over 1,800 people attended Las Vegas Night, making over $11,500 which will also be given to charities. The Campus Center donated the ground floor for the event which must be reserved five years in advance said Bob Earmest, a student from Alpha Phi Omega.

"They break their backs for us. The people are great here. No trouble at all."

In anticipation, a clarinet player awaits her lines. Could this be the beginning of another Benny Goodman? (Staff photo by Howard Labitt)

OHAG seeks loan from SGA

By JACK GRAVELL
Collegian Staff

Orchard Hill Area Government (OHAG) last night voted to seek a loan from the Undergraduate Student Senate to fund a snack bar in Field House as opposed to allocating $1,500 out of the Orchard Hill budget.

Student representatives expressed doubt concerning the need for a snack bar and also for the chances that such a venture would be financially successful.

In the first budget meeting of this year, an amendment to reallocate all funds in the Orchard Hill budget, was adopted. The amendment was sponsored by Dave Markman, coordinator of the Orchard Hill Men's Center.

This was further amended to provide for a coffeehouse fund which would contain $250. The success of the recent Grayson coffeehouse was a motivating factor for this allocation. The concept of a union of Orchard Hill musicians was suggested to be in charge of this fund.

Notice

Campus Center Board of Governor elections will be held today and tomorrow between noon and 6 p.m. in the Cape Cod Lounge in the Student Union.

amherst briefs

Town Meeting aired

Coverage of tonight's special town meeting will be carried live on WMUA 9.1 FM, beginning at 7:30. WMUA's Charlie Holmes will anchor the broadcast from the junior high school auditorium. Guest commentator will be Amherst Record reporter Nancy Newcombe.

Also, WMUA Public Affairs Director Dave Pachecho will host an hour-long live broadcast of the selectmens meeting from the junior high school beginning at 6 p.m.

WMUA took over the broadcasting job last March after the town decided not to allocate funds for cable-TV coverage of town meetings. The student-run UMass station also broadcast last May's Town Meeting.

Back-tax list held

Delinquent taxpayers owing the town over $500,000 in back real estate taxes will remain anonymous – for the time being. Amherst Town Attorney John F. Murphy Jr. has advised the board of selectmen not to publish the names of the delinquents until a similar test case in Lynn is resolved. The selectmen agreed.

In a letter to Town Manager A. Louis Hayward, Murphy said the selectmen are currently immune from liability, but state laws concerning actions by public officials are about to be changed. The new change would be retroactive to 1973, so the town could be held responsible for any actions by its officials.

Meanwhile the cities of Worcester and Adams have jumped in to become co-defendants in the Lynn case, which will be heard Oct. 27. The case is considered a test case for the entire state.

Pssst, want to meet a century-old girl?

Amherst College officials don't seem too worried over the recent disappearance of Sabrina, a 350-lb. metal statue abducted from her plexiglass case by unidentified rapscallions last week. It's not the first time.

For the past 100 years Sabrina has been the unwitting spoil(s) of an intense rivalry between odd and even year classes at Amherst. The semi-nude bronze maiden has on numerous occassions over the years vanished, only to mysteriously reappear once again.

Last week three masked men made their way into Converse hall, Sabrina's resting place since last June, bound and gagged the switchboard operator on duty, cut through the protective case, and made off with her in the back of a UHaul truck. She has not been heard from since.

"I wasn't even sure today's students were aware of the tradition," said Amherst spokesman Douglas Wilson." "It's been more or less forgotten in recent years."

Wilson, like the rest of Amherst College, has taken the incident in a stride. Old tradition says the pilferers must publicly display the statue at least once a year. Just to give the others an even shot, you understand.

—JOE MAGLITTA

---

The UMass Fine Arts Center was packed Saturday night as Benny Goodman showed that a clarinet can do some incredible things, musically. (Staff photo by Howard Labitt)

DNA backers modify proposal

By JOE MAGLITTA
Collegian Staff

Sponsors of controversial articles dealing with recombinant DNA research and safety regulation of a local gun club say they will present altered versions of their proposals at the special Town Meeting tonight.

The 240 elected Town Meeting members will begin their session at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Amherst Regional Junior High School. The meeting will be broadcast live in its entirety by WMUA.

Town Meeting Moderator William F. Field said last night he expects the meeting to last more than one night because of the nature of the issues.

Members will reconvene Wednesday night at 7:30 if tonight's debate is prolonged.

A group of petitioners, Citizens for Responsible Genetic Research, say they will ask for a voluntary seven-month ban on recombinant DNA testing at area schools. Their original petition called for an all-out ban on the testing.

Under the revised proposal, the Board of Selectmen would appoint a nine-member committee of people who have no professional interest in the research. The proposed committee would study safety and moral issues, then report to Town Meeting in May. A decision would then be made by Town Meeting.

Article 8 on the warrant, or agenda, proposes the town adopt National Rifle Association gun club safety regulations for use at the Norwottuck Fish and Game Club in South Amherst. Seymour Epstein, whose name appears on the petition to adopt the rules, said last night he will withdraw the article in favor of a Board of Selectmen's article to set up a study commission on the situation.

"The reason for the change is important. I am not supporting the new article because my original couldn't win, but because I felt it would be a conciliatory gesture. I view it as an act of good will to cool down the passions of the people involved and allow them to deal in a rational fashion," Epstein said.

Epstein, a long time feuder with the club, claims the skeet shooting range at the club poses a safety hazard for people walking in the area. He also claims the noise from the shooting is a nuisance to area residents.

Meeting members will also be asked to consider three proposals to increase the town's water supply. Article 2 calls for the allocation of $63,000 for engineering tests to determine if there is sufficent water under Lawrence Swamp to supply the town in the future.

The two other "water articles" call for the appropriation of money to study offers to buy water from Quabbin Reservoir, and the town of Hadley.

Reports earlier in the week said proponents of the security deposit trust account bylaw would approach the assembly with a ceiling price for a lawyer to oppose an unfavorable ruling against the bylaw.

Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti ruled the bylaw unenforceable September. Town Meeting will be asked whether it wants to challenge the decision in court. Vincent O'Connor, a member of the Amherst Tenants Association and backer of the article, said last night a ceiling price would not be mentioned at the meeting. The cost of using an outside attorney would be less than $4,000, he added.

An alternative to the Citizens for Responsible Genetic Research's proposal will be presented by Town Meeting member Otto Stein. Stein, a UMass botanist, will ask the assembly to adopt National Institute of Health (NIT) guidelines for all planned recombinant DNA research at UMass and Amherst College.

The NIT guidelines call for the creation of a "biohazards" committee to examine specific research proposals. Stein said one-third of the committee would be composed of lay persons chosen by the Board of Selectmen. The other two-thirds would be science professionals, he said.

Stein said, "We want a more pragmatic approach to the cases. The others are just asking for a discussion committee. We say let's get to work."

Stein said the technical nature of the issue necessitated having professional scientists on the committee.

Apples—a lighter side

By GAYLE SOPER
Collegian Staff

If you're thinking of giving an apple to your teacher for the first day of classes next year, forget it because a UMass scientist of the plant and soil sciences dept. is trying to prevent the September preharvest of apples.

According to Dr. Lyle E. Craker, experiments now going on at UMass research orchards indicate that night lights used in a certain way can prevent the apples from dropping too soon from the trees.

Craker said the process is an ongoing joint research project of GTE labs, a research subsidiary of GTE Sylvania Corporation. He and two associates have been working on the process, which he terms "night break lighting," for two.

"Hopefully, the process will be perfected in about 10 years, and night break lighting will be of practical use to growers. Craker said although he sees a lot of potential in the process, "I hate to make any claims before all the data is in."

Apples drop through a biological process called abcission, the same process that makes leaves drop in the fall. Apparently, when certain light changes associated with autumn are sensed by the plant, an enzyme goes to work in the stems. A special layer of cell shears the stem; the fruit or leaf then drops off.

A series of greenhouse experiments at GTE labs, using lights and other crops, led the plant and soil sciences dept. researchers to believe they could modify the abscission process with artificial light.

The research group started their experiments by placing red flourescent GTE lights among dwarf McIntosh trees. The apples then began to ripen early in August. After that, the red lights went on every night at midnight for 15 minutes.

Experiments were done by exposing trees to different light intensities and a control group of trees received no night-breaking lighting at all. Through September, drops were counted four different times in all areas. It was then confirmed that the lighted trees had fewer drops over an entire period.

Craker did say however, he and his associates noticed the growth rate of the apple differed according to the brand of the the fruit. He also said the quality and growth rate of the apples is the same of that which is sold commercially.

The research will continue, Craker said, with analysis of date on the effect of light, fruit quality and growth rate, plus studies of other factors.

"Presently," he said, "The process costs $12,000 in physical equipment and lights." He also said when and if the process becomes commercially available it would not be as costly to growers.

According to Craker, "Similiar research is also being done but the trees are being chemically sprayed. Night break lighting not only prevents detrimental effects to the trees, but would also benefit the consumer since concern of eating chemically treated fruits exists."

Craker has been at UMass since 1969 and before that served in the U.S. Army. He has worked with GTE labs for four years, two of which were spent on researching night break lighting.

Concerning other ideas for the future of apples Craker said he wants to, "continue present work and possibly develop night break lighting for commercial use."

UM student shoplifters arraigned

Ten UMass students were arraigned in Hampshire District Court in Northampton Friday, in connection with shoplifting charges at the University Store in the Campus Center.

Among those pleading not guilty were:

– June F. Schall, 25, of 31 Elizabeth St., Northampton; case continued until Oct. 27.

– Gregory B. Marshall, 20, of Ware; case continued until Nov. 4.

– Angelo Morales, 20, of Lawrence; case continued until Oct. 27.

– Dwayne D. Almeida, 20, of Greenfield; case continued until Oct. 27.

– Deborah A. Martins, 20, of Colonial Village, Amherst; case continued until Nov. 2.

– Susan E. Rogers, 20, of Foxboro; case continued until Nov. 2.

– Jessica Colonna, 18, of the Bronx, New York; case continued without a finding for two months with the assessment of $50 court costs.

– Richard W. Ward, Jr., 19, of Framingham; case continued for two months without a finding with the assessment of $50 court costs.

– Timothy J. Murphy, 18, of Holyoke; case continued until Oct. 27.

– Leon S. Harris, 20, of Pierpont dormitory; case continued until Nov. 2.

All were charged with larceny of less than $100. Some of the charges reportedly date back to May.

In addition, five students were summoned to court on shoplifting charges, but failed to appear.

According to security personnel at the University Store, a total of 70 students have been caught shoplifting since the beginning of the semester.

Winthrop L. Cummings, general manager of the store, said some of the shoplifitng cases are referred to the Student Attorney General's office instead of taken to district court.

Today's Staff

TODAY'S STAFF
Issue Editor Dean Chance

| | |
|---|---|
| Assistant Issue Editor | Dean Martin |
| Sports Layout | Dean Memminger |
| Editorial Layout | John Dean |
| Embezzlement Staff | Dean Allen |
| Sausage Staff | Jimmy Dean |
| Head Schlitz Tech | Dean of Beers |
| Little Know Person | Dean Dean |
| How do you score points with Anita Bryant when Treating her to supper? | Dean on Fruit Pie |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Town Meeting warrant articles

The following articles will be considered by the special Town Meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Amherst Regional junior high school auditorium. Articles marked with asterisks indicate sponsors intend to propose changes to the proposals. (See related story on page 3)

Articles 2, 3, 4, the "water articles", will try to determine some alternatives for finding an increased water supply for the town. Town Meeting will consider three separate proposals.

Article 5 asks the town to allocate additional funds for the improvement of downtown intersections. While planning and building costs are covered under federal funds from the TOPICS program, the town will be asked to pay for acquisition of a few plots of land required for the project.

Article 6 asks the town's authorization to borrow $100,000 to staff the Amherst Redevelopment Authority (ARA) until 1981. Town Meeting appropriated $1.2 million for the Boltwood-Belchertown Walk project in downtown Amherst. ARA says it will have to close down its office by Nov. 1 if the money is not allocated. The state would reimburse

TURN TO PAGE 7

Notice

Collegian staff members from all departments are urged to attend a very important staff meeting tomorrow night at 7:00 in Campus Center 168-170-172.

Homecoming Participations

Photos by Dale Griswold and Patrick Dobbs

Vance defends administration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance yesterday defended the administration against critics who contend it has tried to do too much too fast in foreign policy areas.

Vance said he still hopes for a Middle East peace conference in Geneva by the end of this year, for agreement "in the near future" on an extension of the strategic arms pact with the Soviet Union and for ratification of the proposed Panama Canal treaties early next year.

"I do not believe that we have been trying to do too much too fast," Vance said on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" program. "When we came into office we were faced with a number of problems which were of critical importance and which affected the peace of the world.

"These are problems that had to be attacked. They couldn't be left to fester. Although it would be nice to deal with fewer problems, we simply had to go forward and seize these problems."

He cited the Middle East situation, the threat of "another twist in the arms spiral" with the Soviet Union and "the possibility of racial war" in Southern Africa.

Vance rejected a suggestion the administration might be pressing to get a Middle East peace conference in the next 10 weeks merely to chalk up a foreign policy success by the end of the year.

"Before one goes to Geneva, one has to agree on the minimum essentials in terms of procedures and organization," he said. "But I think it would be tragic if we would let procedural and organization matters preclude moving to the negotiating table so we can get started on serious negotiation issues."

He said a permanent peace agreement in the Middle East is the administration's No. 1 priority in foreign policy, and cited progress toward a Geneva conference.

"First, everyone has now agreed that the way of including a Palestinian voice, which is absolutely necessary in the negotiations if we are to have a just and lasting peace, is to have them represented at the table. All parties have now agreed that this can be done by having Palestinians in a united Arab delegation. The question is now, which Palestinians."

Vance referred to the issue of whether Arabs would insist that the Palestine Liberation Organization, with whom Israel has refused to negotiate, be represented at the talks. He refused to say whether a compromise could involve low-level PLO members.

The secretary also said officials of Israel and the Arab nations "now have an increasing consensus that the way to organize it the conference is to have multilateral and bilateral working groups. Before, there was substantial division not only between Israel and the Arabs, but among the Arabs themselves. We have made good progress in narrowing the difference between the parties and between the Arabs themselves."

Monuments by Nile Delta relate to 26th Dynasty temple

CAIRO, Egypt, (UPI) — Despite well over a century of archeological research into the history of ancient Egypt, all the evidence is not yet in.

One of the most promising archeological digs in Egypt today is located at Mendes near the Nile Delta town of Mansoura, about 70 miles northeast of Cairo.

This summer marked one of the project's most successful seasons.

Researchers were first attracted to the site in 1963 by a huge 20-foot red-granite monolith and later found three others buried nearby.

"They are the largest monuments north of Cairo and completely unique," said Bernard V. Bothmar, curate of Egyptian and classical art at the Brooklyn Museum and project director for the Mendes expedition.

Besides the monoliths, which archeologists believe are part of a 26th dynasty temple honoring the ram - god of Mendes, diggers also found statues and tombs from the New Kingdom and relics from the Old Kingdom as well.

Perhaps the most spectacular find came when the Mendes team unearthed a granite sarcophagous embedded in limestone. It once held the remains of the New Kingdom Pharoah Hakoris, who lived in the 5th Century B.C.

The sarcophagous, 12 feet high and 7¼ feet wide, "was completely empty and probably robbed in antiquity," according to Dr. Edward Ochsenschlager, one of the project's co-field directors, who heads the classics department at Brooklyn College when he is not digging in Egypt.

Near the sarcophagous, part of a temple facade was revealed. In the debris of this building finely carved statues of a general and two priests were also discovered.

"The quality of the statues is quite extraordinary and the information about the late period that can be derived form their inscriptions will be very significant. These, together with the find of Hakoris' tomb, make it reasonable that the 29th dynasty arose here," Ochsenschlager said.

The reason the site received little attention until recently, is also one explanation for the significance of work now going on.

Traditionally, archeologists have ignored the Delta and concentrated their efforts on Middle and Upper Egypt where the tomb of Tutankhamen, the great pyramids of Giza and the spectacular rock-temples at the Abu Simbel are located.

Protesters against neutron bomb disrupt Carter's church service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Protestors against the neutron bomb disrupted services yesterday attended by President Carter. Some were gagged, wrestled down in the pews and thrown out of the church by ushers. Carter said later the demonstrators were "fine young people."

"I agree with their objective in eliminating nuclear weapons," the President told reporters. "I think they wer mistaken in trying to disrupt the church services.

"But the Secret Service didn't feel I was danger, and neither did I."

Five of the demonstrators, who interrupted the services with a statement opposing deployment of the neutron bomb, were arrested and taken to a police station, three of them in handcuffs.

Police Lt. Donald L. Foreit said the five were being booked for "disturbing a religious congregation."

CAIRO: Pres. Shuharto of Indonesia tours the Arab world. He arrived yesterday, and was greeted by Pres. Anwar Sadat. Bill Brock, the head of the Republican National committee, says the economy still is the biggest problem facing politicians today. Dixie Lee Ray of Washington state visited construction projects and a marine research center in Southern Taiwan.

Carter urged to fight hiring discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, told by a federal task force that discrimination in hiring is still "a pervasive phenomenon in American life," is being urged to consolidate enforcement of all federal bans against such discrimination in a single agency.

The task force, making its report as Carter prepares to send a civil rights reorganization plan to Congress, also said equal employment programs were "hampered by inadequate leadership at the top, poor management at some of the major agencies and inadequate funding.

"It should come as no surprise, therefore, that discrimination in employment on the basis of factors such as race, national origin, sex, age and handicap is still a pervasive phenomenon in American life," said the task force of the Office of Management and Budget.

Employers now must deal with 18 departments and agencies in meeting nearly 40 equal employment opportunity requirements prescribed by law, executive orders or regulations, according to a draft of the recommendation, a copy of which was obtained by The Associated Press.

If Carter adopts the recommendations, he will make a major start in consolidating the policing of of hiring discrimination in the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

But for two years, the Labor Department would continue to enforce an executive order that prohibits racial and religious discrimination in hiring, while EEOC would be responsible for age and sex discrimination.

A tentative timetable prepared by the OMB calls for Carter to submit the reorganization plan to Congress by the end of the month. The plan would be the first in a series of civil rights reorganizations the President will propose.

The draft of an option paper submitted to Carter by James T. McIntyre Jr., acting OMB director, said transfer from the Labor Department to EEOC of responsibility for enforcing the Equal Pay Act and the 1967 Age Discrimination in Employment Act would "represent the first major steps toward the ultimate goal of complete consolidation of all federal equal employment opportunity enforcement in one agency."

The draft recommendations also would abolish the Equal Employment Opportunity Coordinating Council, giving its duties to EEOC, and transfer the policing of federal hiring from the Civil Service Commission to the EEOC.

Powerful women's action creates change in Spain

Her Say News Service — The most visible change in Spain since the death of Generalissimo Francisco Franco may be the emergence of a powerful women's movement.

Prior to the civil war, and the Franco dictatorship, divorce and abortion were legal, and equal education was available to all women.

Pacific New Service (PNS) said following Franco's emergence to power Spanish laws were enacted which subjected the nation's 20 million women to conditions which could only be described as medieval.

PNS said women in Spain are not allowed to keep money they earn, or purchase, own, or sell property or valuables in their own names.

Adultery is a crime applicable to women only. A woman may be imprisoned and fined on the exclusive testimony of her husband, PNS said. A man can only be charged with living out of wedlock, and then, only when witnesses other than his wife can catch him in the act.

Throughout Spain, all forms of birth control and birth control information are strictly forbidden. Any woman accused of using birth control pills as a contraceptive faces up to six years in prison and a stiff fine.

Doctors who perform abortions, said PNS, are subject to life-imprisonment. As a result, the news service said, more than 500,000 Spanish abortions are done illegally each year, often by unscrupulous profiteers.

With the death of Franco, times are changing, said PNS.

Through a disciplined central communications network which embraces women from both left and right political spectrums, some 40,000 Spanish women recently took to the streets to protest the sentencing of Maria Angeles Munoz to six months in prison for adultery earlier this year.

Said one Munoz demonstrator: "We could never fight for our own rights under the dictatorship, because it was all we could do to keep up the fight for liberties that affected everyone. But now it's our turn and we're ready for it."

Peloton's Pre-Season XC Ski Sale

Oct 24 to Nov 12

FISCHER, BONNA, ASNE, wax and no wax packages.
Down clothing, winter accessories- ski rentals

OPEN THURSDAY NIGHTS

Peloton

549-6904
1 E Pleasant St. Amherst

584-1016
15 State St. Northampton

Germans refuse hijackers deal

DUBAI, United Arab Emirates (AP) — The West German government yesterday refused to release 11 imprisoned anarchists to ransom 87 hostages on a hijacked jet and a kidnaped businessman. But the hijackers failed to carry out their threat to blow up the plane.

The Lufthansa jet left Dubai 40 minutes before the 8 a.m. EDT ransom deadline, and air controllers here said it landed about 4 hours later in Aden, South Yemen. It was the fifth stop for the Boeing 737 since the four hijackers commandeered the Majorca-to-Frankfurt flight over Europe Thursday.

There were no immediate reports on the situation from the South Yemen capital. Overseas operators were unable to place calls to the country at the southern tip of the Arabian peninsula.

Nor was there word on the fate of West German industrialist Hanns Martin Schleyer, threatened with death by his German kidnapers unless the Bonn government met the hijackers' demands by a Sunday morning deadline.

An official spokesman in Bonn said the West German government was pursuing "all realistic possibilities" to free the hostages, who include a California woman said to be running short of medication for a heart condition, and her 5-year-old son.

During 54 hours of negotiations here, the hijackers refused an offer by Dubai officials to exchange themselves for the 82 passengers.

The hijackers, armed with pistols and plastic explosives, forced authorities to refuel the plane by threatening to execute the hostages one by one starting with the pilot.

Before leaving here, the hijack leader, who identified himself as Capt. Shahid Mahmoud, radioed the control tower that he was "holding the West German government responsible for whatever happens to the hostages following its failure to meet our demands."

Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and top German officials met throughout the weekend in Bonn. A spokesman said Schmidt got support for his position from British and French leaders.

Officials in Bonn believe the hijacking was carried out to pressure the German government into meeting demands by the Red Army Faction RAF terrorists who abducted Schleyer in Cologne six weeks ago and are holding him at an undisclosed location. The kidnapers sought the release of 11 comrades.

HARRINGTON LAKE, Quebec: Premier Rene Levesque, Premier Peter Lougheed Alberts (L) and Mrs. Frank Moores, wife of Newfoundland Premier, talk with Queen Elizabeth about the Quebec government's committment to separate Quebec from the rest of Canada.

Trudeau holds lunch for Canadian premiers

UPI — Queen Elizabeth, showing up a few minutes late from a train excursion, met with Canada's 10 premiers and their wives at lunch yesterday including Quebec's secessionist Rene Levesque, who kept puffing a cigarette during their meeting.

The luncheon was held at Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's country residence, and Trudeau was waiting on the porch when Levesque's limousine pulled up, flying the Quebec Fleur de Lis flag.

Levesque traded asides with reporters as he climbed the porch steps. Did he have anything to say before meeting the Queen? "No. I am too hungry. I'm eager to eat," he replied.

The premier then failed to notice the waiting Trudeau and walked right by the prime minister.

"You could at least say hello," Trudeau said. A chagrined Levesque spun on his heel, shook hands and offered a belated greeting.

The two then went into the house to await the Queen, who arrived from her 25-mile steamtrain ride saying, "We're late, but we enjoyed it."

Levesque appeared to be the only one smoking as the Queen entered the living room and he continued to puff away as she moved toward him.

He snatched a final puff instants before they were introduced and held the butt behind his back as they shook hands. During their conversation, Levesque continued to take discreet puffs, blowing the smoke downward like an adolescent who did not want to be caught in the act.

The chain-smoking leader of the secessionist Parti Quebecois had said at a news conference weeks ago he would use the lunch to brief her majesty on the Quebec situation, if she asked.

Yemenis arrest several in Chief-of-State murder

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — The North Yemeni government has arrested several persons in connection with the assassination of chief of state Col. Ibrahim Al-Hamadi, including several of the slain president's top aides, the newspaper Al Ahram said in today's edition.

The detained persons include Abdullah Himran, the president's "special representative;" Capt. Abdullah Al-Shamsi, his secretary for military affairs; Capt. Mansour Hussein, commander of military police, and Social Affairs Minister Abdel Salam Mokbel, the newspaper said.

Al Ahram did not say what connection those arrested had with the killing, but said Al-Hamadi was gunned down last Tuesday as he was attending a dinner party thrown by a "personality whose name has not been disclosed."

Al-Hamadi's brother, Lt. Col. Abdullah, commander of the army's shock troops, and Maj. Ali Zahra, commander of army reservist forces, were killed along with the president.

Al Ahram's story contradicted an official statement issued by the North Yemeni government Sunday, as well as an earlier story published by Al Ahram itself on Friday.

The official statement, the first to detail the circumstances of the assassination, said Al-Hamadi was killed as he was "relaxing" with his brother at the latter's home.

★ C.A.O.S. ★

Counseling Assistance for Older Students is looking for an undergraduate or graduate student to fill the position of Accountant. Salary will be paid through work-study at UMass. Interest in older students and willingness to take responsibility required. Ten (10) hours of work per weekminimum. Strong background in accounting principles essential.

Applications being accepted now through October 19, 1977. Call C.A.O.S. at 545-0057 or come into 207 Hasbrook between 9:00 and 5:00.

We are an Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action employer.

★ ★

In 1968 I fought in the streets of Chicago at the Democratic National Convention.

In 1969 I participated with the SDS in occupying the Administration Building at the University of Chicago.

But, since I met Jesus Christ, I know that

God loves the people

Daniel at 253-5716

The Marines are coming.

to tell the student body of

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
(AMHERST)

about some unusual career opportunities available to men and women—while they stay in school and after they graduate. Marine Corps career programs—in data processing, telecommunications, avionics, finance, and business management, to name just a few—are among the best offered in or out of the military. Find out all the facts, when we visit your çampus:

18 & 19 OCTOBER, 1977
10 a.m. TO 2 p.m.
HAMPSHIRE HOUSE

Danskin....... leotards, short and long sleeved..... tank tops.....
tights.....
all in several colors and sizes......

at Discount prices!!

in the clothing shop at the UNIVERSITY STORE campus center/univ of mass/amherst

TUNE-UP SPECIAL

| 4 cyl. | 6 cyl. | 8 cyl. |
|---|---|---|
| $29.95 | $34.95 | $39.95 |

TUNE-UP:
- replacement of plugs, points and condenser
- adjustment of timing & carburetor
- checking distributor cap & rotor, wire, filters and emission systems

North Amherst Motors, Inc.
Automotive Service, Autobody Repair, Towing and Used Car Sales
40 Montague Rd., No. Amherst, Mass. 549-2880
Just above No. Amherst Center on Rte. 63

Mathematics and language majors...

WHAT'S AN NSA CAREER?

Take the PQT and find out.

If you are receiving a degree in mathematics or in a foreign language before September 1978, a career with the National Security Agency could begin with a training program in one of several different career fields. That's why the Professional Qualification Test is so helpful in identifying the NSA field where your aptitude is strongest.

You must register by November 5 in order to take the PQT on campus—it will not be given again during the school year. By scoring well on this test, you will qualify for an employment interview. During the interview, an NSA representative will discuss the role you might play in furthering this country's communications security or in producing vital foreign intelligence information.

The PQT helps to measure your aptitude for career areas such as:

LANGUAGES—Foreign languages are valuable tools for research, analysis, and documentation projects. Advanced training in language (perhaps a new language) can be expected.

COMMUNICATIONS—Developing and testing logical designs for global communications is a unique pursuit. It follows that your training programs in this area will be both extensive and esoteric.

PROGRAMMING—Our vast communications analysis projects could not be effectively managed without the latest computer hardware/software and people who know how to use them.

PICK UP A PQT BULLETIN at your college placement office. It contains a registration form which you must mail prior to November 5 in order to take the test on November 19.

Electronic Engineering, Computer Science, Slavic, Mid-Eastern and Asian language majors and Mathematics majors at the Masters level may interview without taking the PQT.

U.S. Citizenship is required.

NATIONAL SECURITY AGENCY
Attn: M321
Fort George G. Meade, Maryland 20755
An Equal Opportunity Employer m/f.

Crosby wanted private service

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bing Crosby, who died of a heart attack in Spain Friday, will have a private "family" service in keeping with his wishes with few if any of his friends and superstars of show business on hand to pay last respects.

It was expected, however, that the funeral might draw a large public crowd for the performer who was so well known and beloved.

Crosby's body was scheduled to arrive on a TWA plane in Los Angeles after a stopover in New York on the flight from Madrid around 10 p.m. PDT Monday with a "low mass" to be held Tuesday afternoon at St. Paul The Apostle Church in Westwood.

The 73-year-old Crosby, a devout Catholic, was to be buried in a family plot at Holy Cross Cemetery near his mother and father and his former wife, actress Dixie Lee, who died in 1952.

A family spokesman noted that Mrs. Kathy Crosby, the singer's second wife, had asked for privacy at the funeral and indicated only the Crosby children, herself and a few close family friends would attend.

There had been an outpouring of tribute over the weekend from the top names in show business but it was not expected they would come to the church for the service with the possible exception of very close friends like Bob Hope.

Crosby's son Harry, 19, was accompanying the body back to the United States. The U.S. embassy in Madrid said the body was being embalmed Sunday at the Forensic Institute.

Meany snubs union women

Her Say News Service — If you wonder why there are few women union leaders, here's a clue.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, during a recent news conference, was asked if he would welcome the idea of women in the construction trades.

Said the former Bronx plumber, "Yes, as long as I'm no longer working in the construction trades."

Meany said there are certain jobs in the construction trades a woman could do, but many he would "hesitate to assign a woman to."

★ Articles

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

the town for the money, but the town would have to pay interest charges.

✱Article 7 asks Town Meeting to decide whether to challenge a recent state Attorney General's ruling against a security deposit trust account bylaw passed at last May's Town Meeting.

✱Article 8 asks for the regulation of a skeet shooting range at the Norwottuck Fish and Game Club in South Amherst.

Article 9 asks for a study committee on the above article. The article was placed on the warrant by the Board of Selectmen.

Article 10 asks that professional office buildings, parking lots, and parking garages be ruled inappropriate land uses in areas zoned for general residences.

Article 11 would make an area zoned for general residence part of a downtown area currently zoned for business. Expansion of the business area would involve one house.

Article 12 would transfer improperly allocated funds from the town's surplus revenue account into the teachers payroll reserve account. Because of a mistake in the wording of a motion passed by Town Meeting last May, the funds were at that time placed into the surplus revenue account. The new article asks Town Meeting to put the funds back in the school account.

Article 13 asks Town Meeting to put $10,000 for the purchase of land or options into the Conservation Commission account. The funds were given to the town by the state for "self help".

✱Article 14 asks Town Meeting to place a moratorium on recombinant DNA research at area colleges and universities.

Article 15 asks Town Meeting to rescind the creation of a community access cable committee it voted to create in 1975.

Around New England

Science building destroyed by fire

KINGSTON, R.I. (UPI) — University of Rhode Island officials estimated yesterday it would cost $1 million to replace a science complex destroyed by fire Saturday, wiping out the experiments of many soil and plant researchers.

Nobody was hurt in the blaze, but several professors said their entire life's work went up in smoke.

"How do you start over again?" said D. Thomas Duff, 45, an associate professor of plant and soil sciences whose 25 years of study were reduced to ashes," the ideas are still here but now the numbers are gone. Sure, I can still teach a class, but it's going to be nowhere near the quality presentation it was."

Duff was among a grim group of instructors and graduate students who watched about 75 volunteer firemen battle 50-foot flames laced with poison fumes from burning insecticides.

Fire officials said the cause of the cause of the fire, which was reported at about 6 a.m., is undetermined.

Assistant Professor J. Lincoln Pearson said he expected "tremendous" smoke damage to the many rare and newly developed plants in 14 greenhouses near the burned-out building.

The greenhouses, famous for spectatular twice-a-year flower shows, were covered with sooty residue.

Tough drug laws legislated in Maine

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — Gov. James B. Longley says he'll ask January's Legislative session to pass the toughest drug trafficking laws in the United States.

"I think there should be very severe penalties and I'm not sure I would veto a bill for a life sentence," Longley said Saturday in a broadcast interview.

He said present penalties — up to one year for marijuana dealing and up to ten years for hard drugs — aren't sufficient deterrents.

"We have to make sure that penalties fit the crime," he said. "We have to make sure Maine has the toughest in the country."

Attorney General Joseph E. Brennan's office is drafting legislation that would increase penalties for dealing large quantities of pot from the present one year to up to five years. "Certainly up to one year in jail isn't a deterrent," he said.

Brennan said he favors keeping the penalty for possession of small quantities of marijuana a misdemeanor.

Longley said increased police protection would not solve the problem of drug trafficking. "The answer is not always more people and more money," he said. Referring to current drug laws, he said: "The pendulum has swung too far. Now I hope it's coming back to the middle."

House chairman of the Judiciary Committee that drew up the criminal laws now in effect, Rep. Richard Spenser, D-Standish, said there may have to be revisions of part of the code.

Residents oppose hydroelectric dam

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — A recent poll commissioned by a longtime opposer of the Dickey-Lincoln hydroelectric dam project showed Maine residents oppose the project by 40 to 38 per cent, with 22 per cent undecided.

Last May a survey indicated Maine residents favored the $800 million project by a 3-2 margin.

The Cambridge Research Survey poll was commissioned by L.L. Bean of Freeport, who has publicly opposed the dam construction and has supported efforts by the state Natural Resources Council to organize opposition.

Council executive director Chris Herter called the results "significant new evidence" Maine people are convinced the dams' potential harm far exceeds benefits of increased electricity supply.

Senate prohibits procurement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New conflict of interest legislation just passed by the Senate will reduce the temptation for government contracting officials to favor or "go easy" on certain companies for which they later hope to work, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said yesterday.

"The new conflict of interest provisions under this bill will prohibit a government procurement official from taking a job for two years with any company he has personally been involved with in awarding a contract," said Proxmire, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee.

"Each year hundreds of federal procurement officials leave government and take high paying jobs with companies that have received contracts from these same officials. Last year for the Pentagon alone, over 300 high level civilian and military officials left for work with defense contractors. Many of these were involved in the procurement process."

Proxmire said the bill passed by the Senate Oct. 11 "should reduce the temptation for a federal procurement official to 'go easy' on a contractor or 'look the other way' in enforcing the government's interests simply because he might one day go to work for the firm."

Similar legislation has been passed by the House on two occasions, and the Senate passage is likely to ensure congressional passage of the measure.

Samples may show Legionnaires disease

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — Blood samples from seven Maine residents have been forwarded to the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta for testing of suspected Legionnaires disease, state epidemiologist Dr. William Nerserian said Sunday.

The seven suspected cases surfaced in Maine during the past ten days. One of the cases being investigated reportedly involves a patient at Eastern Maine Medical Center in Bangor who died.

Nerserian told UPI "there is nothing new and there are no more cases of Legionnaires disease now in the state than there were two years ago."

He said it is becoming routine for blood samples to be sent to Atlanta and he doesn't think the problem is serious. He said the Atlanta lab "is flooded with thousands of cases," but doctors are trying to rule out the disease.

Dr. Bernhof A. Dahl, chief pathologist at Eastern Maine Medical Center, said he would not be surprised if a case from Maine was confirmed. Test results are due back in seven to ten days.

"This thing has been around for ten years," Dahl said in an interview with the Maine Telegram, yesterday. "It's very difficult however to identify it by its symptomatology." Nersesian said he agreed with Dahl. He said "people should realize the cases of Legionnaires Disease have been with us much longer than the outbreak at Philadelphia. We know there were outbreaks in Michigan, there are a number of cases in Tennessee now, and there was an outbreak in 1965 in the District of Columbia."

He said the disease was a form of pneumonia which researchers still haven't pinned down. He said there had been some breakthroughs in treatment arrived at during intensive research over the past 15 months.

Nerserian said six blood samples were sent to Atlanta by the state public health laboratory and the Bangor hospital sent samples of the person who died.

Dahl said the death at EMMC is a highly questionable incident. "From the autopsy I would say the paitent in question died from something other than Legionnaire Disease. But I could be wrong."

---

"Hey, what day is it?"

"It's Election Day!"

VOTE TODAY AND TOMORROW

for CAMPUS CENTER BOARD OF GOVERNORS

12-6 p.m.

Polling Places

COMMUTERS and GREEKS—Cape Cod Lounge
ORCHARD HILL and CENTRAL DORMS—Franklin D.C.
SYLVAN and NORTHEAST DORMS—Worcester D.C.
SOUTHWEST:
Washington, J.A., J.Q.A., Mackimmie, Patterson, Moore, Pierpont, and Cance—BERKSHIRE D.C.
Coolidge, J.F.K., Crampton, Thoreau, Melville, James, Emerson—HAMPSHIRE D.C.

Student Government Association

Finast SUPERMARKETS
October porkfest AT THE FINAST!
MEAT STREET U.S.A.

Center Cut Pork Chops $1.29 lb.
Fresh Sauerkraut 2 lb. pkg. 39¢
Assorted Equal Amts. Center & End Pork Chops $1.09 lb.
Fresh Blade Bone In Pork Steak $1.09 lb.
Country Style Pork Ribs $1.09 lb.

Pork Loin Pork Roasts 89¢ lb.
Rib End Portion
Loin End Portion 99¢ lb.
Loin Half 1.19 lb. Pork Loin Roast Rib Half $1.09 lb.
Boneless Top Loin Pork Loin $1.59 lb.
Fresh Pork Lean & Meaty Spareribs 99¢ lb.

Fresh Whole Boston Butts 89¢ lb.
Bone-In Extra Lean
Boneless 99¢ lb.
Freirich Smoked Pork Shoulders 89¢ lb.
Finast Sliced Bacon 1 lb. pkg. 99¢
Freirich Flat Cut Corned Beef $1.29 lb.

Shank Portion Fresh Ham 99¢ lb.
Butt Portion 1.09 lb.
Center Cut Steak, Roast 1.39 lb.
Boneless U.S.D.A. Choice Stew Beef $1.29 lb.
Boneless Beef U.S.D.A. Choice Chuck Roast $1.19 lb.
Boneless Beef Underblade Chuck Steak $1.39 lb.

BEER & WINE
Falstaff Beer case of 24 12 oz. cans case only $4.99
Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer case of 24 12 oz. cans 5.59
Reunite Lambrusco 24 oz. bot. 1.89
Folonari Wines 67 oz. bot. 3.69
Available Only in Finast of Hadley

Ivory Personal Soap 8 3½ oz. bars 97¢

BONUS BARAINS
Tetley Tea Bags pkg. of 100 1.49
Libby's Peaches Yellow Cling Sli., Hlv. 2 29oz. cans 1.00
Dinty Moore Beef Stew 40oz. can 1.19
Hormel SPAM Luncheon Meat 7 oz. can 59¢
Heinz Tomato Ketchup 26oz. bot. 79¢
Finast Baby Oil 16oz. bot. 69¢
Fresh Green Limes 6 for 49¢
Gwaltney Boneless Ham lb. 1.99
Boneless Pork Chops lb. 1.79
Little Link Sausage Parks 8 oz. pkg. 85¢
Rich's Turkey Franks 1 lb. pkg. 89¢
Filet Mignon Whole Untrimmed Avg. Wt. 5-7 lbs. lb. 2.49

PRODUCE
FIRST O'THE FRESH
Honeydews Large Melons 6 count 89¢ ea.
New Yellow Onions 3 lb. bag 49¢
Green Cucumbers Long 8 for 1.00
Fresh Cranberries 1 lb. bag 39¢

"NATIONAL APPLE MONTH"
U.S. Fancy 2¼ inch minimum
Fresh Apples McIntosh, Cortland, Red & Golden Delicious Your Choice 19¢ lb.
Fresh Broccoli California Large Bunch bch. 59¢ ea.

Mr. Deli Favorites!
Roast Beef Cooked Under U.S. Gov't. Specification $1.99 lb.
Baked Ham Virginia Style Freshly Sliced $1.99 lb.
Available only in Stores with Service Deli Depts.
Mr. Deli
In-Store Bake Shop Features!
Fresh Cake Donuts Plain, Sugar Cinnamon doz 69¢
Assorted Iced Layer Cakes ea 1.99
Available only in Stores with In-Store Bake Shops

Smucker's Grape Jelly 3 lb. jar 97¢
Grocery Values at Finast!
Peas or Corn Libby's 4 16oz. cans 99¢
Libby's Cut Beets 4 16oz. cans 99¢
Green Beans Libby's Reg. Cut 3 16oz. cans 99¢
Libby's Sauerkraut 3 16oz. cans 99¢
Finast Saltines 16oz. pkg. 45¢
Finast Peanut Butter 18oz. jar 69¢
Cranberry Juice Finast quart bot. 49¢
Friend's Pea Beans 28oz. can 69¢

Banquet Dinners 2 11 oz. pkgs. Frozen 88¢
Finast Frozen Food Values!
Orange Juice TreeSweet 12oz. can 69¢
Finast Frozen Peas 24oz. pkg. 69¢
Finast Spinach Leaf or Chopped 4 10oz. pkgs. 89¢
John's Homestyle Pizza 12oz. pkg. 69¢
French Fries Finast Regular or Crinkle Cut 4 9 oz. pkgs. 89¢
Cooked Shrimp Highliner 6 oz. pkg. 1.09
HoJo Toasties Corn or Blueberry 7½ oz. pkg 49¢
Sealtest Ice Cream ½ gal. carton 1.49

DAIRY VALUES
Hood's Yogurt Swiss Style 3 8 oz. ctns. 89¢
Cottage Cheese Sealtest Light N' Lively 16oz. cont. 69¢
Finast Margarine Premium 1 lb. pkg. 39¢
Sour Cream Breakstone 16oz. cont 69¢
Finast Biscuits Buttermilk 7 8 oz. pkgs. 1.00
Swiss Miss Pudding pkg. of 4 79¢
Baby Edam Cheese Finast 7 oz. pkg. 89¢
Choc-O-Riffic Hood's gallon plas. jug 99¢

YOU SAVE 36¢ Parkay Margarine Quarters 1 lb. pkg. 39¢ with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products. Valid October 16-22, 1977. Limit one coupon. M-703

YOU SAVE 51¢ Finast Ice Cream All Flavors ½ gal. carton 88¢
with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products. Valid October 16-22, 1977. Limit one coupon. M-673

YOU SAVE 28¢ Grapefruit Juice Ocean Spray qt. bot. 29¢
with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products. Valid October 16-22, 1977. Limit one coupon. M-672

20¢ OFF on 1 dozen White or Brown Finast Large Eggs with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products. Limit one coupon per dozen eggs. Valid October 16-22, 1977. M-671

Prices effective Sunday October 16 thru Saturday October 22, 1977.
We reserve the right to limit quantities.
Not responsible for typographical errors.

from our perspective

Local cross burnings serve as ugly reminders

The cross burning that took place in front of the Blue Wall last Wednesday night can be viewed only with regret and disgust. It makes all the progress we have made in combatting racism on campus seem futile.

Considering this is the second such incident in this area in the last month, one must wonder if the cross burnings are indicative of growing racial tensions. The northern U.S., now being desegregated after years of browbeating the South on the issue, has been the sight of the most recent racial incidents in this country. South Boston's Carson Beach is an example. In this academic community there have always been scattered racial incidents, but on the whole we have managed to deal with racial problems rationally and there certainly has never been anything recently so symbolic of racial hatred as cross burining. Everyone must wonder if there is a group, however large or small, that is trying to disrupt what we are all striving to achieve; a sense of racial equality and harmony that respects the rights and cultures of every human being.

We should not, however, get upset about the cross burning to the extent that the real problems underlying such instances are forgotten. The institutions that educate us, that inform us and that control us economically should be the targets of our concern. It will be truly impossible to prevent racist acts if we do not change the racial bias in these institutions first. Let's hope that instead of impeding our progress towards these goals, incidents such as the cross burnings will remind us that we have a long way to go and give us the incentive to try to get there.

All unsigned editorials represent the opinion of a majority of the Collegian Board of Editors.

Apology to readers

In reference to Bob Melia's column of last Friday, Oct. 14, I would like to express my sincere apology to all people who were insulted or upset by the article's appearance in the paper, particularly Third World people, for the way in which the publication of the column was handled. While I still firmly believe that Melia's intentions were actually to satirize the Student Senate and not to make light of a serious racial situation, it is obvious that this intention was not made clear to many readers. However, as the editor in charge of the editorial pages I must claim complete responsibility for the printing of the column and for not screening it with the Collegian's Black Affairs staff, which is the normal procedure for dealing with articles of a racial nature. Any people with questions, criticisms or comments should feel free to write a letter to the editor or give me a call at the Collegian, 545-3500.

Sincerely,
William Sundstrom
Executive Editor

"CONGRATULATIONS! YOU'VE JUST WON GRAND PRIZE IN OUR SUPER BIG CASH LUCKY SWEEPSTAKES!"

"...WHICH SHOULD ALMOST COVER THESE GROCERIES..."

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Joseph A. Quinlan, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Richard J. Pioli, Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Fifine D. Ball, Women's Coordinator.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

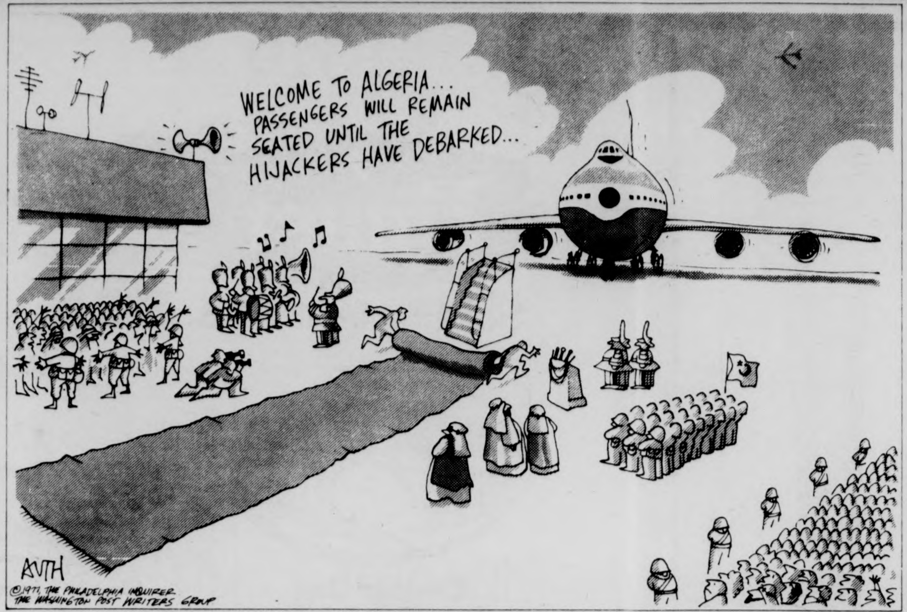
The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.



WELCOME TO ALGERIA... PASSENGERS WILL REMAIN SEATED UNTIL THE HIJACKERS HAVE DEBARKED...
AUTH

©1977, THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP

The Ten Commandments updated

paul yanowitch

"And the times, they are a changing." This remarkable line from Bob Dylan, the latter day Saint, is representative of modern society. It seems that our society changes rapidly, if one examines it in a historical perspective. Old ideals and morals once held as sacred by our fathers and their forefathers have lost their sacrosanct place in our society. Social experimentation, once urged in vain by the late great Oliver Wendell Holmes, has almost become a way of life. This trend to change and alter the superstructure in our society has caused, I believe, subtle changes in the very foundations of our patterns of thought.

Some attempt to pass this trend off as a malignancy known as liberalism, and contend that if this disease continues to sweep the country, we are doomed. These forecasters of despair and destruction, using as evidence events culled from our long legacy, warn that unless we come to a realization, an epiphany, and "return to reality," or in the words of another great statesman, "return to normalcy," we shall pass as did Sodom and Gomorrah (though actually, they had more fun), and the Edsel.

As I previously implied, I believe this trend is a mere manifestation of the changing social climate, which in turn reflects the subtle changes — which have occurred in our fundamental beliefs. The manifestation is in the changed morals and mores; and if this is correct (as it must be since I have herein stated it as a law), than perhaps it is time to update, in a formal sense, the conservative basis of our society. We must ensure that our basis tenets and precepts are in concept with our new found beliefs.

We perform this serious surgery on our penultimate sacred document, the Constitution, through the amendment process. But what is the ultimate document that established our moral code and mode of thinking? The Bible; so in keeping with the trash I have herein written, I shall endeavor to update the Ten Commandments, so as to reflect the changed times as observed through changed institutions. That is, I shall rely on institutions which reflect our thinking, such as the Supreme Court and the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. I shall also endeavor to observe the self imposed requirement of impartiality. Apologies to Tom Lehrer.

The Ten Commandments,
According to Saint Paul

And God spake all the words, saying, I am the Lord thy God who have brought thee out of the land of George III, out of the house of bondage (the Lord's a little kinky), into the land of wine and roses, and the house of Tricky Dick.

I. Thou shalt have no other Gods besides: Johnny Carson, Elvis Presley, McDonalds, Tom Snyder and the Kennedy family.

II. Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven images, unless I get a percentage, and Charlton Heston plays ME in the movie. Thou shalt not make me in likeness to Anita Bryant, Garner Ted Armstrong, Billy Graham or any other shyster. Further, thou shalt not make any images of me with a long white beard; I shave, too.

III. Thou shalt not take the name of the UNION, the Lord thy God, in vain, for he-she not be held guiltless in mine eyes: ye names shall be placed on little 3x5 index cards and be declared a sinner and heathen. (this is the Joe MacCarthy Memorial commandment.)

IV. Thou shalt remember the Union communion, and keep it Holy. Six days shalt thou waste thy time on wine, women (men) and song, and other perverse pleasures and on the seventh night, ye shall cram.

V. Thou shalt honor thy mother and father, thy step-parents, thy divorced parents, thy lovers of thy parents, and find a nice rest home when they become senile old twits.

VI. Thou shalt not kill, unless one leaves all buildings standing, or unless the killee is of a different race, creed or culture.

VII. Thou shalt not commit adultery; one must be content to lust in one's heart.

VIII. Thou shalt not steal, except in blackouts. (By statutory interpretation, overdrafts are not stealing.)

IX. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor, unless thou art breaking commandments number VII and-or X. (legal loophole here: as long as the person is not your neighbor, you should be able to bear false witness!!!!)

X. Thou shalt not covet they neighbor's wife, and to keep up with recent Court rulings, thy neighbor, thy neighbor's daughter if she is under 16, thy neighbor's domestic animals or thy neighbor's whips and chains. (Coveting thy neighbor's possessions is also taboo, but covered under commandment VIII.)

There are those who will bleat that I have purposefully designed these to ensure that my past sins will be covered; this is false — I have never committed adultery. There are those who will also challenge my authenticity as a saint: someday I'll tell you the two miracles I've performed: the first was living with myself for 20 years.

Paul Yanowitch's column appears every Monday in the Collegian.

American racism rages on

lisa melilli

It was a hot summer and there were a lot of people hanging around Balzac Park off North and Main in Bridgeport by midday. They hung off the fountains, the blacks and whites calling names at each other, spitting at each other. They were separate armies of all ages gang-warring. And this isn't ten years ago I'm talking about, but this summer.

And I didn't leave the war by leaving the park. No, it was everywhere in Bridgeport, even in the newspaper office where I worked this summer. One black woman was pressing charges of discrimination against the paper because for the past five years she had been working there, all she had been doing was obituaries, the lowest job for a reporter, while she watched less educated, less intelligent, less competent, less tenured people than she rising to cover important beats in the city. And the heat was on between her and the managing editor the whole summer.

Well,I was sick of these wars and couldn't wait to get back to the "more aware" UMass community.

But I, along with everyone else in the Valley, was in for a surprise from the events of this semester, which show that we just aren't as cool as we think. Clearly the recent cross-burnings, last week in front of the Bluewall and last month on the Hampshire College campus, show that we are still prejudiced, still racist, still pigs, still with the problem of racial misunderstanding blazing in front of us, and we clearly aren't doing much about it. We're only lying to ourselves when we say UMass is a progressive community.

And this lying is going on all around us in this country. Just what was going on in the streets of Bridgeport this summer is part of the proof. And this kind of lying to ourselves has been going on as long as I can remember.

Right near my grandmother's store in downtown Bridgeport there was a corner restaurant shaped like a triangle when I was very young. I was fascinated with the place. Once I asked my mother and grandmother why we couldn't go there for supper one night. But they said we couldn't since they didn't serve people like us here — only blacks. Well, Bridgeport isn't in the South, but in Connecticut and this didn't happen long ago, but in the early sixties.

And I remember the streets of Bridgeport broken up in 1968 with people busting into store windows. My parents explained to me that this was a way these people were trying to break out of the paradox that while they were equal to us — just the same, just as good — not too many other people treated them that way.

Historians and social critics said that the broken store windows showed advancement, that the blacks were finally doing something. But is wasn't like that because most people in Bridgeport said they could not quite understand why what happened in Bridgeport that summer night did happen. Again there was this case of portraying more advancement than in fact there was.

And I remember 1970 flipping through LIFE, a special issue on the sixties, and reading a headline saying how black became beautiful in the sixties. They said it was part of the revolution.

But all I could think of was this unwritten rule in my hometown, Trumbull (a suburb of Bridgeport), which said that blacks just couldn't live there. It was true. I didn't go to school with any black kids. You didn't see blacks around anywhere in Trumbull. And there were these unofficial contracts between neighbors that they's never sell their homes to black families. That wasn't saying that blacks were beautiful.

But then a black family did move in a couple of blocks down from my house when I was in second grade, and I remember how some kids went and threw stones at their house and broke all the windows in front. They weren't saying black was beautiful for sure. What was LIFE talking about, I wondered?

Yes, what is this life about when here we are faced with a great social concern — racism — inequality — and we say we're making progress but we're not? Worse is that we're lying to ourselves and it's so much easier to do that. We're not facing up to the fact that we're failing, failing miserably. And when you lie to yourself, you can't truly progress because you don't know where to work up from.

And here we are, a university, an educational institution where everyone is preparing for their future, for their life. And the situation is even worse. Here we're burning crosses. Here we're burning ourselves with lies, lies, lies even worse than out there in the "world." That's getting nowhere fast — in fact, it's getting further behind ourselves.

But this can change if we would just be realistic about the situation. The cross-burnings show exactly where we are. So let's put the issue straight in front of us and begin dealing realistically with it. Let's stop fooling ourselves. And after that, let's start educating our minds and learn that the problem begins with our competitive system, worsened further by racial class stereotypes. And with that realization, perhaps we'll be able to break down those ingrained myths. Perhaps we'll be able to sincerely be "aware". Perhaps we'll be able to sincerely have and show respect. Perhaps we'll more realistically criticize ourselves and our society and so really begin to improve it.

Lisa Melilli's column appears every Monday in the Collegian.

> Clearly the recent cross burnings... show that we are still prejudiced, still racist, still pigs, still with the problem of racial misunderstanding blazing in front of us, and we clearly aren't doing much about it.

Research vehicle broken into

To the Editor:

The Regional Office of the Division of Water Pollution Control has five vehicles for seven field personnel. Normally by switching meeting dates and otherwise coordinating our schedules this situation has not handicapped us to any great degree.

However, we are now short three vehicles as of Thursday morning, October 6, 1977 and we have been crippled. No it wasn't an accident nor did the vehicle die of old age (it's close though).

What happened? Well it was necessary to leave the vehicle adjacent to Draper Hall overnight as has often been done in the past nine years. The vehicle was locked, the windows closed.

Apparently some sport with his alimentary canal in backwards came out of the Blue Wall and wanted to have some childish fun, having had his childish quota of two beers without getting sick. The side window was forced and a fire extinguisher stolen along with the vehicle's credit cards.

The fire extinguisher was found by the UMass police in "F" lot after little Johnny or Joey had playfully emptied it. The credit cards have not been found.

The vehicle has been grounded by the Central Office until such time as Boston can issue new cards. This could be by the first of January.

So, if little Johnny or Joey happens to "find" these cards after his wild night at the Blue Wall it would be greatly appreciated if he would place them in an envelope and return them to the Western Region, Division of Water Pollution Control, Draper Hall, Campus.

We are requesting this so that we can get the vehicle back on the road and do what we consider valuable work in the controlling of water pollution in some 131 municipalities in this half of the State.

William Doubleday,
Regional Engineer
Mass. Division of Water Pollution Control

Motorcyclists request parking

An open letter to the university and its population:

The Motorcycle Co-op is deeply concerned over motorcycles being towed from behind the Campus Center. This area, which is not marked "No Parking" or "Tow Zone", has been traditionally used by bikers for several reasons.

1) Our bikes are safe from accidentally being knocked over by cars, as will happen in a regular parking lot.

2) The area is well lit at night and enough bikes are there to prevent the theft of the isolated bike.

3) The access leading to the parking area is wide enough to accommodate a motorcycle without interferring with pedestrian traffice, unlike some of the specified "bike lots".

4) It is an area central to the University commuter life.

5) Parking behind the C.C. helps to alleviate the already crowded car lots.

We of the Motorcycle Co-op feel that this area should be returned to its de facto usage and formally made into an area designed for motorcycle parking.

The Motorcycle Co-op

Perceptions of Peoria

To the Editor:

When I lived in Peoria, I never saw any of old Luke's rabbit traps, and aside from the family recipe for pumpkin pie, we didn't pay much attention to the harvest. The self-satisfied amber waves of Mark Wilding's fantasies are somewhat obscured in Peoria by the bulldozer factories and the penetrating miasma emanating from the Pabst brewery and the various distilleries. Maybe the Paris correspondant never heard any of the old vaudeville stories about hard-nosed, kick-ass towns; maybe he never listened to Richard Pryor talking about the kind of ghetto that sifts down from Chicago and Detroit. Not that I'm bragging. But if Mr. Wilding wants to write about parochial characteristics of the "ugly American", he ought to start right in his own back yard. How about a humorous piece about the stereotypical "ugly New Englander" who makes ignorant and pompous assumptions about other sections of his own country? Peoria may not be Paris; but it's not Dogpatch, either.

Anna Kirwan

PIRG portrayal out of proportion

To the Editor:

It is my belief that the record of MassPIRG in the areas of consumer work, environmental planning and health has been exemplary. Our organization serves both to push for public involvement on these and other issues and to provide practical experience for student volunteers. It is therefore very disturbing to find us characterized as an "elitist clique of consumerist vanguardist snobs", as Mr. Jim Paulin has seen fit to do. Mr. Paulin's reaction to PIRG's handling of the reception for Ralph Nader is, in part, justified; it seems that we may have handled that poorly. I think it relatively obvious, however, that everyone makes mistakes and Mr. Paulin's abusive response is entirely out of proportion to the magnitude of our mistake. Given PIRG's record it hardly seems reasonable to call us "assholes".

Kenneth Van Lente Ward
Executive Committee,
Board of Directors,
Massachusetts Public
Interest Research Group

Apology demanded from comedian

To the Editor:

Who was that idiot that opened the George Benson concert? Who does he think he is? Has the humor of this society degenerated to dehumanization of minority races?

Asians in America have long endured immense racial attacks. Historically, the Chinese Exclusion Act of 1882, the incarceration of Japanese-Americans, and the current Young-Chin "Hirohito" case are a few brief examples. The detrimental effects of white racism are not just results of visible oppression, but also of the subliminal attacks on our mentality. How can a man develop his full potential under demoralizing self-images such as an apologetic, submissive Charlie Chan, a fucked-up villain like Fu Manchu, or one of millions of subhuman Yellow Hordes? How can a woman grow under an image of "China-doll" Susie Wong? Just this morning I received a nice little message under my name on my dorm door: "How the fuck do you pronounce this GOOK' name?"

Racial attacks of any kind have to stop. They have to stop NOW! There is no room in this society for propagation and reinforcement of demeaning stereotypes especially by some half-assed entertainer! Robert Shaw, as an Asian, I DEMAND an apology!

Kuo-Pi Chao

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Excutive Editor, c-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. the day preceding that date.

What's Happening

TODAY

LECTURES

— Student Union Gallery presents Lecture-Slide show 8 p.m. Campus Center 101. Reception will follow.

— Dr. Lincoln Brower to speak on Rivers, 7 p.m. Campus Center 163. Also two movies he has made. Questions and answer period to follow.

— Department of German, Heinrich von Kleist 1777-1811 Bicentennial Lecture, Ilse Graham, U. of London King's College, "The Captive Vision, Heinrich von Kleist," History 6th floor lounge.

MOVIES

— "Rendezvous With Freedom," Thompson 104, 8 p.m. Free.

— "Black Star," Gay autobiography at Franklin Paterson Hall 8 p.m.

WORKSHOPS

Physical Fitness Workshop, "Fall into Fitness," 7-9 p.m. University Health Services 302. Register by calling 549-2671 x 181.

SEMINARS

Aspects of pre-history in Ecuador, by Dr. John R. Cole of Hartwick College.

TOMORROW

COURSES

Dostoevsky, eight week course, to cover Brothers Karaeuazov: lecture reports and discussions. Meet Tuesdays 7:30-9:30 p.m.

MOVIES

— "Blood of the Condor," Thompson 106 at 8 p.m. Free!

— "Network," Campus Center Aud. 7, 9, and 11 p.m.

LECTURES

Lucille Grindhammer, member of the language faculty at the U. of Hamburg (Germany), will lecture on "The German Women's Movement Today: An Historical Perspective," 3 p.m. Archives Conference Room, Neilson Library, Smith College. Open to the public free.

TEAMS

The Bicycle Club is forming a racing team, if interested come to the meeting Campus Center 911.

WORKSHOP

Video Workshop, Jones Library, Youth Council 4 p.m. Amherst Youth Center.

DAILY

SENIOR PORTRAITS

Make your appointments to have pictures taken, call 545-2874 or go to room 811 Campus Center.

Middle East expect to speak

Uri Ra'anan, considered to be one of the leading authorities on Middle East Politics, will speak today at 4 p.m. in Campus Center 904-908 on "Israel: Developments Internal and External."

Ra'anan, an American citizen and professor of international politics as well as chairperson of the International Security Studies Program at Tufts University, received his undergraduate and graduate degrees from Oxford University, Great Britain. Before entering academic life, Ra'anan spent seven years in international diplomacy including posts as Consul, United Nations Delegation Spokesman, and Counselor of Embassy. He also spent seven years in political journalism.

Ra'anan has been invited to deliver papers both in the United States and abroad. At the present, Uri Ra'anan is an Associate of the Russian Research Center, Harvard University; an affiliate of the Center for International Studies, M.I.T.; and a member of the Editorial Board of Orbis magazine.

Ra'anan will speak on "The Superpowers and the Middle East" today at 8 p.m. in the Wright Hall Common Room of Smith College. Both lectures are free and open to the public.

Uri Ra'anan

Documentary tonight on American Jewry

The 1972 ABC Documentary, "Rendezvous with Freedom," will be shown today at 8 p.m. in Thompson 104. The The film traces the development of American Jewry, beginning with the arrival of the first Jewish settler in New Amsterdam in 1645. Filmed in Holland and Germany, as well as throughout the United States, "Rendezvous with Freedom" begins with the Spanish Inquisition and follows the persecuted Jews in their flight from Spain and Portugal to refuge in the Netherlands. The immigration of Dutch, Germans and Eastern European Jews to America is shown, as well as how Jews contributed to and participated in the major historical events of their new nation: the Revolutionary War, the Civil War and the two world wars.

Directed by Marc Siegel, the overall richness of factual and visual detail of the film is enhanced by narration, readings and songs by Zero Mostel, Sam Jaffe, Marian Seldes and George Segal.

The film is sponsored by the B'nai and B'rith Hillel Foundation, and the public is welcome to attend.

Men's Center reopens

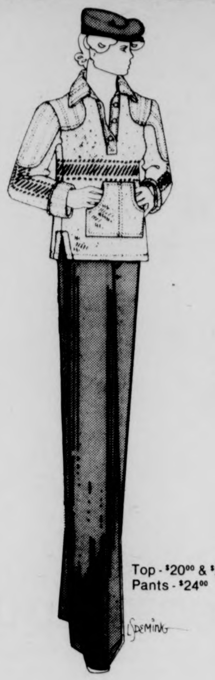
The Southwest Men's Center is open again, continuing its involvement with men's issues and helping men free themselves from the oppressive roles played on them by our society.

The center offeres films and books for loan and workshops, colloquiums, peer counselling and the opportunity to form a men's support group. Volunteers are needed to help staff the office, work on the center's newsletter, and show films.

Everyone is invited to stop by the office noon - 5 p.m. weekdays in office No. 3, J.F. Kennedy lobby, Southwest Residential College, or call 545-0263.



Top - $20^{00}$ & $22^{00}
Pants - $24^{00}

Create a casual duet for Fall. Slip on a 100% cotton top in natural, autumn-weight luxe weave. So outdoorsy over straight-legged corduroy pants. Very comfortable surroundings.

Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-6:00 Mon.-Sat.

ATTENTION !

Collegian Staff

There will be a mandatory

STAFF MEETING

for all staff

Tuesday, October 18

at 7:00 p.m. in

Campus Center 168 - 170 - 172

BE THERE !

SCHMARTS vs. BRAINS

Make use of your useless knowledge in the Schmidt's Trivia Contest.

There are two kinds of intelligence. There's the kind that will make you famous, respected and a model to little children everywhere.

And there's Schmarts.

Well, the humanitarians at Schmidt's think your fun facts should do you some good, too. Ergo, the Contest.

Here's your chance to impress your friends, have more fun than you should on a week night, and maybe even win prizes.

So get ready for The Big One. You'll find all the details at your local pub, saloon or watering hole.

There's no purchase necessary.

Just skill.

Schmidt's
The beer that might make Philadelphia famous.

C SCHMIDT & SONS, INC , PHILA , PA

John Willenbecher's "sea"

One-man exhibition at University Gallery

Artist John Willenbecher's sculpture, of a one-man exhibition at the University Gallery beginning tomorrow and ending Nov. 13. Featured in the show is a large sculptural work, "SEA." Composed of thirty tetrahedrons, 55" on each side, "SEA" has only previously been exhibited at Willenbecher's one-man show two years ago at the Everson Museum of Art in Syracuse, New York.

Willenbecher's exquisitely crafted panels, drawings on paper, paintings on masonite, and constructions are done in constant grays, whites, and blacks. The technique used in most of his works involves the application of five or six thick coats of white gesso, plus a very thin coat of gray paint. By sanding through the gray layer, Willenbecher creates an effect of celestial nebulae, and by scoring the surface, makes precise patterns and mazes. Other elements of his constructions are plaster-dipped drapery evoking a sense of the Neo-Classical, and spheres, cones and other solids.

Willenbecher, who studied art history before he became an artist, studied at Brown University in Providence, R.I., and the Institute of Fine Arts at New York University.

Upcoming Exhibition

From Nov. 20 to Dec. 18, the University Gallery will host an exhibition of the work of art faculty from Amherst, Hampshire, Mount Holyoke and Smith colleges. Representing more than 20 artists, this large show marks the first collaboration of the five colleges on an art exhibition.

The University Gallery in the Fine Arts Center is open Tuesday, 11:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesday — Friday 11:30 a.m. 4:30 p.m., Saturday and Sunday 2 p.m. - 5 p.m.

Campus Carousel

By TONY GRANITE
Special to the Collegian

FROM THOSE WONDERFUL KIDS who give us The Knight humor (?) magazine at Clarkson College (Potsdam, NY) comes a "How-To-Do-It-Yourself" series that includes "How to Separate the Bra from the Broad", "Abortions Made Easy" and "How to Buy the Proper Condom from the Friendly Lady at the Corner Drug Store."

The latest (Spring 1977) edition at this predominantly male campus instructs "How to Pick Up A Girl." In brief, it recommends "establish(ing) a firm grasp on a choice location (maximums glutimus)...attack! Try not to loose (sic) it if she's heavier than you expected...get out before her brother or boyfriend shows up" and carry her to your pad.

----

FAREWELL, LIZZIE BORDEN is the title of a non-credit continuing ed course at Indiana U. The course, is eight hours, intends to interpret and analyze the circumstances and personalities involved in the 1890 ax murder.

----

ALSO FROM BLOOMINGTON, INDIANA comes the intelligence that the University recently put a little color into its toilets by purchasing 80,000 rolls of tissue. While Central Stores saved almost $2,000 in making the colorful purchase, they are faced with environmentalists' complaints that the paper is not as biodegradable as the white stuff, because of the dyes used.

Every color has its price. We read about it in the Indiana Daily Student.

----

HORSE MANEUVER is the title of a column written by Steve Russo in the Western Conn. State Echo.

----

THE PILL is being sold to women students at UConn this fall by the campus dispencary. And during a three to four months trial period, possible adverse side effects will be monitored.

----

FENCERS POKE IN MANY PLACES is the headline appearing in a recent University of Washington Daily. The lead reads: "For those who like poking around where they shouldn't be, there is a competitive club on campus that pokes on an organized level."

If you find this irresistible, write the Collegian for details.

QUALITY DOWN VESTS
Don Gleason's has the best quality down vests in the area. Filled with PRIME NORTHERN GOOSE DOWN with colorful rip stop nylon outers Assorted colors. XS thru XL.
ONLY $29.95
ALSO VISIT US TO BROWSE THRU OUR VAST SELECTION OF OUTDOOR CLOTHING FOR FALL AND WINTER.
Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
Weekdays 9-5:30
Saturday 9-5:00

DELIVERANCE
Wed Oct 19
Campus Center Aud.
$1
7:00 9:00 11:00

MOUNTAIN FARMS FOUR 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 - HADLEY MASS.
Adults $2.50 – Students with AMC Card $2.00 – Children $1.25 – Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded
① The real story of why President Lincoln was killed. The Lincoln Conspiracy G Mon. Thurs. at 6:30,8:45; Twiliter 6:00
② A long time ago in a galaxy far far away STAR WARS PG Mon. Thurs. at 6:00,8:30; Twiliter 5:30
③ JAMES BOND 007 THE SPY WHO LOVED ME ROGER MOORE PG Mon. Thurs. at 6:00,8:30; Twiliter 5:30
④ THE BAD NEWS Bears in BREAKING TRAINING PG Mon. Thurs. at 6:30,8:45; Twiliter 6:00
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI LITE SHOW TICKETS LIMITED TO SEATING

Notices

ACCOUNTING ASSOCIATION AND BAP
On October 25, members will have an opportunity to visit Ernst & Ernst, in Hartford, Conn. Check bulletin board in SBA for more info.

CHI OMEGA
All University women are invited to a "Chopping Block" hairstyling demonstration, 7:30 p.m. at Chi Omega Sorority. For more info call 545-2092.

COALITION FOR ALTERNATIVE AGRICULTURE AND SELF SUFFICIENCY
Important meeting 7 p.m. Campus Center 169.

COMPANION PROGRAM
Wanted Big Brother-Big Sister, interested? If you have three hours a week to be a friend to an Elementary or Jr. High aged child call 253-2591.

FOOD SCIENCE AND NUTRITION CLUB
Make your own sundaes at the meeting 7:30 p.m. Campus Center 168. Open to all students and it's free!

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
Sisterhood meeting 7 p.m. Campus Center 808 also pledge meeting 8:15 p.m.

HAM RADIO CLUB
CQ DX de W1PUO meeting Tuesday 7:30 p.m. in the Shack, 109 E. lab.

HILLEL
"Rendevous with Freedom," will be shown at 8 p.m. in Thompson 104 free, open to the public.

LESBIAN UNION
Meeting 3:30 p.m. Campus Center 923. All interested women welcome.

NAVIGATORS
Practical training in Evangelism to help get the Word out. Learn why, how and what to share, RSO mailbox 465 or call 549-5893.

PHOTO CO-OP
Meeting and office elections on Thursday 10-20, 7 p.m. Campus Center 805-809, all members please attend.

PHYSICAL THERAPY
Meeting Wednesday 10-19 NOPE 153. All interested are invited.

PRE-DENT CLUB
Dr. Trowbridge of UPenn. Dental will speak 6:30 p.m. Campus Center 804 Wednesday 10-19. Also Dr. Shiere and Dr. Fogels of Tufts Dental will speak on Thursday 10-20 Campus Center 174 6:30 p.m.

OUTING CLUB
Meeting 7 p.m. Campus Center 163-164. Guest speaker at 8 p.m. Dr. Lincoln Brower talking about rivers.

SPORTING GOODS CO-OP
Organizational meeting at 2:30 p.m. Campus Center 805-809. Anyone with good ideas is welcome.

STUDENT CONSUMER AFFAIRS COUNCIL
Invites interested student to join them for dessert and coffee at 7 p.m. Skinner Lounge. Bring your creative ideas.

STUDENT VIDEO PROJECT
Meeting 3:30 p.m. in SVP office rm. 409, SUB. All members are encouraged to attend.

UNITED CHRISTIAN FEDERATION
Infirmary visitors in-service training 3 p.m. at 428 Student Union.

UMASS VOLLEY BALL CLUB
Meeting 6 p.m. Boyden Gym. New members welcome!

WASHINGTON LOWER HOUSE
Talent needed for "Vaudeville Night," on Saturday, 10-22. If interested contact Judy Toll, 413 Washington or 546-8975.

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
LAZAR BERMAN
Legendary Soviet Pianist

"The Phenomenon of the Music World", Emil Gilels
Wednesday, October 26 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale Gen. Pub.-$7, 6, 5. UM-A-$3.50, 3, 2.50. Others students and senior citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

SUPPORT GROUP
for OLDER STUDENTS now forming
It will be held on Tuesday afternoons from 3-5 p.m.
For more information call:
Counselling Assistance
for OlderStudents
at 545-0057

The rusty nail Inn
presents
TONITE, MON., OCT. 17
L & M and the SOUL DRIVERS
TUES., OCT. 18
TOM WAITS
also Travis Shook and the Club Wow
WED., OCT. 19
GEORGE & GREGORY BAND
THURS., OCT. 20
FAT
FRI., OCT. 21
THE BRICKER BAND
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel.665-4937

UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL
PRESENTS:

"SHOWCASE I"
Featuring
THE COOPER-DODGE BAND
at the HATCH
Tues, Oct. 18 8:00pm
Wed, Oct. 19 ONLY $1.50

JAZZ at UMASS
Featuring
WOODY SHAW
Oct 28 S.U.B. $2.00

HALLOWEEN NIGHT
"WE'RE HAVIN' A PARTY
with
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION
S.U.B. Mon. Oct. 31 $2.00

JAZZ CONTINUES
with Bobby Hutchinson
Nov. 19 S.U.B. FREE

---

IOTA GAMMA UPSILON

invites all university women to OPEN RUSH
406 N. Pleasant Street

Monday Oct. 17 Sundae Night 7-8 pm
Thursday Oct. 20 Pub Night 8-9 pm
Monday Oct. 24 Fondue Night 7-8 pm

for rides and info call 546-0082

Come for the food, come for the beer,
come meet the sisters of IGU.

CORRECTION TO "REGULATIONS & POLICIES" PUBLICATION

Page 4 – Commonwealth Scholar's Program (Honors Program):

Students must have completed one full semester in residence at the University, one Honors course, and have a minimum average of 3.2 (NOT 3.0) to be eligible for admission into the Honors Program.

It should also be noted that Commonwealth Scholars are at present encouraged rather than required to complete Departmental Honors Programs as well as normal Commonwealth Scholar's requirements.

Provost's Office

OFFICIAL NFL FOOTBALL RAFFLE
½ mile past Watroba's on right
MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL
MIKE'S
10 oz. DRAUGHTS 25¢
BEER & DOG 50¢
EXTRA LONG DOGS 35¢
60 oz. PITCHER $1.50
STEELERS vs. BENGALS

Sam Cunningham (39) runs into the teeth of the San Diego defense, and falls a foot short of a touchdown. (UPI)

Pats charge past SD

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Sam Cunningham romped for 142 yards on 25 carries and tight end Don Hasselbeck caught two short-range touchdown passes from Steve Grogan yesterday as the New England Patriots defeated the San Diego Chargers 24-20.

Hasselbeck's second TD catch of four yards came late in the final period to seal the New England win. The clinching touchdown came when the Patriots' Tony McGee fell on a fumble at the San Diego 6-yard line.

New England's Ike Forte put the Patriots in front to stay with 4:30 left in the third period as he bolted outside tackle for a 7-yard score. John Smith tacked on a 28-yard field goal in the fourth quarter to give the Patriots, now 3-2, a 17-13 lead. A late San Diego touchdown pass of 16 yards from backup quarterback Bill Munson to Charlie Joiner cut New England's lead to 24-20 but the Patriots ran out the remaining 1:45 to preserve the win.

San Diego, also 3-2, grabbed a 13-7 third quarter lead on a 1-yard TD run by Rickey Young. New England scored on its first possession, marching 55 yards in 11 plays, with Hasselbeck grabbing a 1-yard TD pass from Grogan.

MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL
at
POOR RICHARDS
Happy Hour Prices All Night
— FREE HOT DOGS —
GIANT 8 FT. TV SCREEN
Rt. 9, Amherst

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

73 Fiat A 1 $1,100. 256-8226.

1970 Triumph GT6+. Excellent condition, no rust. $850. or Best Offer 549-5057.

1970 VW Bug, exc. cond., rebuilt eng. $1,000. or B.O. Call 253-3278 Barb.

1969 Chevy Impala, 7 tires. $125. Call 584-4570.

70 Ford LTD. Good cond. $850. 562-4727.

68 Galaxy 500 Ford. $700. 527-5746.

144S Volvo 72 89,000mi. $1,600. Excel. mech. 256-8322.

68 Chevy Belair. $150. or Best Offer. 6-5855.

68 Galaxy 500 Ford. $600. 546-4856.

Mercedes 220Sb good running, fall sticker, new tires and second car for spare. $1,000. 549-3934.

Porsche 911. Tangerine, 1966, 22,000mi. on new eng. & trans. No structural rust. $1,300. Call 549-6696 Bill. Keep trying.

'68 VW Bug, VG Rebuilt engine, cond. body fair, $200. or B.O. Call 772-0672 Anytime.

66 Volvo 122S. Gooid mechanical condition. 130,000 miles. Frame needs work. Call 256-8467. Keep Trying.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

71 VW SQBK. $770. or B.O. 545-0811 Jack.

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

76 550 Honda. $1,100. 774-3422 or 562-4727.

1974 Honda MT 250 Elsnore. 3500 mi. Exc. Cond. $600. 253-9583.

FOR SALE

Fender Bass-Music Master. Excel. cond., also Arthur E. Smith Maple Leaf 5-string Banjo. Excel. Cond. Best offer on both. Call Brian at 549-3796.

Bacpack and frame $40., Down-bag $75., SVEA Stove $20., Glacier tent $45. 256-6610.

Moped Motobecane. Almost brand new. $325. Call 253-5594 Ask for Bill.

Bike Rack, Filing Cabinet, Rec. Chair 549-5725

Piano-IVER + POND Great cond. 736-0278.

2VW Tires. B F Goodrich. 1000mi. $40.00 247-9407.

Infinity Qa spkrs. New w/ transferable warrantee. $215. Call 546-4132.

SAVE up to 50%on TENNIS SHOES! Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18.-30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181

Ref. Dorm size, exc. cond. $50. 534-5413.

Olin Mark III Skiis (170's). Never been used. $150. or Best Offer. Call 665-4963 evenings.

Single Bed, good cond. $20. 253-9848.

Fully restored 140yr. old farmhouse. 1 acre, wood burning stove, barn, two bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen, bath. Taxes $95. $29,900. No brokers please! 665-3560.

FOR RENT

1Br. in 2Br.#28Millhollow Apt., Summer St., Amherst. $102/Mo. util. inc. Alan 549-1517.

HELP WANTED

Babysitter - warm resp. girl one night a week for three girls. 253-3149 256-0577.

Experienced Waitresses. Apply Poor Richards 11 to 1p.m. daily.

Addressers Wanted Immediately! Work at home -- no experience necessary -- excellent pay. Write American Service, 8350 Park Lane, Suite 269, Dallas, Tx 75231,

ROOM WANTED

Quiet undergraduate male seeks room in quiet house to hang his hat and study for spring semester, possibly January and for next two years, including summers. Willing to pay for own bath and kitchen, or easy access to them. Will live anywhere in area. Please call 545-3503 Mon. nites and ask for Joe or leave message for rm. 209 - 50724.

LOST

Missing red leather Wallet. Please turn in at lost and found.

Lost Meal Book. Please help me. Lost in Southwest Wed. No reward, just sentimental value. 6-9882.

Green Knapsack with camera. Lst. near Fernald. Reward 617-367-0007.

Missing since Aug. 30 from Brandywine: 3 yr. old female cat. Dark Angora, mostly gray, black&tan w/ green eyes, flea collar. If you have her or any info please call Jan, 549-3633 or 549-6000 X533.

T.I.SR-40 Calculator. Somewhere in or between Goes. 152 and Bluewall on Sept. 28 after 8p.m. Desperately need it for doing my assignments! Please return - Reward and No Questions asked. 256-6059.

FOUND

Found-Young. Female tortoise-shell cat, near Whitmore lot. Green eyes, friendly. Please call 5-0333.

AUDIO

Used Receivers. Speakers Call 546-4034.

Turntable Pioneer PL11ZD. $50. list $100. Only 4 mos. old. Call Marc, 6-4353.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low price & full service. All models avail. T159-$225., 58-$99.95, 51-$49.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. Models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators. 549-1316.

TRAVEL

Hot Air Balloon flights $75 Intro lesson. Bring a friend $55 each Terry 253-3834.

SERVICES

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models, low prices. Jack 586-0610.

For A Good Layer Cake: Custom made & beautifully decorated birthday etc. Cakes on 2 days notice. Right on campus, (not associated with Campus Ed Service). Laurie 546-9576.

Expert Typing. only 40cents/page. Call after 6, Mon.-Thurs., 256-8484.

Collegiate research papers. Thousands on file. All academic subjects. Send $1. for mail order catalog. Box25918-Z, Los Angeles, Calif. 90025 (213) 477-8474.

Expert Typing. Mary Beth eves. 586-1206.

PERSONALS

Happy Birthday to Sarah, Love Tom.

For the girl in 803 D-1 McNamara. I'm not avoiding you. I like you a lot Ah, Chah, Chah, Chah, Guess Who.

Vote Mark Curelop for Campus Center Board of Governors on Mon. and Tues. Oct. 17 and 18 from 12-6p.m. at respective DC's.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Sports Calendar

SATURDAY'S RESULTS
VARSITY FOOTBALL — UMass 37, Rhode Island 6
VARSITY SOCCER — Rhode Island 1, Mass 0
MEN's CROSS COUNTRY —
VARSITY VOLLEYBALL — UMass second in tri-meet
JUNIOR VARSITY VOLLEYBALL — UMass first in tri-meet VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY — Postponed

★Aerial circus

CONT. FROM PAGE 20

concurred that the first Cummings catch was the turning point of the game.

"We had them fourth and long, we should have been able to stop them, but Mass picked us apart in desperation," said Griffin. "It was a beautiful pass and a great play."

The next time Fallon found Cummings was late in the first half with time running out. It was a five-yard pass and gave UMass a commanding 27-6 halftime lead.

"I just ran a simple tight end delay," said Cummings, recalling his second TD reception on the afternoon. "Mike waited for me to hit a couple of people and then get open over the middle. The offensive line gave Mike the time to wait for me and he made a nice pass."

The scoring duo connected again in the third period on another sprint-out pattern. "He'd told me to look for him," said Fallon, whose four touchdown passes increased his output to 10 for the season. "He's the secondary receiver on that play, but both times he was open."

Fallon's first touchdown toss had given the Minutemen an early lead. He hit reserve running back and punter John Romboli with a short seven-yard toss over the middle.

"Finally," said Romboli who had been inserted into the backfield for that specific play. "That's the first time I've scored since Holy Cross two years ago."

Another Minuteman who won't forget Saturday afternoon is cornerback Todd Holt. Holt's wife Gail gave birth to a 7 and a half lb. baby girl at 12:12 in the afternoon, just 48 minutes before the opening kickoff. Excellent timing, since it enabled the new father to arrive just at gametime.

Dave Croasdale set a UMass field goal record by booting one 42 yards late in the fourth quarter. He had tried earlier from the same distance, but missed. Croasdale's longest three-pointer previously had been 37 yards.

Notices

ICE HOCKEY — Anyone interested in playing club ice hockey, call Dustin at 549-2635 or Chip at 546-9629. For street hockey, call Rick at 546-9598. Any woman interested in organizing a women's section of the club, call Dustin.

INTRAMURALS — Volleyball officials meeting will be held tomorrow at 5 p.m. in room 215.

Volleyball entry deadline has been extended to today at 12 noon.

FIELD HOCKEY — Any men interested in starting a field hockey team, call Jan Stapel at 546-5922.

MON. & TUES. SPECIAL — Buy a Large Pizza & Get A Pitcher of Beer for ½ Price

a varied luncheon menu with daily specials served in a congenial atmosphere

salads — homemade soups
deli sandwiches
subs — pizzas
all served with your favorite beer or cocktail

Hungry-U

55 University Drive
Sun — 12-1 a.m., Mon- Thurs 11-1,
Amherst 549-5713
Fri. & Sat. 11-2 a.m.

Until Sound Guard, your long playing record had a short playing life.

Unprotected
With Sound Guard

Magnification shows the record vinyl wearing away
Same magnification shows no record wear

Before Sound Guard preservative, every time you played your favorite record, wear was inevitable.

Friction did it.

But now Sound Guard preservative, with its dry lubrication, reduces the friction that wears out your records.

In fact, independent tests prove that Sound Guard preservative used regularly maintains sound fidelity by virtually eliminating record wear. And its built-in, permanent anti-static property resists dust accumulation.

Sound Guard preservative is available by itself or as part of our new Sound Guard™ Total Record Care System, which includes new Sound Guard™ record cleaner. The cleaner developed through extensive research and testing to effectively remove everything from dust particles to oily fingerprints.

All Sound Guard products are available in audio and record outlets.

Sound Guard Record Preservation Kit

Sound Guard keeps your good sounds sounding good.

Ball
Sound Guard preservative—Sound Guard cleaner—Sound Guard Total Record Care System
Sound Guard is Ball Corporation's registered trademark. Copyright © Ball Corporation, 1977. Muncie, IN 47302

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

WILLY, PASS OUT THESE QUESTIONNAIRES AND BOOKLETS, WILLYA? COACH SAYS WE HAVE TO FILL THEM OUT NOW..
WHADDA THEY ON?
SOMETHING TO DO WITH THE NEW H.E.W. RULINGS REQUIRING ATHLETICS FOR WOMEN. THE COLLEGE WANTS OUR REACTIONS.
GROAN!
I JUST REMEMBERED I HAVE A DENTIST'S APPOINTMENT.
OKAY, OKAY, COOL IT! WE GOTTA TAKE THIS SERI...
THWAP!
ZIP!
CRINKLE!
DIRECT HIT!
HEE, HEE!
RED DOG, THIS IS SEXIST PIG! CAN YOU READ ME?
WHISH!
OF COURSE, SILLY!
HEE! HEE!
10-17

B.C. by Johnny Hart

OH, OH, ...MY NOSE ITCHES.
THAT MEANS I'M GOING TO KISS A FOOL.
...E=MC²... THE SQUARE OF THE HYPOTENUSE IS EQUAL TO...UH...
10-17
hart

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

MA'AM, I CAN TELL RIGHT AWAY THAT I'M GONNA FAIL THIS TEST
I'M NO GOOD AT MULTIPLE-CHOICE
I CAN'T MAKE ALL THESE DECISIONS...
IT'S LIKE GIVING A STARVING MAN A MENU...
10-17
© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

It's never been this cold in San Palmtree. This must be winter, right?
Sorry, Mark, this is still foliage.
Wah!
There, there, we've still got Indian summer.
Ranney 10/17

WHAT NEXT? by Dick Janssen

I NEVER WORRIED ABOUT GENETIC DNA RESEARCH, UNTIL ONE NIGHT, I HAD A DREAM.....
I WAS FROZEN FOR A THOUSAND YEARS.. AND THEN THAWED-OUT.....
ONE OF THE FIRST THINGS I ASKED WAS, "HOW'S THE WAR BETWEEN THE SEXES??"
THEY SAID, "WHICH TWO??"
10/17

UM by Marty Maceda

...AND I CAN SAFELY SAY THAT AFTER A YEAR OF EXPERIMENTATION WITH RECOMBINANT DNA THE DANGERS INVOLVED ARE MINIMAL!
MACEDA 10-17

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

GERALD AND KING CAKE ARE DISCUSSING ARMS LIMITATIONS AND PEACE...
SO WE AGREE... NO MORE EXTRA ARMS!
FINE!
WHAT I REALLY WANT TO KNOW IS WHY DID THE CAKE PEOPLE BRING ME TO THIS ISLAND?
LAFLER 10/17
SOME MYSTERIOUS GUY GAVE ME 5,000,000 BUCKS TO HOLD YOU HERE!

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

MONDAY, OCTOBER 17 — Born today, you are a flexible individual and your ability to adapt is your most valuable characteristic. You are a good leader because your flexibility not only enables you to meet challenges, but it insures those who work under you the same advantage. For this reason, you are extremely sought after; your reputation has gone before you. There is, of course, always the possibility that you will not be able to live up to your reputation, but the possibility very seldom becomes a probability.

You are generous, and have the ability to recognize another's need even before he does himself. You will have to take care, however, that your helpfulness doesn't become interference. Ask after another's needs if you wish, but take no unsolicited action if you value the relationship you have.

Somewhat inclined toward extravagance, you will have to be on your guard against loss. Because you confide in very nearly anyone who appears the least interested, you may find yourself the victim of misplaced trust. Even so, you will not regret having sought the kind of friendship confidences yield; you would rather be taken advantage of many times over if the relationships develop into the kind which inspire confidence.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18
LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Control a tendency to ask too many questions. Respect another's privacy.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — Your liking for theatrical presentations may cause you to overstate your case. Be careful not to be misleading.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Imagination is essential to gain a position of leadership on the employment scene. Paint a profitable picture.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22 — Yield to the majority early in the day. Otherwise you may have a large fight on your hands.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — A misplaced item of importance may dominate your thoughts and actions early in the day. Make up for lost time in PM.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Maintain a cheerful atmosphere for loved ones throughout day. Make telephone contacts persuasive and they will bear fruit.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — You may regret having modeled present activity after that of a friend. Failure for friend appears on the horizon.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Your magnetic personality may be working overtime and attracting unwelcome types. Be discriminating.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — A profitable experience makes life look a little better. Don't, however, jump from the frying pan into the fire.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — A kindly, sympathetic nature helps you meet all comers today. There will be some dissension late in the day. Meet it sensibly.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — Excellent powers of concentration make this a progressive day. Laugh at mistakes in A.M.; to be too serious is detrimental.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — A mental interest and a physical capability unite to form an exciting atmosphere for work today. Profits accrue at evening.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate

ACROSS
1 ---- of the Roses
5 ------ - Japanese war
10 Throat hoarseness
14 Arrow poison
15 Man's name
16 ---- avis: Unique person
17 Asterisk
18 Of melodic tones
20 Gaiety
22 Amiable
23 Edible seeds
24 Thrash soundly
25 Wall or Yonge
28 Whoopee-makers
32 Baseball stat.
33 Paramour
35 Number
36 E. Ind. otter
38 Time-study man
40 Branches
41 Thing of value
43 Actress ----- Miles
45 Downturn
46 On ---- -----: Honest
48 Servants
50 Time periods
51 5280 feet
52 Arctic and Pacific
55 Conquered
59 Dentures: 2 words
61 Having info
62 Withdraw abruptly
63 Make gleeful
64 Movie pooch
65 Winter toy
66 Formal practices
67 52 weeks

DOWN
1 Long for 2 Against
3 Being in fact
4 Latin-Amer. poncho
5 Cooling device
6 Military groups
7 Linger
8 Soak in liquid
9 Asian wild ass
10 Undeveloped area
11 Declaim vehemently
12 Of the mouth
13 Wind
19 Centers of authority
21 Fast dance
24 Wearing less clothes
25 Fr. upper house
26 Junk
27 Poker word
28 Seeking: Suffix
29 Avoid fulfilling
30 Forgive
31 Cuts
34 Containers
37 Liberated
39 Deflowers
42 Metal roofing
44 Temporary stop
47 More immense
49 Latitude
51 Regulus
52 Cricket-field parts
53 Convoke
54 Confed. VIP Robt. - ---
55 Forte: Slang
56 Ascend
57 This: Spanish
58 Cherished
60 High priest

Saturday's Puzzle Solved:

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| G | A | M | E | R | ■ | C | A | R | O | ■ | A | P | I | N |
| I | M | A | G | O | ■ | A | B | E | T | ■ | V | E | L | O |
| B | E | L | O | W | ■ | L | E | F | T | F | I | E | L | D |
| S | R | I | ■ | B | E | L | L | ■ | E | L | A | P | S | E |
| ■ | ■ | ■ | C | O | R | E | ■ | T | R | O | T | ■ | ■ | ■ |
| M | I | S | H | A | N | D | L | E | ■ | P | E | T | A | L |
| I | D | E | A | T | E | ■ | O | A | R | S | ■ | I | T | E |
| S | E | A | T | ■ | S | O | C | L | E | ■ | S | L | O | T |
| S | A | M | ■ | S | T | O | A | ■ | T | A | L | E | N | T |
| A | S | S | E | T | ■ | P | L | E | A | S | U | R | E | S |
| ■ | ■ | ■ | L | A | S | S | ■ | L | I | C | E | ■ | ■ | ■ |
| E | N | C | A | M | P | ■ | T | U | L | E | ■ | L | I | B |
| P | E | R | S | P | I | R | E | D | ■ | N | O | O | S | E |
| O | M | I | T | ■ | T | A | L | E | ■ | D | R | A | I | N |
| S | O | S | O | ■ | E | Y | E | S | ■ | S | E | N | S | E |

Fourth straight setback

Booters edged by Rams, 1-0

By MARK MARCHAND
Collegian Staff

For the fourth time in a row this season, the UMass soccer team found itself on the short end of a one-goal game as it lost to Rhode Island Saturday afternoon, 1-0, on the field behind Boyden.

However, this game was different from the past three as the MInutemen mounted several excellent offensive thrusts, only to find themselves thwarted by Lady Luck and Rico Gonzales, the Rhode Island netminder.

"We came as close as could without winning," lamented UMass mentor Russ Kidd after the game. "We missed some of the real close shots but we had some excellent chances to score on head shots from corner kicks and indirect kicks."

The only goal of the game was scored by Lenny Mercurio of the Rams on a play set up by Rhode Island scoring ace Dan McCrudden. It came at 41:25 of the first half when both teams seemed to be playing evenly with chances to score in both ends.

The loss saw the Minuteman ledger drop to 3-4 on the season while upping Rhode Island's mark to 5-3. Saturday's game may also cause the Minutemen to go down a step or two from their current sixth ranking in the New England poll.

Rhode Island coach Gezza Henni, a former netminder for the Bulgarian national team, said that after scoring the goal in the first half. his team sat on the lead in the second half in an effort to protect a shutout for his netminder. Gonzales.

"There was no sense in taking a chance, we just sat back and let UMass control the tempo," said Henni. "Now that I've seen the scoring chances that UMass came up with, I don't think I really should have used that strategy."

Come up with scoring chances is certainly what the Minutemen did as they put together several plays in the latter portion of second half only to be turned back time and time again. One fine chance came on a play by Minuteman Tom O'Brien, who took the ball and moved down the right side by himself, penetrated the Ram defense and blazed a shot that screamed by the post to the left of the Ram netminder.

"I actually thought that it was in," said co-captain Larry Aronson after the contest.

Another fine scoring chance was contributed by Andy Moore who saw his head shot off a corner kick miss the net by inches.

Other fine efforts turned in by the Minutemen included those by defensemen Pat Veale, Mark Vassalotti, and Aronson, who were unbelievable on defense. Also, Bill Leary turned in an aggressive performance, but found himself ejected from the game along with Ram Kevin Murphy after a scuffle in front of the Rhode Island net midway through the second half.

Seldom heard from Mike St. Martin, accordng to his teammates, had "one heck of a game," as was evidenced by his hustle on both offense and defense.

Another factor in the Minuteman loss was the absence of co-captain Ed Niemiec, who is still bothered by a thigh injury and may have to miss more action this week.

The next game for the booters will be tomorrow afternoon when they visit Worcester Polytechnic Institute in a 3:30 p.m. contest.

The UMass water polo team, behind precision teamwork, defeated two opponents Saturday at the Boyden pool and captured its invitational tournament. The poloers are back in action next weekend. (Staff photo by Jeff Stone)

Netters spike past NU; lose to MIT in tri-meet

By LEO PELOQUIN
Collegian Staff

The news was half good and half bad for the UMass women's volleyball team over the weekend as it finished second in a tri-match played at MIT, the Minutewomen's two opponents being Northeastern and MIT. They beat Northeastern before being overpowered by MIT.

The spikers disposed of Northeastern but had to go the full three-game route to do so. In the first game, UMass broke out to a 9-0 lead and hung on to win by a tally of 15-9. The Minutewomen broke out to a quick four-point advantage in the second game but Northeastern, taking advantage of what UMass coach Dianne Thompson called "mental lapses," rallied to win by a score of 16-14.

In the deciding contest, it was UMass's turn to rally as it fought off an early 9-3 deficit to win the game, 15-9, and the match, two games to one.

MIT beat UMass in the first game of the match for first place by a score of 15-2 but Thompson said the score was really not a good indication of how well-played a game it was. She said the contest took 20 minutes to complete and featured a number of long, exciting rallies.

The score of the second game was the same but the game itself differed greatly from the first, according to Thompson. She said, "We suffered a number of mental lapses. We couldn't serve-receive at all. It was the shortest I've ever seen a volleyball game go."

The split left the spikers with a 2-7 record. Thompson said the major bright spot was the improvement in the team's serving. She cited the efforts by Kathy Higgins and Kathryn Shinnick as being especially outstanding.

Another bright note was the play of the junior varsity spikers. The JV squad won its tri-match, beating Northeastern (15-3, 15-6) and MIT (15-9, 15-1) to up its record to 2-3.

Poloers win tourney

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's water polo team continued its fine play this weekend as it swept by Harvard, 13-8, and RPI 14-9, in a non-league invitational tournament Saturday at the Boyden Pool.

In the Harvard game the Minutemen were sparked by a five-goal performance by UMass swim team star Russ Yarworth. Other scorers for UMass included Rick Mansfield, who added three goals and an assist and Stew Carlisle, who chipped in with a pair of goals.

Against RPI, the Minutemen offense totally dominated the game, with newcomer Dave Landesman leading the charge. Landesman scored eight goals and had four assists in his first game for UMass. Coach Bob Corb also had a big game against RPI as he notched four goals and had four assists.

Corb was fairly satisfied with his team's effort, "We're starting to put it together as a team now," said Corb.

The poloers, now ranked 10th in New England, will travel to MIT this Saturday for a big league tournament against MIT and the Bulldogs from Yale.

HUNAN GARDEN RESTAURANT
(Formerly South China)
家酒園南湖
Mandarin Szechuen Cuisine
* Open 7 days a week *
Mon.-Thur. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri.-Sun. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Specials
LUNCHEON $1.25 & up
DINNER $3.95
main course: choice of Szechuan Spiced Chicken
or
Sweet & Sour Shrimp
Dinner includes: spare rib, eggrole, chicken wing, fried rice & hot and sour soup
Mon-Wed 5:00-8:00 pm
10 Belchertown Rd.
Rt. 9, Amherst
256-0251
256-0252
Banquet Facilities

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
open 'till 11 p.m. daily
FULL SERVICE LIQUOR STORE
Large Assortment of moderately priced wines and kegs
99 IMPORTED BEERS
and don't forget our delicous selection of cordials
338 College St. (Rt. 9) Amherst 253-5384 25 6-8433 EZ Parking

Harriers win two, but lose to Cats

By KEVIN McCAFFREY
Collegian Staff

The dark and overcast pre-meet weather appeared to be an omen to the UMass cross country team Saturday, as it fell prey to an improved University of New Hampshire squad, 29-35.

The quadrangular contest, run through the soggy five-mile apple orchard course, was dominated at the finish line by the UMass and UNH contingents, as teams from Bentley and Vermont managed to slide only three runners into the top 15, as they lost to both UNH and UMass.

The Wildcat's impressive showing was made possible by UMass Coach Ken O'Brien's reluctance to suit up five of his top seven harriers.

"I didn't break the team up with intentions of losing," explained O'Brien. "At this point in the season everyone knows they're good, but don't know how good they can be. I rested some of our stronger runners in a deliberate effort to keep the meet close. My decision was made with hopes of not only presenting a team challenge, but an individual challenge also.

Individually, UNH's All-America candidate, George Reed, splashed into the lead at the outset and won comfortably in 25:32. Teammate Gary Crossans, with a surprising display of strength, strided through the finish line in 25:47, seven seconds ahead of the Minutemen's first harrier, Kevin McCusker.

Co-captain Frank Carroll garnered fourth place in 25:59, one second ahead of the Wildcat's third man, Dan Berman. Seniors Bob Neil and Neal McGrail exhibited their finest form of the season while capturing sixth and ninth places, respectively.

"Several of our runners didn't call upon themselves today," commented O'Brien, "but certainly I'm pleased with the performances of Bobby (Neil), Neal (McGrail), and Steve Bugbee, who rose to the occasion."

UNH mentor John Copeland cited the absence of injuries to his squad for the success of his fall campaign.

"We're very much pleased with our victory," said Copeland. "UMass is very strong, much stronger than we are, but it goes up as a 'W' for us. Confidence in what we can do has turned our program around."

"This is the best its been since I've been around," added UNH captain George Reed. "For the first time we have a team that can compete with the powers in New England."

Although the Minutemen suffered their second attack of the season, they finished the regular season with an impressive 11-2 mark. Their next opposition will be against the meat of the Yankees Conference at Rhode Island, Oct. 29th in the conference meet. The New England's and IC4A's follow on Nov. 5 and Nov. 14, respectively.

Sub-varsity runners win

The UMass sub-varsity cross country team continued its dominance of Northeastern competition by defeating 11 squads from New York state in the Marist Invitational held in Poughkeepsie Saturday.

Coach Arnie Morse entered two squads in the contest, consisting of several varsity harriers and eight competitors from the freshman team. Both groups were victorious, as varsity harrier Mike Morris initiated the winning spirit by touring the five-mile course in 25:01, breaking the existing record for the varsity division.

The trip from New England presented Morse's forces with two trophies.

The next stop for the sub-varsity harriers will be Oct. 29, when they will compete in the Albany State Invitational meet, to be held in NY.

Dawn Minaai smashes one of her powerful overheads in the semifinals at the state tournament yesterday. (Staff photo by Ellen Davis)

Jennifer Ranz, the other half of the UMass doubles team, is intent during yesterday's match. (Staff photo by Ellen Davis)

Doubles make finals

By ELLEN DAVIS
Collegian Staff

UMass women's tennis players Dawn Minaai and Jennifer Ranz made it to the doubles final of the MAIAW tournament at Mount Holyoke College over the weekend, but had to settle for second place after losing to Harvard in an action-packed match.

The two seniors, who play first doubles for the Minutewomen, started their climb to the top on Saturday by downing MIT's Stella Perone and Chris Vogdes, 6-1, 6-1 after winning their first round match against Fitchburg State by default.

That got them into the semi-finals yesterday, in which they topped Rachel Lavin and Liz Mantel from Boston University, 6-1, 6-1.

They won the first set of their finals match, 7-5, but Harvard's Katie Ditzler and Sally Roberts pulled together and took the next two sets, 6-4, 6-0 for the victory.

Also in the tournament for UMass were Cathy Maher, in her first singles competition, and Carolyn Mooney, in second singles.

Maher won her first match against Alice Shackman of Clark, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5, but lost in the quarter finals to Harvard's Martha Roberts, 4-6, 2-6.

Mooney lost to Heidi Mickelson of the Wellesley in the first round, 6-7, 0-6.

Today, the entire UMass team will travel to Central Connecticut for a 3:00 rescheduled match. The match should be a victory for the Minutewomen, so coach Bill Yu will be giving some other team members a chance to compete, such as Debbie Halperin, Joanne Vinachi, Sue Boissevan, and Fran Meyers.

This afternoon's match starts a busy week for the women, which also includes matches against UConn, Keene State, and the New Englands.

In the New Englands, Minaai, Ranz, Maher and Mooney will be the UMass entries again, along with one other doubles team.

★ ★ ★ FREE ★ ★ ★ CAMPUS POSTER
at the Coffee Shop
and Hatch
with the purchase of a
Large Coke

The Hideout
MONDAY NIGHT
FOOTBALL DELIVERY
SPECIAL
Buy any two small combo pizzas and get a small plain pizza FREE!
256-0441

Fallon hurls 4 TD's , Gridders smash Rams

By BILL EDELSTEIN
Collegian Staff

The experts said the University of Rhode Island Rams didn't belong on the same football field with the UMass Minutemen.

The experts said that injuries to URI's top wide receiver, its starting quarterback, two offensive linemen and strong safety would turn Saturday's encounter at Alumni Stadium into another UMass rout. The experts were right.

UMass scored all the points it would need to win on a first-quarter, Mike Fallon to John Romboli touchdown pass, and Dave Croasdale's extra point. It was in the second quarter, however, that the Minutemen put the game in its proper perspective, and paved the way for their 37-6 victory.

The Rams were not to be subjected to a slow death by the Minutemen's usual bludgeon-like, tackle-to-tackle running offense. Instead, coach Dick MacPherson opted for the guillotine.

The football was resting on the URI 25-yard line. It had been there for the duration of two incomplete passes. On fourth down and nine to go, MacPherson disdained to punt and went straight for the Rams' jugular vein.

"We were in no-man's land," said MacPherson. "The 25 is too close for a punt, and too far to kick a field goal. So we went for it."

Mike Fallon dropped back to pass, surveying the field. He spotted tight end Kevin Cummings.

"It was a double tight end play," said Fallon. "One man goes right, the other, left. I throw to the one who's open."

Cummings was open and by the time the ball settled into his hands, he was in the end zone.

Rhode Island coach Bob Griffin was less than enthusiastic about the chain of events.

"Their offensive execution was good, but why we can't stop a fourth and nine situation is beyond me," lamented Griffin. "After that play, I knew we wouldn't win the game."

The Fallon-to-Cummings Connection made the score 20-6, but the duo was far from ready to call it quits on the afternoon. The pair clicked again before the half ended.

The UMass defense ("They were great"—MacPherson) forced the Rams to punt deep in URI territory. When the snap back to Rhode Island punter Rick Viall turned out to be a groundball to the left side of the infield, UMass defensive back Kevin Maguire took on the role of shortstop, surrounding the ball at the Ram five-yard line. From there, Fallon and Cummings beat the halftime gun over the goal line, and UMass led 27-6.

The Minutemen stayed mainly on the ground in their third quarter, 74-yard drive. But on the drive's 17th play, Fallon and Cummings got nostalgic and the result was a 24-yard TD toss that gave Fallon his fourth paydirt pass for the game (tying a Yankee Conference record), gave Cummings his third touchdown reception on the day (tying another Yankee Conference record), and gave URI coach Griffin an upset stomach (falling far short of any record, taking into account the fact that UMass had, at that time, outscored its opposition over the past five games, 173-35).

The Minuteman defense rolled up more impressive statistics at the Rams' expense. The same crew that shutout the University of Maine on the ground, allowed Rhode Island just 24 rushing yards (minus one in the first half).

The Rams' only bright moment on offense came, ironically, in the second quarter which was dominated by UMass. URI quarterback Mike Bailey, filling in for the injured Steve Tosches, capped a six-play, 73-yard assault with a touchdown pass to freshman tailback Chy Davidson, who, himself, was replacing Leroy Shaw (illness). Seventy-two yards of the drive were gained through the air.

"We were letting their quarterback out of the pocket," said MacPherson of Rhode Island's lone score. "Our defense did a much better job of containing him after that."

In the second half, the Rams could only manage 41 passing yards.

OTHER STUFF — Hank Sareault tallied UMass' only points via the terra firma route with a one-yard plunge... Dave Croasdale moved "no-man's land" a little farther back for Coach MacPherson with a 42-yard field goal (a personal record)... Kevin Sullivan was called to service when defensive back Todd Holt took a leave of absence so that he could suffer the pacing motions of fatherhood in the hospital and not on the sidelines... Sullivan had one interception and barely missed another.

Mike Fallon unleashes a pass during UMass's big Homecoming win Saturday. Fallon threw five touchdown passes in the rout. (Staff photo by Howard Labitt)

Collegian Sports

Dodgers explode, 10-4

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Spurred on by manager Tom Lasorda's pre-game pep talk, the Los Angeles Dodgers turned from lethargic to vicious yesterday and crushed the New York Yankees 10-4 behind home runs by Steve Yeager and Reggie Smith to remain alive in the World Series.

The Dodgers, who still trail three games to two, can get even tomorrow night when the series switches back to New York's Yankee Stadium for the sixth game.

After batting only .190 in the first four games of the series, the Dodgers broke loose and bombed left-hander Don Gullett and three relievers for 13 hits to win in a cakewalk.

Yeager, Smith and Dusty Baker provided the bulk of the Dodgers' offensive might.

Yeager drove in four runs with a three-run homer, which capped a four-run fourth, and a sacrifice fly. Smith belted a two-run homer in the sixth and Baker had three hits and drove in two runs.

A large share of the credit for the victory also had to go to right-hander Don Sutton, who scattered nine hits in a route-going performance to remain unbeaten in five post-season decisions.

Although touched for back-to-back homers by Thurman Munson and Reggie Jackson in the eighth inning, Sutton was tough when he had to be in the early going and blanked New York on just three hits over the first six innings.

It may have been Lasorda's pre-game talk which was most responsible for the Dodgers' triumph. The peppery manager told his team the had been flat in the first four games and encouraged them to get more aggressive.

They wasted no time in doing it.

Dave Lopes started the rout by tripling off the top railing of the left-field bullpen and Bill Russell, who had managed only two hits in 18 series at-bats, lashed a single to left to give the Dodgers a lead they never relinquished.

The Dodgers might have had a real big first inning if it wasn't for a magnificent fielding play by third baseman Graig Nettles. Smith topped a slow roller toward third, but Nettles charged the ball, picked it up barehanded and threw Smith out at first. Gullett then bore down and struck out Ron Cey and Steve Garvey to end the threat.

Gullett had pitched well against the Dodgers in the series opener, but it was obvious, however, from the outset that he didn't have command of his stuff. He threw 25 pitches in the first inning, and, after laboring through two more innings, was finally crushed in the fourth.

Steve Garvey started the fourt-inning uprising by slamming a one-out double to right-center field and he scored on Baker's line single to left. When left fielder Lou Piniella bobbled the ball for the Yankees' first error of the series, Baker took second and held there as Nettles booted Lee Lacy's grounder. Yeager then belted a long home run into the left-field seats to make it 5-0.

Billy Coleman gets set to sweep for the Minutemen, as Bruce Kimball (68) and Gerry Greene (63) lead the way. Coleman led UMass Saturday on the ground with 92 yards. (Staff photo by Steve Lesser)

Fallon-Cummings show gets air time

By RICH ECKEL
Collegian Staff

The passing combination of Mike Fallon to Kevin Cummings is slowly developing into the best passing-scoring duo in the Yankee Conference.

Saturday afternoon at Alumni Stadium, Cummings hauled in passes of 25, five and 24 yards — all for touchdowns — to lead the UMass football team to its fifth straight victory. The three TD performance by Cummings is his second of the year, and comes just two weeks after a similar feat against Youngstown State. Cummings' three TD receptions tied a YanCon record, while Fallon's four touchdown passes also ties a Yan Con mark.

Cummings has caught just nine passes this season, but, six of those have gone for touchdowns. The 6'5", 230-lb. tight end from Saratoga Springs N.Y. was awarded the game ball for his effort.

"He's a big man in the clutch," said UMass coach Dick MacPherson. "He sure catches the big ones."

The turning point in the game came on a pass from Fallon to Cummings with just under nine minutes remaining in the first half and the Minutemen holding a less than commanding 13-6 lead. UMass was faced with a fourth down and 10 situation at the Rhode Island 25 yard line when MacPherson elected to try for the first down.

He got more than he bargained for when Fallon found Cummings all alone in the end zone for the first of their three scoring connections.

"I had run the same pattern two times before and was open, but both times he threw to Gladchuck," said Cummings. "I noticed that the safety was going with John, so when I came back to the huddle I told Mike the next time we run the strong sprint, I'm there. That's what we ran for the touchdown and I was open."

"It was one of those situations," said MacPherson, explaining his reasoning for gambling on the fourth down play." It wasn't the right place for a punt, and it was just a little long for a field goal, so we went for it."

Rhode Island coach Bob Griffin readily

TURN TO PAGE 16

---

NUMMO NEWS
VOLUME 4 ISSUE 7
MONDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1977
Supplement to the Collegian
BREAK THE CHAIN OF OPPRESSION THROUGH UNITY

Racial Animosity at UMass Grows Stronger

Bakke Demonstration — Nkrumah Olinga comments on a racist Collegian article

By W.J. WHEELER
AND KARIEN ZACHERY

A flaming cross was sited outside of the Bluewall at a disco held Thursday night. This is the second of two cross burnings occuring in the Amherst area, in a period of less than four weeks. The first cross burning occured at Hampshire College. They are both serious examples of increasing Nazi activity and KKK inferences in the valley. It was reported that the flames were first noticed by students between midnight and 12:30 a.m. "The cross viewed by students through the large display window was actually a metal-t frame similar to those used by Campus Center vendors," according to UMass student Earl

"The locality of the cross burning is particularly evident that the incident was perpetuated by anti-black incrementalism. The Disco was predominantly Black; therefore the cross burning was obviously directed at them."

The inferences and significance of the cross burning site is that someone was trying to convey a racist threat to Black students. The reason behind this particially being that white students were trying to eliminate "disco" or Black music from being played in the Bluewall.

The Bluewall has always directed their entertainment in the interest man on white man's territory." Thus, the white community reacted in their traditional racist and violent manner, by burning a cross, symbolizing the KKK.

The seriousness and significance of the crossburning indicates a series of racist occurences that might occur in the Amherst area, which is evidence of the rising racial tension among students and adminstrators.

Though the Collegian printed an article about the cross burning at the Bluewall on Friday. A great percentage of the Black perspective was omitted. Plus, the mere fact that the Collegian printed the article, placing the term "cross burning" in quotation marks each time it appeared, is evident that they desired to downplay the seriousness of the incident. Somthing, that, simple and seemingly insignificant aids in keeping people ignorant to the meanings of serious issues, like this cross burning.

Black students must immediately become aware the signs behind these racial incidents occuring around them. The occurance of two cross burnings within less than a four week period, is an indication that the racial animosity among whites against Blacks, not only still survives, but may gradually be growing stronger.

Amerikkka is the Blackman's Battleground!

IF THERE IS NO STRUGGLE THERE IS NO PROGRESS!

Affirmative Action

Bakke Debate — Brian DeLima, moderator, panel from left to right, Playthell Benjamin, John Yong, Denise Carty Binia

By BARRY ADAMS

It's difficult to tell how the Bakke case [illegible]on will affect the use of quota systems as an easy mechanism for selecting women and [illegible]y applicants. Whether the [illegible] comes out negatively, or [illegible] it is necessary for special admissions and affirmative action [illegible] to expand their budgets [illegible] that more personnel can [illegible] and experts consulted to effectively implement the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission affirmative action policies. Very few programs follow the affirmative action guidelines and [illegible] in fact, be jeopardizing their chances for receiving future federal monies, because of not observing Equal Employment Opportunity Commission regulations.

Let's take a look at some technical considerations that relate to the implementation of Titles VI, VII, and IX of the Equal Employment Act.

Applications for employment, and school admission, for example, are supposed to receive the following considerations:

1. Selection processes should first consider the exclusions of minorities and women in the past.

This means that admission programs should make a special effort to reach women and minorities, and that recruitment is necessary.

2. Retroactive selection processes should include a system that compares the actual and potential groups (pools) of students and employees, for example.

Black 'minorities.'

It's easier to start off by working with ratios of men and women because of the balance between men and women that is approximately 50-50.

Table I illustrates the difference in percentages among men and women who are either employed, or enrolled in a given school; and men and women applicants. Students, presently enrolled, would make up the actual pool, and applicants would make up the potential pool.

Table 1

| | Actual Pool | | Potential Pool | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Expected | 50 - 50 | | 50 - 50 | |
| | Females | Males | Females | Males |
| Actual | 40% | 60% | 20% | 80% |
| Difference | 20% | | 60% | |
| Difference | 80% | | | |

In order to obtain a 50-50 balance, 20 women would have to be admitted to raise the actual pool of women to 60. After sixty males and sixty females make up a 50-50 balance, one out of every two admitted, or hired applicants should be a woman.

From the potential pool of 20 women and 80 men — all 20 women applicants should (ideally) be accepted in order to obtain a 50-50 balance. The 80 per cent difference between the actual pool of males and females, and the potential pool of males and females should be the bare minimum percent of women applicants accepted in this instance.

Table 2 somewhat relates the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission affirmative action model to Black 'minorities.'

Table 2

| | Actual Pool | | Potential Pool | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Expected | 15 - 85 | | 15 - 85 | |
| | Blacks | Nonminorities | Blacks | Nonminorities |
| Actual# | 100 | 4900 | 500 | 4500 |
| Percent | 2% | 98% | 10% | 90% |

In order to obtain a Black student population of 15 per cent, even if all 500 Black applicants were admitted (with none of the nonminorities admitted) there still wouldn't be enough students to make up a 15 per cent Black population. A potential pool of 5000 applicants with only 500 Blacks would reflect considerable lack of recruitment.

In order to obtain a percentage of

Continued on Page 2

The Bi-Lingual Collegiate Program

By JOHANNA P. BRASSARD

In 1974 the Hispanic Organization of the University of Massachusetts felt that a service designed to satisfy the various needs of bi-lingual students on campus was long overdue. The bi-lingual population of the University was growing; it was seen that ethnic, cultural, and linguistic characteristics often alienated a Spanish-speaking person from American society, thereby causing her-him to suffer economic and educational disadvantages. The Bi-lingual Collegiate Program was conceived in order to help the bi-lingual population of the school to better cope with the academic and social pressures of University life, and to attract bi-lingual, potential University students from different areas within the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. An equal education would help these students in later life.

The Bi-lingual Collegiate Program (BCP) is a "permanent unit" of the University today. It began with seventy-five Hispanic students, but now serves three hundred bi-lingual Hispanic and Portugese students; however, the services of the BCP are open to anyone who is related to the bi-lingual situation at UMass.

Fifty-six graduates of the University in 1977 were from the BCP. Twenty-seven are presently working in various areas (other than Massachusetts) of the United States. Six more began work in the Public School Systems of Massachusetts in September, twelve have entered graduate schools, four are unemployed, and the situations of seven are unknown. The majority of this group of (formerly) disadvantaged students received tangible rewards through their own efforts, with the strong guidance of the BCP.

Ben Rodriguez, the director of the Program, spoke about the academic and personal services of the BCP. A turquoise pamphlet and a gracious staff are available for more detailed information about the BCP. The office is located on the fifth floor of the Goodell Library. (Just walk through the front door, straight ahead through the empty stacks, and bear right; floors one through four are located where a basement would normally be.) If you can't drop by, call 545-1968 or 545-1987.

There are four components involved in the academic services of the BCP. The first is that of High School recruitment. Representatives from the program visit various High Schools in the commonwealth each year. Their purpose is to encourage High School sophomores and juniors to think seriously about higher education, and to advise them as to the steps which need to be taken in order to receive a chance at that education.

Once a student arrives at UMass, academic counselors are available. Each bi-lingual counselor works with the different academic departments of the school. Each is able to advise a student in conjunction with her-his specific department.

For those who lack any academic skills due to the language barrier, tutors are available. One hundred and eleven bi-lingual persons are currently being tutored in different academic areas. Here is help for those dealing with an unequal academic situation due to a language barrier.

Last of the academic components: a Student Resource Center containing bi-lingual material not found in the Main Library is available to all students. It is located in the office of the BCP, but its use is not restricted to those involved in the program, or to non-Spanish speaking students.

Help on the personal level is also provided. A counselor can be of assistance with any personal and social problems encountered at the University. These problems might affect mental and academic well-being, and are aided by counselors who maintain a knowledge of and a rapport with the various bi-lingual services inside as well as outside UMass.

Call or visit the Bi-lingual Collegiate Program Office. Maybe a problem of yours can be solved.

Affirmative Action Continued from Page 1

Bakke Debate. Left — Robert Corn, 3rd from left Greene, speaker Carty Binia, Playthell Benjamin, John Yong

5 per cent Blacks (U.Mass-Amherst's estimate of the Black student population — Spring Semester, 1977), at least 150 Black applicants would have to be accepted before admitting any nonminorities. If UMass. accepted 5000 freshmen, this Fall, 750 of those accepted should have been Black in order to obtain a 15 per cent Black freshmen population; and at least 250 Blacks should have been accepted, in order to maintain last Spring's minute '5 per cent' Black student population.

3. In the final stages of the selection process, in which there are men and women, or Blacks and nonminorities of equal merit, minorities and women admissions (or hiring) should take preference, until the effects of past exlusion are balanced out.

Whenever possible, the admission (or hiring) of minority women to equalize to meet affirmative action guidelines, or to equalize past minority and sex discrimination, simultaneously, should be avoided.

Indiana Blacks Eye Busing Boycott

FORT WAYNE, Ind. — About 660 black elementary school children are expected to be pulled from classes in a boycott of public schools, if there is no court ruling against the system's proposed integration plan.

Already, pre-registration has opened for community-sponsored, alternative. "Freedom Schools" if either a temporary or permanent injunction is denied.

Numerous black parents oppose the plan because they eel it is a one-way plan that places all the busing responsibility on blacks and none on whites.

Total enrollment figures were not available at AFRO presstime. The public school system is 18.5 per cent black, including the secondary level.

—

A civil suit was filed by 14 parents Sept. 2, the first day of classes, seeking a restraining order against the busing plan. U.S. District Judge Jesse E. Eschbach denied the motion but set Oct. 25 to hear the case.

Mrs. Gayle Greer, executive director of the local Urban League, told the AFRO last week that the group's attorney's are preparing a case to prove "That the burden of desegregation rests with the black community."

Already more than $8,000 has been raised to pay for the court action that is expected to cost about $15,000.

It is hoped the judge will make his decision the same day the case is tried, Mrs. Greer said. If he does and it is not favorable to the parents, "The boycott will become effective the next day."

She said the "Freedom Schools" would probably open on Oct. 31.

The Fort Wayne schools are not under court orders to desegregate. According, to Dr.John F. Young, associate superintendent of schools, the desegregation plan was a "community activity tied into vocational education and the improvement of racial balance."

The plan involved the closing of two of seven predominately black inner-city elementary schools, with the pupils being bused to predominately white schools.

Young told the AFRO: "The closings were not based on race. The black elementary schools were closed because of declining enrollments. Some predominately white schools will be closed in the future."

—

But the NAACP, the Urban League, some black parents and community leaders feel the school closings and the one-way busings are an attempt to avoid desegregating inner-city schools.

In the 1970-71 academic year, the only inner-city junior high school was changed to fifth and sixth grade center.

Since then, all black secondary pupils have been bused out of their neighborhoods to attend schools. Or they have to walk several miles, according to Mrs. Greer.

Dr. Young said the changes made in the inner-city secondary schools have resulted in racially balanced secondary schools throughout the system.

Another sore spot with the protesting community members was the school board's Sept. 26 decision to allow pupils to petition to return to schools closer to their homes.

"It's just a ploy to muddy waters," Mrs. Greer said, "There are only about 150 to 200 openings in the remaining schools that would be closer for the children and they probably won't be able to enroll until next fall."

Fred Meriwether, the only black on the seven-member school board, told the AFRO he voted in May to close the inner-city schools.

"I received mixed messages from the community and I had to make a decision of what I thought was best," he said. "I did not get any specific direction from the inner city."

What Form Will The Federal Civil Rights Reorganization Take?

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The White House aide charged with directing a "bold" reorganization of federal civil rights programs says he hopes to start sending recommendations to President Carter in two weeks.

"We hope to come up with a system that is workable and that people can live with," says Howard Clickstein, a civil rights lawyer who heads the White House Civil Rights Reorganization Task Force.

Glickstein, who spent six years with the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and is now on leave of absence from Howard University Law School, says what he and his staff propose is not going to please everyone.

"I'm not interested in something that has a reasonable chance of working," Glickstein explains.

—

"People (concerned with civil rights enforcement) are all over the place. There is no consensus on what should be done. Even the civil rights groups are split. But the president told us to be bold."

Glickstein says his team will focus first on the enforcement of equal employment opportunity requirements because that area is among the most criticized and most basic of all civil rights programs.

Programs affecting education, housing and other areas will be addressed later, he adds.

He says the task force now is considering a series of reform options that run the gamut from no reorganization at all to consolidating responsibility for enforcing equal employment requirement under a single agency.

It appears unlikely, however, that Glickstein's team would opt for either extreme — a civil rights super agency or no reorganization at all.

—

The responsibility for insuring and enforcing equal employment opportunity is now spread throughout the government in a complex system of laws and executive orders.

Central to that effort is the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, once the target of heavy criticism from federal agencies and civil rights advocates alike.

But Glickstein says Ms. Eleanor H. Norton, the new head of EEOC, "has instilled a lot of confidence" in the agency. "The feeling of a lot of people is that we need to strengthen it," he says.

The proposals given the best chance of reaching Carter involve some form of consolidation that would add to the jurisdiction of the EEOC.

One controversial option in that line would put the office of federal contract compliance, plus contract compliance units spread throughout the government, under the EEOC. They are now under labor department oversight.

"Civil rights groups would like to see them brought together and industry is uniformly against it," Glickstein notes.

Another major proposal stirring some interest would shift enforcement of equal opportunity rules covering federal employment from the Civil Service Commission to the EEOC. (UPI)

DEDICATED TO THE RECONSTRUCTION OF THE BLACK LIBERATION MOVEMENT AND HUMAN RIGHTS!

Feiffer
NOTHING PERSONAL, SAM. ITS A DETERRENT
WHAT DOES IT DETER?
IT'LL DETER YOU FROM COMMITTING ANY MORE HOMICIDES
WOULD IT DETER ME IF I WAS WHITE?
DON'T CONFUSE JUSTICE WITH RACISM, SAM.
WOULD IT DETER ME IF I WAS RICH?
DON'T CONFUSE JUSTICE WITH ANTI-AMERICANISM, SAM.
WOULD IT DETER ME IF I WASN'T POOR AND BLACK AND COULD AFFORD A GOOD LAWYER?
I DON'T KNOW WHERE YOU PICKED UP THOSE WEIRD IDEAS, SAM
HOW MANY WHITE MIDDLE-CLASS MURDERERS YOU EVER HEARD OF ON DEATH ROW, WARDEN?
DROP!
SPRONG
SO GOES ANOTHER ENEMY OF FREE ENTERPRISE

---

Congress Approves The N-bomb

By Brian Hennessy
Special to the Guardian
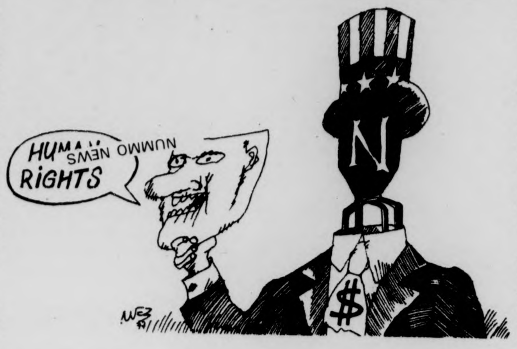
Washington, D.C.



Worldwide protests against U.S. production of the neutron bomb were stepped up last week in the wake of a Sept. 29 House vote in favor of this so-called "enhanced radiation weapon."

Both the Senate and House have now given initial approval for neutron bomb funding. President Jimmy Carter has meanwhile indicated that he will decide this month whether to order development and deployment of the device which is designed to kill people while leaving property intact.

Women Strike for Peace and a number of other groups have scheduled a picketline demonstration in front of the White House Oct. 15. They will demand that Carter act on his campaign pledge of achieving "zero nuclear weapons" by canceling the neutron bomb.

The protest is part of an accelerating international movement against this proposed expansion of the U.S. atomic arsenal. Demonstrations denouncing the neutron bomb have recently been held throughout Europe, in India and across North America.

At a July news conference following initial Senate authorization for the device, Carter hinted broadly that he would order production and Western European deployment of the radiation weapon. He has since delayed his final decision, largely because of the surge of opposition to the new warhead.

"The only threat we have to fear is from the killers in Washington and the Pentagon," said Women Strike for Peace leader Margaret Meyers in response to assertions that the neutron bomb will reduce the threat of a ground invasion of Western Europe.

"This weapon does nothing to preserve or encourage peace," she added. "Instead, it will push the world a big step closer to nuclear destruction.

The Carter administration and a majority in Congress maintain that the neutron bomb can be detonated in Europe without provoking a full-scale atomic war. Because the intensive and fatal doses of radiation unleashed by the weapon do not damage buildings or property, its proponents claim that use of the device can be limited to battlefield situations.

But a National Security Council arms contro impact statement explains that the Soviet Union, lacking a similar bomb, may retaliate with conventional nuclear arms if the U.S. fires a neutron warhead at Eastern European or Soviet forces.

DOMESTIC APPLICATIONS

The unique characteristics of the neutron weapon have also led some observers to conclude that the bomb has been designed with domestic applications in mind. "I can foresee a time when this weapon could be used here at home," Meyers noted. "The neutron bomb can wipe out protesters and leave things like banks and the stock exchange standing."

Peace organizations have also observed that a neutron attack could be directed against national liberation forces in the third world. "Can you imagine a weapon that South Africa would like to have more than the neutron bomb?" asked one Women Strike activist.

Last week's House debate on the bomb was focused on an amendment by Rep. Ted Weiss D-L.NY) to the Energy Research and Development Administration ERDA) appropriation bill.

Funds for production of the neutron device were buried in the ERDA measure, and Weiss' proposal called for deletion of any money in the bill earmarked for research, development or deployment of the weapon. The Weiss amendment could not stipulate any specific amount of funds since the sum being allocated for the neutron bomb is "classified." The best congressional estimates of current appropriations for the weapon place the figure somewhere between $24 million and $36 million.

When Weiss first announced his amendment in August, he predicted that the administration's opposition to it would limit House support for funding a cutoff to about 60 votes. The final tally in favor of the bomb — 297-109 — reflected the intensive lobbying efforts of peace groups and widening public revulsion against the weapon, Weiss explained.

The Manhattan congressman said that the vote represented a limited victory since this was the first time that the House had debated U.S. use of tactical nuclear weapons. He added that continued organizing against the weapon could result in a doubling of the House vote to delete neutron bomb funding. And a doubling of support would represent a House majority, Weiss pointed out.

FURTHER CONGRESSIONAL DEBATE

Congress will again debate and vote on the neutron bomb — possibly before adjournment in late October or early November.

A rider attached by Sen. Mark Hatfield R-Ore.) t the Senate ERDA appropriations measure stipulates that Congress can reverse Carter's decision by approving a joint resolution within 45 days of the President's announcement. Reflecting mounting public opposition to an escalation of the U.S. nuclear threat, House supporters of the Weiss amendment argued that production of tee neutron bomb will significantly increase the likelihood of an all-out nuclear war. If a nuclear weapon — no matter what it is called — is fired, global devastation becomes practically inevitable, neutron bomb opponents maintain.

"Once one makes nuclear war thinkable and acceptable and possible," stated Rep. Ron Dellums D-Calif.), "it will ultimately become inevitable.

KANSAS CITY — Local Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) accused department of Housing and Urban Development officials of discrimination in the distribution of flood relief benefits.

But a HUD spokesman in Washington told the AFRO a HUD spokesman said that investigators did not find any truth to the SCLC allegations.

The SCLC board members charged that the disaster center was staffed overwhelmingly with white registrars who presented an immediate cultural barrier for blacks.

Blacks, they charged, were being declared ineligible for HUD assistance at a 4 to 1 ratio. And minority building contractors were not given equal consideration in receiving HUD contracts for repairs caused by the flood.

—

The investigators — John M. Gibson and William O. Anderson, the latter a regional administrator — reportedly found that of the 36 government contracts, 22 were local and 10 were minority.

A HUD spokesman said that the probers also found that 55 per cent of the local receivers of assistance were black and 45 per cent were white and that most of the people were home owners receiving minimum repair loans.

HUD also plans to review all applications that were ruled ineligible with a new examiner. Where there were oversites, they will be corrected, the spokesman said.

The SCLC's area executive vice president, the Rev. Jesse Douglas of the Kansas City charter, said five board members, including himself, posed as flood victims at two disaster centers. He said they received numerous complaints of "red tape" procedures at the disaster centers.

Continued on Page 6

Press-CIA Cooperation Confirmed By Agency Documents

NEW YORK (LNS) — The press working for U.S. intelligence? For many, this is no news. Just one example is Luis Salzberg, who surfaced as an FBI agent during the 1969 Chicago Conspiracy trial of seven anti-war activists. A familiar figure to many as his camera snapped away at countless demonstrations, Salzberg was also an accredited photographer for the New York daily El Tiempo.

"I personally feel that by any means necessary communism must be stopped," Salzberg testified. "What surprises me is that newspaper editors have not called me up to congratulate me."

Salzbert can now take heart. For according to a recently published article by investigating Carl Bernstein in Rolling Stone Magazine, over 400 journalists across the country have carried out CIA assignments for the past 25 years. And "In many instances," the article states, "CIA documents show journalists were engaged to perform tasks for the CIA with the consent of the managements of America's leading news-gathering organizations."

The most valuable of these organizations to the CIA have been the New York Times, Columbia Broadcasting System, and Time, Inc., the documents state. But the article also lists the owners-executives of the Washington Post, the Louisville Courier-Journal, American Broadcasting Company, National Broadcasting Company, Associated Press, United Press International, Reuters, Hearts Newspapers, Scripps-Howard, Newsweek, the Miami Herald as well as of the old Saturday Evening Post and New York Herald Tribune. In short, practically all of the nation's most influential papers, wire services and radio and television networks, have cooperated with the CIA.

Services Rendered

The services offered by the media take two forms: "Providing jobs and credentials ('journalistic cover' in Agency parlance) to CIA operatives about to be posted in foreign capitals; and lending the Agency the undercover services of reporters already on the staff, including some of the best known correspondents in the business.

"In the field, American journalists were used to help recruit and handle foreigners as agents; to acquire and evaluate information; and to plant false information with officials of foreign governments."

"Rarely was a news agency used to provide cover for CIA operatives abroad without the knowledge and consent of either its principal owner, publisher or senior editor."

Among the people named are columnists C.L. Sulzberger of the New York Times — "still regarded as an active asset by the Agency" — and Joseph and the late Stewart Alsop, whose syndicated columns appeared in several national papers.

Joseph Alsop, for example, went to the Philippines in 1953, allegedly to cover the elections. But the CIA documents show that he went at the Agency's bidding. "The CIA thought his presence there might affect the outcome of an election," Alsop modestly admitted.

Steward Alsop's CIA ties were also clear; "Stew Alsop was a CIA agent," is how one official who served at the "highest levels in the CIA" described him.

"Other sources," Bernstein states, "said that Alsop was particularly helpful to the Agency in discussions with officials of foreign governments — asking questions to which the CIA was seeking answers, planting misinformation advantageous to American policy, assessing opportunities for CIA recruitment of well-placed foreigners."

Prints and Broadcasting

CIA officials cite the Ageecy's relationship with the New York Times as the most valuable among newspapers. (The Times maintained the most extensive foreign news operation of any of the American dailies.) The paper's late publisher, Arthur Hays Sulzberger, is reported to have provided his paper's cover to about 10 CIA agents from 1950-1966. They posed as stringers or clerical workers in Times' bureaus abroad.

"Sulzberger was especially close to Allen Dulles and, later, to John McCone, the CIA's cirector from 1962-1965. McCone ... regularly wrote memoranda of his conversations, including those in which Sulzberger agreed to allow undercover CIA employees to use Times credentials."

Another Controversial Death In A South African Prison

JOHANNESBURG, S. Africa — While blacks here still are astir over the mysterious prison death of Steve Biko, another jail death has come into question.

And last week a judge ruled that "no one can be blamed" for the death of the black prisoner. He upheld a police report that the man hanged himself in his prison cell.

Magistrate J.C. Maritz said an investigation turned up no evidence "there has been any actions to inspire Mr. (Naboth) Ntshuntha to commit suicide and no one can be blamed for his death."

Ntshuntha was one of 20 blacks to die while in police custody in South Africa over the past 18 months.

Police said Biko died after a week-long hunger strike in jail, but South African newspapers published reports that he died of severe brain damage.

-----

A defense attorney, E. M. Wentzel, said the death of Ntshuntha, 43, was "inexplicable." He said the prisoner was solely in the custody of the South African Police who should be held responsible for the physical and mental well-being of detainees.

A Johannesburg newspaper said "major incisions" from Ntshuntha's "throat to the groin and over the skull" were made by a police constable before a state pathologist conducted a post-mortem examination.

Ntshuntha died Jan. 9 in a jail cell at Leslie, 40 miles east of Johannesburg. He was detained on Dec. 14 last year under South Africa's security laws which empower police to detain their suspects indefinitely without trial.

Maritz ruled the prisoner died after hanging himself and said that incisions made on the body prior to a post mortem were superficial and had not interfered with a proper investigation.

However, a physician appointed by Ntshuntha's family, Dr. J. Gluckman, refused to take part in the post-mortem because of "irregularities."

Meanwhile, fresh antigovernment unrest broke out last week in widely scattered towns in South Africa and police said more than 150 black youths were arrested in a 24 hour period.

A government officer inspecting a swimming pool at Atteridgeville, a blacks-only suburb outside Pretoria, fired several shots from his pistol to chase off stone-throwing blacks.

Maj. Gen. Dawid Kriel, in charge of nationwide riot control, said there were no injuries.

Most of the arrested youths were picked up at Grahamstown, 500 miles south of Johannesburg in the Cape Province. Some 400 students marched on the center of the city from another segregated suburb. Police arrested 96 blacks in the crowd, which was protesting the inferior quality of black schools.

At the Soweto ghetto outside Johannesburg, schooling has been at a virtual standstill for weeks. More than 500 of the area's 700 black teachers have resigned and 40 schools are closed.

All 35 post-primary schools in the African homeland of Venda in the northeast have been closed and more than 12,000 students sent home indefinitely because the "atmosphere is very bad," according to a police spokesman.

At Masedi High School at Louis Trichard in the Transvaal Province, students set fire to bookshelves. In another incident, 62 students were arrested after they smashed windows at their school at Whittlesea in the Cape Province.

Blacks in South Africa have, for some time, been protesting what they regard as the inferior quality of their schools. They are also angry because their courses of instruction differ from those given to white students.

Mystery Persists Over South African A-bomb

Gemini News Service.

By Nikki Ball: New York

. . The mystery as to whether South Africa is still planning to test nuclear weapons or whether it has been warned off doing any such thing by pressure fromthe U.S. and elsewhere still persists and may for a long time to come. But the presence of a building in the Kalahari desert that appears to be a testing site, and all the moves leading to its discovery deserve examination....

What is the purpose of the site in South Africa's Kalahari Desert apparently designed to test nuclear weapons? President Carter said the South African government had assured him that it was not in the process of developing nuclear weapons.

But if South Africa had been intending to test a nuclear weapon in the near future and has now been dissuaded not only from testing but from continuing weapon development by the pressures exerted by the major suppliers, this is a very remarkable event. Time will tell.

Meantime, the facts of the situation deserve examination. In April 1971, the head of South Africa's Atomic Energy Board (AEB), Dr. A. Roux, noted that a "new" uranium enrichment process announced by Prime Minister John Vorster in July 1970 made a South African atomic weapon a possibility.

Last February, a Washington Post correspondent cited a U.S. government source to the effect that if South Africa chose to institute a crash program it could produce an atomic weapon within a "matter of months."

The question of South Africa's nuclear capability is not therefore a new one. But it had never before been suggested that South Africa was actually developing and planning to test a nuclear weapon. The warning came from the Soviet Union at the beginning of August.

Soviet officials first approached their U.S. counterparts with their information. The USSR had been alerted to the possibility of a Kalahari test site through satellite photo reconaissance.

The U.S. then ordered one of its own satellites to make low-orbit passes over the suspected test site. The result was a "99 per cent" certainty that the USSR had indeed discovered a potential nuclear test site.

Some U.S intelligence oficers believed the test site was built not for use but as a message to other countries that South Africa would not be pushed around, i.e. forced to alter its aprtheid policy.

The Carter Administration, however, decided that the Kalahari test site was intended for use. The U.S. Government then began highly secret discussions with the governments of West Germany, France and Britain on the problem and possible solutions.

The four Western powers agreed to make separate inquiries in South Africa about the Soviet allegations. But it was largely on the.U.S. and on France that the onus of dissuasion ultimately lay.

Last May, South Africa agreed to buy two French 1nuclear power stations. The U.S. government had agreed in principle to provide the urnaium needed to run the two plants until South African uranium enrichment facilities begin to produce fuel some time in the mid-1980's.

Press reports indicate that in private talks with South African officials, both the U.S. and France threatened to cut off diplomatic relations with South Africa. France also reportedly threatened to cancel the $1.2 billion deal for the two nuclear generating plants and to halt all trade between the two countries.

As a result of this pressure, Pretoria agreed to approve a statement of assurances prepared by the U.S.: to forego the development of any nuclear devices, for peaceful or wartime use; to develop no nuclear device now or in the future; and, to give its word that the Kalahari test site would never be used to test nuclear explosives.

Although the South African government has assured the U.S. that it will not violate any of these three points, no one is willing to guarantee that the matter of South Africa and nuclear weapons will end there.

Secrecy has been a key element in the development of South Africa's nuclear program to date. Few people within the South African governmentitself have been involved in nuclear policy decisions, even such as the earlier one to undertake a uranium enrichment program.

It is likely, therefore, that any decision concerning the construction of nuclear weapons was made by a very few people and that future plans will be closely held in view of the assurances given to Carter.

Although Pretoria has promised not to develop nuclear weapons, its past statements on the nuclear program have been highly contradictory. If South African officials are really intent on developing a nuclear weapon a realatively unsophisticated, but workable device could be produced without testing. Foreign officials are well aware of the fact that they cannot absolutely prevent South Africa from building a bomb.

But it is not only the South African bomb, itself, that worries the suppliers of nuclear technology. Rather, it is the impact that South Africa's ability to produce a nuclear weapon will have on the attempt to limit the spread of nuclear materials and technology.

The U.S. Energy Resource Development Agency (ERDA) lists 16 non-NATO or Warsaw pact countries which could have the potential to produce nuclear weapons within the decade. The policy of the U.S for the last two years or so has been to prevent the proliferation of nuclear materials, even for peaceful uses, without adequate safeguards against the use of this material in weapons.

In this effort it has been joined by a number of other countries, with West Germany being the most important hold-out among the major nuclear technology suppliers.

Significantly, West Germany seems to have had quite a bit to do with South Africa's nuclear program. But so has the U.S.

Until the beginning of the 1970's South Africa was not widely regarded as a "near-nuclear" nation. Nonetheless, South Africa's nuclear program began in 1957 with the establishment of the Atomic Energy Board. In the same year, South Africa became the fourth nation, after Britain, Canada and Australia, to enjoy full cooperation under the U.S Atoms for Peace Program.

As early as 1960, the AEB began to study methods of enriching uranium.

Through Atoms for Peace, the South African nuclear program got considerable help. Pretoria's first research reactor and highly enriched uranium to run it, three computers, and training for South African nuclear scientists are among the itmes thus obtained.

West Germany's technical aid had been equally important. The "new" uranium-enrichment process annoonced by Vorster in 1970 as having been developed in South Africa bears a striking resembalance to Sa West German enrichment process known as the "jet nozzle" system.

The developer of the "Jet-nozzle" system has visited South Africa and between 1969 and 1974 many South African scientists are reported to have visited the German facilities where this enrichment system has been developed.

The major nuclear technology suppliers are now concerned that South Africa will begin to provide other non-nuclear countries with enriched uranium—without any safeguards concerning its use for weaponry.

(UPI Telephoto)

ANTAGONISTS MEET—Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith (R) flew secretly to Zambia for historic talks with President Kenneth Kaunda on a possible cease - fire in the guerrilla war against his white minority regime, the two governments have announced.

Secret Meeting Yields 'Nothing'

SALISBURY, Rhodesia—A historic secret meeting between Zambian leaders and officials of the white minority Rhodesian government produced "nothing of significance," a Zambian spokesman said last week.

The spokesman also said Zambia attaches "no great significance" to unpublicized get-together of Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda and Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith, which was held in the Zambian captital of Lusaka Sept. 29. The meeting was first disclosed Oct. 1.

A Rhodesian government statement said the purpose of the meeting between Smith and Kaunda, one of the five "frontline" African Presidents backing the guerrilla struggle in Rhodesia, "was to discuss the Anglo-American proposals" for majority rule here next year.

Rhodesian political sources said Smith sought to explore the possibility of a cease-fire and ways to seperate black nationalist leader Joshua Nkomo from his alliance with Robert Mugabe and involve Nkomo in negotiations.

Kaunda is a close friend and backer of Nkomo, who has a shaky alliance with the more leftist Mugabe in the Patriotic Front.

Zambian sources added that the subject of border clashes between Zambian and Rhodesian troops, occassionally reported to include Rhodesian aerial retaliation, also was discussed.

Asked what the more than seven hours of talks produced, a Zambian government spokesman said, "Nothing of great significance."

A Zambian government statement said, "Only armed struggle will bring down the (white) rebellion in Rhodesia and effectively open the road to genuine freedom and independence for the majority."

It said Kaunda briefed his "frontline states" partners as well as U.S. and British officials on the meeting.

Kenya's detention law opposed by legislator

NAIROBI, Kenya — Pressure is mounting against a government law that people can be detained without a trial.

The Detention Act, dating back to colonial days, has been enforced by the government since independence in 1963. Its purpose is to safeguard peace and stability for the majority of the population, according to Attorney General Charles' Njonjo.

Recently, a backbench MP, Maurice Mboja, urged the government to repeal the act during a parliamentary debate on the Constitutional Amendment Bill.

Mboja asked the attorney general to let the political detainees appear in court and have charges brought against them. And if found guilty, he added, they should be sent to jail in accordance with pertinent law, instead of just held.

Presure also came from Target, the National Christian Council of Kenya's monthly magazine. It carried a front page story urging the East African governments to repeal the Detention Act.

The story said that on many occasions politicians are thrown into detention for criticizing mistakes of those in authority.

-----

Target also pointed out another group of detainees were arrested after minor incidents in drinking places "or after disagreeing with administrator on petty matters."

The attorney general warned Target that the govrernment will not hesitate to ban it if it does not stop its stories on political issues.

The fate of the detainees is a sensitive issue in Kenya. It remains to be seen whether the pressure for the Detention Act will continue.

Pardon Asked For Five Nationalist

In a letter to President Jimmy Carter, four former Puerto Rican governors have urged executive pardon for five Puerto Rican nationalists in U.S. penitentiaries since the early 1950s.

An urgent request to the U.S. Justice Department has been made as well by Federal Prison officials for the immediate release of Andres Figueroa Cordero, one of the five, who is dying of cancer in the Springfield, Mo., federal prison. Doctors at the Springfield Prison believe Figueroa will die from lung cancer within two months. The text of the governors' letter, released by the National Committee to Free the Nationalist Prisoners in Puerto Rico, pleaded for their release as "an act of humanity."

One of the five prisoners, Oscar Collazo, was convicted of an assassination attempt against President Harry Truman at the White House in 1950. In addition to Figueroa, Lolita Lebron, Rafael Cancel Miranda and Irving Flores Rodiguez, were sentenced to life imprisonment in 1954 after a commando-style attack in the U.S. House of Representatives during which five members of Congress were injured. Both actions were carried out with the intention of calling attention to the Puerto Rican independence struggle.

Under U.S. federal law, the prisoners must themselves solicit release, clemency or parole, but all five have refused to do so as they do not recognize U.S. jurisdiction in their cases.

The petition by the four former governors was not signed by current Puerto Rican Gov. Carlos Romero Barcela, who has stated publicly that he does not endorse the release campaign. Supporters of the five called an emergency demonstration outside the UN Oct. 4, during Carter's address to the General Assembly, a speech focusing on the question of human rights.

The political objectives behind missle bases in Zaire

(TASS), — West German observers, commenting on the signing of an agreement in March 1976 by the firm Orbital Transport and Raketen (OTRAG) and the Zairian authorities, came to the following conclusion: "Operaion Missile Base, now being effected by a West German firm in Africa, does not pursue scienfic, but rather militaryy and policial objectives."

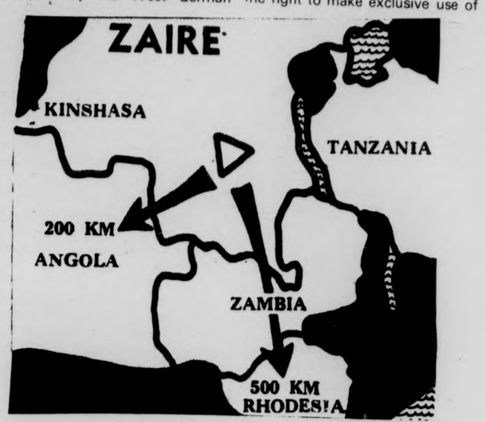
The newspaper Die Tat stressed the fact that the firm, whose headquarters are in Neu-Isenburg, "is closely linked to the FRG's war materiel industry."

The firm has been in contact for quite some time with state agencies and research centers on aviation and astronautics. In the last few years, it was assigned some six million marks of the state budget for research on missile technology.

As the aforementioned paper pointed out, the agreement with the Zairian authorities giving OTRAG a free hand for its activities in a vast portion of that country had the "active support" of the West German authorities.

The agreement leads to the establishment in Africa, under the appearance of an undertakking by a private enterprise, of a missile test base that is also "a spearhead for the intensification of political influence and pressure which, considering the existence of trouble spots in southern Africa, takes on great strategic importance," the paper pointed out.

The fears in this respect are even more justificable since the territory occupied by the West German missile center, which borders on Tanzania and Zambia, is only 200 kilometers from the border of the People's Republic of Angola and less than 500 from the border of Rhodesia.



Die Tat cited the statements made by a leader of the National Liberation Front of the Congo to the effect that the OTRAG missile center constitutes a serious and permanent danger to all of southern Africa.

By virtue of the agreement, the Zairian authorities grant OTRAG the right to make exclusive use of the territory until the year 2000 to launch missiles of all types into space. The firm has also been granted the right to organize its own security force and, if necessary, to close that territory and its air space to all traffic.

In view of this, the daily considers as well-founded the fears that the missile base in Zaire could be used to get around the international provisions limiting the production of certain types of arms in the FRG.

Ivory Coast Takes Tougher Line On South Africa

By AUGUSTINE OYOWE

Following the dramatic meeting in Geneva between President Felix Houphouet Boigny and South African Foreign Minister Pik Botha, the Ivory Coast is said to be taking a tougher line with South Africa.

No communique followed the meeting, but Ivorian sources in Geneva claim Boigny expressed his dissatisfaction at progress by the South African government on its own race relations and towards solutions on Namibia and-dRhodesia.

This seemed confirmed by Botha's statement at a Press conference in Pretoria on his return that nothing significant emerged from the talks. For the first time the South Africans were unimpressed about meeting Boligny. In the past similar talks were called "fruitful".

To Africans anxious for total isolation of the apartheid regime, this is a welcome change.

Boligny launched his highly controversial dialogue policy with South Africa at an international press conference in Abidjan in 1971. Initially he found support in Malawi, Gabon, madagascar and Ghana (then under Prime Minister Dr. Kofi Busia).

The Ivorian President believed that the way to end apartheid lay in persuasion and he has since pursued this policy eagerly, developing cultural and commercial links with South Africa.

In July 1975, a South African television team went to the Ivory Coast, whcih has a large white community, to film life there. Later that year Information Minister Laurent Dona Folongo paid an official visit to South Africa — the second made by a high-ranking African governmnt figure, after President Banda of Malawi had broken the African isolation of the apartheid regime.

THe unpopularity of Folongo's visit among Africans did not deter the Ivory Coast. Not long ago it signed an agreement giving South African Airways landing rights at Abidjan airport.

Earlier this year Boligny met South African Prime Minister John Vorster in Geneva and a few months later minor reforms in South African race relations led him to believe they were the results of dialogue. But African diplomatic observers believe they were more the result of pressure from the United States on the one hand and the Soweto riots on the other.

Biogny now seems alone in still pursuing a dialogue policy. After a Marxist orientated regime took over Madagascar and Col. Ignatuis Acheampong came to power in Ghana, both countries dropped support of dialogue. In 1975 President Bongo of Gabon said he found the association of his name with the policy "embarrassing."

Bongo took the unusual step of advertising in Western newspaper that Gabon helped and supported the liberation movements in Southern Africa and that it was opposed to dialogue with the minority regimes.

But Gabon's commercial links with South Africa were so obvious that Bongo's assertion failed to remove the impression that he favored dialogue.

As this year's chairman of the Organization of African Unity (OAU), Bongo is doing all he can to avoid being accused of winning and dining with the South Africans.

President Leopold Senghor of Senegal was believed at one time to have joined the Boigny line following his presence at secret talks at Yamoussoukro in the Ivory Coast in 1974 between Boigny and John Vorster.

But officially Senghor is known to advocate formation in South Africa of a single front by white liberals with Black and 'coloured' support to combat apartheid. He has personal friends among South Africa's while liberals.

In an interview in Parish recently, Senghor revealed that Colin Eglin, leader of South Africa's Progressive Party, was going to see him in Dakar. Botha, the South African Foreign Minister, has condemned the visit, claiming Senghor does not know what Eglin stands for, Senghor also said in Parish that in no circumstance would he have talks with South African authorities.

But it is the Boigny drama that currently evokes interest. Although many say he is a "prisoner of his own policy", France's recent change of attitude towards South Africa has led to the prediction that he may try to break contact with the Pretoria regime.

When the Ivorian President announced his dialogue policy, it was generally believed that it originated from the concept of "neutrality in Africa" — a policy the French were adopting in Africa to combat communism. Boigny's fanatical anticommunism is well known.

Boigny had had talks with French President Giscard d'Estaing in Paris on September 2 and according to French offical sources the Ivorian President was briefed on France's new policy in Africa.

Now there are reports that Boigny is contemplating meeting with liberation movements in Southern Africa.

—Gemini News Service

Israel and South Africa's Scheming

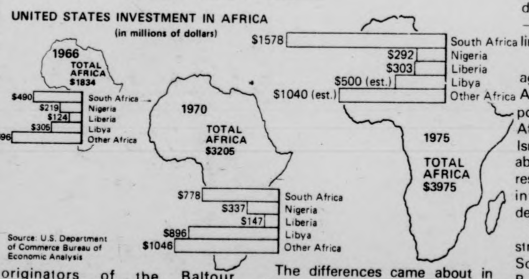
GIVEN THEIR growing isolation — brought about by world public opinion's repudiation of their racist policies — the Israeli and South African regimes have entered into close collaboration on all fronts, including the military.

A few days ago, they signed secret agreements whereby, according to reports condemning the pact, Israel will supply South Africa with new weapons and nuclear technology in exchabge for uranium.

The links between the two countries are not new and have their roots in ideological affinity, even though the two did have their differences at the beginning of the '60s. For example, in 1917 the then South African minister of defense, General Jan Smuts, was one of the originators of the Baltour declaration, which concerned the setting up of a "national Jewish home" in Palentine. Later on, at the UN, South Africa supported the splitting up of Palestine.

UNITED STATES INVESTMENT IN AFRICA

(in millions of dollars)



Source: U.S. Department of Commerce Bureau of Economic Analysis

The differences came about in 1962, when Israel, which at the time was desperately seeking diplomatic and other, ties with African countries that had gained independence, declared itself to be against apartheid. This action displeased South Africa somewhat — but not enough to obstruct its links with Israel.

Israel's 1967 and 1973 wars of aggression and its occupation of Arab territory were supported both politically and materially by South Africa. In return, starting in 1973, Israel has not been present, has abstained or has voted against resolutions in the UN and other international organizations condemning the system of apartheid.

The two regimes' ties became stronger as of April 1976, when South African Prime Minister John B. Vorster visited Israel. Since then, a number of sources have commented on South Africa's interest in acquiring Arava planes (suitable for counterinsurgent operations), Kfir pursuit planes, missiles launched from submarines and other weapons. It is well known that one of the weapons commonly used by the South African army to repress blacks is the UZI automatic rifle, of Israeli design.

It is said that uranium is at the heart of the matter. Israel has people trained in nuclear technology (they were trained in the United States), but it doesn't have uranium — the essential ingredient for making nuclear bombs, South Africa has uranium and is looking for a source of nuclear technology. Both countries are seriously working on their collaboration in the sphere of nuclear weapons, which represents a serious threat to peace and freedom for the peoples of the Middle East and of southern Africa. That is why South Africa's and Isael's scheming is so alarming.

—Juan Marrero

Neutron Bomb

(continued from P. 3)

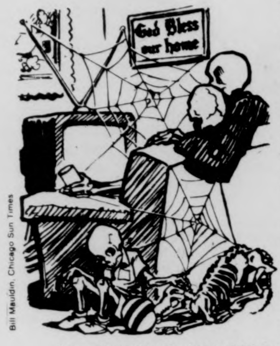
The neutron device has secretly been in the planning stage for at least a decade. The technological problems of reducing an atom bomb's blast while greatly increasing its radioactive fallout have now been surmounted, thus making neutron bomb production an imminent possibility.

The way in which the neutron bomb will wreak human devastation while sparing objects has been described in graphic detail by Dr. Edward Buddemeyer, a nuclear physicist at the University of Maryland.



God Bless our home
Bill Mauldin, Chicago Sun Times

'News item: Neutron bomb destroys only life, not property.

DEATH BY RADIATION

"If you are irradiated by a neutron bomb," Buddemeyer explains, "it will kill you in any of three ways. If you are very close, you are lucky because you will die by "quick kill."

Buddemeyer's report was paraphrased on the House floor by Rep. Barbara Mikulski D-Md.). She stated:

"He Buddemeyer) said that the neutron bomb explodes and blows so many holes in your nerve cells that you brain ceases to function. If it does not, you will collapse and you will lose control of your body functions. You will die within minutes or perhaps hours, and while you are lying there waiting for death to call, you will lie in your own wastes, in your own feces, with rapid convulsions and shaking.

"This is how this 'human~~e~~ bomb' will affect you," Mikulski continued.

"The second cause for death, if you are a little further away, will come from something call the GI syndrome, " she said. "At first you will retch and then vomit. Then the nausea will pass, but you will not feel like eating because the cells in your digestive tract, extending from your mouth, down through your throat and down into your stomach, will continue to divide and die, and by that time your digestive tract will become an open sore.

"Your heart will weaken, your kidneys will fail, your fever will climb and you are going to hallucinate. As you ~~like~~ there dying, the very insides of your body will be rotting," Mikulski added.

"The third way to die will be from the blood syndrome. If you are lucky, you will die of anemia. This will be the most peaceful option, because the neutron will attack the blood cells so they will no longer be able to reproduce." If anemia does not claim a victim on the periphery of a neutron bomb blast, death will be prolonged and agonizing, Mikulski said. "A mere hangnail will bleed and your mouth will hemorrhage," she continued. "Microbes will grow in your lungs and they will lose their elasticity. Fluid will begin to gather and, in effect, your own lungs will become a swamp within your own body.

"As you gasp and struggle for breath," Mikulski declared, "your liver will fail and your skin will turn yellow. You will then perhaps die or drown from your own contaminated body fluids contained in your lungs and your liver. This will take four to five weeks while you are lying there."

INTERNATIONAL PROTEST

Western European nations — the ostensible beneficiaries of "the neutron deterrent" — have meanwhile begun to resist Carter's intention of locating the bombs within their borders. Stockpiling of neutron weapons is certain to increase the level of tensions in Europe, West German and French politicians and activists have explained.

Mass demonstrations against the bomb have also been held in Eastern Europe, particularly in the German Democratic Republic. These nations reject the U.S. contention that the neutron device is meant to deter an "invasion" of Western Europe. The real purpose of deploying the weapon in Europe, they argue, is to intimidate Eastern Europe with the threat of neutron bombardment of population centers.

Among the U.S. organizations demanding a halt to neutron bomb fundings are Mobilization for Survival, which sponsored the Aug. 6 actions marking the anniversary of the bombing of Hiroshina, and the United Auto Workers. By building on this kind of coalition," commented a Women Strike for Peace worker, "we can assemble a broad front which can prevent Carter and Congress from taking this insane step."

Ian Smith's Victory in the Fraudulent Election

THE SO-CALLED parliamentary election in Rhodesia, called by racist Prime Minister Ian Smith in an attempt to give some legal semblance to his regime, ended on September 1 with "total victory" for the ruling Rhodesian Front over the other contenders — also reactionary, of course — and with the Front's taking all 50 seats in Parliament as a result.

As to be expected, the capitalist news agencies wasted no time in spreading the news about the "landslide victory for Smith" (AFP), Smith's "solid" position, "consolidated by the overwhelming electoral victory" (AP) and commenting on Smith's possible response to the British-U.S. efforts to find a neocolonial solution to the "Rhodesian problem," now that he has been "massively ratified in his post by the electorate" (UPI)

All this would make good material for a joke if it weren't for the fact that behind it lies the tragedy of the people of Zimbabwe and their heroic struggle for the liberation and independence that they have been deprived of by those who now are trying to present themselves as the main advocates of the transfer of power to the African majority.

It is obvious that the "parliamentary election" held in Rhodesia is part and parcel of the maneuvers of the imperialists and

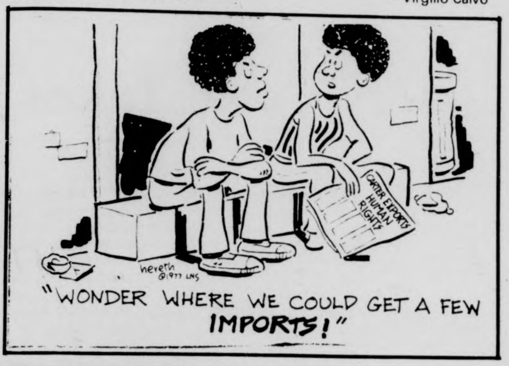
The "selection" among the white population wasn't too successful, either. Only 100,000 whites, among some 250,000, were accepted as being eligible to vote — and, of them, 80 percent voted.

If we add the 75 per cent of "non-whites" who did not exercise their "right" to vote and the 20 per cent of the white settlers mentioned above who also failed to vote, we find that a total of 81,875 voters voted for Ian Smith and his party.

reaction to try to block the struggle for liberation being waged by the patriots, now grouped in the Zimbabwe Patriotic Front. Suffice it to quote the capitalist news agencies, which, in spite of their intentions, haven't been able to hide the truth completely. According to their dispatches, of the 6,500,000 Africans in Rhodesia, only 7500 were allowed to vote.

If 81,875 voters out of 6,750,000 potential voters represent the Rhodesian electorate for the imperialists and their allies, it wouldn't come as a surprise to anyone if, tomorrow, Smith should proclaim himself a champion of racial integration. After all, aren't the imperialists heading a human rights campaign?

—Virgilio Calvo



CARTER EXPORTS HUMAN RIGHTS
hereth ©1977 LNS
"WONDER WHERE WE COULD GET A FEW IMPORTS!"

Press CIA Co-op

(continuation P. 3)

Both C.L. Sulzberger and Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, the present publisher of the New York Times, deny knowledge of CIA personnel using either the Times' cofer or of CIA agents working directly for the paper.

The CIA's key broadcasting ally was CBS "CBS president William Paley and Allen Dulles were extremely close," writes Bernstein. "Over the years, the network provided cover for CIA employees, inccuding at least one well-known foreign correspondent and several stringers; it supplies outtakes of newsfilm to the CIA ... "

Malcolm Muir, Newsweek's editor from 1937-1961, when it was sold to the Washington Post Co., also kept in close touch with then CIA director Dulles: "Whenever I heard something that I thought might of interest to Allen Dulles, I'd call him up ... "

And also during the cold war, Time magazine's foreign correspondents attended regular CIA "briefings."

Unbroken Line to Present

Although much of the report focuses on CIA connections with the press during the 50's and 60's, its implications for the present are clear. In its recent investigation of the CIA, the Senate Intelligence Committee balked at pursuing an inquiry into the CIA's relationship with the press as detailed in the Agency's files:

" ... Former directors Colby and Bush and CIA special counsel Mitchel Rogovin were able to convince key members of the committee that full inquiry or even limited public disclosure of the domensions of the activities would do irreparable damage to the nation's intelligence-gathering apparatus ... "

"It came as no surprise to me," commented James Aronson, Professor of Communications at Hunter College, a founder and editor of the National Guardian and author of The Press and the Cold War. Aronson based the willingness of many journalists to work with the CIA on "a misguided sense of patriotism in which a lot of journalists become victims of their own acquiescence in the making of government policy."

"The basic foreign policy of the U.S. has held an unbroken line from Truman to the present," Aronson told LNS. "Journalists ... think they're acting in the public interest or the interest of national security. Classic examples of the national security smokescreen can be found in the Nixon and Johnson administrations — especially in Vietnam.

Puerto Rican Nationalist Political Prisoners

November 1, 1977 marks the 27th anniversary of the attack on Blair House (the then temporary residence of President Harry Truman) by two members of the Nationalist Party of Puerto Rico, Oscar Collazo and Griselio Torresola. Truman was the target of their attack because during the previous Spring he had sent orders to Puerto Rico to destroy the Nationalist Party. This position was similar to the one taken by the F.B.I., Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon against the Black Panther Party in the U.S.

Some 3½ years later, on March 1, 1954, when the U.S. was trying to mask the colonial reality of Puerto Rico by changing the status of the island to a 'commonwealth' four more members of the Nationalist Party brought the colonial case of Puerto Rico to the attention of the world. The U.S. had to maneuver the United Nations and the Organization of American States into refusing to discuss the status of Puerto Rico. Members of the Party were held in jail by the hundreds in Puerto Rico. It was determined by the Nationalist Party that the struggle for Puerto Rican independence had to be made known to the world once again.

Lolita Lebron, Rafael Cancel Miranda, Irvin Flores and ANdres Figueroa Cordero enter the United States Congress on March 1. They carried leaflets, a Puerto Rican flag, and weapons. Shouting for freedom for their country they fired into the House of Representatives wounding six congressment.

Andres Figueroa Cordero

Since that time all have been confined to federal prisons in the United States. Lolita Lebron was placed in solitary confinement for 16 months following her participation in a prison work stoppage protesting the slaughters of prisoners during the Attica uprising. Visiting privileges, reading materials, communication among the prisoners has been tightly controlled. Until October 6 of this year, one of the five, Andres Cordero, was dying in prison of cancer. Only the collective protest of people throughout this country and in Puerto Rico forced a president who advocates "human rights" to free him.

Recently Lolita Lebron commented on her actions and what motivated them. "The Puerto Rican people have felt the tactics and strategies of colonialism and subjugation. They have been taught to be afraid of freedom or not to lift their voices for national identity. It is paramount in the making of colonialism that the colonized repudiate their birthright and to nationhood and that they bind themselves to the concept of paternalism."

Obtaining the freedom of the four Nationalists who still remain in jail is of critical importance. Getting them out of prison is possible. It takes a lot of hard work, but it is possible. The Puerto Rico Solidarity Committee with the support of the Puerto Rican Socialist Party, Native American Solidarity Committee, and Hispanic Council for Human Rights will be holding a two hour informational picket line on Saturday October 29 from 12:00-2:00 in front of the Court House in Northampton. We urge all groups and individuals to participate in this picket and demand the release of the Nationalist Prisoners and all political prisoners.

---

Muhal Richard Abrams Trio Performs

Muhal Richard Abrams with Steve McCall on percussion and Leonard Jones on bass performed at the Buckley Recital Hall Tuesday, October 11th. Muhal Richard Abrams, militantly demanding of his instrument, the acoustic piano, and among the founders of the Association For the Advancement of Creative Musicians from Chicago, presented his keeen musicianship which includes composing, conducting, playing and teaching. After the non-stop concert one could hear, "People were looking for something familiar.... didn't hear anything I'd ever heard before! "They were tappin' atom!"

MUHAL RICHARD ABRAMS TRIO PERFORMS

"Charlie The Parker"

Muhal Richard Abrams seated paying tribute to a master, playing a keyboard Kinte weave — noble structure of hand spun gold; a triad of percussion: Leonard Jones standing behind his bass and Steve McCall nodding in pleasure toward his drums, toward those still entering the hall. Three minutes into the suit Steve McCall glows through a sheen of humidity. Muhal pushes the momentum into a steep-climb intensity, dialectically challenging every mute force pressing down.

Muhal: "It's more than compositions...."

Will bars bend; will metals cry; will life lines throb; will Anancy hands walk, flank-rush chordal spores — their bursting, flowering into double stops, slides and glide resonances?

"Trio Waltz Trio"

A multitude of winds break the rhythmic waves into a full front storm, a singular song resonating, a solar sock cymbal totters, they bear another season of seizure. Muhal's articulate hurricanes skate under scanning radar while onlookers search for clearing sky, for ground, but tidal upsurge precedes reprise of spaced notes.

"Rhythm Song"

Percussion canopy — a drum breaks time, a one man drum choir and its mercury beads glisten.

Meditation falls inbetween. A scientist in sound notes the chart. A Chi train of rhythm wheels turns overhead and every soul is born again in a south side store front before the right hand is satisfied — yes, Muhal!

"The Ballad Path"

Keyboard in volcanic surges, below and above the bridge saltando, and, from the well — carillon bells and a circumnavigating gong, vocals Dogon; Czech shakers; again from the well, multiple note bell toll; piano transformed to grand acoustic marimba, resonances hovering like incense — timbre and xylosound linger. From an island land of a red spoked sun, Tin, crystal brass chimes, slowing time, bass purring; tight polished wood in orbit around a radiant cymbal, concentric swirls of vibrations, centrifical chords and clairvoyant notes speeding and slowing.

"March of the Transients"

Here they come, a collage of lines, of moving profiles, of Romare's pasteups and the hall is a Black earth shrine. A challenge motions the drums for an all out crescendo and with tender touch an antiphonal dive calls forth from African wood. Muhal: "We're interpreting and experiencing human qualities." Encore, chord zones amalgamate and build a realm of—

"Divestments"

Chicago blues and you feel it blues and its got you blues. Muhal: "It's about images!" It was new, it is new, it is birth in sound — an answer. Muhal: "When they destroy their youth, they have no future." Listen, ".... 'jazz' is a label to control." Look for a music that frees. Don't stop. There was example with this trio of intersecting-permeating percussion, signifying forward time!

MESSAGE TO PLEASURE: You made us proud homeboys, funky P.O. you put on the map, come back! With joyous love, Amherst area northwesterners!

Black Man Imprisoned Since '67 Urban Riots Convicted Again: Will Appeal A Third Time

LIBERATION News Service

NEW YORK (LNS) — A decade has passed since rebellions swept through the ghettos of the United States in the summer of 1967. For many Americans that "long hot summer" is no more than a distant memory of burning buildings and flaming headlines. But not for George Merritt. Merritt has spent seven years of that decade in New Jersey jails, twice convicted of taking part in the murder of a Plainfield, N.J. policeman who had shot down a black teenager, twice set free by appeals courts, but never freed from the threat of prosecution. On September 28, Merritt was found guilty of first degree for the third time by an all-white jury and was immediately sentenced to life in prison.

"Flimsy and Questionable" Evidence

Like Merritt's two previous convictions, this verdict hinged entirely on the testimony of a single eyewitness — a man whom the Appellate Division of Superior Court had unanimously described in 1971 as an "unreliable" source of "flimsy and questionable" testimony.

If the testimony of Donald Frazier was "flimsy and questionable" the first time around, by the third time it had also become badly torn and frayed. Merritt's attorney Thomas Ashley caught Frazier in several new contradictions during cross-examination and underlined several of the glaring inconsistencies in his testimony that were already on the record.

Frazier claims to have stood by and watched as a crowd of black protesters chased a policeman who had just shot and critically wounded Bobby Lee Williams. And he claims that he spotted Merritt in particular, wielding a hammer or meat cleaver, as the crowd caught and fatally beat the policeman.

No other eyewitnesses places Merritt at the scene or claims to have seen him or anyone else brandishing a weapon. One man who had been standing very near Frazier and had given names of others he had seen that night told the court, "I know George Merritt and I did not see him there."

Defense Attorney Ashley questioned Frazier about the peculiar history of his testimony, starting with the fact that he did not mention witnessing the killing to anyone for almost a week after it happened. Even after he had called the police, who were eagerly searching for the killers of their fellow officer, they supposedly didn't get around to taking a statement from him for more than a month.

Merritt's supporters have suggested that Frazier may have spent that month publishing his testimony. Nevertheless, at the first trial in which Merritt was tried along with 10 others, Frazier misidentified two of Merritt's codefendants. And in this third trial, he apparently forgot a key element in his story. Asked whether he had provided names of suspects when he first came forward as a witness, Frazier confidently answered, "Yes."

"But you testified in 1968 that you did not," Ashley pointed out.

"I don't know if I did or not," Frazier conceded.

"Guilty Until Proven Innocent"

Gaps in Frazier's testimony didn't prevent a jury from convicting Merritt in 1968. Nine other black defandants had already been declared innocent, and the jury was under considerable "pressure to convict someone," as the appeals court noted in overturning the first conviction. George Merritt and Gail Madden had the misfortune to be the last someones left. Both were convicted in 1968 and again in 1974, leading the New Jersey chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union to state that "the entire episode resembles the prosecution in Massachusetts of Sacco and Vanzetti."

Both Merritt and Madden have by now become respected advocates for prison reform and first-hand experts in the injustice of the American judicial system. Merritt is a leader in the National Alliance Against Racist and Political Repression. And he didn't go into his third trial with fals hopes held high.

When a New Jersey black newspaper asked him if he expected a fair trial, Merritt replied bleakly, "I don't know if such a thing exists. In the courtroom, the defendant is guilty until proven innocent."

After the guilty verdict came done on September 28, after his parents had bolted from the courtroom in tears, leaving his wife and friends to hear the judge impose a life sentence, Merritt sounded neither surprised nor defeated. "I've been here before," he said. "I can deal with it." His lawyers plan to appeal the conviction.

"The only thing that will free me is a public, political campaign," Merritt commented. "We have to make people aware that my conviction was the result of racism and repression. There was no way that I could have been convicted solely on the evidence."

(Thanks to the Daily World for much of this information.)

Black History Film

One of the most ambitious projects ever undertaken by Canada's National Film Board has just been completed. It's an hour-long documentary history of the Blacks in Canada, one of a series of films on minority groups in that country. In this case, the documentary will fill a significant gap in historical knowledge. There have been Blacks in Canada since 1605, but their achievements in building the country have never been properly recorded.

Much of the film has been shot on location. Among the main incidents are the arrival of Loyalist Blacks in Nova Scotia after the American Revolutionary War, the feeling of thousands of Blacks from the United States during the War of 1812, and the arrival of runaway slaves in Canada, which had outlawed slavery as early as 1793. The film is due for release early next year.

Notice

NOTICE

Each year seven students are chosen to be on the CCEBS Board of Directors. The Board of Directors consists of 18 faculty and staff members, two graduate students and five undergraduate students. Its primary function is td establish policies for the CCEBS program. If any students are interested in eing on the Board, please stop into the CCEBS Business Office to fill out an application.

The Mad Gibsons Chocolate Box Revue

On Friday, October 21, the Mad Gibson's Chocolate Box Review an authentic minstrel and vaudeville show will be presented at the Buckley Recital Hall at Amherst College. This program is made possible by a grant from the 5-College Lecture Fund, The President's Office, and the Black Cultural Center. The show will include the antics of Albert & Sandra Gibson, Galervean Mosley, comic stripper, Paul Moondog Wheaton, the only one-man band in the world. Also one of the outstanding tap dancers of this era, Charles Cook, will perform solo and in concert. Also featured will be the dancing Chorus line called the Gibson Girls and an All Star Big Little Band. Sandra Gibson, the 1938 Lindy Hop Champ, will perform original comedy. The show starts at 8:00 p.m. and is open to the public free of charge.

Bert Gibson joined his Show Business family at the age of five, in his father's show called The Gibson' Chocolate Box Review. He and his family were in Olsen & Johnson's Hell's-a-Poppin'.

VOTE FOR MACK BUZZARD
VOTE FOR MR. SWING

The mad Gibsons chocolate box revue Oct. 24, 1976 at the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D.C.

At thirteen, he formed an act called The Three Chocolateers that made up a dance called "Peckin". They performed all over Europe and did a command performance for the Queen of England.

He and first wife, Olivette Miller, had their show called Hi Lights, where they introduced the name famous Four Tops.

Since then, he was Choreographer for the Mura Dehn Japp Co. in Mexico and on a successful tour of Africa.

His second wife, Sandra, was 1938's Lindy Hop Champion, and was crowned Queen of the "Boogie Woogie" when she was with "Whitey's Lindy Hoppers". She was in two pictures; worked such places as Billy Rose's Casa Manna with Ethel Waters; worked Radio City, the Roxy, six months in the Cotton Club, Bill Robinson's Hot Mikado, etc.

Being versatile, she singe, acts and does comedy. At one time, she was among the top ten in Exotic Dancers. She did a comedy act with Clarence "Pops" Foster. She formed a challenge Shake Dance between two women called Sandra and LaKeeta.

The husband and wife team have their own package show called The Mad Gibsons Chocolate Box Review. They had a successful showing last October 31 at the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C. The Institute called their show "A lively variety of Song, Dance and Comedy from America's Black Vaudeville tradition."

Scenes From Homecoming Weekend '77

Ray Semai and Steve sing at the N.A.H.
George Benson
Masters of percussion
Eon John
Big Al introduced George Benson
"Pleasure"
George Benson
"Voices of New Africa House" Choir
People Enjoying Pleasure
Eno Donald Washington — Talent Show

Five College Talent Show

"Five College Talent Show' Sponsored by the Mt. Holyoke College Afro Am Association. To be held Oct. 28 as part of a Cultural Weekend. The talent show is open to all interested Third World students.

For fu/ther information contact Julie Ferguson at 538-2371.

JOIN THE NATIONAL BLACK STUDENT'S ASSOCIATION

WE WiLL WIN

Thoughts Reflecting Death

thoughts reflecting death
Sister,
Remember the time you dealt with yo' "true love?"
and how you slept with cinderella dreams, 'bout how beautiful it would all be?
Remember when you found out he was laying the same shit on another sister (and a white girl), at the same time?
and when you decided, made up yo' mind, that it was yo' turn—you would run thru men the way he had done women (yeah, fuck emotion, this is war, right?)—'cause the hurt was too much for someone as nice as you.
Remember. Remember?
Remember!
Well, I was the brother who smiled at you the next day.
Now, all I Remember is the smile and the pain.
—

a "Brickhouse", he thought.
this would be the one. he had to settle for rocks.
—

Brother,
It's just like the time you ran home to kick ass cause some young stude had laid yo' sister and raised. Only now you the stud and you feel the pain.
Sam thing! Who would you hit-hurt if you had to feel what the sister felt?
—

"Get a niggah with a car, then you got a man!
That's what some sister told my lady. So I got a ride!"
Correction ladies: get a niggah with a car and you get a niggah with a car (period)
—

P.S. Whity sits on high, and continues to laugh, as we slobber on one another!!

Special Announcement

Beginning th [illegible] all 1977 Black Mass Commun[illegible]ation Project will be sponsorin[illegible] Third World Women's F[illegible]tive radio program on [illegible]1.1 F.M. Amherst. We [illegible]ature Third World Women [illegible]nusical arts and to hold [illegible] on issues that affect us. [illegible]gram planning is still in proce[illegible] so we invite all interested Th[illegible] World Women to please contac[illegible] Hernandez 584-0672.

Public Service Announcement

All CCEBS students interested in law should note that on Saturday, October 29, 1977, there will be a minority recruitment conference held at Syracuse University College of Law in Syracuse, New York. This conference will run from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. This conference is specifically aimed to interest minorities and women into the legal profession. Refreshments will be served throughout the day. If anyone has any questions concerning this conference, please contact Brian Maher in Room 208 of the New Africa House.

---

Commandos free hostages in West Germany

Five-day odyssey of terror ends - see Page 3

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 33 TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1977.

Collegian

Ernest A. Lynton, UMass vice president, being considered for college posts in New York.

CUNY seeks UM official

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

UMass Vice President for Academic Affairs Ernest A. Lynton is reportedly being considered for two top posts in the City College of New York system, the Collegian has learned.

Lynton yesterday said he is aware his name is being considered for the post of vice chancellor for academic affairs for the City College of New York and for president of Queens College, also in the City College system.

Lynton, however, said he would remain at his present post if he could effectively work with the interim or new UMass president succeeding current UMass President Robert C. Wood. Wood this summer announced his January resignation.

The Queens College student newspaper, Newsbeat, informed the Collegian Friday that Lynton is among candidates being considered for the New York posts.

"I am aware my name has been suggested," Lynton said. "But I really don't know enough about them."

Sources also told the Collegian that Lynton is among the top candidates for the posts. Lynton, however, said he is not aware of that.

"I may be among one of two candidates) or one of two hundred, I don't know," he said.

The chairman of the Queens College Presidential Search Committee, Walter Crowley, could not be reached for comment yesterday.

Lynton said he would consider leaving UMass if what he termed a "challenging opportunity" arose. He added the New York posts could be considered a "challenging opportunity" but only under "appropriate conditions," he said. He did not say what the conditions would be.

As for staying at his present post under an interim or new president, Lynton said, "There would be one or two individuals I would be proud to serve with. Others, I might not be able to." Lynton declined to specify who those various people might be.

Before serving at his present post, Lynton served as dean of Livingston College of Rutgers University in New Jersey, from 1965-73. Prior to that he served as a physics professor, also at Rutgers.

At UMass, Lynton's primary responsibilities are to review academic plans and tenure and to review proposals for new academic programs.

Town Meeting votes home-rule bill appeal

By PAMELA LINDMARK
Collegian Staff

Amherst Town Meeting members last night voted to appeal the Massachusetts Attorney General's ruling against the enactment of a "Home-Rule Bill" in Amherst. The bill would allow establishment of a security deposit trust account for Amherst tenants and landlords.

In other action during their biannual meeting, members allocated additional funds to improve safety in downtown intersections. They also decided to appropriate an additional $100,000 to aid the Amherst Redevelopment Authority.

One town committee in a preliminary report announced the establishment of a pilot project for recycling newspapers and bottles in March and April. The project is an effort to determine the costs of proposed curbside pickup.

Controversial articles dealing with recombinant DNA research were not discussed at last night's meeting. Town meeting will reconvene Wednesday night in the Amherst Regional Jr. High School Auditorium at 7:30.

The Town Meeting members, in deciding to vote for establishing a security deposit trust account in Amherst, are fighting for an account which would hold the security deposits of area tenants in an interest bearing account. This account would remain unaffected if an apartment complex should go bankrupt, and would act to protect tenant security deposits in the case of tenant-landlord disputes.

The bi-annual Amherst Town Meeting, being held this week, attracted more than 200 residents last night. (Staff photo by Greg DiPietro)

The cost of such an appeal, including legal expenses, would be between $2,000-$5,000, said Selectman Nancy Eddy.

"It is by no means a frivolous action," said Eddy. "The majority of the Board of Selectmen believe you should vote for this law. Challenging it in court gives the law a better chance of going through."

Selectman William Atkins is the only board member to vote against this appeal. He pointed out the expense would deplete town council funds until spring.

"If you go ahead with this," said Atkins, "you're doing what we've criticized state legislature time and time again for. That is, passing laws that we, the voters, must pay for."

However, Town Meeting members approved the article with a voice vote.

The proposal to improve downtown safety conditions called for a $17,000 appropriation for the purpose of acquiring small amounts of private land. This land is needed for curbing and paving in connection with the TOPICS program, a program involving the reconstruction of eight dangerous in-

TURN TO PAGE 6

Senate power motion causes unrest

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

A motion enlarging the powers of the Undergraduate Student Senate Coordinating Committee has caused some student politicians to charge the motion's supporters with promoting a hidden agenda, while the backers of the motion contend their only interest is coordinating the efforts of student-funded agencies.

When the senate convenes in its weekly meeting tomorrow night, a heated debate is expected to ensue over the proposal, once again squaring off the backers of unionization and those who remain against the union.

The motion is an amendment to the Student Government Association (SGA) constitution, which would make the coordinating committee responsible for developing and coordinating policy among the various student-funded advocacy agencies.

The drive to put these agencies, which include the Student Center for Educational Research, the Legal Services Office and the senate's legislative liaison on Beacon Hill, under the direct control of the committee represents a major move towards a union-organize student government, something which union backers have been striving for since the summer.

SGA co-president Jon A. Hite and Senator Paul M. Cronin both question the motives behind the proposal which is co-sponsored by senate speaker Brian J. DeLima and Senator Susan Birmingham. Cronin is himself a former SGA co-president, while Birmingham is one of the leaders of the Student Organizing Project, a senate-funded group leading the drive to reorganize student government along union lines.

Birmingham said there is a lack of coordination among all the different student government agencies.

Birmingham said the restructured committee would have the "power of coordination, not of decision making... the senate will decide priorities."

Hite said he is concerned about political motivation behind the motion. He said it is "a good motion if you're a powerful member of the Coordinating Committee."

Hite said under the proposal the 15-member committee "would have a shit load more power than they have now." Hite added there is a "difference between coordination and domination."

DeLima said "Right now (agency) people are going off on their own tangents... nobody is being made accountable." DeLima said "the senate needs to become totally involved in how to organize, what issues to organize around and what the staff will be doing."

The agencies are now controlled by individual boards for each agency.

Cronin said he is also opposed to restructuring the Coordinating Committee. He said the motion would "take away a lot of power the senate should have...."

Inside

- The Everywoman's Center can help victims of discrimination with legal information and other resources. Fifi Ball has the story on Page 2.
- A physician claims pharmaceutical firms refuse to produce drugs to combat fatal diseases because those illnesses affect such a small percentage of the population that firms cannot make a profit. See story, Page 7.
- Israeli speaker Uri Ra'anan spoke at the Campus Center yesterday afternoon about a new U.N. resolution concerning the Middle East. Reporter Debbie Graff's story is on Page 4.
- Recent labor negotiations have caused problems across the country. See stories, Page 8.
- Weather — Partly sunny with a high in the 50s. Fair and cold tonight. Chance of showers tomorrow.

About Women / Disorders hidden

Graphic: Randy Glenn

By JULIE MELROSE
Collegian Staff

This is the fifth in a weekly series of articles on women's health care.

The following information was taken from several sources including pamphlets distributed by University Health Services titled "Vaginal Ecology" and "Vaginal Discharge"; and the books Our Bodies, Ourselves (Boston Women's Health Book Collective, Simon & Schuster, '76) and Vaginal Politics (Ellen Frankfort, Bantam, '73).

There are a number of women's genital disorders which affect many women everywhere. Most women don't realize how common they are because these disorders are not usually discussed or written about in publications available to non-professionals.

Many women hesitate to seek treatment for such disorders as vaginitis, inflamation of the vagina, and cystitis, inflamation of the bladder. They are frightened and embarrassed thinking their problem is unique. Women can help each other deal with these disorders realistically by sharing information and experiences.

Ideally, information about all kinds of common health problems, including sex-related problems, would be distributed in schools. Many schools are moving in this direction. Since such information has not been made available to most women while they were growing up, they need to educate themselves now so they can care for their own health needs more effectively.

Here is some information about two of the most common genital disorders women experience:

Cystitis

Cystitis is an inflammation and-or infection of the bladder. Nearly every woman gets it sometime in her life. Although it is not a serious condition, the symptoms can be painful and frightening. Symptoms often appear quite suddenly, and include the frequent need to urinate (although almost nothing comes out and a burning sensation is present), pain above the pubic bone and the presence of blood and pus in the urine.

Many women also report a psychological reaction in the form of restlessness and panic at the appearance of the symptoms. Knowing the symptoms appear more serious than the actual condition may be reassuring.

If a woman suspects she has cystitis, she should see a doctor. The doctor will take a urine sample to identify the bacteria causing the inflammation. She will probably be treated with antibiotics or sulfa drugs for about two weeks. Her symptoms should disappear long before treatment is completed. If discomfort is severe, she may be given a drug called Pyridium which relieves the symptoms, although it does not cure the disorder.

Here are some things a woman can do to make herself more comfortable until she gets to a doctor:

Drink lots of water (at least a large glass

TURN TO PAGE 9

Everywomen's Center offers aid

Women's Center battles discrimination

By FIFI BALL
Collegian Staff

If you feel you've been discriminated against, on the job or in other situations, on campus or off, because of sex, race, or sexual preference, there is someone who'll help you.

Cheryl Schaffer, a staff member at Everywoman's Center (EWC), functions as a legal adviser and resource person for people who feel they've been discriminated against.

"Presently the legal situation is very confusing," said Schaffer, "it's hard for people to figure out just what to do."

She said she educates people about options they have in dealing with a discriminatory situation.

Schaffer has a BA in Labor Relations and Women's Studies from UMass, and has done union work for several years. She has worked with the Job Action Center and the Employment Work Group of the Valley Women's Union. She was a staff member at EWC for two and a half years doing public relations before taking on her current role.

There are channels within the University for both staff and students to protest discrimination but these are not well publicized, said Schaffer.

"Often when a woman is discriminated against she's confused about her right to complain or the way to complain. I can help her look at her situation, validate her experience, and choose what action to take," said Schaffer.

Some examples of cases Schaffer has handled are:

—a female instructor at the University found, through informal contact with a male instructor in a position parallel to hers, that he earned $3000 per year more than she did. She was given various reasons by the head of the department. The case has taken over a year. There has been no admittance of discrimination by the department. They offered her a general job upgrading, "not a specific solution," said Schaffer. The woman was subjected to harassment in her department all year and finally decided not to take the job.

—a woman working through the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) was hired to drive a truck and run the machinery on a public road crew. For three months she shovelled gravel. Then she saw a much younger man come into the same job, untrained as she had been, and in two days was driving the truck. When she complained she was told to "take it or quit," said Schaffer. Her CETA counselor told her the firm had always been bad in these areas and to just keep doing what she was. She made a number of other attempts within CETA, until finally she was fired from her job for complaining. She appealed to the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination for a hearing but the process is very slow so she hasn't heard anything yet.

—numerous instances where a male professor or teaching assistant has sexually propositioned female students.

—the manager of an Amherst bar and restaurant was making sexual advances. The woman he was propositioning in this case refused him. He proceeded with some general harassment — asking her to do things not included in her job description (i.e. switching her hours at the last minute), making anti-Semitic remarks. She went to Schaffer for some information on the legalities of picketing and leafletting. She did them and they worked. She got back pay and a public apology.

"I see it as general trend in affirmative action — equal employment. People are very worried about discriminating against white males. Institutions are doing their best to forget there is still rampant discrimination against third world people and women. The laws haven't changed it either.

"It's important for individuals to stand up for themselves. Every time discrimination happens to one woman, if she doesn't say 'stop' it'll continue to happen to other women in her situation. Though she does it in one sense for herself; in general every time one woman stands up and says 'no' it affects other women," said Schaffer.

Schaffer will work with people regarding racism, sexism, gay rights, unions and organizing, and miscellaneous employment regulations (i.e. overtime, or the legal pay scale.)

She will try to answer any questions you have. Contact her at EWC at 545-0883.

TURN TO PAGE 9

Today's Staff

Issue Editor William Mills

| | |
|---|---|
| Issue Assistants | Barbara Metzler |
| Editorial Layout | Paula Strollo |
| Sports Layout | Walt Cherniak |
| Ad Layout | Bert Dougan |
| Wire Layout | Bob Higgins |
| Day Layout | Elaine Scannell |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Dan Vullemier |
| Copy Editor | Rose Conway |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

UMass cited for unfair practices

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

A state agency has cited UMass for unfair labor practices in its dealings with the faculty union, and given the administration five days to reply.

The Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission cited UMass on Oct. 12 for failing to bargain in good faith with the faculty union over the issue of department persons and several other categories.

The commission included department chairpersons and other categories in its original ruling on the bargaining unit last fall. The UMass administration contended that those categories should not be included in the unit and refused to bargain once the union was voted in last February. As a result, the union filed a complaint.

However, the ruling from the commission handed down against UMass is just what the administration wanted to happen, according to Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery, who also acts as an executive vice president in charge of implementing policy regarding the faculty union.

"It is what we expected," Bromery said last night in a telephone interview.

Bromery explained that under an informal agreement reached with the union, the union would file a complaint with the commission alleging that the administration was not bargaining in good faith.

Meanwhile, the union would hold what Massachusetts Society of Professors (MSP) President Larry S. Roberts terms a "preference poll" among department chairpersons to find out if they wished to be included in the union bargaining unit. The MSP represents Amherst faculty while an affiliate represents Boston faculty.

When the complaint filed by the union finally comes before the commission, both sides have agreed to petition the commission to redefine the bargaining unit along the lines indicated in the "preference poll" taken among department chairpersons. The other categories repesent minor disputes and will probably not be contested.

The past week's unfair labor practices citation clears the way for that hearing.

Roberts said department chairpersons have been polled, but that results of the poll are not clear because some ballots are being challenged. He said a new poll may be needed.

Roberts said Amherst chairmen voted 31-25 against being included in the bargaining unit, with one ballot asking for a separate unit outside the existing union to represent them.

LSO may hire aide

By KAREN PARMENTER
Collegian Staff

The Legal Services Office may be hiring an accountant to assist in a suit against the University over the administration's past use of Campus Center and Boarding Hall trust funds after the Graduate Student Senate last night voted to fund such a position. The LSO is a student funded organization which gives legal advice to students and has the power to sue the University on behalf of the student body or student organizations.

The Undergraduate Student Senate and the Board of Governors have already agreed to fund the LSO $2,000 and $1,000, respectively for the accountant.

In 1973 the UMass Board of Trustees used monies from the two funds to purchase land near the Fraternity-Sorority Park, which the board had acquired on short term notes. At that time LSO unsuccessfully brought a suit against the University, seeking to halt the transfer of funds.

According to LSO representatives Michelle Leaf, LSO is now trying to bring about a suit of equity, which is intended to prove that other funds could have been used to purchase the land. In order to do this, Leaf said, LSO would need the assistance of an accountant since no one in the office has the

TURN TO PAGE 6

Rain is expected tomorrow, of course. But, April is less than six months away, when these scenes will be familiar. (Staff photo by Jeff Stone)

Commando team saves hostages

BONN, West Germany [UPI] — A German anti-terrorist commando group rescued all 86 hostages aboard a hijacked Lufthansa airliner at Mogadishu in a lightning midnight raid reminiscent of Entebbe, the West German government announced early today.

Spokesmen said the 86 hostages including 11 German beauty queens and an ailing American woman and her 5-year-old son were saved. At least three of the four hijackers were killed, and the fourth was believed to have been killed.

The raid was carried out by Unit 9 of the Federal Border Protection troops who jubilantly radioed Bonn at 28 minutes past midnight, 7:28 Eastern Daylight Savings Time last night, that the raid was successful, all hostages rescued and none of the 60 crack commandos killed. One commando was wounded.

'By 5 past midnight... all hostages were safe.'

Lufthansa spokesman Franz Ceesarz said 28 of the raiders blew out the Boeing's doors at five minutes past midnight, 7:05 p.m. EDT last night. After a brief shootout the first rescued passengers emerged two minutes later. By 12 minutes past midnight it was all over and all 86 were safe.

The hijackers were two men and two women, two of them members of a West German terrorist gang and two of them members of an extremist wing of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The 60-strong commando unit had flown to Mogadishu from the Greek island of Crete, leaving yesterday morning and arriving after dusk.

"All of the 86 hostages were safely rescued," an Interior Ministry spokesman said. The Interior Ministry is responsible for the Frontier Protection troops.

Three hijackers killed before rescue effort

The commandos will fly back to Germany in their plane while the hostages will use the other 707, he said. The body of the Lufthansa pilot killed by the hijackers and then callously thrown out on the runway by the hijackers, will return as well.

The lightning raid resembled the Israeli raid at Entebbe airport in Uganda July 4, 1976, when Israeli commandos flew secretly into the airport and rescued 102 hijacked hostages in a shootout with Arab and West German terrorists.

The four Arab-speaking hijackers seized the Lufthansa Boeing 737 plane at midday last Thursday over the French Riviera as it was flying from Majorca to Frankfurt. The action began a five-day odyssey of terror that took the plane to Rome, to Cyprus, to half a dozen reluctant airports in the Middle East and finally to Mogadishu in the East African nation of Somalia.

They demanded the release of 13 terrorists prisoners held in German and Turkish jails and a $15.5 million ransom. Both Germany and Turkey stood firm as one deadline after another set by the hijackers came and went.

Jubilation in Germany was dampened by the death of Juergen Schumann, the 37-year-old captain of the plane who was shot to death yesterday. The hijackers unceremoniously dumped his body from the aircraft while the hostages watched in horror.

There was still no word on the fate of industrialist Hanns-Martin Schleyer, 62, kidnaped by West German terrorists on Sept. 5. An ultimatum on his life expired Sunday. His kidnapers had tied his fate to the demands of the four hijackers.

Two top West German security officials were at Mogadishu yesterday to direct the raid. They were Gerd Boeden, head of the anti-terror squad of the Federal Criminal Police, and Ulrich Wegener, head of the Unit 9 raiders.

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, backed by all political parties, stood firm throughout the crisis.

He refused the demands of both the hijackers and Schleyer's kidnapers to release 11 Baader-Meinhof terrorists.

German anti-terrorist group storms plane

Schmidt and his government made it clear they believed that if released the terrorists would soon be back to continue their wave of killings, bombings and kidnapings.

A hero's welcome was assured the specially trained commandos.

The border guards are the senior military arm of West Germany. They were the first armed unit formed after World War II. Their prime mission is to guard West Germany's border and they also provide elite troops that guard the chancellor, president and other government officials.

They wear a green uniform, boots and unmistakable coal-shuttle helmets with leather flaps at rear.

The last time German troops crossed their borders on an airborne rescue mission was in 1943, when Nazi Secret Service commandos led by Otto Skorzeny landed by glider atop an Italian mountain and rescued imprisoned Italian Fascist dictator Benito Mussolini.

Mussolini was bundled aboard a small German plane and was flown off the small rocky mountain to Rome and lived for another 20 months.

The rescue, called Operation Oak, was ordered personally by Adolf Hitler.

At one time during the tense negotiations yesterday 80-year-old Pope Paul VI said he would offer himself as a hostage if he thought that would persuade the hijackers to free the "many innocents" aboard the plane.

The daring rescue operation was endangered late yesterday when word

TURN TO PAGE 9

Town approves water study

By JOE MAGLITTA
Collegian Staff

Amherst Town Meeting members last night approved two articles to study the purchase of additional water supplies from outside sources, and defeated a $63,000 project for drilling test wells in Lawrence Swamp in South Amherst.

After over two hours of debate the assembly voted 115-86 to authorize the Town Manager and Board of Selectmen to further consider an offer from the Metropolitan District Commission to buy water from Quabbin Reservoir.

Article 3 originally called for the transfer and appropriation of $3,000 in available water funds to study the offer. A modified version of the article passed last night deleted the exact dollar amount. Members also approved a similar article calling for further consideration of an offer from the town of Hadley. The article calling for a program to drill test wells in Lawrence Swamp in South Amherst caused the longest debate of the evening.

Board of Selectman Chairman Diana H. Romer said if the proposed test drilling shows adqequate water supplies beneath a clay layer, water could be used by the town around 1980. Cost of the final program would be $25 per family per year, she said.

Selectmen Roger Jaques argued the supply would be inadequate by 1990 and the town would be forced to seek additional water supplies at that time. Reports from engineering consultants Tighe and Bond estimate the swamp, if useable, would provide 2.7 million gallons per day at a cost of 41 cents per thousand gallons. Present town costs per thousand gallons is 45.5 cents.

Romer said an additional 1.4 million gallons per day is needed to supplement the present demand of 4.5 million gallons per day. If the surplus amount is not available, the town would face possible rationing and inadequate fire protection, due to lack of emergency supppes, Romer said. The town currently draws water from four wells.

Romer said the Quabbin offer is considered to be the "most attractive" of the three proposals because the water is already chlorinated and no treatment would be required to make the useable.

She said the $4.6 million initial cost of the project might seem expensive, but would ultimately be a more inexpensive source over the next 50 years. She said state and federal aid to fund the project might be available

TURN TO PAGE 6

CAC tests film stand

By JULIE EAGLE
Collegian Staff

The Central Area Council last night allocated a $150 guarantee for the James Bond movie "Live and Let Die" but refused to provide a guarantee for Andy Warhols "Frankenstein."

After a seven to five vote with two abstentions, against showing the X-rated "Frankenstein", a heated debate followed concerning what constitutes Warhol's movie as more "sexist and violent" than the PG-rated James Bond film.

Gina Singleton and Greg Bryant, Brooks representatives who asked for the guarantee for "Frankenstein", said they think the council is "really inconsistent for supporting a James Bond movie which is sexist, and not supporting Frankenstein which is violent."

In support of presenting "Frankenstein", Jay Flynn, council activities coordinator said "just because movie is X-rated doesn't mean it is necessarily sexist or racist."

Council President Mark Zinan said "It hasn't been the purpose of an area government to support excessive violence or racism. It's up to the council to make arbitrary decisions as a council."

The Council re-voted the "Frankenstein issue" and again the vote was against giving

TURN TO PAGE 6

Tufts prof criticizes communique

By DEBBIE GRAFF
Collegian Staff

A professor of international politics at Tufts University yesterday criticized the new communique between Russia and the United States, saying the only place peace is mentioned is in the resolution's title.

Uri Ra'anan of Tufts Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, said the last resolution required a "just and lasting peace," while the new resolution, the communique, seeks a "just and lasting settlement."

Ra'anan, in a speech to 30 people in Campus Center 904 yesterday afternoon, cited the major differences between a resolution that was formed by the United Nations Security Council in 1967, and the recent communique that was issued by the United States and Russia about the structure and conditions under which future peace negotiations will take place.

His speech was sponsored by the Five College Hillel Foundation.

Ra'anan said although rules governing the peace talks are drawn up under the auspices of the U.S. and the Soviet Union, he said he does not believe the two superpowers have the right to change the purpose of the peace talks.

"What right do two supervisors have to change the purpose of peace talks?" Ra'anan asked.

He said the new communique may leave Israel in a very vulnerable position because it provides Middle East countries with the right to appeal for units of foreign armies on their territory.

The chances of an appeal being granted to Israel by the U.S. are very remote because of necessary constitutional proceedings, Ra'anan said, but other Arab nations could easily be granted help from the Soviet Union.

Uri Ra'anan from Tufts University speaks on recent internal and external developments in Israel. (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

This could result in the presence of Soviet military units on strategic borders, without the presence of the United States military, he added.

In describing the results of a recent poll taken in the U.S., Ra'anan pointed out the average American has a pretty good understanding of the Middle-East situation. He said the American people have an affinity for countries that are western as the U.S., and that standing behind other democracies produces a generally satisfactory feeling.

The poll showed that 35 per cent of Americans favor Carter's present foreign policy, 47 per cent oppose it, and the remaining 18 per cent are undecided. Ra'anan pointed out he does not feel the Jewish lobby power in America had a great effect on the result of this poll because the Jewish population makes up only 3 per cent of the total American public.

Ra'anan said in America the term "agreement" has a positive connotation, but "Not all agreements are good things." While many politicians will promise to work toward an agreement, Ra'anan said, "Many politicians become hostages of their own propaganda, when they almost feel obligated to sign agreements which may even be horrendous."

When asked by a member of the audience if the Soviet-American communique is reversible, Ra'anan said that it is. But he questioned why the U.S. would sign something that would give the Soviet Union so many advantages over U.S. power in the Middle-East.

He said the U.S. has also committed itself to the Soviet Union vetoing power over Jordan and Israel, which are allies of the United States.

"Jordan and Israel can't sit together without the Soviet Union between them," he said.

Alumnus enjoys early acting success

By LEILA BRUNO
Collegian Staff

"I do miss UMass and the lifestyle here, and doing things like just taking a walk into town. UMass is not the real world, but a haven of opportunities, and a lot to offer. There's little to deal with here, UMass is sheltered from the problems of the 'real' world. But I know that I couldn't go back to academics now — I've taken a bite of the apple, and I love it!"

The words are Peter Boyntons', a UMass music theory and composition graduate who starred in last Thursday's production of "Cabaret". A May graduate, Boynton has entered the professional world of entertainment at an unusually early time in his career. Quite often it takes years of training to finally obtain a part in a professional theater company.

Presently Boynton is performing with the national Touring Company Bus and Truck Tour of "Cabaret". His rigorous schedule includes one show for six consecutive nights — each in a different theater. Boynton estimates that he travels from six to eight hours a day, and on Sunday (his day off) the company averages 10 to 15 hours on the bus. In addition, each performer is responsible for finding his-her own food and lodging — which comes out of the weekly paycheck.

Many entertainers, especially newcomers, are overwhelmed by the constant rehearsals and travelling, but Boynton feels the only way to become an accomplished actor is to get get experience from on-the-job training.

"I think that the major drawback that prevented my friends from breaking into acting was that they became too academic about it. Going to school forever is ridiculous, you've got to get your training from doing it.

Boynton had realized his ambition early at UMass and sought to involve himself in all the realms of the theater to become a well-rounded actor.

Actor Peter Boynton talks about his career. (Staff photo by Pete Baumann)

During his four years here, Boynton appeared in several plays, including the "Hollow Crown", "Pirates of Penzance", "Guys and Dolls" and "Journey". In addition, he took a variety of dance classes, and became adept enough to appear in some dance concerts with the University Dancers.

Boynton also spent the first semester of his senior year at the Eugene O'Neil Center of the National Theater Institute in Waterford, New York. His training there allowed him to experience touring, and actually working as professionals do.

Boynton feels his dedication to the theater has been worth every minute, saying "I enjoy being onstage and performing more than anything else in the world. If I have to make my living somehow, I've got to be acting."

Although Boynton has had the opportunity to work with many talented teachers, he claims three instructors in particular at UMass were the most influential.

"I'd have to say that I got most of my encouragement here at UMass, from some wonderful people. My voice teacher John D'Armand had tremendous enthusiasm and confidence in me. Richard Jones who taught me the technique of jazz dance, gave me the art of the presence of self, or being looked at. I'd also have to mention Dr. Robert Stern, who was my theory teacher, advisor and a lover of the musical theater."

Quite incidentally, Boynton's professional career began at UMass. Alan Light, the Fine Arts Center Hall manager happened to see Boynton in a performance of "Journey". He enjoyed Boynton's acting so much that he suggested an audition with producer Jack E. Warner in New York City. After two callbacks, Boynton had the lead male role.

Guerrillas attack Nicaraguan barracks

MANAGUA, Micaragua [AP] — Guerrillas attacked a national guard barracks in Nicaragua's second largest city, Masaya, yesterday. There were also other unconfirmed reports of fighting within eight miles of the capital, Managua.

National guard sources in Managua said reinforcements were sent to Masaya, about 18 miles southeast of the capital. They said the guerrillas were holed up in a Roman Catholic church opposite the barracks.

Gen. Roger Bermudez said the attack in Masaya was staged "to cause confusion," but he said "the situation is under control."

Meanwhile, a radio station on the outskirts of Managua said there was a gun battle in progress yesterday at midday about eight miles from the capital, and Nicaraguan air force planes were flying over the area. It was not known if they were involved in the fighting.

National guard troops blocked the highway from Managua to Masaya to all but emergency vehicles, or vehicles registered in Masaya. The Red Cross in Managua said it sent four large ambulances and 20 first-aid specialists to Masaya.

Residents in Masaya reported by telephone that about 25 guerrillas attacked the barracks with gunfire and grenades Monday morning and then filed into a church across the street.

Additional details of the fighting were not immediately available in Managua.

The guerrillas are believed to be members of the Sandinista National Liberation Front. They take their name from Cesar Augusto Sandino, who fought against the occupation of Nicaragua by U.S. Marines early in this century.

President Anastasio Somoza, a general in the national guard, has often claimed the Sandinistas are financed and armed by the Communist government in Cuba.

The Cuban news agency Prensa Latina, in a dispatch from neighboring Costa Rica, reported fighting between guerrillas and Nicaraguan troops Sunday night in the mountains near the Costa Rican border. It said three guerrillas were killed. There was no immediate confirmation of the report.

Government sources said 11 persons were killed Friday when guerrillas attacked two small villages near the Costa Rican frontier.

In a related development, Costa Rica claimed Nicaraguan planes Friday attacked boats carrying a Costa Rican cabinet minister and several newsmen making a border tour.

10% DISCOUNT ON ALL PURCHASES with College I.D.

- HAMP PLAZA Next to Big "Y" Super market Northampton
- NEXT TO BIG "Y" Supermarket in Ware, Mass.

the blue DENIM
FEATURING Levi's BRANDS

Estrogen label ruled mandatory

WASHINGTON [AP] — Starting today, the government is requiring that women who receive prescriptions for drugs containing estrogen be given a brochure in simple language explaining that estrogen may cause cancer.

Estrogens, the female sex hormone, are used by five million American women during and after menopause. Dr. Donald Kennedy, the commissioner of food and drugs, said the government hopes the warning label will cut this use at least in half.

"Estrogens are valuable drugs, with many beneficial medical purposes," said Kennedy. But he said the Food and Drug Administration fears they are being used too frequently and for too long. For women who use estrogen drugs during and after menopause "for longer than a year the risk of cancer of the lining of the uterus is about five to 10 times greater than for women who have never taken estrogens," Kennedy said.

He added that "women who use estrogens after menopause are about two and one half times as likely to develop gall bladder disease requiring surgery."

Kennedy said in a news conference the least necessary use of estrogens is after menopause. He said there was "no good evidence that estrogens are effective in helping to keep the skin soft or to promote more youthful feelings in the post-menopausal woman. Yet they are widely used for such purposes."

WASHINGTON* — Donald Kennedy of the Food and Drug Administration, said yesterday the FDA will require that a special brochure accompany prescriptions for the female sex hormone estrogen. (UPI)

The brochure, which drug manufacturers must print and supply to pharmacists and other dispensers of estrogen, advises women to take estrogen drugs for the shortest time possible and in the lowest effective dose for treatment of menopausal symptoms.

The FDA says about eight million women also receive estrogen as an ingredient in many contraceptive pills, but there is no evidence linking that estrogen use to cancer. However, since 1970 the FDA has required that birth control pills be dispensed with a warning about their possible health risks to women and their babies. FDA officials said they feel that the post-menopausal use of estrogens is the most serious problem.

Wompanoag land claim case opens in Boston

BOSTON [UPI] — A nine-man, three-woman jury was sworn in yesterday in the first phase of a federal district court trial to determine the validity of the Wampanoag Indians' claim to most of the land in the Cape Cod community of Mashpee.

Judge Walter Jay Skinner and attorneys representing the tribe and the town closeted themselves in a small room adjacent to the courtroom for four and one-half hours to interview each of the nearly all potential jurors individually.

The judge described the unusual closed-door selection process as necessary since attorneys from both sides have voiced concern over the influence publicity may have on the outcome of the trial.

The case could set a legal precedent for Indian land claims in several other states, including the claim by the Penobscot and Passamaquoddy tribes on nearly two-thirds of the land in Maine.

The jury will be asked to determine whether the Wampanoag meet the legal definition of an Indian tribe and are protected by the Indian Non-Intercourse Acts of 1790. The acts prohibited confiscation of land from any Indian tribe without prior approval of Congress.

The jurors also are charged with deciding whether the tribe actually owned the land in question in 1870, the year the town was incorporated.

Testimony is scheduled to begin Tuesday, after opening statements from lawyers representing the Wampanoag tribe and Mashpee interests.

After the jurors were sworn in late Monday afternoon, Skinner delivered the usual warning against discussing the case and reading or hearing any media accounts of the trial as it progresses.

Skinner also said the jury may be held over after it reaches a decision in the first part of the trial, which may last as long as two months, to consider any remaining aspects of the case.

The Wampanoag filed suit in August of 1975, demanding that 16,000 acres of land in the affluent resort community be returned to them. They say the land, valued at about $300 million, was taken from them in violation of the non-intercourse acts.

Carter indicates he'll veto natural gas legislation

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The White House indicated yesterday that Sen. Henry Jackson is correct in believing President Carter will veto any measure that includes a form of natural gas price deregulation.

Jackson, D-Wash., is chairman of the Senate Energy Committee and has said Carter is not willing to approve any legislation that would eliminate federal controls on natural gas prices.

Press Secretary Jody Powell was asked about Jackson's statement yesterday and did not refute it.

"I think Senator Jackson is giving his impression of the President's view," Powell said. "He is an experienced and interested observer."

Carter has threatened before to veto deregulation, but has not publicly discussed possible compromises on the issue.

Although the Senate approved deregulation earlier this month, the House opposes it and the issue is pending in a conference committee.

If the House-Senate negotiations do not result in a compromise acceptable to the White House, that probably will mean no legislation on natural gas this year and the current federal price ceiling of $1.46 per thousand cubic feet will remain.

In the energy bill he sent to Congress, the President sought to increase the federal price ceiling to $1.75 and to extend controls to the intrastate market. Currently, gas produced and used in a single state is not subject to federal price regulations and it often sells at a higher price than gas sold in the interstate market.

Suspect denies killing Bolles

PHOENIX, Ariz. [UPI] — Contractor Max Dunlap, one of two men on trial for the bombing murder of newsman Don Bolles, called the state's key witness, John Harvey Adamson, a "damn liar" yesterday and denied he had anything to do with Bolles' death.

Adamson, who pleaded guilty to second degree murder in exchange for his testimony against Dunlap and plumber James Robison, has testified Dunlap hired him to kill Bolles and that Robison helped carry out the murder.

Adamson also said Dunlap hired him to kill Arizona Attorney General Bruce Babbitt and a public relations man known as King Alfonse because they had displeased liquor magnate Kemper Marley, a lifelong friend of Dunlap. Marley has never been charged in the Bolles murder and has denied Adamson's allegations.

Dunlap took the stand yesterday and denied Adamson's story. He said he was introduced to Adamson by a mutual friend, attorney Neal Roberts, and had seen Adamson at Roberts' house and at a local bar a number of times.

ATTENTION!

Collegian Staff

There will be a mandatory

STAFF MEETING

for all staff

Tuesday, October 18

at 7:00 p.m. in

Campus Center 168 - 170 - 172

BE THERE!

'Respectable' types arrested in arson ring

BOSTON [UPI] — Some wore neatly pressed three-piece suits. Others were unshaven and looked as if they had just been rudely awakened. They were "respectable" policemen, firemen, lawyers and businessmen.

All were arrested Monday in what has been described as the largest urban arson-for-profit ring ever uncovered in the United States — a ring which allegedly caused the deaths of three innocent people between 1970 and 1975.

More than 100 state police and other investigators spread out through the Greater Boston area in the early morning and began arresting 33 suspects indicted by a Suffolk County grand jury last week.

Four of those indicted face murder charges.

Massachusetts Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti called the indictments "a first major step" in stamping out arson rings, but said "there is much more that has to be done."

At least 21 persons had been taken into custody by late Monday. A dozen other suspects were still at large. Paul A. Zeigler of Barnstead, N.H., and Kevin Doherty of Boston, both charged with one count of murder each, were among those being sought.

A total of 121 indictments were handed up on charges ranging from murder to arson and include burning to defraud; submitting fraudulent insurance claims; conspiracy and bribery.

The investigation, which lasted nearly five months, include 35 Boston area fires which cased more than $5 million in property damage. Officials said the probe came to a head with the help of an alleged arsonist who turned state's evidence.

Public smoking outlawed in France

PARIS [AP] — A new law went into effect yesterday obliging the French to puff less in public or pay some of the stiffest anti-smoking fines in Europe.

The rules bar smoking in elevators, post offices, banks, schools, government offices dealing with the public and any public place frequented by those under 16.

Violators may be fined from $8.25 to $16.50, according to where the outlaw smoker is caught. But it remained to be seen how severely the new law would be enforced in this land of individualists.

"It's a very delicate question to tell people to throw away their cigarettes," said a supervisor at a post office in downtown Paris.

"It's not this way that you'll make me give up smoking," said a colleague. "I'll just smoke in the back."

"It's an attack on my personal liberty," complained bank employe J.L. Kapel as a fellow teller squashed out her cigarette.

The antismoking measures are part of a year-old Health Ministry campaign that includes a $500,000 publicity drive and plans for warning labels on cigarette packs similar to those in the United States.

The fines put France, at least on the books, among the toughest antismoking countries in Europe. Most countries bar smoking in theaters and buses and designate some railroad cars and airline seats as no-smoking areas. But an informal survey showed only Italy had similar — though cheaper — fines.

France's efforts, defined in a law last year, were launched by Health Minister Simone Veil. She stressed information rather than repression of the smoking habit.

★Amherst Town Meeting attacks warrants

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

over the next few years. The earliest date Quabbin water would be available to the town would be 1987.

"Amherst cannot wait for Quabbin. We can, however, continue to put our needs before the MDC (Metropolitan District Commission)," Romer said.

The MDC uses Quabbin water to supply greater Boston.

To date the town has invested $1.4 million in the project, he said. Any additional funds not used by the authority would be sent back to the town. In addition, the group would agree to review its budget periodically with the selectmen. The article was passed on a voice vote.

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

tersections in Amherst's central section. Alterations in plans since then require that additional land be acquired. Therefore additional money is needed. All other money needed for construction is to be funded by the federal government.

Amherst Redevelopment Authority Director Jurgan Roetter defended his committee's request for additional funds up to $100,000 to complete its work on the Boltwood Walk Urban renewal project, saying town staff could not handle authorities duties because of lack of personnel.

★LSO hires suit aide

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

necessary skills to conduct an audit of the two funds.

A state audit has been conducted but, according to both Leaf and senate President Sally Rees, the final report issued by the state is "very sketchy".

"We have the drafts of that audit, but what we need are the accountant's working papers," said Leaf. "Without an accountant, we're not going to know exactly what to ask for."

Leaf also told the senate if the case actually got into court, LSO would need an expert, such as a certified accountant, to testify on their behalf.

Rees pointed out the court would only hand over those documents specifically requested, and not the entire audit materials.

★Council tests stand

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

the film a guarantee — with a vote of eight to seven.

"Live and Let Die," sponsored by Van Meter North dormitory will be shown at Mahar Auditorium later this month.

Wheeler dormitory will be showing free movies every other Thursday night in Wheeler basement. These will begin in "about three weeks," according to Flynn.

The Orchard Hill-Central Area Women's Center will hold an open house Sunday, Oct. 23 from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. in the basement of Baker dormitory, where music, poetry-reading and refreshments will be featured.

Flynn said he would like all dorms in the Central Area to give him a list of dorm council meetings and proposed dorm activities so he can "cut through some red-tape" and accommodate savings on events such as movies and coffeehouses.

Council Treasurer Neal Hunter gave a budget report. The council began with $3,562, spent $158 on Alpine Slide trips and $500 on the Orchard Hill Men's Center, leaving a balance of $2,904.

The council voted favorably to send the men's center a "letter of support," saying it is in agreement with what the men's center stands for.

help build a STUDENT LOBBY

Students are needed to help develop an effective lobbying group to promote student interest in the Massachusetts legisature

Issues needing legislative action include;

Collective Bargaining and Student Unionization
State Takeover of Campus Center Costs
Decriminalization of Marijuana
Increased Financial Aid

LEGISLATIVE TASK FORCE MEETING
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1PM
CAMPUS CENTER, Room 902

AJS

The Legislative Task Force is a joint working group with membership from the Student Center for Educational Research, the Student Organizing Project, the Legal Services Office, the Student Government Association and the Massachusetts Public Interest Research Group (MASSPIRG).

umass student unionization

Drug firms won't combat fatal ills, doctor claims

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Because of the small profit potential, pharmaceutical firms refuse to produce drugs to combat fatal diseases that strike only a small percentage of the American public, a university physician said yesterday.

Dr. Guy McKhann, head of neurology at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in Baltimore, made the allegation at a hearing into allocating $52 million over the next three years for research in Huntington's disease.

Joining the plea for funds were actress Jennifer Jones and Marjorie Guthrie, whose folksinger husband Woody died of Huntington's 10 years ago.

McKhann said low profit prospects lead drug companies to avoid research into "small diseases" — those that strike a relative small percentage.

"Do you mean that unless enough people are dying ... it is difficult to persuade people to get interested because they can't make money for finding a cure?" asked Birch Bayh, D-Ind., only senator at the meeting.

"True," McKhann said. "They are looking for another valium that 30 or 40 million people will take, and are afraid the cost of research and development ... never will be regained."

Bayh called that "a hard-hearted and mistaken approach," and said if the allegations are true, the situation is "unconscionable." He ordered the staff of the Labor and HEW subcommittee to get information on the charges.

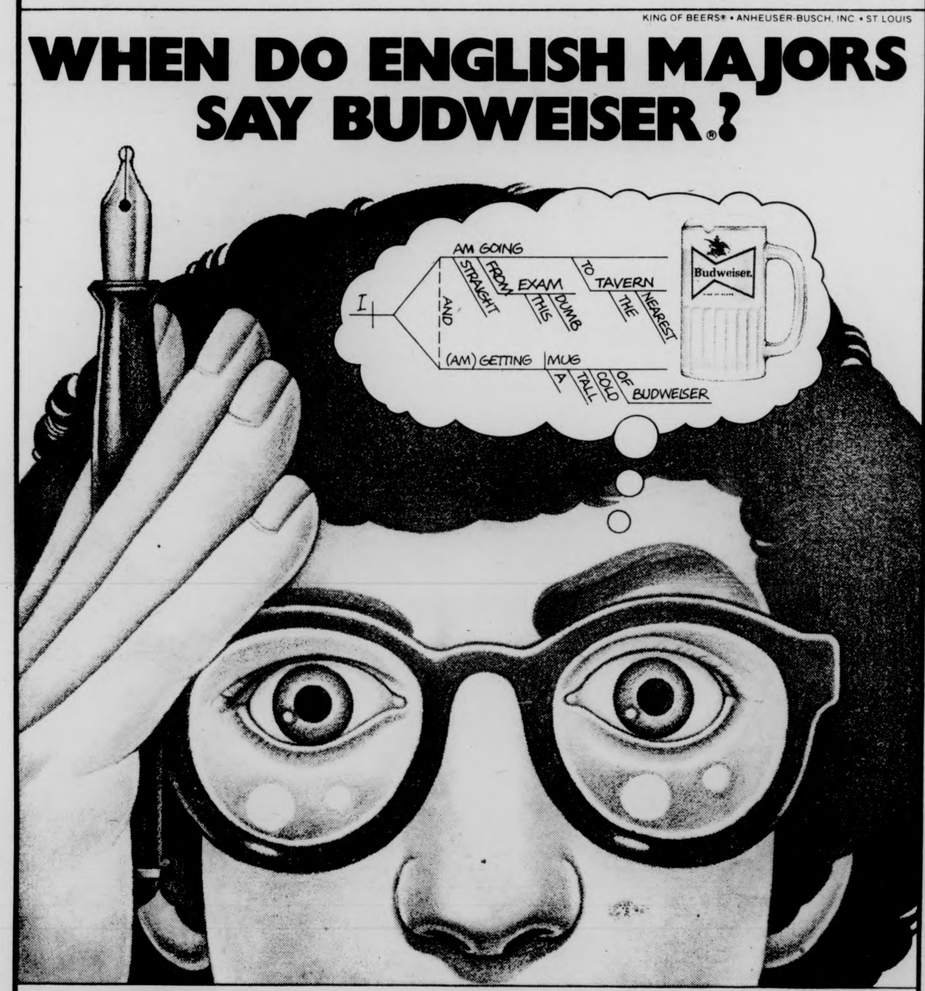
McKhann said the National Institutes of Health often have said to drug companies, "Here's compound X, take it and market it. And the pharmaceutical houses have said 'no' — because there isn't enough profit."

Estimates on the number of Americans who suffer Huntington's disease range from 7 per 100,000 to 100 per 100,000. The disease, always fatal, is manifested by slow destruction of brain cells and motor functions. Suicide is seven times the national rates.

Each child of a parent with Huntington's has an even chance of inheriting it, and there is no way of knowing who will get it until symptoms appear. Only after death can it be determined whether the gene was present.

Jones, a member of Commission for the Control of Huntington's Disease, narrated an 18-minute slide and sound show which Bayh called "an Academy Award winner."

She called the disease "a unique curse — children watch the painful decline of their parent and never know when it might happen to them."



KING OF BEERS® • ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC. • ST. LOUIS

Concorde may land, says Court

WASHINGTON [AP] — The Supreme Court said yesterday that the Concorde supersonic jetliner may land at John F. Kennedy International Airport whenever the two airlines offering Concorde service are ready to enter the lucrative New York market.

Spokesmen for British Airways and Air France said they would make a test flight of the controversial faster-than-sound airplane to JFK from Paris on Wednesday.

Both airlines said they hoped to begin commercial trans-Atlantic service linking London and Paris with New York by Nov. 22.

"We're on our way," a British Airways spokesman said. "It has been an enormous and costly battle, but we have won." In Paris, French Transportation Secretary Marcel Cavaille said the Supreme Court ruling was "in line with justice and good sense."

In a brief sentence, the nation's highest court handed a crushing defeat to New York and New Jersey officials who successfully had fought for nearly two years to keep the Concorde out of New York.

The justices merely turned down a request by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, which operates JFK, to temporarily postpone the start of Concorde operations at the airport pending a formal appeal to the court by the port authority.

In effect, that left intact a ruling by the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Sept. 29 that Concorde operations could begin immediately.

New York Gov. Hugh Carey expressed disappointment at the Supreme Court ruling but pledged to abide by it.

Port authority attorneys had told the Supreme Court they wanted to appeal the lower court's ruling because it left authority officials liable to "successful noise suits."

The authority said Monday that it still intends to appeal, but even if the court agrees to review the case, its processing could take months — and the Concorde already will be flying into and out of the city.

In other matters Monday, the court:

— Indicated that it might not reach the landmark decision many legal scholars believed it would in the much-publicized "reverse discrimination" case of Allan Paul Bakke.

The court asked attorneys for both sides in the case that challenges the constitutionality of so-called affirmative action programs that give racial minorities special preference to submit additional legal briefs. The justices want to hear the lawyers' opinions of how the 1964 Civil Rights Act affects Bakke's case.

If the court decides the case only on the wording of the 1964 law, which forbids discrimination by educational institutions receiving federal funds, the potential for a ruling with profound effects on the nation's race relations will be diminished.

— Agreed to decide whether the Securities and Exchange Commission may issue a string of 10-day suspension orders blocking trading in a particular security for many months. What the court decides could have a big effect on the SEC's policing procedures.

Blue law bill passes House

BOSTON [UPI] — The House yesterday passed and sent to the Senate a miniature form of Massachusetts' archaic Blue Laws that would allow supermarkets and department stores to be open on Sundays during the Christmas season.

The compromise legislation received near final approval on a 170-50 roll call after short debate.

Approval came after the House rejected, on a 43-178 roll call, an attempt by Rep. Nicholas Buglions, D-Methuen, to repeal the Blue Laws outright and allow the stores, including liquor stores, to be open every Sunday of the year.

Under the compromise, worked out among several business and labor groups who opposed it and some border community lawmakers and retailers, supermarkets and department stores could open on the four Sundays between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Liquor stores were not included in the compromise and they would remain closed.

Employes would be guaranteed they would not be penalized for refusing to work Sundays and they would be assured extra pay for working Sundays.

The measure now goes to the Senate.

Labor problems solved, surface

REVERE — Youngsters look on as their teachers carry placards in front of City Hall yesterday. Teachers, protesting their contract, have been on strike for several weeks. (UPI)

Shipyard strike ends in Quincy

QUINCY, Mass. [UPI] — The 13-week strike by shipyard workers against the General Dynamics Corp. ended officially yesterday as union representatives and management penned a three-year contract.

The pact calls for 70 per cent of the shipyard workers to get a $2.40-per-hour payraise over the three years, $1.00 of which will appear immediately on employe paychecks. A new dental plan will take effect in the contract's 18th month. The agreement also calls for increased pension benefits.

Employes returned to work in the spacious shipyard immediately after the contract was signed. General Dynamics is the world's largest producer of liquified natural gas tankers.

More workers will be called back to the shipyard as production increases, and all union members are expected to be back at work within the next week or two.

Although the strike has been settled the bitter feelings which arose during the conflict remained yesterday, and there were no handshakes among union and management negotiators.

Workers were informed of the official settlement shortly after 9 a.m. Stanley Kyller, president of the Local 59 of the Industrial Marine Shipbuilding Workers of America, made the announcement to union employes as they congregated at the main gate. He told the group the contract had been signed and said they were to return to work.

B-1 cancellation may cause strike

LOS ANGELES [AP] — The U.S. aerospace industry, hit hard by strikes and layoffs resulting from cancellation of the B1 bomber program, is girding for yet another machinists' walkout.

The International Association of Machinists has threatened to strike Lockheed's Marietta, Ga., plant at 12:01 a.m. tomorrow if a contract agreement is not reached. A walkout in Georgia would bring to 19,000 the number on strike at three Lockheed plants.

Meanwhile, almost 24,000 union members continued their strike of Boeing facilities in Seattle, Portland, Ore., and Wichita, Kan.

And negotiators continued discussion of new contracts for the 11,000 machinists and United Auto Workers members at three McDonnell-Douglas facilities in southern California. The contract expired Sunday, but work continued under an automatic contract extension clause.

Boeing Co. is the nation's major producer of commercial aircraft. Lockheed Corp. and McDonnell-Douglas Co. are major producers of military aircraft, space vehicles and aerospace hardware.

Spokesmen for the three corporations, enjoying a profitable year, said they have managed to keep production going. Supervisors have replaced some machinists, they said, and attention had been turned to partially completed aircraft that do not require machinists' work.

At Rockwell International Co., the main B1 contractor that announced thousands of layoffs after President Carter canceled production of the bomber, UAW members have agreed to an indefinite contract extension while talks continue. Their old pact expired Oct. 1.

Union officials said they were waiting to see what happened with the Lockheed, Boeing and McDonnell-Douglas negotiations before determining further action at Rockwell.

Unauthorized dock strike over

NEW YORK [AP] — The impact of a 17-day-old selective dock strike eased yesterday with the end of an unauthorized general strike in New Orleans that freed 44 strikebound conventional cargo ships.

With dockworkers there responding to orders from the International Longshoremen's Association to confine the strike to containership operations, the threat that the White House might seek an 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction also receded.

Word of compliance by the 3,500 New Orleans rebels to orders from Thomas W. "Teddy" Gleason, international president of the AFL-CIO affiliate, who called the selective strike of 50,000 members in Atlantic and Gulf coast ports Oct. 1, was followed by the summoning of top union officials for a new huddle.

Included among those directed to meet at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Americana Hotel in Bal Harbour, Fla., were officials of the Great Lakes District, representing 8,500 other ILA members on the lakes and the St. Lawrence Seaway, along with officers of the deep sea districts.

While the Great Lakes district of the union has a different contract expiration date and is currently under contract, it has been embroiled in a dispute over grain operations. Union action on the Great Lakes could slam another door to overseas shipping.

The Maritime Commission said its count of ships idled on the Gulf Coast as a result of the strike dropped from 48 Sunday night to only four, all containerships, that were trapped by the strike and unable to transfer cargo.

The resultant drop in the total count of strike-idled vessels, from 104 on three American coasts to 60, was followed by word that withdrawal of ILA pickets sent to the Pacific Coast container piers, and subsequently ruled illegal, was having minimal initial effects.

The U.S. Lines containership American Aquarius sailed Sunday from Oakland for Honolulu as a Japanese vessel complained of interference by picket boat, believed manned by ILA members.

Cancer linked to local firm

SPRINGFIELD [AP] — The labor union representing most Monsanto Co. employes here has enlisted an environmental health expert to study a federal report that suggests possible links between working for the chemical firm and death from cancer.

The International Union of Electrical Workers said yesterday that Dr. Irving S. Selikoff has agreed to examine the federal report. Selikoff is director of the environmental science laboratory at Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York.

"The results of this report are of real concern to us," said Jack Suares, the union's director of occupational health and safety. "So we're going to have to do an in-depth study of the situation."

Studying the 465 death certificates of Monsanto employes here who died during the past 27 years, the federal investigators found a higher than expected death rate for two types of cancer.

AMHERST AUTO PARTS
USED CAR PARTS
JUNK CAR?
WE PAY $10 and up.
Replace Glass
Buy and Sell Cars
Located ½ mile past the Rusty Scupper on Rt. 9, behind Amherst Landfill.
Mon.-Sat. 8-4
Phone 256-6409

Poor
Richards
Rte. 9
Amherst
TUESDAY
25¢ DRAFTS
WEDNESDAY
50¢ DRINKS
THURSDAY
ROCK N' ROLL
AND OLDIES
--------
Rolling Rock Beer
50¢
also Gin, Vodka,
Rum, Tequila
85¢

THE BEST CURE FOR A HANGOVER IS...

Everyone has a favorite. But they all have one thing in common-- they don't work. What works?
Preventive medicine. If you don't drink too much, you won't get a hangover.

DRINKING MYTH SERIES

Alcohol Education Project
Room-to-Move & Health Education

IOTA GAMMA UPSILON
invites all university women to
OPEN RUSH
406 N. Pleasant Street

Monday Oct. 17 Sundae Night 7-8 pm
Thursday Oct. 20 Pub Night 8-9 pm
Monday Oct. 24 Fondue Night 7-8 pm

for rides and info call 546-0082

Come for the food, come for the beer,
come meet the sisters of IGU.

---

QUALITY DOWN VESTS
Don Gleason's has the best quality down vests in the area. Filled with PRIME NORTHERN GOOSE DOWN with colorful rip stop nylon outers. Assorted colors. XS thru XL.
ONLY $29.95
ALSO VISIT US TO BROWSE THRU OUR VAST SELECTION OF OUT DOOR CLOTHING FOR FALL AND WINTER.
Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
Weekdays 9-5:30
Saturday 9-5:00

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
LAZAR
BERMAN
Legendary
Soviet
Pianist

"The Phenomenon of the Music World", Emil Gilels
Wednesday, October 26 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale Gen. Pub.-$7, 6, 5. UM-A-$3.50, 3, 2.50. Others students and senior citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

★ Genital disorders often ignored

CONT. FROM PAGE 2

every hour). Although urination may be painful at first, drinking water really helps.

Avoid spices and any beverage containing caffeine or alcohol.

Soak in a hot tub (without bubble-bath or bath oil) two or three times a day.

Place a hot-water bottle or heating pad on the abdomen and back.

Cystitis is sometimes sex-related. Having intercourse with a particular man for the first time, having intercourse after a long period of abstinence or engaging in intercourse positions that put a lot of pressure on the bladder may bring on an attack of cystitis.

Some women have recurring bouts of cystitis, referred to as "chronic cystitis." This is most likely to occur if a woman's resistance is low, if she urinates infrequently or if her urethra has been damaged by surgery, childbirth or intercourse.

Preventive measures for women who develop cystitis frequently include drinking enough fluid to urinate frequently, taking Vitamin C or drinking cranberry juice (4 ounces every four hours) to control the pH of the urine and making sure the hands and genitals of sexual partners are clean.

Chronic cystitis may be an indication of a more serious problem. Left untreated, it can lead to kidney infection, high blood pressure and other complications. A woman should consult a doctor (preferably a urologist) if she is experiencing recurrent attacks of cystitis.

Vaginal Candidiasis

Vaginal candidiasis, usually referred to as "yeast infection," is another very common women's genital disorder. Symptoms may include a thick, white vaginal discharge (which may have a foul odor), itching, burning, swelling and redness of the genital area.

Certain groups of women are more prone to yeast infection than others — women using oral contraceptives, pregnant women, diabetics and women who have recently been treated with antibiotics which kill protective organisms as well as the ones they are supposed to be fighting.

Recent studies indicate that wearing tight jeans, pantyhose and nylon underwear and using bubble-baths, deodorant tampons and vaginal sprays may encourage the development of yeast infections.

Yeast infections, like cystitis, may be sex-related. There is a male counterpart to vaginal candidiasis called candida of the penis. Sexual partners may transmit the disease back and forth to each other, as well as to other sexual partners. For this reason, couples in which one or both partners are being treated for yeast infection should refrain from intercourse or use condoms.

Vaginal candidiasis can be treated effectively by a specific type of vaginal suppository (available by prescription) sometimes used in combination with a cream for the external genital area.

It is very important, when being treated for any type of infection, that a woman use the medication exactly as directed and for the length of time she has been instructed to. Bacteria may still be present after the symptoms are gone. Conscientious use of medication can spare a woman the inconvenience and expense of having to begin treatment all over again.

★ Anti-terrorists rescue hostages

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

began leaking out that the Germans were on the way. Michael Jurdus, radio monitor for Israeli radio and TV, picked up radio signals indicating that at least three German jet transports with anti-terrorist commandos were en route to Mogadishu.

He also reported that when the plane flew over Djibouti the "control tower asked too many questions so the pilot told Frankfurt about it and he kept going on to Mogadishu."

UPI did not carry the reports for fear of jeopardizing the mission, and news agencies that did quickly withdrew their reports at urging of a worried Bonn government.

In Washington, the White House said President Carter was informed of the successful German operaton at 7:49 last night in a telephone message on behalf of Chancellor Schmidt.

White House spokesman Walt Duka said Carter told the caller to congratulate Schmidt for "the courage of his decision."

"The President feels that the West Germans have struck a blow for all of us who are vulnerable to this kind of terrorism," Duka said. "He wishes that the participants in the operation be commended and the Somalian government thanked for its cooperation. The President sends his warmest greetings and deepest feelings of relief to the hostages and their families."

The American woman aboard the plane was Mrs. Christine Santiago, 44, of Santee, Calif., who suffers from a heart condition. There was no immediate word on her condition.

Had the Germans failed in their rescue mission the fate of the passengers would have grown steadily more dangerous. Killing of the pilot left only one man aboard to pilot the plane — copilot Juergen Vietor, 35, a friend and air force colleague of Schumann's.

The killing of the pilot swelled a tide of indignation and protest against the hijackers around the world. Many commentators said they hoped the hijackers' cruelty would convince the nations of the world to set aside idological differences and agree on definite punishment for any future terrorists.

In Hong Kong, Capt. Derry F. Pearce, a vice president of the International Federation of Air Line Pilots Associations, issued a blistering statement blaming governments for Schumann's death for failing to take action against hijackers.

"While it is convenient to place the blame on the murderer who fired the fatal shot," Pearce said, "the time has now come to realize that the governments of the world are the true killers because they have failed to take positive action which would ensure the eradication of acts of violence against civil aviation.

"Hey, what day is it?"
"It's Election Day!"
VOTE TODAY for CAMPUS CENTER BOARD OF GOVERNORS
12-6 p.m.
POLLING PLACE:
CAPE COD LOUNGE,
STUDENT UNION
Student Government Association

Produce food—not food products

Editor's note: This is the first in a series of editorials dealing with some major issues in modern and alternative agriculture and UMass' role in dealing with them.

By LAURA LUDEN

Today agriculture is entering a state of crisis. We are not prepared to provide adequate, high quality food without vast energy inputs. There is now a rapidly growing movement concerned with the problems facing all aspects of food production and distribution. This series will serve to inform people about these problems. The more that we realize the need for reform, by understanding the issues and working together to develop new methods, the closer we will come to bringing agriculture back to the farmers and away from agribusiness.

One of the most important roles in agriculture is played by the Land-Grant College complex. The Morrill Act of 1862 provided for lands to be granted to all the states in the Union for the purpose of the endowment, support and maintenance of agricultural and mechanical arts. In 1887, the Hatch Act created the Agricultural Experiment Station, with Federal funds to be paid directly to each state to establish the Station. The final branch, the Cooperative Extension Service, was established in 1914 by the Smith-Lever Act to instruct and assist those people who were not attending the Agricultural Colleges.

NACLA/cpf

The Massachusetts Agricultural College accepted its first student to enter in 1867. Initially, the College consisted of a few academic and farm buildings with more cows than students and more acres under cultivation than under asphalt. Over the years Mass. Aggie expanded. In 1918, a 2-year course in practical agriculture was initiated. MAC became Massachusetts State College fourteen years later. A major change occurred when MSC became the University of Massachusetts. One of the first modifications was merging the schools of agriculture and horticulture into the College of Agriculture, consolidating agricultural research, extension and education to deal with the new problems in the food industry.

In 1972, the College was renamed the College of Food and Natural Resources, symbolizing the trend away from the small farmer and rural families and towards agribusiness for the food industries.

Today, UMass is one of 69 Land-Grant Colleges and Universities in the United States. The Land-Grant complex is huge, supported by tuitions, endowments, donations, and most importantly, Federal, State and County taxes. In 1972, these tax monies were estimated at $650 million. One must also consider that public funds have been invested on lands, buildings and equipments that have been used for all types of agricultural research and education. Each year thousands of students graduate with agricultural degrees. Yet, in 1969 the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges reported that out of 10,000 seniors only 8.9 per cent planned on entering farming. There are no figures concerning how many actually became farmers and how many went to work for agribusiness.

Over the past century the American way of farming has undergone considerable changes. We have witnessed the decline of the small family farm to the point where today there are less than 10 million people comprising the farm population. An average of 2,000 farms go under each year. In Massachusetts alone we have lost about 200 farms per year. The social and cultural effects of the decline of small farming are immense: the displacement of rural families to cities, the alienation of workers, the decline of rural communities, the burgeoning of welfare rolls, the loss of the people's base in land, the use of food as a commodity, and the loss of culture of millions of rural Americans.

As small farming has declined, vertically integrated corporate farming has increased, as has the emphasis on agribusiness in education. Land-grants have been investing more time and energies into mechanizational, chemical, and genetic research for the large food industries such as Ralston-Purina, Tenneco and Dow Chemical.

Mechanization research is being carried out for soft-vegetables such as tomatoes and lettuce as well as for fruits. The successful development of these machines has implications for large segments of the population, particularly the farm workers who stand to lose the most; their jobs. There is genetic research on developing varities that can withstand mechanical handling, that will ripen uniformly to facilitate machine harvesting and that can be shipped long distances without spoilage. There is research into areas such as artificial colorings to replace the natural colors lost when food is chemically ripened.

All of this creates a cycle of bigness that is virtually impossible to get out of. The new "wonder" varieties need the large machinery to make them feasible — these machines are extremely expensive, costing tens of thousands of dollars, and in order to pay their way they must be utilized. This requires vast acreage since large machinery is uneconomical on small farms and even on most large-scale independent farms. The new varities depend on immense applications of petroleum-derived chemical herbicides, insecticides and fertilizers. The huge monetary inputs are generally only available to the corporate and the vertically integrated farms. Even large independent farmers, who make less than $100,000 per year, lack the acreage and money to utilize a great deal of the research that is coming out of the Land-grant complex.

This is not to say that no money and time is being spent on the problems of the small farmer. In fact, in 1969 when over 3,000 scientific personyears were devoted to efficiently research, 200 personyears were spent on such categories as rural poverty and assisting the small farmers to adjust to the new wave of farming.

It is often said in response to criticism of the Land-grant complex that the consumers benefit from all the time and money spent on the research concerning the vertically integrated companies. Granted, a large company can offer low prices and special discounts on food items from time to time. A supermarket is able to advertise a "loss-leader" selling a product at a low price and in fact lose money on that item. Not only do they make it up in other sales, but they have enticed the consumer to come in and spend money. Nevertheless, the people lose time after time as one considers such factors as the loss in quality, chemicals used in production and processing, the unknown ecological effects of energy and chemical intensive farming, and the depletion of localized rural resources which the taxpayers must finance, especially when businesses fail. Developments that are of great benefit to large corporations are researched at public institutions for the use of these companies.

The Land-grant complex is educating students in methods of farming that are economical on the large scale tha tagribusiness operates. They are in effect turning out people who are prepared only for further, graduate study or for work with the food industries. Most will eventually work in non-agricultural fields.

The Land-grant complex is using public funds to provide employees and technologies for private corporations that view agriculture as a business with one goal; to make as much money as possible. When their energy-intensive systems become unprofitable, as they must, so will food production and these agribusinesses will turn to more profitable endeavors and away from agriculture. There is a desperate need for people who are prepared to farm using our resources wisely in order to produce food, not manufacture food products.

Laura Luden is a member of the Coalition for Alternative Agriculture and Self-Sufficiency.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Joseph A. Quinlan, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Richard J. Pioli, Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Fifine D. Ball, Women's Coordinator.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

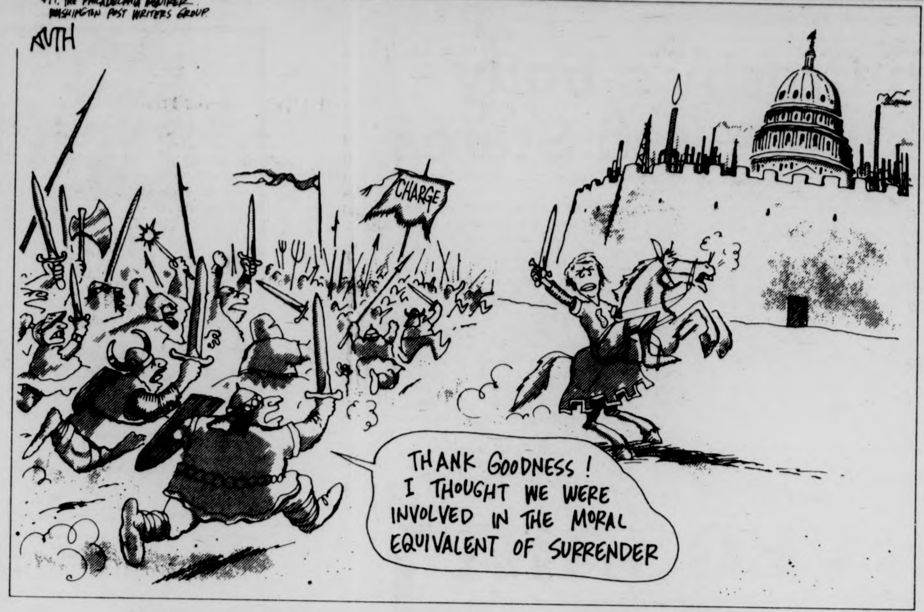
The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.



©1977, THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP
AUTH CHARGE
THANK GOODNESS! I THOUGHT WE WERE INVOLVED IN THE MORAL EQUIVALENT OF SURRENDER

Stop the neutron bomb

By TOM DEVINE

Earlier this month the U.S. House of Representatives approved by a 2-1 margin appropriations for continuing research into the development of the neutron bomb. This new weapon is supposed to have the power to transform a thriving metropolis into a ghost town while still leaving most buildings intact. Naturally the military would like nothing more than to add this latest Frankenstein to the other horrors that comprise our nuclear arsenal, and if the past is any guide, they will have their way.

The reality of a weapon capable of bringing the agonizing death of radiation poisoning to an entire city surpasses even the ugliest fantasies of the most demented sci-fi writer. Try to imagine a city recently the victim of a neutron blast. There are no sounds. Bodies lie in the streets, on the lawns and in the houses. Dead birds are everywhere, along with scattered bodies of dead dogs, cats, squirrels, etc. The buildings are still standing but every house is a funeral home, every place of habitation a crypt. My my, what is this modern world coming to?

We all know what will become of our planet if nuclear weapons start going off all over the place. Ironically, those who would be most responsible for a nuclear holocaust would have the least to lose. The rulers of the earth all have access to shelters in which they may feel assured to survive anything short of the planet being knocked out of orbit. Only the loyal citizens of these so-called governments have their lives on the line in this nuclear game.

The United States claims that it wants to disarm, and yet we introduce the neutron bomb. The Russians claim tha they too want to disarm, while continuing to assemble an arsenal that is fast becoming the terror of the earth. China, the most irresponsible of the major powers, periodically outrages the world by conducting test blasts that send radioactive fallout all over the earth. What little discussion has been held between the major powers on disarmament has produced nothing so far and is currently deadlocked. We might ask ourselves how the future of mankind ever came to rest in the hands of tyrannical communist bureaucrats and a Jesus-freak peanut farmer. The question is being asked louder and by more and more observers of the world scene every year: "What is it all heading towards?" Even the most optimistic are forced to concede that there is an ill wind passing through the corridors of human destiny.

There are some who feel that it's already too late, that the arms race is out of control and that we may as well resign ourselves to the fact that it's only a matter of time before somebody does something stupid. If so, then perhaps we should just lay back and try to enjoy ourselves in the time we have left. Then presumably when the holocaust comes it will at least find us partying, pausing only before our death to sigh, "I always knew it would come to this!"

Yet somehow it doesn't seem fair that this grand drama of human events should be ending so soon. After all, modern man replaced the Neanderthal only about forty thousand years ago, a mere instant in evolutionary time, while the dinosaurs ruled the earth for 130 million years. Surely our species is not destined to be so far outdistanced in longevity by a bunch of oversized lizards!

As much as it damages our ego to admit it though, man is governed by the same natural laws as governed the dinosaurs, and in this world the name of the game is change. As for ourselves, we had better make some important changes real quick or we may find our dominance of the earth ending a lot sooner than we like to think.

Is it possible then that for once, just once in the whole long history of our miserable species, we could unite as one world, one species in order to ward off a common threat?

No injustice, no God, no nation, ideology or principle would justify mankind using these hideous weapons on each other. What will it take to recognize that there are areas of science and technology where man should not tread, such as the science and technology of killing human life?

Obviously the coming together of the world's people under this common belief will not be an easy thing to do, especially in places like China. It may even be impossible, but if we continue to do nothing and trust the government to work it out for us than the future looks pretty bleak.

What can we do? Well for a start we might vote out of office those half-wit congressmen who voted for the neutron bomb. Then we might try making ourselves very vocal, let the government know we have no intention of dying over their power politics, and using whatever means, peaceful or otherwise, necessary to bring our point home. If such behavior catches on worldwide maybe we can work a miracle. If not, then at least we can go with a little dignity and not pretend to be calm as we are now under a threat that warrants the utmost alarm.

But the real problem isn't neutron bombs or how to force world disarmament. We know what the problem is and we know what we have to do. The tragedy is that we don't want to care enough about our future to bring this insanity to a halt, and if that's the case, then we'll just have to take what's coming to us.

Tom Devine is a Collegian commentator.

Worthwhile article on Bakke case

To the Editor:

I would like to make the University community aware of a fine article regarding the Bakke case by McGeorge Bundy in the November issue of The Atlantic Monthly. I think that anyone with an interest in the directions our society takes and $1.25 to her-his name will find it worthwhile.

Regina Christman

Struggle not over at Kent State

To the Editor:

Once again UMass students are being asked to join with thousands from around the country and voice their determined opposition to the construction of the now infamous Kent State gym.

Some have asked, "What can we accomplish with another demonstration? Why should we journey to Kent, Ohio for a third time?" I think that the reply is a positive one, that this struggle has already had significant successes, that these successes have ripened the conditions at Kent State in favor of final victory.

Since September 24's demonstration of 3000, construction has slowed to a snail's pace; the fence which demonstrators tore down has yet to be replaced; and the Trustees can't find a company willing to risk insuring their criminal gym. The Trustees are also under pressure from the Federal government to move the gym — to cool the heated struggle that it has unleashed.

All of this is a direct result of the powerful blows that students have dealt to those who would bury our proud history of struggle, and cover their own bloody crimes in suppressing that struggle. These blows have greatly weakened our opponent, and stand as proof of our own strength.

The fight is not over, and this weekend's demonstration could be the knockout punch that leaves our opponent flat-out on the floor, with the people standing strong over him.

MOVE THE GYM!
ON TO KENT STATE, DEMONSTRATE OCTOBER 22!

Peter Kracht is a Member of the Revolutionary Student Brigade

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Excutive Editor, c-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. the day preceding that date.

Fetishers unite

karen hermann

If you are a typical hard-working student whose literary diet consists of a daily newspaper and sundry textbooks, you probably don't know what a fetisher is. And you are not alone. Few Americans realize that there is one small, unliberated sexual minority in our society which has yet to raise its collective voice against the oppression which it has endured for centuries.

Everyone knows about the crusades of Anita, the holy steamroller. The major periodicals are full of fiery editorials concerning the voyeur's right to buy cheap thrills (i.e., Hustler magazine). Swingers' clubs flourish in virtually every major American city. New gay churches open every year. And yet perhaps only a few adventurous psychology majors who have delved into Krafft-Ebing and Freud understand the plight of the fetisher, who has never even been invited to come out of his closet.

What is is fetisher, you may ask. A fetisher is a person who, for unknown reasons, derives physical pleasure from viewing isolated parts of the body, such as hair or feet, or from feeling inanimate objects, like rubber and fur. A fetisher may be of either sex, though male fetishers by far outnumber female ones. It is impossible to detect a fetisher by his mannerisms or physical appeareance.

Fetishers are found in every society and in all walks of life. While in some African tribes they are believed to possess magical powers, in Europe and North America they have traditionally been considered mentally ill. Because of the strong stigma which our society attaches to personal deviance, fetishers are nearly invisible in America, though they number at least several million. As might be expected, they live in extreme loneliness and in constant fear of being discovered.

Why is society so intolerant of a minority whose private predilections are completely harmless and inoffensive? Fetishers rarely molest children, and they have a much lower incidence of venereal disease than either heterosexuals or homosexuals. Besides this, there is nothing objectionable in the fetisher's sexual acts. Why is it unnatural to spend Saturday evening making love to a rubber slipper? Why label a person as a freak simply because he enjoys sleeping in a bed of fresh rabbit pelts? This type of romance is inexpensive, simple, and does not contribute to the world's overpopulation. Fetishism, in fact, may be the answer to humanity's major sexual problems.

If you are a confirmed fetisher, or merely curious about this exciting alternative to ordinary sexuality, please contact me through the Collegian office. There is currently a movement to organize a fetishers' support group on the UMass campus. With enough student interest and support, we may eventually be able to gain RSO status. In a student body of 25,000, there are at least 250 fetishers. Make your voice heard!

Karen Hermann's column appears every other Tuesday in the Collegian.

Bakke stabbing

charles bagli

We've all heard the stories. "My father was passed over for a promotion by an underqualified black guy." "The minorities get into Boston Trade without even taking the test." "Puerto Ricans are all on welfare, but when my friends father got layed off, he couldn't get it, and he needs it!"

Then along comes the Bakke case. Allan Bakke, a 34 year old white engineer, was twice rejected from medical school at the Univ. of California, Davis, as well as 13 other schools in 1973 and 1974. UC Davis accepts only 100 students per class, and 16 positions are reserved for minority students under a special admissions program. Encouraged to do so by Peter Storandt, a member of the admissions committee at UCD, Bakke sued the University, charging that he had higher admission test scores and grade point average than several black applicants who had been accepted.

Is it true? Has affirmative action succeeded in righting the centuries of wrongs against blacks and minorities? Can we sit back and allow "equal" treatment under the law to govern?

On September 16, 1976, the California State Supreme Court agreed, declaring that a white could not be passed over because an affirmative admissions program required the enrollment of a certain number of minorities (the U.S. Supreme Court has just received the case.)

Is it true? Has affirmative action succeeded in righting the centuries of wrongs against blacks and other minorities? Can we now sit back and allow "equal treatment under law" to govern? Have affirmative action programs actually gone too far and resulted in "reverse discrimination"?

The facts don't show it. Today, even with these minority programs, only 2 per cent of the students at University of California at Berkeley are Chicano, while Chicano people compose 15 per cent of the California population. Unemployment among minority youth in New York City is 80 per cent (announced in August), in Detroit they tell youth not to expect a job before the 1980's. Although nationally unemployment among black, Latin, Asian, and other youth is 40 per cent. The Black physician-population figure has remained at 1-4,000 since the 1930's.

Then why do the courts and newspapers like the Wall Street Journal gloat that "As we have pointed out here many times, there is a glaring logical flaw in trying to correct past racial and sexual discrimination by discriminating in the opposite direction today".

The economic recession of the mid-1970's with its continuing downhill trend has drastically changed the situation. The rich are hurting, and as they try to salvage their rate of profit they squeeze more out of working people, both economically, by increased production on the job, and politically by reversing the many hard-won gains of the 1960's. Minority admissions to medical schools have decreased in the last few years as the economic crunch has worsened. Of the 40 schools that once had aggressive recruitment and admissions policies for minority students, twenty five have abandoned these programs. Tuition increases, while loan and scholarship funds decrease, making it harder for the sons and daughters of all working people to attend medical school.

Minorities are particularly hard hit, as 85 per cent are dependent on financial aid to pay tuition and expenses. Tutorial and supplementary programs are frequently first to be sacrificed in this time of budget cuts, further undercutting the minority students already enrolled.

The Bakke decision is not aimed at promoting equality or improving the selection criterion for admissions. To evaluate medical school applicants an unbiased manner, regardless of economic, social, and political factors, has never been and never will be possible in this society. In addition, in a time of economic deterioration, needed social programs like minority admissions become "too expensive". The Bakke decision's real purpose is to reverse many of the gains of the 1960's by increasing the discrimination already faced by minority students. It sets Whites fighting Blacks and Chicanos over a limited number of medical school seats, preventing them from joining together to fight for expanded medical education for all.

Charles Bagli's column appears every other Tuesday in the Collegian.

NEW YORK — Workmen remove the blanket from Bing Crosby's casket on its arrival at Kennedy Airport from Spain yesterday. It was transferred to another plane for flight to Los Angeles for burial. (UPI)

Bing Crosby's body back in United States

NEW YORK [UPI] — Bing Crosby came back to the United States yesterday.

The body of the famed entertainer, who died suddenly in Spain on Friday, was flown back to America on a regular Trans World Airlines flight from Madrid, accompanied by his 19-year-old son, Harry Crosby, one of his seven children.

The body, in a dark wooden coffin with a bronze crucifix on the lid and draped by a pale blue cloth, arrived at Kennedy Airport at 4:25 p.m. EDT aboard TWA flight 903 and was immediately transferred to TWA's flight 11 for Los Angeles, where it was scheduled to arrive at 9:50 p.m. PDT.

A "simple" Catholic funeral mass for the 73-year-old crooner is scheduled Tuesday at St. Paul the Apostle Church in Los Angeles. Only Crosby's immediate family and a few close friends are to attend.

Kathryn Crosby, Bing's widow, has explained that Crosby's own wish for a "family" service would be observed.

Harry Crosby had a 2½ hour wait at Kennedy Airport between flights, but declined to speak to newsmen. In Madrid, where his father died of a heart attack just after finishing a round of golf, Harry said that Bing died "the way he would have wanted" — on a golf course.

Spanish golf champion Valentin Barrios, who played with Crosby in the match during which he was stricken, said the singer showed no signs of fatigue and was "happy and singing" before he suddenly fell to the ground.

Despite the immediate assistance of a doctor, Crosby was dead when he arrived at a hospital. Doctors said he died of a heart attack.

Supreme Court to decide on 'tiny cell' case

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The Supreme Court agreed yesterday to decide whether disciplining a prisoner through indefinite segregation in a tiny cell is "cruel and unusual punishment."

The justices will hear arguments later this term on Arkansas' appeal of a ruling by U.S. Circuit Judge J. Smith Henley that an inmate may not be confined in punitive segregation for more than 30 days.

The state said two other appeals have upheld the practice of indefinite isolation for violation of prison rules, and it urged the Supreme Court to decide which is right.

The case stems from an inmate suit challenging the constitutionality of the way the state corrections department was run. Henley ordered changes in its operation, but found that some aspects passed muster.

The state did not challenge parts of his order setting a ceiling on the inmate population of institutions, requiring the hiring of a fulltime psychiatrist, and directing a study of the prison health care system.

It did appeal Henley's decision on punitive segregation and his orders that the state pay $20,000 in attorney's fees to lawyers who represented Robert Finney and other prisoners bringing the suit. These were affirmed by the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Under the state prison practice, the status of inmates sentenced to punitive isolation is reviewed every 14 days. Most inmates return to the general prison population within less than two weeks, but others may remain isolated in an extremely small cell for months — depending on their attitudes as appraised by prison personnel.

The inmates usually are not confined in a cell alone, but with one or two others.

Henley said such discipline "serves no rehabilitative purpose and.... is counterproductive. It makes bad men worse." He said confinement for more than 30 days amounts to "cruel and unusual punishment" prohibited by the Constitution.

The judge also said men in segregation must be given adequate food and water to preserve their health and afforded "reasonably adequate opportunities" for physical exercise outside their cells.

Hair dyes may cause cancer

WASHINGTON [UPI] — A public interest group claimed yesterday some widely used permanent hair dyes contain a chemical which is a potential cause of cancer but the cosmetics industry emphatically opposed the claim.

The industry said the allegation the dyes have a cancer causer which can be absorbed through the scalp was based on unevaluated laboratory test data. To the contrary, it said, there is now a substantial body of research which shows their dyes are safe.

The Environmental Defense Fund announced it had petitioned the Food and Drug Administration to label products containing the chemical 4MMPB or 4MMPDS with the warning:

"The product contains the chemical 4-methoxy-mphenylenediamine, which can enter your bloodstream through your scalp and has been shown to cause cancer in animals."

The EDF said, "A large proportion of permanent hair dyes manufactured by Clairol, Revlon, Albert Culver and Cosmair contain these chemicals."

9th ANNIVERSARY SALE!

sale 8.99
WOVEN FLANNEL SHIRTS
25% OFF! REGULARLY $12

sale 11.99
PURITAN SHETLAND SWEATERS
....SAVE 30%! REG. $16

1/3 off
JUNIOR BLOUSES & SHIRTS
SOLIDS, PLAIDS, & PRINTS
EXPAND YOUR WARDROBE
NOW AND SAVE!

50% off
SPECIAL SELECTION!
JUNIOR FALL DRESSES
BY PLAIN JANE

Levi's

MEN'S CASUAL SLACKS
$5 OFF! REGULARLY $17

CARPENTER CORDUROYS
$8 OFF! REGULARLY $20

sale 11.99

1/3 off
JUNIOR SWEATERS,
BULKY KNITS...33% OFF

1/3 off
JUNIOR SLACKS, CORDUROYS
FLANNELS, GABERDINES...

Amherst Open till 9 P.M.
Thursdays & Fridays

WEAR-HOUSE

201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

Bing Crosby buried today

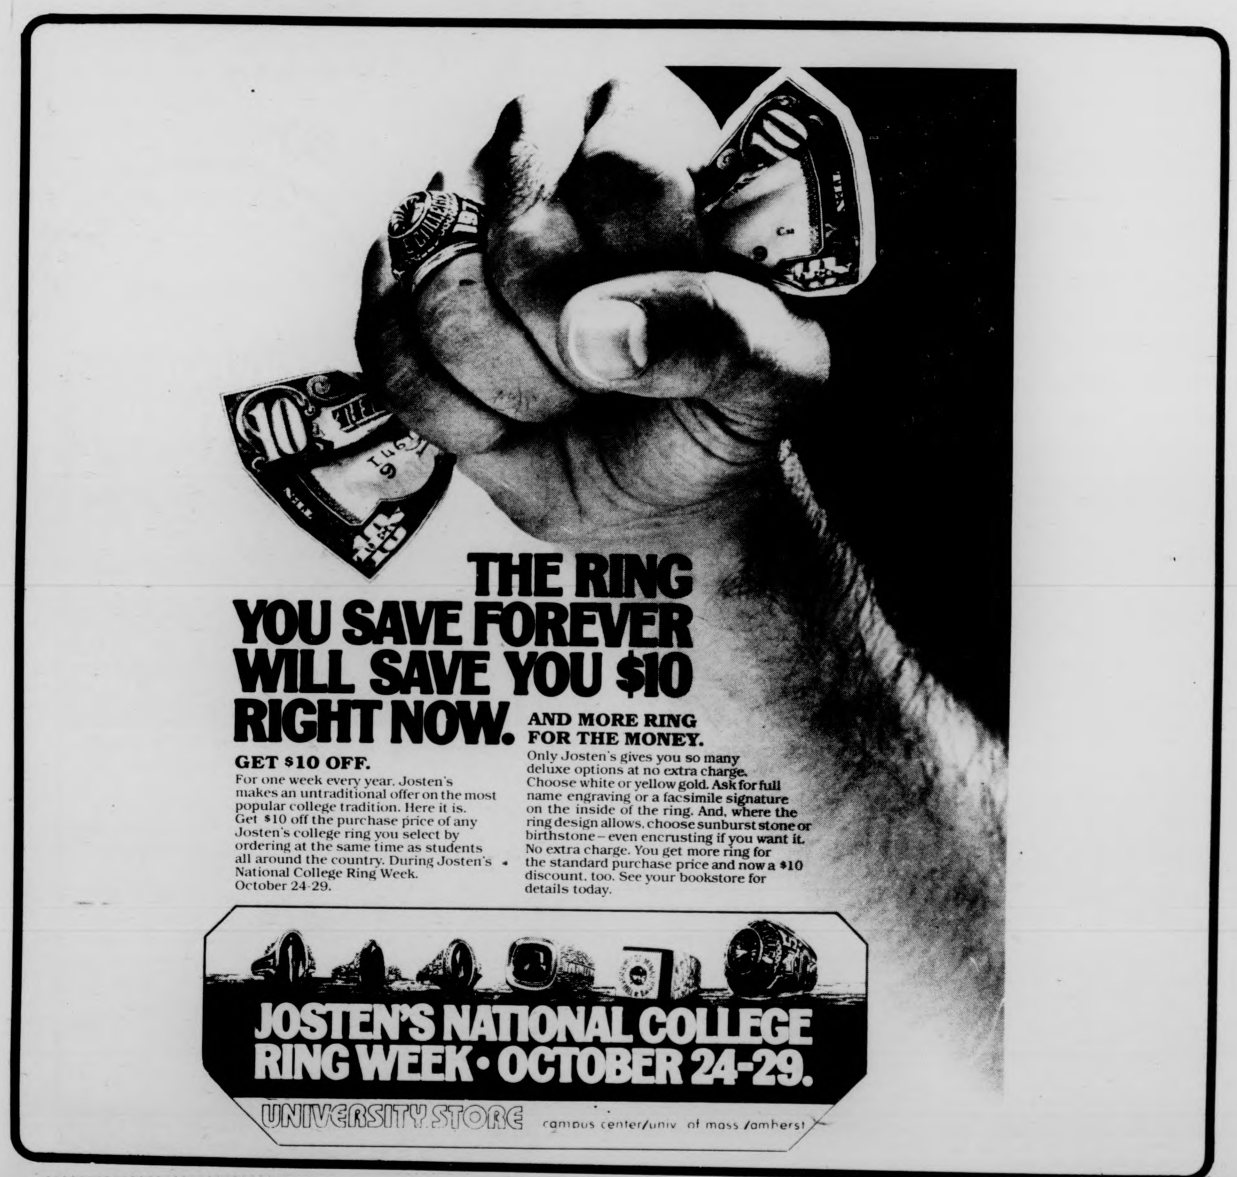
(Madrid) UPI: A Spanish wooden coffin with a crucifix at the head containing the remains of Bing Crosby lies in the cargo hold of a TWA passenger jetliner prior to takeoff for transport to the U.S. 10-17. Funeral services are scheduled for 10-18 in Los Angeles.



THE RING YOU SAVE FOREVER WILL SAVE YOU $10 RIGHT NOW.

GET $10 OFF.
For one week every year, Josten's makes an untraditional offer on the most popular college tradition. Here it is. Get $10 off the purchase price of any Josten's college ring you select by ordering at the same time as students all around the country. During Josten's National College Ring Week. October 24-29.

AND MORE RING FOR THE MONEY.
Only Josten's gives you so many deluxe options at no extra charge. Choose white or yellow gold. Ask for full name engraving or a facsimile signature on the inside of the ring. And, where the ring design allows, choose sunburst stone or birthstone – even encrusting if you want it. No extra charge. You get more ring for the standard purchase price and now a $10 discount, too. See your bookstore for details today.

JOSTEN'S NATIONAL COLLEGE RING WEEK • OCTOBER 24-29.

UNIVERSITY STORE campus center/univ. of mass /amherst

What's Happening

TODAY

LECTURES

—Lucille Grindhammer, member of faculty at U. of Hamburg (Germany) will lecture on "The German Women's Movement Today: An Historical Perspective" 3 p.m. Archives Conference Room, Neilson Library, Smith.

—David Halsey, master potter is lecturing on Ceramics 7:30—9:30 p.m. at Parish Hall of Grace Episcopal Church on the Amherst Common. Admission $2.50 at the door. Part of a series of lectures entitled "What to Look for in Fine Crafts."

—Johnstone Campbell, administrator and member of faculty for Project 10, will speak on "Political Theatre and Social Change," 7:30 p.m., Thompson Tower sixth floor lounge.

MOVIES

—"Blood of the Condor," Thompson 106 at 8 p.m. Admission is free.

—"Network," Campus Center Aud. 7, 9 & 11 p.m.

NEW COURSES

Dostoevsky: lecture, reports, discussions. Eight weeks beginning 10-18 from 7:30—9:30 p.m. Inquiry Program, Emily Dickinson 15, Hampshire College. More info call 545-2803 or 532-5011.

PUMPKIN SALE

Pumpkin sale in front of Student Union, all day. Assorted prices.

WORKSHOP

Video Workshop, Jones Library, Youth Council 4 p.m. Amherst Youth Center.

TOMORROW

LECTURES

—Department of Spanish and Portuguese will host Information Evening for all students interested in studying in Spanish-speaking countries. Interested persons come to Third Floor Lounge Herter Hall at 7:30 p.m.

—To all Hispanic Parents with children in Amherst Public Schools, meeting to discuss Bilingual and Bicultural programs 7 p.m. Mark's Meadow School, Teachers Lounge.

—Dr. Vaclav Holesovsky will discuss "How to be a Socialist Without Being Either a Fool or a Schoundrel," Campus Center 8 p.m. rooms 174-6, public invited.

MOVIES

—"Deliverance," Campus Center Aud. 7, 9 and 11 p.m.

—Film Classics Series, Billy Wilder's "Sunset Boulevard," 7 p.m. Newman Center classroom 2.

MUSIC

Howard M. Lebow Memorial Concert, Bowker Aud. donations.

DAILY

CRAFT SHOP

Individual and group instruction in photo dark room and silver jewelry, ask in craft shop for times-dates. Lower level Student Union Bldg.

VIDEO

Student Union Gallery presents a video installation in Gallery and outdoors by Kit Fitzgerald and John Sanborn, Monday thru Friday 10-28.

Notices

ALPHA ZETA

Meeting, Wednesday 10-19, 6:30 p.m. Campus Center 904-908. There will be a speaker and refreshments.

AMATEUR RADIO CLUB

Meeting 7:30 p.m. E Lab 109. All welcome.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

Meeting at 6:30 p.m. Campus Center 177. All are welcome.

CREATIVE WRITING

Are you going to be around Boston January break? Get involved in creative writing, contact Kerri 546-7049.

DIABETES GROUP

Discussion Wednesday 7:00 p.m. Health Services 40.

FOOD AND RESOURCES ECONOMICS MAJORS

Meeting Draper 227 at 7:00 p.m. Important.

FOUND

Orange and white cat, male 6 months plus. Found on steps of Machmer. Call 253-3934 David.

NATIONAL STUDENT EXCHANGE PROGRAM

Meeting 9-10 a.m. Campus Center 903, anyone interested is welcome.

PRE-DENTS

Dr. Trowbridge of UPenn will speak at 6:30 p.m. 10-19 Campus Center 804. Also Dr. Shiere and Dr. Fogels of Tufts will speak 10-20, Campus Center 6:30 p.m. room 174.

UNITED CHRISTIAN FEDERATION

Biblical exploration, discussion of scripture, 7:15-8:15 p.m. Student Union 428. Facilitated by Pete Sabey, campus minister. All welcome.

UNIVERSITY HEALTH SERVICES

Contraception Education, Mondays and Thursdays at 3 p.m. & Wednesdays 7 p.m. Couples Tuesdays 7 p.m. all held at University Health Services 302.

UMASS COIN CLUB

Meeting Campus Center 901 at 7:30 p.m. Tonight is appraisal nite.

SAILING CLUB

Meeting tonight 7:00, Campus Center 902. Discuss next weeks regatta.

Rhetoric exemption exam

The Rhetoric Exemption Exam will be given on Nov. 2, from 7-10 p.m. in Engineering East Auditorium. The test consists of writing a 500 word essay. You will be given three topics from which you can choose one. Your work will be evaluated on the following criteria: depth of treatment, development and support, organization, style, and the mechanics of writing such as grammar, punctuation.

Bring several pencils, your ID, and 25 cents to help cover the cost of administering the exam. This exam is for seniors only.

Kent State supporters

There will be a benefit tonight at 8:00 in Pierpont dorm to raise money for transportation of demonstrators going to Kent State this weekend.

The Jazz Workshop will perform, and there will be two kegs. $1 donation.

--------------------

There will be an organizational meeting tonight at 6:30 in Student Union 413A to make final plans for transportation to the demonstration this Saturday, against the Kent State gym.

The meeting is a must for all people who plan to demonstrate; this will be the last chance to purchase tickets.

Collegian color supplements

A series of Collegian color supplements begins tomorrow entitled Insider. The first in the series will feature "The New Fitness — Focus on Personal Energy."

"New Fitness" is a guide to increasing a student's physical, mental and emotional energy through exercises, activities, proper eating, relaxation and other programs.

Each Insider issue will deal with one feature topic. The second will focus on "Tactics and Strategies" and deals in the art of exam-taking. A third, with a yet to be determined subject, will appear early in 1978. Each supplement, done in a magazine format, will be 24 pages in full color.

DC Menu

TODAY

LUNCH — Junior Club Sandwich, California Quiche, Basics; Vegetable Baked Beans-Brown Bread, California Quiche.

DINNER — Chinese Dinner-Egg Rolls, Stuffed Shells, Basics; Same.

TOMORROW

LUNCH — Cheeseburgers, Batter Dipped Fish Cones, Basics; Golden Burgers, Batter Dipped Fish Cones.

DINNER — Roast Beef-Mushroom sauce, Seafood Newburg-Toast, Basics; Spinach Wheat Croquettes, Seafood Newburg-Toast.

Women's studies seminar

The first meeting of this year's Five College Women's Studies Seminar will be tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., in the Blair Conference Room at Hampshire College.

Isabelle de Courtivron of Wellesley College will speak on "French Feminist Perspectives on Literature and Society." She will discuss the following issues:

—basic differences between French and American views on the feminist process;

—French emphasis on body-language-mental structures;

—controversy about feminine specificity in biology-language;

—the question of "creativity."

De Courtivron is Visiting Professor at MIT this year. She is co-editing an anthology of French feminist thinking, to appear this year.

For more information contact Seminar Chairperson Elissa Gelfand at Mt. Holyoke College.

WOODY ALLEN
in
THE FRONT
THURS. OCT. 20 4, 7, 9 & 11
S.U.B.

Are you going to show any kind of film next semester?

If you plan to, the P.C. film committee will be showing product reels of available movies from Films, Inc.

All persons involved in film programming are urged to attend.

Date: Oct. 19, 1977 PLACE: CC 176
TIME: 3:30

TONIGHT
BOTTLE NIGHT
Michelob Molson Miller Lite
12 oz. Bottles
60¢
9-1
THE PUB
AMHERST

TRIED EVERYTHING AND STILL OVERWEIGHT?

COME TO CLASS.

WEIGHT WATCHERS

EASTHAMPTON- American Legion
Pleasant Street
Wednesdays 7 PM
AMHERST - UMass Campus Center Bldg.
Tuesdays 7 PM
AMHERST-HADLEY - Howard Johnson's
401 Russell St. (Rt. 9)
Wednesdays 9:30 AM, 5 PM & 7 PM
NORTHAMPTON - World War II Vets. Assn.
50 Conz Street
Tuesdays 7 PM
Wednesdays 9:30 AM
NORTHAMPTON - Y.M.C.A., Prospect St.
Thursdays 7 PM

For Information Call:
(413) 786-6611 or write
622 No. Main St., East Longmeadow, Mass. 01028

$7.00 first meeting, then $3.00 weekly. Join now!
LOWER RATES FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

MOUNTAIN FARMS FOUR 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS.
Adults $2.50 · Students with AMC Card $2.00 · Children $1.25 · Twi Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded

The real story of why President Lincoln was killed.
The Lincoln Conspiracy
G ①
Mon. Thurs. 6:30, 8:45
Fri. 5:30, 8:00, 9:55;
Twiliter 5:00 on Fri.;
Twiliter 6:00 Mon. Thurs.

A long time ago in a galaxy far far away
STAR WARS
PG ②
Mon. Thurs. 6:00, 8:30
Fri. 5:00, 7:30, 9:55;
Twiliter 5:30 Mon. Thurs.;
Twiliter 4:30 on Fri.

JAMES BOND 007
THE SPY WHO LOVED ME
ROGER MOORE

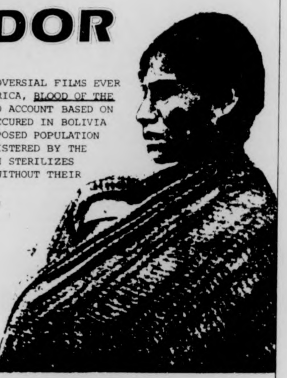
PG ③
Mon. Thurs. 6:00, 8:30
Fri. 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twiliter 5:30 Mon. Thurs.;
Twiliter 4:30 on Fri.

THE BAD NEWS Bears in BREAKING TRAINING
PG ④
Mon. Thurs. 6:30, 8:45
Fri. 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twiliter 6:00 on Thurs.;
Twiliter 4:30 on Fri.

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI LITE SHOW TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

★★ A LATIN AMERICAN FILM CLASSIC ★★

BLOOD OF THE CONDOR



ONE OF THE MOST CONTROVERSIAL FILMS EVER PRODUCED IN LATIN AMERICA, BLOOD OF THE CONDOR IS A DRAMATIZED ACCOUNT BASED ON ACTUAL EVENTS WHICH OCCURED IN BOLIVIA IN 1968- OF A U.S. IMPOSED POPULATION CONTROL PROGRAM ADMINISTERED BY THE "PROGRESS CORPS" WHICH STERILIZES QUECHUA INDIAN WOMEN WITHOUT THEIR KNOWLEDGE OR CONSENT.

★ TUESDAY OCTOBER 18

THOMPSON 106 8PM FREE!!

Proposed saccharin ban

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The House Monday agreed with the Senate to delay a proposed ban on saccahrin for 18 months, but differences on labeling requirements will have to be reconciled before final approval.

The House voted 375-23 for its bill responding to a Food and Drug Administration plan to ban the use of saccharin because testing showed it caused cancer in animals.

The 18-month period would begin when the President signs the bill and the FDA could not order an earlier date.

The FDA has invited public comment until Nov. 1, after which it will evaluate comments and determine if and when to seek the ban.

The Senate bill would require labeling of all products containing saccharin warning the sweetener causes cancer in animals and "may increase your risk of contracting cancer."

The House measure would require only a notice at the retail outlet where products with saccharin are sold.

The proposed ban triggered a massive outpouring of mail to the FDA and Congress from victims of diabetes and heart trouble as well as persons using the non-caloric sweetener for diets.

An estimated 74 per cent of saccharin consumed in the United States is in diet soft drinks, another 14 per cent in dietetic foods and 12 per cent in tabletop sweeteners.

Rep. James Martin, R-N.C., said an estimated 19 million Americans with diabetes, 4 million with heart trouble, 10 million suffering from hypertension and 4 million fighting "obesity" depend on saccharin.

Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., manager of the measure, said the bill's provision for more conclusive studies during the 18-month delay would provide safeguards for the public.

Mashpee land controversy

BOSTON — Act of 1790. The case has attracted wide interest, especially in other parts of the country where Indian rights groups have filed or threatened similar suits.

George Bendway, a Mashpee selectman, said similar suits were underway or threatened in Maine, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, South and North Carolina, Virginia and Louisiana, and claimed at least 450 other communities were vulnerable to suit.

He claimed the suit, first filed Aug. 28, 1976, has clouded every land title in Mashpee and caused a drop of $642,000 this year in the usual $2 million the municipality collects in property taxes annually.

Between 300 and 400 Wampanoags live in Mashpee, which has a population of about 3,500. Bendway claimed the town had an unemployment figure of 32 per cent and could attract no federal relief money because of the suit.

James D. St. Clair, the Boston attorney who represented President Nixon before his resignation, will make the opening statement for the town Tuesday.

Lawrence Shubow will open the case for the Indians.

Judge Skinner outlined a trial schedule taking the proceedings to Thanksgiving, the day celebrating the Pilgrims' success with Indian help in the New World. He said if the case was not completed by then, it would resume Dec. 12.

DELIVERANCE
Wed Oct 19
Campus Center Aud.
$1
7:00 9:00
11:00

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
LIVE! ON STAGE! THE 50's COME TO LIFE!
"The dancingest show in town" — Daily News
Grease
"THE KIND OF MUSICAL BROADWAY HAS NEEDED FOR SOME TIME! 'GREASE' DESERVES THE ADJECTIVES WE ONCE AWARDED SHOWS LIKE 'PAL JOEY', 'KISS ME KATE', 'GUYS AND DOLLS', AND 'THE PAJAMA GAME'." — New York Times
FRIDAY
October 28 8PM
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale General Public -$7, 6, 5.
UM-A students and senior citizens - $6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

73 Fiat A 1 $1,100. 256-8226.

1970 Triumph GT6+. Excellent condition, no rust. $850. or Best Offer 549-5057.

1970 VW Bug, exc. cond., rebuilt eng. $1,000. or B.O. Call 253-3278 Barb.

70 Ford LTD. Good cond. $850. 562-4727.

68 Galaxy 500 Ford. $700. 527-5746.

144S Volvo 72 89,000mi. $1,600. Excel. mech. 256-8322.

68 Chevy Belair. $150. or Best Offer. 6-5855.

68 Galaxy 500 Ford. $600. 546-4856.

Mercedes 220Sb good running, fall sticker, new tires and second car for spare. $1,000. 549-3934.

'68 VW Bug, VG Rebuilt engine, cond. body fair, $200. or B.O. Call 772-0672 Anytime.

66 Volvo 122S. Gooid mechanical condition. 130,000 miles. Frame needs work. Call 256-8467. Keep Trying.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

71 VW SQBK. $770. or B.O. 545-0811 Jack.

68 Chevy Wagon. $250. or B.O. 549-5993.

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

76 550 Honda. $1,100. 774-3422 or 562-4727.

FOR SALE

Bike Rack, Filing Cabinet, Rec. Chair 549-5725

Fender Bass-Music Master. Excel. cond., also Arthur E. Smith Maple Leaf 5-string Banjo. Excel. Cond. Best offer on both. Call Brian at 549-3796.

Bacpack and frame $40., Down-bag $75., SVEA Stove $20., Glacier tent $45. 256-6610.

Moped Motobecane. Almost brand new. $325. Call 253-5594 Ask for Bill.

Infinity Qa spkrs. New w/ transferable warrantee. $215. Call 546-4132.

SAVE up to 50%on TENNIS SHOES! Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18.-30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181

Ref. Dorm size, exc. cond. $50. 534-5413.

Single Bed, good cond. $20. 253-9848.

Olin Mark III Skiis (170's). Never been used. $150. or Best Offer. Call 665-4963 evenings.

Minolta SRT Bellows; connector for Macrostand, slide corier. New $30.- firm. After 5:30 584-7146.

Soligor 90-230 F4.5 zoom lens, UV filter and case. Screw mount. Exc. Cond. $90. Will fit most 35mm. Call 6-8711.

Hanimex Practica L. 35mm SLR w/150mm F2.8 lens, case, Wesson light meter, Honeywell flash, instructions. Exc. cond. $80. or Best Offer. Call 6-8711.

Fully restored 140yr. old farmhouse. 1 acre, wood burning stove, barn, two bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen, bath. Taxes $95. $29,900. No brokers please! 665-3560.

FOR RENT

1Br. in 2Br.#28Millhollow Apt., Summer St., Amherst. $102/Mo. util. inc. Alan 549-1517.

HELP WANTED

Babysitter - warm resp. girl one night a week for three girls. 253-3149 256-0577.

Experienced Waitresses. Apply Poor Richards 11 to 1p.m. daily.

Addressers Wanted Immediately! Work at home -- no experience necessary -- excellent pay. Write American Service, 8350 Park Lane, Suite 269, Dallas, Tx 75231.

ROOM WANTED

Quiet undergraduate male seeks room in quiet house to hang his hat and study for spring semester, possibly January and for next two years, including summers. Willing to pay for own bath and kitchen, or easy access to them. Will live anywhere in area. Please call 545-3503 Mon. nites and ask for Joe or leave message for rm. 209 - 50724.

LOST

Missing red leather Wallet. Please turn in at lost and found.

Lost Meal Book. Please help me. Lost in Southwest Wed. No reward, just sentimental value. 6-9882.

Green Knapsack with camera. Lst. near Fernald. Reward 617-367-0007.

Missing since Aug. 30 from Brandywine: 3 yr. old female cat. Dark Angora, mostly gray, black&tan w/ green eyes, flea collar. If you have her or any info please call Jan, 549-3633 or 549-6000 X533.

T.I. SR-40 Calculator. Somewhere in or between Goes. 152 and Bluewall on Sept. 28 after 8p.m. Desperately need it for doing my assignments! Please return - Reward and No Questions asked. 256-6059.

AUDIO

Used Receivers, Speakers Call 546-4034.

Turntable Pioneer PL11ZD. $50. list $100. Only 4 mos. old. Call Marc, 6-4363.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low price & full service. All models avail. T159-$225., 58-$99.95, 51-$49.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. Models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators. 549-1316.

ENTERTAINMENT

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco, Monitor Music, 546-4731, Rea.

SERVICES

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models, low prices. Jack 586-0610.

Expert Typing, only 40cents/page. Call after 6, Mon.-Thurs., 256-8484.

For A Good Layer Cake: Custom made & beautifully decorated birthday etc. Cakes on 2 days notice. Right on campus, (not associated with Campus Ed Service). Laurie 546-9576.

Collegiate research papers. Thousands on file. All academic subjects. Send $1. for mail order catalog. Box25918-2, Los Angeles, Calif. 90025 (213) 477-8474.

Expert Typing. Mary Beth eves. 586-1206.

Horses Boarded in exchange for use by responsible UMass student 863-2680.

PERSONALS

Vote Mark Curelop for Campus Center Board of Governors on Mon. and Tues. Oct. 17 and 18 from 12-6p.m. at respective DC's.

PEOPLE'S LEAGUE SOCIALIST YOUNG: Unscrambling of the name and the message this wednesday at 8 in Campus Center 174.

POLEMICALLY AND CONSTRUCTIVELY ON SOCIALISM: from the Social Democratic Left this wednesday at 8 C. Center 174. Address by Prof. Holesovsky "How to be a Socialist without being a fool or a scoundrel".

LET US MEET OPENLY in Campus Cter. 174 this wednesday at 8 and hear what Holesovsky and the YPSL people have to say on socialism.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

A quiet World Series and a fleabag hotel

By JOHN ANTONELLI
and FRED WINER
Collegian Staff

NEW YORK — Could this have really been New York? Even though an overflow 56,668 fans filed into Yankee Stadium last Tuesday night to see the first game of the World Series, there appeared to be no big trouble from the crowd. It was a largely uneventful evening in the stands during the game, almost as amazing as the Yankees pulling out still another late-inning victory.

Maybe we should have known. The World Series, in any city, always means complimentary tickets. But this is especially true in New York, the land of corporations and big business. Also, many of the fans who show up during the season are unable to afford World Series prices. What happens is that a generally neutral, foreign, and polite crowd shows up, some not baseball fans, who want to be where the action is. While the guy who supports his team all year is fans. The public address system is loud and clear, and the whole park has a brilliance to it. Its exits are smartly designed and everyone is always moving.

One obvious drawback to the stadium was the bush electronic message board in center field, which told the people what and when to cheer. It did not name the players, but just showed their numbers and the lineups. Replays were few, and did not involve exciting plays.

As for the game, many Yankee fans must have been disturbed when manager Billy Martin took Reggie Jackson out for the better fielding Paul Blair, as he tried to protect a one-run lead in the late innings.

When Los Angeles tied it up and the game went into extra innings, this meant Blair was forced to come to bat and he went out his first time up. Even though Blair came through with a big hit to start the series-winning rally against Kansas City, Jackson obviously is a better hitter.

Commentary

forced to watch the game at home, his ballpark seat is taken by a disinterested socialite.

It is no surprise, then, when the Yankees took the field Tuesday night the crowd reacted (those who did) like the Yankees were trotting out to play the Cleveland Indians. There was no electricity in the air; it was often quiet enough to hear the subway trains rumbling behind center field.

Of course, there was a good side to this church picnic. There were no fights and very few things thrown, in anger or glee, even after a great play or a bad call. There wasn't even any danger in rooting loudly for the Dodgers.

The new Yankee Stadium is a magnificent edifice, enough to strike awe into simple New Englanders used to such stadia as Fenway Park (just to pull a playground out of a hat). Speaking of Fenway, Yankee Stadium is superior in many ways. Concession stands offer more variety and easy access for the

However, again Blair's bat did it, as he drove in the winning run from second base with a solid single in the 12th inning. This occurred seconds after midnight, the time Blair was supposed to turn into a pumpkin, according to a New York Post sportswriter. The Red Sox could use about four pumpkins like Blair.

SCRIBBLINGS FROM A FLEABAG HOTEL: Somehow, it's not surprising that New York owner George Steinbrenner couldn't give a damn what kind of seats, if any, Joe DiMaggio was to get for the first game. He was supposed to throw out the first ball, but he couldn't even get in the ballpark ... West 42nd street provides a great view if you like the ugly, sleazy, rude, and filthy side of town, as many young women seem to late at night ... ABC-TV roving cameraman scanned the stands, and just missed (several times) focusing on your wayward reporters. Tough luck, America.

Billy Martin (l) doesn't look happy, and Ed Figueroa (r) apparently doesn't care what happens to the Yankees tonight in the World Series. (UPI)

Martin takes Torrez... so Figueroa takes off

NEW YORK [UPI] — An angered Ed Figueroa, a 16-game winner for the New York Yankees this year, quit the club yesterday because he was upset over manager Billy Martin's passing him over and naming Mike Torrez to pitch tonight's sixth game of the World Series against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"Figueroa has left the team," Martin announced just before the Yankees' scheduled 5 p.m. EDT workout at Yankee Stadium was cancelled because of inclement weather. "He packed his bags and left the stadium."

"If I can't pitch, then I might as well go home," Martin quoted Figueroa as saying. "The guy just feels bad. He probably wanted to pitch. He's a proud Puerto Rican and I love the guy for wanting to pitch. I can understand how he feels."

Martin then dispatched pitching coach Art Fowler to try and head off Figueroa at his hotel and persuade him to rejoin the club.

Figueroa originally had been named by Martin to pitch the sixth game against the Dodgers but before the Yankees left Los Angeles Sunday night, Martin switched to Torrez because he felt Figueroa was not 100 per cent.

The right-hander has been bothered by a hand injury.

Figueroa didn't learn that he was being passed over until Torrez told him as they boarded the plane back to New York.

He fumed all the way back and now says he has joined the growing number of Yankees who want to go elsewhere next season.

"Next year I want to get out of here," he said. "I want to go someplace where people have confidence in me. He (Martin) has been lying to me for two years."

SOUTHWEST CARNIVAL '77

at the playing field
on University Drive
across from Southwest Dorms

Thursday, October 20 6:30-10:30
Friday, October 21 6:30-midnight
Saturday, October 22 11 am-midnight
Sunday, October 23 1:00-8:00

Rides, games, balloons, food all with
FREE ADMISSION
Thursday is ALL CAMPUS NIGHT -
All rides 4/$1.00

Sponsored by the Southwest Assembly

---

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

"WITH THE ADVENT OF EQUAL OPPORTUNITY FOR WOMEN IN COLLEGIATE SPORTS, THERE IS NOW A NEED TO EDUCATE ATHLETES ABOUT THE SPORTS SITUATION AS IT CURRENTLY EXISTS."
"TOWARDS THAT GOAL, THE UNIVERSITY WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION HAS PREPARED A BRIEF 'GUIDE TO WOMEN IN SPORTS.'"
WHAT FOLLOWS ARE SOME OF THE MOST FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS ABOUT WOMEN, WHICH WE'LL TRY TO ANSWER HERE IN PLAIN, SIMPLE LANGUAGE.
1. WHAT EXACTLY IS A "WOMAN"?
OH, WOW — I'VE ALWAYS BEEN AFRAID TO ASK!
71
30
17
10-18

B.C. by Johnny Hart

...I'VE BEEN HERE BEFORE.
YOU'RE ONE OF THOSE WEIRDOS THAT BELIEVE IN REINCARNATION, RIGHT?
NOT REALLY.
...YESTERDAY I WAS HERE.
10-18
hart

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

[ ] [ ] [ ]
[ ] [ ] [ ]
I'M PRACTICING MY BRACKETS...
DID YOU KNOW THAT BRACKETS ARE ALWAYS USED IN PAIRS?
IF YOU EVER SEE A BRACKET BY ITSELF, YOU CAN BE SURE IT'S UP TO NO GOOD!
© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
10-18
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

You don't really get snow around here, do you, Jasper?
Mark, this is not California. Snow and ice is all you'll see for at least three months.
You're putting me on. Please say you're putting me on.
Then there's slush...
Ranney 10/18

WHAT NEXT? by Dick Janssen

HERE'S AN ARTICLE IN THE GLOBE ABOUT LINDA RONSTADT.....
OH YEAH, DOUG? WHAT DA YOU THINK OF LINDA RONSTADT?
CONSTANTLY.
GLOBE
RUSSIA DECLARES WAR ON COCA-COLA
10/18

UM by Marty Maceda

THE SOUND OF FOOTSTEPS, HARSH LIGHTS, PURSUIT!
WHAT THE HELL AM I DOING HERE?
ALRIGHT PUNK! HOLD IT!
MACEDA 10-18

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

GERALD HAS MADE PEACE WITH THE CAKES!
HERE'S THE ADDRESS OF THE GUY WHO HAD US CAPTURE YOU!
GERALD AND KNOOT BORROW A CAKEMOBILE AND LEAVE...
THE ADDRESS IS IN MOROCCO!
WHAT'S FOR DINNER?
PEPPER PIZZA!
LAFLER 10/18
MEANWHILE, DOWN ON THE ISLAND...
MOROCCO? GERALD IS ON HIS WAY!

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18 — Born today, you are an energetic individual who has always had the wisdom to develop skills to suit duties. Not one to fight against your responsibilities, you spend your time developing the talent you need to fulfill requirements well. A determined person, you do not let go easily of any notion. You see projects through to their logical conclusions, and are usually careful that the projects you becomed involved in are those which will serve you well.

This may seem to imply that you do not seek or accept change. In truth, however, your progress comes through not fighting the direction in which you must work. A person of considerable reserve, you do not often display your emotions. When you do allow your feelings to be observed, there is never any mistaking what they are, for you display them in unadulterated, full-strength ways.

Although you are not impulsive, you understand impulse-activity in others. You are extremely tolerant and make it a point to try to understand whatever is different in other people, as well as whatever is contrary to your own beliefs. You will keep to your own standards without fail – but you will not insist that anyone else do the same. Broadminded and generous-hearted, you are willing to live and let live – and to enjoy doing both.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Charity begins at home. Loved ones depend upon your good will and generosity. Be generous.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.22) — You can say no in a kind way and accomplish just as much as through being harsh. Good will is important; don't jeopardize it.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Success at some commercial enterprise seems about to dawn. Don't be disappointed at changes in another's plan.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — Concern yourself with the problems of the young and you will be well on the way to solving a few of your own.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Generosity may backfire late in the day. Make sure that what you give away you would not mind getting back.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — A long journey may be in the offing. Begin at once to prepare for it. Make a much-needed purchase in PM.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — Take care that a thoughtless word does not hurt another's feelings. You will do well to keep new found attitudes to yourself – for now.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Seek new insight into your professional world. Present knowledge may fall short of what is soon to be needed.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — Possession is not always nine points of the law. Return goods that do not belong to you; another may be becoming desperate.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — Some financial loss may be sustained today if you insist upon doing things your own way. Lessons learned are vital.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — Agree with another if you possibly can without compromising your own principles. This is a good day for making new friends.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — Profits from work done some time ago may begin to show themselves. Take advantage of some inside knowledge of the situation.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Hardware item
5 Frown angrily
10 Inclined passage
14 Stench
15 African capital
16 Spiced stew
17 Furniture pieces: 2 words
19 Surface depression
20 Prickly plant
21 Avenger
23 Resisting action
26 Offense
27 Bidder
30 Ont.Indian
34 Drug source
35 Worth
37 Mil. unit
38 --- up: Add
39 Bookkeeping items
41 Mountain: Prefix
42 Slender finial
43 Get new tenants
44 ---- cut
45 Milk coagulator
47 Western badmen
50 Poetic contraction
51 Cathedral feature
52 Naval fleets
56 Keep enclosed: 2 words
60 Hind part
61 Ignorant
64 Confiscate
65 Not learned
66 Amer. Indians
67 Drove rapidly
68 Curse
69 Vivacious

DOWN
1 Entertainer
2 Straight as ----
3 Card in faro
4 Act as president
5 Counter
6 Locomotive part
7 Viscous fluid
8 Architect Christopher ----
9 Is unsuccessful: 2 words
10 Beaver, e.g.
11 Thirst quenchers
12 Kind of skirt
13 Tankards
18 Ribbon: Comb. form
22 Small amounts
24 Have fun
25 NYSE members
27 Edible root: Dial.
28 Marry informally
29 Out: 2 words
31 Worship
32 Electrician
33 Declares frankly
36 Illuminated: 2 words
39 Belief
40 Prepares for a new job
44 Make less obscure: 2 words
46 Approached
48 Family member
49 Canadian hemlock
52 The "A" of "B.A."
53 Cut wheat
54 Manufacture
55 Vegetable dish
57 Recently dead
58 Chariot route
59 Bird structure
62 Trygve ---
63 Yellow bugle

Monday Puzzle Solved:

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| W | A | R | S | ■ | R | U | S | S | O | ■ | F | R | O | G |
| I | N | E | E | ■ | A | N | T | O | N | ■ | R | A | R | A |
| S | T | A | R | ■ | D | I | A | P | A | S | O | N | A | L |
| H | I | L | A | R | I | T | Y | ■ | G | E | N | T | L | E |
| ■ | ■ | ■ | P | E | A | S | ■ | B | E | A | T | ■ | ■ | ■ |
| S | T | R | E | E | T | ■ | P | A | R | T | I | E | R | S |
| E | R | A | ■ | L | O | V | E | R | ■ | S | E | V | E | N |
| N | A | I | R | ■ | R | A | T | E | R | ■ | R | A | M | I |
| A | S | S | E | T | ■ | S | A | R | A | H | ■ | D | I | P |
| T | H | E | L | E | V | E | L | ■ | V | A | L | E | T | S |
| ■ | ■ | ■ | E | R | A | S | ■ | M | I | L | E | ■ | ■ | ■ |
| O | C | E | A | N | S | ■ | M | A | S | T | E | R | E | D |
| F | A | L | S | E | T | E | E | T | H | ■ | W | I | S | E |
| F | L | E | E | ■ | E | L | A | T | E | ■ | A | S | T | A |
| S | L | E | D | ■ | R | I | T | E | S | ■ | Y | E | A | R |

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
MEN'S JUNIOR VARSITY SOCCER — Postponed

TODAY
MEN'S VARSITY SOCCER — vs. WPI Away 3:30
VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY — vs. Southern Connecticut Away 3:30
VARSITY VOLLEYBALL — vs. Central Conn-New Haven Away 6:00
WOMEN'S TENNIS — vs. Keene State Home
JUNIOR VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY — vs. Southern Connecticut Away 3:30

TOMORROW
WOMEN'S TENNIS — vs. UConn Home 3:00
MEN'S JUNIOR VARSITY SOCCER — vs. WPI Away 3:30

Stickers travel south; face top-notch Owls

By JIM GLEASON
Collegian Staff

The UMass field hockey team carries its unbeaten record (5-0-2) into Southern Connecticut in a 3:30 game today.

Both teams, suffering from weekend rainouts, may be rusty. That, combined with possible wet field conditions, should keep the score low.

UMass coach Judith Davidson nevertheless is expecting a "good game" from her players. In its last game, UMass scored a late goal to salvage a tie in what would have been an embarrassing loss to Yale.

Last year, UMass easily handled the Owls 3-0, but the same team went on to qualify and participate in the National Tournament.

Physically, the team is healthy. With the help of the layoff, all the injured knees have been given time to heal.

Statistically, Cheryl Meliones leads the team in scoring with five goals. However, of Julie McHugh's two goals, one has been a game winner and the other enabled the team to tie Yale last Wednesday.

Goalie Kathy Gipps continues to play a steady goal as reflected by her 0.42 goals against average.

The team as of late has featured some fine individual performances but much more is needed if its undefeated record is to continue.

Spikers meet Conn. foes

By LEO PELOQUIN
Collegian Staff

The UMass volleyball team takes to the road again tonight for its second tri-match in a row. This time, the opposition will be Central Connecticut (the host for the match) and the University of New Haven, a team that the locals will be playing for the first time ever. The match will begin at 6 p.m.

UMass coach Dianne Thompson said that she expects the most trouble from Central because it is the most experienced of the two squads. Under coach Brenda Reilly, Central defeated UMass last year by the scores of 15-3, 11-15, and 15-9. But this year, Reilly is on sabbatical as she pursues her doctorate, leaving Central under the tutelage of an interim coach.

New Haven is coached by Debbie Chin, an experienced coach and player at the USVBA level. She is the former coach of the Connecticut Clippers, one of the best USVBA teams in the east. Last year, her team at New Haven was the first varsity volleyball squad ever at the school and finished the year with a 12-5 mark.

So far this season, the team, made up mostly of freshmen, is off to a strong start (a 5-1 record) and Chin says she is optimistic about the prospect of post-season play.

Thompson said that the only two sure starters for the local spikers are Kathy Higgins and Kathryn Shinnick, based on their strong efforts in Saturday's tri-match split. She said she would make up her mind about the rest of the starting line-up after yesterday's team practice.

A great idea!
The printed look for your great ideas

Rentals and Sales

Rentals only $8^{50}$ per week can you afford not to type your papers at these prices?

If you do a lot of typing perhaps you should buy a typewriter. We can help there to..a great selection at discount prices!

the University Store

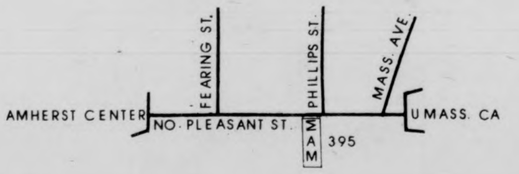
Charlie's
U MASS NIGHT
10% OFF
ALL FOOD & DRINK W/ID
1 PRAY ST. AMHERST 549-5403 Next to The PUB

PERSONALIZED STATIONARY
at
A.J. HASTINGS
45 S. Pleasant St.
Amherst

THE BROTHERS AND SISTERS
OF
ΣAM
(U MASS' ONLY CO-ED FRATERNITY)
INVITE ALL UNIVERSITY MEN AND WOMEN
TO AN INFORMAL RUSH
TONITE AND WED NITE
FREE BEER, WINE, SODA AND MUNCHIES
INFO—545-0845—RIDES
SIGMA ALPHA MU, 395 NO. PLEASANT ST.



COPYGRAFIX
HIGH QUALITY REPRODUCTIONS
ON XEROX 9200
DUPLICATING SYSTEM ...
1—99 5¢ ea. one side
WE SPECIALIZE IN...
RESUMES & DISSERTATIONS
BINDING
COLLATING, PADDING,
STAPLING
ENVELOPES (Min. 4 x 9)
BOOK COPYING
TYPING
ENVELOPE ADDRESSING
BUSINESS CARDS
LETTERHEADS AND STATIONARY LAYOUT WORK POSTCARDS
POSTER SIZE COPIES
20# WHITE
11 x 17 .25 ea.
14 x 18 .35 ea.
358 NO. PLEASANT STREET SUITE 105
AMHERST, MASS. 01002
Tel. 549-5266
AMPLE FREE PARKING
MON-THURS 8:00-8:00
FRI 8:00-5:00
SAT 9:00-1:00

UNITED TRANSMISSION
EXCHANGE INC.
all make car and truck
transmissions
Repaired-Rebuilt-Exchanged
236 Pleasant St
Northampton, Mass
584-6790

Briefbags
Zippers and pockets inside and out. Shoulder straps, snaps, sliding handles, options galore - canvas with vinyl trim, camel, rust, brown, navy, black.
$6.^{95} TO $8.^{95}
Faces of Earth
Next to the Amherst Post Office
Open: 9:30-6, Mon. thru Sat.

Stevens chosen as star

Following Saturday's 37-6 win over Rhode Island, two members of the UMass football team have received individual honors for their performances in the game.

Linebacker Gordon Stevens was named rookie of the week in both the Yankee Conference and Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference Division II all-star picks, while tight end Kevin Cummings was named to the ECAC Division II honor roll, it was announced Monday.

Stevens, a 6'3", 210-lb. freshman from Lexington, recovered three URI fumbles, including one on the Ram five-yard line to set up the fourth UMass touchdown. He had three tackles and one assist while playing on defense in the second half.

Cummings, a 6'5", 230-lb. senior from Saratoga Springs, N.Y., caught three touchdown passes in the win. He has now scored six TD's on the season.

Bill Burnham, New Hampshire's star running back, gained Yan Con and ECAC Division II honors as offensive player of the week. Burnham rushed for 193 yards and four touchdowns in the Wildcats' 42-7 win over Central Connecticut.

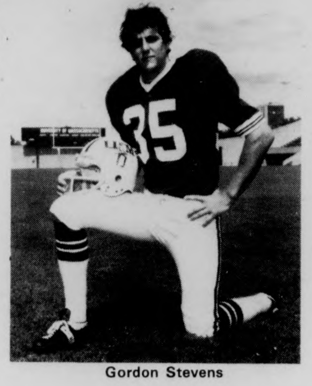
Defensive laurels in the Yan Con went to linebackers Chris Keating of Maine and Mike Kelleher of Boston University.

Keating had 12 tackles and four assists as the Black Bears beat UConn, 9-7, for their first conference win.

YAN CON

| | W | L | T |
|---|---|---|---|
| UNH | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| UMass | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| URI | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| Maine | 1 | 3 | 0 |
| BU | 0 | 2 | 0 |
| UConn | 0 | 2 | 0 |

Kelleher had 10 primary and two assisted tackles as well as a fumbles recovery in the Terriers' 14-13 victory over Holy Cross. He also led a defense which held the Crusaders to minus rushing yardage in the second half.



Gordon Stevens

Remain undefeated

Women boaters beat Dartmouth

By DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's soccer club raised its record to 5-0 last Friday with a 3-1 win over the Big Green of Dartmouth, played on the Ivy's home pitch.

Center forward Elaine Contant scored the game winner about five minutes into the second half, her second goal of the game.

Dartmouth scored first in the game, played on a "nice, cold rainy day," according to coach Lou Macedo, about four minutes into the contest.

UMass tied the game about four minutes later on Contant's first goal.

The Minutewomen came storming back in the second half to score what proved to be the game winner about five minutes into the half on Contant's second tally.

After controlling play much of the second half, the Minutewomen added an insurance goal on a 25 yard shot from outside the penalty area by halfback Sandy Doo, 30 minutes into the half.

"We controlled play for most of the game," said Macedo. "Except for one mistake by one of our fullbacks which resulted in their goal, we really controlled the ball.

"I think that's because our players are in better shape, plus they are better soccer players.

The next game for the club will be Saturday at Boston College at 6:00 p.m. on the Eagle's astroturf pitch.

"We should be ready for that game," said Macedo. "Our only problem will be adjusting to the astroturf."

The UMass women's soccer club raised its record to 5-0 this season as it defeated Dartmouth last Friday. (Staff photo by Rob Carlin)

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
open 'till 11 p.m. daily
FULL SERVICE LIQUOR STORE
Large Assortment of moderately priced wines
and kegs
99 IMPORTED BEERS
and don't forget our delicous
selection of cordials
338 College St. (Rt. 9) Amherst 253-5384 256-8433 EZ Parking

The rusty nail Inn
presents
TONITE,
TUES., OCT. 18
TOM WAITS
also Travis Shook and the Club Wow
WED., OCT. 19
GEORGE & GREGORY
BAND
THURS., OCT. 20
FAT
FRI. and SAT.,
OCT. 21 and 22
THE BRICKER BAND
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel. 665-4937

Golfers grab 6th in ECAC match

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

Playing in weather conditions described by coach Ed Vlach as "simply abominable", the UMass men's golf team managed to splash and slide its way to a respectable sixth place finish in the ECAC Championships held this past weekend at waterlogged Seven Oaks Country Club in Hamilton, New York.

The Minutemen finished a distant 44 strokes behind the winners, Edinboro St. from Pennsylvania, who finished with a 632 total, a fine score considering the conditions.

The Edinboro squad, which is dominated by four freshmen from Sweden, finished a comfortable 18 shots ahead of runner-up Indiana University from Pennsylvania. Third place went to Cornell at 655. Rochester Institute of Technology garnered fourth place with a 666 aggregate, while UMass rival Southern Connecticut took fifth at 669.

The battle for individual low medalist honors was won by John Truax from St. Josephs College. Truax ignored the horrible conditions and shot a 79-75, 154. Jeff Manly from Army finished second, just a stroke back of Truax with a 75-80, 155. Dave Loeslien from Edinboro and Peter Terevainien of Yale finished tied for third at 157.

The story of this golf match however, was the weather, which made an already difficult course to play much longer and much toughter. In a tournament featuring the best golfers in the east, the average score over the two days of competition was 86, that tells the story as to just how bad it was.

Coach Vlach said that the conditions were "absolutely terrible," but were no worse for UMass than they were for anyone else. "There were huge puddles all over, and on Sunday, three greens were so bad that they had to be squeezed several times." said Vlach.

Vlach added that he thought the pin positions were extremely difficult considering the weather, and that three-putt greens were the order for the day.

The Minutemen, who have played under conditions similar to these all year long, played their usual consistent golf, but were no match for the stiff competition.

Flynt Lincoln was the low scorer for the Minutemen, shooting an 81-82, 163; eight strokes off the low medalist pace. Junior Jeff went 84-86, 170; Jim McDermott shot 86-85, 171. Freshman John Lien shot 89-86, 175; and Vic Lahteine went 86-93, 179. The scoring in the tournament was the best four of five scores counting each day.

Coach Vlach thought his team played well, and added, "if the conditions were better than they were, I know we could have done much better than we did."

Vlach, although not overjoyed with the sixth place finish, said that, "considering the number of teams that took part in the tournament, (over 100), sixth place is nothing to hang your head over."

The tournament was a climax to a fine season which saw the Minutemen capture the Yankee Conference Championship, the New Englands and the Toski Intercollegiate.

Booters battle WPI in Worcester today

By JACK ATKINSON
Collegian Staff

Trying to escape from the clutches of a losing skein which has dropped its record to an unspectacular 3-4, the UMass soccer team ventures to Worcester today for a 3:00 match against Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

WPI sports a 6-2-1 record, with its schedule featuring some of the top Division II and III clubs in New England. The Engineers should give the Minutemen a tough fight.

WPI features a good mixture of offense and defense, not totally relying on either. Its offense is built around a fellow named John Pavlos. Pavlos is, to say the least, incredible. His latest statistics read 12 goals and two assists. Considered a prospect by the North American Soccer League (of Pele-Beckenbauer fame), Pavlos has earned the respect of all observers.

"He's a super player, he's got good size and great speed," said UMass coach Russ Kidd. Pavlos is also quite irreplacable, as WPI's number two man, Jim Lukas, has chipped in five goals. If the UMass defense can hold off Pavlos, then it possibly can beat WPI. If not, then the offense had better return to its earlier success.

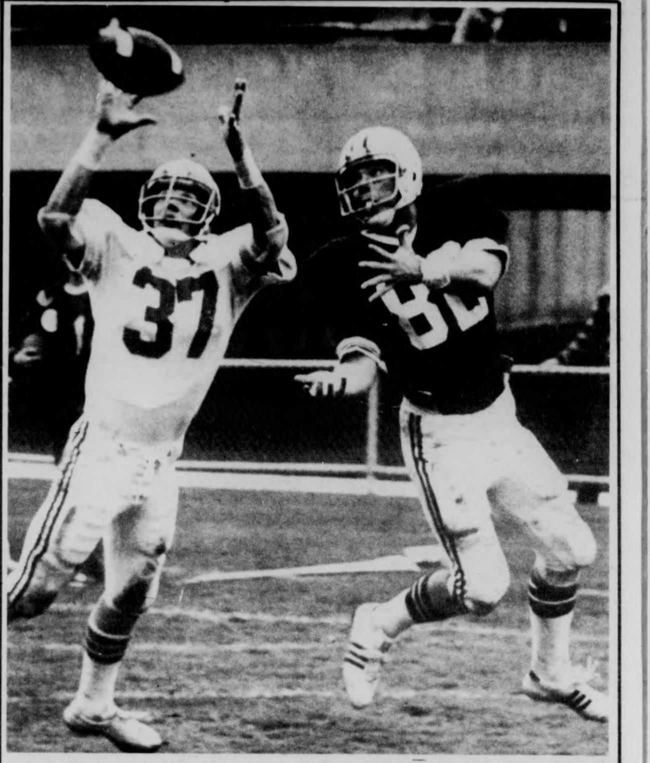
The Minuteman offense will have its work cut out for it this afternoon. Bob Grochmal, a four-year starter, will probably get the nod for the WPI goal. If not, then it will be Dale Spencer, whom insiders say is even better than Grochmal.

WPI is a veteran team, with three seniors at fullback, as co-captain Larry Hindle, Dave Fisher, and Larry Shiemboob will try to hold off the sagging UMass attack.

Being such a small school, WPI doesn't receive the notoriety of a Brown or Vermont. But don't be fooled. "They're a hell of a team. Alan King is a foxy coach. He's 50 years old and still plays against the kids," said Kidd. Another problem, as in the BU game, could be the playing surface. "They have a dinky little field, very narrow. It'll be tough to adapt to," Kidd added.

This game looms as the turning point of the season. A UMass win could be enough to relieve the doldrums of the present four-game losing streak. Another loss could prove to be fatal.

Mark Vasington (21) and the rest of the UMass soccer team will travel to Worcester today to take on WPI. (Staff photo by Marilyn Mankowsky)



Kevin Cummings (82) not only tied a Yankee Conference record for TD passes caught in UMass's 37-6 win Saturday, but he also was named to the ECAC Division II honor roll for his performance. See story, page 19. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Collegian Sports

Russ Smith

Bucs' number is nine

Their magic number is nine.

That's how many games they have left in the season. Nine.

Somehow, in at least one of those remaining nine, they have to come up with a winning combination.

Or at the very least, a tying one.

Otherwise, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers will have set a record that will stand as long as the planet Earth exists. Or at least as long as true, blue Americans hate the New York Yankees.

The distinction of having lost 28 straight games. Two winless seasons in a row.

That's worse than the New York Giants. And even NY's Jets.

But enough of picking on the 'Big Apples' teams. What's with the Buccaneers anyways?

Let's go back a year, to NFL '76.

Seattle Seahawks and T. Bay added to league.

First year in the league (always a good excuse to explain that premier season and the absence of a victory).

Seahawks won game one of the expansion series last year, 13-10 (or 16-13, something like that), and even won another game in the same season, defeating the 'powerhouse' Atlanta Falcons 30-13.

Seattle finished its freshman year at 2-12. Not bad (not good).

Meanwhile, the Bay'ers struggled. Through loss number one, and two, and three ... On and on (they just kept on losing-hey, I might have a hit song here).

Oh, they had some close games, here and there. They almost upset the Minnesota North Stars, ahh, I mean the Vikings.

And they got slaughtered a couple times (vs. New England, Oakland, etc.).

This season figured things would be different. No one loses everytime. No one.

But, so far, someone has.

Tampa Bay.

Going into next Sunday's schedule, the Bucs will be 0-5, coming off a 30-23 loss to Seattle (could the Seahawks be starting a dynasty against their sophomore sister squad?)

The 23 points scored by the Bucs is more than they have scored in their previous four games combined.

Unfortunately, the 30 points was the most they've given up in one game this year also.

So what is wrong with Tampa?

Speculation:

1. Bad timing: Had the Bucs scored 23 points in any other game they would've won — they could've beaten Philly 23-13, or Minnesota 23-9 (refs blew this game!!), or Washington 23-10. Would've tied Dallas 23-23. Thus T. Bay would be 3-1-1- (still would've lost to Seattle, remember).

2. The weather: You see, Tampa Bay's home is Tampa, Florida. It's nice and warm down there this time of year. How can the Bucs be expected to win in cold places like Minnesota and Washington? Or in Dallas' hot stadium? (Oh, but the Washington game was in Tampa?). (Then see reason number three for further details).

3. Non-psych: The team is down. They've lost so many in a row, they even expect to lose. In fact, there is rumor they have a pool the players run. They pick how much they're going to lose by. Supposedly, it keeps the morale high.

4. The refs: When you can't win, and don't know why, blame it on the refs. Always a good out. (Note: When-If you win, give no credit whatsoever to the refs. It'll go to their heads.)

In ending all I can say on the subject is this:

Some weekend, the weather will be nice (no rain), the Bucs will be psyched, they'll get a break from the refs, and their timing will be right. And they will win a game. Maybe vs. Green Bay (no relation) next week.

No matter what, Tampa Bay will win a game this season.

But if somehow they don't, they can console themselves with this thought:

It could be worse. They could play 16 games a year. And be 0-32.

---

Jailed leaders commit suicide

West German hijack hostages return home

BONN, West Germany [AP] — West German commandos and the hijack hostages they rescued flew home to emotional welcomes Tuesday as the government announced the suicide of three terrorists whose freedom the hijackers had demanded.

"The worst thing was shooting the pilot before our eyes. It was terrible," a bearded German in his 20s said of the five days during which he and 86 other hostages were held captive.

He and others returning to Germany said pilot Juergen Schumann, the only hostage to die during the hijacking, was executed by the hijack leader in front of the passengers at South Yemen after he allegedly tried to escape and was brought back by Yemeni authorities.

The pilot's body was dumped from the jet at the Mogadishu airport in Somalia, where commandos finally rescued the living hostages.

Eighty of the passengers, many looking haggard and fatigued, stepped off a backup Lufthansa jet at Frankfurt International Airport and were led to a nearby canteen for reunions with relatives. Then they went to a large hangar to hold a memorial service for Schumann.

Among the returnees were the only two American hostages — Christine Santiago, 44, and her 5-year-old son Leo. U.S. sources said Santiago, who suffers from a heart condition, was hospitalized for a checkup and Leo was taken to an uncle's house.

Lufthansa officials said six rescued hostages remained at Mogadishu, apparently unable to travel.

The scene was more jubilant at the Bonn. Colone airport, where another jet brought home about 80 members of the German commando squad.

A brass band played the German anthem, crowds cheered and Interior Minister Werner Maihofer declared: "We are proud of you. We thank you in the name of the entire German people."

Acting with surgical precision in the pre-dawn darkness at Mogadishu airport, the commandos stormed the hijacked Lufthansa 737 through emergency exits, rescued all 86 hostages aboard and killed three of the Arabic-speaking hijackers. The fourth, a woman was seriously wounded.

Hours after reporting the raid, German officials made the surprise announcement that three terrorists held in a German jail had killed themselves and a fourth had tried and failed.

Officials said Andreas Baader, 34, and his mistress Gudrun Ensslin, 37, were found dead in their cells at the Stammheim maximum security prison near Stuttgart. Jan-Carl Raspe, 33, died in a hospital, and Irmgard Moeller, 30, was rushed to a hospital, they said.

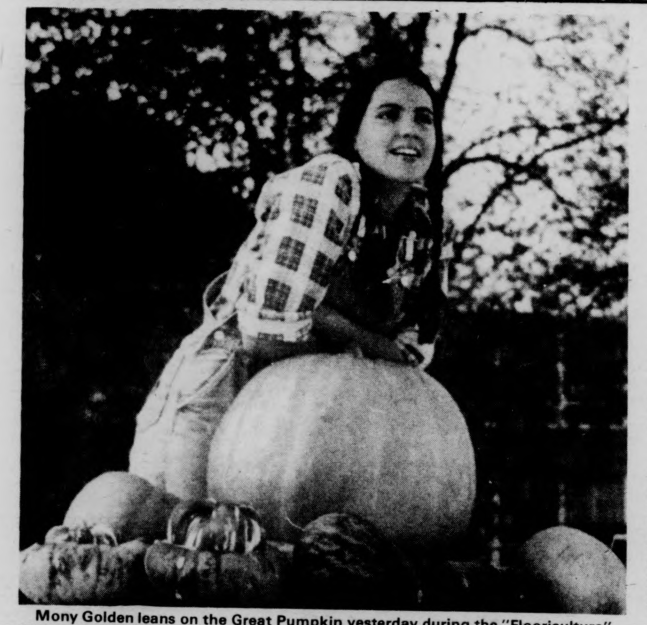
The four had been among 11 jailed German terrorists whose freedom was was demanded by the Lufthansa hijackers along with two Arabs held in Turkey and $15 million in ransom.

Some of the freed hostages emerged from the plane wrapped in airline blankets against the autumn chill. Several refused to talk to reporters.

One woman who declined to give her name said Schumann, the 37-year-old pilot, left the plane to check for damage after making a rough landing at South Yemen. She said it was then he allegedly tried to escape and was brought back by Yemeni authorities.

Another passenger said the hijack chief, who identified himself as Capt. Mahmoud, ordered the pilot to kneel and shouted, "Do you plead guilty or not guilty?" She said Schumann avoided a direct answer, and suddenly the hijacker shot him dead.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 34
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1977
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA. 01003 (413) 545-3500



Mony Golden leans on the Great Pumpkin yesterday during the "Flooriculture" Club's pumpkin sale. (Staff photo by Peter Lee)

Rain halts local harvest

By JILL METLITZ
Collegian Staff

For the past seven weekends UMass students have been able to look forward to a little bit of relaxation and a lot of rain, however, the 2.81 inches that has fallen so far this month has had a much larger effect than the inconvenience of raincoats and umbrellas.

According to John Howell, the agricultural crop specialist in Hampshire County, the effect has been a great hinderance to local farmers.

The abundance of rain has prevented the harvesting of various crops. The potato harvest has been delayed more than any other and most of what is still in the ground will not be able to be harvested, he said. Onions, field corn for dairy products, and apple harvests have been slowed down severely as well.

HOwell expressed there is a need to worry. He said "Its between the devil and the deep blue sea." It is, of course, the hope that the rain will stop, but even if it ceases for the remainder of the month, which does not seem to be the case according to present weather forecasts, the damage has already been done.

Because of the cycle throughout September and October of rain for a few days followed by a few days of clearer weather, wet spots have not been able to dry, making a harvest virtually impossible.

It is difficult to say how the local market will be effected, said Howell. Prices will most likely rise, keeping in line with the laws of supply and demand. Just how much of a cost increase there will be depends on weather conditions for the rest of the season and on the state of crops throughout the county.

Turnout for BOG elections very poor

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

Out of 18,000 eligible voters in the rerun of the Board of Governors (BOG) elections held yesterday and Monday in the Student Union, only 96 students chose to vote, a .53 per cent turn out.

Finding staff to work the tables at the polls has been a problem at the first BOG election and was also a factor in the low turnout in this election. One reason for repeating the election was that an insufficient amount of staff caused irregularities in the first BOG election.

"Personpower was worse this time," said Governmental Affairs co-Chairperson Donald M. Bishop. The turnout would have been higher, Bishop said, "if we could've held it in the dining commons." The elections were not held in the dining commons because Governmental Affairs did not have enough people to staff the tables in those buildings. That was the reason for having a centralized polling place in the Cape Cod Lounge of the Student Union.

Bishop estimated that between 500 to 800 people voted in the first BOG elections. Bishop cited insufficient publicity as a factor in the low turnout. Also, many voters may not have voted in this election, thinking they had already voted for Board of Governors in the last election.

Another reason for lower voter turnout was that more voters were drawn to the polls in the last election because student senate elections were being held with Board of Governors.

Both Palmer and Alan Greto who won in the last election did not win a place on the board in the rerun. Jack Albeck and Mark L. Curelop who were not winners in the first election were victorious in this contest.

If the senate calls for a new election or if a candidate makes a challenge accepted by the Governmental Affairs Committee, the BOG elections will be held for the third time.

Palmer said it was "doubtful" she would challenge the results.

Greto could not be reached for comment.

Anne O'Crowley had very little to do during yesterday's BOG elections as only 96 out of 18,000 students cast their ballots. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

Inside

• Gay athlete to speak

Former Washington Redskins runningback and admitted homosexual Dave Kopay will speak tonight on "The Right to be Gay" as part of the Distinguished Visitors' Program. See the preview story on Page 3.

• Campus porn declining

Pornography on campus was a big issue last semester, but where is it now? Reporter Herb Brody writes of this and other questions in his story on Page 6.

• Rep walks through Amherst

Rep. Michael J. Conley (D-Boston) walked to Amherst yesterday in an effort to revitalize state government. See the story on Page 2.

Weather

It will be mostly cloudy today with a chance of occasional rain (haven't we had enough already?) developing by or during the afternoon. The thermometer should read somewhere near 60.

Across the Bay State on foot

By NIEL MOELLER
Collegian Staff

Rep. Michael J. Connolly (D-Boston), proponent of a constitutional amendment to limit the terms of state office holders to 12 years, walked to Amherst yesterday and addressed the College Democrats last night in the Campus Center as part of his 12-day hike across the state to build support for the measure.

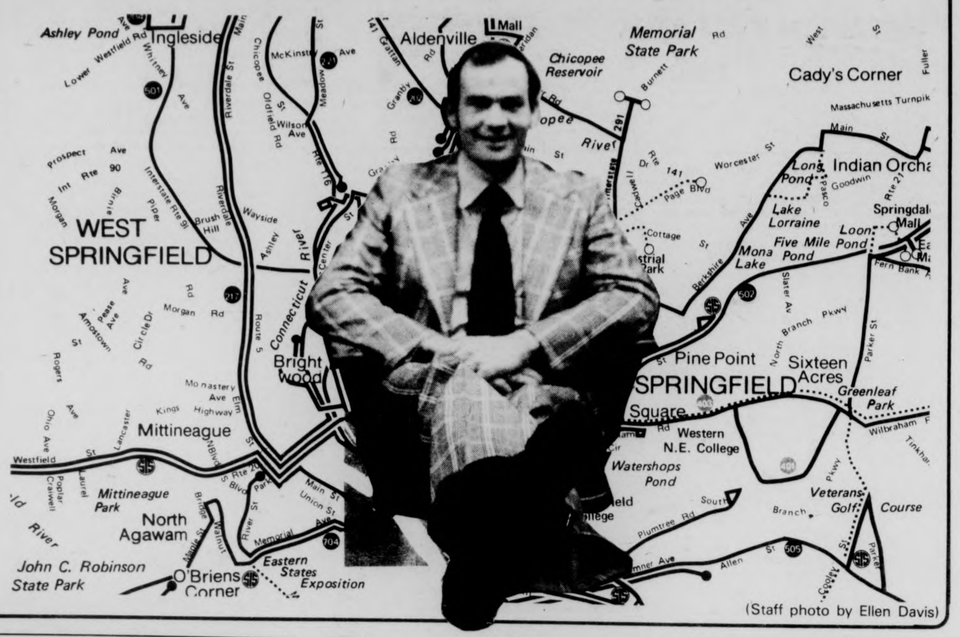
Connolly who began the walk in Pittsfield last Friday and hopes to end it in Boston on Oct. 26, said he hopes to collect 56,000 signatures by Dec. 1 and thereby force the House and Senate to consider the proposal in a joint constitutional convention.

The proposed amendment would limit the terms of state representatives and senators, the state auditor, treasurer, governor, lieutenant governor, state secretary, and attorney general to 12 years.

Connolly said he is mainly concerned with the legislative posts and such offices as auditor and treasurer.

In his five years in office, Connolly said, "I've had an opportunity to look at legislators, especially committee chairman, who want to go on forever and ever." He said he "shuddered to think" of the attitude of the long-incumbent treasurer's or auditor's attitude toward change.

TURN TO PAGE 3



(Staff photo by Ellen Davis)

Town Meeting to form committee on DNA

By JOE MAGLITTA
Collegian Staff

Town Meeting members will be asked to choose between two different committee structures to oversee future recombinant DNA research in the area at the second session of the special Town Meeting tonight.

Discussion of the controversial article phohibiting the research, sometimes called gene splitting, was delayed by a slow-opening meeting Monday night. The assembly will reconvene tonight at 7:30 in the Amherst Regional Junior High Auditorium.

While the original proposal called for a research ban at area colleges and universities until scientific and moral implications could be studied further, petitioner Paul Newlin submitted an altered version to Town Meeting Monday.

Under Newlin's new proposal, Article 14 would ask the town to establish a nine-person study committee to examine potential dangers and benefits, and report their findings and recommendations to the Board of Selectmen by March 1, 1978.

Newlin also asks in the petition that all recombinat DNA research at UMass and Amherst College be delayed until the town has acted on committee findings and recommendations at the 1978 annual Town Meeting.

Town Meeting will also be asked to consider a motion by UMass Botanist Otto Stein to amend the article so that all research would be conducted under guidelines "at least as rigorous" as National Institute of Health guidelines.

In addition, the proposed amendment calls for the creation of a "biohazards" committee made up of two-thirds scientists, and one-third citizens selected by the Board of Selectmen. The committee would have the power to grant or deny license to perform the research, and the town's position on research would be reviewed at the Spring 1978 Town Meeting.

Neither UMass nor Amherst College is presently conducting research in the infant science, first launched by two California chemists in 1973. The UMass medical school in Worcester, however, is currently conducting low-hazard research in the field.

Amherst College officials have said they will wait up to one year before starting low-hazard research. UMass researchers say they are not planning any research for at least 18 months.

The process involves the transfer of genetic material from one organism onto the DNA of another. Opponents of the research fear unknown effects of the testing.

Produced in the Pioneer Valley is the staple crop of cigar tobacco. (Staff photo by Marilyn Mankowsky)

Southwest carnival opens Thursday night

By MATHEW KOVARY
Collegian Staff

The Southwest Carnival, sponsored by the Southwest Assembly (SWA) will open Thursday night on the playing field opposite the Southwest dormitories. Profits will be used for Southwest social and cultural activities, according to Joni Mersky, carnival coordinator.

Special attractions include an exhibition by the UMass parachute club at 3 p.m. on Saturday, demonstrations by the Southwest juggling colloquium, 2,000 helium balloons and a dozen rides, Mersky said.

In other action, the SWA last night approved motions to:

— divide $3,600 among six student centers in Southwest.

— cover any financial losses the Washington Pizza Kitchen might incur this year.

— allocate $120 as salary for the coordinator of the Recycling Program in Southwest.

— and accept the resignation of Bruce Berkowitz, SWA vice-president.

The assembly's decision to appropriate $3,600 for the Southwest Student Centers came after James Matlack, master-director of Southwest, withdrew his original motion to spend the money for a new teaching assistant (TA) to help train Southwest resident assistants.

Matlack said the $3,600 for the new TA has been budgeted by the Provost's Office under special programs.

The Washington Pizza Kitchen cannot open without a guarantee to the Student Activities Office it will not incur further debts. The SWA voted to cover any financial losses they might incur.

The Assembly last week loaned the Washington Pizza Kitchen $240 to help cover a $458 deficit from last year that co-manager Brian Stoia blamed on faulty bookkeeping. The deficit is now under investigation, according to Stoia.

"The Pizza Kitchen is definitely a money making venture and there is no way this incident can happen again," said Bonnie Ward, SWA treasurer. "The Kitchen has agreed to submit their financial records to the Finance Committee regularly."

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Mark Leccese

| | |
|---|---|
| Black Affairs Layout | Terrell Evans |
| Editorial Layout | Eileen Foley |
| Wire Layout | Maureen Carney |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Laurie Traub |
| Sports Layout | Mike McHugh |
| Day Layout | Emily Bakerman |
| Ad Layout | Karen Libucha |

Subscription Rates

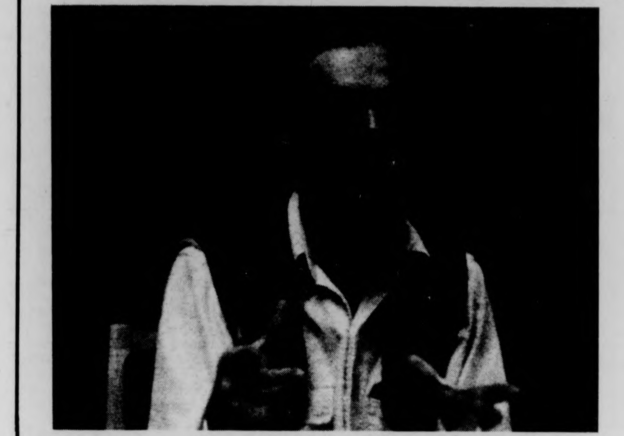
| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Emerson, Brecht, Ginsberg and political theatre



Inquiry Program faculty member Johnstone Campbell delivers a lecture on "Political Theatre and Social Change" last night before a group of class members and other interested persons. (Staff photo by Peter Lee)

By DON AUCOIN
Collegian Staff

The spiritual link between such diverse artists as Ralph Waldo Emerson, Bertolt Brecht, and Allen Ginsberg was explored last night by Johnstone Campbell, Inquiry Program faculty member, in a talk on "Political Theatre and Social Change."

"At some time in the production of a show we change from an artistic product to a manufacturing product," said Campbell. He emphasized the fact that carpenters, painters and electricians provide the "means of production" in staging a play.

Epic Theatre, Realistic Theatre, and spontaneous "Living Theatre" all take "their aesthetic cue" from a poem by Emerson called "Uriel," said Campbell. "Emerson insisted that the central character on the world stage was the poet."

A modern example of this kind of thinking is Allen Ginsberg's poem, "Wichita Vortex Sutra," he said, in which the poet declares the end of the Vietnam War.

Ginsberg "tries to find the language of love in the midst of chaos," Campbell said, adding "This is the poem in which he resolves personal, artistic, and public issues.

"Words are also actions, and actions are a kind of words," Campbell said, stressing the importance of the artist in the modern world. He went on to discuss the epic theatre as presented in the work of Bertolt Brecht.

"Epic dialectic theatre attempts to so change things that the familiar looks strange and the strange looks familiar," he said. Earlier, he had pointed out that "dialectical materialism means a type of theatre that is as different from Oedipus Rex and Hamlet as the Clamshell Alliance is from Exxon."

After Campbell's talk, several members of the audience who are currently enrolled in a class taught by Campbell) performed a scene from The Mother, a play by Brecht. During the scene, the actors spoke directly to the audience, creating a one-on-one confrontation with the viewers. Campbell noted it was "different from our usual kind of art." Later all present engaged in an interpretation of what they had seen.

UMass may host American Dance Festival

By MICHAEL P. DORAN
Collegian Staff

> "The American Dance Festival... is traditionally a place for adventure, a stage for growth. Since the season started in 1948, the list of world premiers has been formidable."
> — Clive Barnes, NYT

The University of Massachusetts is being considered along with Duke University and the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee for the summer home of the American Dance Festival. In fact, a decision could be made today.

The festival has been located at the campus of Connecticut College in New London. According to Lisa Booth, assistant director of the festival, the sponsors are changing locations because "we had an understanding that we were essentially charged for out of pocket expenses — rooms and telephones — but the college changed its priorities. They charged us for room and board, which came to $15,000 that wasn't there before."

There were also problems with space and facilities due to the college's expansion with the summer program, Booth told the Collegian in a telephone interview.

The festival comprises many programs, said Booth. There is the dance program, which consists of 300-350 dance students with previous training, who apply from all over the country to participate. There is also the performance part of the program, which tries to book "established modern dance companies along with emerging companies," said Booth.

There has been in past summers a community outreach program in which a dance company is specifically hired to give performances in parks and also give free dance training for community groups in the area. In addition there are professional critic and television director workshops and dance therapy programs for students other than those enrolled in the larger dance training program.

All of this takes place within six weeks during the summer. "We try to fill the area with artistic ferment", said Booth.

The UMass proposal for the festival originated with Dr. William Venman of the Continuing Education Department, who organized a committee to work on obtaining the program for UMass-Amherst. The program would be run by the Summer Session, according to Venman, but the University is not incurring any expenses other than those of space, which the festival will not be charged for.

The whole financial package, according to Jay Doherty of the Massachusetts Office of Economic Affairs, consists of support from various state groups. These include grants from local tourist councils that will be matched with state funds, and with money and in-kind services from the Massachusetts Council on the Humanities and Arts and the Department of Commerce and Development.

These are not as yet concrete "because we did not want to raise expectations in the community," said Doherty. During the negotiations, he said, the specifics will be worked out. Giving a rounded figure, Doherty said the commitment is around $70,000 in addition to the marginal costs the University will incur, for which funds will be provided.

The decision on location may be made today by the advisory board of the American Dance Festival, according to Booth. Venman sees the situation differently: "we could be negotiating for another month."

Does UMass have a chance to get the festival? Venman said it's 50-50. "I can't see Milwaukee, but I can see Duke. We made a good proposal," he concluded.

Ex-pro football player to speak on gay rights

By MICHAEL SIMONS
Collegian Staff

Dave Kopay, former runningback of the Washington Redskins football team will speak tonight on "The Right To Be Gay", sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Program (DVP) at 8 p.m. in the Student Union ballroom.

Kopay, author of the book, "The David Kopay Story" and the subject of the interview, "Dave Kopay, the Jock Who Came Out of the Closet" in the September issue of Penthouse magazine, was the first professional athlete to admit his homosexuality during a series of interviews on homosexuality in sports which appeared in the Washington Post in 1975.

The Penthouse article quoted Kopay as saying when he read the headline of the Dec. 9, 1975 Washington Post, "Homosexuality in Sport", he made his decision to come out of the closet. Kopay was the only one of several dozen athletes interviewed for that series who allowed his name to be used.

"Until attitudes are changed, until fears, hatreds, anxieties and misconceptions about gay people are overcome, I won't be able to do what I want in athletics. Other gay people won't be able to do what they want in their fields of interest. That's why I came out," Kopay said in the interview.

Kopay has been seen on talk shows as Tomorrow and Phil Donahue and his book has appeared on the New York Times Best Sellers List with a sequel now in the works dealing with mail reaction to his book.

Kopay is a graduate of the University of Washington where he signed as a free agent to the San Francisco 49ers. He later played for Detroit, Greenbay and Washington.

Before his speech, Kopay will hold a workshop-press conference from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. in Campus Center 903. Admission to both the speech and workshop are free.

Local teachers to receive National Science grant

By LAURA KENNEY
Collegian Staff

Thirty teachers from the Buckland-Colraine-Shelburne area of Franklin County have been selected to receive a $27,935 grant from the National Science Foundation (NSF) in order to participate in a year-long course taught by five persons from the UMass-Amherst campus.

Entitled "Environmental Biology and Societal Change," two of the program's teachers, Dr. Linda Lockwood of the environmental sciences dept. and Dr. Richard D. Konicek of the School of Education, took a needs analysis last year in the form of a questionnaire whereby teachers expressed what they wanted in environmental education.

The two professors then put a proposal together to try and meet the needs of the teachers, and applied for an NSF grant. "The attainment of an NSF grant is very competitive, we were lucky to get one," said Lockwood.

The program was originally written for 25 elementary school teachers, but, according to Lockwood, there was so much response to the course it was extended for 30 in-service teachers, including those on the junior high school level.

The class meets once every other week for about three hours after school, usually at the new resource center located in an area of Franklin County which is easily accessible from all of the teachers' schools. The classes consist of lectures, discussions and labs. Field trips will also be taken, yet most of the field work will be done in the spring.

In addition, there will be several guest lecturers, generally from the University. Upon completion of the course, each participant will receive six graduate credits.

According to Lockwood, the program "is typical of NSF ... they want to build bridges between the professional scientist and the professional science teacher. The primary aim of the whole grant is to make sure that the teachers learn some environmental science; many of those in the program have been teaching a long time and need training in this aspect of science.

"Secondly, the aim is to make sure that a great part of what they learn is translated directly into teaching skills they use in their own classrooms." Throughout the course, which will continue until July, curriculum ideas will be discussed and tried out.

Each of the course's five instructors has a specific purpose in the classroom. Lockwood primarily teaches content, while Konicek concentrates on curriculum design. The other three instructors are graduate students from the University; one is an in-service teacher on leave of absence, the other is an expert in evaluation and group process, and the third is an environmentalist from Venezuela who, according to Lockwood, "adds a nice point of view to the class."

The Franklin County area was chosen for the program mainly because Konicek has worked with people of the area, which is a rural and wide-ranging district having some unique environmental problems of its own.

Said Lockwood, "We will try to tailor the grant to the area and to the needs of the people there. The region was also selected because it has one school system governed by one superintendent, which makes coordination easier."

Because there was so much support and enthusiasm about the grant this year, Lockwood hopes next year they will be able to obtain another grant, "Hopefully with more money," she said.

★ Walking Congressman

CONT. FROM PAGE 2

"I constantly come across a quote in the legislature, 'God, next year we'll have the people running the government'," said Connolly.

"Long time legislators get to the peak of their power and just coast on the strength of their tenure, figuring it's all downhill," he said.

Connolly noted that of the 27 legislators serving as committee chairman, speaker, and majority whip, none have served less than 8 years and 14 have served in excess of 12 years.

For prospective candidates, said Connolly, "it's an awesome task to run against all the power of incumbent legislators." Of 140 state representatives challenged in the last election, only 15 lost, and 100 were unopposed, he said.

Connolly calls the argument that his proposal would deprive the state of its most experienced office holders "esoteric garbage. Anyone who has the ability to get into office has the ability to represent his constituency," he said.

Representative Richard P. Roche (D-Springfield) a co-petitioner for the amendment, said in his 10 months in office he's seen legislators who've been in a long time "more concerned about private rather than public interest.

"We're not going to see changes tomorrow, but eventually we'll make government more participatory and get more people involved," he said.

About 27 states now have limits on governors' terms, according to Connolly, who noted the limit in Georgia is four years. Only one state, Wisconsin, has a 12-year limit on all constitutional offices and Connolly said his amendment is modelled on that plan. Six other states, including Hawaii, are preparing similar legislation, he said.

With about six weeks to the deadline to get the necessary signatures on petitions, Connolly said he has about 10 per cent of the needed figure or about 5,000 signatures. He said only about 4,500 of those are expected to be valid, however.

Black Affairs

It wasn't nothing but a party last Wednesday night,..or was it?

By CHERYL WATKINS
and ANGELA THOMAS
Black Affairs Staff

Cross burning, yea
Cross burning, yea

What did you do?

Party party, yea!
Party hearty, yea!

Most everyone has read or heard of the cross burning that occurred during the Bluewall disco last Wednesday, October 12.

Commentary

We post some questions about the people who were there that night, and their reaction to the burning.

Why, because there was an incredible lack of reaction.

A few weeks ago, a similar event took place at Hampshire College during a Third World party. Yet their small Third World population demonstrated more strength and togetherness in mobilizing and uniting all students and administration to attack the problem.

In comparison, let's take a look into our own backyard.

Were the people on the Bluewall's dance floor Wednesday night the same people who marched at UMass in the 1975 rally against racist attacks on Third World students? Were the people there the same folks who took part in the 1975 occupation of the Bluewall to bring about a Third World night? Or were the people jamming on the dance floor the same people who demonstrated in last year's protest against apartheid in South Africa, which led this University to divest its stock in that racially troubled country?

While most were "hot and burning up" to the sounds of Peter Brown, did anyone feel the heat from the outside?

Most students did not even know of the cross burning that night. Why, because many of those who viewed the burning did not pass the word along to those who did not. Even when the announcement was made by the disc jockey, the music was not turned off, but only lowered in volume so that many still were not aware of what was happening. (Strange how everyone in the 5 College area can find out where the parties are on a Friday-Saturday night, but people in a confined area such as the Bluewall that night could not or did not spread the word of such an overt act of sickness and race hatred.) Those who did see the burning were told to keep partying and relax. As a result, many did just that.

Even though it seems like our own little world at UMass, remember that it is part of society and reality. We should be ready (as in the past) to deal with racism and any other situations. A few concerned students like Earl Brown and Paul Campbell should not have to take the weight for all in alerting and notifying those in a position to deal with situations such as this.

And what if it happens again?

Cross burning, yea
Cross burning, yea

What'cha gonna do?

Party party, yea?
Party hearty, yea?

On Friday, October 21, the Mad Gibson's Chocolate Box Review an authentic minstrel and vaudeville show will be presented at the Buckley Recital Hall at Amherst College. This program is made possible by a grant from the 5-College Lecture Fund, The President's Office, and the Black Cultural Center.

The show will include the antics of Albert & Sandra Gibson, Galervean Mosley, comic stripper, Paul Moondog Wheaton, the only one-man band in the world. Also one of the outstanding tap dancers of this era, Charles Cook, will perform solo and in concert. Also featured will be the dancing Chorus line called the Gibson Girls and an All Star Big Little Band. Sandra Gibson, the 1938 Lindy Hop Champ, will perform original comedy. The show starts at 8:00 p.m. and is open to the public free of charge.

Asian women react to poem

By DEBBIE LEE
Editor of the Asian American Review

Though much time has elapsed, I would like to address this letter to a specific poem, "The Request", written by M. Shareef Rasool for the Sept. 21 issue of Black Affairs.

I and the Asian American Women of the Asian American Students Association were surprised and angered upon reading this poem. We did not understand why a Third World brother was insensitive enough to specifically accuse a woman, any woman of Asiatic origin to be deviants of our heritage when there are still so many women, not mentioning men, of all colors eluding their historical past and living a distorted image.

In order to know where Mr. Rasool was coming from when he wrote this specific poem, I and some other Asian women went individually to speak to him. I asked him why he used the term "woman of Asiatic beginning" in his poem and what he was accomplishing by using it. In response, he told me that he considered all people to be of Asiatic origin and therefore, was speaking to all Third World women when he wrote this specific poem to appeal to them to look past the western image of themselves.

What he spoke of in this poem was not false. But tell me, how many Black women and Latin women consider themselves of Asiatic origin?

I would like to criticize Mr. Rasool of failing to achieve his purpose in writing this poem. Instead of having appealed to all Third World women, he has achieved to isolate the Asian women as a group with his criticism when he used what he considered a general term. He assumed that everyone knew and believed in the theory that the present date continents were once a super continent. And because of this, he also assumed that everyone believed themselves to be of Asiatic origin.

When in fact, only a certain number of people, acquainted with the science world, know of this super continent theory. Nor do all of them believe in this theory.

Therefore, he defeated his own purpose in writing this poem by assuming that everyone was acquainted with his interpretations. How can he appeal to the masses when he speaks in a language they do not understand without explanations?

I would like to suggest that Mr. Rasool choose carefully the words he uses in future poems when he wants to appeal to the people, and that poems like this specific one should be scrutinized before publication.

THE REQUEST

woman
of asiatic beginning throw off western mental slavery caucasian mentality conditioning you to do
as he has you to do to know to speak to walk to talk until even your reflection
no longer gives back a true image but only a gray dis-tor-tion.

M Shareef Rasool

Pleasure concert huge success

By ANDREW GOODWIN
and KARIEN ZACHERY
Black News Service

For those of us who have an ear for fine music, this past Saturday night October 15, experience with 'Pleasure' was, indeed, a pleasurable one."

The group gave a fine performance at the SUB, leaving the audience ecstatic before they had finished their second tune.

Those nine jubilant figures on the cover of 'Joyous', Pleasure's brand new album — have ample cause for high spirits. The first two LP's firmly established the Portland, Oregon group as purveyors of a distinctive, soul jazz sound. Now, 'Joyous', a sublimely self-assured work, is certain to make Pleasure fans out of a lot of people.

Pleasure opened their performance with a two hour session of contemporary jazz, giving each musician a chance to display the versatility of their individual talents. By the end of the second half of their performance, demonstration of an explicit arrangement of rock, from their albums, more than half of the audience was on the floor jamming with Pleasure.

The band members who make up this 'Joyous' group include: Donald and Michael Hepburn on piano, Bruce Carter on drums, Bruce Smith as percussionist, Dan Brewster on trombone, Dennis Springer on sax, Nathanial Phillips on bass, Sherman Davis as lead vocalist, and Marlon 'the Magician' McClain on lead guitar.

With the multi-talents each of these creative musicians possess, any individual in the group could successfully pursue careers on their own if they so chose, but what they intend on is making Pleasure work.

Pleasure will be heading back East this spring just as 'Joyous' is getting into people's ears. "All that work, all those gigs," Marlon points out, "just makes you better. It's the only way to do it!

"Female Expression" lacks understanding

By MARY E. CUSTARD
Black Affairs Staff

Regarding James Lewis' article "Female Expression" which was in response to Lisa Melilli's article "How to trust a woman" and the subsequent letters to the editor from Rosanna Falabella and Paul Gilmore ...

It would seem that James Lewis read but did not truly understand Lisa Melilli's article. The solution to oppression of women does not lie more with women gaining their own power and deciding their own relation than with men giving them power. How can women gain power when men dominate almost every role of power? How can women gain power when they are not even looked upon as equals? True, women must be strong enough to fight for that power but the fight has been too long and too hard! When are men going to given women the chance that they so well deserve?

Yes, women must express themselves, but why say anyting when no-one is listening?

I agree with Rosanna Falabella in the respect that women alone cannot dissolve sexism just as Third World People alone cannot dissolve racism.

You see the correlation between the two is that in both racism and sexism a certain group of people have the power and unless these people with the power decide to give Women and Third World People a chance, there will be no end to these problems.

Women have defined themselves distinctly and clearly and should you take the time to look and listen I'm sure you'll recognize that you, Mr. Lewis, have been free all along and that women have been the ones shackled. So if anyone has the right to be disgusted, it has to be a woman.

I am a woman and I hope that you hear me talking but more importantly understand what I'm saying!

To All Third World Sisters,
The Third World Women's Center
cordially invites you to a "Social Hour"

Sunday, October 23 at 7:30p.m.
in the Malcom X Center

Dessert will be served. Hope to see you there.

---

Black Affairs

High Notes......

I hope that everyone had a good homecoming weekend and that shouldn't have been too hard with all the happenings that were going on. I, regretfully, didn't get to see or take in too much of it but according to Marcie (a very reliable source), George Benson was nice and Pleasure was the 'joint' even though they should have come out sooner and "played more songs...". So much for the live music scene...

...on the recorded music scene all is pretty quiet right now but there are some worthwhile products out there. To start off with, there's Fantastic Four's new LP entitled GOT TO HAVE YOUR LOVE. The sound of the LP is very Detroit and is very strong in rhythm and blues. "Sweet James" Epps is the story here with his commanding lead vocals done much in the style of Marvin Junior of the Dells and Teddy Pendergrass (formerly of the Blue Notes, now on his own).

"If you can take the bounce, check out STARTING ALL OVER by Phillipe Wynn. This name should be familiar to all you devoted Spinners fans as Phillipe was the lead on most (if not all) of their big hits (of which there were many). The sound is much like the Spinners material he made great (not the other way around). In fact the only difference is that the male background vocals are replaced by the "Sweethearts of Sigma Sound"; Barbara Ingram, Evette Benton, and Carla Benson, three very accomplished vocalists. Spinners' fans will find this one very pleasant.

I am a critic of the arts, true, but please allow me to break from that a moment so that I can comment on the various cross burnings here in "Happy Valley". Many try to pass it off as a drunken prank of sorts. All well and good, but I feel that if someone wants to be funny, he or she can find a better way of doing it. I mean how does this list of famous college pranks sound to you? Swallowing goldfish, panty raids, letting the air out of the Dean's tires, wrapping fish in the Collegian, swiping the bear out of the Student Union, pennying in one's roommate (after baking him a cake laced with ExLax) and burning crosses. Which one of these activities doesn't really fit? To you it may well be cross burning, but apparently there are some folks who think it fits right in.

The question on some people's minds is how much of the university does this represent? To be properly answered, that must be asked in two parts. Pt1 — How many folks would actually construct and light a cross at a gathering of minority people? Pt2 — How many would toast a marshmallow on it (or otherwise show approval) if one was already burning?

My answer to Pt1 is, not many, and to Pt2 I ask for your response but only after you think about it. Do you really know the people around you? Just as the identity of the lighters remains a secret, so does the amount of his-her supporters and well-wishers.

All I can say to whoever is pulling these pranks is; "Who do you think you're fooling?" If you ask me (which you probably don't) the answer to that is, yourself. It'll all come out in the wash... especially when you hang out your "sheets".

-mario-

Announcements

| DATE | ORGANIZATION | POSITION(S) AVAILABLE | REQUIREMENTS |
|---|---|---|---|
| Oct. 28 (Fri.) | Alexander Grant & Co. | Audit Staff | Accounting |
| *Oct. 14 | Halcon R & D Co. | Same as Oct. 27 | Same as Oct. 27 |
| | Hooker Chem. & Plastics | Same as Oct. 27 | Same as Oct. 27 |

THE FOLLOWING GRADUATE AND PROFESSIONAL SCHOOLS WILL HAVE REPRESENTATIVES ON CAMPUS OR IN OTHER AREA COLLEGES. SIGN UP IN ROOM 208 HAMPSHIRE HOUSE OR CONTACT PLACEMENT OFFICES IN OTHER COLLEGES IN AREA.

| DATE | SCHOOL | PROGRAM OR DEGREE |
|---|---|---|
| October 24 | Indiana University | MBA & DBA Program |
| October 25 | Albany Law School | Law |
| October 25 | Wheelock Graduate School | Lib. Arts, Elem. Ed., Early Childhood |
| October 27 | Boston University Law School | Law |

CORRECTIONS TO ARCO CHEMICAL CO. (Div. Atlantic Richfield) RECRUITING DATE ON OCTOBER 20, 1977.
THERE WILL BE A SECOND SCHEDULE FOR BS/MS/PhD. CHEMICAL ENGINEERS. THIS WAS NOT PREVIOUSLY ADVERTISED. SIGN UP IN 208 HAMPSHIRE HOUSE IMMEDIATELY.

ALSO, ARCO WILL SEE PHYSICAL & INORGANIC PhD CHEMISTS, IN ADDITION TO ORGANIC AS PREVIOUSLY ADVERTISED. SIGN UP IN 208 HAMPSHIRE HOUSE IMMEDIATELY.

CARMINE C. RUSSO IS THE PEACE CORPS COORDINATOR AT THE CENTER FOR INTERNATIONAL AGRICULTURAL STUDIES AT THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS. THE POSITION IS NEW AT THE UNIVERSITY AND IS SUPPORTED BY A GRANT FROM ACTION/PEACE CORPS TO CONDUCT A PROFESSIONAL RECRUITMENT PROGRAM IN AGRICULTURE AND RELATED FIELDS. THE RECRUITMENT SERVICE WILL ALSO BE EXTENDED TO STUDENTS AT AMHERST, SMITH, HAMPSHIRE AND MOUNT HOLYOKE. HIS OFFICE IS LOCATED IN 117 DRAPER HALL. CALL 545-2105 FOR AN APPOINTMENT.

THE ADVERTISING WOMEN OF NEW YORK FOUNDATION, INC. IS PLEASED TO ANNOUNCE THEIR 21ST ANNUAL COLLEGE CAREER CONFERENCE. THIS IS CREATED FOR ALL MEN AND WOMEN WHO ARE COLLEGE SENIORS AND/OR GRADUATE STUDENTS WITH A MAJOR INTEREST IN ADVERTISING AND COMMUNICATIONS. IT WILL BE HELD SATURDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1977, 9:00 A.M. TO 5:00 P.M., AT PACE UNIVERSITY IN NEW YORK THE SCHIMMEL CENTER FOR THE ARTS, ONE PACE PLAZA, NEW YORK, NEW YORK 10038. DEADLINE FOR SUBMITTING RESERVATION FORMS IS OCTOBER 15, 1977. REGISTRATION FORMS AND FURTHER DETAILS MAY BE OBTAINED IN ROOM 104 HAMPSHIRE HOUSE. THERE IS A FEE OF $5.00. PLEASE MAKE CHECKS PAYABLE TO: ADVERTISING WOMEN OF NEW YORK FOUNDATION, INC. LUNCH IS INCLUDED WITH FEE.

THE WASHINGTON POST HAS ANNOUNCED ITS SUMMER NEWS PROGRAM FOR 1978. THESE NEWS POSITIONS ARE FOR CURRENT COLLEGE JUNIORS, SENIORS AND ENROLLED GRADUATE STUDENTS INTERESTED IN NEWSPAPER JOURNALISM CAREERS, TO PERFORM REGULAR REPORTING ASSIGNMENTS, REPLACING VACATIONING STAFFERS, ETC. IF YOU WISH TO BE CONSIDERED, SEND A POST CARE FOR AN APPLICATION. DEADLINE FOR REQUESTING APPLICATION IS NOVEMBER 15, 1977. WRITE TO: EMPLOYEE RELATIONS DEPARTMENT, THE WASHINGTON POST, 1150 15TH STREET, N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C. 20071.

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

WHERE'S PEE WEE, HARDCORE?
AT THE LAUNDROMAT, LUTHER!
©1977 LOS ANGELES TIMES
11-9
WHY IS HE SPENDING SO MUCH TIME AT THE LAUNDROMAT LATELY?
HE'S HOPING SOME DUDE WILL GIVE HIM FIFTY DOLLARS...
...FOR HIS TEE SHIRT!
BRANDON JR

Progressive calender

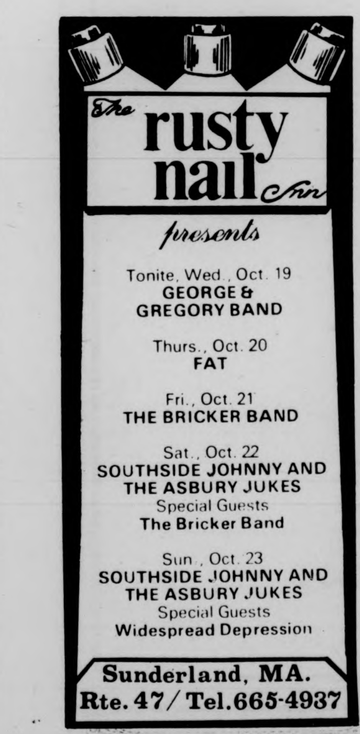
October 19, D.V.P. presents "Dave Kopac speaking on The Right to be Gay", Wed., 8:00 p.m. in the S.U.B. free, UMass.

October 19 to November 9 — the people alliance will hold four workshops; Oct. 19 Richard Rubin, will discuss the recent revision of the Sanitary Code in Northampton, 911 Campus Center 12 noon; Oct. 28 Matthew Ross will present a slide show and lead a discussion on the current situation in the mideast.

Nov. 2 Native American solidarity Comm. will lead a discussion on the issues that threaten the lands of native people.

Nov 9 J.P. Stevens Boycott Comm. will show the film "Testimony" and discuss the current status of the boycott.

For times and locations, please call 586-4237.



The rusty nail Inn
presents

Tonite, Wed., Oct. 19
GEORGE & GREGORY BAND

Thurs., Oct. 20
FAT

Fri., Oct. 21
THE BRICKER BAND

Sat., Oct. 22
SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY AND THE ASBURY JUKES
Special Guests
The Bricker Band

Sun., Oct. 23
SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY AND THE ASBURY JUKES
Special Guests
Widespread Depression

Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel.665-4937

Styles by Deborah for men & women

ARE YOUR HAIRCUTS
ALWAYS A SURPRISE?

Now there's a haircutter who will tell you how your hair will look before you sit in the chair.

Call or Drop in for a Free Consultation
549-5610
65 Univ. Dr. Amh.

WELCOME BACK SPECIAL
shampoo, cut & style dry $7.50
Long Hair Slightly More

with this coupon on Tues. or Wed. only
Offer limited to new customers.

Thoughts

THE ATTRACTION
BETWEEN THE SUN
AND THE EARTH IS NOT CALLED LOVE
IT IS CALLED
gravitation...
...graviTATION...
...GRAVITATION...
M. Shareef Rasool

QUALITY DOWN VESTS
Don Gleason's has the best quality down vests in the area. Filled with PRIME NORTHERN GOOSE DOWN with colorful rip stop nylon outers. Assorted colors. XS thru XL.
ONLY $29.95
ALSO VISIT US TO BROWSE THRU OUR VAST SELECTION OF OUT DOOR CLOTHING FOR FALL AND WINTER.
Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
Weekdays 9-5:30
Saturday 9-5:00

Troubled Times

These troubled times
Rent's due
Winter is coming
I need new shoes
My man is gone
Saying, "Baby, you'll do better alone"
These troubled times
I feel like dying
No end to be seen
Robbed Peter
Paid Paul
All in all
I can't fall
Got to stand tall
Black night is falling
I cry for my baby
But Lord the man's gone
These tears they roll
Like mercury they glow
These hard times, they meant for crying
Death, I welcome your chance.
No, get away from here
Take your black shroud of ugly comfort
When crying out loud
I miss my baby's sweet smile

Annie Carpenter
10-7-75

Pornography on decline at UMass

By HERB BRODY
Collegian Staff

It was International Women's Week, 1977, and UMass was the site of lectures, workshops, and entertainment directed toward educating the campus about equality. On Thursday of that week, March 10, the following ad appeared in the Collegian.

Baroque Mini-Theater
$1 "Portraits" $1
Rated X

It was followed by a long list of show times for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights.

The ad was promptly discovered by the Women's Week-ers, who, incensed, spontaneously organized a demonstration to picket the Public Health Auditorium, the Baroque show-place.

That's the last time anyone tried to show a "dirty movie" at UMass.

Baroque, particularly its president, Albert Sparks, an easily attackable enemy, proved to be a positive, unifying force for the women; the opportunity to put into practice the abstract theories of countless workshops and discussion groups was "almost enjoyable," reminisced Women's Week coordinator Irene Richard. Richard also remembers the timing of the offense was particularly good; the ad appeared the same day a lecture was given entitled "Pornography: The New Terrorism."

At the request of the director of the Public Health Building, Dean of Students William F. Field ordered the showing stopped. The rationale for this action, he recently said, had nothing directly to do with pornography, however. The only issue, claimed Field, was the questionable legitimacy of Albert Sparks' organization, Baroque Enterprises.

"Baroque was an invisible group," said Field, adding there was considerable suspicion concerning the nature of Baroque. It was feared that Sparks had created the Recognized Student Organization (RSO) group as a "front" to hide his status as a non-student entrepeneur.

Sparks, in an attempt to side-step a University policy that discourages non-students from using University facilities for private profit, came up with a check to pay his bill and become a registered student. The check bounced, though, and Sparks lost his briefly held student standing. He thus dropped from the public eye before the end of last spring semester.

What has happened on the pornography front since? Not much. Few X-rated films have found their way onto campus, through Sparks or anyone else. The closest thing to pornography this semester has probably been the R-rated "Cheerleaders".

Even if a group or individual wanted to show a "dirty" movie here, there is no guarantee they could have the showing advertised in the Collegian. Though the paper has no rule specifically forbidding such ads, said advertising manager Steve Lesser, the staff tries to screen out sexist advertisements of any kind.

The prospect of banning X-rated movies from campus altogether is unlikely soon. Student Government Association co-President Jon Hite interprets for UMass the Supreme Court's ruling which leaves the decision to censor up to "community standards."

"As far as I'm concerned, the 'community' equals area governments. The Campus Center is a free zone, so the community there is whoever shows up to see the movie," he said. By that standard, there is no threat of censorship, at least for movies shown in the Campus Center.

There is always, of course, the law. According to Field, the UMass police could on their own volition arrest the movie's projectionist as well as the director of the building the movie is being shown in.

Speaking for the campus police, Director of Public Safety Saul Chafin offered a different interpretation of things. According to him, any crackdown initiative would have to come from Field, not the police.

And what of erst while campus pornographer Albert Sparks? Though still not a registered student, he has reportedly visited recently various University offices.

Early this month, Sparks approached Bud Demers and Jim Riley, activities coordinators in RSO, about making arrangements to show more of his movies plus, for a fresh twist, a strip-tease show. Riley said he and Demers told Sparks to see Field about any requests for auditorium time and space. (Two days after this referral, Field said he had not seen or heard from Sparks.)

Sparks was then granted a request for a meeting with Hite. "Albert is planning to sue the student government," explained Hite. "He claims his First Amendment civil rights have been violated."

According to Hite, the suit has almost no chance of success. "Go ahead and sue," I told him, "just make sure you spell my name right."

Hite suggested if Sparks wants to have porn movies or a strip-tease show on campus, he should have to rent the auditorium. "Sparks should not be allowed to use state-owned facilities, at state expense, for private profit."

Sparks is currently "consulting" with two fraternities and the Scuba Club, said Hite.

Students react to porn

Pornography Survey

A telephone survey of 61 randomly selected UMass dorm residents produced some results worth noting.

Asked whether they thought pornographic movies were "sexist," 16 of 27 men, and 24 of 34 women answered yes.

A substantial majority — 21 men, 29 women — opposed an official ban on campus pornography.

Of the 28 students surveyed who had never seen a pornographic film, 21 said the movies were sexist. Seven of those students favored a ban on the x-rated films.

Students who had seen porn were slightly more tolerant: of 33, 20 believed the movies were sexist, and only 4 supported a ban.

FAT
IS COMING

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton
Only Area Showing!
NOW 7:15 & 9:00
ACADEMY AWARD WINNER
- Best Documentary -
Ardent, absorbing
— Gary Arnold Washington Post

HARLAN COUNTY U.S.A.
no dollar nights
AT THE GATES
OF SMITH COLLEGE

THE DISTINGUISHED VISITORS PROGRAM
presents
DAVE KOPAY
dvp
Former NFL football player speaks on:
"The Right to be Gay"
Wednesday, October 19,
at 8pm in SUB
press conference / workshop
3:30 - 5:00 in 903 CC

Poor
Richards
Rte. 9
Amherst
WEDNESDAY
50¢ DRINKS
THURSDAY
ROCK N' ROLL
AND OLDIES
Rolling Rock Beer
50¢
also Gin, Vodka,
Rum, Tequila
85¢

Center for Racial Understanding

New programs initiated in SW

By BRENDA GINSBERG
Collegian Staff

Southwest's Center for Racial Understanding is initiating several programs under the leadership of the Center's new director, Bheki Langa.

Langa believes racial awareness training, in the form of a three-credit course, should be a mandatory part of staff development for Southwest's resident assistants (RA). This training should be institutionalized as a part of Southwest policy to insure the continuation of the training despite changing staff, he believes.

After completing this training, Langa continued, the RA would be equipped to teach colloquia on their floors, perpetuating the program.

Langa would also like to see a lecture series, similar to the defunct Mao-Tse-tung lecture series sponsored by the center.

Another objective Langa cited is to turn the center into a department called the Center for Racial Studies. Courses in this major might include: Racism in history, racism in sports, a course in genetics — putting to rest the theories of black inferiority, South Africa-Boer racism, and racism in literature.

By attracting faculty members each to teach a section of a course through the center, emphasizing racism in their specialty, Langa feels, a major could be established.

Because of a $14,000 budget cut, however, the center is sponsoring only four courses and one colloquia. Langa and the center's two teaching assistants, Jeanne Klekotka and Kamal Ali, are working to obtain a larger budget, so as to open the center full-time and increase staff.

Stating he has full-time responsibilities on a part-time budget, Langa stressed the necessity to reinstitute a full budget.

Freshman SAT scores are " quite respectable"

By CYNTHIA HARHEN
Collegian Staff

The rapid decline of national Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores has recently become the cause of concern on the part of many educators, and numerous studies are currently in effect to determine reasons for the sudden drop.

The admissions office at UMass, however, is not quite as concerned as national officials seem to be. According to Juan Cabán, assistant dean of admissions, the median College Entrance Examination Board test scores for the class of 1981 are still "quite respectable".

At UMass, incoming freshmen scored an average of 494 in the verbal section of the college SAT this year, and 540 in math. These median scores were 120 points above the national average, and Cabán said he feels scores such as these are little cause for concern.

The highest median scores for the class of 1981 were achieved by students in health sciences, and the lowest by those in physical education. Women scored better than men on the verbal section of the exam, but were behind the men in math.

Cabán said, however, "There is no great correlation between the SAT exams and success in college." He regards the exams as a "sorting mechanism designed to help make admissions simpler." The SAT exams only indicate how strong a student appears to be, not how strong the student actually is, Cabán said.

Students who do well in high school but test poorly may end up with low scores, Cabán explained. He said he feels the method of testing in the United States is poor in that it doesn't present a complete picture of the student.

Acceptance of UMass is based on a combination of high school grades, class rank and SAT scores. This allows admissions officials to efficiently choose the best students possible, Cabán said.

EARN OVER $600 A MONTH FOR THE REST OF YOUR SENIOR YEAR.

If you are interested in math, physics or engineering, the Navy has a program you should know about.

It's called the NUPOC-Collegiate Program (NUPOC is short for Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate), and if you qualify it can pay you as much as $611 a month for the remainder of your senior year. Then after 16 weeks of Officer Candidate School, you will receive an additional year of advanced technical education, education that would cost thousands in a civilian school, but in the Navy we pay you. And at the end of the year of training, you'll receive a $3,000 cash bonus.

It isn't easy. Only one of every six applicants will be selected, and there are fewer than 300 openings. But those who make it find themselves in one of the most elite engineering training programs anywhere. With unequalled hands-on responsibility, a $24,000 salary in four years, plus travel, medical benefits and education opportunities.

For more details on this program, ask your placement officer when a Navy representative will be on campus, or call the Officer Program Office listed below; or send your résumé to Navy Nuclear Officer Program, Code 312, 4015 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va. 22203. The NUPOC-Collegiate Program. It can do more than help you finish college; it can lead to an exciting opportunity.

OFFICER PROGRAMS OFFICE, NAVY RECRUITING DISTRICT, 518-472-4424/4462

NAVY OFFICER.
IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.

News in Brief

Health care bill passed in House

BOSTON [UPI] — A controversial bill modifying a state law aimed at controlling rising health costs was approved yesterday without debate by the Massachusetts House.

The five-year-old Certificate of Need Law — also known as the Determination of Need Law — mandates hospitals spending more than $100,000 on equipment or construction to get approval from the state Public Health Council.

A bill changing the minimum to $150,000 was initially approved on a voice vote after two amendments were adopted on voice votes without debate.

The measure also would bring doctors under CON for the first time — giving them a $200,000 minimum for non-radiation equipment — and would exempt many research and training programs.

Meat indust. must prove additive OK

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The Agriculture Department yesterday gave the meat industry three months to prove that bacon cured with a nitrate additive will not produce a cancer-causing agent when cooked.

Without proof of the additive's safety, the industry will face a ban on its use.

The action came after Administrator Robert Angelotti of the department's Food Safety and Quality Service determined the nitrates and nitrites used in the manufacturing process "have the potential of interacting with components of the meat to form carcinogenic nitrosamines."

The department also ordered the industry to submit similar proof of safety, but in a timetable of up to two years, for dry-cured cuts and fermented sausages, cooked sausages, pickle-cured products and perishable canned products, and shelf-stable and sterile canned products.

Coal gasification produces electric.

WINDSOR, Conn. [UPI] — Federal and Connecticut officials yesterday presided over dedication of the nation's largest test facility to safely gasify coal to produce electricity.

The 16-story facility, converting coal into clean fuel gas that can be used either as a power boiler fuel or a combined cycle fuel, is a $25 million project to use the vast deposits for coal in the United States.

It was jointly funded by Combustion Engineering Inc., the U.S. Department of Energy and the Electric Power Research Institute as part of the national effort to seek alternate ways to generate electrical power.

On hand at the dedication ceremonies were Gov. Ella T. Grasso, members of the state's congressional delegation and federal and state energy officials.

The gasification process pulverizes high-sulxer bituminous coal at the rate of five tons an hour to produce 890,000 standard cubic feet of gas per hour. The heating value of the resulting gas is about one-ninth that of natural gas.

Coal and char are burned in a combustor section to provide gases heated to 3,200-degrees Fahrenheit. Additional coal is added to the superheated gas to produce more gas in the process before it is cooled and run through a cleanup system.

Environmentalists push legislation

NEW YORK [UPI] — Environmentalists yesterday denied that a U.S. Supreme Court ruling requiring New York City to follow provisions of the 1973 Clean Air Act would turn the nation's largest city into a ghost town.

The high court Monday rejected an appeal by the city and state that would have excused the city from compliance with an air cleanup plan that drastically reduces parking spaces in Manhattan, cruising taxis, and after-hours truck deliveries in the city.

The plan was originally worked out in 1973. But when the city later claimed it would adversely affect New York's already shaky economy, environmental groups filed suit to enforce the legislation.

But the city and the environmentalists have since reached a compromise traffic control plan that substantially softens the impact on the city economy.

Officials argue auto insurance leg.

BOSTON [AP] — State officials want to tailor auto insurance rates to the individual without regard to age, sex, or marital status, but industry spokesmen say that would unravel a system that fits Massachusetts drivers well.

The two sides argued their cases Tuesday at a hearing which saw insurance officials of various states and the federal government gnawing at the issue of whether the traditional statistical basis of rate setting is fair.

James H. Hunt, director of the state rating bureau, argued that "sex and marital status should be abolished as rating classifications and that age should be replaced by a new variable — driving experience."

The rating bureau proposes auto insurance rates to Insurance Commissioner James M. Stone, who sets them.

"The primary factor should be driving record," said J. Robert Hunter, deputy federal insurance administrator for the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Arson suspect held in Ware

WARE, Mass. [UPI] — A court hearing will be held Oct. 24 for David Riendeau, 22, of Ware, who is charged with arson in connection with a fire Sunday at a downtown apartment house.

Riendeau was arraigned in Ware district Court Monday on charges of breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony and burning a dwelling house. The fire damaged two of six apartments in the building. No injuries were reported.

In 1968 I fought in the streets of Chicago at the Democratic National Convention.

In 1969 I participated with the SDS in occupying the Administration Building at the University of Chicago.

But, since I met Jesus Christ, I know that

God loves the people

Daniel at 253-5716

Down Vests

Try one of these lightweight, versatile, year-round garments.
EMS has a wide selection of vests by Gerry, Camp 7, and EMS.
From $29.50.
PolarGuard® vests, $24.50.

Eastern Mountain Sports

Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9:30 AM-9PM,
Sat. 9:30 AM-5:30 PM
Route 9, Amherst-Hadley Line
Amherst, Massachusetts
(413) 253-9504

VISA

master charge

★ ★ ★ FREE ★ ★ ★ CAMPUS POSTER

at the Coffee Shop
and
Hatch
with the purchase of a
Large Coke

RAHAR'S
7 Old South St.
Northampton, Mass.

Wed., 19
SKYLINE

Thurs., 20
Fri. & Sat., 21 & 22
ARTHUR CABLE
BLUES BAND

Sunday, 23
ROD McCLOUD &
ROCK BILLIES

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS

LAZAR
BERMAN

Legendary
Soviet
Pianist

"The Phenomenon of the Music World", Emil Gilels

Wednesday, October 26 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

Tickets now on sale Gen. Pub.-$7, 6, 5. UM-A-$3.50, 3, 2.50. Others students and senior citizens-$6, 5, 4.

Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

The new fashion college rings
that live the life you live

FIRST SALE
ONLY $59.95

Regularly $$78^{95}$ Now you save up to 25%

This is an unusual opportunity to get your contemporary college ring at a never-before price. Shown here are just two from the ArtCarved Fashion Collection of College Rings. Created for today's lifestyles, the designs combine a contemporary feeling with college traditions. All are custom-made with the exquisite attention to detail and hand-finishing that make them look hand-sculptured. They are cast in one piece so they cannot come apart. Available in 10-K yellow or white gold with a choice of stone.

SALE BONUS: Free genuine gemstone, regularly $10.00 Choice of: Smoky Quartz, Garnet, Jasper, Oriental Jade, or Sardonyx.

COME
TO ARTCARVED RING DAY.

That's when the ArtCarved representative will be here to help you select your ring. You can charge your ArtCarved ring on Master Charge or BankAmericard.

PLACE: Outside Bookstore TIME: 10 AM - 3 PM DATE: Oct. 19,20,21

$10.00* Deposit

3 DAYS ONLY

UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

Peace force in Mideast to expire

UNITED NATIONS [UPI] — Time is running out on the U.N. peacekeeping force in the Sinai peninsula — in more ways than one. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim wants the 4,300 troops kept there for another year if necessary, but warns the situation is becoming "increasingly dangerous."

The peacekeeping force was stationed in the region between Egypt and Israel, from the Mediterranean to the Gulf of Suez, in the wake of the October 1973 war. Its current mandate expires Monday.

The U.N. Security Council Friday is expected to rubber-stamp Waldheim's recommendation that the mandate be extended for one year to keep 4,297 troops plus 124 observers in the region at an expense of about $73 million.

A second U.N. force of 1,200 troops is deployed in the Golan Heights between Israeli and Syrian troops. Its mandate expires Nov. 30.

In the past year, relative quiet has reigned in the 100-mile-long Sinai buffer zone — but in his report to the Council, Waldheim warned it could break down any day unless some progress is made toward resumption of peace negotiations.

"The present quiet... is a precarious one," he said.

"Unless and until a comprehensive settlement covering all aspects of the Middle East problem can be reached, the situation in the area will continue to be unstable and, with the passage of time, increasingly dangerous."

Waldheim said that until Arabs and Israelis agree on peace, he considers the presence of the force of 46 Australians, 855 Canadians, 654 Finns, 597 Ghanaians, 509 Indonesians, 957 Poles and 679 Swedes "to be essential".

During the current one-year mandate period, Waldheim said, "there have been no significant violations of the cease-fire or the agreement," although there were "numerous limited incursions in the buffer zone by both parties by land and air."

But the peace troops are helpless to handle some problems, such as complaints of overflights in the buffer zone.

Castro urges consumer cut in Jamaica

FALMOUTH, Jamaica [UPI] — Cuban President Fidel Castro toured two housing projects along Jamaica's north coast yesterday and urged Jamaican workers to moderate their demands for consumer goods and money.

"We socialists don't work to make money. We can only wear one pair of shoes, so why do we want 100?" Castro asked a friendly crowd of several hundred at Falmouth, just east of the resort center of Montego Bay, after a 90-mile motorcade.

"We revolutionaries, why do we want so much money?" Castro said. "Although we would like more than one set of clothes, we can't wear more than one. Why do we want 100 suits. We don't need them.

"We can't eat more than a pound of food — potatoes, rice or meat — and drink more than one or two beers and maybe a little bit of rum.

The crowd at Falmouth, where a prefabricated housing factory has been built with Cuban aid, waved Cuban flags as they listened.

Castro praised the Jamaican government of Prime Minister Michael Manley for placing great emphasis on providing better housing for the working class.

Castro said a good house to live in with sanitary conditions is preventive medicine and better than a hospital.

"That is what socialism wants for the people," Castro said.

Earlier at the first stop of the day was the Mt. Salem Upgrading Project in Montego Bay, center of this island's declining tourist industry where Castro was told that 190 new homes would be built within nine months at a cost of $1.9 million and that workers would not have to make any down payment and only pay monthly installments of $38-$42 a month.

Castro broke ground for the Mt. Salem project, swinging a pickax and delivering three symbolic blows with such force that Manley stepped back as if in alarm.

Security for Castro's visit was heavy and a Cuban military helicopter followed along the entire route.

Crowds were small because of the lack of advance notice of Castro's visit but they were friendly throughout.

HATCH

&

The Union Program Council

present

COOPER
DODGE

BAND

October 19
at the Hatch

2 for 1
Powerhouses

Doors open 8⁰⁰ pm

you are invited to:

SHOWCASE I

featuring

COOPER DODGE BAND
AT THE HATCH

tues. oct. 18
wed. oct. 19

50¢ OFF

---

ONE OF THE STOP & SHOP COMPANIES
Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS

Prices effective
Mon., Oct. 17–Sat., Oct. 22

Last chance to stock up!

Dozens and dozens of big specials! So many great buys, we held them over a third and final week to give everyone a chance to stock up. Come in ... save on Stop & Shop Brand ... national brands. Don't miss out!

| Item | Note | Size | Price |
|---|---|---|---|
| Stop & Shop Corn | Whole Kernel | 4 16 oz. cans | $1 |
| Green Giant Niblets Corn | | 3 12 oz. cans | 89¢ |
| Stop & Shop Cream Style Corn | | 4 16 oz cans | $1 |
| Del Monte Cream Style Corn | | 3 17 oz. cans | 89¢ |
| Stop & Shop Medium Peas | | 4 16 oz. cans | $1 |
| Green Giant Peas | | 3 17 oz. cans | $1 |
| Sun Glory Peas | | 5 16 oz. cans | $1 |
| Del Monte Peas | | 3 17 oz. cans | $1 |
| Green Beans | Stop & Shop Cut | 4 15½ oz. cans | $1 |
| Del Monte Cut Green Beans | | 3 16 oz. cans | 95¢ |
| Stop & Shop Cut Wax Beans | | 4 15½ oz cans | $1 |
| Stop & Shop Sliced Beets | | 4 16 oz. cans | $1 |
| Pear Tomatoes | Stop & Shop–Crushed–28 oz. can | | 49¢ |
| Stop & Shop Tomato Puree | | 28 oz. can | 49¢ |
| Stop & Shop Stewed Tomatoes | | 16 oz. can | 39¢ |
| Stop & Shop Potatoes | Sliced or Whole | 5 16 oz. cans | $1 |
| Fruit Cocktail | Stop & Shop | 3 17 oz. cans | $1 |
| Stop & Shop Bartlett Pears | Sliced or Halved | 3 16 oz. cans | $1 |
| Yellow Cling Peaches | Stop & Shop Sliced or Halved | 3 16 oz. cans | $1 |
| Stop & Shop Pineapple | 20 oz. can–in juice crushed, sliced or chunk | | 49¢ |
| Hawaiian Punch | Fruit Drinks–Assorted Flavors | 2 46 oz. cans | 89¢ |
| Libby Tomato Juice | | 46 oz can | 55¢ |
| Nestles Hot Cocoa Mix | with Marshmallows 24 oz. can | | $1.59 |
| Stop & Shop Peanuts | | 12 oz. can | 89¢ |
| Tomato Sauce | Progresso | 6 8 oz. cans | $1 |
| Pope Crushed Tomatoes | | 28 oz. can | 59¢ |
| Stop & Shop Tomato Paste | | 5 6 oz. cans | $1 |
| Penn Dutch Mushrooms | Stems & Pieces | 2 4 oz. can | 89¢ |
| Clam Chowder | SNOWS 15 ounce can | | 69¢ |
| Libby Corned Beef Hash | | 15½ oz. can | 69¢ |
| Chef Boy-ar-dee | Ravioli, Beefaroni or Spaghetti & Meatballs | 2 15 oz. cans | 89¢ |
| Progresso Soups | Minestrone or Lentil | 2 20 oz cans | 79¢ |
| Baked Beans | Friends Small Pea 28 oz. can | | 69¢ |
| Friskies Cat Food | Fish, Chicken or Liver | 5 15 oz. cans | $1 |
| Purina Lovin Spoonfuls | All Varieties | 3 12½ oz cans | $1 |
| Alpo Beef Chunks | | 3 14½ oz cans | $1 |

---

M15
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
FREE! Chicken Noodle Soup Stop & Shop 10½ oz. can Good Mon. Oct. 17–Sat. Oct. 22. Limit one can per customer.
252 Grocery

M16
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Stop & Shop 16 oz. can Orange Juice Frozen 49¢
Good Mon. Oct. 17–Sat. Oct. 22. Limit one can per customer.
253
Frozen

M17
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
4 pack Toilet Tissue White Cloud 59¢ 2 Ply–375 Sheets
Good Mon. Oct. 17–Sat. Oct. 22. Limit one pkg. per customer.
254
Grocery

ONE OF THE STOP & SHOP COMPANIES
Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS

"Big Eye" Pork festival

see the difference in meatiness ... save the difference in price!

There's never been a better time to try our "Big Eye" pork.

Gary Carter
Store Manager,
Waterford, Conn.

Selected from the top half of the crop, it has less outside fat, less bone, less fat through the meat. This minimum amount of fat means added flavor and tenderness with less waste in cooking, Best of all, it means you get more lean meat and more delicious eating to the pound...and more value. This week it's on sale so why not try it and taste the difference.

Pick up a package or two of ...

Armour Beef or Meat Franks 1 pound package 89¢

| Item | Note | Size | Price |
|---|---|---|---|
| Stop & Shop Cold Cuts | Sliced–Bologna, P&P, Spiced Luncheon Loaf | 1 lb. pkg. | 89¢ |
| Armour Sliced Bacon | | 1 lb. pkg. | $1.29 |
| Buddig Sliced Meats | All Varieties | 3 oz. pkg. | 39¢ |
| Franks or Knockwurst | Morrison & Schiff | 12 oz. pkg. | $1.09 |

Pick up a quick supper in our corner deli.
Avail. at stores with corner deli.

Nepco Bavarian Bologna or Liverwurst $1.09 lb

| Item | Note | Size | Price |
|---|---|---|---|
| Nepco Cold Cuts | Mock Chicken Loaf, Olive Loaf, P&P or Luncheon Loaf | per lb. | $1.09 |
| Domestic Cooked Ham | Section and Formed | ½ lb. | $1.09 |

Roast Beef Corner Deli — Great eating, low price. ½ lb. $1.09

| Item | Note | Size | Price |
|---|---|---|---|
| Stop & Shop Meat Loaf | | per lb. | $1.39 |
| Potato Salad | Stop & Shop Regular or Oil & Vinegar | per lb. | 49¢ |
| Stop & Shop Chicken Salad | | per lb. | $1.69 |
| Vanilla Tapioca Pudding | Stop & Shop | per lb. | 59¢ |
| Fresh Rye Bread | Leon's or Magaziner Bakery | 1 pound loaf | 55¢ |

Made in our own kitchens ...

Stop & Shop Fresh Cheese Pizza 18 oz. size 99¢

| Item | Size | Price |
|---|---|---|
| Fresh Pepperoni Pizza | 18 oz. size | $1.49 |

Vary your menu with fish ...

Stop & Shop Pollock Fillets Frozen, 5 pound box $4.29 89¢ lb.

| Item | Note | Size | Price |
|---|---|---|---|
| Fresh Sea Scallops | | per lb. | $2.89 |
| Dressed Smelts 1 lb. bag | Frozen | | 69¢ |
| Cooked Fish Cakes | Stop & Shop Frozen | 24 oz. pkg. | 89¢ |

Stop & Shop "Big Eye" Pork Sale!

Pork Chops Center Cut Loin $1.39 lb

big eye pork — Stop & Shop "Big Eye" Pork gives you more value for your dollar.

| Item | Note | Price |
|---|---|---|
| Assorted Pork Chops | Loin — ⅓ Center–⅓ Blade ⅓ Sirloin Chops | $1.09 lb. |
| Countrystyle Pork Ribs | Loin–USDA Choice | $1.09 lb. |
| Sirloin Pork Cutlets | Loin–USDA Choice | $1.59 lb. |
| Boneless Center Cut Pork Chops | | $1.89 lb. |

Pork Loin Roast Rib Portion 99¢ lb.

Lean, meaty "Big Eye" pork ... only at Stop & Shop. Cut from tender young porkers. Roast long and slow.

| Item | Price |
|---|---|
| Pork Loin Roast Sirloin Portion | $1.09 lb. |
| Pork Loin Roast Rib Half | $1.09 lb. |
| Pork Loin Roast Sirloin Half | $1.19 lb. |
| Fresh Pork Spare Ribs | 99¢ lb. |
| Fresh Pork Butts | 99¢ lb. |

Stop & Shop "Great Beef" USDA Choice

7 Bone Beef Chuck Roast 79¢ lb.

Stop & Shop GREAT BEEF — USDA CHOICE

You'll enjoy every piece of "Great Beef" you buy! We age our beef slowly and naturally in our own meat plant, and cut it fresh into steaks and roasts in our stores.

| Item | Note | Price |
|---|---|---|
| Beef Chuck Underblade Roast | Bone-in | 89¢ lb. |
| Chuck Stewing Beef | "Great Beef" USDA Choice | $1.29 lb. |
| Beef Chuck Blade Steak | Boneless | $1.69 lb. |
| Beef Chuck Cube Steak | "Great Beef" USDA Choice | $1.59 lb. |

From our Frozen Meat Department

| Item | Note | Size | Price |
|---|---|---|---|
| Jones Sausage | Brown & Serve Reg. or Beef | 8 oz pkg | 89¢ |
| Breaded Veal Steak Cubed | Maid Rite | | 89¢ lb. |
| Lovitt's Shaved Veal | | 1 pound pkg. | $2.59 |

Assorted Cactus Plants 2½" pot 89¢ ea.

Extra Fancy Western
Red or Golden Delicious Apples 138 size 39¢ lb.

Fresh California Broccoli bunch 49¢

Yellow Onions 15¢ lb.

Mushrooms Brown or White 12 oz. pkg. 99¢

Stop & Shop brings you superb Hearthside Genuine Stoneware

Casual Elegance Dinnerware
This week
Saucer 49¢ ea.
With each $3 purchase

Thaw your budget with ...

½ Gal. Stop & Shop Sherbet 79¢
Assorted Flavors

| Item | Note | Size | Price |
|---|---|---|---|
| Stop & Shop Ice Cream | Assorted Flavors | Pint Cont. | 39¢ |
| Fudge N' Pop | Stop & Shop | 42 oz. pkg. of 24 | $1.09 |
| Stop & Shop Twin Pizza | | 18 oz. pkg. | 99¢ |
| Louises Cheese Ravioli | | 16 oz. pkg. | 99¢ |
| Weight Watchers Luncheons | Chicken Parmigiana or Chicken Divan | 9 oz. pkg. | $1.49 |
| Haddock Dinner | Taste O'Sea | 9 oz. pkg. | 69¢ |
| Fish N' Ch[illegible] | Taste O'Sea | 16 oz. pkg. | 89¢ |

Banquet Cookin Bag Entrees 4 5 oz. pkgs. $1

Meatloaf, Veal Parmigian, Creamed Chip Beef, Turkey with Gravy, Sliced Beef with Gravy, Chicken a la King or Salisbury Steak.

| Item | Note | Size | Price |
|---|---|---|---|
| Sun Glory French Fries | | 5 lb. bag | $1.19 |
| Macaroni & Cheese | Stop & Shop | 11 oz. pkg. | 39¢ |
| Stop & Shop Diced Peppers | | 10 oz. bag | 39¢ |
| Chopped Onions | Stop & Shop | 12 oz. bag | 29¢ |
| Cut Green Beans | Stop & Shop | 20 oz. bag | 69¢ |
| Marshburn Sliced Carrots | | 24 oz. bag | 59¢ |
| Richs Coffee Rich | Non Dairy Creamer | 32 oz. ctn. | 49¢ |

Save in our dairy on ...

Yoplait Yogurt Assorted Flavors 3 6 oz. cups 79¢

| Item | Note | Size | Price |
|---|---|---|---|
| Promise Margarine | | 1 lb. pkg. qtr. lb. sticks | 69¢ |
| Calabro Ricotta Cheese | Whole Milk or Part Skim | 1 lb. cont. | 89¢ |
| Swiss Miss Puddings | Assorted Flavors | 17 oz. pkg. 4–4¼ oz. units | 79¢ |

Fortified Low Fat Milk Stop & Shop Great Shape $1.19 gal. ctn.

Made in our own bakery ...

Yah Yah Buttercrest Bread 2 22 oz. loaves $1

| Item | Note | Size | Price |
|---|---|---|---|
| English Muffins | Stop & Shop Regular or Split | 3 12 oz. pkgs. of 6 | $1 |
| Kitchen Cupboard Donuts | Stop & Shop | 19 oz. pkg. of 12 | 89¢ |
| Cinnamon Coffee Cake | Stop & Shop Sliced | 14 oz. pkg. | 69¢ |
| Homestyle Spice Cake | Stop & Shop | 17 oz. pkg. | 99¢ |
| Stop & Shop Pound Cake | Gold or Marble | 13 oz. pkg. | 59¢ |
| Stop & Shop Pineapple Pie | | 22 oz. pkg. | 89¢ |

100% Natural Potato Chips Stop & Shop 2 8 oz. bags $1

You'll save on these buys.

| Item | Note | Size | Price |
|---|---|---|---|
| Tampax Tampons | Regular, Super or Super Plus | 40 ct. pkg. | $1.39 |
| Vaseline Intensive Care | Lotion, Regular or Herbal | 10 oz. btl. | 89¢ |

Halloween safety specials!

| Item | Note | Size | Price |
|---|---|---|---|
| "D" Cell Batteries | Eveready 2 per pkg. | 2 2 pack pkgs | $1 |
| Eveready Flash Light | | | 99¢ |

Prices effective Mon., Oct. 17–Sat., Oct. 22. In fairness to all our customers, we reserve the right to limit sales to three packages of any item except where otherwise noted. Items offered for sale not available in case lots or to other dealers or wholesalers. ©Copyright 1977 by Stop & Shop Supermarkets. All rights reserved. Not responsible for typographical errors.

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

U.CAL. DAVIS MED. SCHOOL
SIGN-UP SHEETS
IT'S TIME THAT I GOT WHAT'S MINE! MY SHARE OF THE PIE! MY...
MAYBE I COULD HELP SOME OF THE POOR, AND HEAL THE SICK AND...
Bakke
James
-TROOBNICK '77

The demise of "good man" Lance

By GREG BRYANT

> "I accept Bert's resignation with the greatest sense of regret and sorrow. He's a good man."

Thus Jimmy Carter paid his last respects upon the resignation of his friend Bert Lance. yet contrary to Carter's assertion that Lance had "exonerated himself completely" of charges made against him, many questions remain unanswered about his personal overdrafts and loans (just to name a few). The fact of the matter is that there were improprieties, legal as they may have been. Carter did not admonish Lance in the least for his actions, stating in effect that Bert's past did not matter because he had done a "good job" as Budget Director.

This brings up an essential point regarding this case. Why was Lance confirmed at his post in the first place? One of the prime reasons was that Lance and others were able to halt an investigation of his Calhoun, Georgia bank in 1976, just days before he was publicly nominated for his post by Carter. Few knew about it, and no one brought it up during Lance's confirmation hearings. In fact, most of his questionable practices with the bank were not even known to the senators at that time. In addition, they did not appear terribly anxious to probe Lance's background and qualifications to any great degree either. Rather, the senators gave a quick, rubber stamp approval to the new O.M.B. as well as all but one of Carter's other cabinet nominees.

It would seem that had the Senators been a bit more skeptical and a little less party-oriented in their attempt not to discredit Carter before he took office, Lance would probably not have gained his post. Such was obviously not the case, though, as they unanimously approved Lance's nomination in a flurry of praises and high words.

An overhaul in this area is thus sorely needed, for a president-elect's nominees do not automatically have an impeccable background. Thus a more in-depth and time consuming study must be conducted of all prospective nominees for cabinet positions and other high posts.

A further aspect of this case, as with most inquiries of the sort, is the fact that the press was used as a scapegoat for Lance's resignation. The press was accused by many of railroading Lance with false accusations and character assassination. Such was especially the case when Lance returned to Calhoun after his resignation. He was greeted by cheering friends and neighbors, many carrying signs condemning the media's "whitewash" of a fellow good ol' boy.

It was the media though that brought much of Lance's past activities to light. An aggressive media campaign against any high official in generally frowned upon by the public, as well as government itself.

The Lance case was no exception. Public backing for him rose sharply after he had "explained away" the accusations made against him in televised hearings a few weeks ago. They seem to have wanted to believe that Lance was indeed honest. With the press still going full force against Lance though, many thought it nothing less than outright defamation.

As with Watergate, Vietnam, and Nixon, the press gets jumped on for the simple act of telling the truth. But Bert Lance returns to his old trappings in Georgia with the knowledge that he was able to allude all those senators and media people intent on rightly nailing him to a wall. The American public is behind him, his credibility and good name supposedly restored. Jimmy Carter has returned to his duties as president, his ultimate respectability and credence in some American's minds — including this writer's — hurt irrevocably as a result of the Lance fiasco.

Greg Bryant is a Collegian Commentator.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/ Amherst, MA 01003/ (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Joseph A. Quinlan, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Richard J. Pioli, Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Fifine D. Ball, Women's Coordinator.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

No nihil obstat!

Good morning! Left the fleshy warmth of my bed and almost puked on the first drag of my homerolled Top cigarette, but it was worth it. I had planned to go to breakfast with the Boston College and Harvard football teams, as the invitation boasted that the main course would be a ham effigy of Globe sportswriter Ernie Roberts, but the sincerity of my reverence for life vegetarian friends with their alfalfa and hay boots, belts, wallets and pockethooks caused me to change my mind and I went to North Hadley to graze in a field of grass. Carnivorous Collegian sportswriters who went to the breakfast tell me that the ham was carved into a perfect likeness of Uncle Ernie, complete with cloves stuck into the head representing his crewcut. The pigskin pundits also told me there was even an obscene "Bill Rynne's Quiz-in-Rhyme" carved into Ernie's belly, which cannot be reprinted here because 1) as a pious Catholic, I checked with the official censor at the Vatican who said, "No nihil obstat!" If I ever gave this an imprimatur (go-ahead) we'd both go to hell with the B.C. football team, and there's nothing the Jesuits can do to save them. As soon as I tell the Pope about this, they're all going to be excommunicated!" 2) This is a family newspaper.

jim paulin

An unelected politician and a politician who won't be reelected

Imperial presidencies are not limited to the occupants of 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D.C. There is an equally arrogant one to be found at One Washington Mall, Boston, Mass.

One Washington Mall is the palace of UMass President and Monarch, Robert ("L'etat universitie, c'est moi," that's French for "The state university, it is I," to slightly misquote ex-French King Louis XIV) Wood.

I remember a front page article in the Globe a few years ago showing Wood sitting next to his $40,000 vicuna chair, saying, as I recall, "You're crazy if you think you're going to take a picture of me sitting in it." I also remember the Globe calling him "the most powerful non-elected politician in the state."

Wood's Versaille is the Kennedy Library. It was through his hustling that it was located at UMass Boston and not at Harvard. He will also be remembered as the man behind the UMass Boston Harbor campus and the UMass-Worcester Medical school.

Characteristic of an Imperial president, Wood will also be remembered for aggrandizing and usurping power.

Wood is now a lame duck president who resigned his post, effective in January, in part because of his quarrels with stingy bastard and enemy of higher education, Governor Michael Dukakis. Dukakis prides himself on frugality, and tries to set an example by riding the MTA Greenline to work from his home in the wealthy suburb, Brookline. According to a column in the Globe by David Farrell, this arrangement is more expensive than being driven to work by a State Police officer in a limousine, because security has to be coordinated with the police forces of Brookline, Boston and MTA police. Also, contingency plans have been drawn up to stop the train anyplace enroute in case one of Robert Wood's agents dynamites the Park Street station.

The rumor shouted across the state is that Wood will challenge Dukakis for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Regardless, though, of whether or not Wood runs, chances are that Dukakis will not be on the Democratic ticket in 1978. In 1974, the Dukakis campaign bumper sticker read "Mike Dukakis Should Be Governor." In 1978, another bumper sticker just might ask "Should Mike Dukakis Be Governor?"

----------

It has come to my attention that it was not Mass PIRG that sponsored the reception for Ralph Nader but B.D.I.C. I apologize not for not attacking B.D.I.C. For their role in the Nader affair, B.D.I.C. is also guilty of elitism, snobbery and snotheadedness.

Ernie Roberts' breakfast menu appears on the sports pages of Saturday's Globe.

Jim Paulin's column appears every Wednesday in the Collegian.

Racism a common concern

To the Editor:

In view of the declining fortunes of the U.S. ruling class, we might be expecting a large scale intensification of racism to divide and demobilize the militancy of the population. In connection with this, the spate of overt racist and fascist activities in the area takes on ominous significance. The open advocacy of fascism and terror represented by two cross burnings and the appearance of anti-Semitic stickers on the walls in Hampshire College must be taken seriously and moreover responded to seriously.

The International Committee Against Racism is calling a rally on Wed. 19 in front of the Student Union as a start to exposing and organizing against the rising trend of racism at UMass. As Hitler's Germany proved, the costs of allowing fascist movements to grow unchecked is immense. We urge people of all races and nationalities — faculty, workers, and students — to recognize their common compelling interest in defeating this trend and attend the rally at noon. We wish as well for people to expose racism or racist incidents they have experienced on this campus at the rally. Join us and begin the process of driving fascism out of UMass.

Keith Hersh
Committee Against Racism
Progressive Labor Party

D.C. management criticized

To the Editor:

Being a UMie, for the past couple of years I have had to deal with and unfortunately experience many normal procedures at this university. For example: Whitmore, Financial Aid, Scheduling and Add-Drop, Check cashing and then no Check cashing, the winds by the library, the library and then of course, our favorite restaurant on campus, the D.C.

Well, I feel that eating at the D.C. is an experience in itself. After all it takes a lot of willpower to go and be able to eat there — however, if you put the taste and looks out of your mind and just eat it, it will pass. But I have never ever anywhere seen such an irresponsible, ignorant group of supervisors, managers, and whoever else runs that institution.

This semester I took on a non-work study job at the Franklin D.C.; I was immediately put in the dishroom. Three nights a week [Friday included] in that hot, little room is pretty boring, but it goes by and, as they say, "It's Money." In my case, however, it wasn't the money, because little did I know I wouldn't be getting paid for quite some time at a job which was worse than sitting through a boring 8:00 class.

Two weeks later, a friend and D.C. worker told me not to forget to sign my time card. Well, this was news to me; no one had told me to sign my time card. After work, there sat last week's card with this week's, and they would have still been sitting there if I hadn't filled them in.

Okay, great, I signed both time cards and anxiously waited two more weeks in order to get a check. This will bring us up to last Friday, 9-30. With 10 cents in my pocket and $1.00 in my checking account, I ran happily to pick up my check. Alas, it wasn't there.

Curious, I went to the office and questioned the whereabouts of my check. They informed me that I hadn't filled out any forms, "What forms?" I said. "Oh, the forms you were supposed to fill out when you began to work here, in order to get paid," they replied. Standing there infuriated I told them, no one told me ANYTHING.

At work that night, I asked if I could fill out my forms, but of course they didn't have all the forms — it was Friday, so I would have to fill them out Monday.

Monday came and I went to fill the forms out, but they still didn't have a tax form. "Come back tomorrow," they said. Tuesday came and the forms were in, but someone had taken the forms home with them, by mistake, of course.

So, here it is Wednesday, the deadline for the forms and the timecards to be in, to get paid in two weeks. Needless to say no one was available today to speak with.

Needless to say I quit.

Needless to say I'm broke.

A Discouraged D.C. Worker

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Excutive Editor, c-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. the day preceding that date.

Chickens dancing with elephants

For the modern American, the monthly telephone bill is as sure as death and taxes. And while one can easily postpone death by eating organically produced food, and avoid taxes by becoming a millionaire and taking advantage of loopholes, the only alternative to paying phone bills is to become a complete hermit and forego telephone ownership altogether.

bill sundstrom

Most of us never seriously question the power of the omnipotent Bell System to charge us whatever they deem necessary for the continuance of phone service. While it is true that in Massachusetts the Department of Public Utilities sets the rates New England Telephone (NET) may charge, it is well known to most observers of public regulatory commissions that such commissions usually better serve the utilities than the public. After all, if NET claims that it can't cover costs without a price increase, who are we to argue with their figures? Occasionally increase requests are turned down when the company gets particularly profit-hungry. But when the old threat of job loss creeps into the argument, the commissions more often than not back off.

This month's bill came with a handy little pamphlet advising phone users to allow ten rings before hanging up, along with the usual bad news — the bill itself. The Massachusetts Public Interest Group (MassPIRG) has suggested that something be added to your bill — a check-off for funding TELCAG, the proposed Telephone Consumers Action Group. The concept is much like the present funding mechanism for MassPIRG here at UMass, where the fee bill includes a two dollar funding option for PIRG.

The telephone company is the classic example of a monopoly, albeit one which claims to justify its existence in terms of efficiency and widespread service. What Ralph Nader and PIRG wish to do is counter NET with a consumer advocacy group, funding, in part, by the phone bill method.

This has been the underlying theme for most of Nader's and the Nader groups' efforts — to rally as many devoted consumer activists as possible and establish non-profit and government agencies as checks on the economic power of monopolists and oligopolists.

Such an outlook is just fine for people who are willing to accept monopoly capitalism and the power relations inherent in it. Naderites should forever keep in mind, however, that public interest groups such as PIRG are, in the words of one astute professor, like "chickens dancing with elephants." Even a particularly feisty chicken is limited in its "partnership" with economic elephants.

Groups like Common Cause, severely limited in their economic resources simply by virtue of their total non-ownership of productive processes, will achieve only the most superficial gains no matter how dedicated their staff and effective their fund-raising. Consumer and citizen organizations operating without any clear understanding of this country's economic power structure can only react to the actions of big business and big government, and they will remain at least one step behind in the race.

If TELCAG does come into existence, we can expect the phone company to discover sly ways to circumvent whatever consumer awareness and action is developed. Neither government intervention in the form of regulation nor consumer watchdogging will overcome or even recognize the fundamental problem — the economic power of the telephone utility lies in the hands of one corporation and fully outside the hands of the "average" consumers.

Consumer and citizen advocacy groups are valid insofar as they make people aware of the power they possess in their numbers and stir some opposition to the big corporations. But public interest groups which see government control of monopoly business as the proper goal of their organizations are in for a rude awakening when they discover just how powerless they really are.

Bill Sundstrom is Executive Editor of the Collegian.

The sordid brew

By FRANK DENTON

About the only things that keep me running these days are coffee and grease. Only four weeks, and already the long nights have made their debut. I waited twenty years to indulge in coffee for fear the caffeine would stunt my growth. It happens to be dwarfing my taste buds.

The odor of coffee is actually very appealing: rich, aromatic, and inviting. And then the taste — runny, stagnant, and acrid. Coffee is the ultimate raunch; the three-day beard, springtime in the swamp, the heavy date with barnyard breath.

Twenty thousand taste buds recoil in abject agony. Convulsions rack my smoking tongue as spiffy white teeth plunge into decadence and despair. My lungs gasp for fresh air; but no, a sordid blast of bilious brew withers throat and nostrils. New tonsils bloom where only a scar remained.

And then the second sip. Organic chemistry never had it so good. Fortunately, I can't see what's crawling around at the bottom. The film on the top is quite enough.

And then .... then the rush to gulp it down before it hits the stomach. That was a mistake — between the waterspout in the nasal passages and peristaltic paralysis, rigor mortis can't be far. It's too bad Louis Pasteur didn't do for coffee what he did for milk and wine.

It's been a few minutes now. The cramps have passed, but the bowels will never be the same. People tell me about the buzz one gets from coffee. That's no buzz. That's the gurgle of primordial booze relegated to a tired liver.

And there's my friend dipping my — stop, no! — donut into the bean drippings and, oh, what a mess. I wouldn't eat that soggy lump of shortbread if you paid me. Crumbs in my coffee suspended like cigarette butts in a toilet bowl. I'm disgusted.

All this for the thrill of maturity and long nights. A twelve-year-old with a hangover had more fun than I did. Yecch. I don't know about the rest of you; I'm sticking to milk.

Frank Denton is a Collegian commentator.

Nujumo asks So. African elect. halt

UNITED NATIONS [UPI] — The leader of guerrilla forces in South West Africa asked the U.N. General Assembly yesterday to authorize a special session to impose sanctions against South Africa if negotiations for independence fail.

In an address before the full Assembly, Sam Nujomo, president of the South West Africa People's Organization, also demanded South Africa's withdrawal from the territory, which liberation forces call Namibia, and the holding of U.N.-supervised elections.

He said elections without U.N. troops on hand "would be national suicide."

Nujomo's was the first speech of what was scheduled as a four-day debate on Namibia in the light of negotiations in which the five Western members of the U.N. Security Council — Britain, France, West Germany, Canada and the United States — are acting as intermediaries.

The negotiations were going on behind closed doors during the debate.

Nujomo said he appreciated all such efforts aimed at bringing about independence for the territory of 725,000 people. But he doubted South Africa means to give up its former mandate, cancelled by the General Assembly 1966.

"No election can be held without South Africa's complete withdrawal," Nujomo said.

SWAPO, he said, could not prepare for elections as long as South African troops are in the country.

"Hundreds of thousands of Namibians would not express their position," he said. "They would fear that they would be imprisoned and tortured, and this is what South Africa is aiming for.

"Under such conditions the elections would go in favor of South Africa's puppets.

"We therefore insist that South Africa's troops must be withdrawn and replaced by U.N. troops," he said.

"Otherwise, there will be no guarantee that if South Africa's stooges lose, the South Africans would not move back into the country. Elections without U.N. troops would be national suicide."

U.S. joins in human rights fight in Czech

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia [UPI] — The United States joined the French Communist party yesterday in condemning Czechoslovakia for putting four dissidents on trial.

U.S. delegate Arthur Goldberg read a UPI dispatch on the trial in Prague to delegates at the 35-nation meeting, noting that Czechoslovak authorities had even banned a reporter for the French Communist party newspaper from the proceedings.

The UPI dispatch quoted the French Communist newspaper L'Humanite as saying, "We sharply protest against a refusal which will deprive our readers of information on a trial challenging human rights for which we are fighting."

A Czechoslovak delegate angrily took the floor and accused Goldberg of giving "distorted information" and "attempting to interfere in the domestic affairs of our state."

A Soviet delegate also criticized Goldberg.

"The witty form this comment took — joining the voice of the American delegation with that of the French Communist party — does not amuse us," the Russian said.

The reference was to the trial of four dissenters in Prague. Theater director Ota Ornest, 64, was sentenced to 3½ years in jail after he admitted having contacts with Western diplomats, and author Jiri Lederer, 53, received three years, Czechoslovak sources said.

Writer Vaclav Havel, former spokesman of the Charter 77 human rights movement, was sentenced to a 14 months suspended sentence and theater director Frantisek Havlicek received a suspended 17-month term.

Earlier yesterday, Israel bluntly condemned the Soviet Union's restrictions on emigration of Jews and called on the Belgrade conference to work on the implementation of the 1975 Helsinki human rights provisions.

Israeli Ambassador Iayr Minerbi said, "We did not come here to attack anybody, but the problem of the Jews in the Soviet Union is too grave to be shelved quietly.

"We are looking to you, the signatories of the Helsinki Final Act, with real hope in our hearts," Minerbi said.

Israel was among four countries including Algeria, Egypt and Lebanon that addressed the conference in their capacity of non-participating Mediterranean states.

IF YOU'RE DEAD-SET AGAINST A KNUCKLE-BUSTER*, SEE ARTCARVED'S NEW FASHION COLLECTION.

NEW FOR MEN. We're introducing three Fashion College Rings for men that make a new college jewelry statement. They're bold, contemporary designs that go with today's lifestyles.

NEW FOR WOMEN. We're introducing three new Fashion College Rings for women to give you a choice of ten. They're feminine, smaller in scale, contemporary designs that go with the kind of clothes you wear today.

*P.S. Knuckle-busters are our thing, too. We've got one of the biggest selections of traditional oval rings and we love them. If tradition is your way, see our collection.

COME TO ARTCARVED RING DAY.

That's when the ArtCarved representative will be here to help you select your ring. You can charge your ArtCarved ring on Master Charge or BankAmericard.

PLACE: Outside Bookstore TIME: 10 AM - 3 PM DATE: Oct. 19,20,21

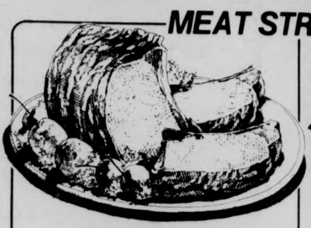
$10.00 Deposit

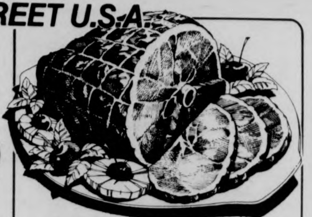
UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

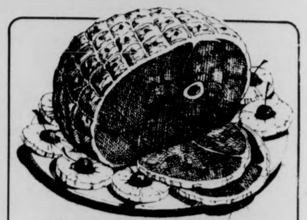
Finast SUPERMARKETS

October porkfest AT THE FINAST!

MEAT STREET U.S.A.







Center Cut Pork Chops $1.29 lb.
Fresh Sauerkraut 2 lb. pkg. 39¢
Assorted Equal Amts. Center & End Pork Chops $1.09 lb.
Fresh Blade Bone In Pork Steak $1.09 lb.
Country Style Pork Ribs $1.09 lb.

Pork Loin Pork Roasts 89¢ lb.
Rib End Portion
Loin End Portion 99¢ lb.
Loin Half 1.19 lb. Pork Loin Roast Rib Half $1.09 lb.
Boneless Top Loin Pork Loin $1.59 lb.
Fresh Pork Lean & Meaty Spareribs 99¢ lb.

Fresh Whole Boston Butts 89¢ lb.
Bone-In Extra Lean
Boneless 99¢ lb.
Freirich Smoked Pork Shoulders 89¢ lb.
Finast Sliced Bacon 1 lb. pkg. 99¢
Freirich Flat Cut Corned Beef $1.29 lb.

Shank Portion Fresh Ham 99¢ lb.
Butt Portion 1.09 lb.
Center Cut Steak, Roast 1.39 lb.
Boneless U.S.D.A. Choice Stew Beef $1.29 lb.
Boneless Beef U.S.D.A. Choice Chuck Roast $1.19 lb.
Boneless Beef Underblade Chuck Steak $1.39 lb.

BEER & WINE
Falstaff Beer case of 24 12 oz. cans case only $4.99
Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer case of 24 12 oz. cans 5.59
Reunite Lambrusco . . . . 24 oz. bot. 1.89
Folonari Wines . . . . . . . . 67 oz. bot. 3.69
Available Only in Finast of Hadley

Ivory Personal Soap 8 3½ oz. bars 97¢

PRODUCE

FIRST O' THE FRESH

Honeydews Large Melons 6 count 89¢ ea.
New Yellow Onions . . . 3 lb. bag 49¢
Green Cucumbers Long . . 8 for 1.00
Fresh Cranberries . . . . . 1 lb. bag 39¢

"NATIONAL APPLE MONTH"
U.S. Fancy 2¼ inch minimum
Fresh Apples McIntosh, Cortland, Red & Golden Delicious Your Choice 19¢ lb.
Fresh Broccoli California Large Bunch bch. 59¢ ea.

Mr. Deli Favorites!
Roast Beef Cooked Under U.S. Gov't. Specification $1.99 lb.
Baked Ham Virginia Style Freshly Sliced $1.99 lb.

Available only in Stores with Service Deli Depts.

In-Store Bake Shop Features!
Fresh Cake Donuts Plain, Sugar Cinnamon . . doz 69¢
Assorted Iced Layer Cakes . ea 1.99
Available only in Stores with In-Store Bake Shops

BONUS BARAINS
Tetley Tea Bags. . . . . . . pkg. of 100 1.49
Libby's Peaches Yellow Cling Sli., Hlv. . 2 29oz. cans 1.00
Dinty Moore Beef Stew . 40oz. can 1.19
Hormel SPAM Luncheon Meat . . . 7 oz. can 59¢
Heinz Tomato Ketchup . . . 26oz. bot. 79¢
Finast Baby Oil . . . . . . . . . 16oz. bot. 69¢
Fresh Green Limes . . . . . . 6 for 49¢
Gwaltney Boneless Ham . . lb. 1.99
Boneless Pork Chops . . . . lb. 1.79
Little Link Sausage Parks . . . . 8 oz. pkg. 85¢
Rich's Turkey Franks . . . . 1 lb. pkg. 89¢
Filet Mignon Whole Untrimmed Avg. Wt. 5-7 lbs. . . . . . lb. 2.49

Smucker's Grape Jelly 3 lb. jar 97¢
Grocery Values at Finast!
Peas or Corn Libby's . . . . . . 4 16oz. cans 99¢
Libby's Cut Beets . . . . . . 4 16oz. cans 99¢
Green Beans Libby's Reg. Cut . . . 3 16oz. cans 99¢
Libby's Sauerkraut . . . . . 3 16oz. cans 99¢
Finast Saltines . . . . . . . . . . 16oz. pkg. 45¢
Finast Peanut Butter . . . . . . 18oz. jar 69¢
Cranberry Juice Finast . . . . . . quart bot. 49¢
Friend's Pea Beans . . . . . . . 28oz. can 69¢

Banquet Dinners 2 11 oz. pkgs. Frozen 88¢
Finast Frozen Food Values!
Orange Juice TreeSweet . . . . . . 12oz. can 69¢
Finast Frozen Peas . . . . . . 24oz. pkg. 69¢
Finast Spinach Leaf or Chopped . . . . 4 10oz. pkgs. 89¢
John's Homestyle Pizza . . 12oz. pkg. 69¢
French Fries Finast Regular or Crinkle Cut . . . . 4 9 oz. pkgs. 89¢
Cooked Shrimp Highliner . . . . 6 oz. pkg. 1.09
HoJo Toasties Corn or Blueberry . . . . . 7½ oz. pkg. 49¢
Sealtest Ice Cream . . . . ½ gal. carton 1.49

DAIRY VALUES
Hood's Yogurt Swiss Style 3 8 oz. ctns. 89¢
Cottage Cheese Sealtest Light N' Lively . 16oz. cont. 69¢
Finast Margarine Premium . . . 1 lb. pkg. 39¢
Sour Cream Breakstone . . . . . 16oz. cont. 69¢
Finast Biscuits Buttermilk . . . 7 8 oz. pkgs. 1.00
Swiss Miss Pudding . . . pkg. of 4 79¢
Baby Edam Cheese Finast . 7 oz. pkg. 89¢
Choc-O-Riffic Hood's . . gallon plas. jug 99¢

YOU SAVE 36¢
Parkay Margarine Quarters 1 lb. pkg. 39¢
Finast with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products. Valid October 16-22, 1977. Limit one coupon. H-703

YOU SAVE 51¢
Finast Ice Cream All Flavors ½ gal. carton 88¢
Finast with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products. Valid October 16-22, 1977. Limit one coupon. H-673

YOU SAVE 28¢
Grapefruit Juice Ocean Spray qt. bot. 29¢
Finast with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products. Valid October 16-22, 1977. Limit one coupon. H-672

20¢ OFF
on 1 dozen White or Brown Finast Large Eggs
Finast with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products. Limit one coupon per dozen eggs. Valid October 16-22, 1977. H-671

Prices effective Sunday October 16 thru Saturday October 22, 1977.
We reserve the right to limit quantities.
Not responsible for typographical errors.

Five more arraigned for connection with arson ring

BOSTON [UPI] – Five more persons were arraigned Tuesday and more were being sought for their alleged connections to an urban arson-for-hire ring operating in the Greater Boston area for at least three years.

Three more alleged participants of the ring who were among 33 persons indicted by a Suffolk County grand jury were taken into custody Tuesday. At least seven more were still being sought.

The arson ring, termed the largest in the United States by state Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti, was cracked Monday following a massive State Police roundup of the suspects.

The suspects include a former member of the state Fire Marshal's office, a former captain in the Boston Fire Department arson squad, real estate operators, attorneys and wealthy landlords.

Four of the suspects face murder charges in connection with at least three deaths in fires set during 1973 and 1976. Four of the five suspects, arraigned before Suffolk Superior Court Judge Kent Smith Monday, pleaded innocent and were released on personal recognizance.

The fifth, William Trainor of Boston, charged with one count of arson related murder, was released on $5,000 bail.

Assistant Attorney General Stephen Delinsky, who was in charge of the lengthy undercover investigation into the ring, said his office has been in contact with attorneys representing some of the suspects still at large and that he expected them to turn themselves in soon.

In addition to Trainor, those arraigned Tuesday included real estate operator Edward Ardolino of Boston; Robert Monahan of Malden, a plumber; restaurant businessman James Sandras of Boston; and Edward J. Duffy of Milton, a real estate operator. Charges range from arson, bribery and include burning with intent to defraud and filing false insurance claims.

Delinsky speaking to a group of police and fire officials from across the state Monday said the state envisions prosecuting 10 to 15 separate trials in the case.

"Arson is leaving a sociological blight on the nation's cities. Think of the victims, the ones who are left in these burned-out holes," he said.

"This was not a quick series of indictments against the people who lit the matches. It was our thrust to get after and indict the powerful, behind-the-scenes men who hire the torches," he said.

"The arsonist for hire, no matter how despicable, is no more despicable than the property owner who hires him or the law officials who cover up," Delinsky said.

He said the roundup shows that law enforcement officials throughout the nation must take arson investigation methods out of the 19th century and into the 20th century.

"Law enforcement has got to come into the 20th century when we talk about arson," he said. "Arson has increased 30 per cent over the last decade. It has reached epidemic proportions across the nation," Delinsky said.

New cases reported of Legionnaires disease

ATLANTA [UPI] – New cases of Legionnaires' disease were reported Tuesday in two "cluster" areas of Tennessee and Vermont and another state, Alabama, listed its second known death from the disease.

The national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta also reported additional "sporadic" cases of the illness in other states. A spokesman said efforts were being made by the CDC to compile an updated list of confirmed cases and deaths across the nation caused by Legionnaires' disease.

City health officials in Huntsville, Ala., confirmed Monday that a patient in a Huntsville hospital died of Legionnaires' disease after a two-day hospital stay. The victim was listed as 69-year-old Louie McKay, a custodial worker at the University of Alabama in Huntsville.

It was the second reported case of the mysterious respiratory ailment in Alabama. The first Alabama victim was a male in his mid 60's who last summer, according to state health officials.

Five new cases of the illness were confirmed by laboratory tests in the Kingsport, Tenn., area, bringing to 17 the total stricken in that East Tennessee city since Aug. 1.

Health officials there said 65 cases of respiratory illness were still under surveillance Tuesday, 11 of which have been found negative so far as Legionnaires' disease was concerned.

Three persons have died of Legionnaires disease since the outbreak began in the Kingsport area, centered mainly at Holston Valley Community Hospital and two nearby residential areas, Cherokee Village and Gibsontown.

Kingsport was one of three "cluster" spots in the nation where the disease has struck in what appeared to be more than normal frequency, compared to the rest of the nation. The CDC, in conjunction with state health officials have launched intensive investigations in those areas in an effort to find out how the disease is spread and what factors trigger outbreaks.

Anothr "cluster" state, Vermont, reported two more cases of Legionnaires' disease Tuesday, bringing to 22 the total number of cases, including 12 deaths, in that state.

Ohio, the third Legionnaires' disease "hot spot", listed new "sporadic" cases. The investigation in that state centered on the city of Columbus where most of nine previous cases and one death occurred.

Contractor may be sued for faulty workmanship

HARTFORD, Conn. [UPI] – A contractor may be sued for faulty workmanship even by the second purchaser of a home, the Connecticut Supreme Court has ruled.

In a 4-1 vote, the high court reversed Fairfield County Superior Court Judge William L. Terney Jr.'s ruling last year which threw out a home buyer's complaint before trial. The Supreme Court, in a decision made public Monday, sent the case back for a trial.

Tierney said logic dictated a home builer should have to guarantee his work to home owners for a reasonable period of time, no matter how many times the house is sold. However, Tierney said, state law does not back up the logic. The complainants are Mr. and Mrs. A.B. Coburn and the builder is Lenox Homes, Inc.

The rusty nail Inn

Sat., Oct. 22
Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes
Special Guests
THE BRICKER BAND

Sunday, Oct. 23
Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes
Special Guests
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION

Cover $4.00

rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665·4937

WOODY ALLEN
in
THE FRONT
THURS. OCT. 20 4, 7, 9 & 11
S.U.B.

Are you going to show any kind of film next semester?

If you plan to, the P.C. film committee will be showing product reels of available movies from Films, Inc.

All persons involved in film programming are urged to attend.

Date: Oct. 19, 1977 PLACE: CC 176
TIME: 3:30

roister doisters' drama society presents

TOM JONES
based on the Fielding novel

Bowker Aud., Stockbridge Hall, UMass

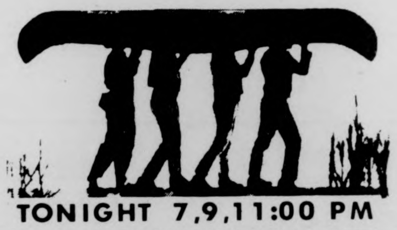
Show dates
Oct. 28,29,30 Nov. 4,5,6
Prices
$2.00 stu./senior citizens
$2.50 general
Group rates available

Tickets available at
C.C. Concourse
Oct. 17-21

Bowker Box Office-545-0783
for information-549-3905

Deliverance

Where does the camping trip end... and the nightmare begin...?



TONIGHT 7,9,11:00 PM
C.C.A. - $1.00
PRESENTED BY THOREAU HOUSE

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9–HADLEY, MASS
Adults $2.50 – Students with AMC Card $2.00 – Children $1.25 – Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded

SORCERER
Four outlaws... risk the only thing they have left to lose.
Starring ROY SCHEIDER
PG
1 Wed. at 6:00, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 5:30/$1.50

A long time ago in a galaxy far far away...
STAR WARS
MARK HAMILL HARRISON FORD
ALEC GUINNESS CARRIE FISHER
PG
2 Wed. at 6:00, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 5:30/$1.50

JAMES BOND 007 in "THE SPY WHO LOVED ME"
PG
3 Wed. at 6:00, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 5:30/$1.50

Starts Fri. Welcome to

L.A.
City of the One Night Stand
R
4 Ends Thurs.: Bad News Bears in Breaking Training
6:30, 8:45

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS LIMITED TO SEATING

Correction

The organizational meeting for students going to Kent State is tonight at 6:30 in Student Union 413A. Final plans for transportation to Kent State to demonstrate the gym will be discussed.

This meeting is a must for all people who plan to demonstrate; this will be the last chance to purchase tickets.

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS

LIVE! ON STAGE! THE 50's COME TO LIFE!

"The dancingest show in town" — Daily News

Grease

"THE KIND OF MUSICAL BROADWAY HAS NEEDED FOR SOME TIME! 'GREASE' DESERVES THE ADJECTIVES WE ONCE AWARDED SHOWS LIKE 'PAL JOEY', 'KISS ME KATE', 'GUYS AND DOLLS', AND 'THE PAJAMA GAME'." — New York Times

FRIDAY
October 28 8PM
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

Tickets now on sale General Public -$7, 6, 5.
UM-A students and senior citizens - $6, 5, 4.

Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

Confounding!
Sherlock Holmes meets Sigmund Freud

From the #1 Best-Selling Novel
THE SEVEN-PER-CENT SOLUTION
A UNIVERSAL RELEASE TECHNICOLOR® PG
THEATRE

Thurs., Oct. 20;
CCA 7,9 & 11;
$1.00

What's Happening

TODAY

LECTURES

– Department of Spanish and Portuguese will host Information Evening for all students interested in studying in Spanish-speaking counnries. Interested persons come to Third Floor Lounge Herter Hall at 7:30 p.m.

– To all Hispanic Parents with children in Amherst Public schools, meeting to discuss Bilingual and Bicultural programs, 7 p.m. Mark's Meadow School, teachers lounge.

– Dr. Vaclav Holesovsky will discuss "How to be a Socialist Without Being Either a Fool or a Scoundrel," Campus Center 8 p.m. rooms 174-176, public is invited.

– Videotapes and discussion of anti-nuclear demonstrations will be presented 8 p.m. at Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire College. Admission is free.

MOVIES

– "Live and Let Die," James Bond 007, Mahar Aud. 7, 9:30 p.m., $1.

– "Deliverance," Campus Center Aud. 7, 9, and 11 p.m.

– Film Classics Series, Billy Wilder's "Sunset Boulevard," 7 p.m. Newman Center, classroom 2.

MUSIC

– Howard M. Lebow Memorial Concert, Bowker Aud. Donations.

– Cooper-Dodge playing a Showcase concert at the Hatch 8 p.m. Tickets are $1.50 at the door.

WORKSHOP SPEECH

Dave Kopay, former NFL Football player, will speak on "The Right to be Gay," 3:30-5 p.m. Campus Center 904-908. After a lecture in the Student Union Ballroom, free. Sponsored by Distinguished Visitors Program.

TOMORROW

FILM FESTIVAL

An environmental film festival will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Campus Center Aud. and from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Campus Center 101.

MOVIES

– "The Front," 7, 9, and 11 p.m. Student Union Ballroom.

– "7 Per Cent Solution," Campus Center Aud. 7, 9, and 11 p.m.

WORKSHOPS

– Gay Alliance Workshop 8:30 p.m. Campus Center 171, Free. Don Hanover III, photographer for Gay Community News, will present his work. Everyone is welcome.

DAILY

CREDIT UNION

Credit Union offers Travelers Checks at the Student Union. Open Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

CRAFT SHOP

Individual and group instruction in photo dark room and silver jewelry, ask in Craft Shop for times-dates. Lower level Student Union Bldg.

VIDEO INSTALLATION

Student Union Gallery presents a video installation in Gallery and outdoors by Kit Fitzgerald and John Sanborn, through Friday.

Notices

ASTRONOMY CLUB
Meeting 7 p.m. in Hasbrouck 44.

CAMPUS SCOUTS
Meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. Top of Campus.

CHESS CLUB
Meeting 7:30 p.m. Campus Center 164.

COMMUTER COLLECTIVE
Housing workshop, Richard Rubin, a Northampton attorney, will lead discussion on housing laws etc. Northampton Community Storefront.

COOLIDGE UPPER
Anyone interested in playing at a coffeehouse on October 23, contact Ellen at 6-8152 or Chris at 6-8236.

CUSP
Psych Majors, meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tobin 304. All are welcome.

DIABETES GROUP
Discussion 7 p.m. Health Services 40. All interested are welcome.

DIAPHRAM USERS
Education sessions are held every Thursday at 2:30 p.m. University Health Center 250.

INDEX
Index editors mandatory party for all section editors 6 p.m. in the office. We will have fun.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA
All University women invited to Sundae-Trivia Night, 7 p.m. 778 No. Pleasant Street. For more info and rides call 545-2735.

LOST
– Alaskan Malmute Siberian Husky, white legs, black face, female. Please call Grace 546-6760.
– Pair of gold rimmed glasses. Please return to Campus Center Lost and Found or 305 C Brown call Roz, 546-4689.

LOVERS OF ZION
Meeting on future activities 4 p.m. Hillel office 302 Student Union. Everyone is welcome.

PARACHUTE CLUB
Meeting 7 p.m. Machmer W-21. Everyone welcome.

RED CROSS BLOOD PROGRAM
Give blood any Tuesday 5-9:30 p.m. Wednesday 2-8 p.m. or Thursday 5-9:30 p.m. at the Red Cross Center in the Public Health Center, N 344.

SKI CLUB
Meeting 8 p.m. Thompson 104, Killington Night free lift tickets, and ski films.

SNO
Meeting Thursday 12:30 p.m. Campus Center Concourse 808.

STUDENTS OF OBJECTIVISM
Interested in learning about the philosophy of Ayn Rand? Come to meeting 8 p.m. Campus Center 903.

STUDENT VIDEO PROJECT
Women's Workshop in Video, Thursday 7 p.m. Goodell. For more info call Sue 253-2048.

UMASS DOG CLUB
Meeting Thursday 7:30 p.m. Campus Center 117. There will be a speaker from the Morris Animal Foundation. New members are welcome.

UMASS HANG GLIDING CLUB
Meeting Thursday 8 p.m. Campus Center 165-169 for officer elections. Bring membership card to vote. All members must attend.

UMASS VOLLEY BALL CLUB
Practices will be in Boyden, Monday nights 6 p.m. New members are welcome.

UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL
Publicity meeting to organize committees for Woody Shaw Concert and Halloween party, 6:30 p.m. Student Union 415 A.

WANTED
First year students to participate in student made documentary film on UMass. For more info call Joel 546-9223 or Mari 323-5128.

WSYL
Wine and Cheese party Thursday, 9 p.m. for all interested in WSYL-TV.

BICYCLE COOPERATIVE
Organizational meeting, tonight 7:00, Campus Center 911. Looking for volunteers interested in working as mechanics and salespeople. Looking for anyone with ideas; all are welcome.

Stamford postmaster buys land later offered to Government for use as Post Office

HARTFORD, Conn. [UPI] – The U.S. postmaster in Stamford entered into a plan to help his business partners buy 11 acres of land later offered for sale to the government for use as a post office, according to the U.S. attorney's office.

The U.S. attorney's office says the alleged agreement was a conflict of interest for the postal office.

The U.S. attorney's office filed the claims Monday in its response to a civil lawsuit in U.S. District Court in Hartford. The lawsuit was filed against the U.S. postmaster's business associates, who said they lost money because the government decided not to buy the offered land. They are asking $3.3 million in damages.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

73 Fiat A 1 $1,100. 256-8226.

1970 Triumph GT6+. Excellent condition, no rust. $850. or Best Offer 549-5057.

70 Ford LTD. Good cond. $850. 562-4727.

68 Galaxy 500 Ford. $700. 527-5746.

144S Volvo 72 89,000mi. $1,600. Excel. mech. 256-8322.

68 Chevy Belair. $150. or Best Offer. 6-5855.

'68 VW Bug, VG Rebuilt engine, cond. body fair, $200. or B.O. Call 772-0672 Anytime.

66 Volvo 122S. Gooid mechanical condition. 130,000 miles. Frame needs work. Call 256-8467. Keep Trying.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

71 VW SQBK. $770. or B.O. 545-0811 Jack.

68 Chevy Wagon. $250. or B.O. 549-5993.

73 Datsun, auto, V. Gd. cond. $1,500. 584-1594 After 6:00P.M.

1969 Chevy Impala, 7 tires, $125. Call 584-4570.

1975 Volvo 164, AC, Cruise control, Michelins and snows, leather interior, excellent condition inside and out. All for only $5,950. or Best Offer. Call 253-5349, YOU WON'T REGRET IT!

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

76 550 Honda. $1,100. 774-3422 or 562-4727.

FOR SALE

Bike Rack, Filing Cabinet, Rec. Chair 549-5725

Fender Bass-Music Master. Excel. cond., also Arthur E. Smith Maple Leaf 5-string Banjo. Excel. Cond. Best offer on both. Call Brian at 549-3796.

Moped Motobecane. Almost brand new. $325. Call 253-5594 Ask for Bill.

Infinity Qa spkrs. New w/ transferable warrantee. $215. Call 546-4132.

SAVE up to 50%on TENNIS SHOES! Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18.-30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181

Ref. Dorm size, exc. cond. $50. 534-5413.

Olin Mark III Skiis (170's). Never been used. $150. or Best Offer. Call 665-4963 evenings.

Soligor 90-230 F4.5 zoom lens, UV filter and case. Screw mount. Exc. Cond. $90. Will fit most 35mm. Call 6-8711.

Hanimex Practica L. 35mm SLR w/150mm F2.8 lens, case, Wesson light meter, Honeywell flash, instructions. Exc. cond. $80. or Best Offer. Call 6-8711.

Fully restored 140yr. old farmhouse. 1 acre, wood burning stove, barn, two bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen, bath. Taxes $95. $29,900. No brokers please! 665-3560.

Matching Executive Chair and Sofa $50. 4 piece Oak Set Desk, 5 draw Chest, 2 Cabnets asking $145. Call 253-7462.

Stereo 8track AM-FM, Best Offer! Green Suede Coat size 9. Margie 584-9468.

House for Sale- Lincoln Ave. 8rm.-4br., oil heat - exc. cond. Older Home $40,000. Al Lasota 256-6381 Eve.

Stereo System 8track, AM-FM radio, turntable, four large speakers. Pail $350., asking $200. Excellent condition 546-7695.

FOR RENT

1Br. in 2Br.#28Millhollow Apt., Summer St., Amherst. $102/Mo. util. inc. Alan 549-1517.

HELP WANTED

Babysitter - warm resp. girl one night a week for three girls. 253-3149 256-0577.

Addressers Wanted Immediately! Work at home -- no experience necessary -- excellent pay. Write American Service, 8350 Park Lane, Suite 269, Dallas, Tx 75231,

OVERSEAS JOBS- Summer/Year-round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500.-$1,200. monthly. Expenses paid, sightseeing. Free inform.-Write: International Job Center, Dept. MC, Box 4490, Berkeley, CA 94704.

Experienced Waitresses. Apply Poor Richards 11 to 1p.m. daily.

ROOM WANTED

Quiet undergraduate male seeks room in quiet house to hang his hat and study for spring semester, possibly January and for next two years, including summers. Willing to pay for own bath and kitchen, or easy access to them. Will live anywhere in area. Please call 545-3503 Mon. nites and ask for Joe or leave message for rm. 209 - 50724.

WANTED

Players for weekly Poker Club needed. 1-2-3 Call Bob at 549-1316.

2 Tickets for Jethro Tull Concert in Sfld. on Nov. 19. Tel. 253-7610 for Wayne.

LOST

Missing red leather Wallet. Please turn in at lost and found.

Lost Meal Book. Please help me. Lost in Southwest Wed. No reward, just sentimental value. 6-9882.

T.I.SR-40 Calculator. Somewhere in or between Goes. 152 and Bluewall on Sept. 28 after 8p.m. Desperately need it for doing my assignments! Please return - Reward and No Questions asked. 256-6059.

AUDIO

Used Receivers, Speakers Call 546-4034.

Turntable Pioneer PL11ZD. $50. list $100. Only 4 mos. old. Call Marc, 6-4353.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low price & full service. All models avail. T159 $225., 58-$99.95, 51-$49.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. Models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators. 549-1316.

ENTERTAINMENT

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco, Monitor Music, 546-4731, Rea.

SERVICES

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models, low prices. Jack 586-0610.

For A Good Layer Cake: Custom made & beautifully decorated birthday etc. Cakes on 2 days notice. Right on campus, (not associated with Campus Ed Service). Laurie 546-9576.

Expert Typing, only 40cents/page. Call after 6, Mon.-Thurs., 256-8484.

Collegiate research papers. Thousands on file. All academic subjects. Send $1. for mail order catalog. Box25918-2, Los Angeles, Calif. 90025 (213) 477-8474.

Expert Typing. Mary Beth eves. 586-1206.

Horses Boarded in exchange for use by responsible UMass student 863-2680.

TRAVEL

Guatamala in January? Manan Ruins jungle river trip, climb semi-active volcanos. Slide show at Hampshire Mon., Nov. 7, 7:30 Prescott House B1 Lounge, limited space 15, Dec. 29-Jan. 19, $950.,includes airfare round trip to Guatamala, accomodations, food, travel expenses, guides throughout trip. For details call Holly Wheeler, Amherst 256-0219 evenings.

PERSONALS

PEOPLE'S LEAGUE SOCIALIST YOUNG: Unscrambling of the name and the message this wednesday at 8 in Campus Center 174.

POLEMICALLY AND CONSTRUCTIVELY ON SOCIALISM from the Social Democratic Left this wednesday at 8 C. Center 174. Address by Prof. Holesovsky "How to be a Socialist without being a fool or a scoundrel"

LET US MEET OPENLY in Campus Cter 174 this wednesday at 8 and hear what Holesovsky and the YPSL people have to say on socialism.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

SOUTHWEST CARNIVAL '77

at the playing field
on University Drive across from Southwest Dorms

| | |
|---|---|
| Thursday October 20 | 6:30-10:30 |
| Friday, October 21 | 6:30-Midnight |
| Saturday, October 22 | 11a.m.-Midnight |
| Sunday, October 23 | 1:00-8:00 |

Rides, games , balloons, food— all with

FREE ADMISSION

Thursday is ALL CAMPUS NIGHT

All rides 4/$1.00

Sponsored by the Southwest Assembly

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

"GUIDE TO WOMEN IN ATHLETICS — PART II — SEXISM AND CONTACT SPORTS."
"FACT: ALTHOUGH THERE HAS BEEN SOME LIMITED ACCEPTANCE, MOST MEN ARE PAINFULLY PATRONIZING TOWARDS WOMEN WHO TRY TO PARTICIPATE IN CONTACT SPORTS."
"FOR INSTANCE, WHAT DO YOU SUPPOSE THE AVERAGE LINEBACKER WOULD DO IF HE SUDDENLY DISCOVERED THAT THE BIG RUNNING BACK CHARGING AT HIM THROUGH THE LINE WAS A WOMAN?"
TRY TO CALM HER DOWN?
"HE'D PROBABLY TRY TO CALM HER DOWN." 10-19

B.C. by Johnny Hart

I NEED LOVE...
...FROM SOMEBODY! ...ANYBODY!...
WHAM
WHAM
WHAM
WHAM
WHAM

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

THIS IS A TREBLE CLEF
THIS IS AN AMPERSAND
THEY LOOK SOMETHING ALIKE DON'T THEY?
ACTUALLY, THEY HATE EACH OTHER!
© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Where've you been, Mark?
Shopping.
What did you get?
3 flannel shirts
2 sweaters
1 wool cap
3 prs. long johns
You're really scared, aren't you?
You bet your Bayer Asprin.
Ranney 10/19

WHAT NEXT? by Dick Janssen

TEST #17: TASTE

SITUATION: YOU ARE AT A RESTAURANT:..

STARE ITENTLY AT THE SHAPES TO THE RIGHT... WRITE DOWN EVERYTHING YOU SEE..... CHECK YOUR ANSWERS TO THE RIGHT.....

#1. IF YOU SEE A CUT OF NEW YORK T-BONE SERVED WITH BAKED MAINE POTATO, SOUR CREAM, TOSSED GREEN SALAD WITH ROQUEFORT DRESSING, PARKER-HOUSE ROLLS WITH CHILLED TABS OF BUTTER, AND A GLASS OF BURGUNDY, CIRCA 1957...... YOU PASS... YOUR TASTE IS IMPECCABLE AND YOU WILL MANAGE ON ANY OCCASION.

#2. IF YOU SEE A LAMB CHOP SERVED WITH PEAS AND CARROTS, A SIDE OF COLE SLAW, SUNBEAM WHITE WITH A STICK OF OLEO, AND A GLASS OF BOONE'S FARM, CIRCA-AUGUST.... ...YOU ARE AWKWARD, UNCOUTH, AND ARE PROBABLY AN EMBARRASSMENT TO YOUR FRIENDS. YOU WOULD DO WELL TO LET OTHERS DO THE ORDERING.

#3. IF YOU SEE A WHOPPER, FRIES, AND A SHAKE, YOU ARE BEYOND HELP. YOU WOULD UNDOUBTEDLY FIND THIS PAGE AS TASTY AS ANYTHING ELSE YOU'VE HAD... YOU ARE SUFFERING FROM TERMINAL D.C.-ITIS!!!

UM by Marty Maceda

I WANT SOME INFORMATION!
WHAT KIND, LOOGAN?
THAT AIN'T MY NAME!
I KNOW! A LOOGAN IS GANGSTER LINGO FOR A HOOD WITH A GUN!
OH! A SMART GUY, HUH?
MACEDA 10-19

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

BENB HEARS THAT THE CAKE PEOPLE HAVE DOUBLE CROSSED THE GREEN PEPPER MEN!
HE FLIES OVER CAKE ISLAND AND DROPS A HUGE LOAD OF CHEESE ON IT!
THE CHEESE TURNS THE CAKE MEN INTO CHEESE CAKES!
BENB LOVES CHEESE CAKE!
LAFLER 10/19

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19 — Born today, you are one of those in-tandem individuals who works best in partnership with others. Left to your own devices, you may be uncertain and, in consequence, late in the performance of duties and the meeting of challenges. When working with at least one other person, however, you produce to the best of what is by nature a very high ability. You are not a leader, but you are a creative follower — which means that you can make the kind of changes necessary to make directives more profitable.

You possess a marvelous facility with words. Able to express yourself clearly, succinctly, and interestingly. You may not be able to act on your own initiative, but you have a knack for speaking which helps others make their own decisions for action. You are amusing as well as interesting and can usually transform even the dullest subject into one that captures the fancy of your audience.

You have an eye for real property, seeming to know what will sell and what will not. This does not mean, however, that you would do well in the role of a realtor, for you are not by nature a salesman. You would do well as a 'scout' for realtors, or as a troubleshooter to discover what is keeping a given realty firm from progressing, and so on.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Though you may find another difficult to understand at this time, you would do well to come to a meeting of minds.

SCORPIO(Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Your strong personality should be enough to get you through a fairly difficult day in good order. Friends lend aid at evening.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — You may go from nothing to an embarrassment of riches today in at least one facet of your life.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — Be thankful for the break in routine that has put your case before those of others. Expect advancement.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Flexibility is what is needed if you are to meet the day's challenges successfully. Don't be mislead by 'friendly' advice.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — A desire for travel may lead you into more than one interesting experience today. Take your cue from a youngster.

ARIES(March21-April 19) — If silence were golden you'd be a very rich person today. Make an effort to communicate late in the day.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Be wary of your own curiosity, it could lead you into some strange and possibly dangerous areas of activity. Learn from another's experience.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — An exceptional opportunity for gain may confuse as well as elate you. Don't be surprised to find yourself of two-minds.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — Your honest approach to a problem that is potentially risky gives you an advantage over those who would take shortcuts.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — Your own inherent sense of fair play may be in for a jostling today. Another's decisions may not sit well with your principles.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — Definite signs of fatigue may be displayed not only in your face but in your actions. Seek time alone toward day's end.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

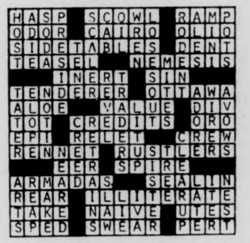
UNITED Feature Syndicate

Tuesday Puzzle Solved



ACROSS
1 Breathe laboriously
5 Facial adornment
10 Eugene ----: Socialist
14 Muslim VIP
15 Be of one mind
16 Drunken cry
17 Race track
19 Suffer intense longing
20 Try to sell
21 ------- out: Explained
23 "The Big Knife" author
25 Highest note
26 "Way Down upon the ------ River"
29 Sailors
34 Fuzz
35 Pronoun of old
37 Ism
38 Formic acid source
39 Loom part
41 Light refreshment
42 Fight
44 Pump
45 Nuisance
46 Reason for aspirin
48 Looks curiously
50 Domesday Book money
51 Stair part
53 Sties
57 Backs out of a promise
61 Mine tunnel
62 Basis for a loan: 2 words
64 No part
65 Harangue
66 General atmosphere
67 Happy
68 Appraised
69 Boom

DOWN
1 Large umbrella
2 God of love
3 Grain: Prefix
4 High pt. of land: Obs.
5 Defective molars: 2 words
6 Wading bird
7 Nigerian negro
8 German river
9 More profound
10 Leave a jet
11 Harmful
12 Fillet
13 Sow
18 Teased: Informal
22 Cream of the crop
24 Suffocate
26 Cut violently
27 Shrink, as in pain
28 Bone cavities
30 Vehicle
31 Penetrate
32 Singer Della -----
33 Facts and figures: Informal
36 ---- money
39 Do without 40 Decreased
43 Took as one's own
45 Dams
47 Frankness
49 Look after 52 Angry
53 Sudden emotional distress
54 False god
55 Miss Lollobrigida
56 Antitoxins
58 Sticky substance: Informal
59 Heating vessel
60 Prophet
63 Wrestler's milieu

Curt P. Kohlberg

Inside the turnstyle: Hinsdale

About one hour's drive from the outskirts of UMass is New Hampshire's favorite all-purpose betting facility, Hinsdale Race Track. Up until the late 1960's, Hinsdale was known exclusively as a dog track because of its relatively small, one-half mile racing surface, they somehow manage to call a track with its drainage problems.

Hinsdale's average handle (amount of money wagered at the track including the 19.8 per cent "take" — track's expenses and profit margin) rarely exceeded $175,000 on a given night, basically because of the low-class caliber of greyhounds that raced there. These greyhounds were strictly New England bred as opposed to Florida dogs, and I'm sure some of the less successful dogs also double as the family pet for some country family that needs a dog to chase out the crows in their cornfields.

To give an accurate picture of how poor the dogs were, greyhounds are trained to kill, and race with a muzzle latched over the front end of their 50 to 70 pound frames.

The dogs that raced at Hinsdale (and will begin racing again shortly when the harness racing season breaks) couldn't even pass a St. Bernard on a two-lane highway. After another greyhound track opened in New Hampshire (Seabrook) a few years ago, Hinsdale's board of officers (under the advice of the New Hampshire Racing Commission) voted to expand the racing format to include harness racing (possibly one of the most crooked sports) in order to increase profits and remain in business.

Last week a companion and I traveled the 50 odd miles via route 91 through Massachusetts and Vermont, until we reached Hinsdale, somewhere in the boondocks of New Hampshire.

As most knowledgeable horse players will attest, just the sight of a track previously untamed by oneself will start the adrenalin going at a rapid rate. The vibes on different numbers and hunches start filling the mind, and in return the wallet.

The walk from the sparsely filled parking lot was relatively short, and after I had handed the cashier my complimentary passes, the race between the rest of the betting public and my sixty dollars was on.

After settling into our grandstand seats, I started to realize that Hinsdale was definitely "different" than any other of the harness racing establishments I had ever wagered at. The grandstand contained many of the "regulars"; (a group of elderly country gentlemen who believe in constantly sampling the alcohol available at the track, and their ever-present female companions what also feel that they should try "just one").

These friendly, old-fashioned country people happily obliged my request of filling me in on the better (or most crooked) drivers, the condition of the track, and the times I should expect from the winning horses.

This type of information is always available at most racetracks by consultation among fellow horseplayers, but the tips that accompany this type of propaganda should generally be discarded before the brain sends its messages through the fingers to the green and white paper that bears our presidents' portraits.

After purchasing my program (a reasonable fifty cents) and Longshot Louie's tip sheet (a good bookmark, but that's all), my handicapping talents went to work.

After one quick glance at the first race, I became aware of why Hinsdale is truly a "different" track. The lowest purse offered at Yonkers Raceway, the premier trotting facility on the east coast is 7,500 dollars. At Meadowlands racetrack in New Jersey 6,500 dollars.

The purse of the first race at Hinsdale was a lucrative five hundred dollars.

My mind went to work; the winning pacer (or trotter) receives fifty per cent of the total purse, the second place horse twenty-five per cent, and the third and fourth place horses fifteen and ten per cent respectively. The driver receives ten per cent of his horses' earnings, but there are approximately thirty-odd drivers who ride at Hinsdale every night who have to earn a living for themselves and their families.

Therefore, after equipment and transportation costs, even if a driver can win two races a night (fifty to eighty dollars depending on the purses) and also finish with a third and a fourth (another twenty odd dollars), he will barely cover his expenses even though he had a good night. Thus, if a driver is given two hundred dollars in small bills in a brown paper bag before a race, he becomes a two to five favorite to do whatever the owner of the two hundred wants him to do.

At most harness tracks, I'm sure, fixing occurs quite often. At Hinsdale, I'd bet my trousers that there aren't two "straight" jockeys (drivers who's horse could possibly win the race) in a given pacing event.

Fixing undoubtedly occurs less frequently as the quality of horses and purse money goes up. I think there is still a great deal of fixing everywhere in the racing circuit, but the better the track, the more money it costs to fix a race effectively, as the above figures prove.

Even with the knowledge that fixing is always occurring, I can think of very few other places where you can have as much fun in trying to guess the winner of a given race as at Hinsdale.

By no means is it impossible to win, because by reading the program effectively and having a good background in handicapping (or if you're just plain lucky) your chances of returning back to Amherst with more money than you left with definitely increase with experience.

Personally, I have purchased a tidy sum of losing tickets in my career, but the feeling after cashing in a 750 dollar, perfecta ticket only matches that of filling an inside straight flush in five card stud.

With post time a mere four minutes away, my mind was made up on the number four horse Miss Gentry, a fourteen year old mare driven by Tom Vandestine, the leading sulky-sitter in the fall meeting.

Unlike thoroughbred racing, where the jockeys ride atop the horses, in harness racing the driver occupies a sulky, a two-wheeled chair-seat that seats the driver with his face directly behind the animal's posterior.

Since the track is only one-half mile in circumference, the horses must race around the track twice before completing the race.

After a detailed explanation on how to reach the program which produced absolutely no success, my companion and I proceeded to make our way to the ten dollar perfecta window where I was preparing to bet Miss Gentry with the favorite Brave Ben, and Phoenix, and 80-1 shot driven by the world famous Toivo Tommila.

A perfecta ticket means that in order to win I had to pick the first and second place finishers in the race in that order.

"Aaaand they're off," were the only sounds I remember hearing as I realized that my bets could no longer be placed, the race having started during my explanation.

As we made our way back to our seats, I glanced outside to see that Miss Gentry was riding a comfortable third as the eight horse field rounded the quarter pole.

When we found our seats I glanced out and spotted Miss Gentry in second place with three-eights of a mile to go.

My attention grew rapidly as the horses made the turn into the stretch as Miss Gentry was up by three lengths, then four, and finally finishing a solid five lengths in front of the rest of the field. Brave Ben (the favorite) finished second.

The tote board flashed "two dollar perfecta ticket pays $31.20."

Multiply that by five and I am up 156 dollars minus twenty, or 136 dollars if I had made it to the window.

My smile had disappeared, as did my visions of a profitable night as I explained my misfortune over a "few samples" of the good old-fashioned moonshine that was highly touted by the track's regulars.

I had beaten the odds, but had nothing to show for it. A feeling of despair ran throughout my body as I charted the next race.

My discontent grew as Empire Kurt, an eight year old gelding with a good man (that's all) and Rivercress Squaw with Vandestine (Longshot Louie's best bet) ran third and fourth, while my bankroll steadily decreased.

Finally, in one final all or nothing try, I made a valiant effort in the sixth race by playing all my marbles on J.J.'s Best, a brown five year old gelding that I had watched run well at Foxboro, my "home track".

He was racing against the worst bunch of also rans that had ever been assembled. At four to one, J.J.'s Best was money in the bank as I watched him make an excellent effort only to see him finish behind the favorite in a photo-finish.

All or nothing bets are lousy unless your horse wins, I'll attest to that because I didn't have a cent on J.J.'s Best to be second, I only played him to win.

As some crisp english muffins accompanied my orange juice ala breakfast in bed, I explained to my loyal companion the reasons why I had lost at Hinsdale.

"The lighting was bad," and "my pants were on too tightly," I reasoned.

My companion just laughed.

"Harness racing," she explained, "is for the birds."

"Yes," I added. "But I like flying around."

Bowlers falter in tourney

The UMass Bowling Club traveled to Hamden, Connecticut last Saturday for its first tournament, sponsored by Southern Connecticut State College.

Both the women's and men's teams did not fare as well as last year's champion teams, as both failed to place in the top three spots. University of Lowell won the Men's division, while Central Connecticut State's women's team captured the women's title.

Jane O'Neil from UMass rolled a blistering 225 game to capture high game in the tournament for the women's division. Other bright spots were Dave Tursky's 200 game and Roger Norcross's 227 game.

The next tournament will be November 5 and 6, a Doubles Classic in Springfield.

TYPEWRITER RIBBON AND TYPING PAPER
AT
A. J. HASTINGS 45 S.
45 S. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST

INDULGE WITHOUT GUILT
SKI FOR FREE
WIN KILLINGTON LIFT TICKETS
THOMPSON 104 TONIGHT 8:00
SKI MOVIES
We Welcome New Members

The Orchard Hill Ceramics Room has a workstudy position for a Coordinator

Job descriptions are available at the ceramics room in Grayson Dorm.

Send letter of application and resume to Orchard Hill Ceramics Room, c/o McIntyre House (deadline in Oct. 28).

OH/Central is an affirmative action equal opportunity employer.

BEST SPAGHETTI AND MEATBALL
DINNER IN TOWN
6:30-9:00
99¢
MIKE'S
WESTVIEW
253-9202

Any student who wishes to serve on the newly formed
Collective Bargaining Committee
of the
Undergraduate Student Senate
should contact the Speaker in Rm 420 Student Union
or call 5-0341.

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
open 'till 11 p.m. daily
FULL SERVICE LIQUOR STORE
Large Assortment of moderately priced wines
and kegs
99 IMPORTED BEERS
and don't forget our delicous
selection of cordials
338 College St. (Rt. 9) Amherst 253-5384 25 6-8433 EZ Parking

TAKE A ROAST BEEF BREAK
AND GET A BREAK ON ROAST BEEF.

2 FOR $1

At Hardee's® we're having a special on roast beef sandwiches.
2 for a $1. Even if you're not a roast beef fan, at these prices you'll become one.

2 ROAST BEEF SANDWICHES
FOR $1.
Good at all participating Hardee's

Hardee's of Hadley
430 Russell Street
Hadley, Ma; 256-8006
The place that brings you back

one coupon per customer, please
Coupon expires October 31, 1977

Two Yankees eyed by UM

By MICHAEL McHUGH
Collegian Staff

To be one kind of Yankee fan or another kind of Yankee fan, that is the question.

The name or noun — "Yankee" possesses an interest in one form or another for all UMass sports fans.

One is a team owning that noun which would have tried last night to win their 21st World Championship. The other noun is a league title, which will be pursued on October 22 and November 12 by a team that has a different name.

The team that owns the noun — The New York Yankees would have tried last night to capture their first World Championship since 1962. As of this writing (10-18), the Yankees lead the best of seven series with the Los Angeles Dodgers, three games to two.

The league title that owns the noun — The Yankee Coference is being pursued by the UMass Minutemen, who with their new fangled passing attack and stubborn defense find themselves in the thick of the title race with an unblemished 3-0 record (5-1 overall).

Both Yankee nouns are stimulating the nerve centers of the UMass sports fan in one way or another.

The Yankee batters, unlike last year, are smart and hitting to the opposite field, hitting behind runners, bunting and sacrificing rather than going for the fences.

... And the Yanks' defense. When was the last time you saw chubby Lou Piniella leap three feet off the ground to rob someone of a home run ? or Mickey Rivers judge fly balls perfectly through the smog and brilliant California sun?

Call Billy Martin's crew any adjective you want, but given them credit. The pinstripers have proven their worth by overcoming a 2-1 deficit in games to the KC Royals and by taking three games from the well-balanced Dodgers. And the Yanks have done all this with team dissention! Much like the Oakland A's of the seventies and the St. Louis Cardinals of the thirties, the New Yorkers keep winning despite their dugout squabbles.

The latest "Yankee-panky" involves a disgruntled Ed Figueroa who wanted to go back to his home in Puerto Rico because Martin reneged his promise that Figueroa would start game six. We all know Reggie Jackson blasted Martin's decision to pitch Catfish Hunter in game two. All this amidst rumors that Munson, Torrez, Holtzman, Hunter, and everybody except the Coke boy in section nine want to get the hell out of New York.

Perhaps Reggie Jackson sums it up best when he says that Billy Martin deserves a Nobel Peace Prize for keeping the team together. Coming from a man that would just as soon send Martin and his wife on a luxury vacation to Devil's Island, that's quite a compliment.

Enough of those Yankees. Let's talk about the Yankee Conference and the prospects of UMass winning the league title.

The "Mike Fallon — Kevin Cummings Show" was the main attraction at Alumni Stadium Saturday, as UMass breezed over URI 37-6.

Fallon, who just two weeks ago set a single-game passing record (5 td passes) against Youngstown State, threw four more touchdown passes and Kevin Cummings was on the receiving end of three (tying a single-game touchdown reception record which he set against Youngstown two weeks ago).

The Minutemen, after an opening game loss to Army, have reeled off 5-straight victories and have outscored their opponents in those 5 games by a phenomenal 177-35. The UMies own a perfect 3-0 Yankee Conference record with two games left. However, the two games are at UConn's den and UNH's lair. Also keep in mind that the Wildcats are ranked number 2 in the country in Division II and own a 6-0 record.

We all know what UConn and UNH teams have done in the past, but 1977 might be the year UMass dethrones UNH for the Yankee Conference title.

The Minutemen of 1977 should beat a weak and winless UConn team this Saturday, October 22, which would then set up a Yankee Conference grand finale between UMass and UNH on Saturday, November 12 in the Granite state.

Methinks that Messrs. John Willis, John D'Amato, Phil Puopolo, Dave Bemis, John McDonald, and other members of the "Iron Curtain," otherwise known as the defense, will have something to say to the Wildcats' running back Bill Burnham and quarterback Jeff Allen.

... and I don't think it will be nice.

Methinks that the UMass offense, averaging 35 points per game (over the last 5 games), coupled with the stingy defense allowing only 7 points per game (over the last 5 games), will cause head coach Dick MacPherson to do his Frank Sinatra imitation.

" ... and it was a very good year (1977 — that is)."

Collegian Pizza Bowl

Circle Team you think will win
Ties are losses

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1. U. of Rhode Island | at | Boston U. |
| 2. AIC | at | Springfield |
| 3. Pennsylvania | at | Yale |
| 4. Colorado | at | Nebraska |
| 5. Kentucky | at | Georgia |
| 6. No. Carolina St. | at | Clemson |
| 7. USC | at | Notre Dame |
| 8. Washington St. | at | Stanford |
| 9. Baltimore | at | New England |
| 10. Denver | at | Cincinnati |
| 11. Houston | at | Los Angeles |
| 12. Minnesota | at | Pittsburgh |

Winner is determined by person who picks most games correctly. In case of tie, winner is person coming closest to picking score of UMass game.

UMass ——— UConn ————

If still tied,winner will be drawn.

Contest is open to all UMass students and employees. Entries (limit one per person) are due at the Collegian Sports Desk, 101 Campus Center, by 5 p.m. Friday.

Prize is one large plain pizza and a small soft drink at THE HIDEOUT, 103 N. Pleasant St.

NAME —————————

ADDRESS —————————

PHONE —————————

Pizza Bowl wrap-up No. 1

Winner of last week's first Pizza Bowl was Ronald J. Arena of 15k Brandywine Apartments, who correctly picked nine out of 12 games.

Several other contestants picked nine games, but Arena was the closest to picking the UMass-URI game's score, as he was 14 points off.

Sixty-seven persons played the game, and total percentage of picks was .527.

UMass was everyone's ace in the hole, as all 67 people picked the Minutemen, correctly, of course. Colorado-Kansas was an automatic loss, since it was a tie. Dartmouth-Harvard was an automatic loss to most people as well, as only 10 people chose the Crimson. BU was the next most underrated team, as 18 people picked the Terriers to beat Holy Cross, to their advantage. West Virginia (40) and UCLA (43) were also popular picks, which was unfortunate, since they lost.

Tossup game of the week was the Steelers-Bengals contest, with 33 people opting for the Steelers, and 34 for Cinci. This was also the game which decided the winner.

Tom Kopec and Mark Rovelli came closest to picking the UMass score, only three points away, but should've payed more attention to their prognosticating, as they slumped badly there.

Netwomen drub Keene; Huskies are next foe

By ED POWERS
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's tennis team upped its season record to 5-4, with an easy 7-0 whitewashing of Keene State yesterday afternoon in a home match on the NOPE courts.

The shutout, against what Coach Bill Yu described as "a very weak tennis team," took only about three quarters of an hour to complete. Keene State was simply competing out of its league, he said.

The women will complete their regular season play this afternoon in a 3:00 home match against the University of Connecticut on the lower Boyden courts. UConn traditionally fields a strong women's tennis team and UMass should be hard-pressed to finish its season with a winning record. Yu expects the match to be a good one.

This weekend, UMass will send two singles players and two doubles teams to Amherst College for the New England's. The two representatives being sent to the tournament by Yu in the singles competition will be Cathy Maher and Lee Robb. The two doubles teams which will be competing will be Dawn Minaai and Jennifer Ranz, and Cathy Sullivan and Martha Awiszus.

The tournament features the finest talent in women's tennis in the New England area.

Yu expects to see some "fine and exciting matches this weekend at Amherst College."

Booters finally win

CONT. FROM PAGE 24

ut that called-back goal was definitely the rning point."

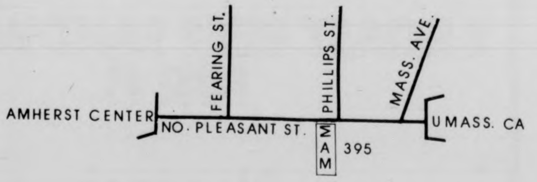
It was a good win for UMass, but if it plans beating UConn this Friday, the team is ing to have to take advantage of the ponent's mistakes, which it still hasn't en doing lately.

FOOT-NOTES: Greg Omasta, complete ith partially shaven head due to a cut to the ain, was an inspiration as he guarded the ater container ...co-Capt. and defender Ed Niemiec was also absent, because of injury ... an additional gold star goes to midfielder Andy Moore, who chipped in with a solid performance ... all the Minuteman victories thus far have been shutouts ... while on the subject, goaler Hodgdon is just one shy of the UMass shutout mark. Also the most goals he's given up thus far in regulation time is two, vs. Vermont ... the WPI field was an interesting combo between a mine field and a golf course ... and Worcester is really a very pretty town, just as you're leaving.

ETC. COPY CORPORATION
WITH THIS COUPON
high quality copies low low prices
Special Limited Offer
Complimentary Brunch
at Amherst Deli with every $5 order
1-99 copies—4¢ each
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS
233 N. Pleasant 549-0566

9TH Anniversary
Levi's CORDS
Only...$11.99
Every Size & Color...
Open 'till 9 P.M. THURS. & FRI. NIGHTS!
WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

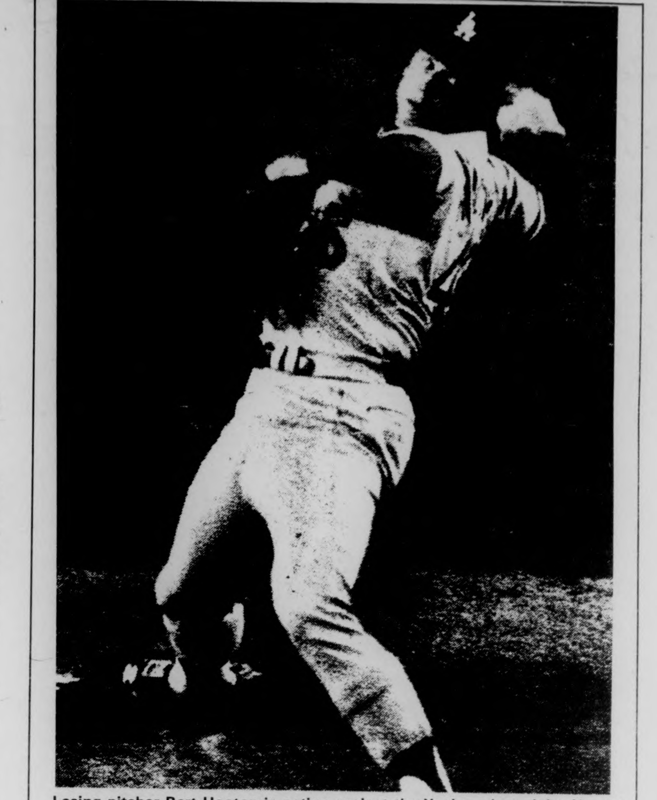
THE BROTHERS AND SISTERS
OF
ΣAM
(U MASS' ONLY CO-ED FRATERNITY)
INVITE ALL UNIVERSITY MEN AND WOMEN
TO AN INFORMAL RUSH
TONITE
FREE BEER, WINE, SODA AND MUNCHIES
INFO—545-0845—RIDES
SIGMA ALPHA MU, 395 NO. PLEASANT ST.



THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $4.95 served every day
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $5.95
HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
come to our
4th ANNUAL HALLOWEEN COSTUME PARTY
Thurs., Oct. 27th
Damon Rd., Northampton

There IS a difference!!! Our 39th Year
PREPARE FOR:
NEW MCAT · DAT · LSAT
GMAT · GRE · OCAT
VAT · SAT
Our broad range of programs provides an umbrella of testing know-how that enables us to offer the best preparation available no matter which course is taken. Over 39 years of experience and success. Small classes. Voluminous home study materials. Courses that are constantly updated. Permanent centers open days, evenings & weekends all year. Complete tape facilities for review of class lessons and for use of supplementary materials. Make ups for missed lessons at our centers.
Local GMAT class opens 10/13 for 11/77 exam
Local SAT class opens 11/1 for 12/77 exam
Call our local Rep. at 546-7853
CLASSES IN AMHERST
Call Boston for info
25 Huntington Ave
Boston, MA 02116
617-261-5150
Outside NY State Only
CALL TOLL FREE
800-221-9840
Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Centers in Major U.S. Cities

OLD TIME MOVIES
and Cartoons
October 22nd & 23rd
HAMPDEN SNACK BAR
9:00 PM
WORCESTER SNACK BAR
7:30 PM
OLD TIME PRICES
Hamburger 30¢
Hot Dog 25¢
Fries 20¢
Coke 10¢
Ice Cream 15¢



Losing pitcher Bert Hooton in action against the Yankees last night. Hooton gave up three hits and four runs in three innings, including a home run to Reggie Jackson. He was removed after facing two batters in the fourth, and was charged with the loss. (UPI photo)

Jackson cheers Martin

NEW YORK [UPI] — Reggie Jackson, whose battles with Billy Martin have torn the Yankees apart, said Tuesday the announcement of the Yankee manager's return next year came at a perfect time.

"Did you read the papers today?" said Jackson prior to the sixth game of the World Series. "With all the latest controversy, it came at an opportune time. We needed it today. It was good timing."

Martin was given a bonus and a new luxury automobile in a surprising announcement Tuesday by the Yankees. He has two years remaining on his current contract.

"I think it's well-deserved," said Jackson, who was upset at Martin for benching him in the last game of the American League playoffs and then second-guessed his manager after Martin started Catfish Hunter in the second game of the World Series. "I don't say I'm sympathetic to Billy, but I know what he's gone through. He's been through even more than me.

I didn't find out about it until I got to the park, but I could see it in his face. He was more relaxed," added Jackson. "The season has aged him. Now he can start being 49 instead of 99."

Spikers flounder again; Central Conn triumphs

By LEO PELOQUIN
Collegian Staff

In Central Connecticut last night, the UMass women's volleyball team failed to win a game as it finished last in the tri-meet vs. Central Connecticut and the University of New Haven.

Coach Dianne Thompson called the match," ...a dismal night...the worst we looked all year."

Central Connecticut raised its record to 13-4 in disposing of the spikers in quick fashion by the scores of 15-3, 15-0. Thompson said that Central's center hitter completely dominated, noting that UMass only got to serve 8 times in the entire match.

"We did a good job in setting up their center," said Thompson.

While Central was expected to give the locals a tough time because of its advantage in height and experience, the University of New Haven-UMass match figured to be a little more competitive and it was.

UMass jumped out to a quick 5-0 lead in the first game but could not sustain its fast start and wound up on the short end of a 15-12 decision.

In the second game, there was more frustration. This time, the spikers led 13-7 but victory eluded them again. New Haven came scrapping back to win the game 16-14 and the match, 2 games to none.

Thompson admitted that the team played poorly vs. Central Connecticut but she said that she felt that the officiating played a key role in the loss to New Haven. She said that New Haven was not being called for many of the violations that UMass was cited for, noting that one of the officials was the New Haven field hockey coach and a close friend of the volleyball coach.

However, she refused to blame the officials totally.

She said, "There was a total lack of communication on the floor (by UMass). Our inexperience showed."

She also aid that the team still seems to have a psychological block about winning, always seeming to feel that they are going to lose no matter what the score.

Central Connecticut went on to win the tri-match, beating New Haven 16-14 and 15-5. New Haven is now 6-1 on the year while UMass' record fell to 2-9. The team will host a quad-match on Saturday at one p.m. in NOPE.

Celts lose in Johnson deal

NEW YORK [UPI] — National Basketball Association commissioner Larry O'Brien yesterday nullified the trade of forward John Johnson from Houston to Boston but ruled the Celtics still must forfeit two second round draft choices to the Rockets.

Jackson swats three homers

Yankees World Champs; 8-4!!

Reggie Jackson tied a World Series record last night by slamming three home runs in the Yankee's 8-4, sixth game victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers that gave the Bronx Bombers their first World Championship since 1962. Jackson is pictured here slugging a fourth inning two-run homer off the Dodgers' Burt Hooton. (UPI)

NEW YORK [UPI] — The feudin' and fussin' New York Yankees won their first World Series since 1962 last night when their No. 1 problem child, Reggie Jackson, came through in his customary October style with a record-setting three home runs and five RIB in an 8-4 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

In winning the best of seven series in six games, the Yankees thus notched their 21st World Championship in 31 appearances and defeated the Dodgers for the seventh time in nine World Series meetings.

Jackson, a hero of past World Series with the Oakland A's, put the Yankees ahead with a two-run homer off right-hander Burt Hooton in the fourth inning, belted a two-run homer in the fifth and added the coup-de-gras — a solo shot 440 feet into the center field bleachers in the eighth — as he lived up to his reputation as one of baseball's top "money" players.

Jackson's three home runs equalled the World Series single game record held by the legendary Babe Ruth and his five homers for the series set a record.

Mike Torrez also played a prominent role in the clincher. The right-hander stopped the Dodgers on nine hits in beating them for the second time in four days, both complete games. He gave up two unearned first-inning runs and a 425-foot homer to Reggie Smith, his third of the series, in the third, but gave up only four hits and one run over the last five innings.

The Yankees' victory was perhaps inspired by the vote of confidence given to Manager Billy Martin earlier in the day. Club president Gabe Paul ended speculation that Martin would be fired by saying he would return for the final two years of his contract — and with a substantial bonus.

When the game ended on a popout bunt to Torrez by pinch-hitter Lee Lacy, the fans, who began congregating in the aisles in the eighth inning, rushed onto the field and Jackson and his teammates had all they could do to zig-zag their way to the dugout without being molested. Graig Nettles and Thurman Munson were the last two into the dugout and they had to literally fight off the fans in hand-to-hand combat.

The Yankees fell behind 2-0 in the first inning but Chris Chambliss showed quickly that it was going to be the Yankees' night when he hit a two-run homer to tie the game in the second. Smith's homer put the Dodgers ahead in the third, but then Jackson took over.

It was ironic but perhaps fitting that Jackson should emerge as the batting hero of the finale. Jackson was at the center of many of the Yankees' controversies during the year and he had repeated run-ins with Martin that threatened to disrupt the spirit of the club.

But when the money was on the line — as it was down the stretch and in the post-season competition — it was Jackson who most often came through in the clutch for the Yankees.

And the crowd loved him. Each time Jackson hit a home run the crowd screamed "Reggie! Reggie! Reggie!" and Jackson acknowledged the cheers by waving his cap to the more than 56,000 fans. After his final homer the crowd would not quiet down until Jackson came out of the dugout and made an appearance. He smiled at the crowd and tipped his cap, much in the manner of the legendary Ruth.

Jackson's blast in the fifth, with Willie Randolph aboard on a fielder's choice, put the Yankees ahead 7-3 and his solo shot in the eighth closed out their scoring to make Jackson the only player in series history ever to hit four home runs in four successive official at-bats. Jackson had homered in the eighth inning of game 5 in his last at-bat Sunday.

Booters nip WPI

By JACK ATKINSON
Collegian Staff

Willy Sorensen and Mike Shannon popped in second half goals to lead the UMass soccer team to a 2-0 win over Worcester Polytechnic Institute yesterday in Worcester.

Sorensen's goal, his first this year, came at the 31:37 mark while Shannon's, his second, arrived at 38:17. The two goals ended a Minuteman scoring drought which was approaching three games. It evened UMass' record at 4-4.

Up to that point it was a defensive war. The UMass defense totally shut off WPI's scoring machine, John Pavlos. It was a team effort, with Messrs Aronson, St. Martin, Veale, and Vassalotti constantly applying the pressure. The WPI defense allowed more UMass shots to be taken than WPI had, but they were all handled by the Tech goalkeeper, Bob Grochmal.

There were missed opportunities on both sides. Bobby Abt of UMass, starting his first game at forward, hit the top right hand corner early in the first half. Joel Mascolo was stopped at point blank range by Grochmal.

For WPI, it was no better: it had a goal disallowed early in the second half on a penalty. This would be the turning point for both clubs, as Sorensen scored shortly after.

For both teams it was an afternoon of almosts but not quites.

It was an especially rough game, with both teams giving and taking the punishment. Mark Vassalotti of UMass was particularly boisterous. He got a yellow card (warning) from the referee early on because of his roughhouse style.

Hard hitting abounded, and each hit was greeted with complaints from the opposing bench. Each time, the referees turned a deaf ear. It was a tough day for the refs, and it resulted in a subpar officiating performance.

Once again, with the aid of his defenders, Mark Hodgdon had an excellent game in goal. The few shots that WPI managed were easily turned back by the Minuteman goalkeeper, who must be considered for all Yankee Conference honors. The shutout was a total group effort by the defense, with everyone playing well.

"I feel damn good," said Minuteman coach Russ Kidd afterwards. "They had a hex on us. A shutout is always good, and we shut down Pavlos. Larry Aronson had Pavlos in his back pocket. Willy Sorensen played his best game of the year. Mike Shannon was also big. Mike St. Martin and Tommy Koutsoukos controlled the middle. Now we can go to Connecticut feeling good."

WPI coach Alan King thought, "It was a tough game: I thought we outplayed them,

TURN TO PAGE 22

Fullbacks Mark Vassalotti (left) and Pat Veale played key defensive roles in UMass' 2-0 victory over WPI on Wednesday. (Staff photo by Marilyn Mankowsky)

Judy Van Handle

Minutemen's No. 1 rival

Some people say it's Holy Cross.,

Others say it's New Hampshire.

And, even more say it's Boston College.

But they're all wrong.

Everybody knows the identity of UMass' biggest rival in the world of sports.

It's the nasty, dastardly University of Connecticut.

And the Minutemen football team, currently riding a euphoric five-game winning streak, will travel down to that thriving metropolis of Storrs Saturday to take on the Huskies.

On the surface, at least, UMass should have an easy time with UConn, since the Huskies are acting much like mere puppies this season.

UConn is 0-6 (0-2 in the Yankee Conference) under first-year coach Walt Nadzak. The Huskies have been plagued with all sorts of problems, ranging from an unsettled starting lineup to conflicts with the campus newspaper.

But don't let that fool you.

Sure, UConn is obviously not in UMass' class. 0-6 vs 5-1 is proof in itself.

Skip back a year, though. Oct. 23, 1976. Alumni Stadium. UMass' Homecoming weekend. UConn at 0-6 is taking on the 4-1 Minutemen.

Brian McNally sets two UMass passing records, for most yards gained passing in a single game (389), and most passes completed in a single contest (32). The Minutemen outgain the Huskies nearly two-to-one in total offensive yardage.

An easy UMass win, right?

Wrong.

UConn capitalized on six Minutemen turnovers and went on to post an embarrassing 28-6 win.

Incidentally, that loss started UMass on the road to ruin. What had looked like a winning record suddenly turned into a nightmare. From that point on, the Minutemen went 1-4 in the second half of '76 to wind up 5-5 on the year. And if UMass had beaten the Huskies, it would have wound up sharing the Beanpot with New Hampshire, even though the Minutemen were shut out by the Wildcats, 23-0, later on in the season.

So thanks to UConn, UMass lost momentum, a winning season, and a sweet win over its biggest rival.

Back in 1974, the Minutemen lost an early lead to the Huskies and trailed, 10-9, late in the game. A fourth quarter drive stalled at the one. With time running out, Greg Sprout had the potential winning field goal blocked. Films later showed that nullifying penalties should have been called, thus necessitating another attempt. But no infractions were assessed, and the Minutemen were unhappy one-point losers.

What of this year?

Well, the Minutemen should emerge from Memorial Stadium with a six-game victory skein, a 6-1 record, a 4-0 YanCon mark, and bragging rights for 1977.

But Saturday is UConn's own Homecoming game, and the opponent is UMass.

That should prove to be fair enough warning for the Minutemen, because everyone knows of the venom that exists between the two schools:

—Remember 1975, when the UMass basketball team was excluded from the ECAC post-season playoffs although the Minutemen won the Yankee Conference and posted one of the better records in New England? Which school finished second in the conference, had a worse seasonal mark, and yet was chosen to enter the tourney over UMass?

Yup, UConn.

—How about 1976, when the ECAC tournament selection committee couldn't bypass the Minutemen, who had a 21-4 year in their last season in the Yan Con? Everyone expected a UMass-Providence final, with the winner going on to the NCAA tourney.

But Joey Whelton threw in a 20-foot jump shot with three seconds remaining to give the Huskies one-point upset win over the obviously shaken Minutemen.

Remember last season on the court, when UMass pulled out two last-second wins over UConn? The Minutemen won the first on a comeback effort capped by a Derick Claiborne bank shot, and then blew a 10-point lead in the last two minutes of the second, but were saved from overtime when Tony Hanson missed the back end of a one-and-one.

Yes, even though much of the UMass-UConn rivalry has been generated by basketball games, the feeling carries over into other sports.

Just ask last year's football team.

---

Insider

FORD'S CONTINUING SERIES OF COLLEGE NEWSPAPER SUPPLEMENTS

The New Fitness: Focus on Personal Energy

"A flame went out
when old-style convertibles died.
But now I'm all lit up again."

Go Mustang

FORD When America needs a better idea, Ford puts it on wheels

Lose yourself in the sporty spirit of the '78 Mustang II with this wide-open T-roof convertible. Or maybe you'd like the elegant Ghia or the 3-door Hatchback. And you can opt for a sporty suspension with oversize tires, choose from 5 different kinds of wheels, 7 different interiors and 14 great exterior colors. So visit your Ford Dealer and go Mustang! It's a lot more fun than just driving.

FORD MUSTANG II
FORD DIVISION
Ford 75th ANNIVERSARY

---

WOULD YOU TRADE YOUR BODY FOR...

Arnold Schwarzenegger's?

Chris Evert's?

O. J. Simpson's?

Ah, for the rippling muscles of Arnold Schwarzenegger, or the nimble grace of Chris Evert, or the power and speed of O. J. Simpson! The wish to change places—and bodies—with physical superstars is apt to hit us mere mortals from time to time, especially when our bodies aren't responding or looking the way we'd like.

Of course, Arnold lifts 40 tons of barbells each day to maintain his physique. And Chris spends exhausting hours of practice for every flashy appearance at Wimbledon. And O. J. goes through grueling twice-daily sessions with the other Buffalo Bills to stay in peak condition during football season.

To get a superstar's body, you've got to work like a superstar. Far better to simply get your own body fit for the kind of life you want to lead. This issue of Insider isn't about Arnold or Chris or O. J. It's about you. The articles which follow provide the information and the incentive you need to plan a personal strategy for getting in shape and staying in shape.

For starters, "I Was a 49-Pound Weakling" offers encouragement for anyone who was turned off by the old fitness taught in elementary school gym class. Staff writer Don Akchin recounts his own true—and all too familiar—experiences and also outlines how to put together a fitness program that works for you. If you see the tell-tale signs of overweight creeping up or simply want concise information on good nutrition and diet planning, "The Diet Connection" by Theodore Berland, author of Rating the Diets, is must reading. "Feeling Good" catalogs 16 different ways to become more comfortable with yourself. And "More Power to You" explains how body, mind and spirit interact to affect your energy level and tells how you can convert low-energy drag to high-energy fun.

Insider: Ford's Continuing Series of College Newspaper Supplements is sponsored by Ford Division of Ford Motor Company and published by 13-30 Corporation (which also produces such familiar campus publications as Nutshell and The Graduate). The New Fitness: Focus on Personal Energy initiates the series.

Ford's sponsorship of this publication is an indication of their desire to provide services to college students. Please take the time to let us know how you like this supplement by returning the postage-paid response card found on page 8. And for more information on Ford's product line, use the card on page 16.

Good reading!

Art Credits: Cover—Joe Acree. Ellen Barrentine—pages 10, 15; Janine Orr—pages 17—20; Mary Revenig—pages 4, 9; Ken Smith—pages 22—23.

© 1977 13-30 Corporation. All rights reserved. No portion of Insider: Ford's Continuing Series of College Newspaper Supplements may be reproduced in whole or in part without written consent of 13-30 Corporation, 505 Market St., Knoxville, TN 37902 (615-637-7621).

Insider is published by 13-30 Corporation for Ford Division of Ford Motor Company. Opinions expressed by the publisher and writers are their own and are not to be construed as those of Ford Division of Ford Motor Company. Likewise, the publisher assumes responsibility for the technical accuracy of the material used throughout the articles herein. Direct any correspondence to Laura Eshbaugh, Managing Editor.

Inside the Insider

I Was a 49-Pound Weakling . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 4
Confessions of a Touch Football Dropout Who Suffers the Heartbreak of Phys. Ed. but Finds Hope at Last in the New Fitness
by Don Akchin

The Diet Connection . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 10
The Thinking Person's Guide to Losing Weight
by Theodore Berland

Feeling Good . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 17
16 Ways To Get in Touch with Your Body

More Power to You! . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 22
Beat Fatigue with this High-Energy Rx

I Was a 49-Pound Weakling

Confessions of a Touch Football Dropout Who Suffers the Heartbreak of Phys. Ed. but Finds Hope at Last in the New Fitness

by DON AKCHIN

As a kid I would have given my buck teeth for O. J. Simpson's speed, Chris Evert's cool grace or Arnold Schwarzenegger's biceps. Instead I was slow, awkward and had lots of sand kicked in my face.

I wanted badly to be a football player. Instead I became what is known in gym class as a capital-J Joke. The hierarchy of a gym class, you recall, is crowned by an aristocracy of natural athletes who can do anything in any sport with perfect grace, superb power and no apparent effort. Next on the pecking order are those who are only average but cover their shortcomings under a barrage of yap. What's left are the Jokes. When the sides are chosen up for a game, the Jokes are left standing around until somebody says, "Okay, we'll take him and you get him. (Snicker snicker) Boy, what a Joke."

Jokes like me got this reputation by scoring somewhere between below average and abysmal on every skill test of the year, year after year. The chin-up, sit-up, somersault test, the run-pass-kick test, the 30-second layup test, the one-mile run test—you name it, I flunked it.

Now as I say, I didn't start out to be a Joke. I started out as a football player, back in the first grade, but got off to a shaky start. Everybody on the team was supposed to buy his own red jersey. My mom couldn't find a single red jersey in town, so she bought what she thought was the next best thing: maroon. When I showed up for the first practice, there were 20 guys in red, two in maroon. "Okay," says the coach, "let's divide up into two teams here and run a few plays. Everybody in red is one team, and you two purple guys are the other team. You two see if you can stop the red fellas."

We didn't do all that well against the other 20, but from that moment on, the coach had me pegged as a defensive lineman, no doubt in recognition of my size and brains. I was all of 3-foot-6, weighed almost 50 pounds including shoulder pads, and was the only guy on the team who could spell encyclopedia. Like the rest of the big dumb linemen, I crouched down at the line, listened for the word "hike," and tried to push those giant 4-foot brutes on their cans before they pushed me. They always won. After awhile I took to sidestepping them altogether. Later in the season, someone accused me of biting him—through a helmet, chin strap and mouthpiece, no less. I left the game in tears and my mom assured me I would never have to play again. I was relieved. So was she. She thought football was too dangerous. That may have been in the back of her mind when she bought me a maroon jersey.

It was a short hop, step and jump from touch football washout to full-fledged Joke. All it took was a steady diet of negative reinforcement and continuous doses of the Old Fitness.

Old Fitness Versus New Fitness

The Old Fitness refers to physical education as I learned it (or learned of it) in public secondary schools. It was:

• Exclusively physical. Mind and body were treated as separate. It was assumed that most people had either brain or brawn; only rare specimens had both. One was irrelevant to the other.

• Comparative. Every student's performance was ranked against a national standard for that age group—not unlike the standardized tests in the classroom. Your ranking told you whether you were normal, better than normal or a Joke.

• Competitive. The idea was always to beat everybody else in the class—just like in academics. This was especially true for team sports. V-I-C-T-O-R-Y! Victory! Victory! Is Our Cry!

• Punitive. Physical exercise was a punishment for misbehavior. "What did you say, son? Okay, son, take 45 quick laps around that backstop out yonder while the rest of us stay inside where it's cool and play some basketball. Now take off."

The Old Fitness and I were not suited for each other. I was obviously a loser by its rules. Meanwhile I was making "A's" in everything but gym class. I believed in the mind-body split. It was clear that my mind was doing well; my body was not. So I rationalized that my body was just not important. If I were never going to be O. J. Simpson or Arnold Schwarzenegger or Rod Laver or Hank Aaron, then who needed it? Big deal. Could Einstein do layups?

The Old Fitness is still irrelevant to me. For years I thought that was the only fitness there was.

Fortunately for me, and many others who have been turned off over the years by the Old Fitness, it is no longer the only system. If you read the latest literature on sports and exercise, you'll notice a distinct change. The experts are taking a turn to the East—borrowing concepts and attitudes from Oriental philosophies—and also a turn to the new branches of psychology which emphasize human potential. From my viewpoint, those are turns for the better.

This New Fitness is:

• A body-mind integration. The physical, mental and spiritual are all interrelated. The body is not a machine that needs maintenance to run efficiently and works independently of the mind; it is a part of the whole person. Physical well-being improves mental alertness, relieves anxiety and tension, even helps you sleep better.

• Noncomparative. You don't rate yourself against a "norm"; you set your own standards, based on your own needs and objectives. You also are free to set your own pace.

• Noncompetitive. You compete with no one, not even with yourself. There are no losers, only a winner—you. Some people are just noncompetitive by nature and by body type. One exercise physiologist says 70 percent of all body types are not represented at the Olympics because competitive sports are only appropriate for certain bodies. There are sports and activities, though, for every body.

• Fun. Exercise and activity are to be enjoyed, not taken like medicine. If your only motivation for doing something is that you should because it's good for you, you probably won't continue it for long. You're also missing the point. Sport and recreation aren't supposed to be work or punishment. The play's the thing.

After reading some literature by members of the New Fitness school, I have embarked upon a fitness program of my own. Nobody is more surprised than me. I don't expect to ever look like O. J. or Arnold (or Chris), but that isn't important.

The New Fitness recognizes that you don't have to be an athlete to be fit; and better yet, that you need not train like an athlete to be a fit nonathlete. The idea is to meet your own needs for your own body and your own life. You don't have to work at it; it's far better for you to play. And you don't have to do anything.

Fringe Benefits of Getting Fit

If you do decide to play, though, some fine fringe benefits may come your way. (Under the Old Fitness, many of these are supposed to be reasons why you must, without delay, make yourself fit. Advocates of the New Fitness are firm believers in the fly-catching properties of honey.) The fringe benefits of fitness include these:

• Fitness improves appearance. Fat is stored energy, and it gets stored on your body when you ingest more calories than you expend. Any exercise, strenuous or just swinging your arms around, burns off calories. All it takes to burn off 100 calories is a 20-minute walk, or a 15-minute bicycle ride, or a nine- to 12-minute swim, or a 10-minute jog. Exercise won't make any dramatic changes in the short run, but exercise combined with a moderate diet is the ideal way to take weight off painlessly and stay trim.

Even if you don't need to lose any weight, exercise can trim up your body. As you exercise more, the proportion of muscle in your body will increase and the proportion of fat will decrease. Muscle tissue is denser than fat and takes less space; so even without a drop in weight, exercise can make your body leaner.

• Moderate exercise has a tendency to decrease appetite, which also works to improve body appearance by reducing the calories ingested. Strenuous exercise tends to increase appetite; this is the body's natural mechanism for getting enough calories to meet its energy needs. Unfortunately, as activity drops off, appetite does not respond in kind. Inactive people, consequently, have larger appetites than moderate exercisers and burn off fewer calories.

• Exercise relieves tension. Fitness enthusiasts call exercise the best tranquilizer known. And it makes sense.

EXERCISE COMPARISONS

Here are some of the benefits—and disadvantages—of eight of the more popular forms of physical activity.

| Activity | Benefits | Disadvantages | Warnings |
|---|---|---|---|
| Jogging | Excellent conditioner for endurance, lung and heart capacity. Builds leg strength. Equipment inexpensive, requires no special facilities. | Requires preliminary start-up program. Does nothing for flexibility or strength (except legs). Tightens muscles in back of leg and calf, shortens Achilles tendon. | Persons 30 and older should have a physical examination first. Wear good running shoes. Watch out for dogs. |
| Walking | Good beginning exercise, especially for people out of shape. When done briskly, maintains heart and lung capacity. No equipment or facilities needed. | Walking speed of 5-6 miles per hour necessary for conditioning effect on heart. | Don't expect fast results from walking alone. |
| Swimming | Excellent conditioner for endurance. Exercises virtually all muscles in body. Especially suitable for persons recovering from hip, knee or ankle problems. Considered best all-around exercise. | Requires a body of water. | Do not swim alone. |
| Tennis | Excellent for body shaping, flexibility and agility. May develop endurance if played vigorously. Strengthens arm muscles. | Requires a court and an opponent. Equipment and accessories moderately expensive. Activity is sporadic. Only improves endurance if players run for the balls; doubles play does not develop endurance. | May cause anxiety in players who worry about their game. |
| Cross-country skiing | Perhaps best sport for developing endurance. Develops arm and shoulder muscles. Injuries less common than in downhill skiing. | Requires preconditioning program to develop muscles. Requires snow and proper terrain. Moderate equipment costs. | Be prepared for cold and high altitude. |
| Calisthenics | Good for flexibility and muscle tone. Good warm-up for other activities. No equipment necessary. | Boring. Does not develop endurance unless done very vigorously. | |
| Bicycling | Develops endurance if done vigorously. Develops leg and back muscles. Can see scenery while exercising. | Only builds endurance if done vigorously. Moderate equipment cost. Will not give maximum benefit to muscles in legs, ankles and foot unless leg is fully extended when pedal is at bottom of circle. | Use a bicycle path if possible. Watch out for cars if not possible. |
| Weight training | Excellent for developing muscular strength. Can enhance performance in other athletic activities, including volleyball, basketball and golf. Can be done at home with homemade or low-cost equipment. | Does not aid flexibility or endurance. Lifting heavy weights narrows blood vessels in muscles and reduces circulation. Advanced weight-lifting requires access to gymnasium. | Start light; start slowly; warm up first. May be hazardous to persons with tendency toward high blood pressure. |

Introducing the new Fairmont.
The Ford
in your future.

Ford Fairmont: A new car design.
Fuel efficient:
EPA mileage ratings will be excellent.*
Space efficient:
interior almost 90% as roomy as cars like Chevrolet Impala.
Cost efficient:
base sticker-price will be competitive with many smaller cars.
Test drive Fairmont. Find out for yourself.

FORD
When America needs a better idea, Ford puts it on wheels

FORD FAIRMONT
FORD DIVISION
Ford
75th ANNIVERSARY

*EPA ratings were not available when this was released for publication. However, we expect the Fairmont, equipped with standard 2.3 litre engine and 4-speed manual transmission will have excellent mileage ratings. See your Ford Dealer for actual ratings. All competitive references based on latest information available on 1977 models, including EPA Buyers Guide.

Stress is the body's response to danger or challenge: the heartbeat quickens, adrenalin rushes in, the senses leap to attention. This is called the "fight or flight" response, and it's a marvelous survival instinct that has been programmed in humans for millions of years. Unfortunately, we still experience this response today, when there's no one to fight and nowhere to take flight, and the stress has nowhere to go. It stays inside the body in the form of ulcers, headaches or psychosomatic illness. Vigorous exercise, such as running, swimming or clobbering a tennis ball, is fighting and fleeing—or doing what the human body was intended to do. And out flows the tension.

- Exercise stimulates mental alertness. Tension is a real energy drain, for one thing, so releasing tension frees mental energy for other tasks. In addition, exercise stimulates the flow of blood and oxygen to all parts of the body, including the brain.
- There is a widespread belief—though scientific proof is not absolute—that regular exercise prolongs life. It has been proven, however, that performing certain exercises regularly can increase the efficiency of the heart, lungs and circulatory system. This certainly ought to prolong life, or at least protect you from heart and respiratory diseases.
- Some fitness enthusiasts claim exercise can get you high. They say that after 30 to 45 minutes of continued exertion, the body gets a "third wind," which results in a peaceful state of mind not unlike meditation in which thoughts and images float past and connect in creative ways.
- Finally, all the New Fitness experts and many of the Old Fitness advocates insist fitness stimulates the sex life. You look sexier because your muscle tone is firmer, and you have all sorts of surplus energy and vitality.

Yessir, coach! Which backstop did you say?

Putting Together Your Personal Fitness Program

What exactly is fitness? How do you know whether you are fit?

Under the Old Fitness this question is answered by taking a few tests and comparing your performance to the "norm." The New Fitness leaves every individual to arrive at his or her own answer, based upon individual needs, personal goals and different life styles.

The New Fitness definition is less precise but more flexible: you are fit if you can work effectively all day at your normal tasks; if you have enough energy left at day's end to invest in leisure activities; and if you have the stamina and strength to withstand an unexpected physical emergency—running a block to catch a bus, for instance, or rearranging all your furniture.

By this definition, a healthy, physically fit accountant would not be in the same shape as a healthy, physically fit lumberjack. But there's no need to be.

Fitness can be divided into three basic factors: endurance, strength and flexibility.

Of the three, endurance is the factor that is most often cited as the key indicator of fitness. And the exercises which build endurance have the greatest effect on your overall health. If you perform a rhythmic or "aerobic" exercise long enough, often enough and hard enough, some definite physical changes take place inside your body. The arteries leading into your heart enlarge; new capillaries develop around the heart; the heart pumps more efficiently, forcing more blood through the body with each stroke and resting longer between strokes. The lungs also work more efficiently, processing more oxygen with each breath. These changes are called "training effect."

To count your pulse or heart rate, turn your palm up and move the second and third fingers on the other hand up your wrist, along the thumb side, until you feel a steady beat. You can also find your pulse by running the second and third fingers along your neck, about an inch below the curve of your jawbone.

Using a stopwatch or a sweep second hand, count the number of beats in 15 seconds, and multiply by four. You cannot get an accurate count immediately after strenuous exercise if you count for an entire minute, because the heart rate drops off quickly.

The exercises which can provide you with training effect include jogging, swimming, bicycling, brisk walking, rowing, rope-skipping, some forms of dancing, skating, hiking, cross-country skiing, and vigorous games of basketball, handball, squash, hockey, tennis (singles) and soccer. But the physical changes happen only if you do three things:

1. Exercise at enough intensity to increase your heart rate to between 70 and 85 percent of its maximum rate. (The maximum is roughly 220 minus your age for males, 226 minus your age for females; for a 20-year-old male, the maximum rate is 200 beats per minute, and exercise must be intense enough to achieve a rate of 140 to 170 beats per minute.)

2. Keep your heart rate at 70 to 85 percent of maximum for at least 10 minutes, and eventually for 20 minutes or more.

3. Perform this intensive exercise regularly, at least three times a week (preferably every other day).

It's an all-or-nothing proposition. All three of these requirements must be met, or no training effect takes place. It takes several months of regular exercise to accomplish the physical changes.

The New Aerobics, by Kenneth H. Cooper (Bantam Books, 1970, $1.50)

How Many Calories Do You Burn in Different Activities?

Figures in column one are calories per minute per pound of body weight. To compute how many calories you burn in any activity, multiply the number in column one by your weight and by the number of minutes. Figures in column two provide an example: one minute of activity for a body weight of 150 pounds.

| Activity | Cal/min/ lb. | Cal/ min/ 150 lb. | Activity | Cal/min/ lb. | Cal/ min/ 150 lb. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Badminton: | .039 | 6 | 10 mph (6 min/mile) | .1 | 15 |
| Bicycling: | | | 12 mph (5 min/mile) | .13 | 20 |
| Slow (5 mph) | .025 | 4 | Sailing | .02 | 3 |
| Moderate (10 mph) | .05 | 8 | Skating: | | |
| Fast (13 mph) | .072 | 11 | Moderate (Rec) | .036 | 5 |
| Calisthenics: | | | Vigorous | .064 | 10 |
| General | .045 | 7 | Skiing (Snow): | | |
| Canoeing: | | | Downhill | .059 | 9 |
| 2.5 mph | .023 | 3 | Level (5 mph) | .078 | 12 |
| 4.0 mph | .047 | 7 | Soccer | .063 | 10 |
| Dancing: | | | Stationary Run: | | |
| Slow | .029 | 4 | 70—80 cts/min | .078 | 12 |
| Moderate | .045 | 7 | Swimming (crawl): | | |
| Fast | .064 | 10 | 20 yds/min | .032 | 5 |
| Football (tag) | .04 | 6 | 50 yds/min | .071 | 11 |
| Golf | .029 | 4 | Tennis: | | |
| Handball | .063 | 10 | Moderate | .046 | 7 |
| Hiking | .042 | 6 | Vigorous | .06 | 9 |
| Jogging: | | | Volleyball: | .036 | 5 |
| 4.5 mph (13:30 mile) | .063 | 10 | Walking: | | |
| Judo, Karate | .087 | 13 | 2.0 mph | .022 | 3 |
| Mountain Climbing | .086 | 13 | 4.0 mph | .039 | 6 |
| Running: | | | 5.0 mph | .064 | 10 |
| 6 mph (10 min/mile) | .079 | 12 | Water Skiing | .053 | 8 |

From Individualized Fitness Programs by Frank Vitale, Prentice-Hall, Inc., Englewood Cliffs, NJ, © 1973 by Prentice Hall, Inc.

Free-Wheelin' Fords.
They're TNT!

Free Wheeling means factory-customized trucks with dazzling interiors, special paints, trick wheels and blacked-out grilles. Start with the Free Wheeling Styleside pickup shown below with rainbow stripes, blacked-out grille and front bumper, forged aluminum wheels (4), RWL sport tires. New Free Wheeling Fords. They're TNT. And they're ready at your Ford Dealer.

- Free Wheeling Bronco Comes equipped with black bumpers, mirrors, sport steering wheel, swooping tricolor tape treatment, spoke wheels and RWL tires.
- Free Wheeling Courier Get it with wide oval RWL tires, cast styled aluminum wheels (4), GT bar, push bar, fog lamps, custom accent tape stripes, and more.
- Free Wheeling Van Includes sport steering wheel, black painted rocker panels, black front/rear bumpers and mirrors. A separate interior package option is also available. Van shown with additional factory options, owner-added stripes.

Built Ford Tough

93 out of 100 of all Ford Trucks registered over the last 12 years are still on the job.
(Percentage based on cumulative total registrations as of 7/1/76.)

FORD
FORD DIVISION

Ford
75th ANNIVERSARY

What Do You Think of Insider?

We hope you enjoy this issue of Insider. To make the next one better, we'd appreciate your help. Just fill in this card and drop it in the mail. Thanks.

School ______________________ Year ________ Sex ________

1. How much time have you spent reading Insider?
   ___ 2 hrs. ___ 1 hr. ___ 30 min. ___ none
2. Do you intend to spend more time reading it?
   ___ yes ___ no
3. What overall rating would you give Insider?
   ___ excellent ___ good ___ poor
4. Have you found this issue of Insider:
   ___ very useful ___ somewhat useful ___ of little use
5. Will you keep Insider for future reference?
   ___ yes ___ no
6. If you see another issue of Insider, will you want to read it?
   ___ yes ___ no ___ don't really care
7. What did you like most about Insider?
8. What did you like least about Insider?
9. What kinds of topics would you like to see covered in Insider in the future?

Postage
Will be Paid
by Addressee

No
Postage Stamp
Necessary
If Mailed in the United States

BUSINESS REPLY MAIL
FIRST CLASS PERMIT NO. 3468 · KNOXVILLE, TENNESSEE

13-30 CORPORATION
505 Market St.
Knoxville, TN 37902

---

offers a series of exercise programs in eight different activities which will meet all three requirements for achieving a training effect. The routines can be tailored to your individual needs.

Although endurance exercises are the most beneficial, by themselves they are seldom enough to assure fitness. An important reason is that without adequate strength and good flexibility, you will quickly injure yourself attempting to do endurance exercises. Jogger's knee, tennis elbow, strained backs, pulled muscles and other ailments which often hit persons early in their fitness programs—and often terminate those programs forever—can be avoided by supplementing jogging, tennis and other endurance-building activities with some muscle-developing and muscle-stretching routines.

The fastest and surest way to increase muscular strength is by working with weights. This can mean lifting hefty barbells in a gym, or it can mean simply supplementing calisthenics by adding five- to ten-pound weights to the routines. (And women, weight training will not give you muscles like Arnold Schwarzenegger. Big, bulky biceps are a biproduct of the male hormone testosterone; women can get stronger without getting bigger. In fact, the last six winners of the Miss Texas pageant have lifted weights to shape up for Miss America competition.)

There are other exercises that will add strength in specific muscle groups, such as sit-ups (abdomen) and push-ups (arms). A few of these may suffice to keep your elbows and knees in working order.

Flexibility is extremely important if you are already doing endurance exercises. Generally, flexible bodies absorb more stress with less injury—like willow trees that bend with the wind but don't break. Specifically, some exercises develop—but also tighten and shorten—key muscles. Running shortens the calf, hamstring and lower back muscles, for example. Unless running is supplemented with flexibility exercises to stretch these muscles out again, the body gets out of alignment and the inevitable result is injury.

Ballet is one of the best exercises for all-around flexibility. Yoga also comes highly recommended as a gentle, gradual way to stretch taut muscles.

Any comprehensive physical fitness plan of the Old Fitness school—for example, the Royal Canadian Air Force and YMCA programs—will include both strength and flexibility exercises that you can handpick for your needs.

Tips for the Novice

If you're gearing up for a little physical activity, here is some general advice to keep in mind before you start:

- Always warm up for at least 10 minutes before beginning any strenuous activity. It's a shock to your heart when you bound from a virtual standstill to a full-tilt gallop. Work your way up slowly.
- Equally important is to cool down for at least 10 minutes when you have finished exercising. When your muscles have been pumping over and over and suddenly you stop, sit down or stand still, blood tends to pool in those muscles. In many cases you will feel faint—because not enough blood is leaving those muscles for your brain. So decrease activity gradually. If you have been running hard or playing tennis, keep walking and swinging your arms to move the blood around.
- Don't strain. Many exercise programs end after one week, when a well-intentioned but overly enthusiastic fitness novice tries to do too much too soon, and ends up with aches and pains and sprains. Start slowly, don't ever push yourself to the point of collapse, and let everything take its course gradually. Nothing about fitness is instant. But what takes a long time also may last a long time.
- Don't exercise immediately after a meal. This may lead to nausea. Wait two hours. If you cannot exercise on an empty stomach, drink some water or juice and wait a few minutes. There is nothing harmful, however, in drinking water in the middle of a hot set of tennis.
- Pay attention to pain. That's nature's way of telling you something is wrong. Pain is an early warning signal, and if you persist in the face of pain you are asking for more serious injuries. When it hurts, ease up.

I wouldn't trade my body for anybody's. In the years we've been together I have become rather attached to it. At the same time, I could stand to improve it a good bit.

My own fitness program is in its fourth week now. Five evenings a week, my lovely partner and I slip into our shorts and shoes, stretch for 10 minutes, then jog a mile on a grassy boulevard. We walk for another 10 minutes or so to cool down, then call it quits.

This program has endurance and flexibility training but no strength exercises. Perhaps we should add them. Last weekend while cleaning out the basement, a cast-iron bathtub pinned me to the wall and smashed my finger. If it happens again we may add some push-ups, or even lift weights, but for the moment we feel content lifting forks.

I never thought I would exercise again, ever. But it is fun. It relieves tension, boosts my energy, suppresses my appetite (ever so slightly) and makes me feel good about myself. It's my program, at my pace, for my needs, and the only judge of whether it's successful or adequate is yours truly.

I hereby declare it adequate and successful.

Here's hoping you enjoy your fitness just as much. ☐

---

Staff writer Don Akchin is a 149-pound New Fitness enthusiast.

FOR MORE INFORMATION

If you're now inspired to embark on your own fitness campaign but need more information to get you going, the following books can be valuable resources:

- The New Aerobics, by Kenneth H. Cooper (Bantam Books, 1970, $1.50). Has gradual training programs in several activities for cardiovascular conditioning.
- Aerobics for Women, by Mildred Cooper and Kenneth H. Cooper (Bantam Books, 1973, $1.75). Cooper's famous exercise scheme (originally developed for the Air Force) carried a step further.
- Royal Canadian Air Force Exercise Plans for Physical Fitness (Simon and Schuster, 1976, $1.95). Daily routines for all-around fitness.
- Dr. Sheehan On Running, by George A. Sheehan (World Publications, 1975, $3.50). A good introduction to the New Fitness, especially for joggers.
- The Official YMCA Physical Fitness Handbook, by Clayton R. Myers (Popular Library, 1975, $1.50). Complete fitness program taught on the Old Fitness model.

CARBOHYDRATES
PROTEINS OIL
FAT

The Diet Connection

The Thinking Person's Guide to Losing Weight

by THEODORE BERLAND

If you want to lose weight, you have to pay attention to what you are doing to gain weight. You can't idly nibble on Fritos as you study, thoughtlessly order fries-and-shake at lunch or carelessly take part in beer blasts without paying the consequences—another millimeter or so of fat deposited where you don't want it.

I recently gained some insights into the secret dietary life of college students while teaching a nutrition course at Columbia College in Chicago. I asked everyone in the class to record what they ate during one typical day and to analyze the day's nutritional input. The papers turned in revealed that on the average, my students were getting what is considered normal nutrition. But individual diets ranged wildly. Behind the statistics, the real people were either starving or stuffing themselves.

Two women ate the least, about 500 calories a day, while another ate the most, about 3,000. Several men were eating about 1,700. Some ate mostly protein, others mostly carbohydrate. Some ate no animal flesh; some lived on fish; most ate lots of junk; a few ate such combinations as cracked-wheat bread, yogurt and beer.

Most of the students in the class were living by a mixture of half-understood concepts of "good" nutrition, "natural" foods, vegetarianism, Adelle Davis and established standards of dieting. Their confusion about how the body uses and stores food was often more a deterrent to successful dieting than was a lack of willpower.

You don't have to take a nutrition course to learn how to lose weight, but before you begin any diet you do need to know how your body processes foods—so you'll know why some diets will work every time and why others won't ever work, despite their claims. Once you know this, you'll be ready to put together a personal diet plan that's best for you.

What Food Does

If you put aside the aesthetics, the purpose of food is to provide the body with a variety of carbon compounds which serve as its source of energy and of materials for forming and maintaining tissues and for carrying on the processes of life. Ultimately, you eat because only food can provide the basic chemicals your body needs. These chemicals are called nutrients. The most basic nutrients are protein, carbohydrate and fat. There are also vitamins and minerals and trace metals. And water. Altogether, food scientists tell us, you need between 45 and 50 dietary compounds to live and to be healthy.

First you need protein. In fact, the name comes from the Greek word for "first," protos. It was the synthesis of protein in the cosmic ooze of primitive earth which gave life its start here. Next to water, your body contains more protein than anything else. Muscles, bones, blood, skin, mucus, enzymes, hormones are made of protein.

Proteins are complex chemicals which are made of component chemicals called amino acids. These literally are the building blocks of life. They are like fats and carbohydrates in that they have spines of carbon atoms and arms of hydrogen and oxygen. They are unlike them in that they also contain nitrogen and sometimes sulfur.

The 20 known amino acids come together in a multitude of ways to form different proteins. Unlike plants, which can make all these amino acids, we can make only about half. We must obtain the rest from the foods we eat. The nine we need are called the essential amino acids.

Unless you're taking "predigested" liquid protein and following The Last Chance Diet, you do not eat amino acids by themselves. You instead eat protein in such foods as meat, milk, beans, nuts. During digestion these proteins are broken down into amino acids. The body then has the options of putting together proteins from these amino acids; converting them to carbohydrates or, further, to fat; burning them for energy; or excreting them.

Proteins from animal sources—flesh, milk, eggs—contain plenty of all of the amino acids you need. But proteins from plant sources do not. Vegetables, fruit, grains, beans, nuts are all deficient in one or another of the nine amino acids. The body can use plant protein food as well as animal protein food, but only when it has all of the amino acids present at the same time. You do not store amino acids. This means vegetarians have to eat the proper combinations of plant protein foods, such as rice-and-beans or wheat-and-beans.

Carbohydrates (starches and sugars) provide your body with immediate energy. Your brain and nervous system must be powered by the sugar glucose to function. Because of its important energy function, the body makes glucose from both amino acids and fatty acids, as well as from other sugars and starches. This means that, in essence, you probably don't even have to eat any carbohydrate. However, in real life, people eat carbohydrate foods as filler: for example, bread. The body converts oversupplies of glucose into starch (glycogen) which is temporarily stored in the liver and muscles for use as needed.

You don't need much fat, but you do need some. You especially need linoleic acid and arachidonic acid. Your body can make the second if it has enough of the first. You get linoleic acid in such vegetable oils as corn, peanut and safflower oils (but not olive or coconut oil). You need fats to maintain cellular membranes, store certain vitamins (A,D,E,K), keep your skin supple and be involved in the workings of some hormones. Body fat is the long-term energy storage depot.

You eat grams, ounces and pounds of protein, carbohydrate and fat every day. The other nutrients you eat are called micronutrients because you only need milligrams or less of each. These include vitamins, minerals and trace metals. If you eat a well-rounded diet you should get enough of the essential vitamins (A,C,D,E,K and all the B's), as well as the important minerals such as iron, calcium, phosphorus, potassium, zinc, iodine, fluorine. But to make sure you get it all, taking a vitamin-mineral supplement every day is wise. (Vegetarians need to be sure they get Vitamin $B_{12}$, otherwise available only in animal foods.)

Americans on a national scale, consume 1,353 pounds of food per person per year, or 3.71 pounds per person per day. That amounts to 1.2 million calories per year, or 3,293 calories per day—enough to sustain a construction worker or lumberjack at 190 pounds, or a moderately active weekend athlete at 220 pounds.

Over a year's span, that's a total for each person of 182 pounds of meats, 271 pounds of milk and cream, 98 pounds of fresh vegetables, 118 pounds of potatoes, 100 pounds of sugar, and 112 pounds of flour.

What's a 'Balanced' Diet?

A balanced diet means eating foods from the basic four food groups—dairy products, protein, fruits-vegetables and cereals-grains. You also need to drink about one-and-a-half quarts of water or liquids a day. Eat as much uncooked, fresh produce as you can, and as few highly processed foods as possible. That's often not easy at college, especially if you live in a dorm. But it can be done.

The best advice on what and how to eat is summarized in the 1977 government publication, Dietary Goals for the United States, prepared by the staff of the U.S. Senate's Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs after years of hearings and research. The committee says we can all get thinner and live longer by reversing our national over-consumption of food in general and of fat (especially saturated fat), cholesterol, sugar, salt and alcohol, in particular. It recommends that you:

- Eat less meat and more fish and poultry.
- Replace whole milk with skim milk.
- Cut back on eggs, butter and other high-cholesterol sources.
- Cut back on sugar, to 15 percent of your daily calories.
- Cut back on salt, to a total of three grams a day.
- Eat more fruits, vegetables and whole grains.

According to the report, 12 percent of your daily calories should be protein. The report also recommends that you eat more carbohydrates than fat (especially complex carbohydrates like fruit-sugar and starch). Carbohydrates should constitute 58 percent of your daily caloric intake, of which sugar can be as much as 15 percent. The remaining 30 percent of calories you consume should be fat (10 percent saturated, 20 percent unsaturated).

What Do Calories Do?

Proteins, carbohydrates and fat can each serve as a source of energy in the body, as I explained earlier. Their energy potential is measured in calories. A Big Mac is 550 calories, a can of beer (12 ounce) is 150, a raw carrot is 20, diet cola is one. Calories simply tell how much energy a food can contribute to power the life processes in your body.

If you get just as many calories a day as your body needs, fine. If you eat more than you use, your body stores the rest. Less, and you draw from reserves. That's how human

continued on page 14

SAMPLE HEIGHT/WEIGHT CHART

MEN OF AGES 25 AND OVER
Weight in Pounds According to Frame (In Indoor Clothing)

| HEIGHT (with shoes on) 1-inch heels Feet | Inches | SMALL FRAME | MEDIUM FRAME | LARGE FRAME |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 5 | 2 | 112–120 | 118–129 | 126–141 |
| 5 | 3 | 115–123 | 121–133 | 129–144 |
| 5 | 4 | 118–126 | 124–136 | 132–148 |
| 5 | 5 | 121–129 | 127–139 | 135–152 |
| 5 | 6 | 124–133 | 130–143 | 138–156 |
| 5 | 7 | 128–137 | 134–147 | 142–161 |
| 5 | 8 | 132–141 | 138–152 | 147–166 |
| 5 | 9 | 136–145 | 142–156 | 151–170 |
| 5 | 10 | 140–150 | 146–160 | 155–174 |
| 5 | 11 | 144–154 | 150–165 | 159–179 |
| 6 | 0 | 148–158 | 154–170 | 164–184 |
| 6 | 1 | 152–162 | 158–175 | 168–189 |
| 6 | 2 | 156–167 | 162–180 | 173–194 |
| 6 | 3 | 160–171 | 167–185 | 178–199 |
| 6 | 4 | 164–175 | 172–190 | 182–204 |

WOMEN OF AGES 25 AND OVER
Weight in Pounds According to Frame (In Indoor Clothing)

| HEIGHT (with shoes on) 2-inch heels Feet | Inches | SMALL FRAME | MEDIUM FRAME | LARGE FRAME |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 4 | 10 | 92–98 | 96–107 | 104–119 |
| 4 | 11 | 94–101 | 98–110 | 106–122 |
| 5 | 0 | 96–104 | 101–113 | 109–125 |
| 5 | 1 | 99–107 | 104–116 | 112–128 |
| 5 | 2 | 102–110 | 107–119 | 115–131 |
| 5 | 3 | 105–113 | 110–122 | 118–134 |
| 5 | 4 | 108–116 | 113–126 | 121–138 |
| 5 | 5 | 111–119 | 116–130 | 125–142 |
| 5 | 6 | 114–123 | 120–135 | 129–146 |
| 5 | 7 | 118–127 | 124–139 | 133–150 |
| 5 | 8 | 122–131 | 128–143 | 137–154 |
| 5 | 9 | 126–135 | 132–147 | 141–158 |
| 5 | 10 | 130–140 | 136–151 | 145–163 |
| 5 | 11 | 134–144 | 140–155 | 149–168 |
| 6 | 0 | 138–148 | 144–159 | 153–173 |

*NOTE: For young women between 18 and 25, subtract 1 pound for each year under 25. The absence of a similar measurement rule for young men between 18 and 25 is explained in part by the difference in growth periods for the sexes. Young women don't grow much taller after age 16 and add little weight after the age of 18, except for unwanted fat. On the other hand, the growth period of young men may continue into their early twenties.

By permission of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

EUROPE'S MOST SUCCESSFUL* NEW CAR IN HISTORY COMES TO AMERICA...

* IT'S OUTSOLD EVERY NEW CAR NAMEPLATE EVER INTRODUCED IN EUROPE, BASED ON A COMPARISON OF SALES IN THE FIRST SIX MONTHS.

Fiesta. Imported from Germany by Ford.

The remarkable success of the new Ford Fiesta in Europe has surpassed even the most popular cars from Volkswagen, Renault and Fiat. Behind that success is Fiesta's dramatic level of automotive performance.

ADVANCED EUROPEAN ENGINEERING

Fiesta is assembled by Ford in Germany, where its competition includes some of the world's finest performance sedans. It was engineered for stability on Europe's high-speed autobahns. Engineered to be quick and maneuverable in city driving. And for all its dramatic performance, Fiesta was engineered for comfort: its unique 4-passenger design has created more back-seat leg-room than any other imported or domestic car of its kind.

FRONT-WHEEL DRIVE TRACTION

Fiesta has front-wheel drive, which helps give the car good drive wheel traction—even on roads covered with snow and ice. This, in addition to Fiesta's MacPherson front suspension, rack and pinion steering, and Michelin radial tires, contributes to a solid feeling of controlled action.

And more: In Ford tests, Fiesta accelerated from 0-50 MPH in an average of 8.8 seconds (9.1 for California emissions equipped models).

EASY TO SERVICE

Fiesta was engineered to be simple and easy to service—an important benefit for foreign car buyers. Owners will appreciate its highly accessible transverse mounted engine. And see-through containers for checking fluid levels in battery, cooling system, brake and washer reservoirs.

The new Fiesta is available from more than 5,000 authorized Ford Dealers across America. A single test drive can show you why it's Europe's most successful new car in history.

Pictured above: Standard instrumentation of the Fiesta Sport. Opposite page upper left: Versatile rear hatch gate of the Fiesta Ghia.

46 MPG† HWY
34 MPG† CITY
$3,680††

† EPA estimates. Your mileage may vary depending on your car's condition, optional equipment, where & how you drive. California ratings are lower.

†† Base Fiesta (shown right) sticker price excluding taxes, title, destination charges.

FIESTA

FORD FIESTA
FORD DIVISION

75th ANNIVERSARY

continued from page 11

beings have survived for most of our million or so years on earth. During famines we live off the energy stored on our bodies—glycogen for short-term food shortages of a day or so, and fat for long-term shortages. During feasts we accumulate glycogen and fat. You can't see glycogen, but you can certainly see most of the fat—as double chins, flapping upper arms, and protruding breasts, bellies and buttocks.

Excess calories add up, day by day and month by month. Small deposits of fat become large ones. It is easy to accumulate fat when your most rigorous physical activity is eating. And even if you are somewhat active, it's harder to burn off calories through exercise than it is to put them on by eating. Each pound of fat represents 3,500 calories, usually accumulated over a long period of overeating time. You only burn up 100 calories by 10 minutes of jogging, 12 minutes of swimming, 15 minutes of bicycling or 19 minutes of walking.

You can lose weight far more quickly and more certainly by not eating 100 calories. If you do that every day, you will have a weekly deficit of 700 calories. In five weeks you will have lost a pound because of your 3,500-calorie deficit.

How To Construct Your Personal Diet Plan

If you have dieted before, you probably know there is a long-standing debate between the low-calorie dieters and the low-carbohydrate camp. Let it be said once and for all that the only way to lose weight is to reduce calories. If you eat mostly protein and fat—as the low-carbohydrate proponents instruct—you will only lose weight if the calories are few. What protein you don't need right away is converted to carbohydrate, and excess carbohydrate becomes fat to be stored.

Any effective diet plan will mean reducing calories, and those calories should be distributed among protein, carbohydrate and fat in a balanced way. To start, you first need to know how many calories a day to eat. To estimate this total, multiply your desired weight by 12. You probably know what weight makes you look and feel good, but if not, consult a standard height-weight chart. The 12 represents the number of calories you'll need to maintain a pound of body weight every day. This assumes an urban sedentary-type life style. If you're moderately active physically, use 15. If you are a real jock, or do heavy manual work, you can use a higher figure of 18 or more.

FAST-FOOD NUTRITION: HOW IT ADDS UP

| | CALORIES | PROTEIN (grams) | FAT (grams) | CARBO (grams) |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| McDonald's | | | | |
| 2 hamburgers, fries, shake | 1030 | 40 | 37 | 135 |
| Big Mac, fries, shake | 1100 | 40 | 41 | 143 |
| Big Mac | 550 | 21 | 32 | 45 |
| Quarter pounder | 420 | 25 | 19 | 37 |
| Hamburger | 260 | 14 | 9 | 30 |
| French fries | 180 | 3 | 10 | 20 |
| Chocolate shake | 315 | 9 | 8 | 51 |
| Burger King | | | | |
| Whopper, fries, shake | 1200 | 40 | 47 | 147 |
| Whopper | 630 | 29 | 35 | 50 |
| Whopper, Jr. | 285 | 16 | 15 | 21 |
| Double hamburger | 325 | 24 | 15 | 24 |
| Hamburger | 230 | 14 | 10 | 21 |
| French fries | 220 | 2 | 12 | 10 |
| Chocolate shake | 365 | 8 | 8 | 65 |
| Pizza Hut | | | | |
| 10-in. Supreme (cheese, tomato sauce, sausage, pepperoni, mushrooms, etc.) | 1200 | 72 | 35 | 152 |
| 10-in. pizza (cheese) | 1025 | 65 | 23 | 140 |
| Arthur Treacher's | | | | |
| 2-piece dinner (fish, chips, slaw) | 900 | 25 | 45 | 99 |
| 3-piece dinner (fish, chips, slaw) | 1200 | 55 | 64 | 101 |
| Kentucky Fried Chicken | | | | |
| 3-piece dinner (chicken, potatoes, roll, slaw) | 1000 | 55 | 55 | 71 |
| Dairy Queen | | | | |
| 4-oz. serving | 180 | 5 | 6 | 27 |
| Arby's | | | | |
| Sliced beef sand., 2 potato patties, slaw, shake | 1200 | 37 | 40 | 166 |

To maintain my 150 pounds, for instance, I need to eat 150 x 12 or 1,800 calories a day. Let's say I want to lose two pounds of fat a week. If one pound of fat equals 3,500 calories, I must eat a deficit of 7,000 calories over seven days. I can do this by eating 1,000 calories less a day (7 days x 1,000 calories = 7,000 calories a week).

Subtracting 1,000 from 1,800 gives me 800 calories, the amount I should be eating every day until I get to that ideal weight. Two pounds a week is about all you should expect to lose. The American Medical Association says "it is usually unwise to try to lose more than two pounds per week because rapid weight loss may leave you tired, grumpy and vulnerable to illness."

In addition to counting the number of calories you eat, you need to be sure you're getting certain amounts of protein, carbohydrate and fat. There are four calories in every gram of protein and in every gram of carbohydrate; there are nine calories in every gram of fat.

Following the Select Committee's guidelines, 12 percent of a balanced diet should be protein. Twelve percent of 800 calories is 96; divided by four calories per gram means I can eat 24 grams of protein each day. If carbohydrate makes up the recommended 58 percent of my diet, I can eat 116 grams of starches and sugars (58 percent of 800 calories is 464; divided by four calories per gram is 116 grams). Fat, at 30 percent of the diet, comes to 26.6 grams (30 percent of 800 calories is 240; divided by nine calories per gram is 26.6 grams). My diet plan now looks like this:

| | |
|---|---|
| Protein, 24 grams | 96 cal. (12%) |
| Carbohydrate, 116 grams | 464 cal. (58%) |
| Fat, 26.6 grams | 240 cal. (30%) |

There's one problem with the diet thusfar: There's not enough protein. According to the Recommended Daily Allowance established by the National Academy of Sciences—National Research Council, I should be eating a minimum of 55 grams of protein a day (women, because of statistically smaller builds, need less—46 grams). I need to add more protein, and to do this, I'll take from carbohydrate. Here is the adjusted, final outline of my reducing diet:

| | |
|---|---|
| Protein, 55 grams | 220 cal. (27.5%) |
| Carbohydrate, 85 grams | 340 cal. (42.5%) |
| Fat, 27 grams | 243 cal. (30%) |
| Total | 803 cal. (100%) |

Once you've worked out a guide like this for yourself, the next step is to look up foods and figure out how to spend those grams and calories. You will soon see that there are very few foods which are pure protein or pure carbohydrate. Most foods are mixtures of these two, plus fat. There are also totally fat foods, such as butter, margarine, lard and salad oils.

Get a copy of the Nutritive Value of Foods from the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402 for 85 cents. Another good reference is Jean Carper's The Brand Name Nutrition Counter (Bantam, $1.95).

You'll find that a cup of cottage cheese costs you 233 calories, for which you get 28.6 grams of protein, 6.1 grams of carbohydrate and 8.8 grams of fat.

A cup of plain yogurt is 125 calories, which yields eight grams of protein, 13 grams of carbohydrate and four grams of fat.

A cup of canned beans with sliced frankfurters is 365 calories, which gives 19 grams of protein, 32 grams of carbohydrate and 18 grams of fat.

Now, if you live in a dorm or house and get your meals there, you probably can't make up the menu. But all is not lost. You can select from what is offered. That includes not eating dishes, such as desserts. If you can, get a copy of each week's menu plan, analyze the meals in advance and pick and choose in cool deliberation, rather than in the heated temptation of the food line. Also, if you ask, your kitchen may prepare low-calorie dishes. If you cook for yourself or eat out, you can exercise complete control of your diet. And if you're in the habit of frequenting fast-food chains, we've included an analysis of what is served there.

You may be thinking by now that this do-it-yourself diet is too hard to do. Far easier, you may think, to simply swallow liquid protein, or follow Atkins or Stillman, or simply fast.

Wrong.

For a svelte figure, you need something that will not only get your weight down, but keep it down. That requires a way of eating you can follow the rest of your life. Stay away from any diet that is not well-rounded. A vegetarian diet is okay, if you know how to mix the proteins. But diets that are no-carbohydrate, or only meat-and-fish, or high-fat are all dangerous. The best diet is one that limits your calories while maintaining a balanced combination of protein, carbohydrate and fat. □

---

Theodore Berland, a frequent lecturer on dieting, is the author of 10 books, including Rating the Diets and The Acupuncture Diet.

10 Diets Good and Bad

Diets can come in some exotic forms and make wildly incredible claims—and who are we to resist the plan that lets us eat or drink all we want of a particular food and still lose weight quickly, effortlessly and without any feelings of hunger? Most people find it difficult to pass up the quick-weight-loss promises of the fad diets for the more tedious programs of counting calories, but the fact is only few diet plans work well over the long run—and the fad diets are not among them. Here is a look at 10 popular diet plans with a discussion of why they do or do not work.

Fasting. Many people think fasting is the quickest way to lose weight, and it is true that some very overweight people can lose as much as one pound a day on a doctor-supervised fast. Any fast beyond a day or two can be dangerous, however, and even those first few days will be uncomfortable—people report feeling hungry and listless and often complain of accompanying headache.

Zen Macrobiotic Diet. This phony, dangerous diet has nothing to do with Zen Buddhism. Invented by the late George Ohsawa, the macrobiotic diet progresses through six increasingly severe stages, the final diet consisting of only brown rice and tea. Frederick J. Stare, M.D., of Harvard University's Department of Nutrition has called it "the most dangerous fad diet around" because it lacks most vitamins as well as the critically necessary mineral, iron.

Liquid or Powdered Protein Diets. This fad started as a beauty-shop diet marketed as NaturSlim, a powder you add to skim milk for breakfast and lunch. When you add a sparse dinner, you eat about 750 calories a day. Then came The Last Chance Diet by Dr. Robert Linn and Sandra Lee Stuart and liquid "predigested" protein, Prolinn, originally sold only to doctors. Now it and imitators are sold in drug stores. While it can take weight off fast, it is neither complete nutrition nor the sort of food you can live on for long.

Dr. Atkins' Super Energy Diet. This is an extension of the earlier Dr. Atkins' Diet Revolution which lets you eat as much protein and fat as you want but initially no carbohydrate. This high-protein diet puts your body into a state of ketosis, which can be dangerous to diabetics and hard on the kidneys. The initial weight loss is mostly a loss of body water, and eliminating carbohydrate makes most people feel lethargic.

Dr. Stillman's Quick Weight Loss. He may be dead, but his poultry, fish, cheese and eggs diet lives on. It is called the "water diet" because you must drink at least eight glasses of water a day to flush out your kidneys. It is basically another low-carbohydrate diet that has the same risks and problems of fatigue as Atkins' diets above.

Low-Carbohydrate Diets. You can realize weight loss by a sensible combination of calorie-counting and low-carbohydrate eating. First, your total calories should not exceed the number necessary to lose weight. Then, in distributing those calories among protein, carbohydrate and fat, allot 50 but not more than 60 grams to carbohydrate; limit your fat consumption to under 30 grams; and the remaining calories should be protein. Your initial loss will be water, but after several weeks, you will see real weight loss.

High-Fiber Diets. According to proponents, if you load your diet with high-fiber foods which include certain vegetables, fruits and grains—unprocessed miller's bran supposedly being the best source—this will speed digested foods through your intestines and thus minimize the chance your body has to absorb calorie-containing nutrients. Nonsense. But such diets do fill you up and give you "regular" bowel movements.

Acupuncture Diet. The internal organs have essential nerves which form branches that emerge under the skin in different parts of the body. Acupuncture stimulates these nerve branches, sending signals through the main nerve to the organ itself. Acupuncture cannot cause you to lose weight, but it can control feelings of hunger. Treatments are usually performed by a physician.

Vegetarian Diet. You can lose weight and keep it off by giving up meat. But you have to know how to mix vegetable proteins (such as rice and beans, or peanut butter and bread), and be sure you get Vitamin $B_{12}$ to stay healthy.

TOPS, Weight Watchers, Diet Workshop, Overeaters Anonymous. All of these diet groups can help you—providing you stick with them. They offer the best diets, the best advice and the best support from fellow dieters. There is an evangelical fervor at many of their meetings, but the person who is secure enough to see the praise and criticism for what it is—namely, reinforcement to keep to your diet—will not be turned off by the theatrics.

Want to know more? Send us the card.

Ford Fairmont 2-Door Sedan

F-100 Custom Flareside

Ford Mustang II T-Roof Convertible

Ford Thunderbird

Ford Free Wheeling Bronco

Ford Free Wheeling Van shown with owner-added stripes

Ford LTD II with Sports Appearance Package

Ford Pinto Runabout With Accent Stripe Group

Ford Fiesta

Postage
Will be Paid
by Addressee

First Class
Permit No. 152
Plymouth, Michigan

BUSINESS REPLY MAIL

No Postage Stamp Necessary If Mailed in the United States

Ford Motor Company
P.O. Box No. 1000
Plymouth, Michigan 48170

Ford thinks it's a better idea to give you more information about your choice of cars, pick-ups and vans.

Check boxes for catalogues on:

☐ Fiesta
☐ Fairmont
☐ Pinto
☐ Mustang II
☐ Granada
☐ LTD II
☐ Thunderbird
☐ LTD
☐ Ford Station Wagons
☐ Courier

Ford Trucks and Vans:

☐ Pick-ups
☐ Econoline Vans
☐ Ranchero
☐ Bronco 4 X 4 Utility Vehicle

All information is free, without obligation.

Name: ____________________

Street: ____________________

City: __________ State: __________ Zip: __________

Feeling Good:

16 Ways To Get in Touch with Your Body

A growing number of young people are looking for ways to feel more at home inside their bodies. This has triggered a new surge of interest in exploring both ancient Eastern disciplines and newer Western methods of working with the body. These systems are often grouped under the umbrella term of "sensory awareness"—the process of tuning in to the body's needs and sensations.

As many experts tell it, our emotions, attitudes and past experiences are all linked to physical responses in the body. Often, we ignore these body messages until serious illness or breakdown occurs. It's as if the body and the mind were tied together by a fragile cord and slowly wandering in opposite directions. Eventually, the body yanks on that cord with a sharp dose of pain or disease to finally grab the mind's attention. Sensory awareness systems aim to avoid these crisis messages by keeping mind and body in constant communication. The idea is to help the body put through a continuous flow of signals about its need for food, rest and exercise—while the mind sends back its own signals to control the body's functions and stir up new reserves of strength and energy.

Because the vast majority of these methods are rooted in centuries-old Chinese, Japanese and Indian philosophies, the same basic techniques tend to surface again and again. For instance, deep breathing, stretching exercises and mental concentration to relax various body parts are techniques used in dozens of body systems. Overall, these systems tend to fall into several distinct categories of body-working methods—from massage to martial arts. Here's a microview of some of the most popular approaches to bringing mind and body back together:

Movement

BIOENERGETICS. Alexander Lowen based his bioenergetics system on the theories of psychologist Wilhelm Reich. Reich believed that in growing up each person develops a "character armor" of past experiences which are reflected in his postures and movements. This means that past traumas and frustrations remain locked up in the body, preventing free and easy movement. Lowen developed a series of exercises to break down this character armor. For example, arching the body in forward and backward bows is used to bring new awareness of sensations, while deep breathing and body tremors release tension. Lowen also used a series of sharp, active movements such as striking a bed or couch and kicking or flailing with the arms. These actions help the person recall his childish ability to abandon himself to movement and release emotions physically instead of keeping them bottled up inside.

Since Lowen first developed his methods, the term bioenergetics has been broadened to include a variety of approaches, from movement by the individual to manipulation of the body by a trainer or healer. However, the major goal remains the same—to unblock tensions and patterns of behavior which interfere with the free, open use of the body.

FUNCTIONAL INTEGRATION. This movement system, invented by physicist Moshe Feldenkrais, concentrates on controlling body functions and alleviating stress. More than a thousand elaborate exercises, each with approximately 40 variations, are designed to help the student develop precise awareness of the operation of his body. He learns how to monitor the flexing of his muscles, control his breathing and feel many other body functions. The aim, according to Feldenkrais, is to organize your own body to work with minimum effort and maximum efficiency.

Most of the exercises are performed laying down. A student typically begins his session by checking where and how various parts of his body touch the floor. From here, exercises are done slowly, with no straining or effort. Some movements are performed totally inside the mind, like a mental rehearsal of activity. Those who have tried the method report heightened awareness of body functions and elimination of stiff, tight muscles. It's also possible to relieve a lot of your anxiety about future events by using the technique of mentally performing things ahead of time.

YOGA. Yoga, a Hindu discipline which dates back to prehistoric times, is probably the world's oldest system of physical and mental development. The word yoga means "union"—the linking of mental and physical energy with prana, the universal life force. The unusual contortions most often associated with yoga are actually part of one branch of the discipline called Hatha yoga. Hatha yoga combines a number of postures, or asanas, with pranayamas, or breathing techniques, to promote relaxed concentration and a flow of energy through the body.

Most Hatha yoga classes teach about 12 to 15 postures which are performed sitting, standing or lying down. The asanas emphasize the spinal cord, which according to ancient philosophy, contains the seven chakras, or essential psychic energies. Each posture is supposed to stretch—but not strain—the body, and students learn to assume many of these positions for extended periods of time as an aid to concentration. Few muscles are left untouched as the body is limbered and relaxed.

ZEN SPORTS. Zen and yoga concepts of relaxed concentration have filtered through to the sweaty world of tennis and other Western sports. A leading guru here is Tim Gallwey, author of The Inner Game of Tennis. In his tennis clinics, Gallwey tries to get his pupils to take their conscious, critical selves off the front lines and let their inner selves take over.

In brief, the main idea is this: the harder you try, the less effectively you perform. Your inner, nonverbal, instinctual self knows better than your nervous, nagging, conscious mind how to field that ball. Gallwey teaches a series of exercises designed to release this instinctual response and let the tennis player move without constantly monitoring, criticizing and worrying about his next action.

A similar approach appears in Eugene Herrigel's Zen and the Art of Archery, in which the student must struggle to let "it"—his instinct—shoot the arrow straight. A scientific explanation of this mystical-sounding process is that this technique quiets the verbal, critical right-hand side of the brain, allowing the nonverbal left side which usually guides body movement to take over and control your play.

Massage

SHIATSU. Shiatsu, which literally means "finger pressure" is a Japanese method of massage based on the fact that when you experience pain, the instinctual response is to rub the place that hurts. Shiatsu specialists explain that the body manufactures energy to contract the muscles by converting nutrients into glycogen and combining this with oxygen. This produces a residue of lactic acid, which can accumulate in muscles during times of fatigue to create improper muscle contractions and illness. Shiatsu finger pressure on an improperly contracted muscle can supposedly cause most of this lactic acid build-up to convert to glycogen—eliminating the painful contraction.

Shiatsu uses the thumbs, fingers and palms of the hands. Treating a specific illness usually requires pressure at some point near the body part that's ailing. Sometimes, however, pressure is applied to distant areas; pressure on the soles of the feet may be used to relieve kidney problems, while pressure on the left hand is supposed to strengthen the heart. Each pressure lasts only a few seconds and usually produces a sensation midway between pleasure and pain.

DO'IN. Do'In is self-massage, an ancient method of diagnosing and quick-curing body ills which started as a secret teaching in the Orient. Do'In teaches that the universal energy force called the ki is received at various pressure points along your body. When you're at the peak of health, ki is circulating freely; when an organ malfunctions, ki is not properly distributed and points along the body become painful. Gentle Do'In massage uses deep, sustained pressure with the flat surface of the thumb in a circular rotation to release accumulated energy at pressure points and get it flowing smoothly through the body.

Practice of Do'In encourages students to become fully attuned to minor body dysfunctions before they become major ones. This discipline of self-awareness eventually becomes second nature, leading the individual to eat more sensibly and behave in ways that are less stressful to the body.

REFLEXOLOGY. A Western cousin of shiatsu and Do'In, reflexology concentrates its massage techniques on the soles of the feet. According to this theory, nerve endings in the feet correspond to the 10 different zones of the body which contain various organs. With several seconds of pressure to the correlating point on the soles of the feet, pain in a malfunctioning organ can be relieved. With continuing regular use of reflexology, problems can be spotted and treated before a serious malfunction can surface.

Different amounts of pressure are supposed to produce different reactions. The overall goals of the treatment are to relax nerve tension, increase circulation of the blood and lymphatic system, and help the body throw off the various poisons it accumulates through daily living.

ROLFING. It's not easy to believe, but more than 30,000 people have paid about $40 a session to be pulled, stretched, even tormented by rolfing masseurs. Developed by Dr. Ida Rolf and based on the theories of Wilhelm Reich, rolfing breaks down "character armor" with deep-muscle massage that can often be extremely painful.

The idea is that through this process you re-experience material from your past that has been tying you in knots—a bit like having your life flash before your eyes. Once experienced, those anxieties are supposedly gone for good, leaving the body loose, alive and ready for new encounters.

Legitimate rolfing masseurs generally have a good working knowledge of human anatomy and are trained to know where the process will help and where it will do serious damage to body tissue. That's why it's always important to choose a skillful practitioner.

Coordinating Mind/Body Signals

RELAXATION RESPONSE. Dr. Herbert Benson's concept of the "relaxation response" is designed to provide everyday relief for the anxieties of our achievement-oriented, hyped-up, pressure-ridden society. Tension or stress produces a "fight or flight" response in the body originally designed to help primitive man fight off saber-toothed tigers and related problems. In our modern, highly stressful society, that response is produced so often that it causes illness and disease. According to Benson, each of us also possesses a natural mechanism which allows us to turn off this fight or flight response and its harmful effects.

To produce the relaxation response, Benson suggests that the individual pick a calm, quiet environment, kick off his shoes, loosen any tight clothing and sit in a comfortable chair. He should then let the mind float along, refusing to focus in on any noises or other distractions. The next step is to repeat a calming mental device—such as a word, phrase, prayer or meaningless sound—spoken silently in the mind or in a slow, gentle tone with each exhalation. Practicing this response for 10 to 20 minutes a day can result in decreased oxygen consumption, lower blood pressure, slower heart rate and an all-over sense of well-being. This exercise is essentially a form of meditation. Packaged somewhat differently, it's also practiced by students of Transcendental Meditation and Zen Buddhism.

CHRONOBIOLOGY. Most people operate on some type of cyclic pattern—eating, sleeping, working and playing on a regular schedule. We become more aware of this if we suddenly upset the pattern by taking a jet trip or staying up too late. Now there's a good deal of clinical evidence that the pattern goes a whole lot deeper: temperature, heartbeat, blood pressure, cell division and other body functions apparently respond to definite sets of rhythms. Short-term rhythms with a cycle of 90 to 100 minutes are called ultradian rhythms, and rhythms repeated with a 24-hour period are called circadian.

Chronobiologists believe that awareness of your own specific and personal biorhythms can help explain why you are up sometimes for no apparent reason and down at other times. More importantly, it can help you plan your personal schedule in order to work, study and rest at the most efficient times. At the moment, no one is quite sure what controls the intensity and duration of biorhythms. However, you can roughly chart your own pattern by keeping a physiological record for a few weeks, noting variations in such things as temperature, mood, energy or sleepiness. You can then use these notes to work out your own best daily schedule.

INTENSIVE JOURNAL THERAPY. Dr. Ira Progoff has developed Intensive Journal Workshops which place special emphasis on what he calls "dialogs with the body." According to Progoff, our emotions, hopes and deep inner experiences are connected in our minds with body movements. Participants in his workshops list "steppingstone" memories of the body such as being tossed in the air by a playful father, looking up at a tall adult and thinking how small you are, running in the snow, playing games, breaking a leg, seeing a sunset, dancing, sweating, swimming, fighting, making love or climbing a mountain.

The student is taught to see his body as an inner person who receives these experiences. By carrying on a mental dialog with this inner person and keeping a written record of the conversation, the student gets some insight into his own feelings about his body.

BIOFEEDBACK. This is a technological answer to getting in touch with your body. The method uses various machines to feed a subject biological information about his muscle tension, heartbeat, blood pressure—even his brain waves. Using this information, the individual is trained to mentally direct his muscles or body functions to relax or perform more efficiently.

Biofeedback training has been used to regulate hypertension, help people enter different states of consciousness and even retrain damaged nerve systems. A muscle often used in biofeedback is the frontalis muscle in the forehead. A subject is hooked up to a machine which measures tension in this muscle and gives visual or audible signals to relax. With the help of this precise, instantaneous information, you can be trained to mentally control your own tension level more quickly than you could without mechanical monitoring. Similar training is now used to improve athletic skills.

Martial Arts

T'AI CHI CH'UAN. T'ai chi ch'uan, sometimes called "Meditation in Motion," is an ancient system of health-giving exercises rooted in Chinese religious teachings. Literally translated as "the ultimate principle," it plays out the Chinese Yin-Yang concept of balance between opposing forces with the slow, continuous shift of body weight from one leg to another.

T'ai chi looks like a graceful, effortless ballet, especially if you watch a class moving through the forms in unison. Although some t'ai chi styles can be used for combat at advanced levels, the discipline is most often practiced for exercise and relaxation. There are 128 movements, traditionally practiced at dawn and dusk. Many carry exotic names such as "White Snake Sticks Out Tongue" or "Golden Cock Stands on One Leg." An abbreviated version of these movements is performed by millions each day in the Peoples' Republic of China. The exercises, which are a whole lot harder than they look, stress balance and slow, fluid motion. It takes several months to learn the shortest set of movements and many years to master the technique.

A related practice is kung fu, which is actually a Chinese term for any form of task or exercise. The martial art known as kung fu to Westerners uses circular motions similar to t'ai chi forms but delivered with much greater speed and force, and directed against an opponent. Students of kung fu learn to lunge for the vulnerable spots on the opponent's body as they strengthen their own pressure points and sharpen their reflexes. Punches, kicks and blocks are practiced in dance-like sets. Some kung fu styles such as the Eagle Claw teach scratching and gouging techniques, while others, like the Northern Praying Mantis, teach swordplay and quarterstaff combat. Like t'ai chi, the art takes many years to learn.

JUJITSU AND JUDO. About 500 years ago in feudal Japan, samurai warriors perfected jujitsu into an empty-handed form of combat. Literally translated as "gentleness practice," jujitsu was first used in battle and later taught as a character-building discipline which fused mental concentration with physical force. The art of judo, an offshoot of jujitsu, was developed in the 19th century as a competitive sport. Later on, a hybrid of judo, jujitsu and other martial arts forms was introduced in the United States as Kodenkan jujitsu, which is taught today.

In both judo and jujitsu, the student advances through a system of colored belts—white for beginners through black for experts. A white-belt student spends a lot of time learning to fall down, with the sharp smack of the arm against the mat to break his fall. Graceful body rolls bring him up again into a combat stance. Grappling, throwing and escape techniques are taught with quick, fluid movements. Most students of judo and jujitsu say they gradually develop more flexibility and quicker reflexes.

KARATE. After World War II, GI's brought the Okinawan art of karate to the United States. As in jujitsu, judo, and aikido, karate students dress in the white pajama-like gi and work up through a ranking system of colored belts. Easier to learn than other Oriental martial arts, karate uses sharp kicks and punches designed to strike and retreat in a single motion. Unlike the circular forms of kung fu or the wedging and grappling techniques of jujitsu, karate stresses straight, rigid blows which emphasize speed and balance. A bellowing "kiai" sound accompanies a blow to clear the diaphragm and summon extra force to the attack.

Karate movements are practiced in dance-like sets called katas. In common with all the Oriental martial arts, the coordination of mind and body is especially important. The student is often taught to concentrate on "seeing through" an object, imagining his hand or foot making contact and passing through that object.

Because it only takes a few months to learn the basics, karate is sometimes used as a self-defense tool. However, most experts agree that unless you're very proficient, you shouldn't rely on karate to save you from an attacker. The art is most useful as a way of developing strength, power and control over the body.

AIKIDO. Aikido, invented about 30 years ago in Japan, is probably the most nonviolent of all the Oriental martial arts. Rather than use force against an attacker, the student is trained to sense the direction of an opponent's force and use that momentum to throw him off balance.

Aikido is usually taught in pairs. Students lunge and parry in quick, circular movements, using deft twists and dodges to avoid the impact of an attack. Aikido means "way of harmonizing with the spirit of the universe," and teachers say its graceful, yielding movements help students react more calmly to any form of stress or tension. Like most martial arts, aikido takes a lot of time to master, but nerve conditioning benefits often show up very quickly. ☐

This article was prepared with the assistance of Nathaniel Lande and Afton Slade, author and chief researcher of Mindstyles/Lifestyles (Price/Stern/Sloan, 1976, $7.95).

A Reading List

- Benson, Herbert, The Relaxation Response, (New York, Avon, 1976, $1.95). Facts about stress and hypertension are combined with simple techniques for daily meditation.
- Brown, Barbara, New Mind, New Body, (New York, Bantam, 1975, $2.50). Brown draws on her own experiments in biofeedback training to show how an individual can control a wide array of body functions, from muscle tension to brain waves.
- Feldenkrais, Moshe, Awareness Through Movement, (New York, Harper and Row, 1972, $6.95). The author's Functional Integration method for improving posture and personal awareness is condensed into 12 easy-to-do exercise lessons.
- Gallwey, W. Timothy, The Inner Game of Tennis, (New York, Random House, 1974, $7.95). Gallwey explains his Zen-based theory of letting your inner self take over on the court.
- Irwin, Yukiko, and James Wagenvoord, Shaitzu, (New York, Lippincott, 1976, $5.95). This fully illustrated guide to shiatsu gives detailed instructions for massaging away physical disorders.
- Lowen, Alexander, Bioenergetics, (New York, Penguin, 1976, $2.50). An in-depth statement of bioenergetic techniques which also tells how the method can cure physical ailments ranging from chronic headaches to lower back pain.
- Progoff, Ira, At a Journal Workshop, (New York, Dialogue House Library, 1975, $12.50). This is a basic guide to using the Intensive Journal.
- Van Lysebeth, Andre, Yoga Self-Taught, (New York, Barnes and Noble, 1973, $2.95). Step-by-step instructions are given to Hatha yoga postures and breathing techniques.

Economy with kicks.
The 1978 Ford Pinto.

Pinto 2-Door Sedan with Rallye Appearance Package

Who said economy cars have to look cheap?
Pinto is loaded with style—dazzling colors, options, and performance that really steps out.
See your Ford Dealer for the economy car with kicks.

39 mpg highway
27 mpg city

1977 EPA estimates: With 2.3 litre engine, manual transmission, 2.73 axle, without air conditioning, power steering, and brakes. Your actual mileage will vary depending on your car's condition, optional equipment, and how and where you drive. Calif. and high altitude ratings lower. 1978 EPA estimates were unavailable when this ad was released for publication. See your Ford Dealer for 1978 EPA ratings.

FORD
PINTO
FORD DIVISION

Ford
75th ANNIVERSARY

More Power to You!

Beat Fatigue with This High-Energy Rx

Diana Dynamo is the kind of person who leaps out of bed at 7 a.m., jumps into the shower, and positively bounces into her 8 o'clock class. Aha, you say, a morning person. Not so. Diana Dynamo is a perpetual motion machine, all day long. She is always bursting with energy, alive and animated, sparkling with wit and full of good cheer. As evening falls and other mortals are winding down, D.D. is just getting her second wind. There's so much more to do—supper, visitors to entertain, Frisbee or softball games before dark, plus homework. And in her spare time, D.D. manages to devour an average of three movies and two books every week.

Where does she get all her energy, you wonder, as you drag out of bed, barely pull yourself together and heave your bone-tired body to class?

You may find this hard to believe, but you probably have just as much energy as Diana Dynamo. The difference is that D.D. is maximizing her personal energy supplies.

You can use your own energy resources to better advantage, too. The payoff is tremendous. When you drag, life drags; a good movie bores you, lively books put you to sleep, gourmet food tastes bland and your best friends seem irrelevant. But when you feel energetic, life is fun for you and you are fun for others.

Converting low-energy drag to high-energy enjoyment is not as simple as swallowing a pill or taking a patent medicine. Your personal energy is found, or lost, in many different aspects of your life.

To understand this, visualize yourself as a whole system. Just as in an ecological life chain, every part of your system is interlocked with other parts. A change in one affects others, and not always in obvious ways. It's pretty clear, for example, that getting less than three hours of sleep will leave you less than peppy the next day. But did you ever think that there could be a connection between fatigue and concerns about your love life? Or that a change in eating habits could possibly make you feel sleepy at odd times?

The links of your system that affect your energy level fall into three broad components: the physical, the emotional and the attitudinal. Maximizing your personal energy means bringing all three components into harmony.

1. Get Your Body in Good Working Order

It's easy to see that your physical condition affects your energy level in a multitude of ways. For instance, doctors say that the people who are most likely to report fatigue are the very fat and the very thin—overeaters and undereaters. Overeating puts extra weight on your frame, which increases the burden on muscles and organs and tends to wear them out faster. Undernourishment short-changes the system of its basic needs for daily functioning. Crash diets or occasional fasts can be physically exhausting simply because they don't provide the system with enough energy supply to keep it going normally.

Quality counts as well as quantity. Junk food can provide quick bursts of energy. For more sustained efforts, though, such as a full day of attending classes or thinking through a term paper, your system needs protein and vitamins and minerals and all those other good nutrients.

Sleep also has a direct effect on energy. You need some, though it's impossible to say how much is enough and how much is too much. Everyone's sleep needs are different. To gauge what's proper for your system's needs, some experts suggest you keep a record of how much you sleep during a vacation period, when you're not tied down to a fixed schedule or an insistent alarm clock.

Air is a body fuel that most people take for granted. It is essential to the workings of all the internal organs, particularly the heart and brain. Obviously you're getting enough air to live on, but increasing your air intake makes the body organs work better and increases energy.

One way to enhance your air supply is through the deep breathing routines taught in yoga. Another way is exercise. During a hard workout the body takes in more oxygen and circulates it through the bloodstream rapidly. Exercise requires you to expend energy, but it pays it back with interest. You may feel "worn out" right after a hard run or a fast set of tennis, but the extra oxygen will make you more alert and vital for hours and will build up your total energy reserves. Many experts claim, in fact, that exercising is the single most beneficial thing you can do to beat fatigue.

Some physical factors can drain off the system's energy supply. Drug use falls into this category. Even mild stimulants such as caffeine and tobacco sap away energy. After producing short-term alertness, they let you down harder than they brought you up. The highs of stronger stimulants, such as amphetamines, are always followed by a severe "crash." What stimulants do is agitate the nervous system, so that you use the same amount of energy in less time. But they do not add extra energy to the system.

Depressants, on the other hand, anesthetize the nerves and reduce the system's overall efficiency. Alcohol, sleeping pills and tranquilizers are all drains on your energy, as you'll acknowledge if you recall your last hangover.

2. Minimize the Effects of Emotional Strain

The physical component of energy is the most obvious, but often it is the least significant. Doctors estimate that four out of five patients who complain of fatigue are in fact complaining about an emotional problem, not a physical one.

Stress is a major factor. Stress is a necessary part of our lives and an important survival mechanism, but often it is channeled destructively into *dis*tress.

Like your prehistoric ancestors, you frequently respond to personal threats or loss with the "fight or flight" response—muscles tense, breath quickens, the heart pounds and adrenalin rushes into the bloodstream to provide extra strength. Unlike the cave dweller, you often have no outlet for this response—nowhere to run, nobody to fight. So stress stays inside, wearing you down not only as fatigue but also as headaches, ulcers, asthma, low back pain and heart disease.

Anxiety is closely related to stress. Everyone experiences anxiety at some time. You worry about things in the future, about what other people think of you, about whether you will succeed or fail, about how you measure up to others in looks or abilities (or energy level), about whether you are lovable and loving. Worrying takes a lot of energy. You may also feel it in such physical forms as nervousness, insomnia, irritability, lack of concentration or sexual dysfunction.

When anxiety turns into feelings of frustration or futility, the result is another emotional energy drain, depression. Depression may stem from your attempts to lead an independent adult life, to be a good student, to be a social success, to live up to other people's expectations. When you feel helpless and worthless and lonely and beaten, you also feel exhausted. Depression often is manifest as a loss of interest in any activity, loss of appetite, headache, sleeplessness or nausea.

The emotional component of fatigue does not lend itself to quick fixes and instant cures (though some sufferers turn to drugs with exactly that in mind). But there are a few things that you can do to help release the energy you are investing in stress, worry and feeling blue.

One is exercise. Stress that has no outlet leaves behind tense muscles, high blood pressure and shortness of breath. Exercise releases the "fight or flight" mechanism as it was intended to be released—fleeing down the cinder track, beating a tennis ball's brains out, taking a punching bag to lunch, swimming, or whatever happens to be your favorite vigorous activity. Exercise drains tension from the muscles and acts as a soothing tranquilizer (in addition to restoring alertness as mentioned earlier).

It also takes care of the high blood pressure and shortness of breath, if you exercise regularly enough to build up your heart and lungs. (This is covered in more detail in the article on page 4.)

Another way to counter stress is through relaxation. Deep relaxation techniques, such as those taught in yoga and Transcendental Meditation, turn off the "fight or flight" response by quieting the nervous system that triggered the response. At the same time, relaxation allows your mind a break. By taking a few minutes to let your mind go blank, you can release the energy that you were spending dealing with worry and depression. Practitioners of all the relaxation techniques claim they gain renewed alertness as well as physical rest.

3. Get Totally Involved in What You Do

The third component of personal energy, attitude, is probably the most crucial. It falls into place, however, only if the physical and emotional components are in shape. It is attitude which separates the Diana Dynamos of this world from the rest of us. They always seem to be having fun. Even when they are elbow deep in "work," they take to it with the enthusiasm of children elbow deep in a mud puddle.

What makes something fun? Psychologist Mihaly Csikszentmihalyi recently theorized that we experience joy in those moments when we are totally involved in what we do—so involved that we lose all sense of time and of things going on around us. We even lose any sense of ourselves; we become one with the activity and experience a sense that everything is "right." He calls these moments "flow."

Psychologist Abraham Maslow called those moments the "peak experience" and noted that in those moments we become "spontaneous, coordinated, efficient" organisms functioning so effortlessly that we are almost playing.

Diana Dynamo is a powerhouse of energy because she is at play, not at work. That's easy enough to understand. You may be very tired from hours of studying biology, but notice how swiftly you find reserves of hidden strength when somebody suggests a spontaneous party!

More significant, perhaps, energy results from the ability to focus attention on one thing at a time. This is critical to the "flow" or "peak experience," and it's a difficult skill to master. You have plenty of energy, but most of the time it is being dissipated in several directions at once. While reading, you may be listening to the radio, waiting for a telephone call from a friend, worrying about your grades, planning your next weekend.

Boredom is an inability or unwillingness to become actively involved or totally immersed in anything. When you are bored, you feel alienated and apart. Boredom is terribly fatiguing.

Involvement and focused concentration are not fatiguing; they are vitalizing. They represent the highest use of energy—channeled full-strength without restraints.

To maximize your energy, you must either be able to commit yourself totally to the enjoyment of what you are doing or else do something that you can enjoy. But it's all interrelated to the physical and emotional components, too; you can't really concentrate all your attention on one thing if your energy is being sapped by worry or tension. And you won't have any energy to concentrate if you're not getting enough sleep, food and air.

Energy? You have lots of it. All you have to do is develop it. ☐

Cobra bites man.
COBRA

Both live.

And once bitten, there is no known cure except a long, quick drive down a snake-like road where Cobra II can show off its rack and pinion steering. Not to mention the slithering four-speed stick-shift, and 2.3 litre engine. And with front/rear spoilers, black louvered back lite and quarter windows, hood scoop, sporty tires, wheels, (car shown with optional aluminum wheels) and stripes, this is one snake that doesn't have to shed its skin. So if you're looking for some snake bite remedy, see your local Ford Dealer.

FORD
When America needs a better idea, Ford puts it on wheels

FORD MUSTANG II
FORD DIVISION
Ford 75th ANNIVERSARY

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 35
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1977

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

Brian DeLima (Staff photo by Bob Higgins)

Senate speaker resigns

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

Undergraduate Student Senate Speaker Brian DeLima, in office for a year and six months, announced his resignation last night, effective in three weeks, so that he could devote more time to drafting senate proposals and to allow more people to become familiar with the workings of the senate through the position of Speaker.

In other business the Senate passed a constitutional amendment defining Third World students. A motion was also introduced by the Third World caucus to recall Senator Craig Sherwood, a white student elected on the Third World ballot. The legislators also approved Jeffrey Lutsky as Student Attorney General and agreed to allocate money for another trip to Kent State to protest the construction of a gym on the site where four students were killed by National Guardsmen in 1970.

DeLima announced his resignation three weeks in advance to give those interested in the job the necessary time to campaign and to allow the candidates to find out what the job of speaker encompasses.

DeLima promised to give a critique of the speakers activities. He noted problems of communication and a lack of coordination in the Senate.

"In my year and a half as speaker we dealt with a lot of issues superficially." DeLima said.

DeLima, a major proponent of student unionization, also spoke about the goal of empowerment.

"I don't think we ever made an attempt to organize this campus," DeLima said.

DeLima said the commuters had "not even been touched" by organizers and that union supporters had to start having apathetic students "making their voices heard."

As a senator, DeLima said he would be "making many proposals geared towards unionization."

The effort by the Third World caucus to add an amendment defining Third World students promoted a long and heated debate, before being passed 55-11 with 17 abstentions.

The amendment states "Third World people are African-Americans, Asian-Americans, Latinos, Native-American and

TURN TO PAGE 3

'Biohazard' group to oversee DNA research

By JOE MAGLITTA
Collegian Staff

The Amherst Town Meeting last night approved a combination of two earlier proposals — and added two more of its own — to set up a "biohazard" committee to oversee future recombinant DN A (deoxyribonucler acid) research in the area.

The final decision to set up a nine-member committee consisting of one-half scientists not involved in research and one-half townspeople selected by the Board of Selectmen came after two hours of debate.

In other action the assembly also approved 118-65 to establish a seven-member committee to investigate gun safety conditions in town; —approved 116-15 a zoning bylaw to extend the downtown business district;

—defeated 95-84 a proposal to allow zoning bylaw changes to allow limited business in another section of town; —unanimously voted to transfer improperly allocated teacher payroll funds into the correct amount;

—voted to transfer $10,000 in previously appropriated funds to the Conservation Commission for land purchase and options.

Under conditions of the final agreement passed by a 90-54 vote, the committee would deal with research requests on a case-by-case basis, instead of trying to set up overall policy for all research. The committee would be responsible for granting licenses to perform the proposed research and would report its findings to Town Meeting next year.

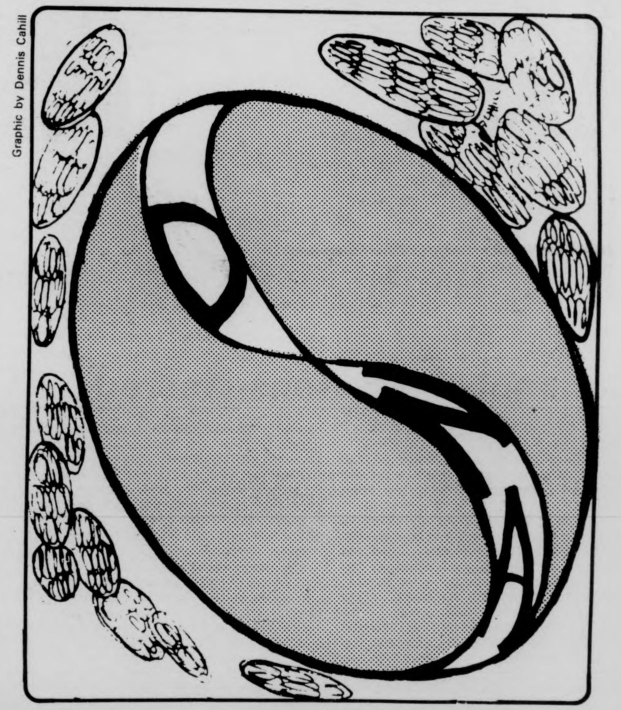
The original position, filed by Paul Newlin of the Coalition for Responsible Genetic Research, called for a 12 to 18 month moratorium on the research, sometimes called gene splitting, until a citizen's research committee to explore potential dangers could report to the May 1978 Town Meeting.

Coalition spokesman Marvin Kalkstein, of University Without Walls last night termed the compromise decision a "shotgun result", drawing analogy to a trial and error approach in recombinant DNA technology called a "shot gun experiment."

An amendment proposed by UMass botanist Otto Stein earlier in the evening advised the town to adopt guidelines "at least as rigorous" as those suggested by the National Institute of Health. Stein had earlier suggested "a more pragmatic approach" for dealing with individual requests, and outlined a committee composed of one-third Amherst laymen.

"They were idealistic, I was pragmatic. I think the final proposal is perfect. Now we caa get moving and start to consider some real situations," he said.

At present there is no recombinant DNA research being conducted at any of the three area colleges and universities. Officials at Amherst College and UMass say they have plans over the next few years to conduct the research, which takes the DNA, the genetic blueprint of heredity, from the organism and inplanting it in a lower life form.



Graphic by Dennis Cahill

Inside

On being gay

—Former professional football player Dave Kopay noted that many of the emotions he felt on the football field were similar to those "felt in the bedroom". Kopay spoke last night about his experiences on being gay in today's society. See Karen Parmenter's story on page 2.

In protest of racism

—UMass officials say no further investigations are taking place in connection with the recent cross burning incident outside the Blue Wall. But members of the Committee Against Racism demonstrated yesterday in protest of what they call "overt" racist acts in the area. Details on page 3.

Weather

No, its not the day of doom,
It's just the annual UMass monsoon.
But do not despair, the end comes soon,
There will be sun on Thursday afternoon.

Many people at UMass have claimed that chemistry is for the birds — but one would hardly expect to have this theory proved at Goessmann. (Staff photo by John Anderson)

Masculinity topic of talk by gay athlete

By KAREN PARMENTER
Collegian Staff

"What is total masculinity but male homosexuality?" Both gay and straight people, especially men may balk at the statement but for former National Football League player Dave Kopay, it is an undeniable truth.

Speaking to an audience of about 400 in the Student Union last night, Kopay said many of the emotions he had felt while playing football, often considered the most masculine of all sports, were the "same kind of passions you see in the bedroom."

Kopay said, "Often in sports, the idea of homosexuality is anathema, it doesn't exist. Yet it is shown to exist in jokes," referring to the locker room humor he said he encountered as a player.

Kopay publicly announced his homosexuality in 1975 in an interview in a Washington Star article on gay athletes. He has known other gay football players and wrote about some of them, using ficticious names, in his book The David Kopay Story, published earlier this year. The book was written in collaboration with author Perry Dean Young.

Kopay said since his book was published, he had received several letters from both professional and college athletes.

"There's a lot of people out there who say I'm a homosexual, and people say 'so what'. I don't have to worry for a few years but I feel responsible to speak out and say what I want. Others might speak out, but I don't know," he said.

Following the appearance of the Washington Star article, Kopay recalled several of his friendships with both gay and straight people which dissolved, even though many people had already known Kopay was gay.

Kopay related the story of one teammate who visited him in the hospital, following a knee operation. Kopay said, he didn't use the man's name in his book because his friend was running for public office.

But now that he is running for another office in San Francisco, which has a large gay community, he has asked Kopay for his public support.

In discussing the problem of informing others that one is gay, Kopay said, "Sure, there are a lot of people you can't come out to, but there are others. You have to come out to them and let them know." Asked about the way his parents reacted to his being gay, Kopay said "it was very emotional. My mother just went crazy. It was like a direct threat to her."

When the Washington Star article was printed, his father told Kopay "he felt degraded. He said he'd kill me, even though I know he didn't mean it."

In his book and in his speech, Kopay discussed his relationship with women. "Some people may get angry with me but I think I'm a latent heterosexual. We all have the ability to love both sexes. We're all sexual beings," Kopay said.

Kopay mentioned that he had often had sexual experiences involving both a man and woman at the same time and felt "very good" about these experiences.

During his football career, Kopay played for six teams, most notably for the Washington Redskins. Playing football, Kopay said he "never got into the violence of it. When you're on the field, it's a game of survival. It's a reason for the greatness of the game. It's healthy because you can control the violence.

Dave Kopay (Staff photo by Bob Higgins)

Dean addresses senate on Stockbridge activities

By MARTHA KIMBALL
Collegian Staff

John W. Denison, dean of the Stockbridge School of Agriculture, last night urged Stockbridge student senators to continue their leadership in the school, and updated various administrative proposals in the College of Food and Natural Resources affecting Stockbridge students.

A High School counseling program, the Massachusetts State Meal Tax, and Stockbridge activities was also discussed at last nights Stockbridge Senate meeting.

Denison explained a proposal sent to Dean Ross S. Whaley, of the College of Food and Natural Resources, to use people with less than Ph.D standing in the instructional program. "A full vote in the affirmative was given by the Stockbridge Educational Policies committee in a recent meeting," he said.

Quality education is the whole ball game. This is not a watering down proposition. We want to bring field experience to the students. The proposal involves going out into industry and bringing in knowledgeable persons to teach parts of courses related to their specialty. This will give better quality in our educational program," Denison said.

"The Lotta Crabtree Estate Agriculture Fund is rolling in good shape," Denison said. He explained they are interest free loans available to help young people getting started in agriculture. This fund is open to 2 and 4 year graduates. It will pull $100,000 per year back into agriculture, he said.

A high school student counseling program is being arranged by the senate. Stockbridge students will be sent to speak at high schools throughout the state on the Stockbridge curriculum and opportunities available at the school.

The senate voted unanimously to draft a letter in strong opposition to the Massachusetts State Meal Tax being instituted on the UMass Meal Ticket program.

Tickets are available in the Senate office for the Halloween Party to be held Oct. 27th at 8 p.m. in Grinnel Arena. Students and faculty charge is $1.50; guests are $2.

The previously proposed Stockbridge Fair has been postponed until spring due to lack of time to follow through with plans.

N.Y. Yankees
NYYANKS#1

There's always another season, another sport ... (Staff photo by Steve Nugent)

Commuter elections cleared

By SUSAN O'NEIL
Collegian Staff

A hearing scheduled for today by the Student Attorney General's office on the Commuter Collective elections has been cancelled.

The hearing was called after the Attorney General's office discovered that enough time had not been left between Commuter Collective nominations and elections, and the dates for nomination closings and elections had been incorrect in ads.

Lutsky emphasized that although the move had been requested by the Commuter Collective's advocate, the decision was his.

A statement released by Student Attorney General Jeff Lutsky, to the Commuter Collective stated, "Due to the unfortunate task of a transitional period occuring in the middle of your case, and the lack of communication between the outgoing Attorney General and your group, and the fact that procedural errors may have occured during your involvement with the Judiciary, I am dropping all charges against you, and this office will not continue to pursue your hearing.

The case against you scheduled for October 20, 1977 has been cancelled. However, I would like to take the time to admonish you for an unequitable and improper election. I feel that you did not ensure an equitable election for all parties concerned, but due to the above conditions I am upon request of your advocate Dan Salce dropping all charges levied against you."

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Mary Brown

| | |
|---|---|
| Asst. Issue Editor | Kathy Koffler |
| Wire Layout | Julia Linnell |
| Day Layout | Debbie Walters |
| Editorial Layout | Eileen Foley |
| Head Darkroom Tech | John Anderson |
| Photo Staff | Steven Nugent, Bob Higgins, Andy Bernstein |
| Ad Layout | Carol Hubbardsty |
| Monsoon Minstrel | PMC |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Prof defines socialism

By DON AUCOIN
Collegian Staff

In an attempt to arrive at a firm definition of socialism, a UMass Economics professor last night said socialism can be traced to "one basic concept; the emancipation of society from all forms of oppression."

Dr. Vaclav Holesovsky said, "any socialist who undercuts democracy is undermining the socialist movement... and is a fool or a scoundrel. MIne is definitely a minority point of view."

Speaking to a crowd of about 35 people in the Campus Center, Holesovsky said although "state capitalism of the Soviet brand has been going through some painful economic crises, the Western sector of capitalism helps Soviet capitalism get back on its feet again. We are pumping technology into the Soviet Union."

"Holesovsky also spoke about what he termed the "illegitimate" use of the word socialism.

"The name of socialism has been taken away by various forms of capitalism," he said, adding "the deep crisis of socialism can be reduced to the inability of the socialist movement to destroy the mythology of the left which parades state capitalism as socialism."

He denounced "the taking on, in European countries, of responsibilities which do not belong to socialists... which could be taken care of by bureaucrats."

Holesovsky also decried the tendency to "wait for Godot, wait for another Lenin." He called this tendency a "degenerate form of socialism."

Holesovsky said "a form of totalitarianism is awakening in Eastern Europe," and declared he doesn't believe in "the honesty of the leaders of Communism." He mentioned Czechoslovakian author Jiri Lederer; a dissident who was recently sentenced to 3 years in prison, was a former comrade in the Social Democratic Party. "This young man, who meant well.... had to go through twenty years in a totalitarian regime before he became a leader in the human rights program, and is now paying for it with his career," he said.

Holesovsky spoke of socialist leader Norman Thomas, saying Thomas "never understood the danger of fascism. He was an isolationist. How can a socialist be an isolationist?"

A socialist "must assume the burden of being a maverick" he said, adding one way to assuage the loneliness of such independence is to join an organization of "like-minded people."

Hadley Briefs

Tardy taxes collected

The Hadley Board of Selectmen at Tuesday night's meeting at Town Hall, said the list of delinquent taxpayers has been reduced from 51 to 34. These individuals have still not paid their water tax bills.

The board has decided that those persons who have not paid their water tax bill by the beginning of November will receive warnings in the mail to either pay or have their water shut off.

Board member Julian Fil said Hadley's own collector is doing his part to get tax delinquents to keep up with their payments.

The board is in favor of having a list of tax delinquents published in local newspapers but is waiting for the results of a similar Essex County court case. That case, which will take place later this month, will determine whether or not tax delinquent lists can be published in the city of Lynn. Its outcome will probably determine whether or not tax records can be published in this state.

Selectman Brian Glazier said the board is now primarily concerned with tax delinquents who have not paid their bills in some time.

RANDALL BARISH

---

Like an all day sentry, this wooden sculpture keeps its vigil on the balcony outside Crabtree dormitory. (Staff photo by John Anderson)

Unrepaired roof dampens dorm room

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

"The water is going down the side wall, drips on my desk and has made the carpet in my room a rancid and smelly mess," says Jennifer Rielly of Greenough dorm.

"Water is leaking down from the third floor, under our beds, leaving room 225 in a soaked unpleasant condition."

Rielly is not alone in her dilemma. A flooding problem has also turned up in Field and Grayson dorms on Orchard Hill, and Rielly says it seems to have steadily worsened since last semester.

Rielly took her complaint to Rick Bell, Greenough head of residence. Bell reported the problem to the Resource Management Center, and finally, the Physical Plant was made aware of the situation.

According to Bill Marren of the Physical Plant, the problem is caused by faulty metal components of the dorm roofs. During heavy rain showers, water is able to leak through ceilings and into dorm rooms.

"There have been people over here to survey the problem but nobody has really been here to repair it," Bell said.

Rielly said, "We were told our wall would be replastered and the carpet replaced or cleaned. But the leaking continues.

"There is about one-fourth of our room we cannot use. A couple of nights ago at 5 a.m. we had to move furniture and most of our personal belongings so they would not be wrecked," Rielly said.

Marren said, "The contractor began working on Field and Grayson last Friday. All the windows on the east side will have to be recaulked. As far as Greenough is concerned, the job went out to bid and a contractor was selected.

Alumni host job bank

By NIKKI ARONSON
Collegian Staff

All would-be politicians and corporate executives are invited to attend the second seminar offered by the Associate Alumni Job Skills Bank Program at 8 p.m. tonight in Campus Center rooms 804-808.

The session will offer the personal advice and experiences of five successful UMass alumni during a panel discussion. Topics of conversation will include tips on how to prepare for the job market and opportunities in business and political science related fields.

Ken Somers, assistant to the Director of Student Affairs, will moderate the panel discussion and host the informal wine and cheese gathering to be held at 9:30 p.m.

Participating for assistance with the Job Skills Program. Among the alumni involved in tonight's program are: John Comerford, director of the White House Conference on Economic Development; Peter Chisolm, Office of the Massachusetts Secretary of State; and Robert Dallmeyer, director of Public Relations for United Technologies.

Somers, who has been working in association with Ann Schewe, assistant director of Placement Services, created the program to aid seniors with career goals and options. The first seminar of the fall program, held last Thursday, attracted 50 students concerned with future employment in the areas of health and human services. A third seminar is planned for NOv. 10 to benefit those students who are less directed in their professional aims.

Returning alumni participating in the program will spend Thursday night in the Campus Center hotel. A tour of the campus is scheduled for tomorrow morning.

No gripe filed

Probe of UMass cross burning ends

By JEROLD R. KASSNER
Collegian Staff

Administration officials yesterday said no steps have been taken to further investigate the cross burning which took place last Wednesday night outside the Blue Wall.

Marianne Kowolski, of the University News Bureau, said a formal complaint was never filed with the UMass Department of Public Safety in connection with the incident.

According to Kowolski, Acting Director of the UMass Department of Public Safety Saul P. Chafin personally examinnd the alleged site of the cross burning several times following the incident.

> "So far as the police are concerned, the case is closed"—UMass News Bureau spokesperson

"The police found no evidence, no supportive information. As far as the police are concerned, the case is closed," Kowolski said.

Representatives of the International Committee Against Racism (INCAR) yesterday demonstrated in front of the Student Union protesting "a long series of overtly facist and racist acts" which have recently taken place at UMass and at other schools in New England.

UMass graduate and INCAR member Keith Hersh said four INCAR members came to UMass from Boston to demonstrate and distribute leaflets in protest of racist acts which have occurred in the area. Hersh said only "six or seven" persons picketed in front of the Student Union.

A cross burning was reported at Hampshire College last month and a similar incident occurred last Wednesday night outside the Blue Wall. Hersh said anti-Semetic and racist slogans have also been pasted on some buildings at the University of Connecticut in Storrs.

Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury acknowledged that "every possibility" was covered in investigating the cross burning outside the Blue Wall.

"The administration is not closing itself off to the situation," Woodbury said, although there have been no further attempts to investigate the incident.

According to the INCAR leaflet, "Even if the cross burnings were the work of a few sick individuals, they objectively build the prestige of the KKK (Ku Klux Klan) and make milder forms of racism all the more respectable.

"It (the cross burning) is an act of racist terror intended to intimidate oppressed people from fighting back...it (is) not at all unlikely that these incidents are part of an organized and concerted effort by such groups as the National Alliance, the Nazis, and the KKK who are trying to get a foothold in Amherst," the literature states.

State rules students may unionize

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission ruled Tuesday the Union of Student Employes (USE) is not a collective bargaining unit and refused to recognize the union, but did acknowledge that student employes have the right to organize.

Michael R. Bardsley, acting chairman of the USE, said yesterday he "half expected" the labor commission's decision that the USE was not a bargaining unit, but was "pleased" the ruling acknowledged students' right to organize.

The USE is a group of student employes of the Campus Center complex. The students petitioned the labor commission in April of 1975 for recognition as a collective bargaining unit representing all Campus Center Employes.

Joan Quinlan, of the labor commission, said the commission ruled USE could not be recognized because it was "found not to be an appropriate bargaining unit." She explained a bargaining unit must represent a "community of interests" and the USE did not fulfill that requirement because it represented on Campus Center employes, instead of a larger number of campus-wide employees.

The labor commission ruling, however, did say a larger number of campus wide employes would be eligible for consideration as a bargaining unit.

Campus Center Director William M. Harris could not be reached for comment yesterday.

The decision may have implications for the Graduate Student Employes Union (GSEU) because that group also does not represent a "campus-wide" group. The GSEU is composed of graduate teaching assistants, teaching associates, and research assistants.

Quinlan, however, said there is no record of the GSEU petitioning the labor commission for recognition as a bargaining unit.

A spokesman for the GSEU could not be reached for comment. Quinlan said the labor commission's ruling on the USE will have "no direct effect" on the Student Organizing Project (SOP). She said SOP is an independent matter and not affected by the USE ruling.

Bardsley said the USE's next action will be to try to build interest in a campus-wide group of student employes. He said he believes this can be done because of what he termed "dissatisfaction" which exists among student employes with present conditions.

Bardsley said the USE will hold a press conference tomorrow to discuss the history of the USE and to formulate future plans for the group.

★ Senate defines Third World

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Chicano peoples, and other people of color; we identify ourselves among racial and ethnic lines. We are people of color within the United States who share a common heritage of political economic and cultural exploitation. We are in solidarity with the liberation struggles of Third World countries, internationally and recognize that the destinies of these directly affect our future as Third World people within the United States."

Third World senator John Yong presented the amendment to the Senate. He said, "We are just trying to have a definition of who we are for our constituents."

DeLima said it was important to have a special designation for Third World people because "historically, Third World students have not been able to get elected (in the traditional areas of dorms)."

Jay Flynn, a senate from Wheeler, said the amendment was unconstitutional.

"This is discrimination of the basis of race," Flynn said.

He cited the fourteenth amendment which states that there can not be discrimination of the basis of race. Flynn felt this was discrimination against whites.

Regina Hurley, a senator from Brown said, "On the campus of UMass we have an interest group who are being discriminated against by virtue of their skin color and need some impetus."

The Third World students also put a motion on the floor to recall Craig Sherwood saying he cannot "effectively represent the Third World community." In addition, the motion states that Sherwood is "unaccountable to his Third World constituents and "is not aware of the Third World experience."

The Sherwood motion will be voted on next week. The recall of a senator requires 150 signatures; 178 have been obtained.

Board of Governors results will be discussed at the next Senate meeting on Wednesday.

Rutland Sun created by ex-Collegian editor

By JIM PAULIN
Collegian Staff

"And I kept my dreams within my reach within my reach and everyone came true 'cause when you stick to what you're good at, good things come to you."
Martin Mull - Living above My Station

In December 1976, Joe Mahoney's term as executive editor of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian ended and with it his life as UMass student of journalism and activist student journalist minus a diploma.

Joe's next step was to get a state job with the Metropolitan District Commission's Blue Hill Stables in Milton, hoisting bales of hay and shoveling horse manure for the MDC mounted police. The pay was good and it was an easy job — take an hour off for lunch, half an hour for break, plenty of free time for reading almost everything he could get his hands on.

In May, he quit his job with the Commission and in June, moved to Vermont, and along with UMass journalism graduate and former Food and Drug Administration scientist Walter Hamilton, opened a newspaper office in Rutland, Vermont.

With The Rutland Sun in a somewhat rundown wooden building on Wales Street, is The Golden Nugget, a working class bar, with cheap apartments upstairs. Finally, in July, the first weekly issue of The Rutland Sun was published.

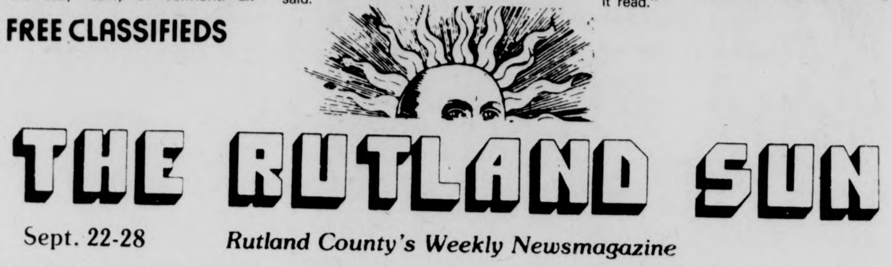
Why a newspaper in Rutland Vermont? "It sort of came simultaneously to us both," Mahoney said. According to Mahoney, the mortality rate in Rutland for alternative weekly papers is high.

"The competition is extremely intense. The Rutland Herald (daily and Sunday) is well entrenched," Mahoney says. "But we're becoming more established as we go along. With every issue we put out we get more readers."

In spite of the risks, Hamilton likes newspaper work for its own intrinsic value. He would also like the paper to turn a profit to provide him with more time and money to enjoy the easy reality of Vermont. Expounding upon his neck of the woods, Hamilton says, "There are recreational opportunities, the environment is healthy, the crime rate is low." Hamilton believes that the key to commercial success is to give the people what they want. "We have local news and features. We have community services — free classifieds and a calendar section," Hamilton says.



Joe Mahoney, the former hand-behind-the-unsigned-editorials in the Collegian, likes to look at his newspaper as a glorious, noble, and inspired undertaking in addition to a business and a job.

"The Sun is in an incubative stage in terms of development... it's a paper that... that's a question that I think about alot... it evolves from week to week — we want to have an agressive reporting staff that can come up with fresh, interesting, informative and entertaining material every week," Mahoney said.

"Right now we're into store-front reporting, not so much in depth stuff. It takes time to cultivate sources to get on the inside. Journalism is not limited to one area. It takes in all things. We try to be colorful and personal in tone," Mahoney said.

Both Hamilton and Mahoney claim their paper is neither left nor right in political orientation, a product of the traditional objective school of journalistic thought. Their emphasis, however, is upon consumer and ecological issues, and self-subsistence. Right wing political philosophy is not a welcome guest at the Rutland Sun. "Politics," says Mahoney, "is what you do, not what you label yourself."

The Sun's first few issues cost 20 cents each with a circulation of 2000. When the paper changed to free distribution, its circulation grew to 7000. According to Mahoney, free distribution is the "best way to promote the paper, to get it out there, get it read."

Mahoney and Hamilton say the paper is breaking even, but Hamilton admits that the possibility of folding is always a clear and present danger if enough ads are not recieved.

Asked how he felt about not having a college degree, Mahoney replied, "I recognize college as a useful tool, but in my case I don't feel it's necessary right now. I'm self employed. I don't have to worry about polishing my resume with degrees."

Federal judge calls for investigation of oil spills

NEW YORK [AP] — A federal judge called Wednesday for a thorough examination of the navigation that left the Liberian-flag tanker Argo Merchant a broken hulk last winter on Nantucket Shoals, spilling 7.5 million gallons of oil into the Atlantic Ocean.

Judge Thomas P. Griesa began formal trial of a petition by the vessel's owners for release from blame or liability for damages in the loss of the ship and its cargo, bound for Salem, Mass., from Venezuela.

The owners, Thebes Shipping, Inc., insist an "error of navigation" relieves it of full responsibility for the stranding of its "seaworthy" craft.

During pre-trial deposition, the mostly Greek crew of the Argo Merchant testified of trouble with compasses or direction finders. It also was disclosed that a wiper from the engine room was at the helm at the time of the accident.

Continental Insurance Co., seeking $2.2 million reimbursement for the lost fuel oil, claims Thebes failed to exert "due diligence" by pre-voyage servicing of the radio direction finder and compasses, lack of other electronic guidance, instruments, absence of a December current guide and undermanning. The insurers called the vessel "unseaworthy."

Before announcing the format for the trial, Griesa, a former Coast Guard officer, thanked lawyers who reached a $1.1-million partial settlement on damage claims.

From the $1.1 million, the federal government is to give $20,000 to Massachusetts and $5,000 to Rhode Island.

The payment to federal authorities from tanker operators is to offset costs of deploying men, aircraft, boats, pumps and other aid; hiring salvage experts and equipment, and major precautions taken against potential pollution, a Justice Department lawyer said.

James M. Estabrook, counsel for Massachusetts and Rhode Island, said the state share of the funds was reimbursement for "cleaning up some pollution, and anticipation of pollution." The oil spill largely dissipated before reaching land.

While focusing briefly upon pre-trial deposition testimony about conditions of navigation instruments, Griesa emphasized interest in the steering of the vessel from Venezuela northward. He was told that the skipper of the Argo Merchant set a gyrocompass indicator to correct an error in the reading, but Joseph C. Smith, a lawyer for Thebes, said evidence showed the error had grown during the trip toward Massachusetts.

The Argo Merchant struck shoals off Nantucket Dec. 15, 1976, instead of rounding Nantucket Light to skirt Cape Cod.

Griesa said he wanted to trace the course and navigation actions from Venezuela, delving into the condition of gear used in plotting the course.

With the settlement of the government's $1.8-million claim, there remains the Continental lawsuit pending here, while a $50.1-million class-action suit in Boston by New England fishermen and others awaits the outcome of the New York proceedings.

Doctor won't comment on Presley death

MEMPHIS, Tenn. [UPI] — Shelby County Medical Examiner Dr. Jerry Francisco refused comment yesterday on reports that as many as 10 drugs probably contributed to the death of Elvis Presley.

"I can't comment on that," said Francisco, who directed a three-hour autopsy on Presley's body Aug. 16.

Francisco had repeatedly denied finding any evidence of drugs as a contributing factor in Presley's death. He has insisted there was no evidence of either drug abuse or misuse of prescription drugs.

The preliminary autopsy finding, released the night the singer died, attributed Presley's sudden death to cardiac arrhythmia, the technical term for irregular beating of the heart.

A Memphis newspaper, The Commercial Appeal, yesterday quoted unnamed sources as saying three separate laboratories that examined Presley's blood found 10 drugs which probably contributed to his death.

"If in fact the article is correct in what it implies, then in fact the original statement is not true," Francisco said when asked about his preliminary drug finding.

The medical examiner said he would probably hold a news conference Friday to discuss the autopsy findings. He would not confirm whether he has signed the singer's death certificate, listing a cause of death.

Among the drugs found in Presley's blood, the newspaper report said, were several tranquilizers and pain-killers such as Valium, Demerol, codeine and an antihistamine.

Presley's longtime personal physician, Dr. George Nichopoulos, refused to discuss the report Wednesday. Nichopoulos, who pronounced Presley dead, had said Presley "abused drugs" in past years.

The Amos Tuck School of Business Administration

Dartmouth College Hanover, N.H.

Men and women seeking EDUCATION FOR MANAGEMENT are invited to discuss the

TUCK MBA

with Rogh Roger Muller,
Director of Admissions

Thursday, November 3
Placement service

WILL THE WINTER OF 1977 BE
AS SEVERE AS 1976?

If most of the forecasters are correct it will be, so why not get ready now. Gleason's is all stocked with stylish and practical cold weather outdoor clothing for all your fall and winter needs. Come in early and look over the Quality lines we stock. Also ask us about our early birds/buy special.

Don Gleason — Quality Down Vests
North Face — Down Parkas and Botties
Sierra Designs — Down and 60/40 Parkas
Camp 7 — Down Vests and Mtn. Parkas
Camp Trails — Polarguard Vests & Parkas
Woolrich — Rugged Shirts, Pants, Jackets
Duofold — Quality 2 Layer Underwear
Wigwam — Hats, Socks, and Mitts
Vasque — Hiking Boots
Sorel — Insulated Boots

Also a Complete Selection of Camping & Backpacking
Equipment on display.
(Tents, Packs, Etc.)

HOURS: 9 to 5:30 WEEKDAYS
9 to 5 SATURDAY

PEARL STREET IS ONE BLOCK SOUTH OF MAIN STREET IN THE CENTER.

Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS.

The rusty nail Inn

Sat., Oct. 22
Southside Johnny
and the Asbury Jukes
Special Guests
THE BRICKER BAND

Sunday, Oct. 23
Southside Johnny
and the Asbury Jukes
Special Guests
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION

Cover $4.00

rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665-4937

WEEKEND MONEY
The Collegian Graphics
Department is looking for people (especially artists)
who can work on weekends.
These are WORK STUDY
positions. Contact Randy Glenn at the Collegian

The Hideout
Pizza - Grinders - Sandwiches - Cold Drinks

103 North Pleasant Street, Amherst
Hours 11:30-1 a.m. Daily
til 2:00 on Weekends

"We deliver every day from 5:00 till closing from 3:00 on Sunday."

Call 256-0441
for quick DELIVERY

CORRECTION TO "REGULATIONS & POLICIES" PUBLICATION

Page 4 — Commonwealth Scholar's Program (Honors Program):

Students must have completed one full semester in residence at the University, one Honors course, and have a minimum average of 3.2 (NOT 3.0) to be eligible for admission into the Honors Program.

It should also be noted that Commonwealth Scholars are at present encouraged rather than required to complete Departmental Honors Programs as well as normal Commonwealth Scholar's requirements.

Provost's Office

ETC. COPY
CORPORATION with this coupon
HIGH QUALITY COPIES
LOW LOW PRICES
SPECIAL LIMITED OFFER
COMPLIMENTARY BRUNCH at Amherst Deli
w/every $5 order
1-99 copies
4¢ each
Amherst Carriage Shops
233 N. Pleasant 549-0566

Hijackers dead in jail

BONN, West Germany [UPI] — West Germany yesterday branded as "insane" charges that three terrorists were murdered in their jail cells and insisted the trio committed suicide. Defense lawyers claimed the trio was murdered.

Traugott Bender, justice minister of the state of Baden Wuerttemberg, said a preliminary investigation showed the three committed suicide upon learning of the failure of a hijack attempt to free them in exchange for the lives of 86 hostages.

The three — all founding members of the Red Army Faction, sometimes known as the Baader-Meinhof gang of urban guerrilas — were found dead in their cells hours after West Germany commandos stormed the hijacked plane in Mogadishu, Somalia, and freed all 86 remaining hostages. The hijackers killed the pilot.

Andreas Baader, his girl friend Gudrun Ensslin, once mixed up in an alleged plot to assassinate Hubert Humphrey, and Jan Carl Raspe were found dead in their cells in Stuttgart's top security Stamheim Prison Tuesday.

Baader and Raspe died of bullet wounds. Miss Ensslin was hanging on an electric cable attached to the window of her cell.

A fourth terrorist, Irmgard Moeller, 30, who was found with stab wounds, underwent a one-hour operation in a Tuebingen hospital Wednesday.

Radical followers of the three bombed West German offices in Italy and France Tuesday night and Wednesday in retaliation for their deaths and charged the trio had been murdered.

Defense lawyers for Baader, 34-year-old sociologist, and Miss Ensslin, a 37-year-old clergyman's daughter, suggested they were murdered and told a Bonn press conference an international commission should be formed to probe the deaths.

Hans-Heinz Heldmann, Baader's lawyer, said his client was killed by a shot in the back of the head in classic execution style.

"I do not want to prejudge the autopsy report, but I find it hard to believe he killed himself," Heldmann said.

Bender called charges the three had been murdered "infamous, slanderous, and insane."

West German spokesman Klaus Boelling also said the reports are "nonsense" but added that Bonn wants to find out how the terrorists managed to get their suicide weapons.

"None of us can grasp how it was possible for prisoners in Stammheim Prison to get weapons," he said. "I can't get it through my head."

West German Interior Minister Werner Maihofer, commenting on the defense lawyers' statement said, "It is completely impossible that Baader died at someone else's hand. It is possible for people to kill themselves so it looks peculiar."

Similar murder charges were made last year when Ulrike Meinhof, ideological chief of the band, was found hanged in her cell and authorities said she killed herself.

South Africa cracks down

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa [AP] — In a massive pre-dawn crackdown, South Africa's white rulers yesterday banned virtually every major black organization in the country, closed its two principal black newspapers and detained at least 50 prominent blacks.

Striking nationwide, security police also slapped restriction orders on six whites and raided the offices and homes of black leaders, movements and church bodies.

"This is the limit," declared Thomsanqe Jambule, a high school headmaster in the vast Soweto black township south of Johannesburg. "I think we are fast moving toward a climax."

The crackdown, the toughest in this white-ruled nation since the early 1960s, came amid mounting attacks on the government over the Sept. 12 prison death of Steve Biko, a major South African black nationalist activist.

Warning of even tougher measures, Kruger said: "The government is determined to ensure that the peaceful coexistence of peoples in South Africa is not disturbed by a small group of anarchists."

The government measures provoked an immediate outcry from blacks and liberal whites and raised fears of a violent backlash.

Black primary school children began streaming out of classes in Soweto in protest. Armed police arrested at least 50 white students from the Witwatersrand University converging on a post office near central Johannesburg to send protest telegrams to Prime Minister John Vorster.

Justice Minister James T. Kruger said that the government was moving against organizations, newspapers and people being used to create a "revolutionary climate" and a black-white confrontation.

The 18 black and interracial organizations banned were generally regarded as moderate and nonviolent. All the militant black organizations have already been banned and their leaders jailed.

Those ordered banned included two organizations linked to Biko — the Black People's Convention BPC and the South African Students Organization, as well as the Christian Institute and the Soweto Students' Representative Council.

Indians claim land theirs

BOSTON [AP] — More than 350 years after Indians helped the Pilgrims survive their first harsh American winter, their Cape Cod descendants are battling over $30 million in land claims.

Racial conflict surfaced Wednesday in the third day of what is expected to be a lengthy U.S. District Course case that could fuel a renewed struggle throughout the country for Indian civil rights.

Moments after Vernon Pocknett, a 43-year-old Mashpee fishermaa, testified proudly he was a Wampanaog Indian who had learned his tribal lore from his father, attorney James St. Clair confronted the witness with a nineteenth century Mashpee book of birth records.

The book listed Pocknett's father as a mulatto.

"I don't know what a mulatto is," said Pocknett heatedly.

"St. Clair is a racist," Russell Peters, president of the Tribal Council which has brought the suit against Mashpee for the land, said to a reporter.

Watching the proceedings in the courtroom, Peters called St. Clair's strategy a "cheap shot."

St. Clair, attorney for the town of Mashpee and counsel to President Nixon before he resigned, contends the claim of the Indians that the land belongs to their Wampanaog tribe is baseless.

He has insisted in court the claimants are not a tribe and the the U.S. Census of 1870 lists 86 per cent of the Mashpee population as black.

Any student who wishes to serve
on the newly formed
Collective Bargaining Committee
of the Undergraduate Student Senate
should contact the Speaker in Rm 420 Student Union
or call 5-0341.

News in Brief

Fuel leaks cause recall of Cadillacs

DETROIT [UPI] — The Cadillac Motor Division of General Motors Corp. recalled 133,000 of its luxury cars yesterday — including every Seville ever produced — because of fuel leaks blamed for at least 100 engine fires.

At least seven persons have received "minor injuries" because of the engine fires, Cadillac said. No cases of engines actually exploding have been reported.

The 111,000 Sevilles and 22,000 Coupe Deville and Eldorado models produced in the 1975 through 1978 model years all have electronic fuel injection systems — standard equipment on the Seville since its introduction in 1976.

More U.S. couples live together

WASHINGTON [AP] — Marriage and child bearing are here to stay, but the new American style of living together is giving families a different look, says a new government report.

Dr. Paul C. Glick and Arthur J. Norton, who specialize in marriage and family statistics at the U.S. Census Bureau, said in a report released yesterday that new living patterns reflect significant changes in basic American attitudes about conforming with traditional behavior.

They said both marriage and divorce rates are increasing and so is the number of unmarrieds who live together.

Changes in attitudes "permit a greater choice in lifestyles and more flexibility in the development of individual potentialities," the census report said.

Older retirement passed by senate

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The Senate yesterday passed a bill allowing millions of Americans to keep working until age 70, five years longer than they can now in many cases.

But, by a vote of 48-45, the Senate excluded tenured university professors and certain high paid business executives from the measure, meaning their employers still could require them to step down at 65.

The retirement bill, approved by the Senate 88-7, goes to a conference committee to be reconciled with a House version that treats professors and business executives the same as everyone else

Sponsors of the two bills hoped to reach a compromise before Congress adjourns for the year.

Both bills would affect the estimated one-third to one-half of American workers who face mandatory retirement at a fixed age, most commonly 65.

The Senate bill would take effect Jan. 1, 1979; the House version, six months after enactment.

Maharaj Ji becomes a citizen

DENVER [UPI] — Guru Maharaj Ji, the chubby 19-year-old leader of a religious movement that claims 3 million followers around the world, is now a citizen of the United States. He says the feeling is "beautiful."

In unannounced ceremonies Tuesday, the leader of the Divine Light Mission appeared before a federal court judge and swore allegiance to the United States.

It was the latest incident in his Americanization, which already has resulted in a dispute with his mother about his growing tastes for fast cars, pizza and gold watches.

The guru's mother, Rajeshwari Devi, and his brother, Bal Bhagqan Ji, controlled the religious movement until the guru's 16th birthday. Shortly after that the disputes started.

Fuel from forests may equal nukes

BOSTON [UPI] — Wood from New England's forests is a fuel resource with a potential equal to that of 10 nuclear power plants operating for two decades, a U.S. Department of Energy report has concluded.

A department study released this week said the forests, if properly harvested and utilized, could yield the energy equivalent of 540 million tons of coal or 2.3 billion barrels of oil by the year 2000 without reducing the amount of forested land.

"Stated another way, this represents the total power output of 10 nuclear plants operating from now until the year 2000," the report said.

Mitchell pleas for medical release

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Imprisoned Watergate conspirator John Mitchell filed an urgent plea for executive clemency yesterday, saying he has a "compelling need for hip surgery" and fears for the future of his 16-year-old daughter.

The former attorney general filed the petition for early release through his attorney, William Hundley, who presented it to Attorney General Griffin Bell along with a letter of his own saying he fears the medical and other problems could prove too much "even for a strong man like John Mitchell."

Mitchell, 64, confined at the minimum security prison at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., and not eligible for parole until June 20, also said in his petition he is suffering from a "cardiomegaly," or enlargement of the heart, "apparently caused by hypertension".

The Justice Department said the petition had been turned over to pardon attorney John Stanish for consideration of whether it will be favorably recommended to President Carter, with whom the clemency decision would lie.

Ban on smoking goes unobeyed

PARIS [AP] — Unimpressed by the threat of heavy fines, Frenchmen yesterday marked a new ban on smoking in some public places with classic Gallic insouciance. They lit up their cigarettes just like before.

"Who can enforce it?" asked a worker at a downtown Paris post office. "Certainly not the employees. We will keep on smoking."

At least one problem with the new law apparently was confusion over just where one could or couldn't smoke.

When it first went into effect Monday, the law was understood to ban smoking in post offices, banks, social security offices, elevators and other public places frequented by those under 16.

Infant lives week with pacemaker

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. [AP] — Even before Lesley Nelson was born, doctors said her heart would need a pacemaker. She was 2½ hours old when they put it into her chest. Now she's a week old, and "everything's turning out," her father said yesterday. Dr. George Daicoff, the heart surgeon who performed the delicate operation, gave the infant a 90 per cent chance of living a year. "If we can keep this baby pacing, I think the chances are excellent longterm," he added.

Local man caught in rich arson ring

BOSTON [AP] — A former Framingham man surrendered to authorities yesterday to face charges of murder, arson and fraud in connection with what authorities say was a multimillion dollar fire-for-hire ring.

Paul Zeigler, 27, who now lives in Texas, was the 26th person to be brought to court in connection with an alleged arson ring. Four persons have been indicted in the fire-related deaths of three Boston area residents.

Zeigler pleaded innocent in Suffolk County Superior Court to charges of second degree murder, arson and fraud. Bail was set at $1,500 cash.

Amy celebrates 10th in White House

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Amy Carter woke up yesterday saying "this is a special day", and she was right. It was her 10th birthday and she got a 54-inch red sled from her parents plus money, books and a bicycle pump from others.

The day was so special — her first birthday in the White House — that Amy was permitted to open some presents before she went to school.

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
LAZAR
BERMAN
Legendary
Soviet
Pianist

"The Phenomenon of the Music World", Emil Gilels
Wednesday, October 26 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale Gen. Pub.-$7, 6, 5. UM-A-$3.50, 3, 2.50. Others students and senior citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

QUALITY DOWN VESTS
Don Gleason's has the best quality down vests in the area. Filled with PRIME NORTHERN GOOSE DOWN with colorful rip stop nylon outers. Assorted colors. XS thru XL.
ONLY $29.95
ALSO VISIT US TO BROWSE THRU OUR VAST SELECTION OF OUT DOOR CLOTHING FOR FALL AND WINTER.
Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
Weekdays 9-5:30
Saturday 9-5:00

Work Study Position Available:
application & job description available outside 02 Cashin House
Sylvan Area Government Secretary-
$3.25 per hour
12 hours per week

$10 HOME OF THE $10.00 CORDUROY JEAN! etcetera SHOP
STRAIGHT LEG OR FLARE by Maverick® $10
HAMP PLAZA NORTHAMPTON NEXT TO BIG 'Y' main street center, northampton

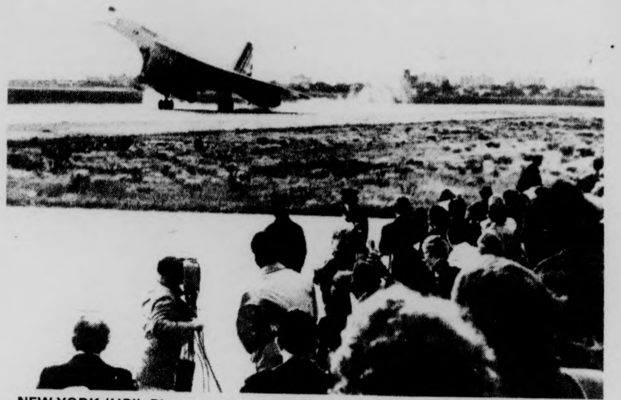
CHONA
CONTEMPORARY FASHION

Rubber DüKS
• yellow
• Blue
• green
open thurs. nights
the SHOE BIN 187 n. pleasant st., amherst

The People's Gay Alliance
presents
An Evening with Photographer
Don Hanover III
Contemporary Portraiture
FREE ★ Tonight ★
8:30
C.C. 171

CIMA
CONTEMPORARY SPORTSWEAR

Here's pantsuiting pure and simple!!
-100% wool with stitched detail on the waist and pockets of the single breasted blazer. Sizes 6-16.
The purse by Etienne and the shoes by Jacque Cohen.
211 Main St. Northampton



NEW YORK (UPI): Photographers record the event as the Anglo-French Concorde supersonic jetliner touches down at Kennedy International Airport. The SST made a picture perfect landing on its first test flight to New York, making little more noise than subsonic planes that crowd the busy JFK Airport.

Airlines deal with noise law

NEWARK, N.J. [AP] — Airlines can live with federal noise guidelines set for 1985 but would fight Port Authority attempts to modify them or enforce the rules earlier, an industry spokesman told a hearing here yesterday on proposals to ban the Concorde.

Lyman M. Tondel Jr., a spokesman for the Air Transport Association, said a plan by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey to change the timing and or noise levels in federal regulations would be fought on grounds "it would be unconstitutional and place an undue burden on commerce."

Port Authority proposals, however, were supported by Massachusetts officials and a variety of New Jersey politicians and residents in their efforts to find a legal way to stop flights by the British-French supersonic plane that made its first landing in New York yesterday.

The authority is considering three rules that would bar the Concorde: Enforce federal noise regulations due for 1985 by the year's end; let planes now operating regularly continue until 1985 regardless of noise, and bar planes not meeting federal requirements after 1985 but give planes now being built a three-month trial.

Airlines could live with the last two regulations, Tondel said, but the first proposal would eliminate all older two and three-engine jets, and most older four-engine jets.

Terrorists kill businessman

PARIS [AP] — The body of West German industrialist Hanns-Martin Schleyer, kidnapped six weeks ago, was found yesterday night stuffed into the trunk of a car in the French city of Mulhouse near the German border, the French Interior Ministry said. A spokesman said his throat had been cut.

Earlier in the day, a communique received by an extreme leftist Paris newspaper said: "The existence of Mr. Hanns-Martin Schleyer has been ended." He was abducted Sept. 5 by terrorists firing automatic weapons as he was being driven home from work in Cologne.

The communique said the dead man was in the trunk of a green Audi sedan in Mulhouse. Police said they found the body after ripping open the back seat of the auto.

The car was loaded on a breakdown truck and taken to police headquarters.

The communique was signed "Commando Siegfried Houssner R.A.F."

That was the name of the German terror group that said it kidnapped Schleyer and threatened to execute him unless the West German government released 11 terrorists from West German jails and flew them to the refuge of their choice with nearly half a million dollars in ransom.

The government has not met the demands.

The communique was given to the newspaper Liberation, which has previously received communiques from the Schleyer's kidnappers.

"After 43 days we have put an end to the miserable and corrupt existence of Hanns-Martin Schleyer," the communique said.

"West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, who in his calculation of power has, from the beginning, speculated with the death of Schleyer, can take delivery of him on Charles Peguy Street in Mulhouse in a green Audi 100, licensed at Hamburg."

The communique continued: "His death is commensurate with our sorrow and our anger after the Mogadishu and Stammheim massacres. Andreas, Gundrun, Karl, Ingmard and we ourselves are not surprised by the fascist theatrics of the imperialists, to destroy liberation movements.

"We will never forget the blood spilled by Schmidt and the imperialists who support him. The battle has only begun. Liberty by armed anti-imperialist struggle."

The references were to the German commando raid on a hijacked jet at Somalia's Mogadishu airport and to the subsequent deaths of three terrorists whose freedom from German jails had been demanded both by Schleyer's kidnapers and by the hijackers.

In the six weeks since Schleyer was kidnapped in Cologne, his captors set several deadlines for the West German government to meet their deadline. These had passed without any action.

Then last Thursday, four Arabic-speaking terrorists acting in apparent concert with the kidnappers hijacked a Lufthansa jetliner over the French Riviera and issued demands similar to those of the kidnappers.

But the hijacking ended early Tuesday when special trained German commandos stormed the jet at Mogadishu, killed three of the hijackers and rescued all 86 hostages aboard. The pilot had been murdered earlier.

Case heard on Korean bribe

WASHINGTON [UPI] — House ethics counsel Leon Jaworski yesterday accused the Korean government of trying "to 'buy off' American congressmen," and witnesses said Seoul's former ambassador himself carted wads of $100 bills up to Capitol Hill.

At the House Ethics Committee's first public hearings into the covert lobbying operation, Jaworksi said he will not name any suspected payoff recipients for quite awhile but has enough evidence now to show money was offered and the South Korean regime was behind it.

"The testimony and documents to be brought out will.... lead to the reasonable inference that money was intended to be paid, and may in fact have been paid, to members of Congress," Jaworski said in his opening statement.

He also said evidence will show that Tongsun Park, the fugitive Korean businessman accused of running the bribery effort, claimed "great success" in influencing congressmen, although that assertion may have been "exaggerated."

Laying out his case like a prosecuting attorney, Jaworski then introduced witnesses, including two former Korean government officials, who described a payoff operation conducted by the Korean CIA through the Washington embassy starting in 1972 or 1973.

They included Kim Sang Keun, once the KCIA's No. 2 Washington agent, who testified to his role as a liaison man between the agency and Korean lobbyists who worked Capitol Hill.

More startling, however, was the testimony of two other witnesses — including former Korean embassy official Jai Hyon Lee — who identified Kim Dong Jo, then South Korea's Washington ambassador, as the man who actually offered envelopes stuffed with $100 bills to members of Congress in the early 1970s.

Stop on red

steve dubin

Manchester Non-Union Follower, Na Hampsha-- They are everywhere! Since the fall from grace of Joe McCarthy and his later counterpart, Richard Nixon, communists have abounded everywhere. There are no longer any official watchdogs to protect us from pinko infiltration. Individual citizens must take up their own precautions.

We must become adept at spotting the children of communist families and rehabilitate them before further generations perpetuate the ideology. There are many subtle characteristics that distinguish the adolescent "comrade" from our feisty, chocolate smeared, true American kids. Here are some clues to identifying the subversive child.

He's the kid that collects for UNICEF on Halloween instead of hoarding Musketeer Bars and licorice. Everyone else is costumed like cowboys and Indians. He dresses like a peasant.

At Christmas all the other kids are begifted with battery operated guns and plastic World War II camouflaged helmets. The kid with the Mao hat is given books and pamphlets. Instead of reading Boys Life and Sports Illustrated, this kid skims copies of Vanguard and Dissent.

He is the kid who has his class photo taken with a turtleneck on. He's the one that organizes the other students to boycott air raid drills.

At lunch time recess he always eats cold cuts on whole wheat with fruit for dessert. He never has peanut butter and jelly on Sunbeam Bread and a package of Twinkies.

The kid doesn't like baseball, but goes wild over soccer. He won't compete though! He just wants everyone to have a chance to play and have a good time. What kind of fun is that?

The kid never fights, but for some reason he often raises his fist in the air as some kind of salute.

Don't bring the suspected "red" child to the police, they are lily livered. Go to the nearest American Legion Hall or VFW Post and inform on the little bugger.

Do not let his shaggy hair, runny nose, and innocent expression fool you. He may try to liberate us.

Steve Dubin's column appears every Thursday in the Collegian.

Power-shifting games

With all the talk Ive heard in the past two and a half year about student unionization, there are a few very basic ideas and questions which have not been brought out or answered soundly, reasonably, or logically by the pro-unionization forces.

The Student Organizing Project has been around at least as long as Ive been here, with the goal of unionizing the students and making that group the one that would deal with student affairs and with the administration. After spending somewhere around $300,000, and becoming the biggest donator to the recycleable paper boxes on campus with their bullshit flyers, exactly what has the S.O.P. accomplished?

On the idea of dealing with the student affairs and the administration, are these not functions of the student government association (S.G.A.)? If unionization goes through, what then, is the purpose of the SGA? Hell, all student activities tax funds (SATF) should then theoritically be turned over the union where everybody would then have a vote on the allocation of the funds, right? Good. Then that eliminates the current need of paying salaries to the senate officers, committee chairmen, judges, and everybody else currently on the senate payroll.

And being a union, with all efforts being made for the students, and by the students, of course nobody should be and would be paid. Great! more money to go to student programs...

What's that? You union officers want to be paid? Geez, I'm sorry, I must have misunderstood you. I thought your efforts were all unselfish actions for the student body, you know, "one for all, all for one", and now you tell me you won't do the work unless you are paid?

In actuality, the only result of student unionization will be a shift in power and money from one student group to another. Who are you trying to kid by saying that unionization would have a real effect on dealings with the administration? The only change would be the people involved in the process. And I think that that would be much to the disadvantage of the student body. Instead of Hite and Batiste (who control the utmost confidence of the student body) we would be sending some radicals and extremists from the S.O.P. to deal with the administration. Who do you think would be more effective?

And then, suppose that we do unionize. Is it an open or a closed union? (Are you forced to join, or can you just come here to get an education without getting involved in university politics?)

If you don't join, are you considered an outcast? If you join, and you're a pre-med, if the union says to boycott classes, does that mean that you take a chance on blowing you're career for the sake of the minority of fools and who make these ridiculous decisions? Or do you defy them and get called a scab?

And when I say minority, I mean it. Proof lies in the recent elections, and the results. The senate was stacked with S.O.P. members because practically the only ones who voted were in this group. Only about 15 per cent of the student population even bothered to vote (with a few legitimate excuses, I'm sure.)

If put to a referendum tomorrow, I'd be willing to bet that less than 50 per cent of the student body would even bother to vote, a strong indication that unionization is a nothing, unimportant issue to the students here.

And to exemplify the worthlessness of the S.O.P., all I have to do is challenge them to obtaining the votes of better than 50 per cent of the student body, for or against unionization — with the condition that everyone who doesn't vote is considered a vote against: "leave things the way they are, I'm satisfied."

The whole idea of student unionization is just absurd and ridiculous. I know it, and so does the silent (vast) majority. What the hell am I wasting my time writing about it for?

Stephen N. Mathieu is a Collegian commentator.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Joseph A. Quinlan, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Richard J. Pioli, Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Fifine D. Ball, Women's Coordinator.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

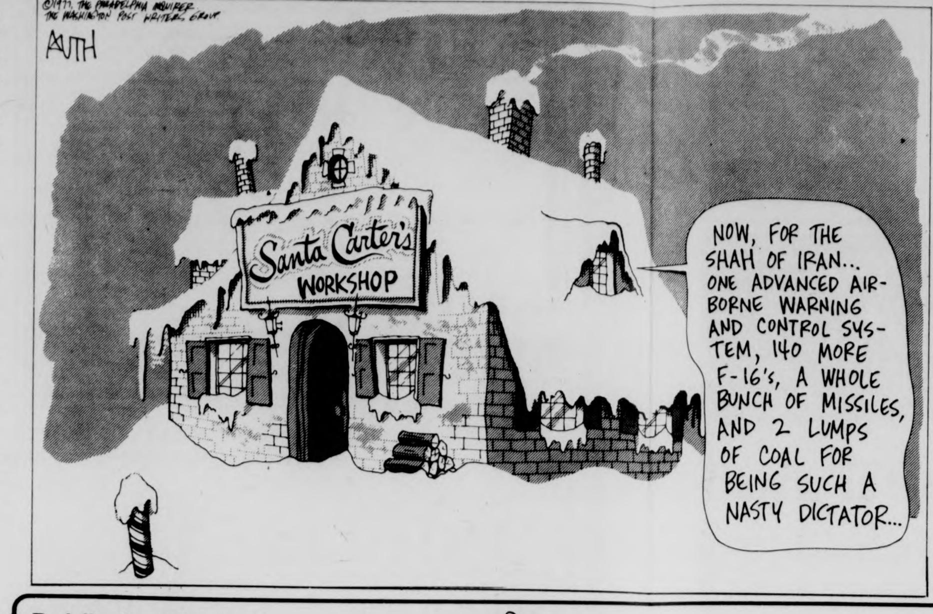
The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.



©1977, THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP
AUTH
Santa Carter's WORKSHOP
NOW, FOR THE SHAH OF IRAN... ONE ADVANCED AIR-BORNE WARNING AND CONTROL SYSTEM, 140 MORE F-16's, A WHOLE BUNCH OF MISSILES, AND 2 LUMPS OF COAL FOR BEING SUCH A NASTY DICTATOR...

Public 'confusion' disparaged

To the Editor:

While strolling through the Campus Center concourse the other day, my senses were violated by a hybrid religious sect whose members gaily proclaim themselves as Jews for Jesus. It is a mystery how one can abandon his heritage and take up the banner of those canons that have been used throughout history to justify the crucifixion of his people. Nevertheless, gullible adolescents should not be chastised. What is sickening, however, is the public manner in which they made known their confusion. Undoubtedly the appearance of these fanatical converts was sponsored by various Christian groups on campus, who have renewed a policy of increasingly militant Christianity. For those who object to my labelling them as militant, I'm afraid there is no more apt a description of their recruitment techniques or their shameless insolence towards those whose opinions differ.

I fear we are degenerating into a second Dark Age. There are numerous signs of this, not the least of which is the rise of those whose sinful pride convinces them their actions, however inhuman, are in accordance with divine sanction, giving them leave to plague others who do not share their enthusiasms. Personally, I find the teachings of the rabbi, Jesus, to be for the greater glory of mankind; his professed followers and their perverse renering of his wisdom are what troubles me. Therefore, I must say to all would be self-righteous missionaries that if your god, your savior, is an intolerant as you, his supposed representatives, then I would rather forsake his blessings and remain outcast from his kingdom.

Steven Feldman

Apathy hinders decriminalization

To the Editor:

Well, UMass is doing it again. Even with the advent of the Union we are still leading the way in apathy. In August, ten registered voters of Amherst started a petition drive to decriminalize marijuana. Their goal is 58,000 signatures by November 28. Up to now they have received a lot of kind words and support from their fellow students; but talk is cheap. The petition drive is to get a statewide referendum on Decrim. in 1978. We can make it happen or we can sit by and watch the petition die.

There is also another petition to constitutionalize marijuana, which could be on the ballot by 1980. Neither of the petitions are getting the help they need in order to succeed. Anyone who can help by working on either of these petitions should please come to the meeting tonight at 9:30 in room 174 CC. We can collectively change the law, or we can fall victims to it. Please come to the meeting if you can, or if you care.

Peter D. Graham
State-wide Co-ordinator
Decrim. Petition

Group to sponsor nuclear teach-ins

To the Editor:

Tom Devine's column on the neutron bomb [Oct. 18] ends with the question, "What can be done?" As an answer, there is a new organization on the UMass campus that addresses itself to the issue of a spiraling arms race and nuclear proliferation. Mobilization for Survival is a global coalition of peace and religious organizations working towards the achievement of four goals: zero nuclear weapons, stop the arms race, ban nuclear power, fund human needs.

The Mobilization's past activities include organization of nationwide demonstrations on August 6-9 and commemorating the 32nd anniversary of the nuclear attacks on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. From October 15 to December 15, the Mobilization will be sponsoring teach-ins across the country. In Amherst, teach-ins are being planned and will be held during the week of November 7-14. However, these events can occur only with your support. Those with time, belief, and dedication should attend our meetings, or leave your name at the CEQ office, room 306, SUB.

Jerrold Keilson

University must 'make amends'

To the Editor:

Upon arriving at the University of Massachusetts on August 28, 1977, I was greeted by housing office personnel with the news that I didn't have a dorm assignment. I was a freshman, going off to a university with a population which was greater than that of my home town. I was all by myself, scared to death with what was before me, anxious to meet some new people, see my room and meet my roommate, but instead I was told that I not only didn't have a roommate, I didn't even have a room!

I was stuck in a sorority house way up in Sorority-Fraternity Park with about twenty other girls and was forced to live out of boxes while the housing office searched for rooms to put us in. Now if all this wasn't bad enough, there was still more to come.

One afternoon, three other girls [also living in the sorority house] and I walked into the housing office. We explained to one of the women working there that we were going home for the weekend and that if there was a possibility of us getting rooms while we were away, would they hold them for us till Monday, and not give them away. Her reply astonished us all. She told us, or rather she screamed at us, that if we weren't willing to work with the housing office and wait at the sorority house for our assignments, they why should they bother giving us a room at all!

All of us stood there with our mouths open. She realized what she had said and just turned her head away. She couldn't even look at us. Can you imagine her saying that to us? After paying my bill on time, with money out of my own pocket, and then to have some lady hassle me about not giving me a room if I went home for the weekend, well, needless to say, I was ready to go home, and stay home for good, as many in my situation did.

Well, we all went home for the weekend anyway. I spent my weekend complaining to my family and friends and upon returning to the university on Monday, found I had been given a housing assignment. I was ecstatic. I packed up my things as fast as I could and raced to my new dorm. Meanwhile, all the friends I had made in the sorority house were also being dispersed across campus. I arrived at my new "home" only to find myself in an all female dorm in Northeast. These were the two conditions on my housing card which I had requested not to have.

The next day I went to the parking office to obtain a sticker for my car. Because I hadn't received a dorm assignment, I hadn't been able to get a parking sticker before this time. The only parking spaces left were in "P" lots or in lots a good distance from my dorm, [or anywhere else for that matter]. I was forced to take what was left [again] and parked my car in lot 46, behind the animal research labs. At first I didn't mind this because I figured I wouldn't use my car much at school anyway, but I was wrong. I used my car at night a lot, especially on weekends, and the idea of walking all the way from my car to my dorm at late hours of the night didn't thrill me in the least.

One night I parked in the lot behind my dorm, planning to move it first thing in the morning. The tow truck got to me before though, and it cost me $21.50 to get it out of the North Amherst Towing parking lot; $16.50 for towing, and a $5.00 ticket. Plus, on top of all that, I had to walk to North Amherst to get it.

Now I know it was my own fault, but in the long run, I feel it is partly the university's too. If I had received a room assignment when I first arrived, I would probably have gotten a sticker for my dorm's parking lot, and therefore, wouldn't have been towed.

I want to know what the university is going to do about my inconveniences. They have formally apologized to me, but an apology is not going to pay my parking tickets and towing fees. I am very serious when I say that I think the university should take steps to right some of the wrongs that have been done to people much as myself.

Some ideas that I have that they could start with would be 1] to refund a small amount of the room bill for the days we were without rooms, 2] give those who didn't receive room assignments the privilege of living off campus anytime we want, instead of the usual wait till senior year, 3] rearrange some parking alternatives for those of us who have cars parked far away from our dorms, or pay our parking tickets and 4] assist us in finding rooms where we would like to live, if we aren't satisfied with our present one.

These requests may seem a little outrageous, but for those of us who have been thoroughly inconvenienced [to say the least] and are unhappy with our present living conditions, [and I am not alone in my feelings] they are but small requests.

I realize the university is trying to make amends for its errors, but I truly feel that more than an apology is needed in this case. Not only for my own benefit or of others in my situation, but for future freshman, so that it may never happen to them.

Susan C. Hanlon

Enlightened selfishness

> "As soon as several of the inhabitants of the United States have taken up an opinion or a feeling which they wish to promote in the world, they look for mutual assistance; and as soon as they have found one another out, they combine. From that moment they are no longer isolated men (sic), but a power seen from afar, whose actions serve for an example and whose language is listened to."
> — Alexis De Tocqueville, > Democracy in America

jerry rogers

These words, although written in 1830, are a strong argument for forming a student union. They have that kind of spirited optimism that keeps organizers going and convinces those being organized to remain fighting despite the odds or occasional setbacks.

However, they are admittedly political in nature and make no attempt to hide their advocacy of the right of people to band together in order to influence the actions of other people.

This process of allocating influence to be exerted on an issue by different special interest or political groups is by many people observed to be the allocation of control over people and human relations. From the unmasking of witch-hunter Joe McCarthy to the oft-reported evils of Watergate, a great number of people have come to abhor politics as an institution of this country, thinking of politicians as a class of people with somewhat substandard ethics. The threats against our freedom made by these overt and covert acts of repression are not necessarily the work of paranoid minds.

Juxtaposed with this evaluation of the virtues of politics is the philosophy of my friend Alex (no relation to Alexis) which cites all competing political philosophies as inherently inadequate means of humanely and judiciously running the world. After all, how can politicians, who are chosen representatives and no more infallible than the rest of us, design an infallible system of governance? (De Tocqueville also points out that "elected magistrates do not make the American democracy flourish (sic); it flourishes because the magistrates are elective.") And can we legitimately expect politicians and political groups to advocate completely fair and impartial measures and statutes in a strongly individualistic and competitive society? I think not, and I think those who would have a politician or journalist or other public figure do their thinking for them are exceedingly naive.

This same recognition of the inherent biases of individuals that filter into the political decision making process also points out that wholesale condemnation of politicians as a class is as illogical and extremist as any other class condemnation.

Politicians should not be forced into constantly defending the nature of their work in addition to the work itself. That is an attack with a double-edged sword that few of us could withstand.

De Tocqueville interprets the existence of these individual biases, this selfishness, as partly an outgrowth of the existence of democracy and the advent of equality. He points out that the independence and affirmation of individuality associated with equality promote general indifference as a virtue; which seems impractical to hope for given the reality of our political nature.

To deal with all of this, De Tocqueville outlines for us the doctrine of "self interest, rightly understood." This enlightened selfishness does not advocate the neutrality held to be the ideal of democracy. It advocates the acceptance of individual differences between politicians and within government, coupled with the realization that one's fellows must be cooperative in order to allow your ideas a forum.

Dealing with politicians, therefore, is simply a matter of taking some responsibility for having your representatives and the opinions they voice. Electing someone to an office does not end the requirement of interaction between the voters and the representatives.

With a little logical thinking and some weeding out of unacceptable ideas advanced by others, people can effectively monitor the behavior of their representatives. Acknowledging my own politics, I accept De Tocqueville's words as supportive of a student union, and not as advocating "despicable" partisan political action unmindful of alternatives. Unionizing is simply the best alternative advanced for our own governance. Those against unionization cling fearfully to the unrealistic virtue of general indifference.

Jerry Rogers' column appears every Thursday in the Collegian.

Nuclear power and justice

By DAMON THOMAS

Opponents of the proposed Seabrook, N.H., nuclear power plant will not be able to look to William Adams, Jr., new regional administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, for much assistance in their struggle.

At a recent meeting of the New England Regional Commission, a group comprised of the six New England governors, Adams was asked by N.H. Governor Meldrim Thompson how he felt about nuclear power. "Nuclear power has a place in our society," Adams said, adding, "I expect the problems of Seabrook are behind us now."

Whether we take "problems" to mean construction delays, cooling system deficiencies, popular protest, or whatever else, is quite beside the point. Adams has clearly allied himself with the utility cause and, along with Public Service Company of N.H., seems intent upon pushing through the construction of the Seabrook nuke.

The whole Seabrook controversy to date has generated two valuable lessons:

1. The legal system is not primarily concerned with justice, equality, or individual rights; it functions as an instrument of state domination, and it acts to prevent the intervention of human values or individual choice.

2. The various state, regional, and federal regulatory agencies succeed only in delaying, not permanently halting the implementation of policies and goals desired by moneyed business interests.

At this point let me point out that Adams and his boss in Washington, EPA chief Douglas Costle (who last June approved Seabrook Station's controversial once-through cooling system), are not in themselves necessarily evil or deceitful beings. They, like the rest of us, are simply part of a system which is blindly driven by a motivation for maximum profits, however high the concomitant social costs may be. Adams and Costle are simply pawns in the system; their positions as regulators have taken on a compromisary rather than a regulatory role. They are increasingly being held accountable to industry for their (EPA) actions, rather than vice versa, because the real power now lies in the hands of these wealthy business groups. The recent controversies over toxic substances legislation, strip mining regulations and off-shore drilling procedures serve to further illustrate this point.

A power elite very definitely does exist in this society and is made rich by the system, but the elite is no longer in control — they are merely taking advantage of forces that have a life of their own. Nor is our system a purely technological society, although technology has increasingly supplied the basis for our choices and superseded other values. What we have is technology, organization, and administration out of control, running for their own sake, but at the same time subject to manipulation and profiteering by the power interests of our society for their own non-human ends. And we have turned over to this system the control and direction of everything — the natural environment, our minds, our lives.

The essence of the corporate state under which we live is that it is relentlessly single-minded; it has only one value, the value of technology - organization - efficiency - growth - progress. The state is, of necessity, perfectly rational and logical. It is based upon principle. Yet no other value is allowed to interfere with this one; not beauty, not community, not even the supreme value of life itself. Thus, the state is essentially mindless; it has only one idea and it rolls along, never stopping to think, consider, balance, or judge. Only such single-valued mindlessness would cut the last redwoods, pollute the most beautiful beaches, destroy the most fragile marshland, and invent machines to injure and destroy plant, animal, and human life. To have only one value is, in human terms, to be mad. It is to be a machine.

How foolish it is to believe that the vast majority of people those who don't monetarily benefit from nuclear power (but who are being told to assume its risks and expenses) will sit back and not take an anti-nuclear position once all of the facts are out. Because what each individual says and does truly matters. C. Wright Mills, the famous sociologist, once said: "By the fact of his living, he (the individual) contributes, however minutely, to the shaping of his society, even as he is affected by society and its historical push and shove."

One Seabrook occupier, who received a warm and courteous ovation from the police and National Guardsmen upon his release from the Manchester armory, summed up the feeling in a letter.

"Later in the evening ... my mind kept wandering back to those final moments at the Armory. The system, to be sure, is designed to protect a wealthy elite and the dangerous technology upon which their profits often rest. But within that system are a vast number of human beings whose basic instincts are neither vicious nor anti-life. It is all such people whom our solidarity must embrace."

Damon Thomas is a Collegian commentator.

BOSTON: Circus elephants, enroute to the Boston Garden, stopped to visit the Quincy Market yesterday. It was a visit they'll never forget, as they were treated to bushels of apples.(UPI)

Another death confirmed due to legion disease

BURLINGTON, Vt. [UPI] — The 13th death in an outbreak of Legionnaires disease in Vermont was confirmed yesterday by the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, a State Health Department spokeswoman said.

The spokeswoman said the latest case involved a patient who died in mid-September at the Central Vermont Medical Center hospital in Berlin after having been admitted for a pneumonia-like illness.

Since July 1, there have been 23 confirmed cases of the mysterious disease in Vermont, including the 13 deaths. In addition, 12 cases, including one fatality, have been placed on the "highly probable" list by CDC officials.

Senator predicts change in Social Security tax

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Sen. William D. Hathaway (D-Maine) yesterday predicted a proposal offered by a Wisconsin senator to rescue the near-broke Social Security System will be adopted by Congress before the end of the year.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson's (D-Wis.) plan to shift the brunt of Social Security tax increases onto the collective shoulders of employers is one of three proposals under consideration by Congress.

Hathaway, a member of the Senate Finance Committee which is working on legislation to revive the system, said Nelson's original plan was to raise the maximum taxable wage base for employers from $16,500 to $100,000 and for workers to $19,500.

But the finance committee has agreed to a $50,000 tax ceiling by 1979 and a $75,000 limit by 1985 for employers, Hathaway said. The raise in the maximum taxable wage would be coupled with increases in the tax rate, affecting both employers and workers.

UNITED TRANSMISSION
EXCHANGE INC.

all make car and truck
transmissions

Repaired-Rebuilt-Exchanged

236 Pleasant St.
Northampton, Mass.
584-6790

Poor Richards
Rte. 9
Amherst

Miller Nite
BOTTLES
Miller
&
Miller Lite
50¢
8 - 11 pm
T - shirts and Prizes

Put A. Smile on your gams.

A. Smile flap pocket corduroys and jeans for Men and Women are now available at The Lodge. Come in to The Lodge and see our full selection of other name brand pants, tops, footwear and dancewear.

Amherst, Rt. 9—next to McDonald's, 584-9690
Store hours: Monday to Friday 10-9, Saturday 10-6.
THE LODGE at harvard square ®

---

What's Happening

TODAY

CARNIVAL
Southwest Residential Area will sponsor carnival, Thursday thru Sunday. Thursday 6:30-10:30 p.m.; Friday 6:30 — midnight; Saturday 11 a.m. to midnight; and Sunday 1-8 p.m. Admission is free.

MOVIES
— "The Front," 7, 9, and 11 p.m. Student Union Ballroom.
— "7 Per Cent Solution," Campus Center Aud. 7, 9, and 11 p.m.

LECTURE
Students of writing-publishing: Murry Tuchman, NYC Publisher of The Soap Box and Subtle Good Humor will speak today 7:30 p.m., Hampshire College Library, 3rd floor.

NEW COURSE: COLLOQUIUM
Dostorvsky, Colloquium to cover lectures, reports, and discussions, will meet weekly for eight weeks, Thursdays 8-10 p.m. To register call 545-2803.

WORKSHOPS
Gay Alliance Workshop 8:30 p.m. Campus Center 171, Free. Don Hanover III, photographer for Gay Community News, will present his work. Everyone is welcome.

VIDEO INSTALLATION
Student Union Gallery presents a video installation in Gallery and outdoors by Kit Fitzgerald and John Sanbord, through Friday.

TOMORROW

COLLOQUIUM
Labor Law Reform 1:30 p.m. Draper Hall 222. Moderated by Dick Whitney, Region 8, AFL-CIO.

CONCERT
Rosenshontz and Dixon, special concert, 9:30 p.m. Rathskeller South, in Wilbur at Mount Holyoke College (I.D. required). $1.

DANCE
International Folkdancing (teaching and review 8-9:30 p.m.) Cape Cod Lounge, Student Union.

FORUM
— Norman Birnbaum, Professor of Sociology at Amherst College, will speak at the Amherst Community Forum 12:15, at Unitarian Meetinghouse, 121 N. Pleasant St. Topic is "The CIA and American Intellectual Life."

— Charles O'Brien, Spartacus Youth League, National Committee, "Anti-Apartheid Revolts and U.S. IMPERIALIST MORALISM," 7:30 p.m. Campus Center 911-915.

MINSTREL SHOW
The Chocolate Box Revue — An Authentic Minstrel Show, Buckley Recital Hall, Amherst College, 8 p.m.

POTLUCK DINNER
With members from the "Mohawk Nation of Ganienkeh," St. John's Church in Northampton 6 p.m.

PLAYS
— "Angel-Street," Belchertown Jr.-Sr. High School October 21, 22, 28, and 29, 8 p.m. $2.50.
— Lillian Hellman's "The Children's Hour" 8 p.m. in the Hallie Falnagan Studio Theatre of Smith's Center for the Performing Arts. Benefits will go the club's scholarship fund.

TAG AND BAKE SALE
Clothes, Books, and Unusual items plus naturally baked goodies for sale, 45 Northeast Street, Amherst. Rain or Shine 10 a.m.

SEMINAR
"Turning Leaves," presented by the Eastern Region of Association for Humanistic Psychology, will be held October 21-23. For more info call Division of Continuing 545-3420.

FELLOWSHIPS
UMass has been invited to nominate four seniors in this year's competition for Danforth Fellowships. The deadline for applying is Friday, October 21.

The Pleasant St. Theater
The Finest in Foreign and Revival Film.
ORSON WELLES'
CITIZEN KANE
SHOWS: 7:00 & 9:00
27 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-0935

Texas Instruments
Programmable TI 57
a powerful super slide-rule calculator that you can program directly from the keyboard!

*150 keystroke program memory
*8 multi purpose addressable memories
*6 forms of branching
*2 levels of subroutines
*9 levels of parentheses
*2 conditional loop features
*many advanced math capabilities directly from the keyboard—including standard deviation.
all for only $69.95
list price $79.95
can you afford not to have a T.I. programmable?
available now at the calculator store
UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

C & C LIQUORS
BEHIND THE POLICE STATION
FOR SUDDEN SERVICE DELIVERY 253-3091

NATIONAL BOHEMIAN $1.25 six $4.99 case
ENGLENOOK PINOT CHARDONNAY REG. $5.35 $4.69
BARRELS $20.00 & up
CIGARETTES $5.45 carton

Diamond Ear-Studs
A nice way to catch her ear.
Fiery diamonds set in 14k gold—still a girl's best fashion friend! All of course at upstairs prices. (For pierced ears).
⅓ ct., *t.w. $225.
½ ct., t.w. $350.
¼ ct., t.w. $425.
1 ct., t.w. $595.
(*total weight)
Master Charge & Visa Accepted
Upstairs at albert hershon co.
Nationally Known Diamond Remount Specialists
1562 MAIN STREET - 2nd Floor
SPRINGFIELD, MASS. 01103

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

We Buy Cars for cash 253-5384 323-5010

1970 Triumph GT6+. Excellent condition, no rust. $850. or Best Offer 549-5057.

70 Ford LTD. Good cond. $850. 562-4727.

68 Galaxy 500 Ford. $700. 527-5746.

'68 VW Bug, VG Rebuilt engine, cond. body fair, $200. or B.O. Call 772-0672 Anytime.

66 Volvo 122S. Gooid mechanical condition. 130,000 miles. Frame needs work. Call 256-8467. Keep Trying.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

71 VW SQBK. $770. or B.O. 545-0811 Jack.

68 Chevy Wagon. $250. or B.O. 549-5993.

73 Datsun, auto, V. Gd. cond. $1,500. 584-1594 After 6:00P.M.

1975 Volvo 164, AC, Cruise control, Michelins and snows, leather interior, excellent condition inside and out. All for only $5,950. or Best Offer. Call 253-5349, YOU WON'T REGRET IT!

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

SUPER BIKE '74 KAW. Z-1 900cc. In very good condition. Kerker pipe, Denselube chain. OFFERS? 665-3031.

FOR SALE

Vox Bass AMP, Guild 6 string electric, AKAI casette deck. Send phone # to Box 792, Northampton.

Fender Bass-Music Master. Excel. cond., also Arthur E. Smith Maple Leaf 5-string Banjo. Excel. Cond. Best offer on both. Call Brian at 549-3796.

1 mth old FM stereo- fits in dash of most foreign cars. B.O. 546-5001.

Infinity Qa spkrs. New w/ transferable warrantee. $215. Call 546-4132.

SAVE up to 50%on TENNIS SHOES! Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18.-30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181

Bike Rack, Filing Cabinet, Rec. Chair 549-5725

Olin Mark III Skiis (170's). Never been used. $150. or Best Offer. Call 665-4963 evenings.

Soligor 90-230 F4.5 zoom lens. UV filter and case. Screw mount. Exc. Cond. $90. Will fit most 35mm. Call 6-8711.

Hanimex Practica L. 35mm SLR w/150mm F2.8 lens, case, Wesson light meter, Honeywell flash, instructions. Exc. cond. $80. or Best Offer. Call 6-8711.

Fully restored 140yr. old farmhouse. 1 acre, wood burning stove, barn, two bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen, bath. Taxes $95. $29,900. No brokers please! 665-3560.

Matching Executive Chair and Sofa $50. 4 piece Oak Set Desk, 5 draw Chest, 2 Cabnets asking $145. Call 253-7462.

Stereo 8track AM-FM, Best Offer! Green Suede Coat size 9. Margie 584-9468.

Gibson J-50 customized guitar, exc. cond. and 2 beautifully handcrafted steel string guitars. Call Mike 253-5949.

Stereo System 8track, AM-FM radio, turntable, four large speakers. Pail $350., asking $200. Excellent condition 546-7695.

Falmouth 300 yards from large Waquoit Bay. Trilevel. 3 bdrms. Fieldstone fireplace. Cathedral ceilings. Celler. Central heat. Sacrifice at $24,900. Tel. 253-9328. Ask for David Shores.

HELP WANTED

OVERSEAS JOBS- Summer/Year-round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500.-$1,200. monthly. Expenses paid, sightseeing. Free inform.-Write: International Job Center, Dept. MC, Box 4490, Berkeley, CA 94704.

Experienced Waitresses. Apply Poor Richards 11 to 1p.m. daily.

Babysitter - warm resp. girl one night a week for three girls. 253-3149 256-0577.

INSTRUCTION

Hypnosis&Self-Hyp. Learning group organ. new classes. Come Thur. 10PM rm.811 Campus Center for info.& trail induction.

ROOM WANTED

Quiet undergraduate male seeks room in quiet house to hang his hat and study for spring semester, possibly January and for next two years, including summers. Willing to pay for own bath and kitchen, or easy access to them. Will live anywhere in area. Please call 545-3503 Mon. nites and ask for Joe or leave message for rm. 209 - 50724.

WANTED

Players for weekly Poker Club needed. 1-2-3 Call Bob at 549-1316.

2 Tickets for Jethro Tull Concert in Sfld. on Nov. 19. Tel. 253-7610 for Wayne.

LOST

Lost Meal Book. Please help me. Lost in Southwest Wed. No reward, just sentimental value. 6-9882.

T.I.SR-40 Calculator. Somewhere in or between Goes. 152 and Bluewall on Sept. 28 after 8p.m. Desperately need it for doing my assignments! Please return - Reward and No Questions asked. 256-6059.

Young f. dog. Alaskan Malimute-Siberian Husky White legs, black face, white tipped bushy tail. Named Frizbee. Very important to me. Call Grace 546-6760.

Dog white w/blk spots Btown tags. Lost in Amherst. Call 549-5434.

Lost pr. glasses. Wire rim brwn. case. Call 532-8143. Holy.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low price & full service. All models avail. T159-$225., 58-$99.95, 51-$49.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. Models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators. 549-1316.

AUDIO

Used Receivers, Speakers Call 546-4034.

Turntable Pioneer PL11ZD. $60. list $100. Only 4 mos. old. Call Marc, 6-4353.

ENTERTAINMENT

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco, Monitor Music, 546-4731, Rea.

SERVICES

Expert Typing. Mary Beth eves. 586-1206.

Horses Boarded in exchange for use by responsible UMass student 863-2680.

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models, low prices. Jack 586-0610.

For A Good Layer Cake: Custom made & beautifully decorated birthday etc. Cakes on 2 days notice. Right on campus, (not associated with Campus Ed Service). Laurie 546-9576.

Expert Typing, only 40cents/page. Call after 6, Mon.-Thurs., 256-8484.

Collegiate research papers. Thousands on file. All academic subjects. Send $1. for mail order catalog. Box25918-2, Los Angeles, Calif. 90025 (213) 477-8474.

TRAVEL

Guatamala in January? Manan Ruins jungle river trip, climb semi-active volcanos. Slide show at Hampshire Mon., Nov. 7, 7:30 Prescott House B1 Lounge, limited space 15, Dec. 29-Jan.19, $950.,includes airfare round trip to Guatamala, accomodations, food, travel expenses, guides throughout trip. For details call Holly Wheeler, Amherst 256-0219 evenings.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Notices

AMHERST YOUTH CENTER

Coffeehouse performers for Sunday nights are needed. For further info call 549-6335 or drop by in the former North Amherst School house.

BELCHERTOWN SATURDAY VOLUNTEERS

The bus for the state school will leave Saturday from Whitmore, at 12:30 p.m. and return approx. 4:30 p.m. Any questions contact Kevin, 549-4562.

COMMUNICATION DISORDERS CLUB

Majors invited to meeting Thursday Arnold House 120, 7 p.m.

HANDICAP AFFAIRS OFFICE

Meeting today 1-4 p.m. Campus Center 124-126, for volunteer training of Wheelchair Superstars Competition this Saturday.

HOUSING OFFICE

Housing Exemption applications can be picked up in the office, 235 Whitmore from now until November 4.

LOST

Ladies silver Lucien-Picard watch with blue face. In vicinity of Newman Center. Call Brian 5-0070.

NORTHEAST AREA GOVERNMENT

Meeting in Lewis House at 6:30 p.m. All members should attend, everyone is welcome.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS

Van will be in front of Hasbrouck at 6:30 p.m. tonite. It will stop at Patterson in Southwest. New people welcome, questions call 256-6035.

PRE-DENT CLUB

Dr. Shiere and Dr. Fogels of Tufts Dental School are speaking tonite 6:30 p.m. Campus Center 174. Important for anyone considering applying to dental school.

PRE-VET STUDENTS

Bill Gearin is coming to speak about Tufts Veterinary School on Tuesday, 10-25, 7 p.m. Campus Center 917. Bring dues.

REWARD

Coffee pot was removed from SBA 116 after 5 p.m. Friday, 10-15. Reward for the person who returns it, no questions asked. Call Cindy 546-9161. The SBA Coffee Shop.

SPORTING GOODS CO-OP

Meeting Tuesday, 10-25, 7:30 p.m. Campus Center 168 (lower level). All wecome.

SPECTRUM

Meeting for all interested in working on fiction, poetry, and art staffs. Friday 5 p.m. Campus Center 104. Business persons urged to go.

STREET HOCKEY CLUB

Women's street hockey, anyone interested? Call Beth or Donna 546-6150.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT

The Initiative Petitions on Marijuana are having a meeting at 9:30 p.m. Campus Center 174. Please volunteer your time.

UMASS HANG GLIDING CLUB

Meeting 8 p.m. Campus Center 165-169 for officer elections. Bring membership card if you wish to vote, all members must attend.

UMASS VOLLEY BALL CLUB

Practice at 6 p.m. today, Boyden. New interested people welcome.

WANTED

Home for 7 month old Gordon Setter. He is housebroken. Call 549-6739.

WOMEN'S ICE HOCKEY CLUB

Any woman interested in playing please call Karen, 546-1422 or Dustin 549-2635.

PUMPKIN RAFFLES

The winning weight of the Stockbridge Floriculture Club Pumpkin Raffle was 71 pounds, 14 ounces. Jay C. Gedenberg won with a guess of 71 pounds, 8 ounces.

Environmental coalition sponsors film festival

The Coalition for Environmental Quality will sponsor a free film festival today with films on topics including the nuclear energy controversy, the energy crisis, and the population crisis.

The festival begins at 10 a.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium, and films will be shown continuously until 5 p.m. More films will be shown in Campus Center 101 beginning at 7:30 a.m. The first presentation will be a slide show by naturalist-photographer John Green concerning his trip to Glacier National Park in Montana.

WMUA to broadcast Rep. Connolly's speech

WMUA (UMass radio, 91.1 FM) will broadcast a speech tonight at 6:00 by state Rep. Michael Connelly, D-Boston, chief sponsor of an amendment to the Massachusetts State Constitution which would limit the number of consecutive terms served by all elected state officials.

Connolly spoke here Tuesday in a brief respite from his 170-mile walk across the state to gain support for his proposed amendment, which he hopes to place on the ballot through the initiative petition process. The petition requires the signatures of some 56,000 voters, which must be submitted to the Secretary of the Commonwealth no later than December 7.

National game competition: opportunity for students

UMass maintains membership in the Association of College Unions-International (ACU-I) through the Student Activities Office. Each year the ACU-I sponsors games tournaments regionally, and then nationally. The games events include:

men's bowling women's bowling
men's pocket billiards women's pocket billiards men's table tennis women's table tennis table soccer bridge men's frisbee women's frisbee air hockey chess

Areas of participation must be reported to the Regional Coordinator no later than Nov. 15. Many Registered Student Organizations exist which annually compete in these games.

Last year the women's bowling club travelled to San Antonio, Texas to be in the National tournament (all expenses paid). This year our regional tournaments will be held Feb. 3-4 at Worcester State College.

This is an invitation to organize tournaments for area dorms, residential areas, and RSO groups so there can be all campus competition and then send the winners to participate with other campus winners from this region.

For further information contact Irene Richard in the Student Activities Office, 416 Student Union, 545-3600.

BANQUET FACILITIES FOR 175
The Elmwood Inn
RUSSELL RD. HADLEY, MA.
LUNCHEONS Tues.-Sat. 11:00-4:00
DINNERS- Tues.-Thurs. 4:00-9:00
Fri. & Sat. 4:00-10:00
FREE glass of wine with this ad
DINNER SUNDAY 12:00-9:00
A FINE NEW ENGLAND RESTAURANT LOCATED ON SCENIC ROUTE 9, HADLEY JUST BEFORE THE BRIDGE

9th ANNIVERSARY SALE!
sale 8.99
WOVEN FLANNEL SHIRTS 25% OFF! REGULARLY $12
sale 11.99
PURITAN SHETLAND SWEATERS ...SAVE 30%! REG. $16
1/3 off
JUNIOR BLOUSES & SHIRTS SOLIDS, PLAIDS, & PRINTS EXPAND YOUR WARDROBE NOW AND SAVE!
50% off
SPECIAL SELECTION! JUNIOR FALL DRESSES BY PLAIN JANE
Levi's
MEN'S CASUAL SLACKS $5 OFF! REGULARLY $17
CARPENTER CORDUROYS $8 OFF! REGULARLY $20
sale 11.99
1/3 off
JUNIOR SWEATERS, BULKY KNITS...33% OFF
1/3 off
JUNIOR SLACKS, CORDUROYS FLANNELS, GABERDINES...
WEAR-HOUSE
Amherst Open till 9 P.M. Thursdays & Fridays
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

---

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

OKAY, LISTEN—THE REST OF THIS DEAL IS SOME SORT OF QUESTIONNAIRE WE GOTTA FILL OUT—IT'S CALLED THE "MALE ATHLETE ATTITUDES AND DISPOSITIONS SURVEY."
"① SHOULD WOMEN BE ALLOWED TO PLAY FOOTBALL? IF SO, WHEN?"
B.D., MAY I HANDLE THAT ONE?
GO AHEAD, WILLY.
B.D., IT IS MY OPINION THAT WOMEN SHOULD NOT BE ALLOWED TO PLAY FOOTBALL UNTIL SUCH TIME AS IT CAN BE RELIABLY DETERMINED THAT HELL HAS FROZEN OVER.
GOOD ANSWER.
AFTER THAT, IT'S FINE WITH ME!
10-20
GBTrudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

15 mi TO HOTEL
14 mi. TO HOTEL
...THEY'RE CARRYING THE #@%!! THIRTEEN SYNDROME A BIT TOO FAR!
12 mi. TO HOTEL
10-20

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

IF THE THEME YOU'RE WRITING FOR SCHOOL IS GOING BADLY, AND YOU NEED SOMETHING TO IMPRESS THE TEACHER..
...DO WHAT I DO..
&
THROW IN AN AMPERSAND!
10-20
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Hey, Mark, you're growing a beard!
Yeah. I figured I needed the insulation, so I haven't shaved the past four days.
That all? I've been growing mine for three weeks.
Growing your what?
Never mind.
Ranney 10/20

WHAT NEXT? by Dick Janssen

....AND OF COURSE WITH A CLASS OF THIS SIZE, ALL TEST SCORES WILL BE SCALED....
PSSSST... WHAT DOES "SCALED" MEAN??
IT'S HOW HE GRADES OUR PAPERS
HOW DOES IT WORK?
WELL IT'S BASED ON A CAREFUL SCIENTIFIC METHOD.... SEE, HE TAKES THE PAPERS TO THE TOP OF A LONG STAIRWAY,....
....AND THROWS THEM DOWN... THE ONES THAT MAKE IT TO THE BOTTOM GET "A"'s, AND SO ON.....
?
10/20

UM by Marty Maceda

IDEAS INC.
featuRING... THE OL' BAB-OON HEAD
O.K. DIG THIS...
A T.V. SHOW ABOUT A GANG OF THUGS WITH DYSENTARY...
WE CALL IT "LOOGANS RUNS!
Hmm...?
STINKS
OBSCURE YET IRREL-EVANT!
WHAT'S HE BEEN READING?
MACEDA 10-20

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

SOON GERALD WILL ARRIVE, AND I CAN PUT HIM OUT OF COMMISSION!
IN ANOTHER PART OF TOWN...
WELL KNOOT, HERE WE ARE IN MOROCCO!
I THINK IM GOING TO LOOK FOR A PLACE WHERE I CAN HAVE A COUPLE QUARTS OF OIL!
OKAY... LATER!
GERALD HITS THE STREETS...
HMM... THIS PLACE WILL DO FINE!
MIKE'S chicago BLUES CLUB
THAT'S HIM!
LAFLER 10/20

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20 — Born today, you are one of those highly creative individuals who proves an inspiration to others and a joy to himself. Seldom are you without some project for the future. At the same time, you take tremendous pleasure out of remembering projects of the past. You are easily stimulated by events around you. Your insatiable curiosity along with your intellectual grasp of the general picture may make you very much a 'know it all.' You are not, however, one to flaunt your knowledge; you accept with humility your own advantages over others.

Intrigued by foreign lands, by persons different from you and yours, you have a basic instinct for travel. It doesn't take you long to become oriented to a particular place, no matter how strange it may have seemed initially. Your desire for the new and the different remains unsatisfied; for no sooner have you settled down in a strange place to enjoy its difference than you discover that you have adjusted to the situation and adapted to the circumstances.

Although you will probably attain success on your own, you will receive many offers of help in your climb to the top. Unfortunately, there will be many promises unkept insofar as your would-be assistants are concerned. Even so, you will not be discouraged. You have faith in your own ability and have a knack for being spurred to action by disappointment rather than being slowed down by it.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Unless another's offer coincides with your own wishes you are not likely to be flattered. Indeed, you may be irritated.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — Take a philosophical stand when asked your point of view, especially should it differ with the view of the majority.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Consider life's ambition before accepting an offer to take on new responsibility. You may be selling yourself short.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — An exceptional set of circumstances makes it suddenly easy for you to attain a long-standing goal today.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Be ardent. This is not the time to soft-pedal your emotions; let others know precisely how, and how much, you feel.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Scientific research has more to offer you at this time than you thought. Don't discourage a youngster's curiosity.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — Take advantage of an opportunity to meet new people. A young person of influence may speak for you toward P.M. Welcome it.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — There is greater happiness than usual in store for you by day's end. Confide in friends and family regarding upcoming change.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — Studies of a scientific nature take your time and mind today. Don't begrudge another small favors begged before noon.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — Your ability to make friends quickly should save you much in the way of nervous tension today. Ask for and receive help.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — Pressures build up early in the day where career advancement is concerned. Roll with the punches; don't become dissatisfied.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — Self-indulgence is not as bad as you may have been led to believe. Know what you want next out of life; seek and find it.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate

ACROSS
1 U.K. division
6 Taste
11 Acquire
14 "Remember The -----!"
15 Regard with respect
16 John ---: Arctic explorer
17 Makes easier
19 -- - matter of fact
20 Adolescent year
21 Hold a stop watch on 22 ----- up: Conditions
24 De Valera's land
26 Interior portion
27 French resort
30 Pulverizes
32 Throw out forcefully
33 Stuck to
34 Playing card
37 Newfoundland cape
38 Create
39 Mr. Carnegie
40 Skill
41 French impressionist
42 Nerve-racking
43 Places in a row
45 Wrapped
46 Wading birds
48 Left
49 Creme de la creme
50 Isolated rock
52 Strong wind
56 Piece in checkers
57 Got well
60 Had a meal
61 Love to a signor
62 Make reparations
63 --- Richter: Footballer
64 Instruments
65 Virile male

DOWN
1 Send lightly
2 Wing-like parts
3 Intertwine
4 High rank
5 Coin of Peru
6 Fabric
7 "---- Bede"
8 Suffrage
9 Pay dirt
10 Taking it easy
11 Racetrack structure
12 Kind of stand
13 Annoy
18 "How sweet -- --!"
23 Peculiar
25 On pension: Abbr.
26 Intelligence
27 Wax: Prescriptions
28 At variance with 29 Certain peaches
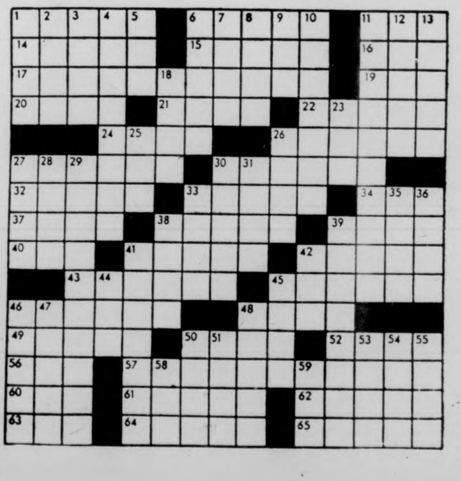
30 Sticky stuff
31 Small one
33 State: Abbr.
35 In addition
36 Want urgently
38 Atmospheric conditions
39 Deputy
41 Inorganic substance
42 Bon ---: Style
44 Number of things
45 Golfer's cry
46 Of blood
47 Fill with pride
48 Yawning fit
50 Macbeth, for one
51 Remedy
53 Particle
54 Miss Horne
55 Paradise
58 "Down Under" bird
59 College cheer

Wednesday Puzzle Solved:

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| G | A | S | P | | B | E | A | R | D | | D | E | B | S |
| A | M | I | R | | A | G | R | E | E | | E | V | O | E |
| M | O | T | O | R | D | R | O | M | E | | P | I | N | E |
| P | R | O | M | O | T | E | | S | P | E | L | L | E | D |
| | | | O | D | E | T | S | | E | L | A | | | |
| S | W | A | N | E | E | | M | A | R | I | N | E | R | S |
| L | I | N | T | | T | H | O | U | | T | E | N | E | T |
| A | N | T | | S | H | U | T | T | L | E | | T | E | A |
| S | C | R | A | P | | S | H | O | E | | P | E | S | T |
| H | E | A | D | A | C | H | E | | S | T | A | R | E | S |
| | | | O | R | A | | R | I | S | E | R | | | |
| P | I | G | P | E | N | S | | R | E | N | E | G | E | S |
| A | D | I | T | | D | E | M | A | N | D | N | O | T | E |
| N | O | N | E | | O | R | A | T | E | | T | O | N | E |
| G | L | A | D | | R | A | T | E | D | | S | P | A | R |



1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13
14 15 16
17 18 19
20 21 22 23
24 25 26
27 28 29 30 31 32
33 34 35 36
37 38 39
40 41 42
43 44 45
46 47 48 49
50 51 52 53 54 55
56 57 58 59 60
61 62
63 64 65

Collegian Pizza Bowl

Circle Team you think will win
Ties are losses

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1. U. of Rhode Island | at | Boston U. |
| 2. AIC | at | Springfield |
| 3. Pennsylvania | at | Yale |
| 4. Colorado | at | Nebraska |
| 5. Kentucky | at | Georgia |
| 6. No. Carolina St. | at | Clemson |
| 7. USC | at | Notre Dame |
| 8. Washington St. | at | Stanford |
| 9. Baltimore | at | New England |
| 10. Denver | at | Cincinnati |
| 11. Houston | at | Pittsburgh |
| 12. Minnesota | at | Los Angeles |

Winner is determined by person who picks most games correctly. In case of tie, winner is person coming closest to picking score of UMass game.

UMass ——— UConn ————

If still tied, winner will be drawn.

Contest is open to all UMass students and employees. Entries (limit one per person) are due at the Collegian Sports Desk, 101 Campus Center, by 5 p.m. Friday.

Prize is one large plain pizza and a small soft drink at THE HIDEOUT, 103 N. Pleasant St.

NAME —————————

ADDRESS —————————

PHONE —————————

Due to an error by the printer, the Collegian Pizza Bowl printed in yesterday's Collegian is void. The Pittsburgh and Los Angeles games were switched. If you have already entered the contest you will be notified, or you may submit a second entry. The correct games should be: Minnesota-Los Angeles and Houston-Pittsburgh.

Scuba for credit in Fla.

How would you like to spend a week diving in the Florida Keys during intersession and earn university credit for it?

The UMass Scuba Program is now accepting applicants for the third annual January term sport diving course offered at John Pennekamp Coral Reef State Park, Key Largo, Florida, December 28 to January 4.

All certified divers are welcome. Registered university students may receive 2 credits for the course by enrolling for sport scuba diving through the General Physical Education Program. Successful completion of the course leads to NAUI (National Association of Underwater Instructors) certification as a Sport Diver.

Cost is $155 which covers lodging, dives and instruction. The course is being coordinated and instructed by Bob Sparks, former director of the UMass Scuba Program.

The course is designed to provide a continuation of formal dive training beyond the basic certification level and to offer alternative dive experience to divers in the New-England area. The curriculum covers a wide variety of topics, including: diver safety and rescue, underwater physiology, underwater navigation, dive planning and marine environment.

More important, however, it involves a lot of diving. Students make nine boat dives, including a wreck dive, a deep dive and a night dive.

The Florida Keys are unquestionably one of the finest dive scenarios in the continental United States. The water is Carribean blue and temperate. The visibility is usually 50-80 feet.

John Pennekamp Coral Reef State Park, where the course is held, boasts 100 square miles of protected reef system that abounds in corals and beautiful tropical marine life. It is an exquisite place to dive and an ideal location for a sport diving course.

Sport courses are a lot of fun. Last year's was exceptional. This one promises to be better than ever and to provide safe but exciting diving for all who come.

For further information, contact Bob Sparks, 30 Forest Park Avenue, Springfield, Mass. 01108, (413) 739-7942.

Charlie's
U MASS NIGHT
10% OFF
ALL FOOD & DRINK W/ID
1 PRAY ST. AMHERST 549-5403 Next to The PUB

Sip into something Comfortable...
SOUTHERN COMFORT
100 PROOF

So smooth. Easy to sip. Delicious! Comfort®'s unlike any other liquor. It tastes good just poured over ice. That's why it makes mixed drinks taste much better, too. Sip into something Comfort®able.

great with COLA, TONIC, 7UP, BITTER LEMON, GINGER ALE, ORANGE JUICE, —even MILK!

Southern Comfort®

©1977 SOUTHERN COMFORT CORP
SOUTHERN COMFORT CORPORATION, 100 PROOF LIQUEUR ST LOUIS, MO 63132

REFRIGERATORS ARE HERE—AVAILABLE NOW

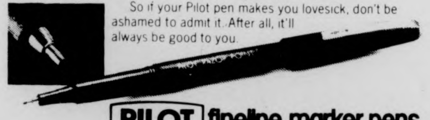
Spirit Haus
open 'till 11 p.m. daily
SPECIAL-OF-THE-WEEK
ANSELMI ITALIAN WINES
VALPOLICELLA BARDOLINO
SOAVE
20% off regular prices

Faces of Earth

BASKETS

A genuine piece of peoples art. From all corners in all sizes, some with covers some without, some natural some fancy. For bread or fruit, for plants or pencils. Containers for use and beauty.

Next to the Amherst Post Office — Open: 9:30-6, Mon. thru Sat.



Is it sick to love a pen?

Not if it's an extraordinary Pilot Razor Point marker pen.

A fiber-tipped pen so precisely balanced, it will always feel comfortable in your hand, even after hours of writing. Its sturdy plastic point, surrounded by a unique Pilot metal "collar" writes a distinctly smooth, sharp line.

In fact, it's the thinnest tipped pen you can buy. And that makes it just great for pages of notes or that one important love letter. Best of all, it's only 69c and is now available at your college book store.

So if your Pilot pen makes you lovesick, don't be ashamed to admit it. After all, it'll always be good to you.

PILOT fineline marker pens.
They'll never leave you flat
Pilot Corporation of America, 41-15 36th St., Long Island City, N.Y. 11101

Down Vests

Try one of these lightweight, versatile, year-round garments.

EMS has a wide selection of vests by Gerry, Camp 7, and EMS.
From $29.50.
PolarGuard® vests, $24.50.

Eastern Mountain Sports
Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9:30 AM-9PM,
Sat. 9:30 AM-5:30 PM
Route 9, Amherst-Hadley Line
Amherst, Massachusetts
(413) 253-9504
VISA
master charge

Gridders move up

The UMass football team is beginning to make its presence felt among the pollsters.

In the latest Division II national rankings, the Minutemen have moved up to sixth place from last week's seventh spot. South Carolina State continues to lead the rankings, with New Hampshire still in second spot.

UMass and UNH are the only New England schools in the top 10.

In the Lambert Cup race, UMass trails first place UNH by eight points. The Lambert Cup is annually awarded to the outstanding eastern middle-sized college football team.

In the race for the Lambert Trophy, given to the top major college team, Colgate (6-0) is three points ahead of Penn State (4-0-1). Last season's recipient, Pittsburgh, is ranked third in the balloting.

Boston College (3-3) and Harvard (3-2) are the only Massachusetts schools included among the top 10, at eighth and ninth respectively.

| NCAA DIVISION | PTS |
|---|---|
| 1. South Carolina St. (6-0) | 60 |
| 2. New Hampshire (6-0) | 56 |
| 3. Montana St. (5-1) | 51 |
| 4. Northern Michigan (6-1) | 49 |
| 5. North Dakota State (4-1-1) | 42 |
| 6. Massachusetts (5-1) | 38 |
| 7. Tennessee Tech (6-0) | 37 |
| 8. Nevada, Reno (5-1) | 33 |
| 9. Jacksonville St. (Ala.) (5-1) | 30 |
| 10. Austin Peay (5-1) | 25 |
| 11. Winston-Salem (7-0) | 25 |

| LAMBERT CUP | PTS. |
|---|---|
| 1. New Hampshire (6-0) | 70 |
| 2. UMass (5-1) | 62 |
| 3. Clarion State (5-0) | 58 |
| 4. Springfield (5-1) | 41 |
| 5. Indiana State (Pa.) (3-1-1) | 36 |
| 6. East Stroudsberg (3-1) | 29 |
| 7. Lehigh (5-2) | 24 |
| 8. AIC (4-1-1) | 18 |
| 9. Delaware (2-3-1) | 12 |
| 10. Maine (3-3) | 6 |

JV booters blank WPI; third straight shutout

By JUDY KEEFE
Collegian Staff

The UMass J.V. soccer team traveled into Worcester yesterday with a 2-0 record to face W.P.I. and came back to Amherst with a 3-0 record and a blanking of W.P.I. UMass has yet to be scored upon and all three of ts games have been 3-0 wins.

It was a dreary, freezing day though fortunately the rain held off until after the game and a tight game ensued between the two teams with a lot of hustle present.

Two of UMass' three goals were scored in the first half. The first goal, ten minutes into the game, was from Jack Heslin to Antonio Estainislau. This was Heslin's third assist in as many games. UMass' second goal in the half didn't come until there were ten seconds left. Dave Mains fed to Will McEnroe. So far McEnroe has scored one goal in each of the Minutemen's games.

UMass Joel Dryer said, "W.P.I. played well in the first half until pressure was put on them, then they panicked."

WPI's offense was never fully awake in the first half, it had only two shots on goal, but it fell into an even deeper sleep in the second half. WPI didn't even have a shot on goal in the second half. In reality WPI never represented an offensive threat, although its defense was good.

This was the first game in which Dryer played all his men. Two of them who had yet to play this season scored and assisted on UMass' last goal. A pass from Kirk Simon enabled Pete Szafir to put the ball in WPI's net.

WPI's coach made no excuses for his team's loss. Said he, "We played up to our potential, UMass is simply a stronger team."

The JV team's next game is away at Holyoke Monday.

Wicks a Celt

BOSTON [UPI] — The Boston Celtics signed Sidney Wicks to a multi-year contract less than three hours before their scheduled season's opener against the San Antonio Spurs last night, a team spokesman said.

Wicks was available for last night's game, which San Antonio led by seven, 62-55 at the half.

Wicks, a six-year NBA veteran, was involved in a lengthy off-season contract dispute with Celtics brass this year.

The 6'9" forward played his college ball at UCLA.

The spokesman said the Celtics would have to pay Wicks' former team, the Portland Trail Blazers an undisclosed sum for compensation.

The Celtics put Norm Cook on waivers to make room for Wicks.

★ Offensive line

CONT. FROM PAGE 16

can say is that I have gotten the protection from everybody to complete the passes I have to."

Physically, the offensive line is extremely big, strong, and quick. Coming off an extensive winter and summer weight conditioning program, the players themselves feel the results.

"When we go out there every game, our line feels we can overpower the other offensive line. We are that much stronger and quicker," said Penta.

In addition, the players themselves continue to lift weights even after practice has ended. A spot check one night found the whole offensive line at Boyden gym lifting weights at 8:00 on a Monday two hours after regular practice had ended.

"Probably the biggest difference between last year and this year is that we are together as a unit, both on and off the field. We work out together, lift together, and have all gone through a lot together as a unit," said the senior 6'1" 235-lb. offensive tackle.

Greene, 6'2", 245 lb. and a transfer from Vermont feels the weightlifting program has made the player that much stronger.

"When you are able to block effectively against your opponent, your mental mistakes, especially your holding calls decrease. This all comes from being in condition and physically stronger than your opponent," said Greene.

Ross Schubarth, 6'3" and 255 lb. returns to the line after a year off for academic reasons. Two years ago as a junior, he made first team All-Yankee Conference offensive tackle. He's back this year giving both physical and moral support to the unit.

"This line has the most depth of all the lines I've been on. It has definite quality in all positions and has people who work very, very hard to accomplish one thing — that's to do the job," said Schubarth.

Bruce Kimball, a junior 6', 243-lb. guard said this year's offensive line has a strong potential to give UNH and Boston College very tough games but maintains that the most important game is the next one — UConn.

"We know that we can give UNH and BC good games but we have to concentrate on beating UConn and Holy Cross, because if we lost to either one of those teams, beating UNH and BC are meaningless," said Kimball.

Offensive center McLaughlin, 6'1", 243 lb. senior transfer from Holy Cross, credits much of the success of the line to offensive line coach Ken Conaster.

"He's a great motivator, because he doesn't let us get complacent about our success. He finds mistakes before they become habits and strives for perfection. He will always stress confidence in ourselves to get the work done. He gets us psyched up," said McLaughlin.

Conaster feels the success of the line can be summed up in three words, "keep the faith".

"Dedication and believing in oneself and others around you is the key to this offensive line. These people believe they can do the job. They go out there every game with the attitude they can overpower the defensive line and strive for the first down every time they get the ball," said Conaster.

"Offensive linemen have to give their physical all and have that great desire to play football and be happy for whatever happens.

"They don't get the glory the other players do but without them the offense goes nowhere."

Every week Conaster prepares a weekly quiz to each offensive lineman to check on whether the player can identify the blocking schemes and the opposing team's defensive line strategies.

"Last year we had people blocked like hell but made mistakes and couldn't overcome them. When things go wrong it can be attributed to two things: Either the players don't understand or they physically can't do it. We concentrate this year on making our players as physically and mentally prepared as possible," Conaster said.

Offensive line leads gridmen

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

Item I: As the 1976 UMass football team plodded its way through a season record of 5-5, fans asked: Why can't coach MacPherson find some ballplayers who can protect the quarterback and give the running backs some blocking?

Item II: It's a rainy, muddy Saturday afternoon in Harvard stadium. UMass has just beat Harvard 17-0. The sportswriters crowd around quarterback Mike Fallon and running backs Billy Coleman and Hank Sareault. Offensive linemen Gerry Greene, Jim Penta, Ross Schubarth, Mike McLaughlin, and Bruce Kimball begin to take off their mud-caked uniforms happy as the rest of the team.

Item III: A post-game comment by MacPherson following a UMass victory over Maine, 28-0.

"There's no question the strength of our team is the size and strength of our offensive line. It's a credit to all the athletes winter and summer conditioning and willingness to work as a unit."

Item IV: In this past Monday's Collegian, two photographs featured offensive linemen. Quarterback Mike Fallon throws a touchdown pass to tight end Kevin Cummings while Greene, offensive left guard, blocks two opposing linemen four yards away from Fallon. In the other photo, Kimball and Greene lead a power sweep for Coleman. Coleman gained 12 yards on the play.

Item V: "Footbal is built on a star system and linemen are not the stars. The television camera follows the ball and so do the fans," said Glen Dickey, reporter for the San Francisco Chronicle.

Schubarth (left tackle), Greene (left guard), McLaughlin (center), Kimball (right guard), and Penta (right tackle) make up UMass' offensive line.

This unit, blocking for running backs Coleman and Sareault, has accounted for a net total of 1,1650 yards in six games compared to the oppositions total of 426. They have given the quarterback, Fallon, time to complete 47.8 per cent of his passes.

"These guys are absolutely great," said Coleman, the leading rusher on the team with 634 net yards.

"My yardage total is directly responsible to the blocking of the offensive line," he said. "In order for me to spring loose, I have to get that block, and everytime I've needed it, I have gotten it. Without these guys working together, I can't do much."

These UMass offensive linemen show the form that they've used this season to lead the Minutemen to their current 5-1 record. The linemen have been doing an admirable job as Minutemen runners are churning our record amounts of yardage this year and quarterback Mike Fallon has already set new records in the passing department with their protection. This action was against URI last Saturday. (Staff photo by Steve Lesser)

Fallon said his ten touchdown passes and high passing percentage wouldn't be as high if not for the passing protection.

"The line of scrimmage controls the success of our offense," he said. "We are primarily a running team which means the offensive line must dominate to spring our running backs loose. If the running game goes well, the passing game will follow. All I

TURN TO PAGE 15

Collegian Sports

Women stickers edge Southern Conn, 2-1

By MISSY GALLAGHER
Collegian Staff

With one minute remaining Tuesday, Laura O'Neal scored the decisive goal, giving the UMass field hockey team a 2-1 victory over Southern Connecticut, which is ranked sixth nationally.

O'Neal's first goal of the season boosted the Minutewomen's record to 6-0-2.

Southern Conn. broke the scoring ice when Missy King fired a waist high shot past UMass goalie Kathy Gipps. The tally came seven minutes into the first half.

UMass retaliated when co-captain Lynsie Wickman scored her third goal of the season with five minutes left in the first half. Jody Wickman earned the assist as the goal resulted indirectly from a penalty corner.

When the halftime whistle blew the deadlock was still intact. Penetration time favored the Owls with 3:12, while UMass acquired 2:04.

The second half was dominated by the UMass stickers. UMass coach Judy Davids attributed this to her players conditioning. Her team "just over ran them," commented the UMass mentor.

Penetration time for the Minutewomen in the latter half was 4:10, while Southern Conn. could only manage 1:57.

This statistic showed up in the total of shots on net. UMass challenged the Owls netminder with 20 shots with Southern Conn. managing only four for the entire contest.

The UMass control of the second half was handwriting on the wall. Laura O'Neal, at left inside, drove a hard, low shot to the right of the Owl's goalie. The quick O'Neal enjoyed her best game to date, noted Davidson.

Everyone played well but there were a few standouts who received commendations from their coach.

Laurel Walsh at sweeper, made good stops thwarting Southern Conn.'s offensive attacks according to Davidson.

Judy Kennedy, the sparkplug on defense, continued her fine play. Davidson remarked that it was Kennedy who kept the Minutewomen afloat when they lacked the scoring punch to put away Yale and Colgate. Both games ended in a tie.

Another member on Davidson's list was Kelly Salls, who has been the steadiest player for the Minutewomen this season. Also, Kathy Gipps continued with her excellent goaltending. Another star was Cheryl Meliones, who constantly harrassed the Owls with her tenacious style of play.

Julie McHugh, Lynsie Wickman and Ginger Bulman also received praise for their contributions in the triumph.

Needless to say, Davidson was pleased with her squad's performance. The Minutewomen advance into the second half of the season on a high note, and they play a makeup game at Central Conn. today at 3:30. Another tough obstacle will be New Hampshire this Saturday, also away.

Rich Eckel

Trustees fumble proposal

By RICH ECKEL
Collegian Staff

For months the UMass Board of Trustees has been discussing ways to improve athletics at this University. But so far the trustees have only fumbled the issue and lost a lot of ground.

The trustees on June 1 voted to approve a plan that would allow UMass 120 athletic tuition waivers. In other words, the board had made a big stop towards coverting the little regarded UMass athletic intercollegiate teams into power capable of competing with major athletic schools in East.

The vote in favor of the tuition waivers was close, 9-8, and debate over the issue was lengthy. The board was divided down the middle and UMass president Robert C. Wood cast the deciding vote in favor of the plan.

At the meeting, Wood stated that he hoped the action would lead to a new type of tuition waiver for exceptional service or contribution to the University.

Another supporter of the proposal, Trustee Robert Gordan, stated that UMass should either support intercollegiate athletics or drop them. However, other members found the proposal unacceptable.

A major dissenter against the waivers was Trustee Paul Marks. He commented that the board should not discuss the motion outside of the whole tuition waiver policy. This plan would grant scholarships to students who had served the University, such as residence hall counselors and others deemed worthy by the board.

Marks said he was worried about the timing of the proposal, since it was to be voted upon while students were on summer break. He also was concerned about adverse publicity because of the Commonwealth's current fiscal situation. Marks stated he didn't believe better teams would necessarily mean greater alumni support.

Another trustee against the proposal was SGA co-president Marianne "Pinky" Batiste. Batiste yesterday told the Collegian she didn't support the plan because the board was taking a "piecemeal" approach to the whole issue of tuition waivers. Batiste said she was worried that once the athletic waivers had been granted the other considerations, such as those for students who had contributed a great deal to the University, would be forgotten.

She also stated that the proposal did not stipulate how many of the 120 waivers would be given to women, and that she was afraid it would all go to the football team.

The trustees' next meeting was July 28 and once again the athletic tuition waiver was discussed, even though, the board, by majority vote, had passed the proposed at its last meeting.

Secretary of Education Paul Parks asked that the matter be taken up again since he had left the meeting before the June vote. Another vote was taken and this time the dissenters won by 12-11, thereby referring the matter of tuition waiver back to the board's, Student Affairs Committee.

Keep reading because it becomes more complicating and mystifying trying to decide what, in fact, the trustees had decided.

Trustee Robert Spiller, a supporter of the athletic tuition waiver, asked for a legal opinion on a point of order. He claimed that a motion for reconsideration had to be made by someone who had voted in favor of the original motion. Since Parks had not voted in June, Spiller contended his motion for reconsideration was out of order.

Since then, lawyers have determined that Parks' motion was out of order. Now the issue is being dealt with by the Student Affairs Committee. If you managed to follow all of that bureaucratese, it is expected the issue will come before the board within the next three months, so those interested in the outcome should stay tuned.

---

The Denver Nuggets began their NBA season last night, without the services of ex-UMass star forward Jim Town. Town, who graduate last spring made the final cut of the Nuggets.

He, too, is involved in a precarious situation since the NBA has yet to decide whether a team can carry 11 or 12 members. Should the NBA opt for 11, the players union will ask the owners to create a two-man taxi squad for each team. If this happens Town probably would be asked to stay with the Nuggets as a taxi squad member.

UMass basketball coach Jack Leaman said that he talked to Town about a week ago, and that Town was still in Denver. Town told Leaman that if he didn't get a shot with the club, he would probably vacation in Hawaii, and then return to the Denver area.

---

BELOW THE SALT

Volume 6 Issue 7 October 20, 1977

TRAPPED

Students
Trapped
In dormitorial dream-world
Chanting in pseudo-utopian bliss
Rolling stone mantra
Praying for chains to rot

Workers
Trapped
In industrial nightmare
Sweating factorial frustration
Alienated confusion
Struggling for chains to break

People
Trapped
In commoditic consumption
Purchasing profusely
Self-product
Hoping to someday buy chains

-RasTapunk Ram Dass

DINO DE LAURENTIIS Presents a FREDDIE FIELDS production
Lipstick
It isn't always an invitation to a kiss.
Vigilante, city style – judge, jury, and executioner.
A Paramount Release
DINO DE LAURENTIIS Presents
CHARLES BRONSON
in a MICHAEL WINNER film
"DEATH WISH"
TECHNICOLOR
A Paramount Release
R
Fri. Oct 21
CCA-Tickets will be sold
at 6:30 & 9:45,
for both shows
$1.00

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
LIVE! ON STAGE! THE 50's COME TO LIFE!
"The dancingest show in town" — Daily News
Grease
"THE KIND OF MUSICAL BROADWAY HAS NEEDED FOR SOME TIME! 'GREASE' DESERVES THE ADJECTIVES WE ONCE AWARDED SHOWS LIKE 'PAL JOEY', 'KISS ME KATE', 'GUYS AND DOLLS', AND 'THE PAJAMA GAME'." — New York Times
FRIDAY
October 28 8PM
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale General Public -$7, 6, 5.
UM-A students and senior citizens - $6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

ART PRINT SALE
AT THE CAPE COD LOUNGE
OCT. 19, 20, 21
GREAT FOR DORMS & APARTMENTS
SPONSORED BY ASTRONOMY CLUB

UNIVERSITY ENSEMBLE THEATER
Fine Arts Center, University of Massachusetts
SUBSCRIBE TO OUR 23RD EXCITING SEASON
ROMEO AND JULIET
By William Shakespeare
Oct. 28-Nov. 6
ANTIGONE
By Jean Anouilh
December 2-10
AMERICAN COLLEGE THEATER FESTIVAL X
New England Regionals
Jan. 26-28
SCHOOL FOR WIVES
By Moliere
Feb. 24-Mar. 4
THE REAL INSPECTOR HOUND
By Tom Stoppard
Mar. 31-April 8
ANASTASIA
By Marcelle Maurette & Guy Bolton
April 28-May 4
AS A SUBSCRIBER YOU RECEIVE THESE BENEFITS
• You don't have to pick out your dates months in advance. We send you a coupon book that you exchange for tickets at your convenience.
• See two plays out of our season for free!
• Free exchange!
• You are never left out when the show is sold out!
Students/Senior Citizens only $8.00
Non-Students only $12.00
ANY QUESTIONS? CALL OUR BOX OFFICE 545-3511
Please clip and mail to: University Ensemble Theater, 112 Fine Arts Center, UMass, Amherst, MA 01003.
Please send me ______ subscriptions at $8.00 each.
Please send me ______ subscriptions at $12.00 each.
The total amount of my remittance is $________ Please make check or money order payable to The University Ensemble Theater
NAME: ____________
ADDRESS: ____________
CITY: ____________ PHONE: ____________
SORRY NO REFUNDS. THOSE PURCHASING STUDENT OR SENIOR CITIZEN SUBSCRIPTIONS MUST SHOW IDENTIFICATION UPON ADMISSION TO PERFORMANCE.
BOX OFFICE OPEN MON.- FRI. 2-5pm IN THE LOBBY OF THE FRANK PRENTICE RAND THEATER, UMASS FINE ARTS CENTER

BELOW The SALT

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor: Bob Armstrong
Asst. Editor: Ken Shain

Art: Leslie Lawrence
Music: Ross Nurenberg
Film: Skip Tenczar
Books: Cheryl Sreiberg
Dance: Leila Bruno

CONTRIBUTORS

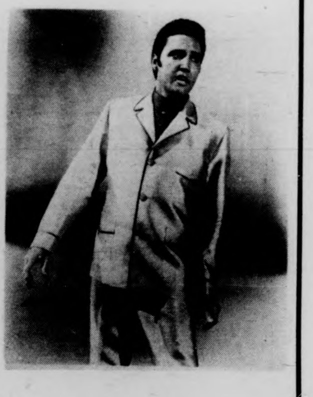
Rick Alvord Lisa Waite Abu-El-Hob
John Bergman
RasTapunk Ram Dass Rich Pioli
Mark Harris Levitan
Larry Lee Skip Tenczar David Need
Steve Waldman Sharon True
Cheryl Sreiberg
Lauren Traub Kenneth Shain
Gerry Hallaren
Allen Silverberg R. Arps Garrett

Below the Salt is the weekly fine arts supplement to the Collegian. Do not let the term "fine arts" lead you to believe that we will print only material that deals with "high culture" or impressionistic, individually-oriented art. We are of the many roles which various forms of art may play in a society. Therefore we welcome the submission of any material that deals with anything in an artistic context, we repeat; anything. One stipulation is that if this material is typed it should be double-spaced at sixty-seven spaces per line. Please have whatever you want published in Sunday night in order to insure publication in the following Thursday's issue. Our office is located in the Collegian complex on the first floor of the Campus Center. If no one from the staff is at the office when you come down, you may leave your material in the appropriate folder on the file cabinet or leave a message on the wall.



Every burned book enlightens the soul - Emerson

BOOKS

Weegee's Core of the Apple

WEEGEE
Edited by Louis Stettner
Alfred A. Knopf
$15.00

In the classic, realistic tradition of Cartier-Bresson, Weegee (the only name he used) was a man who knew the heart and soul of his city. For Bresson it was Paris, for Weegee it was New York. Part of a large emigrant family from Austria, Weegee grew up in the ghetto of the Lower East Side and after leaving school at the age of fourteen, he became and remained for many years part of Manhattan's working poor. After dozens of odd jobs and a very serious interest in photography, Weegee finally landed a job as darkroom man at Acme News Service. It was here that he learned both his skills and his intense sensitivity to the people of his city. In Naked City, his first published book of photography (1946), Weegee's images are bold, stark and simple. They capture the height of the moment, be it Easter Sunday in Harlem, 1940, the Vegetable Peddler walking his horse in the midst of a blizzard, 1946, or a lonely Sleeper in a Bar, 1939; each photo captures the essence of the human emotion. Eventually Weegee became a free lance photographer, but he continued until his death in 1968 to use his city as his source of material.

Weegee himself

This particular collection has photgraphs from 1930-1965 and it becomes apparent, after the late forties, that Weegee has lost his earlier naive approach and becomes more conscious of his subject matter. He came to have a love of celebrities, parties, and people simply having a good time. These later photographs lack some of the intensity of his earlier work but they do continue to be a chronicle of his intimate relationship with the city. The best of his later collection are certainly those of his Greenwich Village series of which many are included in this book. Toward the end of his life Weegee turned to various aspects of trick photography.

This book includes perhaps the best of this period, for many of his later ideas were done purely for monetary or commercial reasons. Luckily, this book (which includes 112 full-size photos) contains mostly his earlier images which are really incredibly expressive. It is a book of visual, human poetry and for the most part better than any of his individual collections, except Naked City.

Cheryl Sreiberg

FANTASIES • MONSTERS • NIGHTMARES • DAYDREAMS
MYTHOPOEIKON
In a magnificent full-color collection of paintings, book-jacket and record-sleeve illustrations, and etchings, one of the world's most popular fantasy/science fiction artists offers notes and commentary on each of his works. In Mythopoeikon, Patrick Woodroffe details the development of his fascination with fantastic art forms and subject obsessions, and his interest in "fantastic realism," as he studied artists such as Bosch and Dali. Mythopoeikon is a brilliant visual experience that will dazzle the eye and mind of anyone who sees it.
Patrick Woodroffe
$9.95 • Simon and Schuster/A Fireside Book

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS
COSTA DE SOL ~~$2.95~~ NOW $2.25
ICE COLD KEG BEER $21.00 And Up
SCHMIDT'S 12 oz cans $5.90 case $1.50 six
In-door Savings too good to be advertised.
Come see for yourself!
– UNLIMITED QUANTITIES ON SALES ITEMS
– NO EXTRA FOR DELIVERY
– AMHERST'S CLOSEST LIQUOR STORE TO UMASS
In Amherst Center, across from the green 253-5441

POETIC INJUSTICE

RIGHT-WING WHITE-RING

Right-wing white ring
Terrorize the town
Supporting Allen Bakke
Tearing statues down

Frightening lightning
S.S. out at play
Sticking pins n' needles
Troopers on the way

Stinking drinking
Brownshirts on the loose
People get together
Cook the Nazi goose

RasTapunk Ram Dass

BAKKE = WHITE POWER!
BAKKE = WHITE POWER
WHITE POWER NOW!!!

THE PUB
TONIGHT
TWO FOR ONE
8:30 til 11
( Most Drinks & Beer TWO for ONE )
Miller ON TAP 2 FOR 1 8:30-11
T-Shirts Given Away EACH WEEK
AND LIVE ENTERTAINMENT
If you've got the time, we've got the beer.
TWO WAY STREET
EATING & DRINKING
AMHERST

ATE HATE EIGHT
(ONLY ONE RACE THERE IS, THERE IS)

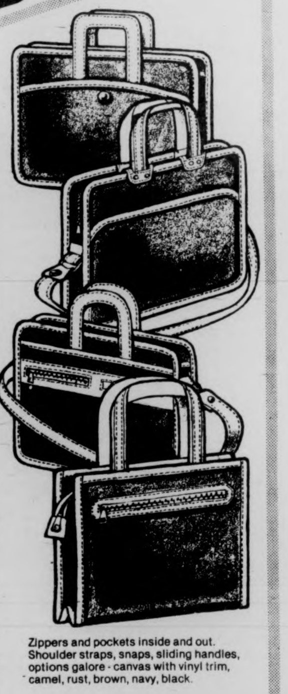
Miscegnate
Mix your race together
Multiplicate
Make white a minority now
Disintegrate
Racist illusions
Coagulate
Make our people whole.

Mix now
For America
Mix now
For our pride
Mix now
For everyone
So good and bad can't hide

Affirmate
Our highest goals together
Irrevocate
Racial progress now
Capacitate
Human understanding
Prognosticate
A future for us all.

-RasTapunk Ram Dass

AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426
"Zany, lively, uninhibited sexual odyssey." —N.Y. TIMES
'Dirty Duck' is a free- association trip.' —Tom Allen, VILLAGE VOICE
DIRTY DUCK
ANIMATED & X-RATED
EVES 7:15 & 9:00
SAT & SUN MAT 5:30
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00



Briefbags
Zippers and pockets inside and out. Shoulder straps, snaps, sliding handles, options galore - canvas with vinyl trim, camel, rust, brown, navy, black.
$6.95 TO $8.95
Faces of Earth
Next to the Amherst Post Office
Open: 9:30-6, Mon. thru Sat.

THE GREAT PUMPKIN SAYS:
NO TRICKS
ONLY TREATS!
♥ HE WILL GIVE HIS VEST
TO THE 202ND AD-BEARER TO COME SEE HIM AT
TLC YOUR LEATHER PEOPLE
20 CENTER STREET • NORTHAMPTON

The rusty nail Inn
presents
Tonite, Thurs., Oct. 20
FAT
Fri., Oct. 21
THE BRICKER BAND
Sat., Oct. 22
SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY and the ASBURY JUKES
Special Guests
The Bricker Band
Sun., Oct. 23
SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY and the ASBURY JUKES
Special Guests
Widespread Depression
Mon., Oct. 24
L & M and the SOUL DRIVERS
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel.665-4937

---

DANCE

Videodance

MATING: VIDEO AND DANCE
by Sharon True

Videodance -- a fusion of what is perhaps the oldest of art forms, dance, with one of the most recent, video. More specifically, videodance is a new visual art which seeks to integrate the kinetic, electronic apparatus of video (camera, microphone, tape deck, TV monitor) with the kinesthetic, dynamic apparatus; of dance (human beings or objects moving in space and time).

Videotaping dance performances for the purposes of documentation, or for the translating of a dance created for the stage which is suitable for the medium of television (as seen on PBS), are certainly both useful functions which the medium of video fulfills; however, "videodance" needs to be differentiated from these in that it is an art unto itself -- the dance is created specifically for the video camera.

Videodance is chararcterized by dance which is structured for the rectangular screen of the video monitor, and by video which is structured to capture the dynamics of dance. One of the most important attributes of video is its capability for immediate playback of what has just been taped. This provides choreographers and dancers with valuable feedback, further, it allows them, for the first time, to see both themselves and the dance in process.

As compared to film, video, with its instant playback and light-producing image properties (as opposed to film's mechanical and projected-light image properties) tends to exude a more immediate, spontaneous, informal, psychologically intimate quality.

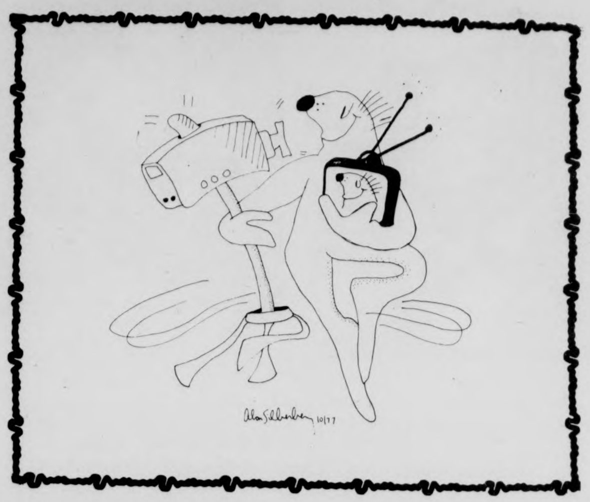
In a stimulating, week-end long workshop sponsored by the Five College Dance Department, Richard Lorber, videodance specialist and editor of Dance Scope, discussed many of these ideas and more, and in conjunction with Blondell Cummings (videodancer and performer in Meredith Monk's company) and video artists in the area, facilitated a "hands-on" work session which introduced the participants to the experience of creating videodance.

Lorber, who first became interested in videodance in 1972, sees video as a "liquid mental-electric space", where any form of choreography, including movement of objects, can reveal a state of mind, reorient perception of space and time, and draw attention to the rhythmic structuring of space and time. He considers videodance to be the natural outgrowth of cinematic, or cine-dance.

Some of the major proponents of videodance include Amy Greenfield, Doris Chase, JoAnne Kelly, Joan Jonas, Jeffrey Bush, and Charlie Atlas. Greenfield focusses on the interpersonal dynamics of dance, while Chase experiments with dance and the special effects possible with video, such as colorization and distortion. Kelly and Jonas have both incorporated video in their live performances, creating a curious dialogue between the video monitor and the dancers. Bush's works are expressive duets between the camera and the dance, and Atlas, who works with Merce Cunningham, designs for the camera eye and video "rectangle".

Looking toward the future, Lorber expects that videodance will take its rightful place as a respected and valuable art form. He feels that there is no need for concern that videodance, even with its captivating special effects, will eclipse dance as we know it today; however, he does feel there is a danger in over-doing video-documentary and translation of dance, because these dances are created as theatrical events, not video events, and therefore they could conceivalbly reduce the dance to a lifeless assemblage of moving objects which communicate nothing.

Dance, so long searching for a permanent form, and video (so often despised as an art in its most common form, commercial television), in quest of artistic content, seem to have at last found each other -- a mating whcih promises to be full of exciting possibilities.



Confounding!
Sherlock Holmes unraveling the clues, Sigmund Freud unraveling the motives... on the fiendish trail of the Baron with a weak backhand, the Pasha with a penchant for Red heads, the Overcoat with a small man inside. THIS STORY IS TRUE. Only the facts have been made up.
THE SEVEN-PER-CENT SOLUTION
A HERBERT ROSS FILM
ALAN ARKIN · VANESSA REDGRAVE · ROBERT DUVALL and NICOL WILLIAMSON in "THE SEVEN-PER-CENT SOLUTION" LAURENCE OLIVIER · JOEL GREY
SAMANTHA EGGAR · CHARLES GRAY
GEORGIA BROWN · REGINE and JEREMY KEMP
A UNIVERSAL RELEASE · TECHNICOLOR
PG PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED
Thurs. Oct 20
CCA - 7,9, & 11
$1.00

Academy of Music
Northampton
Only Area Showing!
NOW 7:15 & 9:00
ACADEMY AWARD WINNER
- Best Documentary -
Ardent, absorbing
—Gary Arnold Washington Post
HARLAN COUNTY U.S.A.
no dollar nights
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

FOOD

Phased Out

(restaurant review)
Lauren Traub
Phases Restaurant
Bernadston, Ma.

(Take Rte. 91 north to the Bernardston/Northfield exit, turn left, then left again on Bald Mountain Rd. and follow it to the top of the hill.)

To celebrate the Fall foliage spectacle, we recently drove north, to Bernadston, Ma., where Phases is located high on a hillside. Lounge and dining room seats of this modern building overlook the countryside through floor-to-ceiling picture windows. The luncheon menu is small, physically and content-wise, but is replaced at dinner with a large, impressive leather-look hard cover listing, complete with a gold "Phases" seal on the outside. Four hot dishes, four cold salads, and six not-very unusual sandwiches make up the luncheon menu. They were out of roast beef, which dropped the sandwich choices to four. Crepes, an omelette, Quiche, Seafood Newbury (sic), pineapple filled with crab or shrimp salad, tomato filled with tuna, fruit salad bowl, and chef or Caesar salad make up the non-sandwich dishes.

We began our lunch with soup and by sharing the fruit salad bowl. Onion soup au gratin had a nicely seasoned broth with the usual melted cheese and crouton floating on top. Tomato soup with rice was not the usual cream variety, but a clear red broth with large pieces of cooked tomato in it. The rice had a good, not overcooked texture, but alas the broth showed no evidence of seasoning whatsoever, and had fat globules floating on top. "Fruit Salad Supreme with delectable dressing" consisted of peaches, orange and grapefruit sections, pineapple chunks, and dark pitted cherries, all from their respective cans. The dreessing served separately was mayonnaise with a touch of marsh mallow. Overall, the salad had the potetntial to be much more than the dish of limp fruit in grapefruit juice with mayonnaise dressing that it was.

Service was exceedingly leisurely, in fact...slow. Warm store bought dinner rolls and a crock of soft butter helped us to bide the time. Our waitress, Audrey, who admitted that she was not having one of her better days, also had a hard time remembering which order went to which person at our table. It shouldn't have been so confusing since there were only four of us.

The open-faced tuna with melted cheese ($1.25) was the standard Campus Center Coffee Shop version with a little paprika on top and a few soggy dills on the side. In the Coffee Shop however, they let the tuna get warm. The turkey club sandwich had a good quantity and quality of turkey, and the crusts were cut off the toast. But the toast was soggy. The omelette was of the whipped egg white variety, sparsely filled with mushrooms, and served in a puddle of oil that could easily rival the greasiest of spoon diners. And while we're on the subject, our table settings were incomplete and we had to borrow a few pieces of (spotty) silverware from neighboring empty tables.

Cheesecake was a moist fluffy baked version rather than the solid, heavy New York style, and though not bad, looked most unappetizing with the attempted embellishemnt of maroon cherry juice soaking into it. The cherries and juice (from the same can as the ones in the fruit salad no doubt) could have been skipped completely. Bavarian Crepe Almondine was a soft crepe with a very seeet custard filling, covered with thin, very sweet chocolate sauce, and sprinkled with toasted almonds. Very sweet. Pecan pie smothered with canned whipped cream whether you like it that way or not, was good, since I like it that way, but it would have been better slightly warmed instead of straight out of the fridge. Coffee was excellent, the pot was left right on the table for refills which added definite points.

Overall impressions of Phases were that this is a uniquely designed reasturant with attractive decor, and in a beautiful setting. (But the fact that servers have to contend with five steep stairs to enter or leave the kitchen seems like gross negligence on someone's part.) The prices are modest at lunch, and could even be considered a bargain if you add in the aesthetic value of the autumnal panaoramic view which is included with every meal. But the luncheon menu itself seems incongruously unimaginative and limited compared to the expansive and ambitious dinner menu. The dinner menu cannot possibly succeed in the level of sophistication that it attempts unless a lot more care is put into the food and its service than that which was evident at our lunch.

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.
Adults $2.50—Students with AMC Card $2.00—Children $1.25—Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded
SORCERER
Four outlaws... risk the only thing they have left to lose.
Starring ROY SCHEIDER
PG
1
Thurs. at 6:00, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 5:30/$1.50
Fri. at 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:30/$1.50
A long time ago in a galaxy far, far away...
STAR WARS
MARK HAMILL HARRISON FORD
ALEC GUINNESS CARRIE FISHER
PG
2
Thurs. at 6:00, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 5:30/$1.50
Fri. at 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:30/$1.50
JAMES BOND 007 in "THE SPY WHO LOVED ME"
PG
3
Thurs. at 6:00, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 5:30/$1.50
Fri. at 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:30/$1.50
Starts Fri. Welcome to L.A.
City of the One Night Stand
R
4
Ends Thurs.: Bad News Bears in Breaking Training
6:30, 8:45
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS LIMITED TO SEATING
Friday and Saturday Midnite Show
NEW
BEATLES AROUND THE WORLD
See the Beatles you loved in this never before released film of their concerts in Washington England TOKYO

RECORDS

The Fate of Forefathers

RAY CHARLES
True To Life
(Atlantic-Crossover)

ELVIS PRESLEY
Elvis In Concert
(RCA)

"...stylized treasure and diluted dreams already over..."

The forefathers of American contemporary music both have new releases out this month; Elvis with his first posthumous release ever and Ray with his usual and consistent best. The concurrent release dates of these recordings, despite disparity in style and the coincidentiality of availability, make for interesting copy, revealing plenty about our culture.

Ray Charles was doing it before Elvis, during Elvis, and continues to do so after Elvis. Selecting some of the best songs from some of the world's greatest songwriting teams, Ray stylizes an album of treasure, welcome to anybody's record collection. Opening with an ironic and masterful "I Can See Clearly Now," Johnny Nash's hit of some years back, Ray plunges into the works of Rodgers & Hammerstein, George & Ira Gershwin, Solomon Burke & Bob Bradstreet, and others, capping it off with a powerful "Let It Be" by the now defunct team of Lennon & McCartney.

Possessing the uncanny ability to breathe new life into old songs, Ray re-introduces us to "Oh, What A Beautiful Mornin'," re-awakens us to the classic "How Long Has This Been Going On," and makes "Heavenly Music" sound like a whole new song altogether. Ray Charles is one of those rare singers who can make old songs sound new and make new songs sound like you've heard them all your life.

Produced by Ray Charles, True To Life has an all-star arrangement of arrangers. Sharing the duties with Mr. Charles are Larry Mahoberack, Sid Feller, and Roger Newman. Honors and plaudits for rendering listenable time-worn tunes of yesteryear.

Some singers get better with age and some singers just get old. With all due respect and not a shred of malice in my heart, Elvis In Concertstinks. For a final tribute to the "King," RCA done Elvis dirty.In Concert is the original sound track recording from the CBS-TV special, aired this past month, plus additional songs recorded on tour in June, 1977. The special and the album were prepared for the public before Elvis' death and were presented intact, "as the king would have wanted it."

Spread out over four sides, In Concert begins with taped interviews with some of Elivs' more fanatical fans, a feature which bogs the album down continously. The music opens with a ludicrous and grandiose "Also Sprach Zarathustra," followed by the incongruous "See See Rider." Elvis still belted out a great song right up until his passing, but where you would expect to find new life in song, you find stale renditions of the classics, buried beneath over-production and fanfare.

My personal favorite on the album is the Elvis vocal showcase medley, "O Solo Mio-It's Now Or Never," demonstrating his style, range, and power, aspects of his performance obscured by the performance itself. The lows are everywhere; a minute and a half version of "Jailhouse Rock," fifty-seven seconds of "Johnny B. Goode,"and overstated undertreatments of "Hound Dog," "Can't Help Falling In Love," and his earliest "That's All Right."

Elvis has done better TV albums. His release on RCA in 1968 is head and shoulders over this current collection. Undoubtedly, Elvis collectors will want In Concert for their collections. The general public, however, will probably like to remember Elvis from his earlier efforts, notably his 1968 TV album.

It is highly unlikely that this will be the last Elvis album ever released. There is probably much in the RCA can and, like the posthumous career of Jimi Hendrix, will serve to further dilute the dream already over. The commoditization of culture won't let its greatest proponents rest in peace.

Kenneth Shain

The Same Ol' Dan

AJA
Steely Dan
(ABC)

Steely Dan fans will be very happy to learn that their good-bye (not farewell) to ABC has been capped by yet another immaculately produced album, for Aja displays a rich maturity different from the arrogant "don't give a fuck about anybody else (a '72 lyric)" attitudes which exude from their five previous LP's.

Steely Dan's new disc is much more jazz textured than anything they've assembled in their five year existence together, and further cements The Dan's rank as the best band to emerge from the '70's, besides making the scrapping (for "unknown reasons") of a concert tour they'd planned, easier to take.

There is an underlying (I swear!) disco beat on a couple of tracks, but in these places it is their lyrics-- with the same Dan charm and elusiveness to them-- which save these places and make them not only good songs, but songs that start to grow on the listener quickly.

Practically the whole of Aja though, needs no saving; the album was recorded in six different sites, five in California and one in New York City, and so many quality session musicians play on it that many of their names must go conspicuously absent by any reviewers inability to mention them all.

Many of them , like Steve Gadd and Paul Griffin, have long since passed(with flying colors) their apprenticeships with jazz artists like Al DiMeola, Keith Jarrett, Quincy Jones and Tom Scott (the latter appears on Aja). While a few Dan fans may be taken aback by the mellow jazz riffs, most will likely feel that Steely Dan's third album, Pretzel Logic, prepared them well enough for Aja what with "East St. Louis Toodle-oo" (a Duke Ellington composition) and their tribute to Charlie Parker, "Parker's Band."

"Peg" is another strong tune, rocking harder in a pleasant upbeat tempo while "Josie" which starts slow a la "Show Biz Kids," is an urgent anticipation of partying up a storm upon a lover's return. Chuck Rainey's bass playing is as solid as a boulder and moves quickly. "Deacon Blues" is also very nice, with Victor Feldman (an unsung comrade on all six Dan albums) playing electric piano and the same excellent female chorus (C.King, S. Mathews and V. Fields) which made "Kings," from the band's Can't Buy A Thrill LP, a prophetical statement.

Aja's title cut is possibly the disc's strongest track. Its mostly mellow, warm sound is prone to innovative changes 2/3 of the way through. While the Crusader's Larry Carlton and Joe Sample push the Dan's permanent regulars Walter Becker and Donald Fagen into some brain-rippling collaborations, it is Weather Report's Wayne Shorter whose simply sterling, beautifully creative sax solo makes this tune work ("Chinese music always sets me free").

As for Steely Dan's lyrics, it's the same ol' Dan: captivating but often incredibly elusive. While some themes like the emotions of "outlaws," hustling/basic survival in the city, losing and winning lovers and gettin' a buzz on remain intact images, only a few past Dan melodies like the classic "King of the World" (about a nuclear war) and "Barrytown" (a sneer at Rev. Moon's "moonies") are discernable meanings one can make tails of.

The only one I can make "heads" of is "Kid Charlemagne" from the Royal Scam album, which deals with an acid dealer. Rolling Stone critic Ed Ward once called the lyrics of the group The Band "elusive," but Steely Dan's are even more so. Grammatically, their lyrics are laid down perfectly, but most don't make sense on the whole. This is not a fault of the group but rather, its beauty: of stealing away to time warps and keeping folks guessing.

But while The Band's melodies were usually straight-forward soulful blues-rock, Steely Dan's remain not only elusive but innovative. Many chords are employed, and the end result has always been, thus far, successfully and somewhat amazingly coherent.

Aja is a very fine effort, combining studio production the quality of Steely Dan's possibly best album Katy Lied with rock-jazz songs which, though they aren't crisp or overly sarcastic like most earlier Dan material, are smooth, stately songs. It is bound to be one of my three most-played albums among '77 releases.

John Bergman

NEW RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE
Marin County Line
(MCA)

If you want to buy half an album and you're into California Country Rock, then this is the album for you. Side one of Marin County Line is a totally worthwhile venture for the band. This side of the album was written entirely by Stephen Love who uses the Marin County sound and leaves virtually anyone feeling comfortable listening to it. The instrumentals are fairly sophisticated and complicated. The lyrics though they don't have anything profound to say are harmless and very pleasing.

Turning the album over however could be a traumatic experience for anyone. Side one prepares the listener for more aesthetically aestheticly pleasing country music; but he is in for a big surprise. The second side is a regression for the New Riders back to their Panama Red days. The music of this side reflects the Marin County community: depthless. For example,"A Good Woman Likes to Drink with the Boys" the first cut of the side says, "I never leave her alone/I always bring the little woman along/All of them good, good women/like to drink with the boys." Do they? Does that mean if you are a good woman you drink? Can you not be a lush and still be a good woman? Another cut on the second side is entitled "Take a Red" with such striking lyrics as, "Take a red, Take a red, till it nullifies your head/Lay down baby take a red". These lyrics have no depth at all. A good adjective for describing the second half of the album would have to be shallow. The lyrics are shallow if not in most cases nonsense. Even the music on the second side is shallow; the lyrics and music fit together perfectly, nothing worthwhile and nothing outstanding. If you enjoy listening to the "New Riders", buy this album but don't ever listen to side two.

Rick Alvord

NORTON BUFFALO
Lovin' In The Valley Of The Moon
(Capitol)

Lovin' In The Valley Of The Moon was released last June without much fanfare. It has since become a minor hit. Norton Buffalo has become a minor legend. Buffalo has come up with an album that is certain to rank as one of the year's best new works. Lovin'... is rollicking and bouncy and hard-driving and sensitive and shining and a lot of fun. Mr. Buffalo combines the best aspects of his recent gigs with Steve Miller and Commander Cody, and infuses his own harmonical genius to reach a sharp hew blend of music

Yes, Norton is a harmonica player out on his own. But this ain't your basic boogie a la Magic Dick or John Mayall. Norton has complete command of such a mileu of styles as may be found in a Sears catalogue. He is equally at home on diatonic (Marine Band) and the more versatile chromatic instrument, but hold on here....

The genius of this album is in it's songs--good words and music. The band is supple, while Norton's voice is mellow, cool, and you might say, hip. Buffalo takes his very engaging and likeable songs and eases his sophisticated harp into the whole sound. The result is an exceptional transformation of good material into memorable music.

N.B. must be considered one of the foremost harp players in the land, as this work shows him to be exploring a wide range of tonal and "orchestral" uses for harmonica. For the sake of reference, let me remind you that Norton Buffalo is the creator of that outlandish harp solo on Bonnie Raitt's "Runaway." On Lovin' In The Valley Of The Moon, he plays and sings with the same energy and competence. It is a most innovative and accessible album.

Mark Harris Antelope

Hellish Music

RICHARD HELL AND THE VOIDOIDS
Blank Generation
(Sire)

"I was saying let me outta here before I was even born. It's such a gamble when you get a face. It's fascination to observe what the mirror does but when I dine it's for the wall that I set a place."

RICHARD HELL AND THE VOIDOIDS

Richard Hell's debut album is qualifying but anti-climatic after the likes of Tom Verlaine and Patti Smith. The New Wave is wearing down into a drift of repititious rifts perhaps. Nevertheless, Hell is far from the worst of it. If his pose wasn't so similar to Verlaine's ha would fare better. After his departure from Television and his "bright" philosophical single from last year, "Blank Generation," I had expected more brazen tour de force metallurgy. Instead we receive a collection of wild exclamations all on the short side (with the exception of "Another World") hearkening back to Mick Jagger's punkiest songs. "Betrayal Takes Two" has the same imposing rhyme scheme that the Stones were so fond of way back when:

"Betrayal Takes two. Who did it to who? I mean, not to be cut by your dull point of view"

But, we must not listen too hard to the lyrics; poking holes is a drag and for sure there is more.

The shortness and rapidity of the songs saves this album by flogging you again and again with thigh-ripping, chest-contorting rhythms which release you from whatever mess you've made for yourself. Before you know it all your clothes are strewn about and you want to dive back into the womb. How's that for a physically releasing regression? Seriously folks, if you don't get that far at least yo're headed in the right direction. Don't mind a few unimaginative Bowie squeals here and there because their playing is pretty neat and their punchy guitars weave a hell of a release. Unfortunately, the single cuts off this album have been revamped and pressed at the cleaners removing a little of the band's genuine artistic sensibility. Still it says on the cover that it's an instant record and I almost believe it. It's just reassuring to feel a little Spartan power back in rock.

-Rich Pioli

KARA SUITE
DAVID WERTMAN
Featuring
CHARLES TYLER
KEN SIMON
STEVE REID
RICHARD SCHATZBERG

David Wertman
Kara Suite
(Mustevic Sound Records)

David Wertman is one of us; he lives in Sunderland after growing up in New York City, obviously the place where he acquired the grest musical knowledge you can hear on this album. Kara Suite aims for the sky and given the talents of these young jazz folks following the Ayler/Braxton line of musical thinking, it succeeds in ways full of intense innovations and devotion to a very personal ideology. Sun Ra looms in the background as Wertman's ensemble echoes much of that very idiosynchratic emotion into their pieces. "Kara" opens the album with a quick-paced, uundulating sound resembling some mystical Eastern format; David's bass, solid behind Charles Tyler's Alto and Ken Simon's Soprano, is soft and unifying.

"Devotion," a title usually too often heard nowadays, fits nicely here because this music is a fine example of striving to create more than just another piece of music; this album tries hard to live up to its idols and demonstrates the embryo here that will probably grow into a powerful force after Sun Ra and some of the other amazing musucians being overlooked today are no longer with us.

"Sharatarr" creates a musical atmosphere of hypnotizing beauty; over fourteen minutes long, it is one of the most challenging things on the record. Here Wertman is clever and omnipresent throughout the horn accompaniments, Steve Reid's percussion driving out a somber and steady root.

Having arrived to the valley for the first time this past September, David is settling here to continue his musical direction in an enviroment much more conducive than the straining existence in New York. It is becoming more and more common that we hear about new jazz people living here among us and this is the reason. With this, there is a great energy, a movement hopefully of more music and guidance through this creativity reaching into all of our hearts. If you didn't live here you may never have gotten to hear it. Take advantage of this age.

David, only 25, has much to offer to this valley with the direction he has initiated on Kara Suite and it is a feeling which will crystalize more and more into all of its wonderful implications when the fortunate get to experience the casual flow of good music in our enviroment. This valley is pretty big and there wil be more and more places for us to achieve our pleasure as we demand more and more. David Wertman needs a chance and we do too. Attend his solo double bass concert at the Buckley Recital Hall at Amherst College on Saturday November 12th, 8:15 p.m. and let him know.

Rich Pioli

METRO
(Sire)

If the poor, white, disenfranchised youth of Great Britain are listening to punk and the students are listening to reggae, then it's the nouveau jet-set that is listening to this bunk. Embracing the seductive Bowie-esque bossa-nova beat and the mechanical approach to song, these bourgeois rockers offer us a platter better not reviewed. Sire, Warner Brothers' road-test label, wants to know if you like songs aout trans-sexualism, criminal mischief, and boring , coked-out hanky-panky on the Seine. Tell them you don't; leave this dog on the shelves to die and make the huge record conglomerates fork out something we all can enjoy.

Kenneth Shain

MARTHA VELEZ
American Heartbeat
(Sire)

RasTapunk told me after hearing Escape from Bablyon that he'd like to go steady with Martha; since he's heard American Heartbeat, he's not so sure. She's a torchy lass, for sure, with a pleasant voice and she writes her own material but instead of going reggae-punk she's went and gone reggae-disco. "Once In A While" says RasTapunk. I say its "Up To You."

Kenneth Shain

FANTASTIC FOUR
GOT HAVE YOUR LOVE
(WESTBOUND)

The fantastic four have come out with an LP that I,for one,have been waiting for. Their last LP, Night People, was one which I thought was their "turn for the better" as their sound matured and "Sweet" James Epps gained due respect as a lead vocalist. Got To Have Your Love takes this "turn for the better" full circle and makes it a key factor in the revitalization of the "Westbound sound".

The title cut has the most focus on the talents of their accomplished lead slashing through the tight harmonies. The rest of the Lp quiets"Sweet Epps" down somewhat and puts the focus more so on the group's sweet and uncluttered harmonies.

The sound and feel of the lp is hard and strong both instrumentally and vocally. It's typical new Westbound material as the guitar is the main instrument in various forms that are intertwined to create the weaving effect that is so characteristic of the Westbound Sound. The vocals are much more evident here than with the other harsher Westbound product (for the mellower side of Westbound, check out the Detroit Emeralds and Feel The Need) but this only makes sense as the vocalists on this LP are some of their best (along with the Detroit Emeralds).

The beat goes on at Westbound and I love every minute of it.

-Mario A. Barros

TED NUGENT
Cat Scratch Fever
(Epic)

The first time I ever saw Ted Nugent perform was nearly a decade ago when he was leading the Amboy Dukes through selections such as "Journey to the Center of the Mind." At this time he was the opening act for, believe it or not, Tiny Tim. Suffice it to say, Ted's style of over-amplified heavy-metal madness was severely frowned upon by the predominantly middle-aged audience who tried ever so valiantly to boo him off the stage. But Ted would have none of that. He stayed and played, occasionally pausing through a selection to deliver a hand signal or two to the crowd. When his set had finally concluded, he wasn't called back for an encore. The crowd was more than happy to see him go.

But times do change. Ted Nugent has been received by the world's adolescents as one of their heroes, and he has become even more outrageous as his sound has become even louder than it ever was. Cat Scratch Fever is heavy heavy metal capable of shriveling up wallpaper when played at maximum volume (as Ted wants it to be). If you think you'd enjoy songs with titles like "A Thousand Knives," "Death By Misadventure," "Fist Fightin' Son of a Gun" and "Wang Dang Sweet Poontang," then by all means rush right out and pick up Cat Scratch Fever. If you wouldn't enjoy the aforementioned, you'd better stay out of the kitchen because Teddy boy cooks up a storm.

Gradewise, give this lp a "one look at the front and back cover picture tells it all" B.

Ross Nerenberg

SISTER SLEDGE
Together
(Cotillion)

My daughter Shonda loves to dance to this album. It's got Sisters Kathie, Debbie, Kim, and Joni doin' great covers of Stevie Wonder's "I Was Made To Love Her" and "As," as well as a few danceable tunes by the sisters themselves. Great for your party or your children's; these youngsters may have a chart- buster.

Kenneth Shain

DARYL HALL AND JOHN OATES
Beauty On A Backstreet
(RCA)

One look at this album's cover--an intentionally garish Gentleman's Quaterly motif--and you know Hall and Oates are still holding the solemn, chic, sexually ambiguous pose they've struck for their last two albums. (If this album goes gold, my guess is that RCA will probably have them bronzed.) And, consistent with its cover, Beauty On A Backstreet is as stark and unattractive as it is self-conscious and glamorous, at once the most handsomely crafted and emotionally disfigured work Hall and Oates have yet to produce.

Musically, Beauty On A Backstreet is certainly above reproach. Having shed more styles than a snake has shed skin in their nine years together, Hall and Oates are now refining the unlikely fusion of metallic rock and Philly soul (with a Temple accent) that they concocted on their self-titled silver album two years ago. Over the raw bottom heavy arrangements provided by some of L.A.'s top-session mercenaries--Tom Scott, Lee Sklar, et.al--their voices swoop and soar with a striking coherence that ranks them among the top tonsil-flexers in pop music. With the soul influences subordinated here--they're audible mainly in the vocal harmonies-- Beauty On a Backstreet rocks with the manic energy that Hall and Oates have only, previously mustered in their live performances.

But, if this is musically their most manic statement to date,it is also lyrically their most depressing. Even the most vital vocal and instrumental arrangements here--"Bigger Than The Both Of Us" and "Winged Bull"--ultimately sound like just so much queasy-listening-music, encrusted as they are with the graceless and gratuitous sentiments Hall and Oates dredge up from their emotional depths.

Dominated by three cold, self-absorbed musings on obsessive love, and two trite, blatantly misogynistic rants, Beauty On A Backstreetbecomes by turns, more grim and more grating with each listening. The solipsistic self-pity of "The Emptyness", "Don't Change", and "Love Hurts, Love Heals" recalls the more repellant aspects of Joni Mitchell's work, though neither Hall nor Oates can match her sustained lyrical excellence. The ribald riposting of women in "Nasty Habits and Infections" and "You Must Be Good For Something" move the album closer to levity--and further from frustation--with its own witless way, the apt successor of "Rich Girl", the 1976 hit that was arguably the worst song Hall and Oates have ever recorded.

While Beauty On A Backstreet can't be considered Hall and Oates worst album--on sheer musical excellence alone, many will no doubt consider it their best-- the almost willful squandering of their considrable talents here certainly makes it their most disappointing.

Jack Flynn

CONCERTS

Concerted Sounds

BENNY GOODMAN
AT F.A. CONCERT HALL

Benny Goodman

Benny Goodman and his sextet treated a receptive audience to some of that ole swing, albeit with not quite the spirit and zest of a bygone era. All of sixty eight, Benny played sparingly, sitting out the first set but his opening rendition of "Send in the Clowns" demonstrated that he still possesses much of his former virtuosity. He received the tumultous applause of the audience with the kind of grace we have come to expect from those who have been legends for so long.

The musicians he is using now are, with one exception, (Connie Kay on drums) not "name" musicians but they all contribute competently to the preserving of the Goodman tradition. This night there was loose ensemble playing in spots but not such as to prevent that almost irrepressible toe tapping accompanying swing. Balance problems between the cymbals and the tenor sax and trumpet also marred the concert, particularly the first set. Warren Vacher, on trumpet showed us what we had been missing with an excellent featured solo after intermission. Conclusion: it could have been better but it was still fun, right? Right.

Steven Waldman

---

Jean-Luc Ponty Concert
The Rusty Nail
October 13

Jean-Luc Ponty
il joue
vachement bien

Jean-Luc Ponty shined at the Rusty Nail last Friday Night. The packed house and good time partying crowd are typical of the crowds that Jean-Luc attracts.

The Bricker Band opened the show with a good performance but the crowd wanted to see Jean-Luc. The Bricker Band merely allowed for more time to put a buzz on for Jean-Luc. When Jean-Luc appeared the audience was psyched. The first tune, "Tarantula" from the Imaginary Voyage album was played with such amazing power that the crowd rose to its feet yelling with enthusiasm. The band displayed a unique tightness throughout their performance.

The band is made up of amazingly talented people: Ralph Armstrong on bass (fretless too!), Steve Smith, from Boston, on percussion, and the looney Australian, Allan Zavod, in control of the keyboards. Zavod's solos proved he had his head together despite his odd beard and crazy actions. Daryl Stuermer, excellent as always, played electric guitar. Unfortunately, he didn't play any acoustic as he did on the last tour. Stuermer shared guitars with an expressive young guy from Long Island. His name was forgotten due to the good buzz that was on at the time.

Jean-Luc was superb. The "new and improved" version of the violin solo "Wandering on the Milky Way" was performed with magic, both technical and musical, that was incredible. All of the material played was from his last two albums, Imaginary Voyage and Enigmatic Ocean. Even George Benson showed up the encore, "New Country." The rowdy hillbilly tune sent everyone home in extremely high spirits.

-Larry Lee

---

Jerry Jeff Walker
Jonathan Edwards
Geeene Hall, Smith College
Sunday October 16,1977

Anyone somewhat familiar with the music and lifestyle of Jerry Jeff Walker knows that the quality of one of his live performances is often determined by the quantity of alcohol that he has consumed. Sunday night, Jerry Jeff had too much. It was clear from the opening song that a mixture of travelling and drinking had waylaid the man. Walker mumbled and continually confused the words to "Mr. Bojangles", one of his most familiar songs. It was a truly bad start, and it prompted bets as to how long it might take him to get his shit together. I said three songs; I lost badly.

By the third song, the rocking "L.A. Freeway", Walker had become very preoccupied with his guitar which was inaudible through either the P.A. or the monitors. Midway through this song he angrily stormed off stage. His band continued to play on, the cohesiveness and talent of the group surfacing and holding together what was beginning to be a bad scene.

Jerry Jeff returned, seemingly refreshed, only to quickly slip into further oblivion with each verse. He tried to manage a few slow numbers, which just didn't carry. His mumblings went nowhere, but with his humor intact he plodded on. Soon enough, the legitimate problem with the guitar resurfaced. JJW handled it as expected. He screamed and stalked off again. Again the band held forth, and Walker's manager, trying to save the night, scored one of Jonathan Edwards' acoustic guitars and directed Jerry Jeff back out. Still not happy with his sound he tried his electric one more time, the final result being one smashed amp and two broken guitars.

Walker's band ended the show in good form. Simply put, it is to their credit that the show carried so well with the audience. They surely have endured this act before. Jerry Jeff has provided his fans with some memorable and gonzo moments. But this time he was in no shape to be on stage.

Thankfully, Jonathan Edwards Edwards opened the evening with one of his strongest performances. His voice was crystal clear, while his timing and pacing of songs was eloquent. And he developed a warm rapport with the audience that was as dynamic as Walker's was clouded.

Edwards appeared unaccompanied, save for his guitar, piano and harmonica. His country-flavored tenor rang sharply through the hall as he performed the familiar "Shanty", "Honky-Tonk Stardust Cowboy", "Sunshine", "Nova Scotia", and "Athens County". His renditions of the love ballad "Lady", from the Rockin'Chairalbum, and "Carolina Caroline", from his most recent Sailboat album, were quite moving and were warmly appreciated by the crowd. A new song, written for his infant daughter, also carried well on this emotional level.

While there were quite a few cowboy hats and Jerry Jeff Walker tee shirts seen amongst the crowd, familiarity with Edwards' material ran high, indicating that the bill was a good match. It's a shame that an evening that began on such an up note ended in such emptiness.

Mark Harris Levitan

CALVIN
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON
ONE WEEK ONLY
"IF YOU DON'T STOP IT YOU'LL GO BLIND"
RATED R
EVES: 7:15 & 9:00
SAT & SUN MAT 1:30
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

sweaters • bags • flannel shirts • vests • jackets • belts • blouses •
genesis II
quality merchandise
recycled & new
COUPON SPECIALS
$5.00 for any pair of recycle JEANS and cord pants with coupon 10/24-11/5
25% off ARMY coats jackets and shirts with coupon 10/24-11/5
$3.00 OFF NAVY PEACOATS with coupon 10/24-11/15
65 university dr.
amherst, ma.
549-2747
mon & sat 10-6
tues - fri 10-8
formerly Old Weird Harolds

WOODY ALLEN
IN
THE FRONT
Thurs. Oct. 20 4,7,9,& 11
S.U.B.

Four Seasons
Package Store
"DISCOUNT LIQUORS"
RUSSELL ST., HADLEY at the Mt. Farms Mall
Tuborg Beer 12 oz. NR $5.79 case
Andre Champagnes Cold Duck-Extra Dry-Pink-Sparkling Burgundy $1.79 fifth
Burns Vodka $3.99 quart
Pabst Beer 12 oz. cans $5.29 case
Tuesday October 18 to Saturday Oct. 22
We reserve the right to limit quantities

at the
HATCH
The Ellis Hall Group

THE ELLIS HALL GROUP

Look for their Debut Album -
"Come Get It While It's Hot" with help from the Brecker Brothers
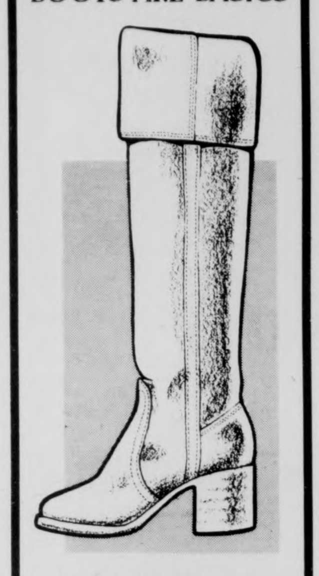
Friday and Saturday
Oct. 21 & 22

BOOTS ARE BASICS



For fall and winter fashion... skirts, jeans, gauchos, and pants all look great with our new 16" cuffed boot from

FRYE™

Heartfelt Leather

103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
10-6:00 Mon.-Sat. 253-5135

FILM

Questioning Quasars

Star Wars Reconsidered

Star Wars is a national phenomenon whether we would like to admit it or not. It is a film that has succeeded in drawing almost every sector of the American population into its grasp. Due to this, it is appropriate to try to understand why this film is so popular and what its implications could be, considering the diversity of its audience.

Star Wars is not a particularly original film, for it uses too many old conventions to be respectively called inventive. It does show uniqueness in that it pulls together many different filmic and literary genres into one cohesive unit. As one views this movie, one can see scenes reminiscent of space fantasy, adventure, war story and epic journey literature traditions. All of these traditions have their cinematic counterparts, and Lucas seems to have used them plus film's own slapstick comedy.

So before I go any further, let's develop a summary of the plot line in light of the contentions which I have made in the previous paragraph. To put it bluntly Star Wars is similar to many adventure and western movies. Our hero Lucas Skywalker is a science fiction farmhand who finds himself in the middle of a galactic revolutionary war. With personal vengeance on his mind, due to the murders of his father , aunt and uncle by the Empire, Luke joins the Rebel cause and goes to war against the evil forces of the universe. Along this route a group of courageous rebels is formed, it includes Luke, Han Solo (a John Wayne type space pilot entrepreneur), Ben Kenobi (member of a rebel group called the Jedi Knights), Princess Leia (leader of the rebels), Chewbacca (a Wookie who's eight feet tall and Solo's co-pilot,) and two robots named Artoo Detoo and See Threepio. This rebel group courageously battles the Empire (with a little help from the rest of the rebel army) and eventually overthrows it by destroying the Empire's chief destructive weapon, the Death Star. In keeping with most adventure-war movies of similar plot lines, it's clear who's going to win; the only question is, as the film progresses, are how will the task be accomplished and with how much agony?

The major appeal in the film's form is the 'bang-bang, shoot 'em up action'. All violence is fast and intensified, in T.V.-style editing, which virtually makes every action scene a mini montage. Also, the violence is very non-bloody due to the miraculous blaster technology and cutaway edit. Lucas dares not show too much blood and guts for fear of losing the young audience, but the violence is there. That's why I must commend Mr. Lucas; he gave America what it wanted-Clean Violence.

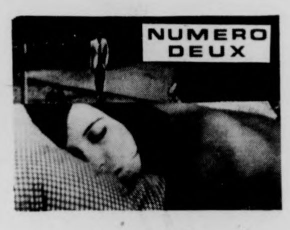
This film also speaks televisionese. There is always something extremely exciting happening; therefore the audience doesn't have to think too much while the film is going on-they only have to sit there and be titillated by the screen's image. This is done by having as many as three events happening at one time. Lucas then cuts from event to event, usually editing from one to another like a Batman T.V. show ending (continued next week, but in this case continued in a few seconds).

Lucas had another trick up his sleeve , though, and that was his musical score; again it was a method of intellectual suppression. Following the pattern of many old Hollywood adventure films, the Star Wars sound track would dictate the mood of any given scene. Very rarely was the audience given the opportunity to respond without, for example, having some orchestrated crescendo telling them to feel sympathetic. I found the heavy-handed dictation of moods in the Star Wars soundtrack similar to Leni Riefenstahl's 'A Triumph of the Will'.

There's one other method that Lucas used for impact, and this one is inexusable. If we look at the Star Wars heroes, we see that they were all clearly American. Their external appearances, speech, etc. could be found on any T.V. news show. On the other hand, Lucas made the members of the Empire seen clearly European; he went as far as dressing the military officers in very Soviet attire. This of course subconsciously brought the current red scare into the play ('we're the good guys, the commies are the bad guys', is still in a lot of people's heads") and I'm sure the film intensified this. Also, this aspect of the film tends to reinforce the attitude of white supremacy throughout the world. I'll make a value judgement: this is too bad we've oppressed too many peoples.

All in all, Star Wars is a masterpiece of holding people's attention; too bad it had nothing of substance to say. The film was created only for money, not for artistic expression. If one digs deeper one will find out that George Lucas is going to retire from making narrative films so he can make form-films with no content. He also says that he will mastermind the Star Wars sequels (plus take a percentage of the profit) and will possibly direct the fourth one. Let's hope he does, maybe then he can correct all his mistakes, like including humans who aren't only white.

-A. Tenczar



VISUAL NOTES

PREMIER OF GODARD'S NUMERO DEUX

Jean-Luc Godard's latest film will have its valley premier at Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire College on Saturday, Oct. 22 at 8 p.m., admission is $1.50. Numero Deux is hyped as a depiction of three generations of a French working class family in relation to: sexuality, the family structure, and oppression in consumerist society.

FRENCH NUKE FILM

SENTENCED TO SUCCESS is a film by and about workers in nuclear power plants. It can be seen at the C.E.Q. FILM FEST today at 2 p.m. for FREE . This film exposes some of the unsafe conditions faced by these workers every day. There are interviews with contaminated workers, who give reports of co-workers with bone cancer and other work related diseases. See this one, it's a look at nukes from the inside, by the people who have the closest view to share.

* * *

CHEAP...Sentiment

"The Bad News Bears Break Training"
Produced by Leonard Goldberg
Directed by Michael Pressman
Starring Willian Devane

'The Bad News Bears Break Training' like many sequels of good films, is only a mediocre, slightly less than a probable continuation of the original. This film is a poorly made sequel lacking the spontaneity and imagination for the Michael Ritchie's Bad News Bears. One of the major drawbacks to this film is the absence of Tatum O'Neil and Walter Mathau, two of the central figures in the original Bears.

In viewing the film alone, forgetting the original, we see only a bunch of highly contrived youngsters out to play ball. The actions of the boys do have their moments, but director Michael Pressman somehow lacks the ability to portray the children in a natural light. Pressman milks what few bright moments there are to the point of ennui. William DeVane plays a real coach with seemingly superhuman abilities, but without half the humanism of Mathau. To further alter the flow of the film two of the children demonstrate feelings not expected of children. These two characters, Keely Leak and Bill Tanner, are both shown in a peculiar light. One boy meets his father for the first time in eight years, the other is a neo-romantic who often alludes to a teammate left at home with a broken leg.

This film has its moments, and captures some of the feeling of the original Bears. But unless you are a fan of children in film it is better to miss this one.

G. Halloren

Art is not a mirror; it is a hammer.

- John Grierson

FAST ECONOMICAL & FREQUENT FREQUENT
FREQUENT
FREQUENT

Peter Pan and Continental Trailways offer service to Boston, New York and many other destinations.

CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS
& PETER PAN BUS LINES

CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

For Information, Schedules and Prices,
Contact: Campus Center Bus Office
545-2006 or 549-6000

"The Place that made Amherst Famous" OLE

40 INTERNATIONAL BEERS

(16 Draft)
MEXICAN & AMERICAN FOOD
NEW ENGLAND FRIED CHICKEN
ANDWICHES & SNACKS

THE DRAKE VILLAGE INN

85 Amity St. Amherst 253-2548

---

Fiction

THE STORY OF DAY AND NIGHT

.......Click-Cluck, the door is safely locked. It is a dangerous attempt for Night to rebel against her father's restrictions. All her life she was frustrated and most of the time depressed because she lacked the courage to resist and select what she feels sutiable for her. The horror of being committed outweighs, in Night's case, the pleasure of being strong. For the first time she has a man in her bedroom; confused, due to fear and anxiety, Night became nervous and stood motionless unable to help Day's injury. She is unable to commuinicate her state with Day. This caused her alienation from herself, and from Day at the same time. Finally she managed to wrap a bandage around Day's foot, and proceeded to play some tunes on her old phonograph. She asked Day to select a tune. Day laid his eyes on the first album, a paino concerto by Mozart.

-"What brought you over here Day?"

-"Fate I believe.......

-"Where are you from?"

-"I am from the Neverland. Have you heard of it before?"

-"No, never before, where is it?

-"It is on the shores of no return. It is a small island beyond man's dream--an island without poverty, injustice, sickness or war.

-"How could that be possible in a troubled world like ours?"

-"Instead of learning a trade, the natives learned new ways to love,instead of fighting, we chew a sacred plant which triggers visions of excruciating beauty. Instead of introducitng the technology of your corrupt civilization, we work in the land and suupport ourselves. There is no poor or rich man, all are brothers and sisters with no mental blocks that prohibit one from flowing spontaneously. Instead of wasting our energies by anger, fear and hatred, we learn how to breathe deeply the fresh air of our paradise, and allow life to flow in us. There is no evil here, because we chose to breathe and live in and with the good. We believe that evil is our own fabrication that is why we work to destroy it and prove its existence in reality.

Night was enchanted, and felt a surge of hope envelope her newly ameliorated soul . All her worries subsidided and as if Day lifed a great burden from her life, just for the fact that there exists a world she dreamt of continuously, but was never able to live up to it.

-"Is anyone allowed to live on this island?"

-"So long as they do not plan on corruptiong it, we let them for a short visit. Very few are those who heard of it, and this goes back to its geographical location. It lies in the sacred Far East on the other side of the Himalyas. We accept visitors for a short while, before decideing if they shall stay or not. Nowadays many western intellectuals are searching to unite East and West, so that the whole planet would transform into a paradise like ours. They are doing so by drawing inspiration from the spiritual wealth of our land, and are tying to introduce technology to the underdevelped countries so that everyone would have a fair share in the privileges that modernization furnishes.

Day felt so moved by Night's attentivenes and he became anxious to know more about her. By now the bird's ritual came to an end and the hissing of the night creatures fills the atmoshpere with serentiy and tenderness. Not far away, flows the river called "Nahr Kadeesha" and it was intent on giving itself up to the ocean a few feet away.

Many a moonlight night, Night meditated the ectacies and agonies of life under a huge historic elm tree that dug its roots deep in the earth. The strong bond between its roots and the river's water, reflected Night, is as permanent as our relationship to the vast deep spaces of our heart.

Night lit a candle and sat back in her place facing Day. She lifted her burning eyes and wept as if she were to baptize him with tears. And with a weakened voice she spoke to him saying, "Why have you left the spiritual world and came to share with me the bitterness of earthly life? Why did you come to this miserable land of humans filled with agony, oppression and heartlessness? I have nothing to give you except tears; will you be nourished on teardrops?"

Day saw his own self staring upon his sorrowful-self; he could listen to the sorrowful hums of memories chanted by Night's spirit. "Oh, indeed," he said, "Sorrow, if able to speak, would prove sweeter than the joy of song."

To be continued.

Abu-El-Hob

THEATRE

Cabaret

"Cabaret" Fine Arts Center Aud.

play review by Janie Portnoy

Viewing "Cabaret" was like going to Baskin Robbins and ordering vanilla ice cream. The cast of characters had much to offer, yet the outcome of their performances was bland and boring. This is not to say that excellent talent wasn't eminent. On an individual basis, quite a few of the performers were worthy of remembrance. When combined, however, something was lost in the sauce.

Peter Boynton (a UMass graduate) played the role of Clifford Bradshaw; a statuesque man with a baby face that every woman in the audience wanted to mother. His voice had fine tonal quality, and clarity that carried. Unfortunately, the only woman who got to throw her arms around him was Judi Lawrence, in the character of Sally Bowles.

Trying to remain as objective as possible, I did my best not to compare her to Liza Minelli. Any comparison would have been brutally sadistic. Ms. Lawrence lacked the vivacity that is essential in playing the part of Sally Bowles. Her acting was not the only thing that lagged. Most often, in musicals, poor acting can be deemed secondary to the quality of the music. The musical score (by John Kander) for "Cabaret" is excellent. Someone forgot to tell Ms. Lawrence this. When she sang "Cabaret," instead of waiting on the edge of my seat for the chill that runs down my spine when I hear that number, I slumped back in an anti-climactic stupor.

Special commendation is due David Morgan, as the Emcee. His acting, singing, and dancing were of high professional caliber. As a matter of fact, many of the poorer scenes were salvaged by his presence. Still, Mr. Morgan was a small bandage for a play that needed intensive care.

Also noteworthy was the male chorus. The harmony and staging for "Tomorrow Belongs to Me" was simple, yet beautifully executed. The 'zoftig' Kit Kat Girls (Elizabeth Evans, Joanne Genelle, Linda Ipanema, Donna Lowe, and Cherie Lynne) did a fine job of singing and dancing their way through numbers such as "Mein Herr" and "Don't Tell Mama." Their steps were together and their voices blended well; though their singing was overpowered by the orchestra at the end of certain phrases and low notes.

To get a different perspective, I changed my seat a few times during the performance. At first, I thought I was too far from the stage, rendering me either deaf, or over critical. When I moved closer to the stage, I wished I was deaf, and was sure my criticism was apropos. As the song goes, "What good is sitting alone in your room...? I'd say it's a better choice than seeing this play.

THINKING ABOUT GETTING ENGAGED?

WITH DIAMOND PRICES LIKE THIS,

WHAT ARE YOU WAITING FOR?

⅓ CT. DIAMOND IN 14K GOLD MOUNTING

REG. $495 ...... SALE $295

Upstairs at

albert hershon co.

Nationally Known Diamond Remount Specialists

ESTABLISHED 1935

1562 MAIN STREET - 2nd Floor
SPRINGFIELD, MASS. 01103

VISA & MASTERCHARGE ACCEPTED

BLUE WALL

featuring

SASS

The Evening Post

Thurs-Sat
Oct. 20, 21, 22

HATCH

featuring

THE GREAT PRETENDERS

Thurs.
Oct. 20

LISTINGS

Opiates for You Masses

ROLL PARTY QUEEN • SHAKIN' AT THE HIGH
BEAUTY SCH POUT • BORN TO HAND JIVE •
MY LOVE • ALL CHO S • SUMMER
NIGHTS • ALONE AT A DRIV ROM NIGHT
GREASE TOP TEN: ROCK 'N SHAKIN' AT THE HIGH SCHOOL HOP • BEAUTY AND JIVE •
FREDDY, MY LOVE • AL UMMER
NIGHTS • ALONE AT MOVIE • IT'S RAINING ON IGHT
GREASE TOP TEN: OLL PARTY QUEEN • SHAKIN' HIGH SCHOOL HOP • B OOL DROPOUT • BORN TO JIVE •
FREDDY, MY LOVE CHOR UP • THOSE MAGIC CHA UMMER
NIGHTS • ALONE A MOVIE • IT'S RAINING ON NIGHT
GREASE TOP TEN: ROC OLL PARTY QUEEN • SHAKIN AT TH HIGH SCHOOL HOP • BEAUTY SCHOOL DROPOUT • BORN TO HAND JIVE •

THEATER LISTINGS

UMASS CAMPUS
University Ensemble Theater
ROMEO AND JULIET
Opens October 20

MOUNT HOLYOKE COLLEGE
Laboratory Theater
AN ITALIAN STRAW HAT
October 21-23, 27-30 8:30 p.m.

SMITH COLLEGE
Hallie Flanagan Studio Theater
October 20-22 8:00 p.m.

NORTHAMPTON
City Studio Theater
CABARET BRECHT: TO SEE US FROM THE GROUND UP
September 29 - October 23
Thursday-Saturday evenings/8:00
Sunday matinees/2:30

ART HAPPENINGS IN THE FIVE COLLEGE AREA & ELSEWHERE

Amherst
"ENCOUNTERS AND IMAGES"- an exhibit of drawings, paintings and prints by Novelda Noderer Brennan; Burnett Gallery, Jones Library thru October 29. Gallery hours - 9-5:30 Mon. & Fri., 9-9:30 Tues., Wed., & Thurs., Sat. 9-5:30.

Worcester
"ZENGA AND NANGA"- paintings by Japanese monks and scholars, i.e. 78 Japanese paintings and calligraphies - thru Nov. 13.

U. Mass.
JOHN WILLENBECHER- artist working with acrylic paint on masonite, thru Nov. 13. Reception for the artist Sat., Oct 22, 4-6 p.m.; University Gallery-Fine Arts Center. Tues 11-8, Wed.-Fri. 11-4:30, Sat. and Sun. 2-5.

Student Union Gallery:thru Fri., Oct. 28. A video installation by two young artists from New York - Kit Fitzgerald and John Sanborn.

Mount Holyoke College
MARION MILLER: PAINTINGS AND DRAWINGS- thru Oct. 31.

Smith College Museum of Art
NAVAJO BLANKETS FROM THE ANTHONY BERLANT COLLECTION- thru Nov. 6.
MODERN ILLUSTRATED BOOKS- by Selma Erving thru Sun., Oct. 23; Tues.-Sat. 11-4:30; Sun. 2-4:30.

Films at the colleges

Thursday, October 20

THE SEVEN PERCENT SOULUTION 7,9,11 p.m. C.C.A., U.Mass.
THE FRONT - 7,9,11 p.m. S.U.B., U.Mass.
MOHAWK NATION - 8 p.m. -Free- Thompson 102, U.Mass.
AN ENVIRONMENTAL FILM FESTIVAL -Free- 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. in C.C.A. and 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 in C.C. rm. 101, U.Mass.

Friday, October 21

DEATH WISH - 6:30, 9:45 p.m., LIPSTICK - 8, 11:15 p.m., C.C.A. U.Mass.
THE WOMEN - 7:30 p.m., Gamble Aud. Mt. Holyoke.

Saturday, October 22

ADVENTURES OF SHERLOCK HOLMES SMARTER BROTHER - 7,9,11 p.m., S.U.B. U.Mass.
SLAUGHTER HOUSE FIVE - 7:30, 10:30 p.m. Gamble Aud., Mt. Holyoke.
NUMERO DEUX - 8 p.m., Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire.

Sunday, October 23

PUTNEY SWOPE - 3 p.m., Merril rm. 1, Amherst.
LUMIERE - 7® 9 p.m., C.C.A. U.Mass.

Monday, October 24

RACHEL - Hillel Film, FREE, 8 p.m., Thompson 104, U.Mass.

Tuesday, October 25

REBELLION IN PATAGONIA - 8 p.m., FREE, Thompson 106, U.Mass.
James Bond-DIAMONDS ARE FOREVER plus Three Stooges and Marx Bros. 7:15, 10 p.m. S.U.B., U.Mass.
SHERLOCK JR. - Buster Keaton, and DOT INSCRIBING A CONE, 7, 9:15 p.m., Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire.
ANCHORS AWAY - 9 p.m., Gamble Aud., Mt. Holyoke.

Wednesday, October 26

STORMY WEATHER and CARMEN JONES - S.U.B., U.Mass.
TAXI DRIVER - 7,9:15,11:30 p.m. C.C.A.

Commercial Theaters

Pleasant Street Theater-- CITIZEN KANE 7,9:15
Amherst Cinema-- DIRTY DUCK 7:15,9
Calvin Theater-- LINCOLN CONSPRIACY 7,9
Academy of Music-- call theater 584-8435
Mountain Farms Four-- call theater 584-9135

C.E.Q. FILM FESTIVAL TODAY

The Coalition for Environmental Quality is presenting an Environmental Film Festival today. Films will be shown free of charge at the following locations: C.C.A. from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Campus Center 101 from 7:30-9:30. Here's a listing of today's films.

10:00-PATTERNS OF THE WILD - The interdependence of organisms in their environment.
10:35-MORE NUCLEAR POWER STATIONS - How a nuclear reactor roduces power.
11:30-THE MYTHS AND PARALLELS - Peoples abuse of our natural heritage.
12:05-TRAGEDY OF THE COMMONS - The story of overuse of the town commons through the years.
12:30-ENERGY: LESS IS MORE - Energy conservation, why and how.
12:55-NANOOK OF THE NORTH - A personal view into the life of an Eskimo.
2:00-SENTENCED TO SUCCESS - The inside view of a nuke, from the perspective of the power-plant workers. The film concentrates on the unsafe working conditions.
3:00-POPULATION ECOLOGY - The dynamics of population.
3:25-PARADISE POLLUTED - The problems of environmental pollution.
3:50-LAST DAYS OF THE DOLPHINS - The slaughter of dolphins while tunafishing.
4:20-GRENSPEACE, VOYAGES TO SAVE THE WHALE - A look at an organization's guerilla tactics to prevent the killing of whales.
7:30-GLACIER NATIONAL PARK - Slide show by naturalist/photographer John Green.
8:45-MELTDOWN AT MONTAGUE - A video dramatization of what a nuke meltdown would be like. The tape was made by Hampshire College students.

CHUCK MANGIONE AT FINE ARTS CENTER

CHUCK MANGIONE, writer, arranger, conductor, electric piano player and flugelhornist extraordinaire will perform in concert with the Chuck Mangione Quartet at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall on Sunday, October 30 at 8p.m.

The Chuck Mangione concert is the third special attraction at the Concert Hall this season.

One of the most consistently popular and musically exciting names circulating in the jazz world these days is Chuck Mangione. His honesty and versatility in making good music, along with his total dedication to jazz, has surely earned him a place among the great jazz artists of the seventies.

Mr. Mangione recently won a Grammy for the title tune from his album "Bellavia". Since 1971 he has been nominated for four other Grammy awards.

Chuck Mangione played to two SRO audiences at the Academy of Music in Northampton last year. His performance brought the audience to its feet throughout the concert.

The Mangione Quartet is the same as his performance last year with the exception of Charles Meeks who will play bass. Chris Vadala is playing saxaphone and flutes. Grant Geissman on guitar and James Bradley Jr. on drums complete the quartet.

Tickets for Chuck Mangione are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center box office open 9-4 Monday through Friday and all Ticketron locations.

Ticket prices are: General Public $7,6,5. UMass students are $5,4,3. Senior citizens are $6,5,4. For more information, call 545-2511.

GREASE
At Fine Arts Center

GREASE, the longest running show on Broadway, will be presented by the Broadway National Touring Company at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall on Friday October 28.

The presentation of Grease is the second Special Attraction scheduled at the Fine Artrs Center Concert Hall this year.

Tickets for Grease are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center box office.

GREASE is an international musical hit which satirizes the 1950's Rock-N-Roll era. It spreads its nostalgia with a big beat over the stage which is set in or near the hallowed halls of fictional Rydell High.

GREASE confronts such ritualistic teenage exercises as chewing gum, piercing ear lobes, stealing hub caps and discovering sex.

The musical is a cheerful kaleidoscope depicting in song and dance the life-style of an energetic group of high school youngsters in the heyday of Elvis Presley, Bill Haley, Little Richard and Fats Domino.

GREASE is named for the heavy oils which the boys used to plaster their hair with in American Bandstand style. It recalls its era in not only song and dance, but also in costumes that bring astonished cries of old recollection to theater goers.

The hit musical features scenery embellished with big blow-ups of photos of James Dean, Elvis, Sandra Dee and other heroes of the not-so-long-ago era.

Tickets for Grease are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center box office, open 9-4 Monday through Friday and all Ticketron locations. Ticket prices for Grease are: General public, $7,6,5. UMass students and Senior citizens are $6,5,4. For more information call 545-2511.

LAZAR BERMAN AT FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

"The Phenonmenon of the Music World," inaugurates the Celebrity Series at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall with a solo recital on Wednesday October26.

Tickets for Lazar Berman are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center box office, open 9-4 Monday through Friday, and all Ticketron locations.

Ticket prices are: General public $7,6,5. UMass students are $3.50,3.00,2.50. Other students and Senior citizens are $6,5,4. For more information call 545-2511.

CONCERT LISTINGS

Frank Zappa; October 20, The Music Hall in Boston.
Jerry Jeff Walker/Asleep At The Wheel; October 21, Harvard Square Theater.
Herb Pomeroy Jazz Orchestra; October 22, Berklee Performance Center in Boston.
The Commodores/The Emotions; October 22, New Haven Coliseum.
Arlo Guthrie; October 23, Brandeis University in Boston.
Thin Lizzy/Graham Parker; October 23, The Orpheum in Boston.
Frankie Valli & The Four Seasons/Don McLean; October 23, The Music Hall in Boston.
Be Bop Deluxe/Duke & The Drivers; October 24, The Palace Theater in Waterbury.
Southside Johnny & The Asbury Jukes; October 25-29, Paradise Theater in Boston.
Linda Ronstadt; October 28, Hartford Civic Center.
The New Brubeck Quartet; November 4, Symphony Hall in Boston.
Charles Mingus/Larry Coryell; November 5, Paradise Theatre in Boston.
Chicago; November 8, Boston Garden.
Charlie Daniels/Sanford-Townsend Band/Mark Farner; November 9, Springfield Civic Center.
Keith Jarrett; November 10, Yale University in New Haven.
Keith Jarrett; November 11, Symphony Hall in Boston.
Average White Band/Tower Of Power; November 11, Hartford Civic Center.
Jazz Festival; November 13, Hartford Civic Center.
Queen; November 13, Springfield Civic Center.
Queen; November 16, New Haven Coliseum.
Lynyrd Skynyrd; November 19, Boston Garden.
Jethro Tull; November 19, Springfield Civic Center.
Jethro Tull; November 28, Hartford Civic Center.
Aerosmith/Styx; December 7-8, New Haven Coliseum (rescheduled from October 24-25).
Kansas; December 11, Springfield Civic Center.

---

Airplane hijacked for jailed lover

ATLANTA [AP] — A hijacker who demanded $3 million and the release of his homosexual lover from an Atlantia jail held 15 hostages yesterday in a Frontier Airlines jet that he commandeered in Nebraska and forced to fly here.

The hijacker, who carried a sawed-off shotgun, released 18 other hostages — eight women, eight children and two men — during a stop in Kansas City, Mo. There were initial reports that one of the captive stewardesses, Bobbie Karr, had her 4-year-old child aboard, but a Frontier spokesman later denied this.

The FBI identified the sky pirate as Thomas Hannan, 29, of Grand Island, Neb. He was described as "very calm, very cool."

He was seeking the release of a man identified as George David Stewart, 29, of Mobile, Ala. Federal marshals drove Stewart from the Fulton County Jail to an undisclosed location while the plane was in Kansas City. The two men were arrested in Alabama last month in connection with the $7,000 robbery of an Atlanta bank, but Hannan was released on bond earlier this month.

Hannan's parents were reportedly flying here from Grand Island.

The case was reminiscent of a New York bank robbery five years ago, the inspiration for the film "Dog Day Afternoon," from which John Wojtowicz hoped to finance sex change surgery for his transvestite "wife." Wojtowica was captured, convicted and remains in prison.

The hijacked Boeing 737 made a normal landing at Hartsfield Airport here shortly after noon and taxied to a freight terminal where the FBI, Federal Aviation Administration and security officials set up a command post. The hostages included two male crewmen, two stewardesses and 11 male passengers.

Shortly after 2 p.m. EDT, a service truck pulled up to the pilot's side of the plane, and something was handed in through the window. An FAA spokesman said there had been a request from the plane for 16 hamburgers and 16 milkshakes.

Officials of Frontier, which is based in Denver, said they had raised the $3 million and said the money was in Atlanta.

Radio station WSB of Atlanta quoted a source as saying that radio communications between the plane and the FBI began on a cordial note, but later deteriorated.

WSB said the hijacker offered to release one of the stewardess if the FBI would let him see Stewart. The FBI reportedly said this would take time.

An FBI circular described Hannan and Stewart as homosexuals with "a sexual relationship," and police sources said their affair may have inspired the hijacking.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 36
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1977
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

Good morning!

Motorcycle parking...

—If you drive a motorcycle on campus these days you might have noticed a peculiar thing: its getting tough to park. The Motorcycle coop zoomed into action over the problem yesterday...and stalled. See Debbie Wallace's story on Page 2.

Decriminalizing marijuana...

—Backers of two different bills to legalize and decriminalize marijuana are planning a sweet surprise for Boston voters next month. John Moran has the details on Page 3.

New SGA attorney general...

—The student Judiciary has a new chief. For a look at the man and the issues facing him, see Bob Convant's profile on Page 3.

Anti-nuke...

—MassPIRG has joined forces with the anti-nuke Clamshell Alliance to step into an upcoming state hearing on the implications of nuclear power. See Amy Kaplan's story on Page 6.

A fatal accident...

—A plane carrying members of the rock group Lynyrd Skynyrd crashed in a wooded area of Southwest Mississippi last night. At press time last night authorities reported they had "fatalities and injured". The report did not say if members of the band were injured. See complete story Page 7.

Weather

Mostly sunny and warmer. Highs around 70. Friday night, fair, lows near 50. Saturday, partly cloudy, windy and continued warm with chance of a few afternoon showers. Highs again around 70.

T.V. Watch inside

Officials to attempt solving GRC noise pollution problem

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

Officials from UMass and the Massachusetts Bureau of Building Construction (BBC) will meet in Boston soon in an attempt to solve the Graduate Research Center (GRC) noise pollution problem.

UMass Director of Planning Jack Littlefield told the Collegian yesterday he hopes to meet with BBC officials "sometime next week" to discuss solutions to the problem.

The GRC was found to be in violation of pollution levels in August, according to tests conducted by the state Lower Pioneer Valley Air Pollution Control Center.

Littlefield said he believes the GRC noise problem is the "fundamental responsibility" of the BBC since BBC constructed the building, and UMass never accepted title to it. But UMass officials and engineers will participate in a joint effort to solve the problem, Littlefield said.

"I think it will take a series of sessions," Littlefield said in regard to his meeting with the BBC, "It will be an ongoing process to narrow in on and identify options before a final option is selected," he said.

The issue of the GRC noise problem began last summer when residents of Fairview Avenue, the street closest to the GRC, complained that the structures ventilator system made excessive noise. The air pollution control center performed two conflicting noise tests on the structure before a third test taken on Aug. 15 identified the noise problem. The center then notified UMass and BBC of the problem, and requested it to find a plan to alleviate the noise problem.

N.E. Regional Vet School planned in detail at Tufts

By MARTHA KIMBALL
Collegian Staff

Detailed planning of the New England Regional Veterinary School at Tufts University is now being worked out by a commission to establish the first regional veterinary school in the nation. Approval of final plans by the New England Board of Governors and Tufts University Board of Trustees is anticipated for early 1978.

Acceptance of the plans should open many gateways to pre-vet students at UMass and the other five land grant universities in New England. There are only 19 colleges of veterinary medicine in the United States. Unless the applicant's state has contracted for seats at the schools, admission is extremely difficult.

Henry T. Wilson, director of public relations for Tufts New England Medical Center said, "Detailed planning of curriculum, faculty and facilities at the Boston Campus and at Grafton are progressing. A regional commission with cooperation from all New England states was granted $100,000 for planning. Decisions for establishing new facilities or renovating existing ones must be made."

Wilson continued, "The commission is looking at viability in terms of a solid footing for the school. Our outlook is positive."

One major plus in establishing the vet school is approval of the concept by the New England governors. David Stephenson, assistant press secretary to Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, said, "I expect the governor will support the proposal."

The Tufts University Board of Trustees are expected to give final approval of the plans after support from the state governors is obtained.

Dr. Glenn H. Snoeyenbos, pre-vet advisor at UMass, said the UMass Board of Trustees are expected to vote on their degree of involvement in the Tufts vet school proposal at the end of this year. "We have an active interest and want to cooperate, but the UMass-Amherst committee concerned with the vet school at present has no definite plans to expose."

Howard White, administrative aide to the UMass President said, "The trustees have not as of yet received any written material from Tufts regarding the vet school."

Joan Pink, assistant secretary for Higher Education in Massachusetts, explained, "Tufts is establishing a private veterinary school and the state will contract with Tufts for seats. This will require legislative approval."

TURN TO PAGE 7

Marijuana petitions go statewide at colleges

By JOHN M. MORAN
Collegian Staff

Organizers and supporters of the two marijuana petitions now circulating in Massachusetts met last night and discussed plans to collect signatures at colleges across the state and during the November 8th city-wide election in Boston.

The groups have obtained the use of two vans from the Student Senate Auto Pool to transport 16 to 20 people to Boston on election day to person tables near the polls. Swan said he believed several thousand signatures might be gathered in a single day in this way and assured people the tables would be a legal distance away from the actual polling places.

Peter Graham, State-wide co-ordinator of the decriminalization petition, and Russel Swan, who is managing the legalization petition locally, began the meeting by explaining the current status of their respective petition drives.

"Thus far we have about 1,000 signatures on the petition in the Campus Center. We need 58,000 by November 28th," said Graham. Graham later said approximately 75,000 signatures would have to be gathered to insure the success of the petition, since many signatures are "thrown out" for such reasons as illegibility, or for having been signed by a person not registered to vote.

Russel Swan said the legalization petition is currently being circulated at Northeastern University, Boston University, and Southeastern Massachusetts University, as well as UMass. This petition is being circulated by the Massachusetts Marijuana Initiative Coalition.

The legalization petition seeks to make an amendment to the Massachusetts Consitution which would posession and cultivation of marijuana a constitutional right. The decriminalization petition, on the other hand, proposes an act which would make posession of marijuana a non-criminal act. Pot would still not be legal, but the penalties for posession would be reduced to a $50 fine for each citation. This fine would be payable by mail within twenty-one days and no criminal record would result.

Graham is scheduled to speak on Saturday at Holyoke Community College to a meeting of the student government presidents from all the community colleges in Massachusetts in an effort to gain the support of the entire community college system.

The next day, Sunday, Nov. 23, Graham will speak to a meeting of the Massachusetts State Students Association in Framingham asking for their support.

Locally, both petitions will gather signatures on the Campus Center concourse daily from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 or 5:00 p.m. Plans are now being made to have other petitions in the dining commons during the lunch and dinner hours. These plans will be further discussed at another meeting of petition organizers next Tuesday night at 7:30 on the first floor of the Campus Center.

Good weather is in store this weekend for area hikers who wish to take advantage of fall's beauty. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Area briefs

State hospital enlarges staff

NORTHAMPTON — Seven licensed doctors from the UMass Medical School in Worcester have been hired to work at Northampton State Hospital bringing the total number of licensed psychiatricts and physicans there to 14 staff members. Less than two years ago the staff consisted of only two licensed doctors.

The group includes two physicians and five psychiatrists from the new department of psychiatry. Their salaries at the state hospital will be paid by UMass-Worcester. This will enable them to earn more than if they were being paid by the Department of Mental Health. All but one of the psychiatrists and both of the physicians will be working full-time.

The plan to hire the doctors from UMass was proposed last March by Robert L. Okin, state commissioner of mental health. Because of various delays no action could be taken until this summer.

Ruling expected on hearing

NORTHAMPTON — Hampshire County District Attorney John M. Callahan is expected to rule shortly on whether or not the state's open meeting law will apply to a study commission on the city's police department — which has conducted closed sessions.

According to the open meeting law, all local governmental bodies must hold open meetings except for personality labor negotiation and other reasons.

Members of the city's legal department say they feel the commission is not bound by law.

$259,196 approved at town meeting

Belchertown voters approved expenditures of $259,196 as they passed 21 articles and took no action on two others at a Special Town Meeting earlier this week. As a result of actions taken at the meeting, the Police Department will get a new cruiser and two-way radio and several road and drainage repair projects will be undertaken.

The Carriage Town Players, a local theatre group, will present the play Angel Street by Patrick Hamilton at eight o'clock Oct. 21, 22, 28, and 29 at the Belchertown Junior-Senior High School Auditorium. Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students under 18 and senior citizens.

Karen Parmenter and David Gram

Motorcycle parking problem swerves by board of governors

By DEBBIE GRAFF
Collegian Staff

Insufficient parking facilities for motorcycles has become a major problem on campus, the Board of Governors ( BOG) was told yesterday. Motorcycle co-op president Charlie Guerard told the board that this condition is causing overcrowding of bike racks and the towing of many motorcycles.

The board's conclusion was that they would support the co-op's request for "motorcycle only" facilities, but could not make a decision that would affect the entire campus.

The co-op had requested that the BOG establish fair rules concerning motorcycle parking facilities on campus. According to Guerard "They keep putting it off and putting it off."

The board also approved a proposal suggesting a mural be painted on the fourth floor of the Student Union Building.

Artist Stu Cudlitz made a presentation explaining what the mural would depict, and its cost. After seeing slides of Cudlitz's previous works, the board decided to allocate the requested $700 for the mural, and to leave the artist's plans for the mural up to the scrutiny of the entire student body.

The final issue was consideration of student towing service which would be provided by the Student Senate. The initial cost was estimated at $3,500 by representative Wayne Langley. Private towing has been a problem for a long time, said Langley, and there has been strong student support for a student-run towing service. Langley said student towing would make it safer for the towed cars by being more careful with them. The system would make it more convenient for students by towing them to nearby areas, he said.

The $3,500 would cover the cost of two trucks at $10,860 apiece, and payroll for one full-time and two work-study employees. The board concluded that this issue would have to be presented before the Finance Committee of the student senate to be certain that the money is definitely available.

NEAG knocks its budget allocation

By BRUCE KAYTON
Collegian Staff

The Northeast Area Government (NEAG) is not getting its fair budget share from SGA, according to NEAG Treasurer Jeffrey Shapiro.

Last week the NEAG was told by SGA Treasurer Priscilla West they would receive a budget of $11,505 for fiscal 1978. This week Priscilla West told Jeff Shapiro that the NEAG will receive $11,455. The NEAG maintains it should be allocated $12,210.60 based on the formula listed in the constitution. The formula states that $9.40 will be allocated for each resident of the Northeast area, based on the previous November's population figure. The NEAG has worked with Jon Hite, the SGA Co-President, on a proposal which will base the area's budget allowance on more recent population figures.

In other business, the NEAG allocated $100 for a benefit concert to support the Che-Lumumba School. The Che-Lumumba School caters to the needs of Amherst area Third-World Elementary School children. The school, which is located in the New Africa House at UMass, is now multi-racial and due to space limitations only has ten children enrolled.

The Che-Lumumba School is trying to raise funds and will sponsor a benefit concert with Archie Shepp at the Fine Arts Center on November 10.

Dorm allocations were once again tabled until the following week until an exact figure can be reached by the Budget Committee. It will also be decided next week whether the money given to the dorms will be put into one account for the whole area, or for each individual dorm.

Correction

Contrary to what was reported in yesterday's page three, "State rules that students may organize" story, the Graduate Student Employes Union does have a case pending before the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission asking that it be recognized as a collective bargaining unit.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Lisa Melilli

| | |
|---|---|
| Day Layout | Emily Bakerman |
| Wire Layout | Elaine Rosenthal |
| Editorial Layout | Paula Strollo |
| Photo Staff | Dave Rodgers, HT; Susan Donnelly, Steve Nugent, Greg Smolin, Diane Crawford, Jeff Stone |
| Sports Layout | Mike Berger |
| Ad Layout | Carol Hubberty |
| Flocking Admirers | Ellen, Eric, and Dave |
| Terribly Missed | Jim |
| Pleasant Phone Conversation | Mary |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid . Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

---

Lutsky takes over as Student Attorney

By BOB CONANT
Collegian Staff

The office of Student Attorney General Jeffrey Lutsky is presently making an investigation into student control of the Campus Center. Lutsky and a staff member, John Lensleigh, are conducting the investigation under the supervision of Michael Pill of the Campus Center Board of Governors.

The question raised, according to Lutsky, is: "Does the control of the building lie with a student who pays his Campus Center fee every semester, or with the University, which maintains the building." The money received from student fees is put into a trust fund maintained by the university in a trust bonded with individual people and private businesses.

Lutsky an economics major was confirmed as the new Student Attorney General Wednesday night by the Student Government Association. He has previously been a member of the legal judiciary committee and a legal researcher for Legal Services Offices. He had served as a temporary attorney general for one week prior to his permanent appointment. He succeeds Paul Yanowitch who resigned last week.

The investigation by Lutsky is one of several which are presently being undertaken by the Student Attorney Generals' office.

In an interview Lutsky praised the accomplishment of Yanowitch saying, "The office expanded greatly during Paul's term. He did a good deal of expanding the role of the office within the university."

During his term in office Lutsky says he hopes to expand more into the area concerning student complaints against the Administration.

"I hope to continue to coordinate the activities of the Attorney General's office with those of the administration in order to insure that student rights are upheld," said Lutsky.

"I plan to continue with those programs set up by Paul Yanowitch and eventually set up some of my own. I'd like to establish a number of new programs dealing with the administration," he said.

In his position as Student Attorney General Lutsky sees his duties not as an actual prosecutor of cases but rather as an overseer of the prosecution. "I assign two advocates to each of the opposing parties and as these advocates present their arguments, I oversee and advise them throughout the cases. This way the attorney general is able to maintain a certain impartiality."

Lutsky continued saying, "this is one area which I feel Paul could not always deal with effectively. Because of the lack of advocates to assist in the prosecution of cases, he had to prosecute many of the cases himself. By doing so he was not always able to remain totally impartial to both sides.

According to Lutsky," the office has a variety of different functions. It's an investigative office which pursues complaints by undergraduate students against other student bodies such as area governments, the student senate, and the Administration.

Presently the office is staffed by ten student-advocates which assist Lutsky in handling the various complaints. Lutsky said he intends to increase the number of advocates on his staff so that each case received may be dealt with sufficiently and fairly.

New effort may emerge on employee union

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

An official from the Union of Student Employes (USE) yesterday said he believes a new effort will soon begin to organize student employes into a collective bargaining unit.

Michael R. Bardsley, acting chairperson of the USE, said he believes an organizing effort in the near future is "inevitable." Bardsley made his remarks at a press conference in response to a ruling Tuesday from the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission that the USE does not constitute "an appropriate bargaining unit," but acknowledged students' rights to organize into bargaining units, under appropriate conditions.

A spokesperson from the Graduate Student Employes Union (GSEU) said at the conference that the USE decision will "only help" the GSEU's efforts to win recognition as a bargaining unit.

The GSEU is presently petitioning the labor commission for recognition as a bargaining unit.

Bardsley said the USE has "lost the battle but won the war" with the ruling from the labor commission. He said even though the USE did not gain recognition as a bargaining unit, "students have won the right to bargain collectively."

The labor commission ruled the USE was not an "appropriate bargaining unit" because the group does not represent a "community of interests." The USE comprises undergraduate student employes of the Campus Center.

Nevertheless, the ruling from the commission did say students employes "constitute a substantial part of the University work force, work with sifficient regularity and continuity and have sufficient interest in wages, hours and working conditions to justify being afforded the protection of the laws..."

Joan Quinlan of the labor commission said the USE does not represent a "community of interests" because it represents only Campus Center student employes instead of a larger campus-wide group.

Brad Klein, co-chairperson of the GSEU, said the USE decision will "only help" the GSEU's efforts because it is now "apparent the state is willing to recognize students as workers."

He said the reasons for the ruling against the USE will not apply to the GSEU because the GSEU is a larger and more campus-wide organization.

The GSEU is composed of teaching assitants, teaching associates, and research assistants.

After frolicking at the South West Carnival, Andy Soxe, Mary Donovan and Karen Paysnick return to mid-year studying. (Staff photo by Sue Donnelly)

Chambermaiding is every kind experience

By NIKKI ARONSON
Collegian Staff

Sheryl Kandler knocked on the door. No answer. She tried again, this time knocking somewhat louder. Still no answer. Shrugging her shoulders, Kandler drew out the master key and turned it noisily in the lock. No one called to her. She opened the door slowly and peeked into the darkened room. She was barely able to make out the entangled couple on the bed. She apologized to them. Now cognizant of her presence, they punctuated her exit with "No problem."

As a Campus Center Hotel chambermaid, Kandler has rarely entered a hotel room in which guests fail to warn her of their occupancy by a verbal response or displaying of a "Do Not Disturb" sign on the outside of their door.

When such incidents occur says the 21-year-old senior, "it means that they were engaged in something better than getting up and letting the maid come in."

Kandler is one of the 17 chambermaids working in the hotel to help defray the costs of a UMass education. Five additional chambermaids work in full-time capacities.

Kandler, who works a twelve hour week is expected to clean 15 rooms over the course of her 4 hour shift. Says Kandler of her drab yellow smock uniform, "I think the color is just terrible, plus women who have long hair have to pull it back." Kandler frowned as she swept her long brown hair off her shoulders. "Really, I mean the color could at least match my eyes, but we are getting new smocks thanks to Alice. She is definitely the greatest," she winks.

"Alice" is Hotel supervisor Alice Womar. She is responsible for the work assignments and schedules of the chambermaids and three "housemen" employed by the Hotel. "We have a happy family here," she said about her workers, "and we try to keep it that way."

After receiving orders from her supervisors, Kandler gets her "trusty cart loaded with towels, cups, plastic wrap, matches, sheets and cleaning utensils."

Although "chambermaiding" is serious work, there are the light sides of employment that cause hours to slip by unnoticed. "We have to make sure the televisions work, and some of them have radios," said Deborah Bittner, a UMass senior English major who also works as a chambermaid. "If no one is around we can work to the music."

Bittner sees each room as a different story. "When you see an empty box of Cheese-its and a People magazine on the floor of one room, and Newsweek and a half a bottle of whiskey in another, you begin to wonder what sort of people have stayed in the hotel."

Bittner interjected an infectuous smile and continued, "You find anything in the rooms. In the month and a half that Sheryl and I have been here we've found everything from underwear to a homemade jar of pickles in vacated rooms."

Kandler explained that the policy for "discoveries" vary with the nature of the found item. "For coats and the like, we turn them into Alice. People often come back to claim their personal belongings. If we find liquor and the people have left we can keep what we find." Bittner and Kandler said they could not think of any policy concerning marajuana joints found occasionally in ashtrays.

Girl Scouts are exceptionally clean, and bankers are partiers, according to the women who clean up after them. "The bankers tipped well, though" added Kandler.

Some guests are students and companions registered for the weekend. "Some of them" observed Kandler, "are pigs. The ashtrays overflow onto the rugs — if they bothered to use them at all."

As an Early Childhood Education major, Kandler is concerned with the educational aspects of everything she does. "Maybe being a chambermaid will pay for my own nursery school someday," says Kandler.

Bittner, 21 and a senior English major, agreed that being a chambermaid was a learning experience. "I hope to teach inter-city kids someday, and my experience has shown me the working situation as someone other than a white-collar professional."

The two Newton residents took employment as chambermaids because they "wanted to work on campus and the job was a decent offer."

The morale is high, the work is demanding. Plus there are academic pressures. "It may not be the greatest job," Kandler muses, "but it pays the tuition."

Fluffing pillows pad the pockets of these student chambermaids in the Campus Center Hotel. (Staff photo by Patrick Dobbs)

Six letters to keep the 'old rugged cross' aglow

Terrell Evan's Call it what you want

To Dean Field:

Dear Dean Field, we all know that you have a university to run and a whole bunch of students to educate. We know that you are busy and have a lot of worries. Yet sir, it seems to me that racism is not one of your major concerns. If it is, you appear to be afraid to say so. Quoted in the Collegian you seem to want the cross-burning, (an overt exhibition of racism) swept under the rug or publicized as a "foolish prank.'

Sir, I say 'overt exhibition of racism' because it denotes what underlies this university as a system and this country on the whole.

Sir, I cannot see the cross-burning as the "work of a couple of drunk idiots" because of the history and the nature of cross-burnings in this country.

Sir, it seems to me that whenever this country has faced the problem of having to deal with words, it is always able to find words that lessen the terror of the real situation. If you think the words 'cross-burning' are much more dramatic than the act itself, maybe you should confer with your local KKK members and see what they have to say.

Sir, I don't remember his name, but what you said seems to be identical, in thought, to what your friend had to say about the cross burning at Hampshire College. We will not forget the cross-burning or the position you have taken. Thank you for your time.

To the University:

Dear University, it seems kind of stupid opening a letter with 'Dear University' but since I don't know any other names, this will have to do.

I have a question for you. What happened to the remains of the cross? When people went to see it the next morning, it was gone. I feel that you know who took it away.

I realize that you have not taken any stance on what happened outside the Bluewall that night. I also realize that 'no stance is a stance.' We will not forget you for your position either. I hope that I haven't taken up too much of your time. Thank you.

To the people who burned the cross:

Dear Cross-burners: I will not call you 'idiots', 'drunks', or 'foolish'. I will call you 'perfect little racists'. I know that it takes a certain mentality to do something like this and it probably exists in the minds of 99 per cent of the people in this country. So you have no reason to go around thinking you're something special. You're just as common as the air. I really don't know if you were students or not so I will not say. Thank you for your time.

To the people who know who did it:

Dear people who know who did it. You are just as guilty if you do not come forth and tell. You are not any better than they are and the 'blood' is on your hands too. Please come forward and tell what you know, it is important that people who do things like this be caught. Coming forth does not mean that you will receive a lot of publicity. Thank you for your time.

To the Collegian:

Dear Collegian, your handling of the cross-burning was typical. Thank you for the room to print.

To Chancellor Bromery and Provost Puryear:

Dear Chancellor Bromery and Provost Puryear, Thank you for not trying to play it off as the 'work of idiots'. Thank you for acknowledging that it was a racist act, which is what so many people saw it as. Thank you for your time...

Thinking about you all.
Terrell Evans.

"VIEWPOINT"

Viewpoint is a column designed for our readers to express their views on various subjects. In this manner, the staff of Black Affairs hopes to establish an open line of communication between our readers and us. Viewpoint does not necessarily represent the views of the staff of Black Affairs. All articles must be typed.

What is the real issue?

By MARCELINA PINA

"We are African American, Asian American, Latinos, Native Americans, and Chicano people; we identify ourselves along racial and ethnic lines. We are people of color within the United States who share a common heritage of political, economic, and cultural exploitation.

We are in solidarity with the liberation struggles of Third World countries internationally, and recognize that the destinies of these countries directly affect our future as Third World people within the United States." This was the proposal for defining Third World peoples, from the Third World community. John Yong, Asian Third World senator, read the proposing amendment which immediately was open for discussion. This statement brought up much controversy at the student senate meeting Wednesday night.

The opposers to this amendment felt that it excluded several people that were also exploited and oppressed. I too agree that many ethnic groups have been oppressed and exploited throughout history, but this is not substantial in including them as a part of the Third World. The key phrase is people of color, to be more explicit, non-whites. We the Third World senators feel this definition encompasses all of the minority people of color at the University and are satisfied with it. So why the heated debate?

Once again the term racial discrimination was thrown out. In defining ourselves we are not descriminating against anyone. We are just defining a people for what they are.

Recently, the Third World people were confronted with the issue of a white senator, Craig Sherwood running on a Third World ballot. Why should white students run on Third World ballots when we are only allotted 15 seats. Eventually we would have no seats. Could this be a deliberate motive? By defining Third World peoples we can avoid recurrence of situations like this in the future.

Are you tired of constantly hearing and seeing the word racism. Well I for one am tired of using it but one finds it difficult when one is constantly being subjected to it. I found it difficult to conceive that a very explicit definition would lead to a racial battle.

I ask you the small majority that are guilty of this, is the real issue ever racial discrimination or is this a mere new tactic by a small majority of whites in supporting racial oppression.

We didn't want and never intended to have a racial battle. All we wanted was to establish an identity.

Five College Black Studies to begin seminar series

The Five College Black Studies Executive Committee will begin its 1977-78 Faculty Seminar Series with a symposium on "The Black Family in Slavery and Freedom." Papers will be presented by Professors Mavis Campbell of Amherst College, Maceo Dailey of Smith, and William Harris of U. Mass. Professor Herbert Gutman, author of The Black Family in Slavery & Freedom, 1750-1925 will be present to respond.

The seminar will take place on Tuesday, November 1, 1977 at 7:30 p.m. in the East Lecture Hall, Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire College, Amherst, Mass. The seminar is open to the public. A reception will follow.

A symposium on "The Black Family in Slavery and Freedom" will be presented Tuesday, November 1, at Hampshire College. The public is welcome to attend.

Annie's Poetry Corner

I AM A WOMAN

I am poor
yet I offer you riches
I am weak
yet I offer you strength
I am unknowing
yet I offer you knowledge
I am still yet I offer you mobility
I am alone
yet I offer you companionship
I am in darkness
yet I offer you light
I am unbalanced
yet I offer you stability
I am the mother
I offer you rebirth
Just because I am a woman
Annie Carpenter 1976 (c)

Feiffer

NOTHING PERSONAL, SAM. IT'S A DETERRENT.
WHAT DOES IT DETER?
IT'LL DETER YOU FROM COMMITTING ANY MORE HOMICIDES.
WOULD IT DETER ME IF I WAS WHITE?
DON'T CONFUSE JUSTICE WITH RACISM, SAM.
WOULD IT DETER ME IF I WAS RICH?
DON'T CONFUSE JUSTICE WITH ANTI-AMERICANISM, SAM.
WOULD IT DETER ME IF I WASN'T POOR AND BLACK AND COULD AFFORD A GOOD LAWYER?
I DON'T KNOW WHERE YOU PICKED UP THOSE WEIRD IDEAS, SAM.
HOW MANY WHITE MIDDLE-CLASS MURDERERS YOU EVER HEARD OF ON DEATH ROW, WARDEN?
DROP!
SPRONG
SO GOES ANOTHER ENEMY OF FREE ENTERPRISE.
4-10
©1977

---

Discrimination causes quotos

By MARY E. CUSTARD
Black Affairs Staff

It seems that everytime a certain number of positions are set aside for Third World People, a white person comes along and claims it's discriminatory.

Quota systems have been set up for Third World People because for over 200 years white people have been (and still are) discriminating against Third World People.

Third World Children are undereducated in innercity schools, while their white counterparts in the suburbs receive the best education that money can buy. So it is surprising that Third World Children score lower on tests made for white children?

White people have perpetuated a system that undereducates Third World People. Is it so wrong to have a quota system that allows Third World People a chance to do things that we have never done and have never been able to do before? We all know that if there were no quota system, there would be very few if any Third World People in non-menial jobs. Not because Third World People are not qualified but because we happen to have a different skin color than white people.

If Third World ballots were not allotted on the Student Senate, how many Third World People do you think would hold seats? And as far as a white person representing my views, my emotions, and my culture, it is truly impossible. Discrimination? On whose part?

On the way to the Collegian yesterday....

By ANGELA THOMAS
Black Affairs Staff

Ran into a good friend yesterday who stopped me to discuss my article, "It was just a party last Wednesday night,... or was it?" that appeared this past Wednesday October 19, in Black Affairs.

Talking outside of the Campus Center with Rock, (a name that I affectionately call him). Rock explained why the music was not turned off that night in the Bluewall when the announcement was made about the cross burning outside.

To make a long story short, (I don't have much space) Rock told me that the intention was not to create a panic that could lead to a physical encounter. (Thank you Fifi)

Just in the midst of agreeing that UMass is indeed not fantasy land, a friend of Rock surprised him by grabbing him from behind. Rock immediately grabbed him and started to throw him. Upon seeing his pigmention he stopped and just backed off. Rock cried out, "Man just be cool, don't you know not to do something like that after what has been going on!?

Do you know not to do something like that after what has been happening?

Picture of the week: All together now, get set, and ... Harmonize!!
A rehearsal scene in preparation of the Homecoming Show presented last Friday, October 14, at New Africa House. For those who missed the show, there are some very talented and gifted folks in this valley who performed to a very appreciative audience. Photo by Edward Cohen

The Third World Women's Center
cordially invites you to a "Social Hour"

Sunday, October 23 at 7:30 p.m.
in the Malcom X Center

Dessert will be served. Hope to see you there.

Weekend Happenings

Tonight at Amherst College an authentic minstrel and vaudeville show will be presented at the Buckley Recital Hall.

The show will include the antics of Albert & Sandra Gibson, Galervean.

Mosley, comic stripper, Paul Moondog Wheaton, the only one-man band in the world. Also one of the outstanding tap dancers of this era, Charles Cook, will perform solo and in concert. Also will be the dancing Chorus Gibson Girls and an All Star Big Little Band. Sandra Gibson, 1938 Lindy Hop Champ, will perform comedy.

The show starts at 8 p.m. and is open to the public free of charge.

Southwest

Southwest is having a carnival all this weekend.

Parties

Amherst College Saturday night at Psi Phi House. K. Rock D.J.

UMass-Melville Saturday night in Southwest.

UMass-Dwight Saturday night presented by their Cultural Center.

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

WHY ARE YOU BLOWING UP ALL THOSE BALLOONS, PEE WEE?
TODAY'S AIR IS RATED ACCEPTABLE, LUTHER!
SO I'M SAVING SOME FOR WHEN THE AIR IS...
...RATED UNACCEPTABLE!
10-15
BRANDON JR
©1977 LOS ANGELES TIMES

Thoughts

"Many people complain more about the violence that they see on TV than they do about the violence that they see in their everyday life."
David M. Warren

The story of a woman's outrage and a woman's revenge.

A Paramount Release
DINO DE LAURENTIIS Presents
CHARLES BRONSON
in a MICHAEL WINNER film
"DEATH WISH"
Co-starring VINCENT GARDENIA WILLIAM REDFIELD and HOPE LANGE
Music by HERBIE HANCOCK from the novel "DEATH WISH" by BRIAN GARFIELD
Screenplay by WENDELL MAYES Produced by HAL LANDERS and BOBBY ROBERTS
Directed and Co-Produced by MICHAEL WINNER TECHNICOLOR
R RESTRICTED
A Paramount Release

DINO DE LAURENTIIS Presents a FREDDIE FIELDS production
Lipstick
It isn't always an invitation to a kiss.
Introducing MARGAUX HEMINGWAY
Starring CHRIS SARANDON PERRY KING and ANNE BANCROFT
Produced by FREDDIE FIELDS Directed by LAMONT JOHNSON Screenplay by DAVID RAYFIEL Music by MICHEL POLNAREFF TECHNICOLOR · A PARAMOUNT RELEASE
R RESTRICTED

Fri., Oct. 21 CCA
tickets will be sold at 6:30 & 9:45, For Both Shows. $1.00

Any student who wishes to serve
on the newly formed
Collective Bargaining Committee
of the Undergraduate Student Senate
should contact the Speaker in Rm 420 Student Union
or call 5-0341.

Tranquility is sure to be found by the waters of Quabbin reservoir. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Two anti-nuke groups join forces

By AMY KAPLAN
Collegian Staff

Members of the anti-nuke Clamshell Alliance and the Mass. Public Interest Research Group (MassPIRG) will join forces to serve as "legal interventors" in upcoming State hearings on nuclear power plants, alliance member Myra Levy said yesterday.

The purpose of the state hearing, sponsored by the Energy Facilities Citing Council, is to decide which nuclear power plants will be built and their possible implications to the community, Levy said. She said the alliance would present testimony outlining potential dangers of thermo-nuclear reactors.

Earlier this year the alliance protested against the construction of the proposed nuke plants at Montague and Seabrook, N.H.

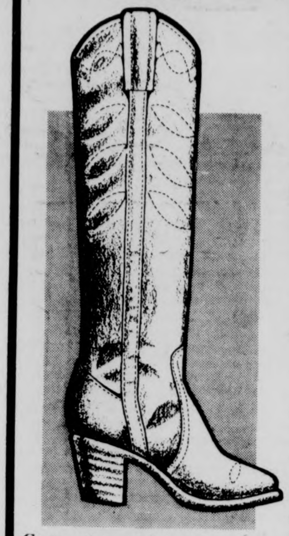
Levy said the group is also planning a dual-purpose campaign in Sunderland next month. In addition to trying to educate citizens about the dangers and politics in nuclear power, Levy said the alliance will also attempt to gauge public opinion on the construction of the Montague facility. The Greenfield office of the alliance is sponsoring the project, which will begin in November.

The canvassers will also be discussing alternative forms of energy, like hydroelectric power, available to valley residents, Levy said.

Alliance member Stephen Axelbaum said yesterday "the primary motivation of the clamshell members is their committment to educate the public, and to generate positive energy into shopping the future construction of nuclear plants."

On the weekend of October 7-9, the Clamshell Alliance Training Committee held a session for people interested in conducting non violent workshops, said Alliance member Pat Myerson. The purpose of the weekend was to enlarge the number of people ready to do non-violence training for Clamshell civil disobediance actions, she said. The event was held at the Mount Toby Friends Meeting House in Everett.

The utilization of already trained non-violent protesters and the possibility of abbreviated training sessions for them was discussed, as well as the issues lacking in the training for the last occupation, said Myerson.



NEW FRYE LOOK

Come in and see our new FRYE Boots.
Bring this ad for free
3 oz. tub of Mink Oil.

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
10-6:00 Mon.-Sat. 253-5135

WEEKEND MONEY
The Collegian Graphics Department is looking for people (especially artists) who can work on weekends. These are WORK STUDY positions. Contact Randy Glenn at the Collegian

Work Study Position Available:
Sylvan Area Government Secretary-
$3.25 per hour
12 hours per week
application & job description available outside 02 Cashin House

The rusty nail Inn

Sat., Oct. 22
Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes
Special Guests
THE BRICKER BAND

Sunday, Oct. 23
Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes
Special Guests
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION

Cover $4.00
rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665-4937

LANDRY'S MARKET
The Oldest Grocery Store in Amherst
711 Main St.
Amherst
Mon.-Sat. 9-9
Sun. 10-3
You may be able to beat Landry's prices
But you can't beat the Landry's quality!

MEAT
Boneless Chuck Pot Roast 1.09 lb.
Boneless Chuck Steak 1.19 lb.
Bone-in Chuck Steak .69 lb.
Delmonico Steak 2.99 lb.
Breakfast Sausage 1.19 lb.
Slab Bacon 1.39 lb.
DELI
Pressed Ham 1.99 lb.
German Bologna 1.09 lb.
Imported Swiss Cheese 2.09 lb.
BEER
Miller's 12 oz. cans 5.95 case
1.55 6-pack
WINES
Almaden 1/2 gallons 3.79 each

711 Main St. Amherst 253-5387
On the Belchertown Bus Route
(Parking in the rear)

NIKE

SAVE 10% with this ad on all our stocked nikes
(offer expires Oct. 31, 1977)
STYLES STOCKED:
Blazer
Bruin
*Oceania
*Cortez Roadrunner
*Waffle Trainer
Wimbledon
*Rackett
* both mens and womens

Bolles Shoes
8 MAIN ST., AMHERST

★ GRC

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Regarding financing, Pink said, "Massachusetts has not made any funds available to Tufts for financing the vet school and Tufts has not asked for any."

The U.S. Congress last spring appropriated $10 million for the school. U.S. Representative Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., was a prime mover of the bill through Congress.

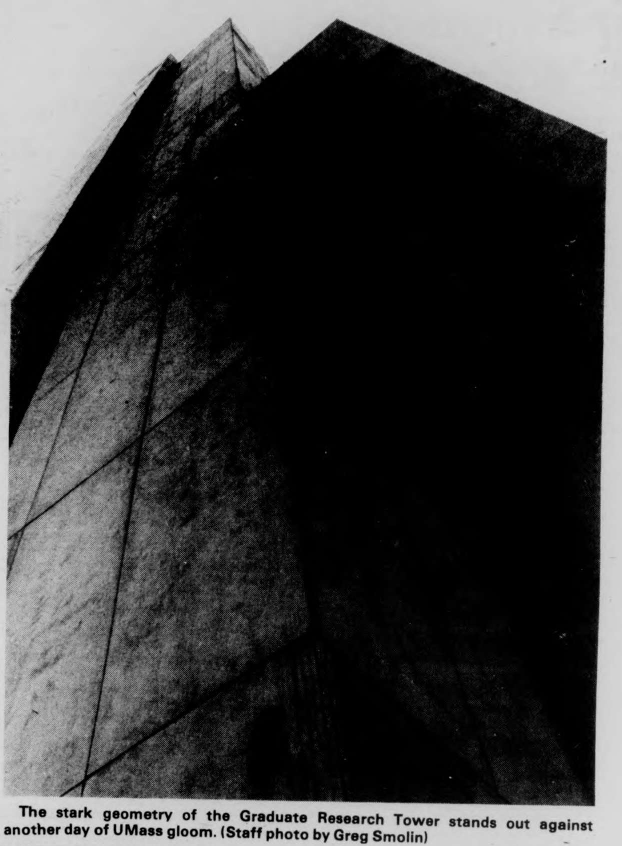
Conte is currently supporting a bill before a Health, Education and Welfare committee to provide grants to accredited institutions across the nation to develop new schools of veterinary medicine, and to help employ faculty and provide equipment.

Wilson commented, "To receive the 10 million dollars in Federal funds, Tufts had to match $2.5 million dollars." This brings the total amount actually approved for establishment to $12.5 million.

The curriculum of the vet school calls for two years of classroom work at the Medical and Dental Schools of Tufts University. The last two clinical years are coordinated with the six New England land grant universities, Angel Memorial Hospital in Boston for "small animal clinical," and a hospital in Grafton, Ma., for "large animal clinical."

State officials have approved the use of 700 acres at Grafton State Hospital by Tufts University to establish facilities for a New England Regional Veterinary School.

The first class of 35 students is expected to enter the vet school in summer or fall of 1979. Over the years classes could reach 75 to 100 students.



The stark geometry of the Graduate Research Tower stands out against another day of UMass gloom. (Staff photo by Greg Smolin)

GRE
Classes are now forming to prepare for the December 3rd exam. Tuesday classes will begin on October 25th. Early enrollment is advised. Write us at Box 28, Amherst, or call 256-6462.
TEST PREP

Six persons in rock group died in airplane crash

GILLSBURG, Miss. [UPI] — At least six persons were confirmed dead last night in the crash of a twin-engine propelled driven plane flying the popular southern rock group, Lynryd Synyrd, to a concert in Louisiana. Identities of the victims were not available at press time last night.

Spokesmen for the Federal Aviation Administration and the Mississippi Highway Patrol announced the crash, but there was no immediate information on whether any of the band members were killed.

"We have fatalities and we have injured," a highway patrol spokesman said. He said some emergency units were having difficulty reaching the scene.

FAA spokesman Jerry Lavey in Washington, D.C., said he had received a report of "multiple fatalities and some survivors" in the crash of a Convair 240.

He said the plane was traveling from Greenville, S.C. to Baton Rouge, La., for a concert tonight when it crashed two miles northeast of Gillsburg, a small town on the Louisiana-Mississippi border.

The aircraft was in contact with air traffic control of the Federal Aviation Administration in Houston, Tex., at 7:47 EDT. The pilot radioed he was low on fuel. The FAA said radio and radar contact was then lost.

Survivors and the dead were taken to Southwest Medical Center in McComb, Miss. A source at the hospital confirmed six dead and said at least six survivors had been admitted. Those admitted were identified as Gary Russington, guitarist; Allen Collins, guitarist, Billy Powell, keyboards, Leon Wilkeson, bass, Artemas Pyle, drummer and Leslie Hawkins, backup singer.

A member of the Gillsburg Volunteer Fire Department said when he reached the scene three members of the band had scrambled out of the plane and gone to a house a quarter mile away for help. He did not know their identity.

"They were in pretty bad shape. One of them had ribs sticking out and the other two had blood all over them," he said. He said rescuers had to wade through a waterhole to get to the crash site, and there they had to remove band instruments to free trapped survivors.

FLEXSOL
NORMOL
PREFLEX

The newest approach to soft lens care...
Store and disinfect with Flexsol®
REG. 2.25
NOW 1.95
Clean with Preflex®
REG. 2.85
NOW 2.53
Rinse with Normol®
REG. 2.31
NOW 2.02
cold disinfection has arrived!

Upjohn
Unicap M
10 Vitamins Plus Iron and 6 more minerals
SPECIAL OFFER! 30 FREE

REG. $4.65
get another $1.00 off with manufacturers coupon
$1.00 off with ad
SAVE $2.00!!

We have a full line of cosmetics
COLLEGE DRUG STORE
4 Main St.
Amherst

CROSS—COUNTRY SKIS
PRE—SEASON SALE
We have complete packages—including skis, bindings, poles, boots and set-up. For $79.95-102.95. NOW at savings of $21-$32 off list. Description of this equipment would be inadequate, so come in and look, touch and try on.
Also, accessories, rentals, junior size shoes and bicycles.
SPONSORS OF OUTDOOR RECREATION SILVA® SINCE 1930
Amherst Cycle Shop
253 Triangle St.
Amherst 586-3810
Northampton Cycle Shop
21 Pleasant St.
Northampton
586-3810

Inmate abuse investigated at Walpole

BOSTON [UPI] — Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, at the request of three state legislators, yesterday asked the state attorney general to investigate alleged physical abuse by guards against Walpole State prison inmates.

Sens. Jack Backman, D-Brookline, and William Owens, D-Boston, and Rep. Doris Bunte, D- Boston, met with Dukakis earlier in the day to discuss reported beatings and suicides at state prisons.

They also asked him to halt plans for prison construction in Massachusetts.

After the meeting, Dukakis said he asked Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti to investigate alleged beatings.

The three legislators toured Walpole Tuesday at the urging of several Walpole inmates who alleged they were beaten by guards after the September death of another inmate.

Bunte said "among the four or five dozen inmates we talked to" one inmate, Steven Devaney, 19, reported he was beaten the previous night by guards.

"We saw marks on this man from his head throughout his body. There were welts on his back and his shoulder blades," said Backman.

Bunte said by Tuesday afternoon, Devaney still had not received the medical attention he requested.

"We want to know how often the guards are beating and abusing prisoners...we cannot allow this to continue in the Commonwealth," Backman said.

Correction Department spokesman Larry Parnell denied Devaney's claim he was beaten.

"Our reports show Devaney physically resisted being returned to his cell and a struggle ensued," Parnell said Thursday. "He was cut, scraped and bruised a bit, but there was no unnecessary force on the part of our guards who are under a strict code of conduct."

Parnell said Devaney's cuts and buises were dressed by a paramedic the night of the incident.

The legislators said there have been at least three suicides at state prisons in the past six months.

One alleged suicide occured several hours after the inmate was locked in a "blue" room — an empty, tiny, isolation cell with only a hole in the floor for a toilet, Backman said.

The legislators said they wanted an end to use of the "blue" rooms, a system inmates could negotiate and resolve grievances, and an end to segregation of inmates in the "B" section — a maximum security area.

"Walpole already is a maximum security section," said Owens. He said the "B" section merely segregated men from the rest of the population making them more vulnerable to guard abuse.

Peter Reilly given freedom by police

HARTFORD, Conn. [UPI] — Connecticut State Police Commissioner Edward P. Leonard yesterday conceded for the first time that Peter A. Reilly should not be rearrested for the 1973 slaying of his mother.

In a surprise move, Leonard — who has steadfastly maintained that Reilly killed his 51-year-old mother, Barbara Gibbons — issued a statement saying a state prosecutor was right when he refused to issue another warrant for the youth.

"I wholeheartedly support State's Attorney Dennis Santore in his decision not to take court action on the Barbara Gibbons homicide because of inconsistencies and unresolved questions of evidence," Leonard said.

Last week, Leonard made public a report accusing Reilly of running over his mother with his car and then dragging her inside their tiny Falls Village cottage, where he stabbed and slashed her to death.

At the time, he said as far as the state police were concerned Reilly was guilty and the "case is closed."

But yesterday, Leonard said "this case is only closed in the administrative sense that available evidence had been investigated as thoroughly as possible.

"In accordance with standard procedures, if any new evidence comes to light, the investigation will then be actively resumed," he added. Reilly was arrested the day after his mother was found dead Sept. 28, 1973. The next spring, he was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to six to 16 years.

The new fashion college rings
that live the life you live

FIRST SALE
ONLY $59.95

Regularly $78⁹⁵ Now you save up to 25%

This is an unusual opportunity to get your contemporary college ring at a never-before price. Shown here are just two from the ArtCarved Fashion Collection of College Rings. Created for today's lifestyles, the designs combine a contemporary feeling with college traditions. All are custom-made with the exquisite attention to detail and hand-finishing that make them look hand-sculptured. They are cast in one piece so they cannot come apart. Available in 10-K yellow or white gold with a choice of stone.

SALE BONUS: Free genuine gemstone, regularly $10.00 Choice of: Smoky Quartz, Garnet, Jasper, Oriental Jade, or Sardonyx.

COME TO ARTCARVED RING DAY.

That's when the ArtCarved representative will be here to help you select your ring. You can charge your ArtCarved ring on Master Charge or BankAmericard.

PLACE: Outside Bookstore TIME: 10AM - 3 PM DATE: Oct. 21,

$10.00 Deposit

FINAL DAY

UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center/univ of mass/amherst

U.S. has SWAT team to deal with hijackings

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Attorney General Griffin Bell said yesterday the FBI has special "SWAT" teams trained to deal with hijackings, and an FBI spokesman said "it's a safe assumption" they were alerted in the Frontier Airlines case.

The spokesman said the agency has five-man Special Weapons and Tactics teams — "SWAT" for short — at all major bureaus in the nation.

The teams are trained for hijackings and other emergencies and "It's a safe assumption they have been alerted", to the Frontier case, he said.

While the Pentagon says it has "trained forces and equipment" prepared to deal with emergencies, Bell said U.S. law prohibits military units from rescuing a hijacked aircraft in America.

"All I have is the FBI," he said, when asked about the possibility of alerting commandos or raiders to seize the Frontier aircraft in a rescue attempt like that staged by West Germany this week.

The law, he said, "restricts the use of troops in the United States... so we would use FBI and local law enforcement."

The FBI spokesman said SWAT teams are trained to deal with a variety of emergencies, such as rescuing hostages in a building takeover, in a bank holdup or in an airline hijacking.

"In almost all our field offices we have a SWAT team — a specially trained group of five agents who train together once a month for emergency situations — any situation where force could possibly be needed," he said.

"They carry not only side arms but also have shoulder weapons," he said. "The purpose of this is to save lives."

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton

Only Area Showing!
NOW 7:15 & 9:00

ACADEMY AWARD WINNER
- Best Documentary -

Ardent, absorbing
—Gary Arnold Washington Post

HARLAN COUNTY U.S.A.

no dollar nights

AT THE GATES
OF SMITH COLLEGE

BAHAR'S
7 Old South St.
Northampton, Mass.

FRI. & SAT.
OCT. 20 & 21

Arthur Cable Blues Band

SUN. 23RD

Rod McCloud & Rock Billies

GMAT

An intensive course will be given over the weekends of October 22 and 29. Early enrollment is advised. Call us at 256-6462 or write Test Prep at Box 28, Amherst.

TEST PREP

In 1968 I fought in the streets of Chicago at the Democratic National Convention.

In 1969 I participated with the SDS in occupying the Administration Building at the University of Chicago.

But, since I met Jesus Christ, I know that

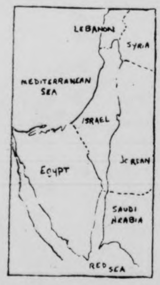
God loves the people

Daniel at 253-5716

WAR IN THE MIDDLE EAST

C.C. AUD.
8 P.M.

MON., OCT. 24



Speakers: Bassem Mouallem; Lebanese journalist, "Arabia in the Gulf"
John Hillson; author, founder of Palestine Solidarity Comm., Univ. Colorado 1969
David Sidorsky; prof. philosophy, Columbia Univ., chair Amer. Zionist Youth Found.

Cosponsered by: Distinguished Visitors Program, Student Gov. Assoc., Young Socialist Alliance

News in Brief

Harvard to receive large Arco grant

NEW YORK [AP] — The Atlantic Richfield Co. will make a $1,131,280 grant to Harvard University to establish a forum of public affairs at its John F. Kennedy School of Government, it was announced yesterday.

"The forum will be a regular meeting place for public affairs events of national and international importance, according to the university's plans," said a joint announcement at the Harvard Club in Manhattan.

To be known as the Arco Forum, it will be located in the Kennedy school's new building, now under construction, and will seat as many as 500 persons.

The Kennedy school was established as the Graduate School of Public administration in 1935 and was given its present name in 1966.

"During election campaigns and other periods of intense national debate on public issues," the announcement said, "candidates and other leading spokesmen representing various points of view will be invited to use the forum as a platform from which to address the general public."

'Extinct' bird seen in Peru

WASHINGTON [AP] — A flower-eating bird believed extinct for a century has been discovered in Peru by an American ornithologist, the World Wildlife Fund reported yesterday.

The bird is the white-winged guan, basically a charcoal-colored species that lives in trees. It is slightly larger than a ring-necked pheasant.

Dr. John O'Neill, a Louisiana State University ornithologist who has been studying Peruvian birds for 16 years, and Gustavo del Solar of Peru reported seeing four white-winged guans feeding in trees in a garden in northwestern Peru on Sept. 13.

The discovery marked the first confirmed sighting of the species since 1877.

Mass. man fights for right to race

NEW YORK [AP] — A Massachusetts man started court action in Manhattan yesterday to force the New York Roadrunners Club to allow him to participate in a marathon race around the city in his wheelchair this coming Sunday.

Robert Hall, of Belmont Mass., obtained an order in state Supreme Court from Justice Bernard Nadel requiring the club to show on Friday why Hall should be barred from the race.

Boston-plan used as model in Wash.

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Boston Mayor Kevin White yesterday presented the White House with a $100 million dollar urban development plan which could provide a model for the administration's still-to-be-born urban policy.

White said he received no promises from the administration other than that "they would listen and they would respond."

But he made it clear that the so-called Boston-plan was in some senses a challenge to the administration to come through on its campaign promises about being responsive to the needs of the city.

"We took a gamble that the Carter administration is prepared to come up with an urban policy," White said after a White House meeting that included himself, Sens. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., and Edward Brooke, R-Mass., and Speaker Thomas P. O'Neil Jr. and White House aide Jack Watson.

Pan Am lowers air fare to Orient

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Pan American World Airways announced plans yesterday to cut in half the cost of flying to the Orient, saying its proposed budget fares can open the Pacific to tourists as well as business travelers on expense accounts.

The transpacific budget prices, which Pan Am hopes to introduce next year, are patterned after those just put into effect between New York and London.

They would permit one-way, reserved-seat travel to Tokyo on scheduled flights for as little as $199 from Hawaii, $259 from the West Coast or $349 from New York. Economy class travel to Tokyo costs $403 from Hawaii, $502 from the West Coast and $681 from New York.

Pan Am said it would put budget tickets to the Orient on sale immediately, subject to approval by U.S. and foreign governments, even though its first flights using the new flare plan are not scheduled before Jan. 15, 1978.

The airline said the new fares will be offered on flights linking New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle with Bangkok, Guam, Hong Kong, Manila, Okinawa, Osaka, Singapore, Taipei and Tokyo.

Students seek revenge for death of terrorists

[UPI] — Thousands of students screaming slogans of revenge for the prison deaths of three West German terrorists fought a gunbattle with police in Rome yesterday. Radicals throughout France and Italy stepped up their campaign against German targets and vowed "one hundred thousand" bombings to destroy German business.

At least seven persons, including four officers, were wounded in the clashes around Rome University, police said. They said they had arrested 25 persons on charges of possessing weapons and firebombs.

The students were barred from marching on the West German embassy and retreated into the campus throwing Molotov cocktails at riot police and shouting slogans accusing "German Nazis" for the "coldblooded murder of our comrades."

Police also reported minor bombings against the German Academy in Rome and German companies and auto showrooms in Rome, Florence, Bologna, Genoa, and the beach resort of Ostia, raising to at least 20 the number of attacks reported on German targets in Italy.

In the southwestern French city of Toulouse, bomb explosions ripped through two West German automobile warehouses and several cars and a huge fire ravaged buildings of a company that supplies paper to West German firms, police said.

A blast also badly damaged another warehouse in Versailles just outside Paris. An anonymous telephone caller said the so-called "Andreas Baader Group of the Armed Faction Movement for Popular Autonomy" set it off.

Another caller told the French news agency that German guerrillas plan to "execute all the hangmen and their corrupt medico-legal accomplices" responsible for death of the jailed West German terrorists.

"One hundred thousand attacks by explosives will destroy the structure of the German capitalist economy in Europe," he said.

Leftists in France and Italy said they were retaliating for the "cold-blooded killing" of Andreas Baader and two other West German terrorist leaders in their jail cells. Germany says the three committed suicide after the failure of a hijack mission to force their release from prison.

In Greece, police fought a gunbattle early yesterday with a gang of guerrillas driving a stolen car loaded with dynamite, firebombs, pistols and ammunition near a West German factory outside Athens.

Two officers and one attacker — identified as a 34-year-anarchist — were wounded.

The Bonn government says the three terrorists committed suicide in despair over the crushing of a hijacking by crack West German troops who shot to death three guerrillas and rescued 86 hostages in Mogadishu, Somalia.

But terrorist organizations claim Baader and his two comrades were murdered.

Protest spreads across S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa [AP] — Police gunfire wounded a black youth yesterday as disturbances and protests flared across South Africa following the government's crackdown on the black press and black protest movements and leaders.

Even Afrikaaner academics joined the wide condemnation of the government by opposition whites and the opposition press. Some warned the country is becoming a police state headed towards bloody racial conflict.

But Gen. H.J. van den Berg, head of the powerful Bureau of State Security, declared that even tougher action will be taken if the current unrest continues. He said there could be more arrests and restrictions.

At the United Nations in New York, the 49-nation African Group announced it would ask the U.N. Security Council to take up "the question of South Africa... as soon as possible."

In its toughest action since the early 1960s, South Africa's white government on Wednesday banned virtually all significant black organizations, closed the two principal black newspapers, detained more than 50 prominent blacks and slapped restriction orders on seven whites.

Closing of the white-owned World and Weekend World newspapers meant urban blacks, already living under severe government racial restrictions, lost the publications regarded as most closely mirroring their grievances and aspirations. The papers carried the most extensive reporting in the country of black unrest and boycotts.

Also wiped out, at least officially, were all black consciousness movements, including black-run self-help community programs. Their offices have been closed, their assets frozen, and most of their leaders detained.

The wounding of the youth yesterday occurred when police fired on protestors outside Graaff-Reinet, a town in Cape province 500 miles south of Johannesburg. Riot police chief Maj. Gen. Dawid Kriel said police fired after 300 youths gathered at a primary school near the town and began stoning cars.

Kriel reported 13 arrests at various disturbances across the country. One trouble spot was the black township of Sharpeville, 36 miles south of Johannesburg where in 1960 a total of 67 blacks were killed by police gunfire in the country's first major racial disturbance.

Principal J. Makhokolo of Sharpeville's Lekoa-Shandu high school said students wrote slogans on blackboards denouncing Bantu black education and chanted nationalist slogans in the schoolyard before streaming out to stone passing cars.

Six youths were arrested, Kriel said, in Pretoria's black townships, scene of continuing unrest with militants reported by police to be intimidating some high schoolers who want to attend classes.

In Johannesburg's big Soweto township, home of 1.2 million blacks, virtually all middle schools were deserted, the first time that younger pupils have joined Soweto's total high school boycott by 27,000 high school pupils.

Korean woman implicated in influence buying scandal

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The wives of Reps. Kika de la Garza, D-Tex., and John T. Myers, R-Ind., testified yesterday a Korean woman tried to give the congressmen cash-filled envelopes in 1975 while they were visiting Seoul.

Speaking at a House ethics committee hearing on alleged Korean attempts to buy influence in Congress, the women said the incidents occurred late the same August evening at rooms they had in a posh Seoul hotel. They said the money was returned the next day in each case.

Mrs. de la Garza said the woman who left the cash for her husband was the wife of Kim Dong Jo, a former ambassador to Washington then serving as Korean foreign minister and now a presidential assistant for foreign affairs. Mrs. Myers said she didn't know the woman who came to her room.

The congressmen were part of a delegation of 10 House members touring the Far East, and the episodes described by the two women suggested the alleged Korean effort to win favor with American lawmakers was not confirmed to Capitol Hill.

"I was shocked, I was hurt, I felt insulted," said Lucille de la Garza after describing her experience, adding that nothing similar had ever occurred in her husband's 25 years of public service.

Both wives said neither they nor their husbands counted the money, but Carol Myers said her husband told her his envelope was full of $100 bills.

In each case, the Korean woman was said to have come to the hotel rooms and to have handed over a plain white envelope — saying a political contribution was inside — and slipped out the door.

Escaped Philippino prisoners praise US human rights stand

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Two prominent Filipinos who made a dramatic escape from a military prison near Manila said yesterday President Carter's human rights program has helped prisoners in the Philippines.

Eugenio Lopez Jr., 48, former publisher of the Manila Chronicle, and Sergio Osmena III, 33, grandson of a former Philippine president, escaped from maximum security detention at the Fort Bonafacio military camp this month by cutting through four fences, driving 150 miles to a seldom used airstrip and then flying to Hong Kong in a private plane.

Lopez said Carter's program of putting pressure on governments which have poor human rights records "gave us a lot of hope."

In one case this year, Lopez told a news conference, the U.S. Embassy in Manila intervened and obtained the release of Trinidad Gerilla, a woman leader of a squatters movement, who was alleged to have been tortured while in prison.

"It was the first time the United States intervened on behalf of a Filipino," Osmena said.

The two men were imprisoned for five years, accused of rebellion in a plot to assassinate President Ferdinand E. Marcos after he placed the Philippines under martial law in 1972.

They denied any connection with a Marcos plot.

"If Marcos is sincere about letting political prisoners free," Lopez said, "let him release Benigno Acquino," the Philippine president's chief political rival.

Our soft, lovely shirts with country spunk. They look great in close-ups. Check out these comfortable flannels ...fitted with such sassy details as western pockets, snaps, and satins. You'll want to keep one close.

$17^00 to $19^00

Faces of Earth

Next to the Amherst Post Office
Open: 9:30-6, Mon. thru Sat.

INDEX

Senior Portraits
Sign Up Rm 811 C.C.
OR
CALL 545-2874 9AM-5PM
DAY AND EVENING SITTINGS

January Grads

NEW ENGLAND PREMIER SHOWING STARTS WED.
AT TWO AREA THEATRES

(POACHERS)
"ONE OF THE 10 BEST FILMS OF 1976" English Critics Circle
GRAND PRIZE — SAN SEBASTIAN FILM FESTIVAL
"FURTIVOS IS ONE OF THE BEST FILMS
I HAVE EVER SEEN" - Luis Bunuel
MADE BY A MAN WHO LOVED HIS COUNTRY AND HATED HIS GOVERNMENT
A JOSE LUIS BORAU FILM

AMHERST Cinema in amherst | ACADEMY OF MUSIC in northampton

Electric rate structure to change

BOSTON [AP] — The more you use, the more you'll pay. That's the theme behind proposed new electric rates in Massachusetts where big users of electricity now get discounts.

Under the radically different electric rate structure announced yesterday by the state Dept. of Public Utilities, factories, companies and consumers will have to pay more for electricity during times of peak demand, and less when demand decreases.

Now big users of electricity are charged a lower rate for power than smaller users.

"The old rate structure did not accurately reflect the real world energy situation," said DPU Chairman Harold Keohane.

"It's an economic fact that is costs different amounts to produce one kilowatt of electricity at different times of the day."

The new rate structure, which will be aired at public hearings next month, could produce significant changes in work and business hours as companies try to reduce consumption of electricity during peak hears.

Within a few months the state's 10 utility companies will be required to offer some form of peak load rates to customers who are willing to pay for the special meters, which range from $75 to several thousand dollars.

Within a year, the utility companies must devise a mandatory peak load pricing system to cover all customers.

Because the development of the meters is in its infancy, Keohane admits there probably won't be enough meters — and they will probably be too expensive — to install in all homes and businesses.

Instead, utility companies will be required to develop a peak load price system that covers customers who do not have meters.

For example, a utility company could compute a single rate for each of the three classes of customers — residential, commercial and industrial — by taking into consideration how much each contributes to the peak demand for electricity. Surcharges might be added for summer or winter, depending on what season demand for electricity was greater.

"The big social impact of this is how much can you change people's habits," says Boston Edison spokesman Charles Newton. "Companies with 9,000 employes who work 9 to 5: they can't change their hours."

Companies and factories, however, will be encouraged to invest in metering systems that manage their electricity use, said Keohane. Instead of allowing air conditioners to operate eight hours, for example, a system with a thermostat could shut it off intermittently.

• sweaters • bags • flannel shirts • vests • jackets • belts • blouses •

genesis II
quality merchandise
recycled & new

COUPON SPECIALS

$5.00 for any pair of recycle JEANS and cord pants with coupon 10/24-11/5

25% off ARMY coats, jackets and shirts with coupon 10/24-11/5

$3.00 OFF NAVY PEACOATS with coupon 10/24-11/5

65 university dr. amherst, ma.

549-2747

mon & sat 10-6
tues - fri 10-8

formerly Old Weird Harolds

LSAT

Classes are now forming to prepare for the December 3rd exam. Wednesday classes will begin on October 19th, evenings from 6 to 10 p.m. Write Box 28, Amherst, or call 256-6462.

TEST PREP

Communities respond to state-wide growth survey

BOSTON [AP] — Nearly all Massachusetts cities and towns favor reviving central business districts, yet many also want to slow down or halt overall community growth, a new state planning report revealed yesterday.

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, his chief planners and a special legislative commission joined together to unveil an 85-page survey of how the state's cities and towns feel about their future. The report, entitled "City and Town Centers: A Program for Growth," also contained recommendations on how those grassroots opinions should be translated into governmental action.

Dukakis noted that local Growth Policy Committees in nearly every Bay State community had contributed to the final report following many months of hearings and study at the local level.

He said nearly every local committee had called for action to revive traditional business centers, not only those in older, larger cities but also in smaller towns.

At the same time, the report's summary said, "52 communities indicated either that they do not expect to grow or that they desire a no-growth future. Another 103 communities expressed a desire for slower, more moderate growth."

The Office of State Planning, which wrote the report, said this did not mean that communities were trying to "thwart growth," just avoid its adverse effects.

Many of the planning office's recommendations merely endorsed already existing state programs or legislative proposals.

However, it also urged several new actions, including these:

— An anti-arson campaign, including beefing up of the state Fire Marshal's office and closer state monitoring of fire insurance policies to prevent over-insuring.

— Establishment of a Massachusetts Heritage Trust Advisory Commission to help localities preserve the best features of their downtown areas.

— Speeding up of tax foreclosure proceedings for structures not occupied by their owner.

Fourth-graders show flair in learning about law

WASHINGTON [AP] — Any student of the world can tell you the law is serious business, but Ken Wilson's fourth-graders from St. Louis do it with a flair not matched in the most prestigious law schools.

Consider these games:

"A good thing to remember about needing a lawyer is don't."

"A good attorney should keep thinking about his case around-the-clock, 12 days a week."

Wilson, who's been teaching nine-year-olds for almost 20 years, says many of his students aspire to be lawyers, and eagerly soak in all they can about the nation's legal system.

The teacher recently shared some of the more astounding observations made by his pupils with Barrister magazine, a publication of the American Bar Association.

"I think many of them show keen insight," said Wilson in a telephone interview. He said he prefers to have the children remain anonymous, but offered these examples of the fourth grade view of the law:

"By learning that lawyers are sometimes called attorneys, I now know two places in the encyclopedia I can try to find out about the," one future researcher explained.

About an ancient milestone in the law, one pupil wrote, "The Justinian Code is a well-known code few people have ever heard of." Still another wrote, "The Justinian Code was made in 529 but I forget whether it was A.C. or D.C."

Older students of the law readily could identify with the youngster who wrote resignedly, "I looked up what a habeas corpus is twice, but I forgot it three times."

And how's this for perception: "Once I had a chance to read a whole stack of law books. Things they say in law books are only to look at, not to understand."

For the sheer agony of learning: "Lawyers sometimes become judges. Maybe they become attorneys, too. I do not know. It takes all my knowing to know the lawyers sometimes become judges."

SPECIAL SALE
1 WEEK ONLY — Sale
HI-FASHION
WOMEN'S BOOTS
ALL FIRST QUALITY

A. WESTERN STYLE BOOT
Fully Lined
Rust Color
Sizes 5½ to 10
SPECIAL ONLY
A. $14^97

B. RUST MATTE BOOT
HIGH FASHION
FULLY LINED
SIZES 5½ to 10
SPECIAL ONLY $14^97
B.

WARE
FACTORY SHOE OUTLET
EAST ST. WARE, MASS. PHONE: 967-9753
OPEN 9-5 MON.-SAT.
(BANK AMERICARD OR VISA ACCEPTED)

Campus Travel Center

Ft. Lauderdale $249

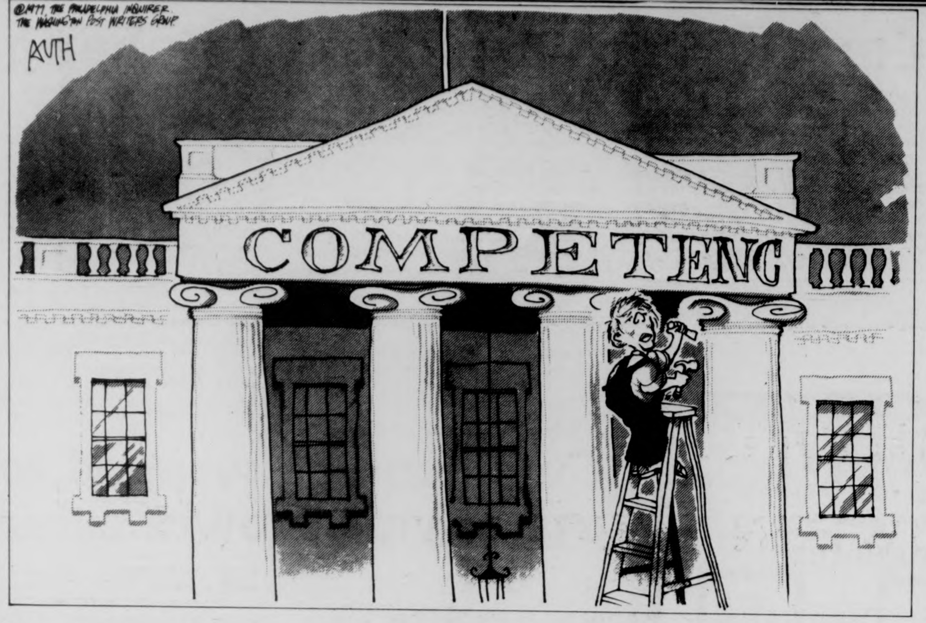
Includes:
- Round trip air transportation
- Hotel accomodations at Lauderdale Beach Club
- Round trip transportation between airport and hotel
- Taxes and gratuities
- Baggage handling

Air only from $119

Campus Center
U-Mass

Campus Travel Center

3rd level
545-6600



©1977, THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP
AUTH
COMPETENC

Inserts and equality after the law

bob melia

Recently there has been much discussion among Collegian editors and staff members about whether inserts, like Nummo News, should be included in the Collegian. And just as the Supreme Court is having difficulty deciding the Bakke case, the Collegian is having trouble deciding what to do about inserts. But if we compare the two, I think we can derive insights which will allow us to settle both disputes in a logically coherent and morally satisfactory manner.

Assume that Allan Bakke is a UMass student and a budding Bob Woodward, but can't get his article printed because of a quota granting a certain amount of space to Black Affairs (Black Affairs is not an insert, but it illustrates the similarities between the Bakke case and the Collegian's insert dilemma, so we will use it for the moment and return to inserts later). Bakke thereupon sues the Collegian for reverse discrimination, asserting that had not the Collegian set aside a quota of Black Affairs articles, his article would have been accepted. The Collegian quota is unconstitutional, he claims, because we are all equals before the law, and the law prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, religion or political persuasion.

This seems to be a strong point in Bakke's favor until we realize that while all of us are equal before the law, we are most certainly not equal after the law. The provision of formally equal legal rights to all is a cruel fraud unless everyone possesses roughly equal social and material equality, as the following example should make clear.

My landlord is not fulfilling his contractual obligations, and I have threatened to sue him, but the threat is empty and he knows it. Because I cannot afford legal counsel I must go through LSO, which means a two week wait before I can even see a lawyer. Then I must wait for the case to be decided, and even if I win there is no guarantee that my landlord won't appeal the case or simply ignore the decision. Because I can't afford to just move out and risk losing my security deposit, and because I can't afford a lawyer, equal rights has given my landlord a tremendously unequal advantage over me.

Law is supposed to enforce justice, but if the American conception of justice is to be more than a sick joke, there must be equality not so much before as after the law. Applying this principle to the Bakke case, we find that non-whites have been systematically discriminated against, and that before the law affects them they have been treated less than equally.

But for justice to be done, they must be equal after the law has touched them, and if that means quotas, so be it.

Another point to keep in mind is that the practical effects of quotas are as beneficial as the moral effects. The people of California bear virtually all of the financial burden of training doctors at the school Bakke is suing, and they do it to increase the total level of health care available to them. Only two per cent of our nation's doctors are non-white, and it is probably no coincidence that there is a desperate shortage of doctors practicing in the non-white community. Consequently the best way to raise the level of health care of Californians (or Americans) as a whole is to provide doctors where they are most needed, and as it seems logical to assume that non-white doctors are more likely to practice in non-white communities, it makes sense to train vastly increased numbers of non-white doctors until this imbalance is eliminated.

As for the Collegian's decision about inserts representing minority viewpoints, the answer should now be obvious. Before the law, everyone has an equal right to freedom of the press. But realistically, only the Collegian has the money and the manpower to reach all of us, and by denying other newspapers the privilege of being inserted in the Collegian, the Collegian is denying them equality after the law.

Neither Nummo News, or Outfront, or any other small paper has the material resources to effectively exercise their right of freedom of the press without assistance from the Collegian, because the Collegian has been granted, and probably rightly so, a virtual monopoly over the space, money, and machinery needed to publish a newspaper. If the Collegian is able to help them but doesn't, then the equal right of freedom of the press for these small papers will be nothing more than a hoax, like my equal rights regarding my landlord, and the Collegian will be making a mockery of the very principles it professes to believe in.

If the Collegian acts in a socially and morally responsible manner, and I have confidence that it will, but the Supreme Court doesn't, don't be surprised if one day our nation's highest court is asked to rule on "reverse inserts."

Bob Melia is a Student Senator. His column appears every Friday in the Collegian.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Joseph A. Quinlan, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Richard J. Pioli, Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Fifine D. Ball, Women's Coordinator.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Estrogen— 'feminine forever?'

fifi ball

A recent ruling may change the course of American medicine.

The Federal Food and Drug Administration now requires that whenever a woman taking estrogen pills gets a refill or new prescription she be given a pamphlet explaining in non-technical language stating that estrogens are corrrelated to a five-to-ten times greater chance of developing uterine cancer.

Estrogen, the female sex hormone, is prescribed for symptoms of menopause and for fertility problems.

The notion that estrogen can keep women "feminine forever," whatever that means, is false, according to the information pamphlet.

The major reasons the use of estrogen has grown so much in the last 15 years are an ad campaign in the medical journals and some popular books advertising its (non-existent) youth sustaining qualities.

Many doctors put up a real stink about this pamphlet, but the FDA stood firm, finally.

The ruling was supposed to go into effect Sept. 21, but was put off for almost a month because the FDA has to deal with some related lawsuits.

The Boston Globe recently quoted Dr. Richard T. F. Schmidt, president of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology, as saying the organization was suing the government for the first time in its 26-year history, because doctors "must have the freedom to give advice according to their own best judgements."

Well, it's about time; about time the FDA took a stand and risked the wrath of the medical associations. If you'll notice, there is nothing in this recent ruling that prevents doctors from giving their best advice. Maybe the good doctors are afraid some of their patients' blind faith in them will be lost if patients find they can learn more from an informative pamphlet like this one than from their own doctors.

The Globe quotes Detroit Gynecologist T.N. Evans as saying, "The patient could even experience such an erosion of confidence that she would not bother contacting her doctor at all but simply discontinue consultation with the physician in the mistaken belief that he lacks competence or adequate concern for her."

Did you catch the "he" in there? That's the key word.

Male doctors can't relate well to women's health problems, if at all. There is, in most cases, a total lack of sensitivity or even conscious attempts to avoid it.

Schmidt said this ruling can only paralyze the ability of the physician to advise his patients effectively and responsibly. How can it? Answer: no way; Schmidt seems to be expressing a fear that runs through organizations like the American Medical Association that if people get educated, they won't need doctors any more, or at least won't pay them such outrageous fees. I too used to believe the old story that doctors had to charge so much in order to pay off all their old school loans. But really, they end up practicing for something like 30 years....

How can education be bad? Some doctors say it will create a massive scare among women. Well, if it does, maybe it's warranted. Most of the people taking estrogen are doing so unnecessarily, at excessive doses, and for excessive periods of time.

There are so many weird objections coming from doctors about this ruling and I can't speak to them all, but obviously things may finally be starting to change. We all need to be much better educated about our bodies. If we were, though, the myth surrounding the medical profession, equating doctors with gods, might start crumbling.

Certainly, this ruling can't be bad — let's just hope and work for more like it. We'd all be better off. Meanwhile, we can read Julie Melrose's health column that comes out Tuesdays in the Collegian.

Fifi Ball is Women's Editor of the Collegian.

> The notion that estrogen can keep women "feminine forever", whatever that means, is false...male doctors can't relate well to women's health problems, if at all.

Campus Center, white elephant sale

jay martus

Walking through the concourse, exploring the interior of the fiscal farce of UMass, raised questions of why we pay so much money for so little in return. Having done this almost four years ago, many answers have since been given to me. Some are valid, others are ridiculous. The following facts may surprise you — at this point they anger me.

The Campus Center was a project originally pushed for by students. This leads to an administration argument which is given whenever the issue of a fee increase or service deletion arises in the Campus Center. Since students wanted the complex, the argument says, we should accept the responsibility for its fiscal position. What is absent from this line of reasoning is that the students were not alone in the request for a Campus Center. The Continuing Education division also wanted a place to hold seminars, conventions, and house its then rapidly growing program and administration. They agreed to have fiscal responsibility for the space they were to utilize. In 1970-71 construction costs and interest rates began to soar, and with plans and bids being developed, Continuing Ed. declined to participate in the project and backed out. Instead of sharing space and cost with students they took over Hills North and Hills South dormitories, which students had already paid a lot of money for.

The Campus Center Complex plans were modified in the number of floors and design at this point. When the building was constructed, several "mishaps" occurred. The land on which it is built was not solid as their plans assumed it was and the building had to be shifted 90 degrees to accommodate this inadequacy. Also, if you notice the third floor outside the hotel lobby, a ramp for a bus stop is easily identifiable. An unused staircase out of the Campus Center Auditorium would have brought you out to the phantom bus stop. The contractor for the elevator system had a low bid which has proved to be very costly. Not being a general elevator contractor from an established firm means that only the contractor could repair or maintain the elevators properly. Unfortunately, this contractor has since gone bankrupt and now special consultants, who are extremely expensive, must be used. Unconfirmed reports state that this same contractor reformed his fly-by-night operation and obtained the contract for the library. The roof in both the main concourse and the upper floors (and the Campus Center Garage which is a whole story in itself) leak or have leaked like sieves.

Staff photo by Sue Donnelly

These anomalies in construction are a mere fraction of the answer to why the building costs so much. After Continuing Education backed out of the plan, administrators waited until five years later to finally bond the building permanently. This meant that the fee assessed to students could slowly and surely rise with minimal repercussions. By waiting this long they allowed the interest rate to go much higher and accumulated compounded debt from the short term financing. By easing in this additional financial burden we ended up paying, for five years, the interest of the interest of the principal.

We are paying not only a $79 fee, but we are also assessed many hidden fees which subsidize parts of the complex. If you own a car which you have a lot sticker for, you're helping pay for the garage. Everytime you buy a book at the Textbook Annex, you contribute as a group at least $250,000.00 in profit to the Campus Center Coffers. That Hatch coffee you may be drinking right now, or the woofburger you inhaled for lunch all contribute to the never satisfied revenue mongers.

There is a move to have the state pay off directly some of the cost of this White Elephant. If they don't want it, the Collegian should run a contest on how to get rid of this burden. My suggestion is that we either do a disaster movie, or sell it to the Miller Beer Company, who could advertise its demolition, with the student radicals standing in the foreground. The caption would read "Now Comes Miller Time".

Jay Martus is former co-president of the Student Government Association. His column appears every other Friday in the Collegian.

A letter to the 'Duke'

To the Editor:

The following letter was sent to the Governor regarding the composition of the Special Commission to Study Higher Education in the State.

This committee has been set up to examine and propose reorganization of higher education. Presently it appears that students will not be members of this committee. Five of the Six Student Trustees of the public system have been meeting on a regular basis to discuss issues affecting students in public institutions in the state. We would like to share our correspondence to the Governor with you.

Marlon L. Batiste
Student Trustee

Dear Governor Dukakis,

We, the representatives of more than 99,000 students currently enrolled in Public Higher Education in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, do hereby formally protest the lack of direct participation through voting representation on the Special Commission to Study Higher Education.

We feel that students have a fundamental right to participate in the process that will ultimately suggest to the legislature the future goals, direction and access to-of Public Higher Education in this state.

We further believe that the unique knowledge and experience we possess as students would prove to be invaluable input when directly integrated with the expertise of the other members of this important commission.

We fail to understand how the expressed goals of "coordination, leadership, planning, organization, responsiveness, outreach," as stated in the "Working Paper of Higher Education [Draft]" can possibly be achieved without the inclusion of the most valuable resource of Public Higher Education in the Commonwealth — its students.

Therefore, we strongly urge you to reconsider the present composition of the Study Commission to include student representation on said commission.

Respectfully yours,
Judy Baker
Trustee UMass-Boston
John O'Connell
Trustee State Colleges
Marion L. Batiste
Trustee UMass-Amherst
Kevin H. O'Neill
Trustee Southeastern Mass.
Al Dean
Trustee Community Colleges

Greater sensitivity toward discrimination

To the Editor:

Yes, it can happen here. The account of the cross-burning outside the Bluewall in Friday's Collegian made it perfectly clear that the forces of racism and bigotry are alive and well and living at UMass. Unfortunately, we are not immune to such sickening and menacing acts to minorities at this great university.

If we recognize what can no longer be denied, then we must take steps to counteract it now before it is too late.

1] When hard times come, people tend to look for scapegoats — a bitter lesson that my own people has learned all too well. As this country is put in a state financially blackened by OPEC and as the Dukakis budgetary squeeze hits the university, we must be united in our efforts to avoid playing one group off against the other, to scapegoat the most convenient victim.

I am reminded of some very powerful words of Pastor Martin Niemoeller, referring to the Nazis:

"In Germany, they first came for the Communists and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Communist. Then they came for the Jews and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Jew. Then they came for the Trade Unionists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Trade Unionist. Then they came for the Catholics and I didn't speak up because I was a Protestant. They they came for me — and by that time, no one was left to speak up."

In UMass terms, that means when there is an attack or effort to isolate or scapegoat one part of the community here, all other groups in the community must realize that if they keep silent, they participate tacitly in encouraging such acts.

2] It seems to me that the University as a whole must recognize that this cross-burning is in all likelihood not simply a one-shot isolated event. All concerned people should seriously explore ways of improving intergroup relations so that people can learn to respect and value their differences. This should become a priority on a University-wide basis.

3] The Collegian itself should look very closely at the tone it sets. Does it help to open up avenues of communication between people and groups, or does it, on occasion, stereotype derogatorily and treat people and groups as objects? It seems to me to be tasteless and irresponsible to include, for example, a comic strip as blatantly sexist and not in the least bit funny as that of Dick Janssen in last Friday's Collegian. The Collegian should show greater sensitivity and leadership. When crosses are burned on the campus, the Collegian and all of us must be especially sensitive to any form of discrimination and slander — by race, sex, religion, age and so on.

Rabbi Saul Perlmutter

'Jews for Jesus' offensive

To the Editor:

There can be, I suppose, no simple law that bars ill-intentioned and well-financed outsiders from invading our campus and assaulting us with speeches, dramatic performances, and recruiting pamphlets. After all, there is free speech to consider. And certainly some of us find a pleasure in the sight of potato-headed Krishnaites jigging bravely amid hulks of snow, their faith both light and heat against our winter.

But on Tuesday some kind of limit was reached, and passed, with the appearance of an unlikely group of Christian proselytizers called, evidently, 'Jews for Jesus'. These individuals, armed not with truth alone, but with a goodly pile of electronics, expensive speakers, and a portable stage, managed to overpower a large area of the campus with their snappy renditions of favorite Jewish songs, their well-rehearsed confessional monologues, their polished calls to the baptismal font. Meanwhile, positioned across pathways, their confederates accosted passers-by, thrusting in their faces yellow pamphlets with large, pseudo-hebraic lettering. Nearby was parked their freshly-painted truck, labelled 'The Liberated Wailing Wall'.

This kind of cheapening is more than ugly: it is deeply offensive. Positive evangelism — the simple attempt to rally people to a point-of-view—is harmless. Debasing the history, beliefs, or heritage of other people — profound insult — is another matter.

I am made uneasy by such spectacles of insult and debasement. Censorship or constraint of any kind is out of the question. Is sensitivity, taste, discretion?

Alan Sanford

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Excutive Editor, c-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. the day preceding that date.

Womens News Briefs

Public TV cited as a man's world

HER SAY NEWS SERVICE — Although women are being seen and heard more on TV and radio, public broadcasting is still clearly a man's world, said Muriel Cantor, consultant for the National Task Force on Women.

Cantor said despite so-called gains in women's liberation, men still dominate the broadcasting industry, with women being cast in "stereotyped" roles — or being completely overlooked — in much of the programming.

Cantor said on children's programs, like "Sesame Street" and "Villa Allegre," male characters still make up as much as 78 per cent of the cast and are portrayed in a much wider range of occupations than are women. Such male-dominated programming, Cantor said, leaves girls without any positive and successful role models.

Cantor said there are more programs addressing women's issues than there were before. But she said this kind of special programming usually shows women as a special interest group rather than as an integral part of the population.

'Pill' may cause ovarian cysts

HER SAY NEWS SERVICE — Research by a Finnish gynecologist has found some mini-dose birth control pills may cause cysts on women's ovaries.

The pills in question are low-dose contraceptives which contain only the hormone progesterone. In the past, doctors have preferred to prescribe such pills for younger patients because progesterone pills are said to cause fewer side effects.

Dr. Olavi Ylikorkala studied medical records of women aged 15 to 40 who had ovarian cysts at a Finnish hospital between 1972 and 1976.

Seven of the 81 cyst patients, Ylikorkala found, had developed the cysts after they began taking the progesterone-only pills.

Ylikorkala found no cysts during that period among women who took birth control pills which combined progestrone and estrogen.

Anti-ERA leader may run for Sen.

HER SAY NEWS SERVICE — Conservative "Stop ERA" leader Phyllis Schlafly is reportedly considering challenging liberal Senator Charles Percy in next year's Illinois Republican election.

Schlafly is said to be deliberating on whether to tangle with Percy over the Panama Canal Treaty, which she opposes.

She is reportedly backed by the multimillion $ Conservative Caucus and may be the first of that group's challengers against GOP senators considered "soft" on the Canal Treaty issue.

Lesbian denied support in Eng.

HER SAY NEWS SERVICE — A woman member of the British House of Commons was told her party will not support her in the next election after she admitted to having a lesbian relationship.

Maureen Colquhoun was ordered by the Northampton Labor Party not to run in the next election for a seat in the House of Commons after she said publicly that she left her husband to live with Barbara Todd, former editor of the lesbian magazine Sappho.

The couple reportedly sent out invitations to a hosewarming picturing themselves embracing. The photos were picked up by the press. The Northampton Labor Party then voted 23 to 18 to oust Colquhoun because of her "recent statements and public behavior."

Colquhoun, stating her sexual preference has nothing to do with her ability as a Parliament member, said she may run as an independent in the next election.

There are 27 women out of 635 members in the British Parliament.

'Life Isn't Fair' awards distributed

HER SAY NEWS SERVICE — To celebrate Women's Equality Day this year, syndicated columnist Ellen Goodman offered the First Annual "Life Isn't Fair" Awards.

Goodman's "Doctor Jekyll Look-a-like" award went to Representative Henry Hyde of Illinois, whose anti-abortion amendment supports the notion, she said, that we should save the fetus and throw away the mother.

The columnist's "Blame the Victim" award goes to Wisconsin Judge Archie Simonson, who said a 14-year-old boy was only "reacting normally" when he raped a 15-year-old girl in school.

Goodman's "Archie Simonson She Was Asking For It" award goes to the California Court of Appeals that found the rapist of a stranded hitchhiker not guilty because "it would not be unreasonable for a man in the position of the defendant to believe the female would consent to sexual relations."

The "Acute Pregnaphobia" award, complete with a home testing kit, goes to Dr. James Sammons of the American Medical Association for his sensitivity to women's fears. He came out in favor of hysterectomies as a cure for hysteria.

Woman gets 7 years in rapist father case

HER SAY NEWS SERVICE — A 19-year-old woman from Northern Ireland has been sentenced to seven years in prison for the manslaughter killing of her father, who she said raped her continually over a four-year period.

Noreen Winchester said her father raped her at the age of thirteen, shortly after her mother died. Winchester testified her father also raped her two sisters, Sandra and Ellen, then threatened to kill all of them if they told anyone about it.

According to court testimony, this situation went on for four years, until Winchester and one of her sisters drove a knife into the father's back, killing him instantly. Noreen Winchester was then tried and convicted of manslaughter.

The judge in the case, in sentencing Winchester, chastised her for having been "a willing partner" in the incest.

The judge further directed that "only bare details" of the case be published in newspapers; the names of the accused, the deceased, and the fact that Winchester was found guilty of patricide.

Federal loans to support efficient heating systems

WASHINGTON [UPI] — A House-Senate conference committee decided yesterday to make $5 billion in federal loan funds available for people installing efficient home heating systems, insulation and other energy-saving devices.

Some $2 billion of the money would be loaned through banking institutions at normal interest rates and individuals could borrow up to $2,500 under that program. The rest would be offered at subsidized interest rates for poor and middle income families — without any limit on the amount individuals could borrow.

The panel also approved a plan designed to turn neighborhood utilities into "one stop" energy help centers that offer advice, information and money for home fuel conservation efforts.

Carter will visit farmer while on tour

INDIANOLA, Iowa [UPI] — When President Lyndon Johnson came to call on Woody Diehl, farm prices were about half of present levels and income was a fraction of what it is today.

When President Carter arrives today, he'll discover that in spite of the gains made by U.S. agriculture the last decade, all is not well with the block of voters he worked so hard to woo.

Carter will spend the night with Diehl, 64, and his wife, Mary, as part of his three-day cross-country trip. They plan to brief Carter on farm policies as they did for Johnson in 1966.

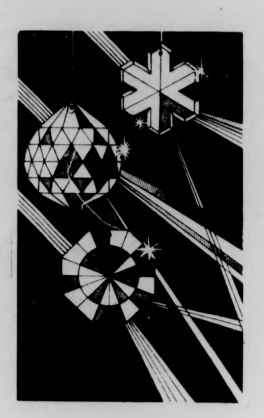
"Farmers are like anyone else," said Diehl, who operates a 1,600-acre livestock and grain operation with his son, Ted. "When we're down and out, we go crying for help."

In Iowa alone, the slump in prices has cost farmers about $1 billion in potential revenues and is projected to produce a drop in tax collections and cut deeply into the state's treasury surplus.

Tomorrow, Diehl and eight other central and southwest Iowa farmers will sit down with Carter to assess the nation's farm economy over a hearty breakfast of bacon, eggs, toast and coffee.

"I expect we'll talk about the problems we face — the drought, farm prices, crop surpluses and farming in general," said Diehl, a long-time Democrat who headed the Food and Agriculture Committee that drummed up rural support for the Carter campaign last year.

Diehl blamed "special interests" for shortcomings in the president's farm program and said things "have gone pretty much like I predicted," since Carter took office. But, Diehl said, Carter still has his backing and he will express unqualified support when the president arrives at the farmhouse for a "relaxing evening away from the worries of the world."



rainbow prisms

A fine collection of hand cut strass quality crystal, high lead content and exquisite shapes project color and form when hung in a window. A perfect gift for your home, from $1.75 to $20.

Faces of Earth

Open 9:30 to 6 Mon.-Sat.

Next to Amherst Post Office

OLD TIME MOVIES

and Cartoons
October 22nd & 23rd

HAMPDEN SNACK BAR
9:00 PM

WORCESTER SNACK BAR
7:30 PM

OLD TIME PRICES

Hamburger 30c
Hot Dog 25c
Fries 20c
Coke 10c
Ice Cream 15c

BILL'S SHOE REPAIR
Located in the Center of Amherst

We Repair—Clogs, Frye Boots, Running Shoes,
Hiking Boots, Wallabee Heels, Purses,
Leather Jackets, Zippers, & Carry-Alls

GUATAMALA IN JANUARY?

Mayan ruins, jungle river trip,
clinb semi-active volcanos.
Slide show at Hampshire
Mon. Nov. 7
7:30 Prescott House B1 Lounge
Spanish and/or photography instruction available limited space (15) Dec. 29-Jan. 19

$950 includes airfare—round trip NYC to Guatamala City, accomadations, food, travel expenses, and guides throughout the trip.

for details, call Holly Wheeler
Amherst 256-0219 (evenings)

A FILM BY A WOMAN, ABOUT WOMEN AND FOR EVERYONE.

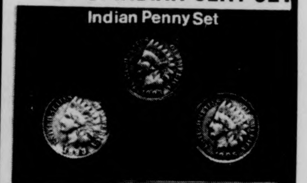
LUMIERE
A film by Jeanne Moreau

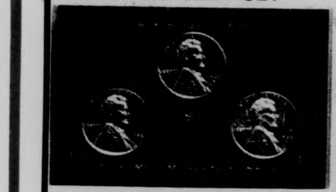
Roger Corman presents "LUMIERE"
Starring Jeanne Moreau • Francine Racette • Lucia Bose
Caroline Cartier and Keith Carradine
R Written and directed by Jeanne Moreau
In Color
A New World Picture

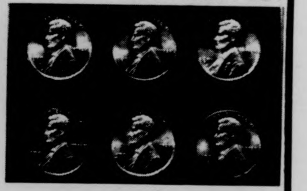
FILMS INCORPORATED

Sun., Oct. 23 - CCA

7 & 9 - $1.00







United States Coin Sale
MOST OF THESE COINS ARE NO LONGER IN CIRCULATION!

5 PC. OBSOLETE NICKEL SET
THREE TYPES OF NICKELS LIBERTY-BUFFALO-SILVER: NO LONGER BEING MINTED. JUST RIGHT FOR THE BEGINNING COLLECTOR. 2.99

3 PC. INDIAN CENT SET
INTRODUCED IN 1859 AND MINTED THRU 1909. THIS SET MAKES A PERFECT GIFT. DISPLAYED IN LONG LASTING ATTRACTIVE CASE. 3.47

1943 STEEL CENT SET
OWING TO A SHORTAGE OF COPPER DURING THE CRITICAL WAR YEAR 1943 THE TREASURY DEPT. RESORTED TO THE USE OF ZINC COATED STEEL FOR OUR CENTS. ONE COIN FROM EACH MINT IN ATTRACTIVE DISPLAY CASE. 1.57

6 PC. 'S' MINT CENT SET
ONE OF EACH SAN FRANCISCO MINTED COINS IN UNCIRCULATED CONDITION FROM 1968 THRU 1973 DISPLAYED IN LONG LASTING ATTRACTIVE CASE. 88c

Woolco Dept. Stores
Mountain Farms Mall
Rt. 9 Hadley, Mass.
Open 10 A.M. - 9:30 P.M.,
Mon.-Sat, Fri. 'til 10 P.M.

What's Happening

TODAY

COLLOQUIUM

Labor Law Reform 1:30 p.m. Draper Hall 222. Moderated by Dick Whitney, Region 8, AFL-CIO.

CONCERT

Rosenshontz and Dixon, special concert, 9:30 p.m. Rathskeller South, in Wilbur at Mount Holyoke College (I.D. required). $1.

CARNIVAL

On the playing fields next to University Drive, across from Southwest dorms. Tonight thru Sunday, admission free. Friday 6:30 to midnight, Saturday 11 a.m. to midnight, Sunday 1 to 8 p.m.

DANCE

International folkdancing (teaching and review 8-9:30 p.m.) Cape Cod Lounge, Student Union.

FORUM

— Norman Birnbaum, Professor of Sociology at Amherst College, will speak at the Amherst Community Forum 12:15, at Unitarian Meetinghouse, 121 N. Pleasant St. Topic is "The CIA and American Intellectual Life."

— Charles O'Brien, Spartacus Youth League, National Committee, "Anti-Apartheid Revolts and U.S. Imperialist Moralism," 7:30 p.m. Campus Center 911-915.

MINSTREL SHOW

The Chocolate Box Revue — An Authentic Minstrel Show, Buckley Recital Hall, Amherst College, 8 p.m.

MOVIE

"Death Wish," at 6:30 and 9:45 p.m. and "Lipstick," at 8 and 11:15 p.m. Campus Center Aud.

POTLUCK DINNER

With members from the "Mohawk Nation of Ganienkeh," St. John's Church in Northampton 6 p.m.

PLAYS

— "Angel Street," Belchertown Jr. Sr. High School, October 21, 22 and 28, 29 and 8 p.m. $2.50 admission.

— Lillian Hellman's "The Children's Hour," 8 p.m. in the Hallie Falnagan Studio Theatre of Smith's Center for the Performing Arts. Benefits will go to the club's scholarship fund.

TAG AND BAKE SALE

Clothes, books and unusual items plus naturally baked goodies for sale, 45 Northeast Street, Amherst. Rain or shine 10 a.m.

SEMINAR

"Turning Leaves," presented by the Eastern Region of Association for Humanistic Psychology, will be held October 21-23. For more info call Division of Continuing Education 545-3420.

SENIOR PORTRAITS

Pictures will be taken the next two weeks for the 1978 yearbook. Seniors graduating in Dec. should make their appointments by calling 545-2874 or go to room 811 in the Campus Center. Morning, afternoon, and night times are available.

TOMORROW

DANCE

UMass Outing Club's "Harvest Nipper," Farley Lodge, dinner and contra dance, music by Ladies Chain, 6:30 p.m., $1.50.

MOPED TRIP

Throughout the Connecticut River Valley today at noon, raindate 10-23. This will be a four hour trip and is open to all who have a moped driver's license. There is no fee.

MOVIE

"The Adventure of Sherlock Holmes' Smarter Brother," 7, 9, and 11 p.m. Campus Center $1.

PLAYS

Amherst Regional High School Theatre Company's for production: "The Good Person of Setzuan,". ARHS Theatre Aud 7 p.m., 10-21, 8 p.m., 22, 28, and 29. $1 students 1.50 adults.

POETRY SERIES

Readings at the Jones Library 3 p.m. in the Burnett Gallery.

SUNDAY

CELEBRATION

Women's Center Open House, Baker House basement, 7:30-10:30 p.m. Music, poetry and refreshments, everyone is invited.

HIKE

To Quabbin Reservoir with transportation provided. This could be the last hike of the fall, Sunday. Amherst Youth Center.

COFFEEHOUSE

"Caffeine Cafe," Amherst Youth Center 6:30 p.m.

MOVIE

"Lumiere," Campus Center Aud. 7 and 9 p.m.

SINGERS

Bud Godreau, folksinger and songwriter, will present "Why I Wrote These Songs," 11 a.m. at Unitarian Meetinghouse, 121 N. Pleasant Street, Amherst. Everyone is welcome.

NEW COURSE

Salvadori, a retired Smith professor and author of "Free Market Economy," will teach course titled Market Economy: Pros and Cons. Twice per week no registration fee. For more info call Douglas Warner 256-8403.

DANFORTH FELLOWSHIPS

UMass has been invited to nominate four seniors in this year's competition for the Danforth Fellowships. The deadline for applying is Friday, October 21.

WANTED:

CAMPUS
STEREO SALES

We are the east coast's largest distributor of Hi Fi, CB, TV, and Car Stereo. We are looking to expand our Campus Sales Program. Set your own profit margins on equipment like Pioneer, Marantz, Sony, Sansui, Teac and Hy-Gain. Over 2-million dollar inventory. No minimum orders. SERIOUS SALES MOTIVATED PERSONS ONLY NEED APPLY. Send applications, including references and previous employment to:
Donn Elliott c/o

MUSIC/SOUND DISTRIBUTORS
6730 SANTA BARBARA RD.
BALTIMORE, MD. 21227

Campus Carousel

By TONY GRANITE
Special to the Collegian

THE KNIGHT magazine of Clarkson College of Technology (Potsdam, NY) carries this disclaimer on its masthead: "...The opinions, ideas and convictions expressed herein are solely those of the Editorial Board and staff, and in no way reflect the opinions, ideas and convictions of the faculty, administration and student body. The faculty, administration and student body have no opinions, ideas and convictions."

THE KNIGHT is one of the endangered species of student humor magazines in America. It is copyrighted, so that "no section or portion of this magazine may be reproduced in whole or in part without the written consent of The Knight magazine and your mother. This includes photocopying, storage or retrieval systems, transfer by the use of Silly Putty, and reading it to your kid brother in the hall closet."

---

HOW MUCH ARE COLLEGE PRESIDENTS WORTH? At Indiana University, a group of students calling itself the Educational Rights Committee (ERC) circulated a petition and gathered 3,000 signatures to request the trustees to cut IU President John W. Ryan's salary to the 1975 level of $50,000.

Since 1975, Ryan's salary had been raised to $62,500 while "students, faculty and staff have been asked to accept cutbacks because of the university's tight financial situation, and we are accepting them," the ERC told the trustees.

Ryan's salary had been increased by 20 per cent in the last two years, averaging 7 per cent a year since he was appointed president in 1971.

Board of Trustees President D.C. Danielson was reported as reacting "angrily" to the petition, according to the Indiana Daily Student.

"The buck stops with the trustees," he said, pounding the table. "No other body of the university has that authority. We have given President Ryan increases in his salary because he merits them and we feel very strongly about it."

The ERC replied "There is a trend at IU toward more administration at the same time that other areas are being cut."

So, what else is new?

---

ADD HOT TERM PAPERS...UConn has gone to court to prevent two California-based outfits from advertising the sale of research papers on the Storrs campus.

It's against Connecticut state law to sell term papers, making it a Class B misdemeanor punishable by up to $1,000 fine or six months in jail, or both.

According to the Daily Campus newspaper, a student may get into more than just academic trouble for buying hot term papers, since the purchase is considered a conspiracy to commit the misdemeanor.

DC Menu

TODAY

LUNCH — Tuna Grinder, Ham and Chicken Roll-Ups, Basics; Tuna Grinder, Summer Salad Plate.

DINNER — Fish Fry Plate, Lasagna-Meat Sauce, Basics; Fish Fry Plate, Colache.

TOMORROW

LUNCH — Scrambled Eggs, Ham Slices, Clam Roll, Devonshire Sandwich.

DINNER — Salisbury Steak, Eggs, Sharp-cheese Salad Plate.

SUNDAY

LUNCH — Scrambled Eggs, Bacon, Meatball Grinder, Broccoli and Cauliflower Casserole.

DINNER — Roast Turkey, Vegetable Chow Mein, Noodles.

Notices

ASIAN AMERICAN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

Meeting Monday 10-24 8 p.m. Campus Center 809. Also remember office New Africa House 418, Monday-Friday 7-9 p.m.

ACRC COMPANION PROGRAM

—The program is recruiting "Big Companions" who can give 2-3 hours to an Amherst child. Contact Amherst Community Resource Center, 253-2591.

—Volunteer Clearing House looking for volunteers, come to the basement of Jones Library in Amherst or call 253-2591.

COALITION FOR ALTERNATIVE AGRICULTURE AND SELF SUFFICIENCY

Important meeting Tuesday 10-25, 7 p.m. in the SCER office, Student Union 406 (2nd floor).

FOOD SCIENCE AND NUTRITION CLUB

Alpine Slide, $5. cover 2 rides and transportation. Bus will leave Campus Center 6 p.m. and John Q. Adams 104 5:30 p.m. tonight. Open to all students, faculty and friends.

FOUND

—Black Bag near Coffee shop. Call 665-2294, late.

—Woman's leather coat in Hampden Dining Commons, Friday night. Call 253-5391.

FREIBURG ABEND

Will be held on Wednesday 10-26, 7 to 9 p.m. 6th floor of Herter Hall. Refreshments will be served. Interested students cordially invited.

HILLEL

—Friday Night Happening, enjoy services and relax with coffee and, Services begin 7 p.m. Campus Center 162.

—Disco Party, Saturday 8 p.m. Hampden Student Center.

JUDO CLUB

Steve Hoyle, 1st Degree blackbelt and instructor of UMass Judo Club, recently entered the Quebec International Open. In the 78 Kg. wght class, he placed 3rd of 22 people.

KAPPA KAPPA PSI

Meeting and Second Degree, Sunday 10-23, 6:15 p.m. No formal dress required, however your attendance is.

NATIVE AMERICAN SOLIDARITY COMMITTEE

Pot luck supper celebration of independence of the Mohawk Nation. Friday 10-21, 6 p.m. in St. John's Church, Northampton.

NAVIGATORS No. 465

Practical training in Evangelism, RSO mailbox 465 or call 549-5893.

RESOURCES JUDAICA

Meeting 7:30 p.m. Campus Center 172, all welcome.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

An open hearing on the pass-fail grading system, Thursday 10-27, 10 a.m. in Campus Center 101, all interested are invited.

SPECTRUM

Meeting for those interested in working on art, poetry, fiction, and business, Friday 5 p.m. Campus Center 104.

STOCKBRIDGE BASKETBALL

Interested in trying out for the team? Must attend meeting at Curry Hicks Cage on Tuesday 10-25 at 7 p.m.

UMASS AIKIKAI

Practice at Boyden gym 237 Monday and Friday 7-9 p.m. and Sunday 2-4 p.m.

UMASS BICYCLE CLUB

Ride Sunday 10-23 a.m. in front of Student Union. Destination to be determined. Bring lunch, dress warm, all are urged to come.

UMASS MARCHING BAND

Lost: 1 tan "Golden Bear" golf jacket with grey sweatshirt in Old Chapel. If found please call 546-6093, Reward!

WSYL-FM

"Ear Food", Treat your aural sensors to some good music. 97.7 FM.

ZAMIR

Israeli Music in the Valley? Yes, listen to ZAMIR, Sundays 1 p.m. on WMUA for Israeli music and announcements of community events of interest to the five college Jewish Community.

Wheelock College GRADUATE SCHOOL

Full-time and part-time Early Childhood programs leading to a Master's Degree in:

- ☆ Reading
- ☆ Children with Special Needs
- ☆ Infant and Toddler
- ☆ Advanced Study in Early Childhood Education
- ☆ Leadership (Administration, Supervision, Consultation)
- ☆ Teaching

A representative will be at UMass on Tuesday, Oct. 25, 10:30-12:30. Call placement 545-2224.

Wheelock College Graduate School, 154 The Riverway Boston, Mass. 02215 (617) 734-5200, Ext. 195

QUALITY DOWN VESTS

Don Gleason's has the best quality down vests in the area. Filled with PRIME NORTHERN GOOSE DOWN with colorful rip stop nylon outers. Assorted colors. XS thru XL.

ONLY $29.95

ALSO VISIT US TO BROWSE THRU OUR VAST SELECTION OF OUTDOOR CLOTHING FOR FALL AND WINTER.

Don Gleason's CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC.

PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS.

Weekdays 9-5:30
Saturday 9-5:00

RSO Roundup

The RSO [Registered Student Organization] Roundup is directed at all RSO groups and will appear monthly in the Collegian, written by James P. Riley, assistant coordinator of Student Activities.

Thanks to: Bonnie Levetin, Jack Albeck, Alene Greto, Sean Doyle and the members of UPC for their hard work on the George Benson Show. - - - - - Belated thanks to Steve Aznovorian, Kathy Moore, and the Greek Council Activities Committee for their very successful Tropical Plant Sale. - - - - - - The Association of College Unions-National Entertainment and Campus Activities Association Conference for New England is Nov. 5-8 — Student and Staff registrations are due today — See Jim Riley.

RSO's planning Halloween parties, see Bill Hasson, Sarah Williamson or Irene Richard this week regarding space reservations, band contracts, food and financial plans. - - - - - The need for Advance Program Planning has become critical. RSOs planning activities for November, December, February and March should see a program advisor as soon as possible. Schedule an appointment by calling 5-3600. - - - - - Space available for films, lectures, concerts, and other programs has become very limited. This is complicated by the need to have requests to support departments 10 to 30 days in advance of the program date.

The Campus Center Program Committee is planning to publish monthly program calendars for the spring semester. Call Dave Kantor, 5-0983, 5-0194, or see him at the Program Council Office Student Union 415A for entering your program announcement. - - - - - Programs available for sponsorship by RSO's: Student Filmmaker and Film Study Competition — sponsored by Nissan Motors Corp — prizes include $2,500 scholarship and a Datsun car.

College Bowl competition — teams of four students compete against one another answering academic questions — intramural and intercollegiate competition. - - - - - Facets Performance Ensemble for Cornet — a theatre piece based on the works of Rainer Maria Rilke. - - - - - An Exhibit and Sale of Old Books and Original Art Prints. - - - - - Soleil — a Laser Music Spectacle - - - - - "Shakespearean Rag" — an evening of Elizabethan Lute Music, Shakespearean Poetry, and compositions for guitar — starring Morris Mizrahi. - - - - - Musica Orbis (folk, rock, jazz, and classical). - - - - - slight of hand artist — Irv Weiner ("Mr. Fingers") and Steve Dacri. - - - - - Hypnotists, Psychics, and Strange Phenomena. - - - - - The Britton Sisters in Concert. - - - - - The American Indian Theatre Series. - - - - - The Folger Theatre Group's production of "Black Elk Speaks". - - - - - See a Program Advisor in the Student Activities Office, Student Union Room 416.

Residents available for adoption

As of Oct. 20 the following dogs are at the Amherst Dog Pound (Wagner Farm, 217 North East St., 253-7294), and may be either claimed or adopted:

— Female collie mix, black and tan, running at large on Tracy Circle.

— Male Spaniel, black and white, Belchertown lic. No. 437, picked up on a complaint on Lincoln Ave.

— Male Shepherd puppies, black and tan, stray on Potwine Lane, not house broken yet, two each.

— Male hound, gold with black face markings, picked up on So. Pleasant St. by The Grist Mill.

— Female St. Bernard-retriever mix, stray on Cowls Rd. North Amherst.

— Male Gordon Setter, Pittsfield lic. No. 1860, loose at Echo Hill.

— Male long hair mix, tan with black face markings, stray in Echo Hill area.

— Male Maltese, white, no larger than a loaf of bread, wandering on Belchertown Rd., Northampton lic. No. 1052.

Proposals will force electric companies to use "peak load" rate systems

BOSTON [UPI] — The Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities yesterday submitted proposed regulations to the secretary of state's office which would force electric companies to use "peak load" rate systems.

The new rate structure will replace the so-called "declining block" rates in which customers who use the most electricity are charged the lowest rates the DPU said.

Under the proposed system, both residential and industrial customers would pay higher prices for electricity used during peak demand hours, usually in the early morning and evening.

"When the demand for electricity is at its highest, during the so-called peak periods, the cost of producing each additional unit of electricity is also at its maximum," said Public Utilities Department Chairman Harold J. Keohane.

"If demand at peak increases, construction of new plants is necessary to meet it," said Keohane.

The DPU said the new rate structure is fairer, will encourage conservation; moderate rate increases in the future by postponing the need for new plants; reduce operating costs and permit consumers to exercise control over the size of their bills by shfiting use to off-peak hours.

The DPU has already held 14 public hearings on the new rate structure, Keohane said, but under state law the proposal must be filed with the secretary of state's office for a 21-day waiting period to give interested parties more time to respond.

Another hearing is scheduled for Nov. 29.

Gene Wilder Madeline Kahn Marty Feldman

The adventure of SHERLOCK HOLMES' SMARTER BROTHER

A RICHARD A. ROTH/JOUER PRODUCTION

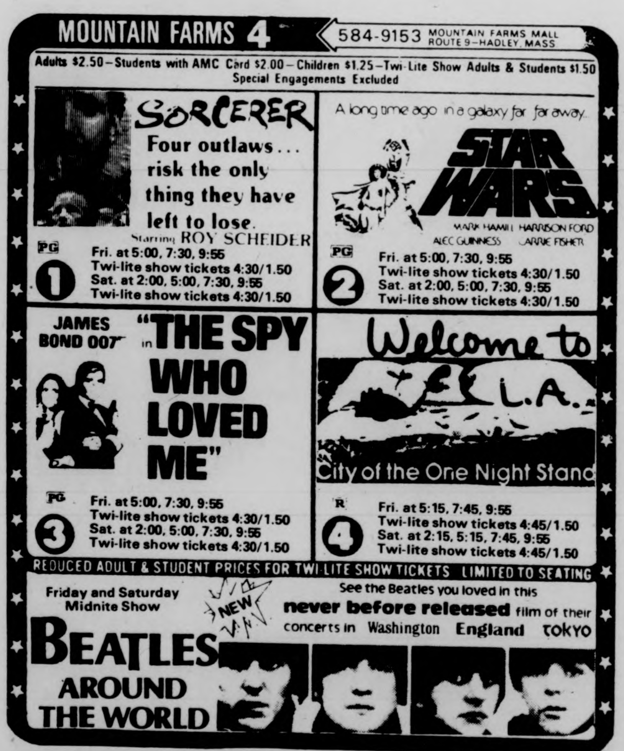
Co-Starring Dom DeLuise and Leo McKern as Moriarty

Produced by RICHARD A. ROTH Written and Directed by GENE WILDER

Music by JOHN MORRIS

PG

Times: 7, 9, 11 Place: CCA
Date: Sat., Oct. 22 Price: $1.00



MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS

Adults $2.50—Students with AMC Card $2.00—Children $1.25—Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded

SORCERER
Four outlaws... risk the only thing they have left to lose.
Starring ROY SCHEIDER
PG ①
Fri. at 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:30/1.50
Sat. at 2:00, 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:30/1.50

A long time ago in a galaxy far far away...
STAR WARS
MARK HAMILL HARRISON FORD ALEC GUINNESS CARRIE FISHER
PG ②
Fri. at 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:30/1.50
Sat. at 2:00, 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:30/1.50

JAMES BOND 007 in "THE SPY WHO LOVED ME"
PG ③
Fri. at 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:30/1.50
Sat. at 2:00, 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:30/1.50

Welcome to L.A.
City of the One Night Stand
R ④
Fri. at 5:15, 7:45, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:45/1.50
Sat. at 2:15, 5:15, 7:45, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:45/1.50

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS LIMITED TO SEATING

Friday and Saturday Midnite Show
NEW
BEATLES AROUND THE WORLD
See the Beatles you loved in this never before released film of their concerts in Washington England TOKYO

University of Massachusetts/Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER
"GREASE" IS BACK!
"The dancingest show in town" Daily News
Grease
Friday, October 28
8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public-$7, 6, 5. UMass students and senior citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations

Letter to the Editor

To the editor:

I have taken it upon myself to rise to the occasion and give the New York Yankees the much deserved and unheralded credit that they have certainly earned. I mean after all, no writer in Massachusetts [Collegian inclusive] can possibly relent from all the accusations, beefed up journalism, and played out controversies long enough to respect what the Yankees have achieved so far in this 1977 baseball season.

I am sure many Red Sox fans still remain in shock. No — not from the consistent inconsistencies that their team had put them through this year, but rather from a stunning victory of the American League playoffs by the #-"='¶! Yankees. this year as a full fledged loyal Yankee fan, I have dealt with many a berated, confused, bewildered, and frustrated BoSox fan.

Well Sox fans, once you have recovered from this most recent Yankee shocker, you will realize that you must wait for your chance for revenge. Whatever the case, the question still remains intact: When are supposedly knowledgeable people going to finally give the Yankees the respect they deserve? The Yankees had entered the season amidst formidable pressures and constant controversies, and this is the same way many sportscasters and writers had hoped they would depart as evidenced by national television and the daily newspapers.

It seems country-wide as though newscasters, newswriters, and anti-Yankee fans alike cannot seem to rid themselves of a good thing they have going — that is this common bond, a social force that leads them to a unified goal. That goal is to break up and ridicule the damn Yankees anyway they can. Intimidate them, fight with them, pressure them, test their professionalism, and berate the players and the loyal Yankee fans by any possible means.

Well, Collegian, and all others — keep trying because we are not giving up yet. Not the players and certainly not the fans. We Yankee fans may not agree with all the managerial shenanigans that go on with the Yankee brass, but we are loyal fans and we intend to remain loyal to our team because the Yankee force is definitely with us, even if the rest of the sports world won't join in on our celebration. But I pity them because they don't know what they are missing.

Drew Sheinman

★Kennedy spurs on team

CONT. FROM PAGE 20

friend and to play for you at the same time."

Looking over her past years in college, Kennedy can pick out a big change which had affected her athletic participation. "I think the women's sports and facilities have come a long way since I started, although at times I think they still aren't where they should be," she said.

But Kennedy doesn't like talking about the past or of graduation very much, because, at present, she says she is mainly concerned with how the team is doing. But one of the reasons is because she knows that, come next spring, her college career, a career which bought joy and affected so many people, will come to an end.

★Football

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 24

somewhat inept UConn receiving corps with 16 catches, good for 212 yards.

How to counteract Farbotko? Most teams have been triple-teaming him this year, but MacPherson says UMass will stop him with "tight coverage."

MacPherson also said he feels UConn has an excellent offensive line as the average weight of the monsters up front aver is 239 lbs.

As for the defense, its biggest problem has been the secondary. For an idea of the sorry state it finds itself in, a tailback, Nick DeGraffe, has been converted to strong safety.

One bright spot on the Huskies' defense is linebacker Dennis O'Connell, a 6', 204 lb. junior. The line, MacPherson notes, is "a fine group of athletes but inexperienced."

It has shown in the stats, as UConn has given up an average of 34 points a game.

As for the Minutemen, who have outscored their opposition, 132-35, in the last three games, the lineup appears to be relatively healthy. The only question mark is linebacker Peter MacCarty, who sprained an ankle in the second half of Saturday's 34-13 victory over Rhode Island.

"We're better physically this week than last," MacPherson said. "Everybody that got bruised and bumped up is back in shape."

Despite the apparent mismatch, it still remains that tomorrow is UConn's Homecoming. As Nadzak put it, "it's not hard to get up for UMass."

And MacPherson, wary of the UConn-UMass rivalry, said, "We want to go down there and get a W and then get some rest. We're asking for maximum concentration."

UMASS
Union Program Council in association with WMUA
Presents
The Woody Shaw concert ensemble
Friday October 28th 8 pm admission $2
at the Student Union Ballroom
Tickets:
Tix, Sun Music, Backroom Records
and The Sound Room in Northampton

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

We Buy Cars for cash 253-5384 323-5010

68 Galaxy 500 Ford. $700. 527-5746.

'68 VW Bug. VG Rebuilt engine, cond. body fair, $200. or B.O. Call 772-0672 Anytime.

66 Volvo 122S. Gooid mechanical condition. 130,000 miles. Frame needs work. Call 256-8467. Keep Trying.

71 VW SQBK. $770. or B.O. 545-0811 Jack.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

68 Chevy Wagon. $250. or B.O. 549-5993.

73 Datsun, auto, V. Gd. cond. $1,500. 584-1594 After 6:00P.M.

1975 Volvo 164. AC, Cruise control, Michelins and snows, leather interior, excellent condition inside and out. All for only $5,950. or Best Offer. Call 253-5349, YOU WON'T REGRET IT!

1971 Pinto. New exhaust system, good tires, needs some engine work. Call 546-7945 evenings. Price negotiable.

Fiat 128 priced for quick sale. $1,250. or Best Offer. Call 323-7384 evenings.

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

SUPER BIKE '74 KAW. Z-1 900cc. In very good condition. Kerker pipe, Denselube chain. OFFERS? 665-3031.

FOR SALE

Vox Bass AMP, Guild 6 string electric, AKAI casette deck. Send phone # to Box 792, Northampton.

Fender Bass-Music Master. Excel. cond.; also Arthur E. Smith Maple Leaf 5-string Banjo. Excel. Cond. Best offer on both. Call Brian at 549-3796.

SAVE up to 50%on TENNIS SHOES! Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18.-30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181

1 mth old FM stereo- fits in dash of most foreign cars. B.O. 546-5001.

2 Continental stud-snow radials 175-14 $160., 4 Fireston radials 155-13 $80.. 64580 ask Bill, evenings.

Gold Couch & Chair. Exc. cond. $150. 734-8464 after 5PM Spfld.

Ollie is a 7 month old Gordon Setter. He is completely housebroken and excellent with children. If interested call 549-6739.

Olin Mark III Skiis (170's). Never been used. $150. or Best Offer. Call 665-4963 evenings.

Stereo 8track AM-FM, Best Offer! Green Suede Coat size 9. Margie 584-9468.

Matching Executive Chair and Sofa $50. 4 piece Oak Set Desk, 5 draw Chest, 2 Cabnets asking $145. Call 253-7462.

CAPE COD HOUSE FOR SALE

Falmouth 300 yards from large Waquoit Bay. Trilevel. 3 bdrms. Fieldstone fireplace. Cathedral ceilings. Celler. Central heat. Sacrifice at $24,900. Tel. 253-9328. Ask for David Shores.

HELP WANTED

Babysitter - warm resp. girl one night a week for three girls. 253-3149 256-0577.

OVERSEAS JOBS- Summer/Year-round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500.-$1,200. monthly. Expenses paid, sightseeing. Free inform.-Write: International Job Center, Dept. MC, Box 4490, Berkeley, CA 94704.

Vets-with Military Police experience- part time day work on weekends. Al Lasota 256-6381 eve.

Ambitious person needed as campus representative for quality line of blank cassettes. Attractive Commission! Write: Marmac, 424 Rowayton Ave., Norwalk, Ct. 06854.

Experienced Waitresses. Apply Poor Richards 11 to 1p.m. daily.

ROOM WANTED

Quiet undergraduate male seeks room in quiet house to hang his hat and study for spring semester, possibly January and for next two years, including summers. Willing to pay for own bath and kitchen, or easy access to them. Will live anywhere in area. Please call 545-3503 Mon. nites and ask for Joe or leave message for rm. 209 - 50724.

WANTED

Players for weekly Poker Club needed. 1-2-3 Call Bob at 549-1316.

LOST

T.I.SR-40 Calculator. Somewhere in or between Goes. 152 and Bluewall on Sept. 28 after 8p.m. Desperately need it for doing my assignments! Please return - Reward and No Questions asked. 256-6059.

Dog white w/blk spots Btown tags. Lost in Amherst. Call 549-5434.

Lost pr. glasses. Wire rim brwn. case. Call 532-8143. Holy.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low price & full service. All models avail. T159-$225., 58-$99.95, 51-$49.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. Models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators. 549-1316.

AUDIO

Used Receivers, Speakers Call 546-4034.

ENTERTAINMENT

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco, Monitor Music, 546-4731, Rea.

TRAVEL

Guatamala in January? Manan Ruins jungle river trip, climb semi-active volcanos. Slide show at Hampshire Mon., Nov. 7, 7:30 Prescott House B1 Lounge, limited space 15, Dec. 29-Jan.19, $950.,includes airfare round trip to Guatamala, accomodations, food, travel expenses, guides throughout trip. For details call Holly Wheeler, Amherst 256-0219 evenings.

SERVICES

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models, low prices. Jack 586-0610.

Expert Typing. Mary Beth eves. 586-1206.

Horses Boarded in exchange for use by responsible UMass student 863-2680.

For A Good Layer Cake: Custom made & beautifully decorated birthday etc. Cakes on 2 days notice. Right on campus, (not associated with Campus Ed Service). Laurie 546-9576.

Expert Typing, only 40cents/page. Call after 6, Mon.-Thurs., 256-8484.

Collegiate research papers. Thousands on file. All academic subjects. Send $1. for mail order catalog. Box25918-2, Los Angeles, Calif. 90025 (213) 477-8474.

PERSONALS

To Peter on your eighteenth!"Life is a banquet and most poor souls are starving to death". Your Old Lady.

Girls! For a good time call Ken 6-9616.

Girls! For a wild time, call the one of a kind. I aim to please. Call 6-8659.

Cary-East-Meets-West-I Love You-Oct. 23- LB.

To the Birdman of Sampson's Isle. Greetings from your Friends at U-Mass.

Happy Bday Kathy S. Never Cheat at Solitaire. Love Rock.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY — Cancelled
JUNIOR VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY — Cancelled
TODAY
WOMEN'S TENNIS — New England Away
WOMEN'S GOLF — vs. Rhode Island Home
VARSITY MEN'S SOCCER — vs. UConn Away 3:00
WOMEN'S CROSS COUNTRY — New Englands Home 2:00
TOMORROW
VARSITY FOOTBALL — vs. UConn Away 1:30
VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY — vs. New Hampshire Away 11:00
WOMEN'S TENNIS — vs. New Englands Away
VARSITY VOLLEYBALL — vs. Williams-Bridgeport-Maine Home 1:00
MEN'S WATER POLO — vs. MIT-Yale MIT 1:00
RUGBY — vs. Springfield RFC Home 12:30
WOMEN'S SOCCER — vs. Boston College Away 6:30

Garber's Gorillas host alumni game tomorrow

By HEIDI BERENSON
Collegian Staff

Football is not the only sport at UMass to have a Homecoming game. Lacrosse is having one, too.

Actually, tomorrow's lacrosse game, on Boyden's upper field, pits men's varsity against alumni.

This annual event will commence at 1 p.m. when the varsity team will try to extend its past winning streak over the alumni.

"This will be a good time to preview this year's team," said Peter Connelly; assistant men's varsity coach who will be playing for the alumni squad.

The varsity played Boston College last week and beat the Eagles, 25-4, so they hope to keep playing strong.

The alumni have a strong squad this year as many returning players are back from last year's team. Wayne Ament, Dwight Blomquist, Frank Garahan, the women's varsity lacrosse coach, Mickey Menna, assistant men's lacrosse coach, and Bill O'Brien, are former all-Americas. In addition, another all-American and UMass' all-time leading scorer, Jeff Spooner, will be playing with many other talented alumni.

There is one varsity all-American, Norman Smith, who will be playing along with the other varsity players.

The game is organized under the auspices of head coach Dick Garber, and all of the men who will be playing have at one time or another been one of "Garber's Gorillas." No matter what the outcome, he is the real winner.

Fall batsmen dismal, but pitching optimistic

By ANDY BLUME
Collegian Staff

Bad weather, good opposing pitchers, and a lack of batting practice combined to figure into the UMass fall baseball teams' final 3-5-1 record.

"There was so much rain that we didn't get to take much batting practice," said coach Jim Bedard. The team went into games "mentally letdown" and it would often be compounded by fierce pitching from the opposition.

The team overall hit poorly but two players did hit well.

Freshman Tom Grimes looked good with the bat, hitting .346-best on the team. George Kelley was the only other man to hit over .300 (.318). "A lot of people had trouble hitting," said coach Bedard. "There were a number of small injuries. But I'm not worried. I know that all these guys can hit."

One thing that did shine for the Minutemen was pitching. The team had a combined ERA of only 1.20. Tom Nigro and Doug Welenc pitched extremely well. Nigro had a 0.00 ERA, striking out 12, walking four and allowing only four hits. Welenc also had an unblemished earned run average, striking out 14 and walking two.

The team found several new pitchers who showed varsity promise. Mike Yacyshyn, a senior transfer from Clemson, posted a 0.82 ERA. Jim Lewis and Chris Collins, junior varsity players last year, also pitched impressively.

"We walked a few too many batters," Bedard said, "because the most anybody pitched was 14 innings.

"Most everyone did well defensively. Plays which we would normally practice in the spring, such as rundowns, we didn't get a chance to work on," he added.

A few other ex-JV players showed possible varsity promise this fall. Tom Grimes, Chris Koperniak, and Tom Good impressed the coach.

The Minutemen will be looking for at least two good solid starters to join Welenc and Nigro on the spring pitching staff. In the fall exhibition season the coaches got a good look at a lot of players who may fit into the spring team.

The return of Mike McEvilly, John Czerapowicz, Dale Stone, and Leo Kalinowski should also strengthen the team.

Notices

INTRAMURALS — Boyden pool will be closed tomorrow for the Handicapped Olympics.

NOPE basketball courts will be closed all day tomorrow for valleyball matches.

Intramural football playoffs will be beginning next week.

HOCKEY CLUB — Anyone interested in playing ice hockey — call Dustin at 549-2635 or Chip at 546-9629.

For street hockey, call Rick at 546-9598.

Any woman interested in organizing a women's section of the club, call Dustin.

RUGBY — The UMass rugby club will be playing the Springfield rugby club tomorrow at 12:30 on the fields across from Boyden.

Poor Richard's
Rt. 9 Amherst
Friday
NO COVER
COME EARLY
Sunday
HAPPY HOUR
ALL NITE

The rusty nail Inn
presents
Tonite, Fri., Oct. 21
THE BRICKER BAND
Sat., Oct. 22
SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY and the
ASBURY JUKES
Special Guests
The Bricker Band
Sun., Oct. 23
SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY and the
ASBURY JUKES
Special Guests
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION
Mon., Oct. 24
L & M and the SOUL DRIVERS
Tues., Oct. 25
BONGO MOON
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47 / Tel. 665-4937

AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426
"Zany, lively, uninhibited sexual odyssey." —N.Y. TIMES
'Dirty Duck' is a free- association trip.' —Tom Allen, VILLAGE VOICE
DIRTY DUCK
ANIMATED & X-RATED
EVES: 7:15 & 9:00
SAT & SUN MAT 5:30
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

Showcase Cinemas
ROUTE 5
RIVERDALE RD.
West Springfield
733-5131
BARGAIN MATINEES $2.00 til 2:30 EVERYDAY
LOOKING FOR MR. GOODBAR
R RESTRICTED
PG STAR WARS
DAMNATION ALLEY PG
R NUREYEV is VALENTINO
KENTUCKY FRIED MOVIE R
SIDNEY POITIER BILL COSBY
PG A PIECE OF THE ACTION
G WALT DISNEY'S FANTASIA TECHNICOLOR
The Chicken Chronicles PG
PLEASE CALL THEATRE FOR SCREEN TIMES

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
open 'till 11 p.m. daily
MIX'N MATCH YOUR FAVORITE 6-PACK imported beers from around the world
SPECIAL-OF-THE-WEEK
WURTZBURGER OCTOBERFEST
REFRIGERATORS ARE HERE AVAILABLE NOW
338 College St. (Rt. 9)
Amherst 253-5384
256-8433 EZ Parking

---

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

OKAY, THE SECOND PART OF THIS QUESTIONNAIRE IS CALLED "SENSITIVITY AND THE MALE ATHLETE."
"① WHICH HUMAN EMOTIONS WOULD YOU RATE AS BEING THE MOST IMPORTANT?"
"INSOUCIANCE!"
"ANGER!"
"HUNGER!"
"HUNGER"?
"HORNINESS!"
YEAH, YEAH!
"HORNINESS" IS NOT AN EMOTION, DUMMY!
IT IS, TOO!
HOLD IT! LET'S TAKE A VOTE!
71 30 17
10-21
UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE © 1977 G. B. Trudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

HOW DO YOU TELL THE AGE OF A TREE?
BY THE RINGS.
RING
HAPPY BIRTHDAY.
10-21

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

pub accnt
Consltnt, engror, plmbg & heatg ins, restrnt
I'M PRACTG MY ABBREVS
10-21
© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

I do have one thing in my favor this winter...
My roommate Mike and his amazing bong!
Hey, We're gonna keep nice and toasted!
Ranney 10/21

WHAT NEXT? by Dick Janssen

DICK, WE NEED ARTWORK FOR THE NEW TOWER T-SHIRTS.....AND I'LL BE RIGHT UP
(CLICK)
10/21
DRAW DRAW DRAW DRAW DRAW DRAW DRAW
YOU LIKE IT?
WHAT THE HELL IS IT??
IT'S CROSSED-ELEVATOR REPAIRMEN ON A FIELD OF BROKEN BEER BOTTLES

UM by Marty Maceda

ARE YOU GONNA TALK?
HEY LUNK! MAYBE YOU CAN REASON WITH HIM!
WHAT DO YOU WANT ME TO SAY?
WE WANTS TA SEE THE WIZID!
OH.
MACEDA 10-21
WHY DIDN'T YOU SAY SO?

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

GERALD IS PARTYING IN A POSH MOROCCAN NIGHT CLUB...
هى النور
HMMM...
10 MINUTES LATER...
SO YOU WANNA COME UP TO MY PLACE AND LOOK AT MY ETCHINGS?
SURE!
LAFLER 10/21

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21 — Born today, you possess an excellent mental attitude where work and success are concerned. You seem to have been born for organized activity. Nothing spurs you on more persistently than a system to work by. If you embark upon some disorganized project, it won't be long befere you've tied all the loose ends and managed to get things moving at a rapid and logical pace. You don't court change, but you don't work against it; rather, you make every effort to adapt quickly and fluidly to whatever is asked of you.

Although you enjoy the arts as a 'spectator sport,' you have probably not been gifted to the point of being able to indulge in any art on the creative level. Your understanding of the creative urge, however, does make it easy for you to support those more gifted than you. Indeed, if you are fortunate enough to have the means at your disposal, you will very likely act as a patron to a number of young, deserving artists.

You have tremendous humanitarian instincts. Your love of animals, of children, of the downtrodden is well recognized. What may not be so well known, however, is your understanding of those at the other end of the scale — those who want for nothing, yet have their personal problems too. You may be able to be very influential during your middle years where improvement of the environment is concerned, for you will be interested in the subject — and once interested, there is no stopping your activity in support of that interest.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 22

LIBRA (Sept.23-Oct.22) — Your magnanimous personality precludes any refusal of aid on your part. Take care, however, not to overdo generosity.

SCORPIO (Oct.23-Nov.21) — Strange events in A.M. begin to make sense toward day's end. Don't be surprised to find yourself admired by the young.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.22-Dec.21) — Those in less fortunate circumstances may ask for aid this morning. Check your own needs before complying.

CAPRICORN (Dec.22-Jan.19) — An excess of physical exertion could bring you to an unhappy situation late in the day. Mental exercise cheers you, however.

AQUARIUS (Jan.20-Feb.18) — Your own sense of values should lead you to the making of good decisions. Children bring fresh views on an old question.

PISCES (Feb.19-March 20) — Curb any tendency toward a sour-grapes attitude. You know your own limitations; you do not know those of others.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Your physical attraction to the opposite sex may land you in an embarrassing, but not otherwise unhappy, situation today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Strong will power and the sense to recognize it as such rather than as stubbornness makes this day one of unusual gain.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Nervous tension may lead you into actions you will regret later. You would do well to seek relaxing activities.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Restrain your temper; otherwise, you may do yourself a considerable disservice today. Rely on your discretion at evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) — Your natural tendency to teach may cause you to be misinterpreted by others as imperious. Be diplomatic.

VIRGO (Aug.23-Sept.22) — The impression you make on strangers is vital to your future. Strangers may not always be so, especially ones dealt with today.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate

ACROSS

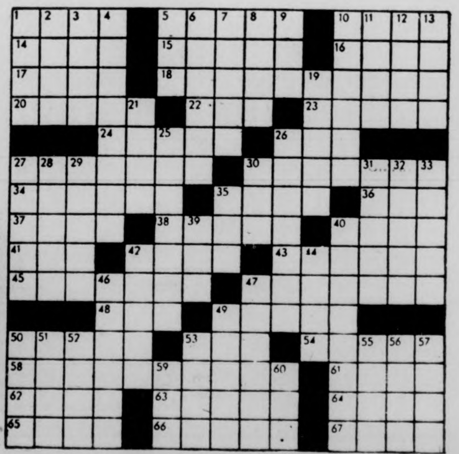
1 Crazy: Slang
5 ----- in the right direction
10 Bridge word
14 Sickness
15 ----- House: Capitol building
16 Father: Arab.
17 Cal. rockfish
18 Not the best
20 Orchestra section
22 Erick --- Stroheim
23 Actress Mary -----
24 Residences
26 Spanish river
27 Suits
30 Destroys by fire: 2 words
34 Giver of sly looks
35 Punch's friend
36 Numerical prefix
37 "Judith" composer
38 Its capital is Augusta
40 Relinquish
41 Insect egg
42 Make imperfect
43 Newspaper subscriber
45 Plunder
47 Ensigns
48 Firearm: Slang
49 Mediterranean island
50 "----- Irish Rose"
53 --- Galahad
54 Auto of the 50's
58 Playing card
61 Very small amount
62 Canopy for a boat
63 Amouk -----: Actress
64 Turkish river
65 Weaver's reed
66 Pass imperceptibly
67 Lair

DOWN

1 Nasty remark
2 Dyeing machine
3 Fish
4 Land by the ocean
5 Fool
6 Allen and McQueen
7 Mexican food
8 Shelley's alma mater
9 Indite
10 Man of the cloth
11 Blind as ----
12 "And ---- bed"
13 Plaintiff
19 Butter factory
21 About
25 Fabled sea creature
26 Growing in poor land
27 Kind of diet
28 Weird
29 Canada-U.S.S. coins
30 Chignon
31 Shoemaker's material
32 Directly below
33 Vertical structures
35 --- Otis: Footballer
39 Be sick
40 Ontario native
42 Game animal
44 Shield division
46 Pleasing
47 Kept out
49 Dixie city
50 Dwelling units: Abbr.
51 Surety bond
52 ---- Royale
53 Make dirty
55 Hurting
56 Greek letters
57 Terminal
59 Pouch
60 Aberdeen's river

Thursday Puzzle Solved:

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| W | A | L | E | S | ■ | S | A | V | O | R | ■ | G | E | T |
| A | L | A | M | O | ■ | A | D | O | R | E | ■ | R | A | E |
| F | A | C | I | L | I | T | A | T | E | S | ■ | A | S | A |
| T | E | E | N | ■ | T | I | M | E | ■ | T | O | N | E | S |
| ■ | ■ | ■ | E | R | I | N | ■ | ■ | M | I | D | D | L | E |
| C | A | N | N | E | S | ■ | G | R | I | N | D | S | ■ | ■ |
| E | J | E | C | T | ■ | C | L | U | N | G | ■ | T | E | N |
| R | A | C | E | ■ | F | O | U | N | D | ■ | D | A | L | E |
| A | R | T | ■ | M | O | N | E | T | ■ | T | E | N | S | E |
| ■ | ■ | A | L | I | G | N | S | ■ | F | O | L | D | E | D |
| H | E | R | O | N | S | ■ | ■ | G | O | N | E | ■ | ■ | ■ |
| E | L | I | T | E | ■ | S | C | A | R | ■ | G | A | L | E |
| M | A | N | ■ | R | E | C | U | P | E | R | A | T | E | D |
| A | T | E | ■ | A | M | O | R | E | ■ | A | T | O | N | E |
| L | E | S | ■ | L | U | T | E | S | ■ | H | E | M | A | N |



1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13
14 15 16
17 18 19
20 21 22 23
24 25 26
27 28 29 30 31 32 33
34 35 36
37 38 39 40
41 42 43 44
45 46 47
48 49
50 51 52 53 54 55 56 57
58 59 60 61
62 63 64
65 66 67

Adept Kennedy stars in more than 1 game

By JIM GLEASON
Collegian Staff

It isn't very often that an athlete on the college level can excel on the varsity level in more than one sport. But UMass has been lucky to have one of these athletes for the past three years. Now, in her senior year, Judy Kennedy is almost ready to graduate — but not until the close of the field hockey and lacrosse seasons.

Those are the two varsity sports she plays and plays very well. In field hockey, her ability in high school was recognized and she was granted an athletic scholarship by UMass. Though sidelined with a back injury her junior year, she's come back to help essentially the same team through a much more successful season. It is felt that her presence on the field is making the difference in the team's record and attitude.

Lacrosse, however, is Judy's favorite sport, mainly because it is so wide open. Although never playing in formal competition before entering college, she was last year selected to the all-New England college team at her center position. Women's lacrosse coach Frank Garahan said Kennedy is the axis around which the team revolves.

"She has all the skills to play any position, so we put her at center where she has more of a chance to use them. She's the connecting link between our offense and defense", said Garahan.

Kennedy can see a broad similarity between the sports she has played (which includes varsity basketball two years ago) which has helped her.

"Some sports employ the same strategy such as cutting for a pass, or setting a pick.... and after it's learned, you can use it for another sport," she said.

It is obvious that Kennedy has taken what she has learned and applied it well. She is now involved and participating in intramural football as well as hockey. Her team, the SOWS, won the title last year and are presently 5-0-1. The basketball and softball titles were also taken by her team.

When she is not involved at all with college competition, Kennedy is at home in Foxboro, where she has lived all her life. She attended Foxboro High School where she played field hockey for four years. In her junior and senior years there, her team was division champions while she was the teams leading scorer junior year and was selected for the all-star team in her last three years.

While attending UMass, Kennedy, a PE major, resides in the Townhouse apartments with teammates Ginger Bulman, Kathy Gipps, Kelly Salls, and Sue Kibling. The atmosphere created by this arrangement is suitable to all of them.

"It's crazy. We're always talking about the game we just played or the one coming up. We just talk for hours... on and on. It makes the sport more fun," she says.

If being a winner is always more fun than losing, then Kennedy is certainly getting her share. The field hockey team is undefeated and appears headed for the playoffs.

"I'm sure the team will qualify for the regional playoffs. I'm just hoping we do well enough to make the Nationals," she said.

Judith Davidson, UMass field hockey coach, credits Kennedy with much of the team's success. "She's the sparkplug. On the field, she's a quiet leader and her enthusiasm affects everybody," Davidson said.

But the quality which fascinates Davidson is Kennedy stamina. "She has so much endurance that after 70 minutes of hockey, I know she could still play another 35. She's in great shape."

That is still another reason why coach Garahan has her playing center in lacrosse, a position that is physically very tiring. "She's in the kind of shape that anyone trying to stay with her the whole game would be run into the ground," he said.

Garahan is thankful to Kennedy for making him feel welcome when he first came from men's athletics two years ago.

"Before I started coaching, I heard about her — that she was a real athlete. But as I came to know her, I found she was a person who was special. She helped me to make that adjustment and I'm very grateful to her for that," he said. "She isn't afraid to be your

TURN TO PAGE 17

Judy Kennedy, a sparkplug on the UMass field hockey team, takes a swipe at the ball in action early this season. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

ART PRINT SALE

AT THE CAPE COD LOUNGE
OCT. 19, 20, 21

GREAT FOR DORMS & APARTMENTS

SPONSORED BY ASTRONOMY CLUB

9th Anniversary
Levi's CORDS
Every Size & Color... Only...$11.99
Open 'till 9 P.M. THURS. & FRI. NIGHTS!
WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

WEEKEND MONEY
The Collegian Graphics
Department is looking for people (especially artists)
who can work on weekends.
These are WORK STUDY
positions. Contact Randy Glenn
at the Collegian

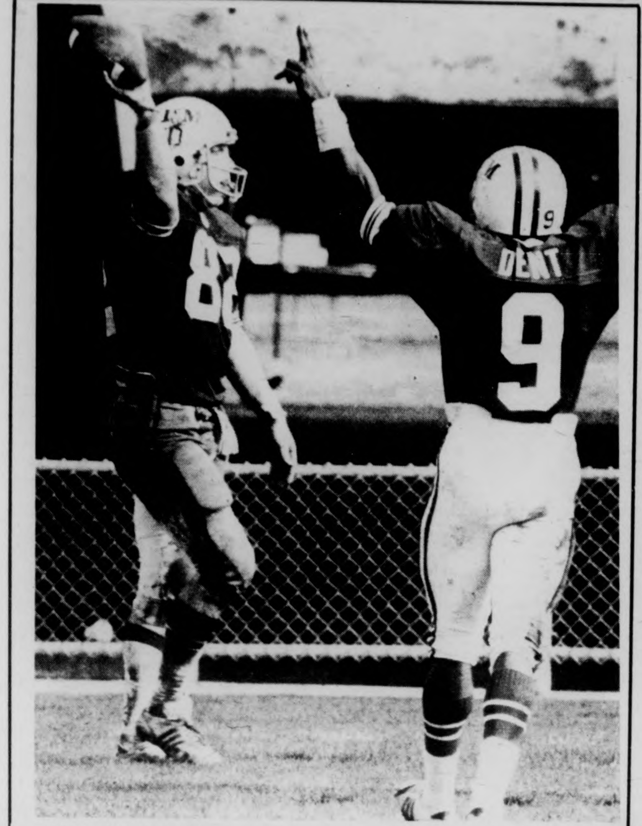
"The Bell of Amherst"
BELL'S PIZZA
65 University Drive

Free Delivery
on Campus

Sun. - Thurs.
253-9051 549-1311

©1977 Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

STATE
S
Now comes Miller time.
Miller High Life



THE THRILL OF IT ALL — UMass' Kevin Cummings and Dennis Dent tell the whole story after Cummings hauled in one of his three touchdown passes against Rhode Island last weekend in the Minutemen's 37-6 victory. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Trojans travel to ND

The worst defeat in Southern Cal history might have been the best thing that ever happened to the Trojans.

After Notre Dame beat Southern Cal 51-0 in 1966, Coach John McKay vowed never again to let the Irish humiliate the Trojans. In the 10 games between the two rivals since then, Southern Cal has won eight, lost one and tied one. And John Robinson, McKay's successor, has every intention of maintaining the tradition when the teams meet tomorrow in South Bend in a nationally televised game.

Fourth-ranked Southern Cal has lost once against five victories, dropping a 21-20 decision to Alabama two weeks ago. The Irish, ranked 10th, are 4-1, losing only to Mississippi in their second game.

"Bryant had somebody up above helping Alabama," Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine said of Alabama Coach Bear Bryant. "Hopefully, we'll have the same thing. We need a great team effort and some breaks."

Devine is particularly worried about Southern Cal running backs Charles White and Dwight Ford and the passing combination of Rob Hertel to Randy Simmrin.

"Southern Cal has two excellent tailbacks and I think they've got a more diversified offense," Devine said. "Their wide outs are extremely skilled and they have an excellent quarterback. Pro scouts say Southern California is faster and quicker, so we're going to have to dig and scratch on defense. Their passing combination probably is the best two people we've faced."

The Irish, six-point underdogs, will be helped by the return of running back Vagas Ferguson, who will be available for the first time since Notre Dame's opening game against Pittsburgh.

"He will help us with speed and quickness," Devine said.

And that is where Notre Dame needs a great deal of help against the Trojans.

"I don't think we'll be able to outspeed them and they've got a very sophisticated pass defense," the Irish coach said. "They use all the coverages and pros use and college too."

Notre Dame fans might like to recall that their team's only victory in 10 years against Southern Cal, in 1973, was also the last year the Irish won the national championship.

In other games involving nationally ranked teams, top-rated Michigan is a 20-point favorite over Minnesota, No. 2 Texas is a 17-point favorite over Southern Methodist University, No. 3 Alabama is an off-the-board favorite over Louisville, No. 5 Ohio State is off-the board over Northwestern, No. 6 Oklahoma is favored by 14 over Iowa State, No. 7 Colorado is a four-point underdog in a big game at 17th-ranked Nebraska, No. 8 Arkansas is favored by 11 over Houston and No. 9 Penn State is a 14-point favorite over West Virginia.

"We're not going to take anyone lightly," said Michigan fullback Russell Davis, who gained 105 yards last week in a 56-0 romp over previously undefeated Wisconsin. "We learned a lesson last year from Purdue." Purdue beat Michigan 16-14 last year to topple the Wolverines from the No. 1 spot.

O'Brien lays it on thick to the fightin' superstar

NEW YORK [UPI] — NBA commissioner Larry O'Brien is not a boxing fan when the combatants are NBA players and the arena is a basketball court, so Thursday he fined Los Angeles center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar a record $5,000 for punching Milwaukee rookie center Kent Benson.

Abdul-Jabbar, who has a broken hand from the Tuesday night incident, escaped without a suspension because of the severity of his injury. Benson, an All-America from Indiana, suffered a mild concussion and lacerations when he was decked.

"The fact that a single, swift act of violence resulted in injuries to two players points up the danger and recklessness of such action," said O'Brien. "Conduct of this nature will not be tolerated and will be punished accordingly. Every player in the NBA is on notice that I oppose fighting during games, no matter what the provocation. I will use all the powers of my office to prevent violence within the NBA."

The largest previous fine was the $2,500 apiece levied against Maurice Lucas of the Portland Trail Blazers and Darryl Dawkins of the Philadelphia 76ers for fighting during last season's championship playoffs.

Stickers travel north for big UNH meeting

By JIM GLEASON
Collegian Staff

The UMass field hockey team suffered another rainout yesterday but goes into action tomorrow against New Hampshire in an away game which starts at 11:00.

Instead of playing the game, UMass practiced for three hours. The cancelled contest was against a weak Central Connecticut team, which would have been an easy game for the Minutemen. In fact, the players were supposed to all play different positions and have a good time and relax.

Coach Judith Davidson was very much encouraged by the team's ability and effectiveness in practice. She said her team was scoring very well, which as of late, has been a problem.

Against UNH, Davidson is expecting a good game. The Wildcats, like UMass, beat perennial power Springfield, 1-0, this season. The only other information available about UNH is that it tied a very strong UConn team.

Physically, the team should be in good shape. Cheryl Meliones has a hurt ankle and may have pulled a muscle but skipped practice yesterday to relax and she should be ready.

The Minutewomen, as the season begins to wind down, have been playing their best hockey as of late which reaffirms Davidson's belief that they are "the best field hockey team in New England." Their 6-0-2 record reflects her belief.

FAT
IS COMING

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN
NOW OPEN 'TIL 2 A.M.
Sandwiches · Cold Cuts
Bagels · Salads
OPEN AT 9AM · 7 DAYS · 549-6314

PETE'S PACKAGE STORE
144 SUMMER ST., AMHERST
FULL LIQUOR LICENSE
OPEN 9:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Call: 256-6828 for
FREE DELIVERY TO U.MASS.
($5.00 Min.)
NIGHTLY — 6:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m.
FRI. & SAT. — 6:00 p.m.-11:00 p.m.
Unadvertised Specials
Why Fight Traffic?
Easy Parking
WE ARE CLOSE TO:
Townhouse Apts.
Brandywine
N. Village
Puffton Village
Presidential Apts.
Crestview
Mill Hollow
U Mass
WEEKLY SPECIALS
KAM-CHATKA VODKA $4.75 qt.
CANAD-IAN LTD. $5.50 qt.
FALSTAFF 12 oz. cans $5.25 case

Women harriers host the Best!

By DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

The third annual women's New England Cross Country Championship, which will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday above NOPE, should "probably be the most exciting women's collegiate race ever in New England," according to UMass coach Charlotte Lettis.

"It will be a big race, and I'm sure it will be an amazing one," she said. "It will almost be historical. It will finally show how far women's cross country has come, even though it has a long way to go."

If Lettis sounds excited, she can be excused, especially after looking at the figures showing the growth of the women's New England meet.

Two years ago, Umass was first in a field of four full teams. Last year, the teams. This year's meet, at press time, had an entry of 24 full teams, with some 200 individuals expected to run.
dividuals expected to run.

"This should be the most exciting athletic event on campus this semester," said Lettis.

The excitement should be double-barreled, as a slew of talented individuals will battle for top honors, while there should be a three-way fight for the team prize.

No less than 12 individuals will be close at the front of the race, with the top names in New England represented.

Anne Sullivan of Harvard rates as one of the top choices for individual champion. She was Rhode Island mile, two mile and cross country champion in high school, and more recently was Greater Boston Meet champ, breaking Lettis's Franklin Park course record in the process.

Dia Elliman of Hampshire College and the Sugarloaf Mountain Athletic Club was seventh in the recent Bonne Bell Mini-Marathon in Boston and is also a top threat.

UMass's Jane Welzel has led the Minutewomen in all their meets this season, broke two course records (Brandeis and Williams) in the process and was 13th in the Bonne Bell race.

Karin VonBerg of Middlebury was an indoor Eastern finalist in the 880 and a finalist in the outdoor Eastern mile and 880. She did not run cross country last year, but was New England Small College Athletic Conference champ last week.

Kathy Whitcomb of Tufts was NE champ two years ago, was indoor Eastern mile runnerup and was a finalist in the outdoor Eastern mile. She did not run cross country last year.

Moo Thorpe of Middlebury finished third in last year's NE meet and 12th in the Eastern cross country meet. She has not competed yet this season, but is entered and has to be considered a favorite.

Johanna Foreman of Harvard, though not primarily a cross country runner, (National AAU 800 meter champ and international competitor) has to be considered a top prospect, though she did not run in the early part of the season. She was third in the GBC's.

Some of the other top names are Michele Cutsforth of Williams, Tina Francario of UMass, Donna Randall of Brandeis, Kelly Nelson and Sue Connolly of UConn and Lin Putnam of Middlebury.

The team battle will be a little simpler, though no less intense. UMass, Middlebury and Harvard are expected to run head to head, with no holds barred, may the best team win.

"Team" is the key, as a closely grouped pack will provide a lower score because it pushes the other team's scorers back in the field.

"The school that runs together as a team should do well," said Lettis.

For this and the remaining championship meets, Lettis has chosen her seven best harriers. The rest of the team will run in practice uniforms.

The top seven are Welzel, Francario, Priscilla Wilson, Barb Callanan, Sue Swartz, Linda Welzel and Debbie Farmer.

"As a team they're in good shape," said Lettis. "I think they're ready to race against the best, and they're excited about meeting the best in New England."

Middlebury is last year's NE champ and Eastern runnerup. It was also NESCAC champs this year, and only lost two runners from last year's squad.

Harvard is the most dramatically improved team. With two good frosh front runners (Sullivan and Foreman) and improved veteran depth, the Crimson was GBC champs in its second year of running.

"With three outstanding teams like this, finishing anywhere in the top three will be no disgrace," said Lettis.

"I'm sure the course record (17:18 by Lavinia Muncy of UConn in last year's NE's) will be shattered," said Lettis. "It will be a combination speed race and strength race, since our course (3 miles) is half uphill and half downhill.

"Tell everyone to come out and scream and yell."

HUNAN GARDEN RESTAURANT
(Formerly South China)
家酒園南湖
Mandarin Szechuen Cuisine
* Open 7 days a week *
Mon.-Thur. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri.-Sun. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Specials
LUNCHEON $1.25 & up
DINNER $3.95
main course: choice of Szechuan Spiced Chicken
or
Sweet & Sour Shrimp
Dinner includes: spare rib, eggroll, chicken wing, fried rice & hot and sour soup
Mon-Wed 5:00-8:00 pm
10 Belchertown Rd.
Rt. 9, Amherst
256-0251
256-0252
Banquet Facilities

CALVIN
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON
ONE WEEK ONLY
"IF YOU DON'T STOP IT YOU'LL GO BLIND"
RATED R
EVES: 7:15 & 9:00
SAT & SUN MAT 1:30
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
LAZAR BERMAN
Legendary Soviet Pianist

"The Phenomenon of the Music World", Emil Gilels
Wednesday, October 26 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale Gen. Pub.-$7, 6, 5. UM-A-$3.50, 3, 2.50. Others students and senior citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

BLUE
Happy Hour
Friday 3-6
2 for 1
Powerhouses
Featuring
Springrain

UMass poloist Russ Yarworth fends off an opposing attack by Harvard in action last Saturday against the Crimson. (Staff photo by Jeff Stone)

Spikers host quad-match; depth and hustle needed

By LEO PELOQUIN
Collegian Staff

For the avid volleyball fan, the best place to be this weekend is at the NOPE gymnasium tomorrow at one p.m. That is the place and time for the first quad-match ever hosted or participated in by the UMass volleyball team. The three opponents in the marathon affair will be Williams, the University of Bridgeport, and the University of Maine (Orono).

Volleyballs will be flying as both courts will be used for the contest. At one p.m., it will be Williams vs. Bridgeport on court one and Maine-UMass on court two. At two p.m., the pairings will be UMass-Bridgeport, Maine-Williams. At three p.m., UMass will tangle with Williams and Bridgeport will square off vs. Maine.

Williams and Maine figure to pose the toughest competition for the Minutemen. Williams is 11-1 on the year, with its only loss coming at the hands of Springfield. Williams lost to UMass last year but it has four returning starters and beat UNH (one of UMass' defeats) easily this year. UMass coach Dianne Thompson said that Williams is always scrappy.

Maine will be making its first trip outside of Maine, and the Black Bears sport a 13-2 record this year. One of their losses came to Salem State (one of UMass' two victories). They are coached by Janet Anderson and Thompson calls them the best team in the state of Maine. The Bears, too, fell victim to UMass last year and only have two players back from the 1976 starting team.

Bridgeport, under coach Gail Lackey, is hovering around the .500 mark. Its biggest victory of the season was its win over Central Connecticut, which UMass was destroyed by on Tuesday.

Thompson said, "Depth is going to be very important in the outcome of the match." She plans to use two or three players from her junior varsity squad and is hopeful that the homecourt advantage will help get her squad back on the winning track. She said that the team has been practicing some different serve-receive formations and will use them in the quad-match. She also said that the effectivenesss of the new strategies will depend on how well the team hustles.

Collegian Sports

Women harriers host NE's; p. 23

Judy Kennedy feature; p. 20

Gridders travel to Husky-land

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

On paper, it appears to be a total mismatch.

The UMass football team is 6-0 (4-0 in the Yankee Conference). The Minutemen have outscored their opponents, 187-69, in the six games.

The University of Connecticut football team is 0-6 (0-2 in the Yankee Conference). The opposition has outscored the Huskies, 51-203, in their six games.

But last season the almost exact same circumstances surrounded the annual UMass-UConn grid affair, and UConn upset the Minutemen, 28-6 and spoiled UMass's homecoming weekend.

UMass will be trying to wipe out the possibility of a repeat performance tomorrow when it travels to Storrs to take on UConn in a 1:30 (1:20 WMUA) game at Memorial Stadium.

Will an upset happen again? To listen to UConn coach Walt Nadzak, even the thought boggles the mind.

"It's going to be a case of men playing boys," Nadzak said. "There's quite a bit of difference in the personnel of the two teams. UMass is the best defensive team we'll play this year. I've never seen a more intense defense."

"And, if all that isn't enough," Nadzak added, "We just can't find a weakness on their team."

But to hear out UMass coach Dick MacPherson, a bit of a different picture is painted.

"It's still the same schedule as last year," MacPherson said. "We remember last year here. Without a win Saturday, that one up north (the probable Yankee Conference title game at New Hampshire on Nov. 12) will mean nothing. It's almost scary to have them 0-6 again."

Scary? Maybe the record, but little, if anyting else about the Huskies should strike fear into the hearts of the Minutemen.

UConn, which went 2-9 last season and prompted the firing of caoch Larry Naviaux, suffered a blow even before the season started.

Tailback Roger Ings, who was expected to be the Huskies' star in the backfield this year, suffered an achilles tendon injury in spring drills and aggravated it in pre-season workouts. He has been forced to sit out the year.

In his place, UConn has gone with a combination of running backs in an effort to pump life into its listless offense. The top ball-carrier for the Huskies has been freshman Joe Addison, a 5'9", 181 lb. tailback. In addition, fullback Robin Anderson, a 5'11', 207 lb. junior, whom MacPherson characterizes as a "good" runner, is listed as the other starter this week.

Another freshman, Maron Clark (5'9", 150 lbs.), has been the starting quarterback since Nadzak benched junior John Chase after the first few games of the season.

Clark has completed 51 per cent of his passes, but only one of the 35 receptions has gone for a touchdown. But passing isn't Clark's forte. Scrambling is.

According to a UConn sportswriter, Clark is a good running QB. Forced to run out of the pocket more than a few times this season, he has proven to be slippery in the open field.

But MacPherson says, "he runs so much because he's a freshman. Lots of times he'll run out of the pocket because he doesn't know what else to do. He's a freshman playing like a freshman."

When Clark does throw the pigskin, more likely than not his aerials will be directed to tight end Bob Farbotko. All-Yankee Conference at his spot a year ago, Farbotko is a monstrous 6'7", 223-lb. target. He leads the

TURN TO PAGE 17

Dennis Dent speeds around the block of lineman Gerry Greene (63) as UMass running backs continue to churn out the yardage. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Booters visit seventh ranked UConn Huskies

By MARK MÁRCHAND
Collegian Staff

Fresh off of a 2-0 shutout over Worcester Polytechnic, the UMass men's soccer team travels to Storrs, Conn. today to face the Huskies of UConn in a 3:00 p.m. contest.

However, the 4-4 Minutemen will go into the game without the services of co-captain Ed Niemiec, who learned yesterday that he will be out for the year due to calcium deposits in the muscle of his left thigh. Niemiec's condition stems from an injury which he received three weeks ago in a game against Keene State. His loss comes as a big blow to the Minutemen, who will miss the excellent ball control tactics of the senior midfielder.

The Huskies, ranked seventh in New England (just above UMass), have had problems of their own as they carry a 6-6-1 ledger into today's contest after having a banner 18-2-2 season last year. A perennial powerhouse, UConn lost its starting goaltender in the first game of the year to a broken collarbone. Since then, coach Joe Morrone has been searching for a consistent netminder, but hasn't been successful. Today, according to UConn sources, Morrone plans to start midfielder Jim Lyman in goal.

Offensively, UConn has been averaging 25 shots on goal per game, but blames its poor showing on the lack of solid goaltending. One of the chief threats on that Huskie offense is Morrone's son Joe who was a member of the U.S. Olympic soccer team last year. Morrone is a freshmen but has been solid this year on the young UConn team.

Other scoring threats that the Minutemen defense will be trying to contain includes forward Medrick Enderson and senior captain Tom Nevers.

Other than their weak goaltending, according to UConn sources, the mediocre record thus far this year is due, in part, to the tough schedule that the Huskies play. Included on the UConn schedule are such national Division I powerhouses as San Francisco and St. Louis, both of whom defeated the Huskies this year.

UMas mentor Russ Kidd says that this is a pivotal game for both schools with a berth in the New England tournament possibly hinging on the result.

"It's a survival game for both of us," said Kidd. "This is the game that we point to each year.

"They (UConn) have talent to burn, but I really don't think that their problems of late have anything to do with their goaltending," explained Kidd. "They have a rigorous program down there and I just can't figure out what's happening."

Thus far this year, the Minutemen have been streaky, winning their first three and then dropping the next three games before Tuesday's win over WPI. The Minutemen hope that the WPI game was the start of another win streak in their quest for a berth in the New England tournament.

"This is a definite big one for us," said injured co-captain Niemiec. "These guys (UConn) have one of the toughest schedules in the nation."

After today, the Minutemen will return home and prepare to host the Owls of Westfield State on Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 p.m.

BOOTER BANTER: Morrone is a UMass graduate and played hockey and soccer here with Kidd... UConn's newspaper, the Connecticut Daily Campus, has a woman reporter covering the soccer team, but she isn't allowed to travel with the team on the bus because she doesn't wear a tie like the players... this is the third year in a row that Niemiec has missed a large part of the season due to injuries.

Bill Edelstein

Loathing in Beantown

The Bakke case has focused attention on equal opportunity and, in some instances, racism. Many advertisements in media have made us aware of their inherent sexism.

During this past week another form of discrimination was blatantly perpetuated, yet no one took the time to bat an eyelash.

Yes, another chapter in the ignominious book of Bostoni-ist attitude has been written.

Bostoni-ism is defined as "a program or practice of geographical discrimination, prejudice, and persecution by a professional sports league against its Boston-area franchise."

Bostoni-ism first crept onto the sports scene in the early 1960's. It was at this point in time that the Boston Celtics' string of championships was beginning to become impressive.

To combat the Celts' success, NBA referees called fouls against Boston at an alarming rate, also assessing to then-coach Red Auerbach the most technical fouls ever given an NBA coach.

The recent case of Bostoni-ism also concerns Auerbach, who traded the rights to two draft picks to Houston and got nothing in return. Originally, Red was supposed to receive Houston forward John Johnson. Johnson's contract was considerably higher than Auerbach was led to believe, so he reneged on the deal.

This past Tuesday the Celtics were informed by NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien that Johnson could stay in Texas, but so could Boston's two draft rights. The commissioner allowed Auerbach to remain in Boston.

Between the early sixties and the present, scores of Bostoni-ist incidents have been recorded. We will delve into a few of these.

In 1976, the Boston Red Sox got off to a fairly poor start in trying to defend their 1975 American League Championship. There are even those who contend that the Sox were eight games out of first place before the season started.

To their credit, though, the Red Sox refused to give up. Before the campaign was half-over, Tom Yawkey shocked the baseball world by purchasing two of Charlie Finley's unsigned Oakland A's; ace reliever Rollie Fingers (who led the majors in saves this year with 35 for San Diego) and top clutch-hitter Joe Rudi. Suddenly, Boston had a chance.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn got wind of this happening, and ordered the Red Sox to return the two players. The Sox went on to finish 15½ games out of first.

Bostoni-ists will argue that the New York Yankees, who bought Oakland lefty Vida Blue, were forced to give him back to the A's. The Yankees, however, already led the division, and maintenance of the status quo was to their advantage.

After the season was over, the Red Sox were allowed to buy a reliever. But the Yankees bought a lefty pitcher (Don Gullett) and a power hitter (Reggie Jackson) to go along with their other store-bought pitcher, Jim "Catfish" Hunter. (Hunter started the trend of buying and selling baseball players two years prior to Boston's attempted purchases.)

The World Hockey Association was formed by a group of Bostoni-ists. They managed to woo Gerry Cheevers, Johnny MacKenzie, Derek Sanderson, and Teddy Green away from the Stanley Cup Champion Bruins. These defections turned Boston into a second-rate team.

The WHA then placed the New England Whalers in the Boston area as a token team.

Rumors are circulating that John Hannah and Leon Gray's month-long walkout against the Patriots was brought on by Bostoni-ist sentiment.

Though the two are now back in the fold, their actions had cost New England two early-season losses, caused some secretive dissension on the club, and have put the Patriots in an unenviable do-or-die situation for the remainder of the football year.

Moreover, there have been reports that the NBA is giving orders to concession stands around the league to water Johnny Most's coffee in an attempt to silence him via the laryngitis route.

It is a shame that sports officials allow their anti-Boston biases to interfere with their fare judgement of fun and games.

Perhaps Bostoni-ist umpire Larry Barnett best summed-up the attitude of all Bostoni-ists with his reaction to the assertion in the previous paragraph: "There is no interference."

---

TV WATCH

Volume I, Issue 7 Supplement to the Collegian October 22 - October 29

"THE FAT ALBERT HALLOWEEN SPECIAL"

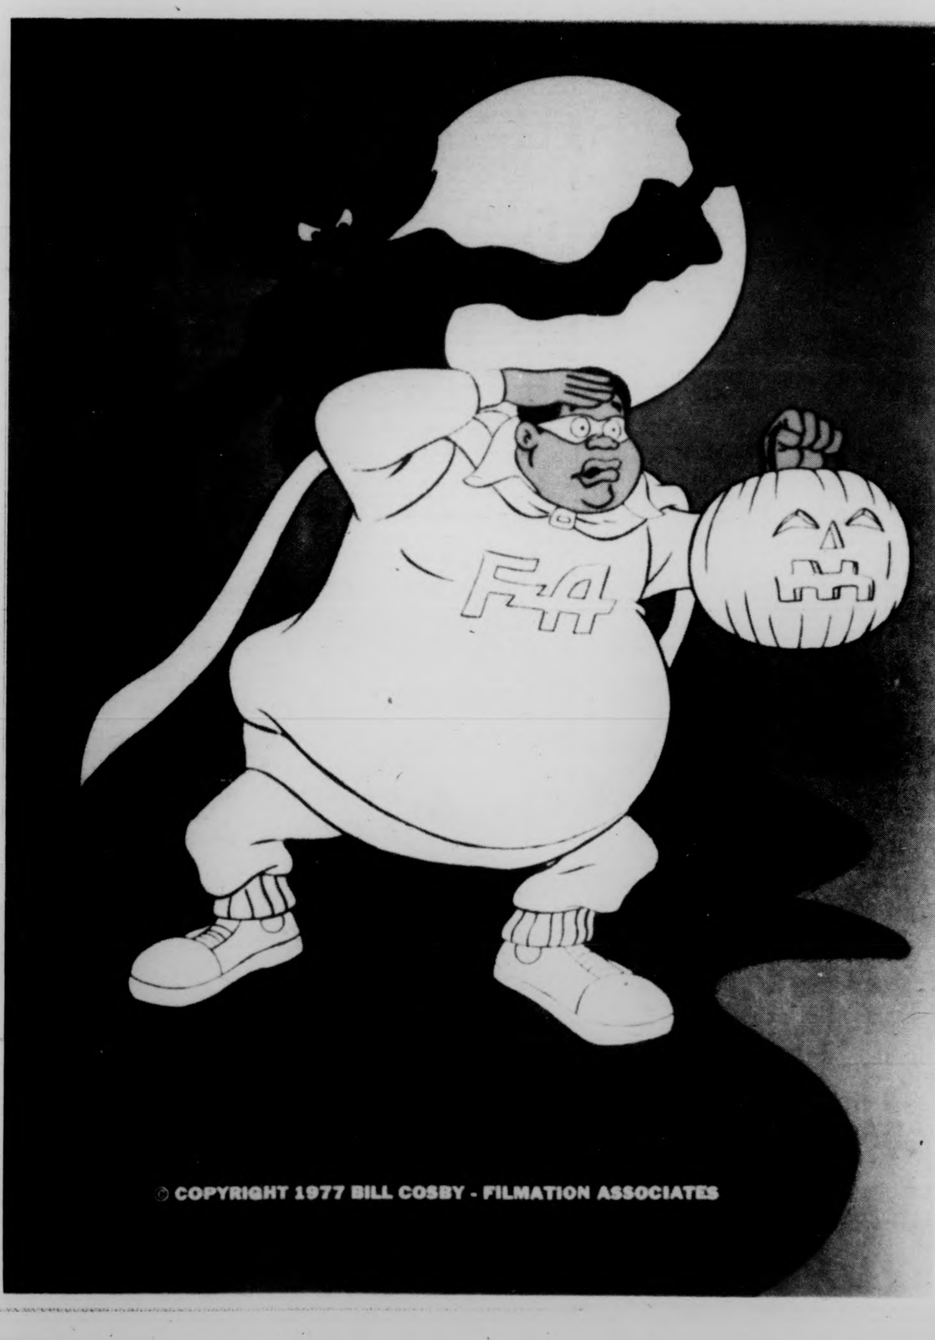
Monday at 8:30 on CBS



© COPYRIGHT 1977 BILL COSBY - FILMATION ASSOCIATES

Daytime, Mon. - Fri.

MORNING

5:35 ⑦ REFLECTIONS (EXC. MON., WED.)
5:40 ⑦ GREATER BOSTONIANS (EXC. MON., WED.)
5:45 ⑦ FARM AND MARKET REPORT (EXC. MON., WED.)
5:50 ⑦ VARIOUS PROGRAMMING (EXC. MON., WED.)
5:55 ⑤ MORNING GLORY
6:00 ③ VARIOUS PROGRAMMING
⑤ NEWS
㉒ PTL CLUB-TALK AND VARIETY
6:05 ⑦ REFLECTIONS (WED.)
6:10 ⑦ GREATER BOSTONIANS (MON., WED.)
6:15 ④ SEMINAR
⑦ FARM AND MARKET REPORT (MON., WED.)

6:20 ⑦ VARIOUS PROGRAMMING
6:25 ⑤ NEWS FOR THE DEAF
6:30 ⑤ NEWS
6:45 ④ DAILY ALMANAC
6:50 ⑤ NEWS FOR THE DEAF
⑦ LAS NOTICIAS DE HOY
7:00 ③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ ㉒ TODAY
⑤ CAPTAIN BOB
㊳ UNDERDOG
㊵ GOOD MORNING AMERICA
7:25 ⑦ NEWS
7:30 ⑤ GOOD MORNING AMERICA
⑦ CBS NEWS
㊳ MR. MAGOO
8:00 ③ ⑦ CAPTAIN KANGAROO
㊳ ARCHIES

8:30 ㊳ NEW MICKEY MOUSE CLUB
9:00 ② IN-SCHOOL PROGRAMMING
③ MIKE DOUGLAS
④ CONCENTRATION
⑤ GOOD DAY
⑦ DINAH
㉒ PHIL DONAHUE SHOW
㊳ ROMPER ROOM
㊵ LEAVE IT TO BEAVER
(57) WRITING FOR A REASON (MON., WED.) Dimensions in Culture (TUE., THUR.)
9:30 ④ CHICO AND THE MAN
㊳ SPIRIT OF INDEPENDENCE
㊵ FLINTSTONES
(57) IN-SCHOOL PROGRAMMING
9:50 ㊳ NEWS
9:55 ㊵ WEATHER VIEW
10:00 ③ CORSAIR AND COMPANY
④ SANFORD AND SON
㉒ KITTY TODAY
㊳ TOM LARSON SHOW
㊵ STRUM'N DRUMMERS

10:25 ㊵ HERITAGE CORNER
10:30 ④ ㉒ HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
⑤ ㊵ EDGE OF NIGHT
⑦ PRICE IS RIGHT
11:00 ③ HERE'S LUCY
④ ㉒ WHEEL OF FORTUNE
⑤ ㊵ HAPPY DAYS
㊳ MOVIE 'Dead Reckoning' (MON.), 'Fire Down Below' (TUE.), 'Tonight and Every Night' (WED.), 'Hell Below Zero' (THUR.), 'Return to Monte Cristo' (FRI.)
11:30 ② (57) SESAME STREET
③ ⑦ LOVE OF LIFE
④ ㉒ KNOCKOUT
⑤ JOKER'S WILD
㊵ FAMILY FEUD
11:55 ③ ⑦ CBS NEWS

AFTERNOON

12:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ NEWS
㉒ TO SAY THE LEAST
㊵ THE BETTER SEX
12:30 ② (57) IN-SCHOOL PROGRAMMING
③ ⑦ SEARCH FOR TOMORROW
④ WOMAN '77
⑤ ㊵ RYAN'S HOPE
㉒ CHICO AND THE MAN
1:00 ③ MATCH GAME
⑤ ㊵ ALL MY CHILDREN
⑦ YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS
㉒ ㊳ GONG SHOW
1:30 ③ ⑦ AS THE WORLD TURNS
④ ㉒ DAYS OF OUR LIVES
㊳ GREEN ACRES
2:00 ② (57) BEST OF FAMILIES (FRI.)
⑤ ㊵ $20,000 PYRAMID
㊳ BEVERLY HILLBILLIES
2:30 ② (57) VARIOUS PROGRAMMING (EXC. FRI.)
③ ⑦ GUIDING LIGHT
④ ㉒ DOCTORS
⑤ ㊵ ONE LIFE TO LIVE
㊳ WALLY GATOR

3:00 ③ ⑦ ALL IN THE FAMILY
④ ㉒ ANOTHER WORLD
㊳ BUGS BUNNY
3:15 ⑤ ㊵ GENERAL HOSPITAL
3:30 ③ NEW MICKEY MOUSE CLUB
⑦ MATCH GAME
㊳ HECKLE AND JECKLE
4:00 ② (57) SESAME STREET
③ DINAH
④ MIKE DOUGLAS
⑤ BIG VALLEY (EXC. WED.) Cliffwood Avenue Kids (WED.)
⑦ MERV GRIFFIN
㉒ BRADY BUNCH
㊳ SUPER HEROES
㊵ LITTLE RASCALS

4:30 ⑤ ABC AFTERSCHOOL SPECIAL (WED.) 'The Pinballs'
㊳ MUNSTERS
㊵ PETTICOAT JUNCTION (EXC. WED.) ABC Afterschool Special (WED.) 'The Pinballs'
5:00 ② (57) MISTER ROGERS
⑤ FAMILY FEUD (EXC. WED.)
㉒ EMERGENCY ONE
㊳ NANNY AND THE PROFESSOR
㊵ MY THREE SONS (EXC. WED.)
5:30 ② SESAME STREET
③ MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW
④ ㊵ NEWS
⑤ INSTANT GAME SHOW
⑦ CANDLEPINS FOR CASH
㊳ GHOST AND MRS. MUIR
(57) ELECTRIC COMPANY

SATURDAY

LITTLE BIG MAN

Dustin Hoffman stars as an incredible man whose life has spanned 121 years and in many ways reflects the exciting and tumultuous history of the Old West in 'Little Big Man,' an adventure drama on 'NBC Saturday Night at the Movies' October 22.

Dustin portrays Jack Crabb, who survived Custer's Last Stand as well as encountering famed gunfighters, Indians, con men and the women who settled in towns on the frontier.

While crossing the plains with his family, young Crabb and his sister become orphans and are found by a Cheyenne brave who takes them to his village.

Within time, Chief Old Lodge Skins makes Jack a brave, naming him Little Big Man. At age 16 he rides into battle against the Cavalry and when faced with death at the hands of soldiers, proclaims that he was taken captive by Indians and is really white.

Returned to civilization, Crabb becomes a schoolboy, medicine show grifter, student gunfighter, bearded trapper and then a scout.

Saturday, Oct. 22

MORNING

5:50 ⑦ REFLECTIONS
5:55 ⑦ GREATER BOSTONIANS
6:00 ③ AGRICULTURE U.S.A.
④ INTERNATIONAL ZONE
⑤ A BETTER WAY
⑦ CHARACTERISTICS OF LEARNING DISABILITIES
㉒ PTL CLUB-TALK AND VARIETY
6:30 ③ TEACHING CHILDREN TO READ
④ CARRASCOLENDAS
⑤ MC KEEVER AND THE COLONEL
⑦ CAMERA 3
7:00 ③ VILLA ALEGRE
④ SOMETHING ELSE
⑤ JABBERWOCKY
⑦ SECRETS OF ISIS
7:30 ③ ARTHUR AND COMPANY
④ THINK PINK PANTHER
⑤ BARBAPAPA
⑦ CBS SATURDAY FILM FESTIVAL
㊵ UNCLE WALDO
8:00 ② SESAME STREET
③ ⑦ BUGS BUNNY AND ROAD RUNNER
④ ㉒ C.B. BEARS
⑤ ㊵ SUPER FRIENDS
8:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
8:55 ⑤ ㊵ SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK
8:56 ③ IN THE NEWS
9:00 ② MISTER ROGERS
③ ⑦ WHAT'S NEW MISTER MAGOO?
④ ㉒ YOUNG SENTINELS
⑤ ㊵ SCOOBY'S LAFF-A-LYMPICS
9:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
9:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
③ ⑦ SKATEBIRDS
④ ㉒ ARCHIES-SABRINA
10:00 ② ONCE UPON A CLASSIC
㊳ VILLA ALEGRE
10:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
10:30 ② REBOP
③ ⑦ SPACE ACADEMY
④ ㉒ ADVENTURES OF MUHAMMAD ALI
㊳ CARRASCOLENDAS
10:55 ⑤ ㊵ SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK
10:56 ③ IN THE NEWS
11:00 ② PARENT EFFECTIVENESS
③ ⑦ BATMAN-TARZAN
④ ㉒ THUNDER
⑤ ㊵ KROFFTS SUPERSHOW '77
㊳ HOT FUDGE
11:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
11:30 ② CONSUMER SURVIVAL KIT
④ NEWS
㉒ ㊳ SEARCH AND RESCUE: THE ALPHA TEAM
11:56 ③ IN THE NEWS

AFTERNOON

12:00 ② DANIEL FOSTER, M.D. 'Pernicious Anemia' Guest: Dr. Eugene P. Frenkel, professor of internal medicine at the University of Texas Health Science Center.
③ ⑦ WACKO
④ ㉒ BAGGY PANTS AND THE NITWITS
⑤ ㊵ CANDLEPIN BOWLING
㊳ MOVIE 'Trackers' Clayton Moore, Jay Silverheels. Lone Ranger and Tonto go into disguise to track down a stolen shipment. (1 hr. 30 min.)
12:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
12:30 ② CROCKETT'S VICTORY GARDEN Jim offers a second look at Amsterdam's Keukenhof Gardens and demonstrates how to force bulbs for winter blooming.
③ ⑦ FAT ALBERT
④ ㉒ RED HAND GANG
12:56 ③ IN THE NEWS
1:00 ② WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW
③ FAMOUS CLASSIC TALES 'Davey Crockett on the Mississippi' An animated special based on the legendary exploits of the famed frontier hero. Davey Crockett offers to escort a 10-year-old orphan who is crossing the frontier in search of his uncle. (R)
④ MARLO AND THE MAGIC MOVIE MACHNE
⑤ CANDLEPIN SUPERBOWL
⑦ CANDLEPIN CHAMPS
㉒ CHAMPIONSHIP WRESTLING
㊵ ROOM 222
1:30 ② WALL $TREET WEEK Host: Louis Rukeyser. 'The View from the White House' Guest: Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors.
⑤ ㊵ NCAA FOOTBALL USC vs. Notre Dame
㊳ MOVIE 'Francis Goes To West Point' 1952 Donald O'Connor, Lori Nelson. 'Francis' becomes mascot of football team at West Point. (1 hr. 30 min.)
2:00 ② LIVE FROM LINCOLN CENTER 'Manon' The New York City Opera's production of Jules Massenet's 19th-century classic was taped Oct. 18 at the New York State Theater. Beverly Sills stars as a young woman who gets sidetracked from her trip to a convent into a series of adventures.
③ SOUL TRAIN
④ THIS IS THE NFL
⑦ MOVIE 'Tarzan's Secret Treasure' 1941 Johnny Weismuller, Maureen O'Sullivan. Tarzan becomes involved with an expedition in search of treasure. (1 hr. 30 min.)
㉒ ROLLER DERBY
2:30 ④ MOVIE 'Blue Hawaii' 1962 Elvis Presley, Joan Blackman. Soldier returning to Hawaiian home, takes job with tourist agency against parents' wishes. (2 hrs.)
3:00 ③ MOVIE 'The Two Faces of Dr. Jekyll' 1961 Paul Massie, Dawn Adams. Story about the tormented Dr. Jekyll who's split personality makes him lead a double life. (1 hr. 30 min.)
㉒ MOVIE 'Keep 'Em Flying' 1941 Abbott and Costello, Martha Raye. Air Force pilot is unable to accustom himself to discipline. (2 hrs.)
㊳ MOVIE 'Mississippi' 1935 Bing Crosby, W.C. Fields. Northerner, involved in gambling, a singing troupe and a killing, falls for a Southern belle. (1 hr. 30 min.)
3:30 ⑦ THE FITZPATRICKS Sean finds he is not up to holding a job, attending school and being a football hero all at the same time.
4:00 (57) SESAME STREET
4:30 ③ IRONSIDE
④ SURVIVAL
⑦ CBS SPORTS SPECTACULAR Leon Spinks vs. Scott LeDoux, in a 10-round bout; Michael Spinks vs. Gary Summerhayes; 'The World's Strongest Men' Part IV.
㊳ MOVIE 'Spaceways' 1953 Howard Duff, Eva Bartok. Exciting events leading up to a successful flight into space. (1 hr. 30 min.)
5:00 ④ CORAL JUNGLE
⑤ ㊵ ABC'S WIDE WORLD OF SPORTS Nadia Comanceci and the Romanian gymnasts vs. the U.S.; Harlem Globetrotters from Atlanta; a close-up look at George Willig.
㉒ WILD KINGDOM 'King of the Kopje'
(57) NOVA (CAPTIONED) 'Joey' Joey Deacon is 55 years old and has been a spastic since birth. This is his autobiography, an acclaimed film which won first prize at the Prix Italia Awards.
5:30 ② VISION ON 'Steps'
③ ADAM 12
㉒ HOLLYWOOD SQUARES

EVENING

6:00 ② MUSIC 'Music Is...Rhythm' explains that part of music most immediately recognizable to us, that which we 'feel' inside ourselves, often before we actually 'hear' it.
③ ④ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
(57) IMAGES OF AGING 'Neither Blessing nor Curse' Excerpts from the films 'Arthur and Lillie' and 'Nell and Fred' provide intimate glimpses into the lives of two elderly couples.
6:30 ② ZOOM
③ CBS NEWS
⑤ ㊵ NEWS
⑦ BLACK NEWS
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
7:00 ② NOVA 'Joey' Joey Deacon is 55 years old and has been a spastic since birth. This is his autobiography, an acclaimed film which won first prize at the Prix Italia Awards.
③ AGRONSKY AND COMPANY
④ WILD KINGDOM 'Camels of the Outback'
⑤ BAXTERS
⑦ LAWRENCE WELK SHOW
㉒ ETCETERA
㊳ ODD COUPLE
㊵ SUPERMAN
(57) ONCE UPON A CLASSIC 'The Legend of Robin Hood' Episode Three. Will and Ralph pledge their loyalties to Robin and the three ride to Huntingdon Manor, where they discover that Robin's heirlooms have been stolen.
7:28 ③ OPINION
7:30 ③ DAILY NUMBER
④ HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
⑤ THIRD WORLD
㉒ SCHOOLS MATCH WITS
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ POLKA FUNTIME
(57) MUSIC 'Music Is...Melody' introduces the idea that a series of tones forms patterns that become melodies.
7:31 ③ HOT FUDGE
8:00 ② LEDYARD '77 INTERNATIONAL HORSE TRIALS From Hamilton Farms the finals of the spectacular international equestrian event features world, Olympic and Pan American class horsemen.
③ ⑦ THE BOB NEWHART SHOW Dr. Hartley deals with the amusing problems of an improbable paternity suit and a phonepaging service that never pages him.
④ ㉒ NBC SATURDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES 'Little Big Man' 1970 Dustin Hoffman, Faye Dunaway. Jack Crabb, a 121-year-old man, who also bears the Indian name Little Big Man, recalls the adventures of his remarkable life with the Indians and the whites. (3 hrs.)
⑤ ㊵ FISH Phil Fish is mortified when he learns that his only daughter is about to marry a man 25 years her senior.
㊳ MUSIC HALL AMERICA
(57) TELEVISION 1984 Representatives of CBS, NBC, PBS, and ABC speak on the subject of television, giving their projections for 1984.
8:30 ③ ⑦ THE TONY RANDALL SHOW Jack's marital separation leaves him so disheartened, even Judge Franklin sinks into a deep state of depression over the crisis.
⑤ ㊵ OPERATION PETTICOAT 'A Party For the Captain' Everyone on the Sea Tiger is sure that Skipper Matt Sherman and Lt. Dolores Crandall are secretly engaged.
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
9:00 ③ ⑦ THE JEFFERSONS An introduction to a friend puts Helen's and Louise's friendship on the line - and George couldn't be happier.
⑤ ㊵ STARSKY AND HUTCH 'Crying Child' Starsky and Hutch befriend a lad only to learn he is the pathetic victim of child abuse.
㊳ MOVIE 'Our Man Flint' 1966 James Coburn, Gila Golan. Expert frogman, super secret agent is assigned to destroy the villains who are attempting to control the world's weather. (2 hrs.)
(57) MOVIE 'Pandora's Box' 1928 Louise Brooks, Fritz Kortner. A newspaper editor befriends a flower girl whom he educates as a dancer as a prelude to an unhappy marriage. (2 hrs.)
9:30 ② THRACIAN GOLD Unearthed in modern Bulgaria, several hundred works of art, including spectacular gold and silver vessels, jewelry and ornaments, present a vivid picture of ancient Thracian culture spanning a period of nearly 6000 years.
③ ⑦ BABY, I'M BACK A young man leaves his wife due to the pressures and responsibilities of their marriage. Stars Demond Wilson, Denise Nichols.
9:58 ㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 ② DAVID SUSSKIND SHOW Part I. 'Shape Up, America–The Physical Fitness Explosion' Part II. 'Confessions of Three White Collar Criminals'
③ ⑦ THE CAROL BURNETT SHOW 'The Family Show'
⑤ ㊵ LOVE BOAT 'Help, Murder!' starring Michele Lee and David Groh; 'Isaac the Groupie' starring Ted Lange and Diahann Carroll; 'Mr. Popularity' starring Jim Nabors.
11:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS
㊳ CELEBRITY BOWLING
(57) FORSYTE SAGA 'A Family Festival' John Galsworthy's novels follow the eventful lives of a wealthy English family through half a century. A scandal brews as Jo decides to leave his wife and marry his daughter's Austrian governess.
11:30 ③ MOVIE 'The Assassination Bureau' 1969 Oliver Reed, Diana Rigg. A secret club that eliminates unworthy people, until greed more than dedication begins to cloud the operation. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
④ ㉒ GREAT AMERICAN LAUGH-OFF San Francisco superstar Nancy Bleiweiss heads a cast of madcap performers, many of them her cast mates from Laugh In, in a parade of comedy acts.
⑤ MOVIE 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde' 1941 Spencer Tracy, Ingrid Bergman. A mental specialist conducts experiments on himself to seperate good from evil. Eventually his own evil destroys him. (1 hr. 45 min.)
⑦ MOVIE 'Claudia' 1943 Dorothy McGuire, Robert Young. Rose Franken's almost classical story of a child bride who grows up. (2 hrs.)
㊳ VIEWPOINT ON NUTRITION
㊵ MOVIE 'Embassy' 1972 Richard Roundtree, Chuck Connors. Story about the efforts of an American diplomat trying to smuggle a top Russian defector out of Beirut. (1 hr. 35 min.)
12:00 (57) MOVIE 'M' 1930 Peter Lorre, Ellen Widmann. (1 hr. 40 min.)
12:30 ㊳ ATHLETES
1:00 ④ MOVIE 'First Spaceship On Venus' 1962 Yoko Tani, Oldrick Lucas. (1 hr. 30 min.)
1:30 ⑦ MOVIE 'Sunday and Cybele' 1962 Hardy Kruger, Patricia Gozzi. (1 hr. 30 min.)
1:45 ⑤ MOVIE 'Dead of Night' 1945 Mervyn Johns, Michael Redgrave. (2 hrs.)
3:45 ⑤ ABC NEWS
4:00 ⑤ THIRD WORLD
4:30 ⑤ GOOD DAY

Sunday, Oct. 23

AFTERNOON

12:00 ② (57) AGE OF UNCERTAINTY 'Lenin and the Great Ungluing' explores the breakup of the old political order by World War I and the introduction of a socialist alternative by the Russian Revolution.
③ FACE THE STATE
④ ㉒ MEET THE PRESS Guest: John J. Rhodes, (R-A).
⑤ ㊵ ISSUES AND ANSWERS Guest: South Africa Prime Minister, John Borster.
⑦ NFL GAME OF THE WEEK
㊳ MOVIE 'The Buccaneer' 1958 Yul Brynner, Charlton Heston. Andrew Jackson's dependence on Pirate Jean Lafitte is complicated by the governor's daughter. (2 hrs.)
12:30 ③ ⑦ THE NFL TODAY A program preceding each National Football League broadcast with news and features on the NFL and other sports news of the day.
④ EYEWITNESS NEWS CONFERENCE
⑤ BRIEFING SESSION
㉒ NFL '77 A special report on how some of the stars of the National Football League escape the pressures of their profession on their day off.
㊵ CONVERSATIONS WITH
1:00 ② CONSUMER SURVIVAL KIT 'Your Home Is Your Hassle: Home Repair' offers time and money saving tips on home improvements ranging from simple remodeling and painting to renovating an entire house.
③ ⑦ THE NFL TODAY New York Giants vs. Washington Redskins
④ MOVIE
⑤ TARZAN
㉒ NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE GAME New York Jets vs. Oakland Raiders
㊵ FLINTSTONES
(57) WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW
1:30 ② ELLIOT NORTON REVIEWS 'Golda' Actress Anne Bancroft, author William Gibson and director Arthur Penn discuss Israel's Mrs. Meir.
㊵ BULLWINKLE
(57) LIVE FROM LINCOLN CENTER 'Manon' The New York City Opera's production of Jules Massenet's 19th-century classic was taped Oct. 18 at the New York State Theater. Beverly Sills stars as a young woman who gets sidetracked from her trip to a convent into a series of adventures.
2:00 ② AMISH: A PEOPLE OF PRESERVATION This film studies the community of Lancaster, Pa., where people cherish their past and value their identity, refuse to sacrifice community for convenience or preservation for progress.
⑤ MOVIE 'My Brother Talks To Horses' 1946 Peter Lawford, Butch Jenkins. Boy who can talk to horses is seized by gangsters who want the race results 'straight from the horse's mouth,' as it were, but their plans run afoul. (2 hrs.)
㊳ MOVIE 'Gidget Goes To Rome' 1963 Cindy Carol, James Darren. On vacation in Rome, young girl misinterprets attentions she's getting from an older man. (2 hrs.)
㊵ MOVIE 'Flaming Star' 1960 Elvis Presley, Barbara Eden. A half-breed Indian must choose sides when redskins go on warpath. (2 hrs.)
3:00 ② GREAT PERFORMANCES 'Salome' Richard Strauss' one-act opera based on the play by Oscar Wilde features Teresa Stratas in the title role of the Biblical temptress who asked for the head of John the Baptist. Dr. Karl Bohm conducts the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra.
3:30 ④ PATRIOTS '77
3:45 ③ THE NFL TODAY A post-game program presenting scores, highlights and sports news.
4:00 ③ BIG THREE
④ ㉒ NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE GAME Baltimore Colts vs. New England Patriots ⑤ F.B.I.
⑦ MOVIE 'The New Interns' 1964 Michael Callan, Barbara Eden. A group of new interns are assigned to a large metropolitan hospital. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
㊳ MOVIE 'The Rainmaker' 1956 Burt Lancaster, Katharine Hepburn. A rainmaker brings not only rain, but romance and confidence to a small town. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
㊵ ADVENTURERS
4:30 ㊵ THE SAINT
5:00 ② (57) BLACK PERSPECTIVE ON THE NEWS
⑤ UNDERSEA WORLD OF JACQUES COUSTEAU 'Forgotten Mermaids'
5:30 ② (57) SAY BROTHER
㊵ MY PARTNER THE GHOST

EVENING

6:00 ③ ⑤ NEWS
6:30 ② ROMAGNOLIS' TABLE 'Souvenirs of Publia' include grilled fish, pasta with broccoli and a variation on eggplant parmigian.
③ CBS NEWS
⑤ CANDLEPIN SUPERBOWL
⑦ NEWS
㊳ HONEYMOONERS
㊵ SUPERMAN
(57) FRENCH CHEF 'Hamburger Dinner'
6:45 ㉒ NFL '77 Wrap-up of today's football news with Lee Leonard, Bryant Gumbel and Regina Haskins.
7:00 ② (57) CROCKETT'S VICTORY GARDEN Jim offers a second look at Amsterdam's Keukenhof Gardens and demonstrates how to force bulbs for winter blooming.
③ ⑦ 60 MINUTES
④ ㉒ THE WONDERFUL WORLD OF DISNEY 'The Incredible Journey' A trio of house pets -- an English bulldog, a golden retriever and a Siamese cat -- that were temporarily left in the care of a friend of their master, decide to return home and make the 250-mile trek on their own.
⑤ ㊵ DONNY AND MARIE Donny throws a special Happy Birthday party for Marie with guests Abe Vigoda, Anson Williams, Lola Falana, Donny Most.
7:30 ② SHOW OF HANDS 'Working Leather'
㊳ MOVIE 'Two Road Together' 1961 James Stewart, Richard Widmark. Two adventurers attempt to bring back members of a settlement kidnapped by the Comanches years before. (2 hrs.)
(57) PARENT EFFECTIVENESS 'Did I Hear You Right?' introduces 'helping responses' as alternative ways for a parent to react to a child who has a problem.
7:58 ㊵ ABC MINUTE MAGAZINE
8:00 ② (57) EVENING AT SYMPHONY East German conductor Klaus Tennstedt makes his television debut leading the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Mahler's Symphony No. 4 Soprano Phyllis Bryn-Julson solos.
③ ⑦ RHODA Anne Jackson guest stars when Rhoda comes face-to-face with an old problem again: nice, single ladies do not go out at night alone. That's Rhoda's predicament when she has two great theater tickets and can't find anyone to go with her.
⑤ ㊵ HAPPY BIRTHDAY LAS VEGAS This special pays tribute to the nation's entertainment-vacation capital. Among the stars that will perform are Andy Williams, Redd Foxx, Don Rickles, Totie Fields, Liberace, John Davidson and Sammy Davis, Jr.
8:30 ③ ⑦ ON OUR OWN Maria Teresa Bonino falls for a tall, handsome man she meets in the museum and interprets his being 'distant' as a sign he really cares about her -- and then she learns the truth.
④ ㉒ THE BIG EVENT 'NBC: The First Fifty Years – A Closer Look' Narrator: Orson Welles. George Burns, Burt Reynolds, Don Rickles, Dan Haggerty, Chevy Chase are among those who will host. Highlights of the show will be salutes to Groucho Marx, Elvis Presley and Jimmy Durante.
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
9:00 ② (57) MASTERPIECE THEATRE 'Dickens of London' Episode Nine. 'Nightmare' Charles's interest in the art of mesmerism leads to a spine-chilling experiment when he befriends a fellow writer whose name is synonymous with terror and the macabre -- Edgar Allan Poe.
③ ⑦ ALL IN THE FAMILY Edith baits her hook and reels in Archie when she adds a senior citizen wedding and a pair of honeymooners to his precious fishing trip.
9:30 ③ ⑦ ALICE Alice, Flo and Vera quit their jobs to emphasize a stand for equal employment at Mel's Diner.
㊳ RIFLEMAN
9:58 ㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 ② VISIONS 'The Dancing Bear' by Conrad Bromberg stars Charles Durning as an unemployed character actor whose audition for the meaty part of a vigorous dancing Russian comes at a time of tense personal upheavals that he determines won't get him down.
③ ⑦ KOJAK Kojak prays his suspicions aren't correct when the prime suspect in the murder of a local hoodlum turns out to be teen-ager Bill Sherbak.
⑤ ㊵ GABRIEL KAPLAN PRESENTS THE SMALL EVENT Guests: Sid Caesar, Cindy Williams and Fred Willard, with cameo appearances by Henny Youngman, Pat Morita and Kaplan's cohorts - Robert Hegyes, Lawrence-Hilton Jacobs, Ron Palillo, John Travolta and John Sylvester White.
㊳ ASK THE MANAGER
(57) MASSACHUSETTS
10:30 ㊳ THE DRUM
(57) VISIONS Filmed entirely on location, Robert Young's 'Alambrista!' follows a young Mexican illegal alien's odyssey – from the back streets of Tijuana across the Mexican border and through the California agricultural belt.
11:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS
㊳ MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL OF RABBIS
11:15 ③ CBS NEWS
11:30 ② ARTISTS SHOWCASE 'Grey Hairs' by William Wegman.
③ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'M.A.S.H.' A Hollywood director is assigned to do a documentary on the 4077th. 'Kojak: Money Back Guarantee' Murder of policeman puts Kojak and his staff on the trail of an active stolen car ring. (R)
④ MOVIE 'The Moon is Blue' 1953 William Holden, David Niven. Young lady, armed with utter candor and good sense, sets out to outwit and bewilder a young man about town who doesn't believe marriage is for him. (1 hr. 30 min.)

SUNDAY

NBC: THE FIRST FIFTY YEARS

Burt Reynolds, Orson Welles, Don Rickles, Chevy Chase, George Burns and Dan Haggerty host a nostalgic look at top variety performers going back to TV's early days on 'The Big Event' presentation, 'NBC: The First Fifty Years—A Closer Look,' Sunday, Oct. 23 on NBC-TV.

Following are some highlights of the two-and-a-half hour special:

Host Chevy Chase leads into a parade of comedians and a section on sightgags; Welles introduces a portion on Family Album, how certain stars have grown up on television; host Burt Reynolds presents a tribute to Groucho Marx (in photo); host Dan Haggerty, star of 'The Life and Times of Grizzly Adams,' presides over a section devoted to animals; host George Burns recalls his good friend, the late Jack Benny, and introduces a sketch featuring Benny and Gregory Peck; and host Don Rickles introduces 'The Divorce Sketch' with Bob Newhart, Dean Martin and Petula Clark.

MONDAY

IT'S YOUR FIRST KISS, CHARLIE BROWN

Charlie Brown, the same little 'Peanut' that brought you 999 straight baseball losses, non-valentines, jelly beans for Thanksgiving and an elusive magic pumpkin, turns his talents to football and romance, in that order, in 'It's Your First Kiss, Charlie Brown,' sixteenth in the award-winning series of half-hour animated specials, Monday, Oct. 24 on CBS-TV.

In 'It's Your First Kiss, Charlie Brown,' our unlikely hero is faced with two horrendous challenges (an escalation from his first major challenge of any day, which is getting up in the morning)—he is the kicker for the local team at the annual homecoming football game, and he has been chosen to escort the homecoming queen to the celebration dance and give her the traditional kiss.

As if that were not enough 'good grief' to dazzle the little roundhead, his ball-holder is Lucy, that ghoulgirl of the gridiron, and the queen is—the little red-haired girl named Heather.

⑤ MOVIE 'Woman of the Year' 1942 Katharine Hepburn, Spencer Tracy. Story about marriage of gossip columnist and sportswriter who fight all the time. (2 hrs. 5 min.)
⑦ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Hurricane' 1974 Larry Hagman, Jessica Walters. A hurricane destroys a Gulf Coast town and the lives of everyone there. (R)
㉒ NBC LATE NIGHT MOVIE 'The Man With the Power' Robert Neill, Persis Khambatta. Eric Smith, whose legacy from his father, a native of another planet, enables him to perform amazing feats with the power in his eyes, is hired to protect the Princess Siri, heiress to an exotic, oil-rich island, who is the object of a kidnapping plot. (R)
㊳ WORSHIP FOR SHUT INS
㊵ MOVIE 'All In A Night's Work' 1961 Dean Martin, Shirley MacLaine. What happens when the founder of a one-man publishing empire is found dead with a strange smile on his face. (1 hr. 35 min.)
1:35 ⑤ SUNDAY OPEN HOUSE

Monday, Oct. 24

EVENING

6:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
㊵ CROSS WITS
(57) ZOOM
6:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ I LOVE LUCY
(57) AS WE SEE IT School dropouts, bilingual education, students' rights and responsibilities and a successful busing program are focused upon in various segments.
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② ZOOM
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) WRITING FOR A REASON
7:30 ② WODEHOUSE PLAYHOUSE 'Rodney Fails to Qualify' A young man's slow-moving courtship of his lovely golfing partner is jeopardized when a smooth-talking poet sweeps her off her feet.
③ DAILY NUMBER
④ EVENING MAGAZINE
⑤ $100,000 NAME THAT TUNE
⑦ THAT'S HOLLYWOOD
㉒ CANDID CAMERA
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ TATTLETALES
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ THAT'S HOLLYWOOD
8:00 ② GREAT PERFORMANCES 'Pagliacci' Filmed for television at the La Scala Opera House in Milan, Ruggiero Leoncavallo's popular opera stars Jon Vickers, Saina Corsi-Kabaivanska and Peter Glossop in the story of an itinerant clown who discovers that his wife has been unfaithful. Herbert von Karajan conducts.
③ ⑦ IT'S YOUR FIRST KISS, CHARLIE BROWN Charlie Brown is faced with two horrendous challenges - he is the kicker for the local team at the annual homecoming football game, and he has been chosen to escort the homecoming queen to the celebration dance and give her the traditional kiss.
④ ㉒ LITTLE HOUSE ON THE PRAIRIE 'The Creeper of Walnut Grove' Laura Ingalls and Andy Garvey try to catch an elusive thief by rigging a bucket of green dye above the chicken coop, but they bag a most unexpected quarry.
⑤ ㊵ THE SAN PEDRO BEACH BUMS 'The Bums vs. the Reds' The beach bums play cupid when they help a lovesick Russian sailor jump ship so he may marry his tennis playing girlfriend.
㊳ ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
(57) AGE OF UNCERTAINTY 'The Rise and Fall of Money' Economist John Kenneth Galbraith examines money and the ways it affects people and analyzes the cycles of instability and inflation that plague the system.
8:30 ③ ⑦ THE FAT ALBERT HALLOWEEN SPECIAL Fat Albert and his pals learn a lesson as they plot their 'creepiest, baddest, scariest' spook night ever.
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
9:00 ③ ⑦ THE BETTY WHITE SHOW Joyce Whitman's new success as the star of her own television series and all the new friends and parties are more than Mitzi can cope with and she decides to find an apartment of her own.
④ ㉒ NBC MONDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES 'The Night They Took Miss Beautiful' Chuck Connors, Henry Gibson. An airliner is hijacked and five of the finalists in an international beauty contest are abducted and held for ransom. Also on board is a secret agent who is transporting a container of deadly mutant germs. (2 hrs.)
⑤ ㊵ ABC'S MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL Minnesota Vikings vs. Los Angeles Rams from Los Angeles, California.
㊳ MOVIE 'This Thing Called Love' 1941 Rosalind Russell, Melvyn Douglas. A newlywed wife tests out her husband with a three month platonic arrangement. (2 hrs.)
(57) AMERICAN SHORT STORY In Ernest Hemingway's 'Soldier's Home,' a young soldier returning home after World War I suffers acute alienation from his town, neighbors and family. A black teenage farm worker struggles toward manhood against his over-protective parents in Richard Wright's 'Almos' a Man.'
9:30 ② ARVILLA An intimate portrait of a 63-year-old woman farmer facing insurmountable odds documents the losing struggle in an occupation where male dominance is still virtually unchallenged.
③ ⑦ MAUDE The generation gap becomes the Grand Canyon when Maude agrees to chaperon Philip's birthday party and comes face-to-face with today's youth.
10:00 ② NEWS
③ ⑦ RAFFERTY Dr. Sid Rafferty clashes with the inhospitable populace of a mountain hamlet over the fate of an 11-year-old boy who resembles a half-wild creature and who is being kept under lock and key by his desperate parents.
10:30 ② MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT

Pro football's finest all-purpose back in the opinion of many experts is Minnesota's Chuck Foreman, (No. 44), who in 1976 was voted 'Offensive Player of the Year' by UPI. Foreman, approaching his 27th birthday, goes up against the Los Angeles Rams in Los Angeles on Oct. 24 on 'ABC'S MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL.' Calling the action will be Frank Gifford, Howard Cosell and Don Meredith.

(57) VIDEO AND TELEVISION REVIEW 'The Magic Wind of Eli Noyes' Part II. Works presented include 'Roaches Lullaby' and 'Peanut Butter and Jelly,' as well as an experimental videotape entitled 'Fitcher's Feathered Bird.'
11:00 ② (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW Guest: Former 'Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman' star Louise Lasser.
③ ④ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
11:30 ③ ⑦ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'You Lie So Deep, My Love' 1975 Walter Pidgeon, Barbara Anderson. A trusted uncle tries to convince his niece that her husband is an embezzler and philanderer. (R)
④ ㉒ THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: Helen Reddy. Guests: Sylvester Stallone, George Miller.
㊳ IRONSIDE
(57) IN SEARCH OF THE REAL AMERICA (CAPTIONED) 'Hail to the Chief' investigates the effectiveness and vitality of the Presidency with guests Lady Bird Johnson, Dean Rusk, William Safire and Robert Bock.
11:45 ⑤ ㊵ NEWS
12:15 ⑤ SCREENING ROOM
㊵ COLLEGE FOOTBALL '77 An ABC Sports series which features weekly highlights of key contests which are scheduled during the 1977 NCAA Football season.
1:00 ④ TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder. Guest: Controversial sports entrepreneur Ted Turner.
1:45 ⑤ NEWS
1:55 ⑤ NIGHTSHIFT
2:25 ⑤ AQUI

Tuesday, Oct. 25

EVENING

6:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
㊵ CROSS WITS
(57) ZOOM
6:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ I LOVE LUCY
(57) AS WE SEE IT In Pontiac, Mich., the first students to graduate from high school after four years of school busing reflect on those years in 'Graduation Flashbacks.' Portland, Ore., students show how even experienced teachers can make foolish stereotypes in 'Charlie Brown.'
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② ZOOM
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) DIMENSIONS IN CULTURE
7:30 ② ELLIOT NORTON REVIEWS
③ DAILY NUMBER
④ EVENING MAGAZINE
⑤ CATCH A RAINBOW Modern update of old folk tales, myths and fables from around the world.
⑦ $25,000 PYRAMID
㉒ SHA NA NA
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ GONG SHOW
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ ALL STAR ALMOST ANYTHING GOES
8:00 ② (57) U.N. DAY CONCERT 1977 Eugene Ormandy conducts the Philadelphia Orchestra in a concert taped Oct. 24 at United Nations headquarters in New York. Beethoven's Egmont Overture and Shostakovich's Symphony No. 5 are performed. Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 4 features guest soloist Andre Watts.
③ UNDERSEA WORLD OF JACQUES COUSTEAU 'The Unsinkable Sea Otter'
④ ㉒ MAN FROM ATLANTIS 'Giant' Pro basketball great Kareem Abdul Jabbar guest stars as a 9-foot-tall mineral prospector from another world, who threatens to drain the earth's oceans by siphoning off the waters in his sluice.
⑤ ㊵ HAPPY DAYS If Fonzie follows his doctor's orders and has a tonsillectomy, he will miss his favorite event of the year - going to the Halloween costume ball as the Lone Ranger.
⑦ PRIME CONCERN 'Driving Under the Influence'
㊳ ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
8:30 ⑤ ㊵ LAVERNE AND SHIRLEY When Laverne and Shirley go shopping, Laverne is attacked by a toy, Roger Robot, and an unusual court battle develops when she sues the store.
9:00 ③ ⑦ M.A.S.H. A shortage of light bulbs leads to candlelight reading of a new whodunit, but has a more deadly effect when the meticulous surgeon, Charles Winchester, makes a mistake that almost costs the life of a patient.
④ ㉒ MULLIGAN'S STEW 'The Biggest Mansion You've Ever Seen' A new classmate regales young Jimmy Mulligan and his cousin, Adam, with tales of his amazing exploits and makes them very jealous, but Jimmy's mother suspects the newcomer's motives.
⑤ ㊵ THREE'S COMPANY 'Alone Together' What happens when Jack and Chrissy spend an evening alone together?
㊳ MOVIE 'When You're In Love' 1937 Cary Grant, Grace Moore. An Australian opera star buys a husband in order to get into the U.S. (2 hrs.)
9:30 ② GRAND BOSTONIANS The seven latest inductees into the charmed circle of Grand Bostonians were invested last May. Cameras recorded the ceremony's highlights.
③ ⑦ ONE DAY AT A TIME When Ann learns her top client expects that her 'business' is to arrange for his 'pleasure,' she is forced into a position some place between her conviction and her career.
⑤ ㊵ SOAP
(57) STAGES OF PRESTON JONES The career of Texas playwright Preston Jones, author of the acclaimed 'A Texas Trilogy,' is examined through interviews with theatre people about his early life in New Mexico and his work as an actor, director and dramatist at the Dallas Theatre Center.
9:58 ㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 ② NEWS
③ ⑦ LOU GRANT Lou becomes uncomfortably involved with the widow of one of the Tribune's reporters and doesn't know how to tell her to get lost.
④ ㉒ POLICE WOMAN 'Do You Still Beat Your Wife?' Sgts. Anderson and Crowley come to the assistance of the young victim of a wife-beater and discover that hers is neither the first nor the most serious example of his brutality. Dr. Joyce Brothers guest stars.
⑤ ㊵ FAMILY Doug is tempted by the advances made by a young, attractive lawyer.
(57) EYEWITNESS Drawing on transcripts and other documents, docudrama segments explore secret germ warfare and drug experimentation on Americans, the raid on Pidra Negras, Mexico, and the breaking of a code of silence maintained by New York City policemen to protect a fellow officer who had killed a young boy.
10:30 ② MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
11:00 ② (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW Guest: Jazz saxophonist Gerry Mulligan.
③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS
㊳ ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
11:30 ③ ⑦ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Kojak: The Forgotten Room' A young Greek is the prime suspect in the murder of a prostitute. 'Death Takes a Holiday' 1971 Monte Markham, Yvette Mimieux. Death, in the form of a human, tries to find out why people cling to life. (R)
④ ㉒ THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: Bert Convy. Guests: Totie Fields, Bob Newhart.
⑤ FOREVER FERNWOOD
㊳ IRONSIDE
㊵ TUESDAY MOVIE OF THE WEEK 'Our Man Flint: Dead on Target' Ray Danton, Sharon Acker. Flint investigates the daring kidnapping of an oil company president from offices protected by a sophisticated security system. (R)
(57) ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
12:00 ⑤ TUESDAY MOVIE OF THE WEEK 'Our Man Flint: Dead on Target' Ray Danton, Sharon Acker. Flint investigates the daring kidnapping of an oil company president from offices protected by a sophisticated security system. (R)
1:00 ④ ㉒ TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder. Guests: Marina Oswald and Priscilla McMillan, co-authors of Marina's autobiography, 'Marina and Lee.'
1:35 ⑤ NEWS
1:45 ⑤ MOVIE 'Charlie Chan At The Wax Museum' 1940 Sidney Toler, Marc Lawrence. (1 hr. 45 min.)
3:30 ⑤ BAXTERS
4:00 ⑤ NEW HEAVEN-NEW EARTH
4:30 ⑤ GOOD DAY

Wednesday, Oct. 26

EVENING

6:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
㊵ CROSS WITS
(57) ZOOM
6:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ I LOVE LUCY
(57) AS WE SEE IT Memphis high school students present 'IRD' ('Interracial Dating'), an examination of social relations between races. 'Anybody Can Stereotype Anybody' from Portland, Ore., dramatizes how a student can stereotype others, oblivious of the many strange and distorted images they have of her.
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② ZOOM
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) WRITING FOR A REASON
7:30 ② MONTY PYTHON'S FLYING CIRCUS
③ DAILY NUMBER
④ EVENING MAGAZINE
⑤ IN SEARCH OF 'Haunted Castles'
⑦ ㉒ BIG MONEY
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ ISSUES '77
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ $25,000 PYRAMID
8:00 ② NOVA 'Dawn of the Solar Age' considers solar energy as an alternate source today and as a key source of energy in the future.
③ ⑦ BUGS BUNNY'S HOWL-OWEEN SPECIAL Witch Hazel meets her match as a Halloween spook when Bugs Bunny shows up at her door.
④ ㉒ THE LIFE AND TIMES OF GRIZZLY ADAMS 'The Trial' Ben, the friendly grizzly bear, is accused of stealing an Indian chief's large catch of fish and Adams, to prevent a second wrong from being committed, must give a lesson in honesty.
⑤ ㊵ EIGHT IS ENOUGH Tom and Abbey decide to get married after they put aside their own problems - to help Mary run for a seat on the Board of Education.
㊳ ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
(57) FORSYTE SAGA 'A Family Scandal' After his wife refuses him a divorce, Jo goes to live with his pregnant mistress Helene. Meanwhile, his cousin Soames, a successful lawyer, falls in love with Irene Heron, the stepdaughter of a client.
8:30 ③ ⑦ THE TED KNIGHT SHOW When melody is suddenly fired, she angrily takes it up with Mr. Dennis, only to find herself getting an unexpected promotion.

WEDNESDAY

THE GREATEST THING THAT ALMOST HAPPENED

Jimmie Walker stars in his first dramatic role, as a vibrant teenage athlete stricken by leukemia, in 'The Greatest Thing That Almost Happened,'' co-starring James Earl Jones and Deborah Allen, on 'The CBS Wednesday Night Movies,' Oct. 26.

Walker, who stars as eldest son J.J. in the hit comedy series 'Good Times' on the Network, portrays high school basketball player Morris Bird III, whose winning spirit is threatened by illness as he faces an important inter-scholastic basketball contest just before Christmas 1952.

Prestigious stage and film star James Earl Jones stars as his widowed father, whose intense struggle to maintain his own self-respect often blinds him to his son's emotional needs.

Deborah Allen, who won acclaim for her role in the series '3 Girls 3,' co-stars as Morris' understanding girlfriend, who wants to help him learn about life before leaving it.

8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
9:00 ② CROCKETT'S VICTORY GARDEN Jim visits the Dutch government's experimental field station at Wageningen to view new varieties of vegetables and flowers. Back in the garden, Jim demonstrates how to extend your growing season by building a cold frame.
③ ⑦ THE CBS WEDNESDAY NIGHT MOVIES 'The Greatest Thing That Almost Happened' Jimmie Walker, James Earl Jones. A vibrant teenaged athlete is stricken by leukemia and his widowed father, whose intense struggle to maintain his own self-respect, is often blind to his son's emotional needs. (2 hrs.)
④ ㉒ OREGON TRAIL 'Hannah's Girls' A group of shady ladies liven up Thorpe's Oregon bound wagon train until they come under the harassment of their deranged ex-employer. Guest stars Stella Stevens.
⑤ ㊵ CHARLIE'S ANGELS 'Angel in Love' Sabrina falls deeply in love with a rugged young man who may have been involved in a slaying the Angels are investigating.
㊳ HOCKEY Boston Bruins vs. Minnesota North Stars
(57) GREAT PERFORMANCES 'Cavalleria Rusticana' Pietro Mascagni's 1890 one-act opera of jealous love and subsequent revenge features an all-Italian cast. Herbert von Karajan conducts the La Scala Opera orchestra and chorus.
9:30 ② WODEHOUSE PLAYHOUSE 'The Truth About George' A shy young man with a stutter is hindered from declaring his love for a fast-talking girl and goes to a specialist whose advice leads to a few comic complications.
9:58 ㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 ② NEWS
④ ㉒ BIG HAWAII 'Graduation Eve' A power failure plunges the island into darkness and Mitch Fears is deputized to help cope with what is expected to be widespread looting.
⑤ ㊵ BARETTA 'The Sky is Falling' Baretta launches a desperate search for 13-year-old Tommy Beaumont, witness to a murder, knowing that the boy's life is in danger. Guests stars Barry Miller, Art Metrano.
10:30 ② MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
(57) RELATIONS A study of relationships between young artists and the professionals who teach them focuses on the development of a ballet work from rehearsal to finished performance and a music camp where student musicians prepare for an outdoor concert.
11:00 ② (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW Guest: Former CBS newsman Daniel Schorr.
③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS
11:30 ③ ⑦ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Hawaii Five-O' A public health official is slain while conducting an investigation. 'Target Risk' 1975 Bo Svenson, Meredith Baxter. A bonded courier is blackmailed into faking the theft of $2,000,000 in diamonds. (R)
④ ㉒ THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: David Steinberg. Guests: Bob Hope, Edwin Newman.
⑤ FOREVER FERNWOOD
㊳ BOSTON BRUINS WRAP-UP
㊵ STARSKY AND HUTCH-MYSTERY OF THE WEEK STARSKY AND HUTCH - 'The Deadly Imposter' Starsky and Hutch help a buddy locate his son and ex-wife, not knowing he has become a professional killer. MYSTERY OF THE WEEK - 'Please Call It Murder' Lt. Ianello is assigned to investigate the death of a heavily insured suburbanite.
(57) ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
11:45 ㊳ MOVIE 'Holiday For Lovers' 1959 Clifton Webb, Jane Wyman. Boston psychologist and wife follow their two daughters to South America in pursuit of romance. (2 hrs.)
12:00 ⑤ STARSKY AND HUTCH-MYSTERY OF THE WEEK STARSKY AND HUTCH - 'The Deadly Imposter' Starsky and Hutch help a buddy locate his son and ex-wife, not knowing he has become a professional killer. MYSTERY OF THE WEEK - 'Please Call It Murder' Lt. Ianello is assigned to investigate the death of a heavily insured suburbanite.
1:00 ④ ㉒ TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder. Guests: Freddie Laker, president of Laker Airways; Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League.
2:30 ⑤ NEWS
2:40 ⑤ I SPY
3:40 ⑤ 5 ALL NIGHT
4:00 ⑤ BRIEFING SESSION
4:30 ⑤ GOOD DAY

Thursday, Oct. 27

7:00 ② ZOOM (CAPTIONED)
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) DIMENSIONS IN CULTURE
7:30 ② ONCE UPON A CLASSIC 'The Legend of Robin Hood' Episode Four. Mudge, the baker's son, joins Robin's men after his father is unjustly hanged by the Sheriff of Nottingham. Robin learns of a plot to kill King Richard but is captured while on his way to warn the king.
③ DAILY NUMBER
④ EVENING MAGAZINE
⑤ HOUSE CALL 'Food Poisoning'
⑦ GONG SHOW
㉒ HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ THAT GIRL
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ DOUBLEPLAY
8:00 ② EVENING AT SYMPHONY East German conductor Klaus Tennstedt makes his television debut leading the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Mahler's Symphony No. 4 Soprano Phyllis Bryn-Julson solos.
③ ⑦ THE WALTONS Erin faces an adult situation when her childhood sweetheart joins the Army after she rejects his marriage proposal.
④ ACTION 4
⑤ ㊵ WELCOME BACK, KOTTER The sweathogs clash with Mr. Woodman after he reveals a novel he has written featuring himself as the hero amidst four young villains.
㉒ CHIPS Officers Baker and Poncherello race to discover the location of an endangered infant who has eaten contaminated food.
㊳ ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
(57) NOVA 'Dawn of the Solar Age' considers solar energy as an alternate source today and as a key source of energy in the future.
8:30 ④ MZIZI ROOTS
⑤ ㊵ WHAT'S HAPPENING!!
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
9:00 ② (57) BEST OF FAMILIES 'Generations' opens this dramatic series which follows three fictional New York families from 1880 to 1900 and the turbulent events which shaped their fortunes: the Raffertys, an impoverished Irish immigrant clan; the Baldwins, a middle-class minister's family; and the wealthy, aristocratic Wheelers.
③ ABE RIBICOFF 'The American Dream'
④ ㉒ JAMES AT 15 'Friends' Lance Kerwin stars as James Hunter, who, in his loneliness at a new school in a new city, reaches out to other newcomers who are as isolated as himself. (Premiere)
⑤ ㊵ BARNEY MILLER Capt. Miller and his men must cope with a felon who apparently patterns his crimes from television police programs.
⑦ HAWAII FIVE-O Steve hunts for two fugitive's who were involved in a sensational armored truck robbery.
㊳ MOVIE 'You Were Never Lovelier' 1942 Fred Astaire, Rita Hayworth. Hotel tycoon sends daughter flowers and presents to add romance in her life. (2 hrs.)
9:30 ⑤ ㊵ CARTER COUNTRY 'Baker Buys a House' Part II. Chief Roy becomes upset by a painting left on Baker's door, and is determined to find the culprit.
9:58 ㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 ④ IMPACT 'Women in the Working Force'
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS CLOSEUP 'Teenage Turn-On: Drinking and Drugs' This special takes a look at the massive and mostly ignored problem of teenage alcoholism and drug abuse. Included in the special is film of an encounter session in which young people are helped to overcome their chemical dependency. Narrator: Tom Jarriel.
⑦ BARNABY JONES J.R. learns the inside of street gang warfare when he faces the alternative of either solving the murder of a member or being 'snuffed' for knowing too much about the gang's operations.
10:30 ③ PROGRAM UNANNOUNCED
11:00 ② ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS
㊳ ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
(57) MASTERPIECE THEATRE 'Dickens of London' Episode Nine. 'Nightmare' Charles's interest in the art of mesmerism leads to a spine-chilling experiment when he befriends a fellow writer whose name is synonymous with terror and the macabre -- Edgar Allan Poe.
11:30 ② MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
③ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Visions of Death' 1972 Monte Markham, Barbara Anderson. Clairvoyant professor warns Denver police of bombings, and when the first one occurs he falls under suspicion himself. (R)
④ ㉒ THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: Burt Reynolds.
⑤ FOREVER FERNWOOD
⑦ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'M.A.S.H.' A Hollywood director is assigned to do a documentary on the 4077th. 'Kojak: Money Back Guarantee' Murder of policeman puts Kojak and his staff on the trail of an active stolen car ring. (R)
㊳ IRONSIDE
㊵ POLICE STORY-THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL POLICE STORY - 'Dangerous Games' Charlie Czonda tries to catch the big man behind a ring of prostitution, dope and extortion. THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL - 'It's A Fad, Fad, Fad World' Host: Richard Dawson. Featuring the originators and style setters of vogues that once were part of the American scene.
12:00 ② (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW Guest: Acclaimed actress Eva LeGallienne.
⑤ POLICE STORY-THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL POLICE STORY - 'Dangerous Games' Charlie Czonda tries to catch the big man behind a ring of prostitution, dope and extortion. THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL - 'It's A Fad, Fad, Fad World' Host: Richard Dawson. Featuring the originators and style setters of vogues that once were part of the American scene.
12:30 (57) ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
1:00 ④ ㉒ TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder. Guests: 50 college newspaper editors will be present for a question and answer session.
2:35 ⑤ NEWS
2:45 ⑤ MOVIE 'Calling Dr. Death' 1943 Lon Chaney, Jr., J. Carrol Naish. (1 hr. 15 min.)
4:00 ⑤ AQUI
4:30 ⑤ GOOD DAY

Friday, Oct. 28

EVENING

6:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
㊵ CROSS WITS
(57) ZOOM
6:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ I LOVE LUCY
(57) ELECTION '77 'Springfield City Council'
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② DIMENSIONS OF BLACK Dance, art and music are utilized to stress the cultural ties between black America and Africa.
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) PAINT ALONG WITH NANCY KOMINSKY 'Storm on the Adriatic' Nancy shows how to capture the beauty and atmosphere of nature's many moods.
7:30 ③ DAILY NUMBER
④ EVENING MAGAZINE
⑤ MATCH GAME
⑦ OLIVER TWIST
㉒ $100,000 NAME THAT TUNE
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ MUPPETS SHOW Guest: Dom DeLuise.
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ YOUNG PEOPLE'S SPECIAL 'Joshua's Confussion'
8:00 ② (57) WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW
③ NEW ADVENTURES OF WONDER WOMAN Wonder Woman and Steve Trevor pose as a foreign embassy maid and a nationalist leader to thwart an international thief and master of disguise who has made a visiting queen and her country's jewels his next target. David Hedison, Juliet Mills guest star.
④ ㉒ TEXACO PRESENTS THE ROAD TO HOLLYWOOD Host: Bob Hope. Among the stars are: Lucille Ball, Katharine Hepburn, Basil Rathbone, Roy Rogers, Peter Lorre, Lon Chaney, Paulette Goddard, Phyllis Diller, Martha Raye, William Bendix, Betty Hutton.
⑤ ㊵ DONNY AND MARIE Guests: Ben Vereen, Paul Lynde, Kristy McNichol, Billy Crystal, Billy White, Shirley Hemphill.
㊳ ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
8:30 ② (57) WALL $TREET WEEK Host: Louis Rukeyser. 'Money Market Funds Now!' Guest: Bruce R. Bent, president of the Reserve Fund Inc.
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
9:00 ② MASTERPIECE THEATRE 'Dickens of London' Episode Nine. 'Nightmare' Charles's interest in the art of mesmerism leads to a spine-chilling experiment when he befriends a fellow writer whose name is synonymous with terror and the macabre – Edgar Allan Poe.
③ ⑦ CBS MOVIE SPECIAL 'Mitchell' 1975 Joe Don Baker, Martin Balsam. A tough police detective is on the trail of a murderer and a drug dealer. They conspire to do away with him by enlisting the aid of a snydicate chieftain. (2 hrs.)
⑤ ㊵ THE ABC FRIDAY NIGHT MOVIE 'Having Babies II' Tony Bill, Carol Lynley. Emotional crisis involving birth, adoption and first love affect the lives of several couples in the sequel to one of last year's most popular television films. (2 hrs.)
㊳ MOVIE 'Love With The Proper Stranger' 1964 Natalie Wood, Steve McQueen. Young girl gets pregnant after one-night stand with a musician. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
(57) MASSACHUSETTS
9:30 (57) BEST OF ERNIE KOVACS Comic highlights include a series of runner vs. starter blackouts, a visit from Hungarian cook Miklos Molnar, two musical visualizations and a bug's eye view of the world.
10:00 ② NEWS
④ ㉒ QUINCY Quincy and the police join forces to locate a kidnapped youth who was buried alive with a limited supply of oxygen.
(57) SOCCER MADE IN GERMANY
10:30 ② MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
11:00 ② (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW Academy Award-winning actor Peter Ustinov discusses his recently published autobiography 'Dear Me.'
③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS
11:30 ③ MOVIE 'Petulia' 1968 Julie Christie, George C. Scott. A kooky woman has a tempestuous fling with a doctor. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
④ ㉒ THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: McLean Stevenson.
⑤ FOREVER FERNWOOD
⑦ SECOND CITY TV
㊳ MOVIE 'Sherlock Holmes and the Spider Woman' 1944 Basil Rathbone, Nigel Bruce. Sherlock Holmes investigates a woman who uses spiders as murder weapons.
㊵ BARETTA 'Shoes' A deaf mute shoeshine boy creates problems for Baretta when he tries to avenge the rape and attempted murder of a young religious worker who believes her assailant was a cop. (R)
(57) ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
12:00 ⑦ MOVIE
12:30 ⑤ BARETTA 'Shoes' A deaf mute shoeshine boy creates problems for Baretta when he tries to avenge the rape and attempted murder of a young religious worker who believes her assailant was a cop. (R)
1:00 ④ ㉒ THE MIDNIGHT SPECIAL Host: David Soul. Guests: Debby Boone, Electric Light Orchestra, Conway Twitty, Styx, Little River Band.
1:35 ⑤ NEWS
1:45 ⑤ MOVIE 'The Bride of Frankenstein' 1935 Elsa Lanchester, Boris Karloff. (1 hr. 30 min.)
3:15 ⑤ ALFRED HITCHCOCK
3:45 ⑤ 5 ALL NIGHT
4:00 ⑤ HOUSE CALL
4:30 ⑤ GOOD DAY

DONALD S CALL
Registered Opticians

FASHION GLASSES
SAFETY GLASSES
SUN GLASSES
ANY KIND OF GLASSES

take a look at our selection
56 Main St. Amherst Mass.
253-7002

WILL THE WINTER OF 1977 BE AS SEVERE AS 1976?

If most of the forecasters are correct it will be, so why not get ready now. Gleason's is all stocked with stylish and practical cold weather outdoor clothing for all your fall and winter needs. Come in early and look over the Quality lines we stock. Also ask us about our early birds/buy special.

Don Gleason—Quality Down Vests
North Face—Down Parkas and Botties
Sierra Designs—Down and 60/40 Parkas
Camp 7—Down Vests and Mtn. Parkas
Camp Trails—Polarguard Vests & Parkas
Woolrich—Rugged Shirts, Pants, Jackets
Duofold—Quality 2 Layer Underwear
Wigwam—Hats, Socks, and Mitts
Vasque—Hiking Boots
Sorel—Insulated Boots

Also a Complete Selection of Camping & Backpacking
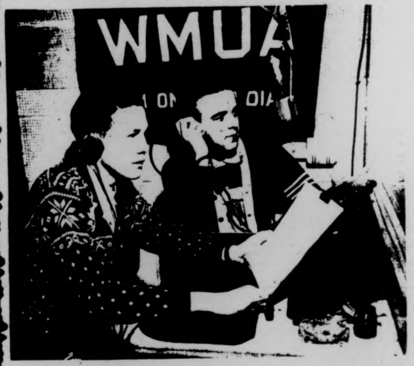
Equipment on display.
(Tents, Packs, Etc.)

HOURS: 9 to 5:30 WEEKDAYS
9 to 5 SATURDAY

PEARL STREET IS ONE BLOCK SOUTH OF MAIN STREET IN THE CENTER.

Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS.



FM 91.1 WMUA
Stereo Amherst

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 37 MONDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1977
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

Kent coalition still fighting

By JIM PAULIN
Collegian Staff

Kent, Ohio. The May 4th Coalition spent last Saturday afternoon playing war games with the police force from Kent State University, the town of Kent, and the Portage County sheriff.

Police territory was defined by Kent State president Brage Golding and Portage County police court judge Philip Jones as the entire campus, except for a rugby field on the outskirts of the campus where public assembly was permitted between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The day's activities began when groups from schools across the east coast and mid west, including 41 persons who came from UMass, and a scattering of persons from schools as far away as California gathered on the Commons, the traditional ground for Kent State students for football rallies, or to protest the U.S. invasion of Cambodia.

Police attempted to announce over a mobile public address system the illegality of the swelling crowd's location, but the crowd flagrantly refused to listen and drowned out the system by chanting, "Courts arrest, injunctions jail, all your efforts to stop us fail."

One police officer tried to hand out copies of Judge Jones' injunction but no one would take them. Police then used another more effective persuasion tactic. Clad in riot gear, the 100 or more officers began advancing a half step at a time with night sticks braced to ward off the trespassers.

As the police move within "the - whites - of - their - eyes" distance, the coalition quickly assembled into rows of eight each, each row locking arms, and marched off the Commons with the Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW) to a dormitory complex and began chanting "Out of the dorms and into the streets, join us, join us, joins us, "but with little success.

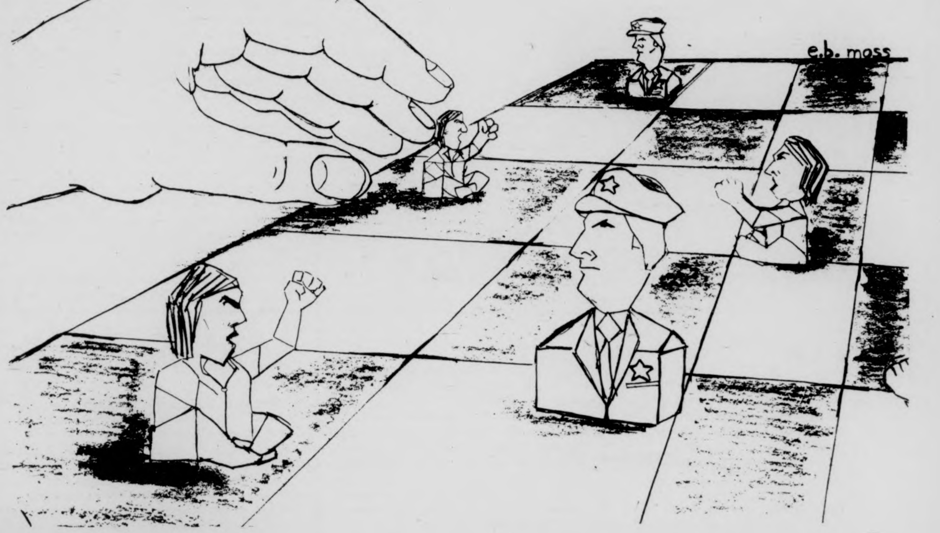
The students reactions were mixed; most just watched curiously and some took snapshots. The pro-gym students were the most vociferous, shouting "Build our gym," and "Move the coalition." Student security guards were posted at all dormitory entrances.

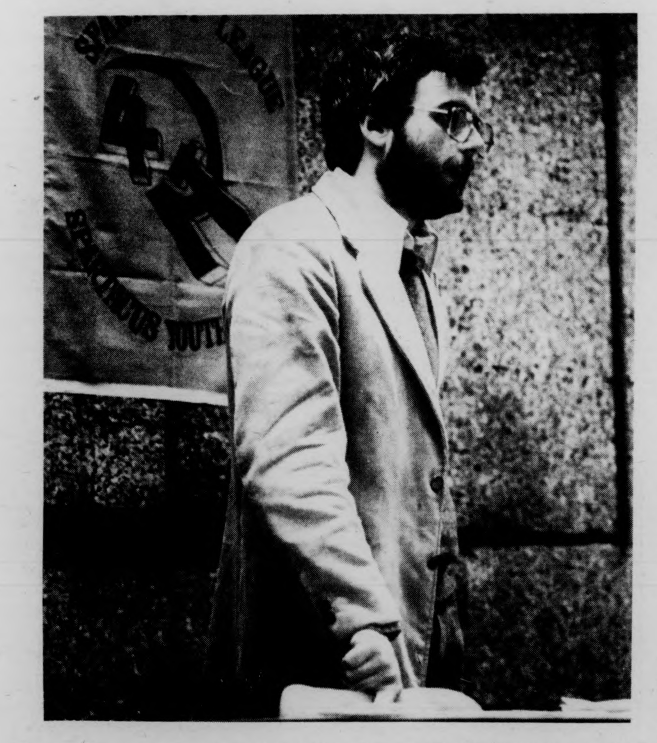
The demonstrators then marched to a lawn in front of an academic building for another illegal rally, where a woman representing the South Africa Liberation Support Committee dedicated the day's protests to the memory of slain South African student leader Steven Biko from a pick-up truck with sound equipment. "Let us stand together in common struggle for the people of South Africa," she said.

Wally Klim of the VVAW addressed the subject of Veteran's Day. Referring to the American Legion and the VFW, he said, "They say they speak for national unity," and in reference to the rally he said, "This is the best example of national unity I've ever seen."

The speeches went on for a while, and just as the coalition was about to march to the gym site, mounted police from the sheriff's department trotted to the front of the group, and police on foot, wearing helmets and gas

TURN TO PAGE 2





Jeff Maxwell stressed the United States imperialistic attitudes in South Africa among other topics during the Spartacist Youth League Forum last Friday night. (Staff photo by John Anderson)

U.S. imperialistic in South Africa says Spartacus

By ELLEN DAVIS
Collegian Staff

Anti-apartheid revolts and U.S. imperialist moralism were the topics discussed during a two-hour Spartacus Youth League (SYL) Forum in the Campus Center last Friday night.

"Apartheid has gotten stronger over the last 30 years," said SYL speaker Jeff Maxwell, "But the situation is not hopeless.

"The weak point is at the point of production, as was proven to 1973-74 when a strike wave by black workers in South Africa forced the trade unions to make concessions, and apartheid decreased for the first time in 48 years," said Maxwell.

Maxwell argued against the current use of guerrilla warfare to combat apartheid, saying it won't work for three reasons — South Africa has a powerful military machine, the whites are willing to fight to the last person, and there are four times as many whites in South Africa than in other African countries like Rhodesia.

Maxwell cited labor actions against the shipment of military goods to South Africa as another possible solution.

On the subject of imperialist moralism, Maxwell said, "The main enemy is at home. The U.S. Imperialists are using the South African issue as a means of increasing moral credibility.

"Carter's current human rights campaign is nothing more than an attempt to facelift the United States image abroad. The U.S. is the most imperialist nation and is the supporter of virtually every reactionary regime on the face of the earth," he said.

The SYL is the youth section of the Sparticist League, an inter-racial revolutionary socialist organization, which has members worldwide.

The league attempts to recruit youths to the ideas of Marx, Lenin, and Trotsky. Their goal is to replace capitalism, which they say "can't solve basic democratic tasks", with a workers government.

In the past, the SYL has initiated campaigns to stop national recruiting by the National Security Agency and the Central Intelligence Agency on college campuses, led rallies in support of the striking Franklin teachers at Boston University, and started protest demonstrations against the death of Steven Biko.

Women's Center; a place to relax

By AMY KAPLAN
Collegian Staff

For any women interested in a place to browse, have coffee, or meet other area women, the Orchard Hill Women's Center in Field House is the place.

A short film and discussion kicked off the semester Oct. 11. The film, "Anything You Want To Be", emphasized restrictions women have in making decisions regarding careers and lifestyle, said Jill Ramsdell co-ordinator of the center. She said the discussion addressed the needs of Orchard Hill women and plans for the year.

Ramsdell said there are a variety of projects being worked on this semester, one in particular being the center's library. The library contains a collection of books and articles, with information on health issues, history and sociology of women, lesbian and black women, and literature and poetry, said Lisa Sarett, a staff member.

The center also maintains a referral service of organizations and services offered at UMass and in the Pioneer Valley of particular interest to women and offers counseling services to area women, Sarett said.

A newsletter is being published which will list the center's events and contain literature and poetry written by UMass women, said Sarett.

Ramsdell said there are many events to look forward to. "Plans are underway for a potluck dinner, coffeehouse, contradance, and film series. A workshop series is being worked on, including sessions on self-defense, sexism awareness, social feminism, lesbianism, and contraception," she said.

Information and dates for the events will be posted at the center and in the Orchard Hill area. Ramsdell said these activities are open to students in the UMass and the five-college community.

Ramsdell stressed the importance of coordinating efforts of the three centers located in Orchard Hill; the Third World, Men's and Women's centers. She said, "Many issues we are dealing with concern not just women. Consciousness dealing with sexism, racism oppression, is not just for women, but for all students to become aware."

The Women's Center is open Monday, 3 to 9 p.m., Tuesday, 1 to 10 p.m., Wednesday, 11:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Friday 1 to 4 p.m.

Health Services offer diabetes discussions

By CYNTHIA HARHEN
Collegian Staff

Like Weight Watchers, Alcoholics Anonymous, and other such mutual support organizations, a group of UMass people gather on Monday nights to discuss their common health problem and to give one another support.

The diabetes discussion group is part of an educational program coordinated by the Health Educational Services.

"Education about the care of diabetes is an integral part of this program," according to Barbara Estabrook, health education coordinator. "Members of the group can discuss ideas and problems and offer solutions. Sometimes it's most helpful to talk to someone who shares the same problem."

The group aims to help and educate diabetics, their families, peers and those who will be striken with the disease within their lifetimes.

Diabetes is a rapidly increasing problem. The number of diabetics in this country has jumped from 1.2 million in 1950 to an estimated 5 million today. This is an increase of over 300 per cent while the U.S. population has grown only about 50 per cent. Moreover, the total number of new cases in this country is growing at the rate of about 2 million every three years.

Treatment with insulin has markedly increased the life expectancy of a diabetic. But diabetes is still the fifth leading cause of death by disease in this country and the second leading cause of blindness.

The UMass group aims to ease the problems of the diabetic through support and education in order to help make their life as normal as possible. The format of the group includes both informal discussion and guest speakers on a wide range of diabetes topics, Estabrook said. All interested individuals should attend the Monday discussions, she said.

Students uninjured in dormitory blaze

By MATHEW KOVARY
Collegian Staff

Two UMass students escaped injury early Saturday morning when a fire swept through their third floor campus apartment in Mary Lyon dormitory, Keith Hoyle, University Fire Marshall said.

Beth Hennessy was alone in the room alseep when an overhead desk lamp belonging to her roommate, Mindy Kingston, came to rest on a pillow setting it and the bed aflame, Hoyle said.

"The room is a total loss," Hoyle said. "Smoke damage alone caused an estimated $2,500 worth of damage."

Two false alarms, eight minutes apart, hampered efforts by the Amherst Fire Department to quench the 2:35 a.m. blaze, Hoyle said.

A false alarm at 2:53 a.m. was triggered on the eighth floor of McNamara and called one of four engines away from the Mary Lyon fire.

Eight minutes later another false alarm summoned fire fighters to the loading dock of the Campus Center.

Despite the interference, the Amherst Fire Department had the dorm fire under control by 3 a.m., Hoyle said.

Smoke damage to the dormitory hallway and adjacent rooms was estimated at $200, Hoyle said.

Sylvan government may hold 're'-election

By JANIS FINSTEIN
Collegian Staff

The Sylvan Area Government may be forced to hold another election in Brown dormitory for the government's candidates due to a petition brought to the Student Attorney General by a resident of that dorm, President Linne Donaldson said last night.

The charges state that one of the candidates on the Sylvan Area Government election ballot was campaigning near a ballot box, and another person at the ballot box was instructing people as to whom to vote for. A decision will be made this week by the Student Attorney General as to whether or not a new election will be held.

In other business, members of the Sylvan Area Government last night voted to allocate $100 for a concert featuring Professor Archie Shepp to be held Nov. 11 in the Fine Arts Center. The Cultural Society will allocate $50 for the concert and $50 will come from the Sylvan Area Government. The concert will benefit the Che-Lumumba School, an alternative school.

Sylvan Area Government members also voted last night to allocate $190 for the salary of the government secretary. The work-study position which pays $3.25 a week for 12 hours of work each week has not been filled yet. Applications are still available outside the Sylvan Area Government office in 01 Cashin. The deadline is 5 p.m. Oct. 26.

Sylvan Area Government members decided last night to find out more about unionization and to possibly have two people speak on the subject: one person opposed to the idea, and one in favor. There will be further discussion on the matter at the next meeting which will be held at the new meeting time, next Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Mid-East debate in CCA

Three panelists will take part in a debate on the "Crisis in the Middle East" tonight at 8:00 in the Campus Center Auditorium.

The panelists are: John Hillson, founder of the Palestine Solidarity Committee and author; Bassem Mouallem, native of Lebanon and international journalist; and Prof. David Sidorsky of Columbia University, chairperson of the American Zionist Youth Foundation.

The debate, sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Program will feature a 15-minute statement by each panelist, followed by a question period. Each speaker will make a five-minute closing statement. The moderator will be UMass student Roger Lukoff.

★ Kent State struggle

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

masks, surrounded the group on all but one side and shoved the protesters across the road on to the lawn of a fraternity with tear gas, while local, state, and national press took photos and notes.

After the first skirmish, nearly the entire press crew disappeared, including the NBC news team and the UPI photographer wearing a riot helmet with a UPI sticker affixed to the front of it. As soon as the crowd was moved, a tow truck came and removed the sound system.

Tying wet handkerchiefs around their faces for makeshift gas masks, the coalition lined up six abreast with locked arms and marched toward the gym site. The fence that had previously been torn down had been replaced by an all metal one, two to three times as high.

Before the demonstrators reached the site they were gassed, but made an orderly jogging retreat to a field well away from the central campus area, chanting, "The whole world is watching."

A UMass student was arrested during this march as he left the assembled marchers to take pictures. Robert Boladrina, a student senator from Mackimmie, is expected to be released from the Portage County jail today.

At the third rally site of the day, a vote was taken in favor of another march. Twenty-nine persons from the Amherst contingent voted to remain in the march. Twelve of them elected to leave and wait off the campus.

The coalition then marched to the Commons again and up the hill to Taylor Hill to the fence surrounding the gym site until tear gas containers were launched at them in a steady fashion, causing them to jog in formation back to the scene of the skirmish with the police, calvary and infantry, where they had a final rally and departed.

After each gasing, the marchers split in two groups but each time reunited at the rallying point.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Jan Murray

| | |
|---|---|
| Assistant Issue Editor | Anne Murray |
| Sports Layout | Eddie Murray |
| Odd Couple Tech | Murray the Cop |
| Ex-Lou Grant Staff | Murray Slaughter |
| Season Greetings | Murray Christmas |
| Dick Van Dyke Trivia Failure | Murray Amsterdam |
| Little Known Person | Murray Schwartz |
| What Does Anita Bryant Secretly Want To Do? | Murray Awoman |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid . ^mherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Joe Gordon wears one of his many faces as a clown at the Southwest Carnival last weekend. Weather and prices seemed to thwart the otherwise attractive event. (Staff photo by Wayne Davis)

Carnival knowledge; prices, weather hurt

By PATTI TROPED
Collegian Staff

Though expressed in various ways, the general reaction to the Southwest carnival this weekend was that it should have been better.

Held last Thursday through Sunday at the playing fields opposite the Southwest dorms, the carnival was open to the entire valley community as well as UMass. Features included games, rides and food, as well as a parachute demonstration on Sunday afternoon by the UMass Sport Parachute Club.

Also on hand was J-Gee The Clown, a sophomore theatre arts major at Brandeis University. A semi-professional clown, J-Gee was hired by the carnival management to "clown around" both on the carnival grounds and by the Southwest pyramids on Sunday morning.

The major detriments to the success of the carnival seem to have been the prices and the weather, which in turn produced a less than lively crowd.

Jeniffer Hansen, of Framingham, said, "Fifty cents is high for rides. They're usually 40. The kiddie rides are okay at a quarter."

Wayne Grincewicz, of Brittany Manor, and Cindy Weare from Coolidge, thought the carnival was small, and the games too expensive. "They're fifty cents here, and at most places only a quarter," Grincewicz said. "It's a good way to raise money for Southwest, though," said Weare.

Debbie Schatz, a resident of Washington lower who was there on Friday said, "The games were a rip-off. You get better pinball at the Campus Center."

Duke Schiavo, who ran one of the games, disagreed. "The cost of everything's gone up today. We've got payroll and merchandise costs to consider as well as gas to run the machines. This is actually very cheap entertainment. If you spend the same amount of time at the movies it costs $3.50."

Schiavo felt the lack of interest owed itself more to the weather than the cost. "It's always slow this late in the year. Too cold," he said.

Tim Cross, another game operator, thought the reason for the lack of crowds was "too many parties across the street."

Sponsored by the Southwest Assembly, the carnival cost $3,600 to run. Bonnie Ward, co-treasurer of the assembly, said, "The carnival was supposed to have been run earlier in the semester, when the weather was warmer. Had that been the case, we should have made $8,000, clearing to a profit of $4,400.

"As it is, I don't think we'll lose money, but we'll probably make only $4,000, which gives us a $400 profit." The exact figures won't be known until Tuesday or Wednesday. "The weather really ruined it," said Ward.

Thursday and Friday nights drew the largest crowds, made up primarily of college students. According to Larry Cushing and Wayne Lawyer, who run the "paratrooper', "Most of the people that came here at night were pretty well buzzed. The paratrooper did a good business, but the kiddie rides were slow because it was mostly students."

Paul MacMartin, another operator of the 'paratrooper' felt the main advantage of having the carnival on campus was the number of women present. "There were more girls here," he said.

The ferris wheel is silhouetted against the setting sun during the closing hours of the Southwest Carnival. (Staff photo by John Anderson)

Ex-SGA prexy authors a report on budget ways

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Each year UMass students express concern about the University budget, the threat of new increases, and the quality of their education here.

The impact of budget cuts and the fee increases is known, and for the most part, understood. However, what many students don't understand, or perhaps don't even have any knowledge of, is the process by which the University budget is determined and the ways in which they can influence it.

In an attempt to make this information known to students, Jay Martus, former co-president of the Student Government Association has written a report entitled, The Budget Process: Slicing the Pie at UMass.

The report was published last spring by the Student Center for Educational Research (SCER).

According to Martus, the report was part of an independent study in economics, and he noted his student government position gave him access to information for his report most students would not ordinarily have.

He explained that after he had done the report. Larry Magid of the SCER staff thought it would be useful to publish it in order to give students an idea of what the organizational structure and budget process of the University were like.

In his analysis of the budget process, Martus begins with a brief history of the University's budget demands and a brief history of the University itself. He then explains the legislative actions regarding the funding of the University. The report goes on to explain the internal structure of the University, and examines the hierarchical structure of authority within it.

Martus continues by explaining the formal process of budgeting as "a process whereby the University assesses its on-going programs, its physical facilities, and its institutional goals in order to determine a dollar figure sufficient to meet these expectations." Following this he gives an explanation of the various types of funds that flow into the University.

In his conclusion, Martus notes that, "the tens of thousands of citizens who attend the University as students, are afforded the least impact within the budgeting process."

Sociology prof.— 'purge the CIA'

By JOAN ARBETTER
Collegian Staff

Calling for "radical surgery" to purge the CIA of its corruption and illegal intervention into intellectual life, an Amherst College sociology professor last Friday addressed an audience of about 50 persons to the topic of "The CIA and Intellectual Life" at the Unitarian Meetinghouse in Amherst.

Prof. Norman Birnbaum claims the CIA has "exceeded its charter" in this country and that their activities are out of congressional and public control. Rather than to gather and to centralize information regarding national security, he insists the agency is known to "propagate opinions which are congenial to the CIA" and to "diffuse systematic misinformation."

In its continual attempt to elicit favorable mainstream opinion and policy formation, Birnbaum says the CIA distributes covert subsidies in the media, publishing industries and universities in attempts to maintain and to encourage the particular attitudes in intellectual life.

Birnbaum proposed that the way to deal with CIA corruption is to "employ radical surgery," that is, to open files and to act to abolish the present "bureaucratic kingdom" which now embodies the agency. He said this is not the policy adopted by the present administration no matter what promises have been made.

Pete Kramer, owner of the Turner Falls Sport Parachute Center, falls, lands, and walks away from an excellent jump on the south athletic fields near last weekend's carnival. He was joined by seven members of the UMass parachute club as a promotion for the organization. (Staff photos by John Anderson)

N.Y. Times editor dies

NEW YORK [UPI] — Lester Markel, Sunday editor of The New York Times for more than 40 years and an associate editor for the Times from 1964 until 1968, died of cancer yesterday in his Manhattan home. He was 83 years old.

Markel, who lived at 135 Central Park West and had a second home in Oakhurst, N.J., was known as a tough editor and readily admitted it.

"Sure I'm a tough editor," he once said. "I don't believe in Gallup poll editors who give the reader what they think he wants. I try to please myself."

Born in New York, Jan. 9, 1894, he was the son of German immigrants.

Markel attended City College for two years and received his degree in 1914 from the Columbia University School of Journalism, which was then an undergraduate school.

His first job was as a sportswriter and linotype operator for The Northside News, a small, neighborhood newspaper in the Bronx. He then moved to the New York Tribune where he progressed from reporter to city editor and night editor.

In 1919 he was named assistant managing editor of the Tribune and in 1923 Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the Times, hired him as editor of the fledgling and generally undistinguished Sunday department of the Times.

Markel started with a staff of five that dealt with a 16-page, combined magazine and book review and some leftover features. He was given free rein to enlarge and improve the department until 1964 when he became associate editor.

He developed several additional sections for the Sunday newspaper but the innovation he always considered most important was The News of the Week in Review, later called The Week in Review.

In 1951 Markel received a $150,000 grant from the Ford Foundation to set up an organization to study the flow of news to and from the United States. It eventually became the International Press Institute, now permanently headquartered in Zurich.

Lester Markel, Sunday editor of the New York Times for more than 40 years and an associate editor for the Times from 1964 until 1968, died of cancer yesterday, at age 83.

Farms checked

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland will make a two-day inspection tour of farms in Connecticut this week to check out agriculture in southern New England.

The Thursday and Friday intinerary includes visits to at least three dairy and poultry farms in the Jewett City and Manchester areas and a visit to the Central Connecticut Farmers Cooperative, owned and operated by farmers from five states.

Bergland will attend two forums at the University of Connecticut in Storrs and the Hartford Public Library to discuss all aspects of agricultural production,food stamps and nutrition programs and meet the bankers to discuss food stamp sales, according to Rep. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn.

Aiding Egypt, U.S. benefits

CAIRO, Egypt [UPI] — U.S. Treasury officials said yesterday American financial aid to Egypt will continue at its present level for some time "and we believe we are getting our money's worth."

Officials accompanying visiting Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal said Egypt's "economic and political stability is of paramount importance" to the stability of the entire Middle East.

Blumenthal, who arrived Satruday, met during the weekend with President Anwar Sadat and Premier Mamdouh Salem for what the officials described as a "general discussion of bilateral cooperation, Egypt's economic development projects and U.S. assistance."

The United States has been pumping an annual $1 billion into the Egyptian economy for the past two years, but American officials said it was too early to assess the results of this massive aid program.

However, American officials said Blumenthal emphasized to the Egyptian government that the "Carter administration is committed to the extension of substantial assistance...which will continue for some time."

In response to a reporter's question, one official said: "Yes, we are getting our money's worth, by helping Egypt deal with its immediate economic problems and building up the infrastructure necessary for long-term projects."

MAYTAG LAUNDRY
Rt 116 Sunderland
(next to 7-11)

★ 14 All new Dial-a-Fabric Maytag washers and dryers
★ 2 Large load heavy duty washers
★ 4 Large all temperature dryers

open 8:30 am - 9pm
7 days a week
Attendant on duty

Diamond Ear-Studs
A nice way to catch her ear.

Fiery diamonds set in 14k gold — still a girl's best fashion friend! All of course at upstairs prices. (For pierced ears)

¼ ct., *t.w. $225.
½ ct., t.w. $350.
¾ ct., t.w. $425.
1 ct., t.w. $595.
(*total weight)

Master Charge & Visa Accepted

Upstairs at albert hershon co.
Nationally Known Diamond Remount Specialists
1562 MAIN STREET - 2nd Floor
SPRINGFIELD, MASS. 01103

A great idea!
The printed look for your great ideas
Rentals and Sales

Rentals only $8.50 per week
can you afford not to type your papers at these prices?

If you do a lot of typing perhaps you should buy a typewriter. We can help there to..a great selection at discount prices!

the University Store

The rusty nail Inn
presents

Tonite, Mon., Oct. 24
L & M and the SOUL DRIVERS

Tues., Oct. 25 and Wed., Oct. 26
BONGO MOON

Thurs., Oct. 27
[illegible]

Fri., Oct. 28 and Sat., Oct. 29
JAMES COTTON
also
Ed Shaw and the Howlin Wolf Band

Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/Tel.665-4937

MON. & TUES. SPECIAL —
Buy a Large Pizza & Get A Pitcher of Beer for ½ Price

a varied luncheon menu
with daily specials
served in a congenial atmosphere

salads — homemade soups
deli sandwiches
subs — pizzas
all served with your favorite beer or cocktail

Hungry-U
55 University Drive
Amherst 549-5713
Thurs 11-1,
Fri. & Sat. 11-2 a.m.

Senate debates energy package

WASHINGTON [AP] — The Senate debates the tax portion of President Carter's energy package this week while the House takes up a proposal to finance the Social Security system.

The $40 billion package of tax credits for energy conservation and production won approval Friday from the Senate Finance Committee and is scheduled for Senate debate tomorrow through the end of the week.

The bill is a substitute for the energy taxes Carter initially proposed to force conservation and reduce U.S. reliance on oil imports.

But no matter what the Senate does, the legislation will be sent to the joint House-Senate committee that already has begun working out a compromise between the different energy bills passed by each house.

The House bill would force energy conservation by raising taxes, but the finance committee bill would reward those who conserve and provide greater incentives for increased energy production.

Although the House passed Carter's total energy package almost intact, the Senate has made drastic revisions.

The tax part of the final compromise energy bill is likely to include some of the taxes passed by the House as well as some of the tax credits approved by the Senate Finance Committee.

The Social Security proposal the House will take up is aimed at resolving the financial problems of the system, which has been running at a deficit since 1975.

Unless action is taken, one of the system's trust funds — for disability benefits — will be exhausted in 1979 and a second one, covering old age and survivors' insurance, will run out of money in 1983.

The House bill would add six million federal, state and local government workers to the Social Security system as of January 1982 to broaden the base of the system's contributors.

Just how this would be done is not clear, however, Reps. Gladys Spellman, D-Md., and Joseph Fisher, D-Va., whose districts include many government workers, are expected to try to eliminate this section of the bill.

They would substitute a study to work out the details for an eventual merging of the various government retirement systems.

No general financing from the Treasury would be provided to bail out the funds, but the bill would permit temporary borrowing if the money dips below a certain minimum.

Two gunmen surrender; woman hostage safe

JACKSON, Miss. [UPI] — Two gunmen, surprised during the attempted holdup of a grocery store, held a young woman clerk hostage for nearly 12 hours yesterday before surrendering to police.

The suspects released 19-year-old Sharon Clark unharmed about 11:30 a.m. and then walked out of the store moments later with their hands above their heads and surrendered to police.

Acting Police Chief Ben Shearer identified the suspects as Carl Rutherford, 30, of Calhoun City, Miss., and John Neighbors, 23, address unknown. Shearer said they would be charged with armed robbery but police had agreed not to file kidnap charges in return for safe release of the hostage.

The surrender ended a drama that began when the two suspects were surprised by police during the holdup shortly before midnight. They fired a shot at the officers and took Miss Clark and a 17-year-old customer, Bob Hicks, as hostages.

The suspects, in an attempt to negotiate for a getaway car during the predawn hours, let Hicks go. When the youth tried to start a car in front of the store, however, it lurched forward and the two men, both armed with snub-nosed .38 caliber pistols, fired two shots into the windshield.

Hicks was not hit and was allowed to leave unharmed moments later.

Shearer said Miss Clark had not been harmed but it was the third time she had been a holdup victim and she was in an "extremely nervous state." She was taken to a hospital for examination.

Shearer said a woman, identified as a "friend" of one of the suspects, was found asleep in a nearby car about 9 a.m. He said she participated in the negotiations with the suspects and helped "turned the tide of surrender."

News in Brief

Reduce sale of U.S. arms

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said yesterday he will seek a congressional ceiling on arms sales to make it easier for U.S. officials to deny weapons to other countries. weapons to other countries.

The Wisconsin Democrat said he plans to introduce legislation to reduce American arms sales from $9.9 billion this year to $8 billion in 1978, $6 billion in 1979 and $4 billion a year from 1980 on.

In a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate today, Proxmire said Congress could help the administration reduce arms sales by putting a declining ceiling on them in the futture.

"Then the administration can point to Congress as the culprit in negotiations with other nations seeking military hardware," he said. "It will also force the Pentagon and the State Department to make some hard choices as to which countries really need U.S. weapons for self defense."

Proxmire said a policy of cutting overseas arms sales would "contribute to stability" in some areas and help limit arms races among developing nations.

Boy arranges self-kidnapping

SAN JOSE, Calif. [UPI] — A father whose teenage son allegedly faked his own kidnap to extort $100,000 from his parents said yesterday he still loves the boy.

"I'm not put here to judge my son. I'm put here to love him," Cordell Brown, part owner of a meat packing company, said of his son Michael, 15.

Michael and four other teenagers ranging from 14 to 18 years old, all friends at Pioneer High School, were charged by police Saturday with faking the kidnapping.

The plot, which began Wednesday with Michael's apparent disappearance, was kept secret by police and the FBI until Friday night because of fear for Michael's safety.

His father received a call Wednesday night demanding the money as ransom for his return and saying Michael would be "killed immediately" if police were notified.

"Dad, help me. They will kill me," the boy told his father, according to police.

On Friday, the father, with an FBI agent as his passenger and a two-way radio hidden his car, followed instructions that led him to two phone booths. He was told to leave the money beside a speed limit sign along a narrow road outside town.

The elder Brown left the money and two motorcycles, each carrying two persons, drove up.

One boy scooped up the money, and officers who were hiding behind bushes leaped out and arrested two of the youths. The two others were captured after a chase.

24 servicemen killed in crash

Manila, The Philippines [UPI] — U.S. authorities yesterday sought to identify the bodies of 24 American servicemen killed Friday when a CH53 Sikorsky "Sea Stallion" helicopter crashed into a ravine in a jungle in the central Philippines, a Navy spokesman reported.

Thirteen other Americans aboard the helicopter taking part in a U.S. 7th fleet amphibious landing exercise on Mindoro Island, 100 miles south of Manila, were injured and were in "stable condition," the spokesman said.

Another serviceman suffered a fractured lower right leg during rescue operations. He was identified as Hospital man recruit Gary G. Parido, from Hallandale, Fla. The spokesman said he is in "excelllent condition."

The spokesman said the dead were being identified at the U.S. Clark Air Base mortuary.

Most of the victims were Marines but the spokesman said earlier Navy and Air Force personnel also may have been aboard the copter.

About 5,000 men of the Third Marine Division and the First Marine Aircraft Wing in Okinawa and Iwakuni, Japan, participated in the two-week exercise code-named "Fortress Lightning" which ended Friday.

FREE! Reuseable 20 oz. Plastic Cup
When you buy a 20oz. cup of COKE & 32
WORCESTER SNACK BAR
HAMPDEN SNACK BAR
POPEYE
OFFER STARTS MONDAY, OCT. 24

Texas Instruments
Programmable TI 57
a powerful super slide-rule calculator that you can program directly from the keyboard!

Making Tracks into Programming

*150 keystroke program memory
*8 multi purpose addressable memories
*6 forms of branching
*2 levels of subroutines
*9 levels of parentheses
*2 conditional loop features
*many advanced math capabilities directly from the keyboard—including standard deviation.

all for only $69.95
list price $79.95

can you afford not to have a T.I. programmable?

available now
at the calculator store

UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

安城中國飯店
AMHERST CHINESE FOOD
62 Main St., Amherst Tel. 253-7835
"Good Dining Award from American Diner's Society"
Eat in or take out
Lunch Specials
1.09 and up
Fresh Chinese vegetables from our own farm!
UMASS BUS STOP
Closed Wednesdays.

INTERNATIONAL CAREER?

A representative will be on the campus
TUESDAY - P.M.
NOVEMBER 1, 1977
to discuss qualifications for advanced study at AMERICAN GRADUATE SCHOOL and job opportunities in the field of
INTERNATIONAL MANAGEMENT

Interviews may be scheduled at PLACEMENT OFFICE

AMERICAN GRADUATE SCHOOL
OF INTERNATIONAL MANAGEMENT
Thunderbird Campus
Glendale, Arizona 85306

Around New England

Reverse stand on Reilly case

HARTFORD, Conn. [UPI] — Peter A. Reilly is no longer considered the prime suspect in his mother's 1973 slaying, but there's a lot being said about why the state's top law enforcement official decided to stop accusing the youth.

New Britain Attorney Paul McQuillan, a former prosecutor in the Reilly case said Friday it was his discussions with Edward P. Leonard that ultimately convinced the state police commissioner to reverse his position in the case.

In a surprise move Thursday, Leonard — who had steadfastly maintained Reilly killed the woman — did an about face and said the 22-year-old ambulance driver should not be re-arrested.

Leonard has not indicated what persuaded him that Reilly should not be charged again.

Meeting burdens Conn. taxpayers

HARTFORD, Conn. [UPI] — Connecticut taxpayers will foot the bill for a conference in the Virgin Islands that Gov. Ella T. Grasso and at least 10 Connecticut legislators reportedly plan to attend.

The Hartford Courant reported Saturday that it had learned of the Connecticut lawmakers' involvement in the conference after some Rhode Island legislators planning to attend also were accused of junketeering.

Conn. gambling

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. [UPI] — The Connecticut gaming commission plans a series of inquiries into the affairs of legalized gambling facilities during the next three weeks.

One inquiry, yet to be placed on the commission agenda, will delve into the profit picture of Detroit lawyer A. Robert Zexf, president of the Bridgeport Jai Alai arena, who reported he took home $2.9 million since the fronton opened June 1, 1976.

Zeff's profits are significant because of the declining pari-mutuel handles at Connecticut's three jai alai arenas which are expected to prompt requests to lower state tax on jai alai profits.

The Legislature last year raised the tax on jai alai owners in Bridgeport, Hartford and Milford so the host towns could make more money.

Another inquiry, set for Nov. 2, will find gaming commissioners trying to get present and former Bridgeport Jai Alai owners to divulge ownership of a strip of land between the jai alai and Interstate 91.

Activist tries for cheap fuel

HARTFORD, Conn. [UPI] — Social activisit Ned Coll, just returned from a 340-mile trek on foot to the nation's capitol, plans to return there by car tomorrow to carry on his fight to help the poor of the Northeast this winter.

"Washington and the Carter administration are completely blind to the suffereing that could happen in the Northeast this winter," Coll said, stressing that high fuel costs in New England will hurt the poor.

In a weekend telephone interview from his Hartford home, where he was resting from his ardous walk, Coll said he wants the federal government to help the region's poor pay their heating bills.

Coll, who waded across the entire Connecticut coastline this summer to protest the lack of public beaches, reached Washington at 2 p.m. Friday.

"But the walk is just the first phase," Coll said, adding that he will return to Washington Tuesday to meet with Rep. Anthony Moffett, D-Conn., and members of the Carter administration. Moffett set up the meeting.

Coll said his reception in the nation's capital Friday was cool at best.

"Initial vibrations are bad," he said. "What I got on the phone from one of his (Carter's) aides was basically "to hell with the program for the winter."

"It made me somewhat skeptical of the populas Jimmy Carter is always talking about," Coll continued. "I hope it isn't just a lot of slick public relations."

Boycotts strengthen ERA

CHICAGO [UPI] — Supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment are using a new economic weapon.

The tactic already has cost Chicago $15 million in revenue, Chicago Convention and Tourism Bureau officials said. ERA supporters believe it has had a similar effect elsewhere.

The weapon is a recent agreement among 40 national organizations to keep their conventions out of states which have not ratified the national ERA. The National Organization for Women is actively recruiting more groups for the boycott.

Illinois is one such state. Frank Sain, president of the Convention and Tourism Bureau, said about $1 million in revenue to Chicago hotels and businesses has been canceled by such groups as the League of Women Voters, National Association of Social Workers, Board of Global Ministers and Conference on College Composition and Communication.

Sain estimated Chicago could have attracted conventions worth about $14 million from those groups, were it not for the boycott. Among those is the National Education Association, whose convention is worth about $3 million.

In addition to the convention boycott, a voter pledge drive designed to drum up new support for the ERA was announced Saturday by Chicago NOW leaders.

YOU DESERVE SOME CREDIT
...YOU'VE EARNED IT.

Once you've earned a college degree, Ford Motor Credit Company thinks you've earned the opportunity to have credit too. That's why we developed a finance plan that gives special consideration to college graduates and seniors within four months of graduating.*

If you presently have a job or can supply proof of future employment, you may be eligible for financing on any new Ford or Lincoln-Mercury product. And this financing can be tailored to fit your own personal budget—from delaying your first payment for up to three months, to a plan where your monthly payments start out small and gradually increase each year—even 48 month financing, if needed.

If you don't have a job lined up just yet, keep Ford Credit in mind, because you can still take advantage of this special plan for up to one year after you graduate.

Ford Credit wants to give you the credit you deserve. Ask for us at any Ford or Lincoln-Mercury dealer.

*Where permitted by law.
For example, contract dated December 15, 1977; Cash Price $5,300.00; Total Down Payment $800.00; Amount Financed $4,500.00; FINANCE CHARGE $1,806.09; ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE 14.35%; Deferred Payment Price $7,406.09.
Payment schedule: first payment due March 15, 1978; 45 payments consisting of: first 9 monthly payments of $117.40; next 9 monthly payments of $130.85; next 9 monthly payments of $145.84; next 9 monthly payments of $162.55; and 9 monthly payments of $177.37.

Ford Motor Credit Company
Ford

Finast SUPERMARKETS

MEAT STREET, U.S.A. GUARANTEED VALUE.

MEAT STREET U.S.A.

Frozen Turkey Breast 88¢ lb.
Fresh Marval Turkey Breast 98¢ lb.
Fresh Marval Turkey Drumsticks 48¢ lb.
Fresh Marval Turkey Wings 58¢ lb.
Fresh Marval Turkey Thighs 78¢ lb.

Fresh Perdue Chicken Legs Whole 78¢ lb.
Whole Breast 98¢ lb.
Assorted Pork Chops $1.18 lb.
Fresh Pork Lean & Meaty Spareribs 98¢ lb.
Country Style Pork Ribs $1.18 lb.

Whole Bone In Shells of Beef Untrimmed $1.68 lb.
Top Loin Shell Steaks Bone In 1.98 lb.
Boneless Stew Beef $1.28 lb.
Boneless Beef Round Cubed Steak $1.68 lb
Colonial Master Smoked Shoulders 88¢ lb.

Boneless Top Round Steak USDA CHOICE $1.68 lb.
Top Round for London Broil 1.78 lb.
Boneless Roast Top Round $1.48 lb.
Boneless Round Beef Kabobs $1.58 lb.
Extra Lean Fresh Ground Beef $1.28 lb.

Green Giant Golden Corn
Whole Kernel, Cream Style 3 17 oz. cans $1

More Grocery Values at Finast!
Red Cabbage Greenwood . . 3 16oz jars 1.00
Greenwood Beets with Onions . 3 16oz jars 1.00
Snows Clam Chowder . . 15oz can 68¢
Shasta Diet Soda. . . . . 7 12oz cans 1.00

BEER & WINE
Budweiser Beer case of 24 12 oz. cans case only $5.99
Falstaff Beer case of 24 12 oz cans . . . . case only 4.99
Francia Chianti and Vine Rose . magnum 2.49
Tosca Lambrusco . . . . . 24oz bot 1.79
Beer & Wine Items Available only in Finast of Hadley

PRODUCE
FIRST O' THE FRESH
"First of the Season" Fresh Florida Tangelos 100 count 18 for $1
Western Baking Potatoes 5 lb. bag 79¢
Long Green Fresh Cucumbers 8 for $1
Fresh 12 oz. pkg. Mushrooms 89¢ pkg.
Mushrooms Available Tuesday thru Saturday
Delicious Apples Washington State Red and Golden Extra Fancy 2¼" min. 39¢ lb.

BONUS BARGAINS
Ragu Spaghetti Sauce . 32oz jar 1.19
Libby's Beans Deep Brown . 4 14oz cans 1.00
Libby's Peaches Yellow Cling 2 29oz cans 1.00
Sweet Peas Green Giant . . . 3 17oz cans 1.00
Green Beans Green Giant Kitchen Sliced or French Style 3 16oz cans 1.00
Crisco Oil . . . . . . . . . . . . 24oz bot 99¢
Dinty Moore Beef Stew 40oz can 1.19
Hormel SPAM Luncheon Meat Great for Sandwiches 7 oz can 59¢
Heinz Tomato Ketchup 26oz bot 79¢
Chicory or Escarole . . . 3 lbs 1.00
Jones Sliced Bacon . . . 1 lb pkg 1.39
Finast Party Assortment 1 lb pkg 1.39
Nepco Bologna Thin Sliced . . 1 lb pkg 1.19
Nepco Salami Thin Sliced . . . 1 lb pkg 1.39
Colonial Sizzle Strips . . . pkg 1.19

FROZEN FOODS
Freezer Queen Char. Br. Beef Patties, Spagh. & Meatballs, Salis. Stk. w/Gravy, Turkey Croquettes 2 lb. pkg. 97¢
Pumpkin Pie Mrs. Smith's . . . . 26oz pkg 1.09
Hawaiian Punch Red . 3 6oz cans 1.00
Finast French Fries Crinkle Cut or Regular 4 9oz pkgs 89¢
Finast Lemonade . . . . 3 12oz cans 1.00
Tree Tavern Pizza . . . . 16oz pkg 1.19
Orange Juice Finast Frozen 3 6 oz. cans 95¢

MR. DELI
Roast Beef Cooked Under U.S. Gov't. Specification $1.89 lb.
Cooked Ham Domestic Freshly Sliced $1.99 lb.
Available Only in Stores with Service Deli Depts.

In-Store Bake Shop Features!
Fresh Italian Bread . . . . 4 7oz lvs 1.00
Assorted Turnovers . . . . . 4 for 89¢
Fresh Cake Donuts Plain Sugar Cinnamon . doz 69¢
Available Only in Stores with In-Store Bake Shops

Sunrise Fresh Dairy Values!
Low Fat gallon plastic jug Finast Milk $1.19
Grapefruit Juice Indian River . . . . ½ gal cont 89¢
Finast Ricotta Cheese Whole Milk 2 lb cont 1.69
Orange Juice ½ gal. cont. Richmond 89¢
American Cheese Finast Slices 16oz pkg 1.39
Brookside Apple Cider . . . ½ gal cont 89¢
Corn Oil Margarine Finast 2 1 lb. pkgs 99¢

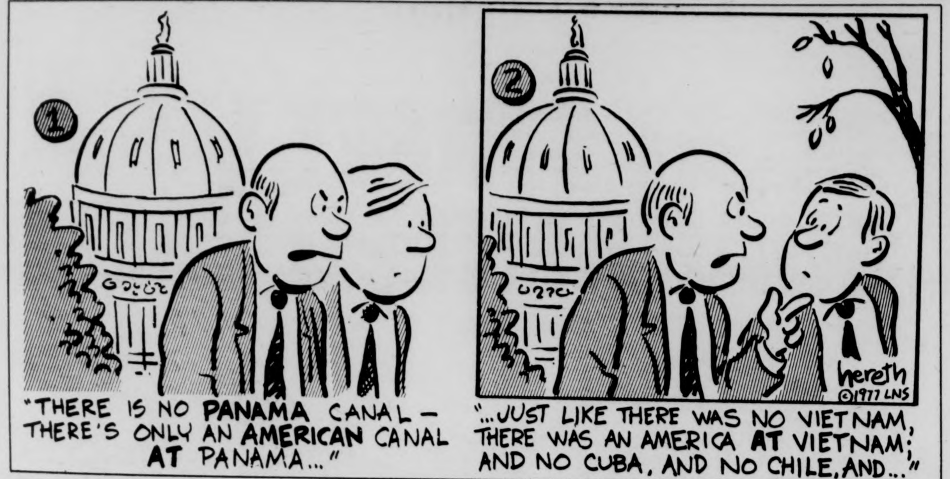
You Save 38¢
Pillsbury Plus Cake Mixes 2 18½ oz. pkgs. $1
FN Finast with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products. Good Oct. 23-29, 1977. Limit one coupon. H 688

You Save 41¢
Finast Butter Quarters 1 lb. pkg. 88¢
FN Finast with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products. Good Oct. 23-29, 1977. Limit one coupon. H 689

25¢ OFF
1 any size Chunk or Stick Finast Muenster Cheese
FN Finast with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products. Good Oct. 23-29, 1977. Limit one coupon. H [illegible]

Extra Bonus
Finast Fresh Large Eggs White or Brown 39¢ doz.
FN Finast with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products. Good Oct. 23-29, 1977. Limit one coupon. H-[illegible]

Prices effective Sunday October 23 thru Saturday October 29, 1977
We reserve the right to limit quantities
Not responsible for typographical errors



①
"THERE IS NO PANAMA CANAL – THERE'S ONLY AN AMERICAN CANAL AT PANAMA..."
②
"...JUST LIKE THERE WAS NO VIETNAM, THERE WAS AN AMERICA AT VIETNAM; AND NO CUBA, AND NO CHILE, AND..."
hereth ©1977 LNS

Toward a real human consciousness

lisa melilli

"... in politics, one must get to the real in order to come closer to the ideal."
(Rita Mae Brown, IN HER DAY)

The American ideal has been living a life of deception. And what's worse is that this deception has led to a grossly unfair economic system which is slowly eroding those other ideals of liberty and equality upon which this country was founded.

The American ideal I am speaking of is individualism — the assumption that there exist two selves: the public and private. This ideal assumes that the private is the more important. But this American tradition is fooling itself, for in actuality there does not exist a private self, but only a public self. We are totally ruled by our society's ideology. We are totally products of a socialization process. We are not until our society defines ourselves and our world for us through an ideology.

The most pertinent example of this is language. We can only express ourselves through the already established language forms taught to us — words. We cannot express new ideas if the words aren't there. And by the same token we cannot think up new ideas if the words aren't there, for words also inhabit and rule our minds. Daniel Berrigan expressed this concept in saying: "I am in danger of verbalizing my moral impulses out of existence."

Our culture has painted the sky blue for us: has labeled the sky blue for us so we see the sky blue and only blue. We see the world as our ideology depicts it for us. And this extends to our clothing, our mannerisms, our personalities. We are not actually free. The only free-will we exercise is in choosing which already established sub-order of thought in society we will belong to. And this choice has already largely been made for us by the perspectives and morals we were taught by our parents and teachers. It's all still part of our socialization process.

So we see the American ideal of individualism as a gross misconception of the human psyche. But what is worse is to think of the consequences.

In a historical perspective, the ideal of individualism grew out of the experiences the early settlers of our country experienced in Europe. They escaped to the new world so that they might have freedom of choice. The ideal of placing the individual above any other order in society was fine in the early agraian setting — however, in industrialization this embrace of individualism has turned into a disaster — better known as capitalism.

What happened is that in the capitalist system an open market was assuemed where individuals can come and compete for capital and profit. This results in, as the Darwinian principle tell us, survival only for the fittest. Individuals are run by individual motivations, selfish desires for power. And the powerful often exploit those beneath them for still further economic gain.

In the sphere of production, capitalism results in alienation experienced by the worker, for his work is not an end in itself, but defines who he is and is a means to capital. The worker is alienated from the product since it is no longer an art or trade, but a mere job for money. He is alienated from other workers, from a sense of humanity because he is competing with those other workers. Clearly, this system is eroding our ideals of liberty and equality.

But this system is built upon a deceptive notion. By replacing this notion with a true one we can reach a better system. As Rita Mae Brown says, by coming to terms with the reality of people, of a system, of our consciousness, we can and will reach a more ideal system of living. And I believe that the "real" notion of our consciousness is best fit and realized in the political and economic system of socialism.

Socialism assumes only the public self and at the same time satisfies the individual's need to reach full creative potential. This is achieved by not having an economic system in which everyone is competing but rather in which everyone has a vested interest; equal interest in industry. Production is seen as an end in itself and not as a means for capital or individual gain. The creative potential can be realized because it is not inhibited by ruthless competition.

But socialism is not the total answer — nothing is — but it is closer than what we have now. And it is closer because it presupposes the reality of the human psyche, not the deception of individualism.

Lisa Melilli's column appears every Monday in the Collegian.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Joseph A. Quinlan, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Richard J. Pioli, Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Fifine D. Ball, Women's Coordinator.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Another sort of power

By PETER COX

There has been much debate in the Student Senate and around campus in general and space on the editorial pages of this paper devoted to the subject of student unionization. I have my own personal feelings on unionization which I chose to withhold for now and perhaps treat later. But I think it's important to consider another sort of power along side what unionization offers. That power is individual power. It is the ability to question, to act, to make or attempt to make change. Reject please the notion of power groups, elites and the "system" that seem omnipotent. To be sure they possess awesome power, but it is an amalgamation of individuals who combine their efforts and talents to get things done. Singularly they make the system, just as singularly one can change the system. There is no aristocracy of power or ability to act — we all possess it.

To cite an example of this, recently there was some consternation among a few students in the Economics Department over several issues; absence of career counseling, lack of direction in the department and evaluation of courses and professors, etc. The students, organized in the Undergraduate Economic Council (which was established in the spring of '76) decided to press the Economics Department with its demands. One serious grievance a student raised was the lack of tutoring program in the Economics Department. He was told by the head of the department that there were no funds at his disposal. Despite the bureaucracy he encountered he continued talking with the council, getting help from S.C.E.R., questioning people down at the Provost's Office, and finally speaking personally with Dean Wilkinson. The Dean had funds at his disposal and agreed to release a certain amount needed for a tutoring program.

What had he done — was it so remarkable? I don't think so. Sure he got help and found support from S.C.E.R. and the Undergraduate Economics Counsel (U.E.C.), but on the whole he worked by himself and still got things done, made a change. This is not to discount the value, indeed the necessity of group effort; that would be an absurdity. Many of the other changes the U.E.C. wish to make must be a group effort with the active participation and support of all economics students and majors. But let's not lose sight first of our own individual power and ability to act, rather than forsake that notion for reliance on the group or elite. Nothing ever is accomplished without each person making his or her contribution, their voice heard, their actions count. The idea of the system or the "Establishment" having a power of its own apart from the individual is a fallacy, a myth.

So whatever our opinions are on student unionization, or for that matter any political debate, I hope we do not neglect our own responsibilities. If something bothers you, find help, look for support, try to change things with others if possible, by yourself if not. It is not easy; nothing worthwhile ever is. But at the same time you forfeit your right to complain, your claim is invalidated, if you yourself are not willing to help change the things you hold grievances against. You've heard these lines before (I know I have), and they're not just worn out cliches, they are real. Worn out cliches are for worn out people whose apathy and own discontent need to be nourished by a regular dose of criticism, reflecting their own dissatisfying lives. For those of us who have not become cynical junkies, acting and making a commitment are one of the few things in this world that really count. The individual is enough.

Peter Cox is a Collegian Commentator.

Songs of glory

paul yanowitch

"I'm feeling food about America, I'm feeling good about me." for those few who don't recognize this patriotic little ditty, it was the cornerstone theme from Gerald Ford's presidential campaign. It was accompanied by myriad scenes of Marines in dress parade, World War II scenes, (G.I. Joe fighting the Nazi's and the yellow scourge), the flag raising at Iwo Jima, apple pie and similar towdry americanisms. It was designed to evoke from within your hidden soul the patriotic strains that would doubtless control your emotions and actions in the voting booth. Just goes to show how many patriots there are in Massachusetts.

I use this example to demonstrate a point that is made palpable upon simple reflection; every movement in this country, regardless of its size, is accompanied by a theme song. Some are simple one liners, others are full length works, but all are designed to raise your ebullient spirits and leave you invigorated and-or very happy. Some persons have been so bold as to suggest that one may effectively study the social history of America by examining its songs and commercials!

...every movement in this country, regardless of its size, is accompanied by a theme song. Some are simple one-liners, others are full length works, but all are designed to raise your ebullient spirits...

But if songs are that important, or at least prevalent in any cause, why is our Student Union without one? Should we not have a series of songs so that we may raise our voices in unison as we march on Whitmore? Imagine, if you never saw Cabaret, the following scene:

You are sitting at a small hotel in the middle of a valley surrounded by rolling green hills; the hotel is in the midst of a seemingly endless meadow, with tall green wispy strains of grass bending greatly in the morning wind; the redolent fragrances from the far off hills waft along the breeze like a sweet song, and as the blazing sun grows in strength, and casts its golden rays earthward with delicate strength and glory, you are moved by forces from within that cannot be controlled; you are swept away by your patriotism and your spirit. You grab a chair and climb on to a table and begin to emotionally sing: (p.s. look for anyone that isn't singing along — we will take their names down, and they will be the first to go — after all, we are looking to build a pure race of unionized students):

Look for the Union Label (tune is that of the song with the same name used by the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union)

Look for, the Union label,
When you are choosing your dorm, course, or friends.
You know that somewhere a unions crowing,
Your monies going, to pay our bills and feed our friends.
They make us work hard, so we're complaining,
But through the Union, you're paying our way,
so look for, the Union label,
It means we're able, to make it for another day.

Let's All Go Find a Union (tune: Take Me Out To the Ballgame)

Lets all go find the Union, [illegible],
Lets all get organized
Pay me some money and I'll see the light,
Tell me your cause and I'll swear that you're right.
For its hipe, hipe, hipe for the Union,
Without it what could we do?
For its been 1, 2, 3 years and more and they still want you!

That's Why the Union is Our God (tune: That is Why the Lady is a Tramp).

We hold communions, Friday's at five,
We turn out pamphlets, we turn out jive,
When we come to your dorm, we hope you're still alive,
That is why the Union is our God.
We've got consultants, faculty, lawyers and more,
Our payroll rivals, the Washington bureaucratic corp
Watch us unionize, on the Student Senate floor,
That is why the Union is our God.
We love the cool, crisp, crackly sound of bucks in our hand, 200 grand,
You're broke, but thats OK.
Some day we'll hold rallies, around Whitmore Hall,
But we're busy with meetings, we'll see you one day if at all,
But we'll have a union, some far off Spring, some distand Fall,
And that is why the Union is our God.

Now, don't you feel better? Don't stop, though — make up some of your own. In fact, I'll start a competition. Submit your Union songs to me, via the Collegian, and I'll print the best ones in a few week's time. Try and make them good, though; we can't build a strong Union without strong Union songs!

Paul Yanowitch is former Student Attorney General. His Column appears every Monday in the Collegian.

'Ten Commandments' column offensive

To the Editor:

We strongly object to Paul Yanowitch's column of October 17 entitled "The Ten Commandments Updated." We believe that such a satire would never have been tolerated in the Collegian had it mocked women or people of the Third World rather than God and his believers. In fact, your apology for a racially offensive article appears next to the column which offends us as Christians.

We are not addressing the points that Mr. Yanowitch is trying to make; rather we are expressing our offense with his denigration of the Lord, the Bible, and the believers.

We suggest that you reexamine your editorial policy which allow you to publish such an article, and request that you print an apology addressed to the Christians in Amherst.

Douglas Owen
Fred Volkman
Daniel Partner

Veteran's bill deserves support

To the Editor:

Very often in the course of academic life there is a desire to participate in an activity we can directly relate to; something that will ultimately lead to the sucessful completion of a desired goal. I, as one of over 2000 veterans attending UMass, wish to give you the opportunity to get involved. As you may or may not know, Senate Bill S.457, sponsored by John Durken [D], New Hampshire and amended by Alan Cranston [D], California, was passed out of the committee and will be coming up for vote on the floor. Its formal name is G.I. Bill Improvement Act of 1977, it will be reviewed sometime in mid-November and it concerns each and every veteran, war orphan, and dependant of disabled or decreased veteran in the United States. This letter is an appeal to those concerned to take on active part in supporting the passage of the legislation. In the following lines I will briefly highlight three of the major issues of S.457:

1. Extension of the Delimiting Period. Under the current law a veteran is allowed ten years from date of discharge to attend a school of higher education under the G.I. Bill. In terms of section 203, an eligible veteran who is enrolled as a full-time student in an approved program of education at the time his or her delimiting date passes will be entitled under certain circumstances to continue using his or her entitlement. Since the eligible veteran is now receiving 45 months of educational benefits, an extension of the delimiting date would provide for payment of partial educational assistance for up to two additional years. This would enable fulltime students to complete their program of study.

2. Accelerated Educational Assistance Payments. This program would make it possible for more veterans to receive a greater portion of their monthly G.I. Bill assistance when attending a high cost program of education. Currently, the veteran attending a $6000 per year institution is receiving the same monthly allotment as the vet attending a $600 per year community college. Obviously, their needs are different and passage of this section would enable the former vet attending the higher costing school to receive a larger monthly portion of his or her entitlements.

3. Provide for a 6.6 per cent cost of living increase. As a lifetime resident of Massachusetts I feel justification of this is self-explanatory.

The impending legislation will have a tremendous impact on the lives of thousands of veterans nationwide, including those currently receiving benefits and the countless veterans who were cut off by the legislation of May 31, 1976. I strongly urge those concerned to write letters supporting S.457, which will ultimately effect veterans' welfare and veterans' programs.

In the interest of gathering this much needed support, the Veterans Service Organization, an R.S.O. group located in Room 411 of the S.U.B., will assist in providing the following services. On October 25 and 26, tables will be set up in the concourse area of the C.C. and will be staffed by V.S.O. members. For those interested, the organization will provide: 1. brief format of the type of letter desired, 2. envelopes and addresses of concerned politicians, 3. a copy of Senate Bill S. 457 in its entirety, and 4. any related info. not covered by the scope of the letter. In addition, those interested will have an opportunity to find out what the V.S.O. is all about and what kinds of services it can provide for you.

We want your support and offer a golden opportunity to voice your opinion. Exercise your right to control the legislation we are governed by. For the price of a postage stamp and two or three written lines of support you will help obtain those benefits you so rightly deserve. Somewhere along the line concerned people have seen fit to care for the veterans and their needs. Let's show our support by taking a moment to get involved.

Robert Nelson, Advisor
Veterans Service Organization

In support of Bakke

To the Editor:

What's all the commotion over the Bakke case? I thought minorities wanted equal rights. I thought equal opportunity was the law. Why then does a qualified applicant get turned down at U Cal Davis because of his race?

The real sadness of all this is that those who are against Bakke are unthinkingly giving minorities another cross to bear. If Bakke is overturned and the quota system upheld, those minorities who, regardless of ability or how they were treated in their college admission process, will be looked at with contempt by their colleagues in any profession they enter. People will say, "Oh well, they gave it to them," "He got in because he was black" [Puerto Rican, Asian, etc.]. What proud man or woman belonging to these ethnic minorities wants that stigma? You can say it's not right and shouldn't be but it's as much a part of human nature as breathing.

Bakke applied for medical school. His grades were higher than others, but because he was not a member of an ethnic minority [as described by the U.S. government] he was rejected to make room for others who were minorities but less qualified. LESS QUALIFIED FOR MEDICAL SCHOOL! Not everyone's calling is for the medical profession or for that matter any other profession or occupation. We are all different in ability, intelligence, taste, and personal preference as well as race, religion, and ethnic background.

True, many different ethnic groups have suffered oppression for centuries but I maintain that I had nothing to do with the prejudices of my forefathers [I'm only 24] and cannot, no matter how much I might wish it, change what has happened in the past. All we can do is learn from the mistakes of history and try to progress and not repeat those mistakes.

It's not easy to view the past without feeling bitterness towards those who oppressed one's parents, grandparents, and so forth, but if hatred and racism are to be wiped out we must first rid ourselves of the bitterness that fosters such attitudes. The way to fight bitterness is not with ridiculous quota systems. The very existence of such quota systems implies that minorities are unequal to the white race. This is pretty stupid. Race and ethnic background have no bearing on a person's intelligence and abilities. Overturning Bakke won't help bring an end to the bitterness of race hatred. It will only help foster such feelings.

So let's progress, fairly and equally for the betterment of everyone, without this stupid bitterness and race hatred. UPHOLD BAKKE.

Richard F. Stanton

Humanistic Psyche seminar closed

To the Editor:

During this past weekend, the Association for Humanistic Psychology — Eastern Region — held a professional seminar. For two days, they developed around twenty workshops here at UMass.

I will not say whether the conference was a success or a failure. I sure wish it was a good activity. But, I would like to raise a strong protest concerning the way in which such conferences are managed on our campus.

Sunday afternoon, I went to the information desk to see whether there was any opportunity of sitting in on two of the workshops. The lady who was in charge of information was a perfect model of a dehumanized worker. I have to criticize myself for not being patient with people who might be tired at a given moment.

I asked if I could sit in on two workshops which were going to be given by professionals on the subject of Gestalt therapy. I happen to be writing on Gestalt. First, I was told that both workshops were closed, and second, that they had to charge me a $63.00 registration fee. One of the "closed" workshops already had 64 persons registered. it sounds funny that it closed at 64 and not one person could be added. Sixty-five was too much, apparently.

It is a disgrace that the campus facilities be used for activities that are economically prohibitive for poor students. There should be a policy whereby any professional activity taking place in student-paid facilities be offered to said students either at half the regular price or at no cost.

On top of that, if this is the way the bureaucratic affairs of the Association for Humanistic Psychology are carried out, and should they reflect the real internal content of the philosophy of Humanistic Psychology, then we are just being taken for a ride.

If things are the way I experienced them last Sunday afternoon in the AHP professional seminar, then we are facing a psychological rip-off. I know that the people in the information desk have their own version. Please, bring it out. I also think that the professionals involved in the seminar as well as the people who attended the workshops have all the good intentions in the world, and I am sorry if this criticism hurt anyone. But, I am wondering where the leaves were turning to.

Miguel Rivera

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Excutive Editor, c-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. the day preceding that date.

What's Happening

TODAY

MOVIE

"Rachel," no charge, Thompson 104, 8 p.m.

PLAYS

"Tom Jones" by the Roister Doister production, tickets on sale in Bowker Aud. Box Office, Stockbridge Hall. $2. students 2.50 adults.

WORKSHOPS

Learn to live with stress, more effectively. University Health Services is sponsoring a two-session workshop, October 24 and 31, 7-8:30 p.m. Contact 549-2671 for preregistration and details.

TOMORROW

CONCERT

The Five-College Chamber Soloists will rehearse for their first concert, 8 p.m. 10-25, in the Buckley Recital Hall, Amherst College. Open to the public without charge.

LUNCHEON AND DINNER

Put on by HRTA Students advanced Food Prep Lab Class. Open to the public Mon, Tues, Wed, and Thurs at 4:30 p.m. and Tuesday at 12 noon. Tickets must be brought in advance, Top round of beef only $1.75. Chenoweth 219.

MOVIE

"Rebellion in Patagonia" 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. Student Union Building, free.

SPEAKER

Gregory Banks on the Bakke Decision and the Attacks on Affirmative Action, 8 p.m. Mahar Aud.

TOMORROW

WORKSHOP

The video workshop sponsored by Jones Library continues today. Contact center for further details. Amherst Youth Center.

DAILY

WALK FOR MANKIND

Oct. 29 with registration between 8 and 10 a.m. at Amherst Regional High School. 20-mile walk will begin and end at Amherst High. It is a fundraising effort for Project Concern, a non-profit organization, which operates free medical clinics all over the world.

Notices

ACCOUNTING ASSOCIATION AND BAP

Members will visit Ernst & Ernst in Hartford, Conn. Check bulletin board in SBA for further info.

BOWLING CLUB

Meeting, men and women, Boyden Lanes 7 p.m. Tuesday. All members should attend, any problems call Beth, 546-1427.

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

Meeting 7:30 p.m. Campus Center 911-915. Come and fellowship with us in His presence.

COALITION FOR ALTERNATIVE AGRICULTURE AND SELF SUFFICIENCY

Meeting Tuesday 7 p.m. SCER Office, 406 Student Union.

FREE

Puppy, German Shepherd, 7 weeks. Call 546-5947, Kathy.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA

Meeting 7 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. Campus Center 169. Pizza party after meetings.

HILLEL

General membership meeting 7 p.m. Campus Center 917. Everyone is welcome.

OUTING CLUB

Meeting 7 p.m. Campus Center Complex 101.

RESOURCES JUDAICA

Meeting 7:30 p.m. Campus Center 172. All welcome to attend.

SIGMA DELTA TAU

Hawaiian nite tonite 7-7:45 p.m. All university women are welcome.

SOCIETY OF WOMEN ENGINEERS

Meeting, Dean Miller will speak tonight about programs and graduate schools, 7 p.m. EBE 102.

SPORTING GOODS CO-OP

Meeting Tuesday 7:30 p.m. Campus Center 168, (lower level) All welcome.

STOCKBRIDGE BASKETBALL

Any Stockbridge student interested in trying out for the team must attend meeting at Curry Hicks, Cage 7 p.m. Tuesday.

STREET HOCKEY, WOMEN

Any woman interested in playing, call Pam 546-6162 or Beth, 546-6150.

STUDENT AFFAIRS

Title IX Report ready and may be viewed at the library. The Everywoman's Center and the Chancellor's office or Student Affairs Room 345 Whitmore.

WSYL—FM

Be sure to listen to "An Extremely Funny Show," tonight 7-10 p.m. Call us at 545-0191.

NATIONAL STUDENT EXCHANGE PROGRAM

Meeting Tuesday 9-10 a.m. Campus Center 903 for anyone interested in applying to the program.

UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL

Meeting for anyone interested in working the Woody Shaw Concert Ensemble, today, 6 p.m., Student Union 415A. Don't forget to pick up Widespread Depression posters.

DC Menu

TODAY

LUNCH — Hot Roast Beef Sandwich, Link Sausage-Apple Pancakes, Basics; Mixed Beans Au Gratin, Hi Pro Spaghetti DINNER — Meatloaf Italiano, Baked Ham-Raisin Sauce, Fruit Salad Plate, Basics; Baked Fish, Carrot Loaf.

TOMORROW

LUNCH — Junior Club Sandwich, California Quiche, Basics; Vegetable Baked Beans-Brown Bread, California Quiche.

DINNER — Chinese Dinner-Egg Rolls, Stuffed Shells, Basics; spinach Wheat Croquettes, Seafood Newburg-Toast.

Stockbridge freshmen plan work weekend

The Stockbridge Freshman Class will hold a work weekend Oct. 28-30 to raise money for class functions.

These work crews, students enrolled in horticulture, floriculture and agriculture programs, will be avaiable for yard work--mainly leaf raking and hauling. They will also advise on landscape design and maintenance, and lawn care.

A $3 per hour per person fee will be charged, and the service is open to all area residents and University faculty. Persons interested in the service should call the Stockbridge Senate Office, 545-2186, by Oct. 27.

Paloton

PRE-SEASON XC SKI AND ACCESSORIES SALE
OCT. 24-NOV. 12

| PACKAGES | SKIS ONLY | PACKAGE SUGG. RETAIL | PACKAGE SALE |
|---|---|---|---|
| SPORT TOURER Joffa Sport SkisSilva Tourer Boots, Tonkin Cane Poles, Dovre Pin BindingMounting and Base Prep | $45.00 | $97.95 | $65.95FREE |
| SILVA JOGGER IV: Jogger Waxless SkisSilva Boot, Tonkin Cane Poles, Dovre Pin BindingMounting and Base Prep | 49.00 | 101.95 | 79.95FREE |
| WEEKENDER: Bonna 1700 (Ligna Edged)Haugen Boots, Tonkin Cane Poles, Dovre Pin Bindings (Northampton Store Only)Mounting and Base Prep | 65.00 | 117.45 | 89.95FREE |
| COUNTRY RUNNER:Choice of Fischer Europa or Bonna 2200 Fiberglass Skis, Exel Fiberglass Poles, Dovre Canadian Boots, Dovre Pin BindingHot Wax (Base Prep) and Mounting | 75.00 | 137.95 | 101.75FREE |

All our package prices include base preparation. This process adds durability, performance and better wax adhesion to every ski running surface whether synthetic or wood.
Peloton feels that our customers are entitled to total ski preparation, so we include this service at no extra cost.

ACCESSORIES:

| | Reg. | Sale |
|---|---|---|
| Cannondale Hollofill Vests | $26.95 | $19.95 |
| Sun Buster Polar Guard 60-40 Vests | 38.50 | 36.95 |
| Snow Shoes (Arvidsjaur) | 34.00 | 26.95 |
| North Country XC Ski Suits | 40.00 | 19.95 |
| Tiger & Lotto Running Suits | | 50% Off |

| | Reg. | Sale |
|---|---|---|
| Winning Ways Warm Up Suits | | 20% Off |
| Sunbuster Alpine Jackets | 64.00 | 58.00 |
| Mountain works Daypack | 12.95 | 10.95 |
| Wigwam Socks | | 20% Off |
| Exel Popular Fiberglass Ski Poles | 13.95 | 10.95 |

SPECIALS ON LAST YEAR'S EQUIPMENT AND RENTALS

15 State St., Northampton
584-1016

1 E. Pleasant St. Amherst
549-6904

UNITED TRANSMISSION
EXCHANGE INC.

all make car and truck
transmissions

Repaired Rebuilt Exchanged

236 Pleasant St.
Northampton, Mass.
584-6790

POSITION OPEN

- Applications are being accepted for salaried position of Student Government Association Director of Communications.
- The director is responsible for keeping students aware of SGA activities and aiding the exchange of information within the SGA.
- Duties include the production of advertising, brochures, flyers, and booklets as well as issueing press releases and administering a staff of three persons working in the Office of Communications.
- Experience in any field of communications is desirabe. Pick up applications in Rm.420 Student Union. The SGA is an affirmative action equal opportunity employer.

Student Government Association

THINKING ABOUT GETTING ENGAGED?

WITH DIAMOND PRICES LIKE THIS,

WHAT ARE YOU WAITING FOR?

½ CT. DIAMOND IN 14K GOLD MOUNTING

REG. $495 ....... SALE $295

Upstairs at

albert kershon co.
Nationally Known Diamond Remount Specialists
ESTABLISHED 1935
1562 MAIN STREET - 2nd Floor
SPRINGFIELD, MASS 01103
VISA & MASTERCHARGE ACCEPTED

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER

"GREASE" IS BACK!

"The dancingest show in town" Daily News

Grease

Friday,
October 28
8 pm

FINE ARTS CENTER
CONCERT HALL

Tickets now on sale. General Public-$7, 6, 5. UMass students and senior citizens-$6, 5, 4.

Fine Arts Center
Box Office M-F 9-4 & All
Ticketron Locations

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS

THE NATIONAL TOUR OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST MUSICAL

TOM MALLOW
EDWARD MULHARE
ANNE ROGERS
LERNER & LOEWE'S
My Fair Lady
ALAN JAY LERNER
FREDERICK LOEWE
OLIVER SMITH
CECIL BEATON
KEN BILLINGTON
AL FIORILLO
ROBERT RUSSEL BENNETT and PHIL LANG
TRUDE RITTMAN
CRANDALL DIEHL
JERRY ADLER

Thursday, November 3
3:30 pm and 8:00 pm

FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

Tickets now on sale for both performances. General public-$7.50, 6.50, 5.50. UMass students-$3.75, 3.25, 2.75. Other students and senior citizens $6.50, 5.50, 4.50.

Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY MASS

Adults $2.50 – Students with AMC Card $2.00 – Children $1.25 – Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded

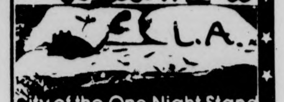
SORCERER
Four outlaws... risk the only thing they have left to lose
Starring ROY SCHEIDER
PG
1 Today at 6:00, 8:30
Twi-lite tickets 5:30/1.00

A long time ago in a galaxy far far away

STAR WARS
MARK HAMILL HARRISON FORD
ALEC GUINNESS CARRIE FISHER
PG
2 Today at 6:00, 8:30
Twi-lite tickets 5:30/1.00

JAMES BOND 007 in "THE SPY WHO LOVED ME"
PG
3 Today at 6:00, 8:30
Twi-lite tickets 5:30/1.00

Welcome to



L.A.
City of the One Night Stand
R
4 Today at 6:15, 8:30
Twi-lite tickets 5:45/1.00

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS

LAZAR
BERMAN

Legendary Soviet
Pianist

"The Phenomenon of the Music World", Emil Gilels

Wednesday, October 26 8 pm

FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

Tickets now on sale Gen. Pub.-$7, 6, 5. UM-A-$3.50, 3, 2.50. Others students and senior citizens-$6, 5, 4.

Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426

"Zany, lively, uninhibited sexual odyssey." —N.Y. TIMES

'Dirty Duck' is a free- association trip.' —Tom Allen, VILLAGE VOICE

DIRTY DUCK
ANIMATED & X-RATED

EVES 7:15 & 9:00
SAT & SUN MAT 5:30
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

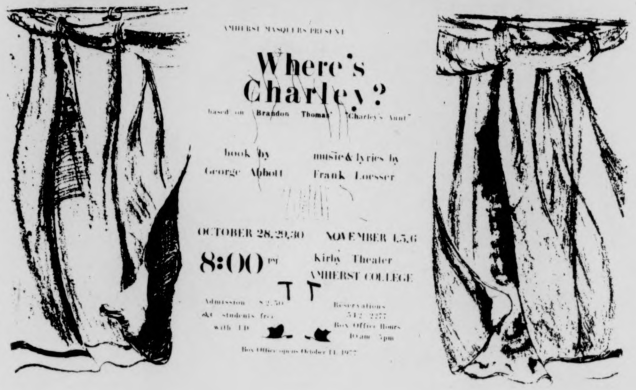
CALVIN
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON

ONE WEEK ONLY

"IF YOU DON'T STOP IT YOU'LL GO BLIND"

RATED R

EVES: 7:15 & 9:00
SAT & SUN MAT 1:30
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00



AMHERST MASQUERS PRESENT

Where's Charley?

based on Brandon Thomas' "Charley's Aunt" book by George Abbott music & lyrics by Frank Loesser

OCTOBER 28,29,30 NOVEMBER 4,5,6
8:00 pm
Kirby Theater
AMHERST COLLEGE

Admission $2.50
AC students free with ID

Reservations 542-2277
Box Office Hours 10 am-5pm

Box Office opens October 11, 1977

roister doisters' drama society presents

TOM JONES
based on the Fielding novel

Bowker Aud., Stockbridge Hall, UMass

Show dates
Oct. 28,29,30 Nov. 4,5,6
Prices
$2.00 stu./senior citizens
$2.50 general
Group rates available

Tickets available at Bowker Box Office
545-0783

for information 549-3905

UMASS
Union Program Council in association with WMUA
Presents

The Woody Shaw
concert ensemble

Friday October 28th 8 pm admission $2
at the Student Union Ballroom

Tickets:
Tix, Sun Music, Backroom Records
and The Sound Room in Northampton

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

We Buy Cars for cash 253-5384 323-5010

68 Galaxy 500 Ford. $700. 527-5746.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

1971 Pinto. New exhaust system, good tires, needs some engine work. Call 546-7945 evenings. Price negotiable.

Fiat 128 priced for quick sale. $1,250. or Best Offer. Call 323-7384 evenings.

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

SUPER BIKE '74 KAW. Z-1 900cc. In very good condition. Kerker pipe, Denselube chain. OFFERS? 665-3031.

FOR SALE

Fender Bass-Music Master. Excel. cond., also Arthur E. Smith Maple Leaf 5-string Banjo. Excel. Cond. Best offer on both. Call Brian at 549-3796.

SAVE up to 50% on TENNIS SHOES! Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18. 30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181

1 mth old FM stereo- fits in dash of most foreign cars. B.O. 546-5001.

2 Continental stud-snow radials 175-14 $160., 4 Fireston radials 155-13 $80.. 64580 ask Bill, evenings.

Ollie is a 7 month old Gordon Setter. He is completely housebroken and excellent with children. If interested call 549-6739.

Stereo 8track AM-FM, Best Offer! Green Suede Coat size 9. Margie 584-9468.

Gold Couch & Chair. Exc. cond. $150. 734-8464 after 5PM Spfld.

FOR RENT

2 Bedrm. Apt. avail. imed. On bus line. Allows pets. 549-0839. 1 mile off campus.

Lg. Rm. avble. imm. Echo Hill Apt. $110/mo. Inc.:patio, w/w carpet, etc. 253-5288.

TO SUBLET

To sublet 2br. on bus route for sping semester and summer. Call 665-3536.

HELP WANTED

Vets-with Military Police experience-part time day work on weekends. Al Lasota 256-6381 eve.

OVERSEAS JOBS- Summer/Year-round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500.-$1,200. monthly. Expenses paid, sightseeing. Free inform.-Write: International Job Center, Dept. MC, Box 4490, Berkeley, CA 94704.

Experienced Waitresses. Apply Poor Richards 11 to 1p.m. daily.

Ambitious person needed as campus representative for quality line of blank cassettes. Attractive Commission! Write: Marmac, 424 Rowayton Ave., Norwalk, Ct. 06854.

Woman 21+ w/car to stay wkends and holidays at home for 4 adol. girls. $20/day. Send resume to Sojourn, 142 Main St., Northampton 01060 by October 28.

ROOM WANTED

Quiet undergraduate male seeks room in quiet house to hang his hat and study for spring semester, possibly January and for next two years, including summers. Willing to pay for own bath and kitchen, or easy access to them. Will live anywhere in area. Please call 545-3503 Mon. nites and ask for Joe or leave message for rm. 209 - 50724.

LOST

T.I.SR-40 Calculator. Somewhere in or between Goes. 152 and Bluewall on Sept. 28 after 8p.m. Desperately need it for doing my assignments! Please return - Reward and No Questions asked. 256-6059.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low price & full service. All models avail. T159-$225., 58-$99.95, 51-$49.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. Models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators. 549-1316.

ENTERTAINMENT

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco. Monitor Music, 546-4731, Rea.

SERVICES

For A Good Layer Cake: Custom made & beautifully decorated birthday etc. Cakes on 2 days notice. Right on campus, (not associated with Campus Ed Service). Laurie 546-9576.

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models, low prices. Jack 586-0610.

Horses Boarded in exchange for use by responsible UMass student 863-2680.

Expert Typing, only 40cents/page. Call after 6, Mon.-Thurs., 256-8484.

Collegiate research papers. Thousands on file. All academic subjects. Send $1. for mail order catalog. Box25918-2, Los Angeles, Calif. 90025 (213) 477-8474.

BIRTHDAY CAKES!! All occasion cakes beautifully decorated to order on 2 days notice. Delivery available. Call Laurie 546-9576.

TRAVEL

Guatamala in January? Manan Ruins jungle river trip, climb semi-active volcanos. Slide show at Hampshire Mon., Nov. 7, 7:30 Prescott House B1 Lounge, limited space 15, Dec. 29-Jan.19, $950.,includes airfare round trip to Guatamala, accomodations, food, travel expenses, guides throughout trip. For details call Holly Wheeler, Amherst 256-0219 evenings.

PERSONALS

Buffalo Head..Happy Birthday Baby.
Love Retread.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

SCHMARTS vs. BRAINS

LITTLE KNOWN EROGENOUS ZONES
101 IMPOSSIBLE MATH PROBLEMS

Make use of your useless knowledge in the Schmidt's Trivia Contest.

There are two kinds of intelligence. There's the kind that will make you famous, respected and a model to little children everywhere.

And there's Schmarts.

Well, the humanitarians at Schmidt's think your fun facts should do you some good, too. Ergo, the Contest.

Here's your chance to impress your friends, have more fun than you should on a week night, and maybe even win prizes.

So get ready for The Big One. You'll find all the details at your local pub, saloon or watering hole.

There's no purchase necessary.
Just skill.

Schmidt's
The beer that might make Philadelphia famous.

C SCHMIDT & SONS, INC PHILA PA

---

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

HEY, ZONK, YOU KNOW RICHARD HENDRIE?
THE DUDE WHO LIVES IN McCLATCHEY HALL?
RIGHT, HIM. HE'S GOING ON A TWO WEEK FIELD TRIP, AND HE WANTS US TO ROOM SIT. SEEMS THERE'S BEEN A RASH OF THEFTS IN HIS DORM..
THINK I'LL PASS. BUT PLEASE THANK HIM.
HEY, C'MON, ZONK, IT MIGHT BE FUN!
MIKE, WE'VE BEEN LIVING OFF CAMPUS FOR TOO LONG! I WOULDN'T KNOW HOW TO BEHAVE IN A DORMITORY!
I'LL SHOW YOU! IT'S EASY! REALLY!
NO, I'D JUST EMBARRASS MYSELF..
10-24
GBTrudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

WANNA SMELL MY FLOWER?
HA! THAT'S THE OLDEST TRICK IN THE BOOK TRICK?
SORRY
SNIF
10-24
hart

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

HEY, STUPID CAT! YOU MISSED MY BIRTHDAY AGAIN!
I KNOW HOW MUCH YOU LIKE ME..I THOUGHT MAYBE YOU'D GIVE ME A CAKE WITH SOME CANDLES ON IT...
SLASH
HOW NICE!
© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
10-24
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

You see, Wally, Mark's beard has something yours needs.
brrr
What's that?
Whiskers.
Ranney 10/24

WHAT NEXT? by Dick Janssen

SOUTHWEST CARNIVAL FUN DEPT.
WOW!! LOOK... YOU CAN SEE EVERYTHING FROM UP HERE.....
YEAH... I CAN STILL THE GUY RUNNING-OFF WITH MY WALLET!!... IT FELL OUT THE LAST TIME AROUND!!..
10/24

UM by Marty Maceda

WELL, THIS IS THE PLACE!
MACEDA 10-24
THE WIZIDS PLACE
MEANWHILE A BLACK SEDAN PULLS UP ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE CASTLE
NICE WORK KID!

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

WHERE'S YOUR HOUSE, GERALD?
WELL... ER...
LAFLER 10/24
ACTUALLY, I WAS THINKING WE COULD GET A HOTEL ROOM...
OF ALL THE NERVE! YOU MUST THINK I'M SOME KIND OF TRAMP!
BOOM!
HOURS LATER, GERALD COMES TO ...
WHERE AM I?

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

MONDAY, OCTOBER 24: Born today, you are a crowd-lover and pleaser who finds it very hard to be productive or happy when isolated. What you need is work that brings you into close communication with others. Teaching, the theater, social work, counseling, the hurly-burly of the business world. To these you could bring your best in the way of intelligence, enthusiasm, determination, and humor.

You have tremendous energy in the right circumstances. In the presence of an audience, especially, you are capable of brilliant performances. Stimulated by praise, you become more productive. But, with adverse criticism, you become full of self-doubt and lapse in enthusiasm, ability, and will-power. It is important that you be surrounded by people who admire and respect you.

You are a versatile individual, capable of changing both direction and method of working. You are quick to recognize when you're in a rut and know how to remedy the situation. You don't rest on your laurels.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 25

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) - Don't neglect personal relationships while endeavoring to futher your career.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) - It is one thing to surprise people, another to astonish them. Keep activities on a relatively low plane today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) - Discover who's responsible for advancement at work and court that person tactfully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) - You can exert influence on another's behalf in A.M. To attempt too much, however, creates a boomerang.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) - Push business dealings toward completion. To let nature take its own course today could be a mistake.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) - Good fortune on the horizon. If you spend time in anticipation instead of work, you may be disappointed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) - Strength of character is necessary today as temptations are put in your way by those who would see you fail.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) - Versatility, which usually stands you in good stead, may prove a drawback today. Try to stick to one thing at a time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) - Profits are accruing, perhaps not known to you. Choose business over romance at this particular time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) - Adapt your views to those of the majority. This is a good day for cementing business relationships.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) - Expand your plans to include those close to you who wish to join you in some gainful enterprise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) - Put professional matters second to family affairs. Or there may be serious problems on the home front.

Today's Crossword

ACROSS

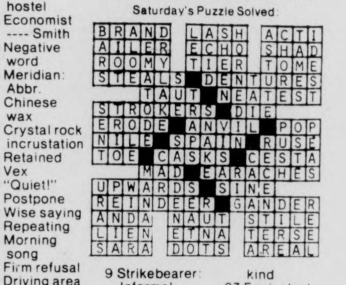
1 Assembled
4 Put away
9 Exclusive news story
14 Ordinal number suffix
15 Kind of lily
16 Atoll base
17 Russia: Informal: 2 words
19 ----- Brundage: Sports VIP
20 Position differently
21 "It's a ---!"
22 Entreat
23 "Waiting for the Robt ----"
24 ----- down: Shut up
26 Plunders
29 Deface
31 Time period
32 TV distortion
33 Dignified
36 Thin radiation lines
38 Opponent
39 Bookkeeping entries
41 Endurance
43 "Balderdash!"
44 Carried away: Slang
46 Turkish hostel
47 Economist ---- Smith
49 Negative word
50 Meridian: Abbr.
51 Chinese wax
52 Crystal rock incrustation
54 Retained
58 Vex
60 "Quiet!"
61 Postpone
62 Wise saying
64 Repeating
66 Morning song
67 Firm refusal
68 Driving area
69 Catkin
70 Water birds
71 Ending for car or host

DOWN

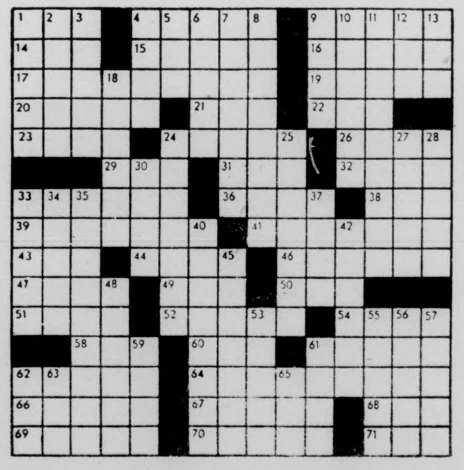
1 Metric unit
2 Waters or Barrymore
3 Things just mentioned
4 Gael
5 Hebrew letter
6 Legal defense
7 Overlooked winner: Horseracing
8 N. Carolina cape
9 Strikebearer: Informal
10 Shelters
11 Coniferous tree: 2 words
12 Boat accessory
13 Kind of wood
18 Appeared
24 Make believe
25 Kind of TV program
27 Singer Pat -----
28 "Blood ----- and tears"
30 Cuckoos
33 Junk
34 Destroy slowly
35 Pay back in kind
37 Equivalent
40 Expressing disgust
42 Offer for sale
45 School board member
48 Surplus measure
53 Man's nickname
55 The very best
56 Covers with concrete
57 Large B.C. salmon
59 Eng. county
61 Venture
62 Chalice
63 Obstruction
65 Matter: Law

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Saturday's Puzzle Solved:



BRAND LASH ACTI
AILER ECHO SHAD
ROOMY TIER TOME
STEALS DENTURES
TAUT NEATEST
STROKERS DIE
ERODE ANVIL POP
NILE SPAIN RUSE
TOE CASKS CESTA
MAD EARACHES
UPWARDS SINE
REINDEER GANDER
ANDA NAUT STILE
LIEN ETNA TERSE
SARA DOTS AREAL



1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13
14 15 16
17 18 19
20 21 22
23 24 25 26 27 28
29 30 31 32
33 34 35 36 37 38
39 40 41 42
43 44 45 46
47 48 49 50
51 52 53 54 55 56 57
58 59 60 61
62 63 64 65
66 67 68
69 70 71

Sports Calendar

FRIDAY'S RESULTS
VARSITY MEN'S SOCCER — UMass 2, UConn 1
MEN'S WATER POLO — UMass 'B' 22, Westfield State 6
UMass 'B' 18, Boston University 11
SATURDAY'S RESULTS
VARSITY FOOTBALL — UMass 10, UConn 0
VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY — New Hampshire 3, UMass 0
VARSITY VOLLEYBALL — UMass second in quad meet
WOMEN'S SOCCER — UMass 13, Boston College 0
MEN'S WATER POLO — MIT 13, UMass 'A' 4
Yale 17, UMass 'A' 13
RUGBY — UMass 10, Springfield RFC 9
SUNDAY'S RESULTS
WOMEN'S CROSS COUNTRY — UMass second in New Englands

Spikers place second

By LEO PELOQUIN
Collegian Staff

A rejuvenated UMass volleyball team doubled its season's win total, finishing second in a quad-match played at NOPE gym on Saturday.

The Minutewomen rolled over Maine (Orono) and the University of Bridgeport before being edged by a scrappy Williams team in the championship match, two games to one.

UMass faced Maine first and it looked as though they were in for another tough day as the Black Bears led 4-0, 8-2, and 12-6 at various stages in the game. UMass was using a new serve-receive formation and for a while it looked a though the team had not practiced it very much. The Minutewomen refused to buckle, however, and fought their way all the way back to a 16-14 victory.

The UMass volleyball team spiked and set its way to two wins Saturday in its first-ever quad meet. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Maine fell behind early in the second game but its attack strengthened as the game wore on and the Bears came from behind to win, 15-9. In the game for the match, UMass blew an early 4-0 lead and trailed 13-9 before the squad psyched itself up and came back to score the last six points and win, 15-9.

Meanwhile, on the other court, a small by noisy Williams team thoroughly dominated a disorganized Bridgeport squad by the scores of 15-7, 15-3.

UMass, riding the crest of its come-from behind victory, never let Bridgeport into the match as it beat the Knights almost as badly as a team can be beat, 15-0, 15-4. UMass used the easy match to advantage for the match with Williams. The JV's that she used, Brenda Simmons and Patricia McGrath, fit in smoothly with the attack.

UMass had a long rest (45 minutes) as they waited for the Williams-Maine match to end. Again, the small but quick and agressive Williams team hustled its way to a victory. The final scores were 15-11, 12-15, and 17-15.

UMass was a little rusty in the first game, though, as a sky-high Williams team spotted it a 7-4 lead before digging in. The result turned out to be the finest volleyball of the afternoon. Near the end of the first game, UMass got caught standing still a few times and its opponents seized the opportunity to grab a 15-0 win.

In the second game, as UMass had hoped, Williams began to tire noticeably and UMass began to unwind. Peggy Barber served and spiked superbly to lead the Minutewomen to an easy 15-3 win.

It appeared that UMass was in a great shape to captue first place in its own quad-match but Williams was a very rude guest. After three and half hours of volleyball, the teams dug in for the game that would decide it all and Williams seemed to forget that it was supposed to be the tired team as it ran up a quick 7-1 lead. UMass battled back valiantly but could not overcome thedeficit, losing 15-7, and having to settle for second place.

Ruggers edge Springfield

By STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

Andy Middleton and Hugh Chester-Jones teamed up Saturday with just four minutes remaining in the game to push the UMass rugby football club past Springfield, 10-9.

Middleton's try put the score at 9-8 and the Chester-Jones conversion gave the UMass squad the lead to stay. The first UMass try was scored by John Mulvey, but the conversion was missed.

In the B game, the Springfield rugby football club (not to be confused with Springfield College) took the contest by a 4-3 score, Ed Bender supplied all of the offense for UMass with a three point penalty kick.

Although rugby is generally considered to be a "gentlemanly" sport, Saturday's contest was a bit on the physical side. "It was a real rough, physical game," said UMass player Joe Durante. "However, we leave all that on the field after the game and go out for a few beers."

Most UMass players spoke of the fine play of Middleton, Chester-Jones, and Mulvey; but Stan Luboda, Pete Bates, Joe Durant, and fly-back Larry Tebo also had excellent efforts.

"I'll admit that this is a building year for us," said Durant, "and we've been doing a lot of experimenting, especially in our backfield."

Another player, Chuck Momnie, agreed. "We're definitely going places, there's no doubt about that, and today's victory was a needed win for a very hungry club," he said. Momnie, although in only his third semester at UMass, went out on a limb and called the game "the best we have played in years."

The next UMass rugby game is Saturday in Providence.

Patriots topple Colts, 17-3

FOXBORO, Mass. [UPI] — Darryl Stingley caught four Steve Grogan passes for 116 yards and Russ Francis snared a 31-yard scoring toss yesterday to spark the New England Patriots to a 17-3 victory over the previously undefeated Baltimore Colts.

The Patriots, now 4-2, opened the scoring on a 2-yard run by Don Calhoun and also got an 18-yard field goal by John Smith after Stingley had caught a 68-yard pass from Grogan at the Baltimore eight.

The Colts, 5-1 and tied with Miami for the AFC East lead, scored on their deepest penetration of the day as Toni Linhart kicked a 40-yard field goal after the New England defense had held at the Patriot 23. Grogan was 11-of-16 for 214 yards.

Sam Cunningham and Calhoun combined for 137 of New England's 169 rushing yards on a Baltimore defense that had yielded an average of 109 yards running through the first five games. The Patriots controlled the ball for 39:03, dominating Baltimore on both sides of the line of scrimmage.

New England's first scoring drive appeared to be stopped at the Baltimore eight and Smith kicked a 25-yard field goal. But the Colts were called offside on the play, which led to a New England first down at the three.

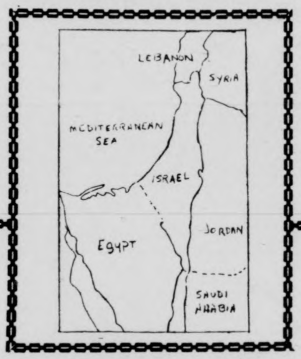
Two plays later, Calhoun went over right tackle for the score at 11:41 of the first quarter.

MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL
at
POOR RICHARDS
Happy Hour Prices All Night
— FREE HOT DOGS —
GIANT 8 FT. TV SCREEN
Rt. 9, Amherst

NEW ENGLAND PREMIER SHOWING STARTS WED.
AT TWO AREA THEATRES 7:00 and 9:00 daily
FURTIVOS
(POACHERS)
"ONE OF THE 10 BEST FILMS OF 1976" — English Critics Circle
MADE BY A MAN WHO LOVED HIS COUNTRY AND HATED HIS GOVERNMENT
A JOSE LUIS BORAU FILM
"FURTIVOS IS ONE OF THE BEST FILMS I HAVE EVER SEEN" - Luis Bunuel
AMHERST Cinema in amherst
ACADEMY OF MUSIC in northampton

½ mile past Watroba's on right
MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL
10 oz. DRAUGHTS 25¢
MIKE'S
BEER & DOG 50¢
EXTRA LONG DOGS 35¢
RAMS vs. VIKINGS
60 oz. PITCHER $1.50

CRISIS IN THE MIDDLE EAST



A DEBATE
C.C. Aud. 8 PM Mon. Oct. 24
Speakers:
Bassem Mouallem : Lebanese Journalist, "Arabia in the Gulf"
John Hillson : author, founder of Palestine Solidarity Comm., Univ. Colorado 1969
David Sidorsky : Prof. Philosophy, Columbia Univ., chair Amer. Zionist Youth Found.
Cosponsered by: Distinguished Visitors Program, Student Gov. Assoc., Young Socialist Alliance

---

MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL
at
POOR RICHARDS
Happy Hour Prices All Night
— FREE HOT DOGS —
GIANT 8 FT. TV SCREEN
Rt. 9, Amherst

UNITED TECHNOLOGIES
PRATT & WHITNEY AIRCRAFT GROUP
HAMILTON STANDARD DIVISION WILL BE
ON CAMPUS
OCTOBER 31 AND NOVEMBER 1, 1977 to interview candidates
Consult your Placement Office for degree and field of study requirements
UNITED TECHNOLOGIES
An Equal Opportunity Employer / Male & Female

The Hideout
MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL DELIVERY SPECIAL
Buy any two small combo pizzas and get a small plain pizza FREE!
256-0441

Stickers surprised; Wildcats triumph, 3-0

By MISSY GALLAGHER
Collegian Staff

The UMass field hockey team suffered its first defeat of the season Saturday when it was blanked at the University of New Hampshire, 3-0. The lost dropped UMass' record to a still impressive 6-1-2.

"We let them take the play to us, rather than taking it to them," said UMass goalie Kathy Gipps.

It was evident in the statisitcs. For the first time all year, the UMass stickers did not hold the edge in penetration time. UNH had a game total of 9:21 penetration time, while UMass had 5:33. Shots on net were also lopsided. UNH accumulated 17 netminder challenges and the Minutewomen managed five.

The field provided loose footing for both teams, but UNH capitalized on the condition with its aggressive play. The Wildcats' offense put the UMass stickers on the defensive for most of the contest.

UNH's first tally came with 6:30 remaining in the first half. Gipps made the initial stop, but the ball squirted free. A UNH player pushed the ball through, giving her teammates all they would need.

In the waning moments of the half, UMass applied some pressure, but to no avail.

A controversial second goal came in the latter half. UMass coach Judith Davidson saw the ball bounce off an opposing player for the score. Davidson felt the tally should have been disallowed, because of the infraction, but, the scoresheet still read 2-0.

UNH's third goal was not debatable. A hand stop enabled a scoop shot, which led to the final score. The ball passed to the left of the UMass netminder.

The Minutewomen improved in the second half with an increase of 95 seconds in penetration time, but they couldn't put themselves on the scoreboard.

Davidson believes her squad will benefit from the loss, as she said the Minutewomen realize they can't afford to sit back against a potent 11. UMass, hopes to play the Wildcats in the Regionals, where Davidson feels her team is capable of giving UNH a much better game.

Gayle Hutchinson and Gipps earned plaudits from the UMass mentor.

Judy Kennedy was hit in the nose during the contest but no serious injury resulted.

The Minutewomen face a long bus trip and Plymouth State tomorrow at 2:30 in their next activity.

Mistakes mar contest, but Minutemen prevail

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

STORRS, Ct. — It appeared a mismatch. But then again UMass coach Dick MacPherson knew it was going to be a tough game.

"This is not a game of statistics. It's a game of people. Even though UConn hasn't won a game this season, they were totally ready to play us," said MacPherson.

"This is the first time this season MacPherson had to sweat. It's the first time the offensive and defensive line talked to each other and said, 'What the hell is going on', said UConn coach Walt Nadzak.

But Nadzak added, "The strength of this team (UMass) is phenomenal. Not only can they push people around but they are a smart team. They showed they have plenty of poise when they needed it. They didn't crack under the pressure."

The game itself presented two problems to the Minutemen. First, the old bugaboo of mistakes — either fumbles or missed opportunities — came back to haunt UMass in the first half. Secondly, the defense seemed a little confused handling the scrambling shotgun offense of the UConn offense led by freshman quarterback Maron Clark.

Many times UMass drove deep into UConn territory but came up short. Sparked by a 21 yard end-around by Dennis Dent, UMass advanced to the UConn 19-yard line where on a fourth and one, Minuteman quarterback Mike Fallon was stopped short on a quarterback sneak.

Starting on its own seven-yard line later in the half, Fallon engineered a drive to the UConn 27 yard line only to have it go to the wayside when on another reverse to Dent, the halfback fumbled and UConn recovered.

Another drive by UMass featuring fine running by Coleman, Fallon, and Henry Sareault drove it to the UConn 19 yard line. A field goal attempt by Dave Croasdale from 37 yards out went wide to the right.

"It was pretty frustrating," said Fallon, "but I knew our offense was moving well and we had to forget about our first half mistakes and concentrate on getting the ball in the end zone. We needed a spark because Henry was hurt and we got it from John Romboli."

Romboli, the recipient of the game ball by the team captains John Gladchuk and Peter McCarty, was brilliant in the second half.

"I'm real happy to get the chance to play and help this team. When the opportunity comes, you hope to do your best and I hope in the future coach MacPherson uses me more often," said Romboli.

"If there is a weak link in the UMass defense, I'd like to find it. The only one I noticed was a hole in the sideline fence," said Nadzak.

The first year coach changed his offensive strategy for the game. He lined up the quarterback Clark eight yards back of center — a shotgun formation.

"We did that to give Clark more time to pass and to get away from the UMass defensive pressure. It was pretty successful for most of the game but mistakes hurt us, especially UMass' interception late in the game," Nadzak said.

UMass defensive lineman John D'Amato felt Clark was the best running quarterback the Minutemen have seen to date but credited UMass' depth and the secondary on stopping the UConn offense.

★ Football

CONT. FROM PAGE 16

UConn made a costly mistake of its own which led to the Croasdale field goal. Clark fumbled after being hit by Joe McLaughlin (six solo tackles and five assists) and the Minutemen recovered on the UConn 28. The Huskies' only fumble loss of the game was turned into the FG after a four-play drive.

But the UMass defense, which recorded its fourth shutout of the season (most since 1965) preserved the victory by intercepting two Clark passes.

Kevin Sullivan picked off the first on a badly overthrown pass at the UMass 14, and on UConn's last possession, Steve McInnes stepped in front of the intended receiver and grabbed an underthrown ball.

Sullivan, who made six solo tackles, "is just a great football player," according to MacPherson.

With Yankee Conference win number four under their belts, the Minutemen will have next Saturday off to rest up for their last home game of the season, against Holy Cross, before traveling up to Durham to play New Hampshire on November 12 for the battle for the Beanpot.

Grid results

NEW ENGLAND

New Hampshire 28 Northeastern 13
Dartmouth 17 Cornell 13
Brown 44 Holy Cross 13
Boston College 17 Villanova 0
Rhode Island 31 Boston University 22
Yale 27 Pennsylvania 21
Princeton 20 Harvard 7
Western Carolina 41 Maine 20

NATIONAL

Minnesota 16 Michigan 0
Notre Dame 49 Southern California 19
Texas 30 SMU 14
Alabama 55 Louisville 6
Army 42 Lafayette 6
Penn State 49 West Virginia 28
Ohio State 35 Northwestern 15
Nebraska 33 Colorado 15
Missouri 29 Kansas State 13
Oklahoma 35 Iowa State 15
Oklahoma State 21 Kansas 0
Kentucky 33 Georgia 0
Florida 27 Tennessee 17

Gridders leash pesky Huskies

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

STORRS, Ct. — For nearly 40 minutes of Saturday's UMass-UConn football game, the Minutemen had all they could handle of the Huskies.

The favored Minutemen, dominating in the statistics but not on the scoreboard, were being held to a 0-0 tie by a fired-up UConn team.

But after Dave Croasdale took a Rusty Umberger punt at the UMass 28, the Minutemen put together an 11-play, 72-yard drive, which was capped by a six-yard Billy Coleman touchdown run, and UMass finally went ahead to stay.

The Minutemen then went on to throttle the pesky Huskies' offense in the final period, while Croasdale added a 27-yard field goal. The result was a 10-0 UMass win here at Memorial Stadium before 7,122 fans on UConn's Homecoming weekend.

And don't think the win came easily.

"UConn just came to play and knock the hell out of us," said a relieved UMass coach Dick MacPherson afterwards. "It just goes to show what a great rivalry this is."

UMass, now 6-1, held the upper hand in the first half of play, but several missed opportunities allowed the scoreboard to remain inactive during the first 20 minutes of play.

On the Minutemen's first possession of the game, UMass drove inexorably downfield (helped in large measure by a 27-yard Dennis Dent end around), only to be held when Mike Fallon was stopped at the UConn 19 on a fourth and one quarterback sneak.

When the Minutemen got the ball back after a UConn punt, they again battled their way into Husky territory. Another end around to Dent misfired at the UConn 27 as the junior halfback and Fallon missed connections on the handoff. Defensive end Terry Ramsey recovered Dent's fumble, and once again UMass was thwarted.

After the aggressive Minuteman defense held UConn again, UMass drove down to the Husky 19. When the drive stalled, a Croasdale 37-yard field goal attempt went wide to the right.

Three substantial drives, and three times UMass came up with nothing. MacPherson had something to say about that.

"We moved the football down the field, but mistakes hurt us. We weren't flat. We did a lot of visiting down there without any meals," the coach reflected.

And along with experiencing temporary offensive difficulties, the Minutemen were running into a new UConn wrinkle.

The Huskies unveiled the shotgun, tailor-made for scrambling quarterback Maron Clark. The slippery freshman benefitted from the formation the first time it was used, as he caught a somewhat surprised UMass defense by carrying the ball for 19 and 11-yard gains on UConn's second possession.

"We had practiced against the shotgun before," MacPherson acknowledged, "but Clark was very elusive."

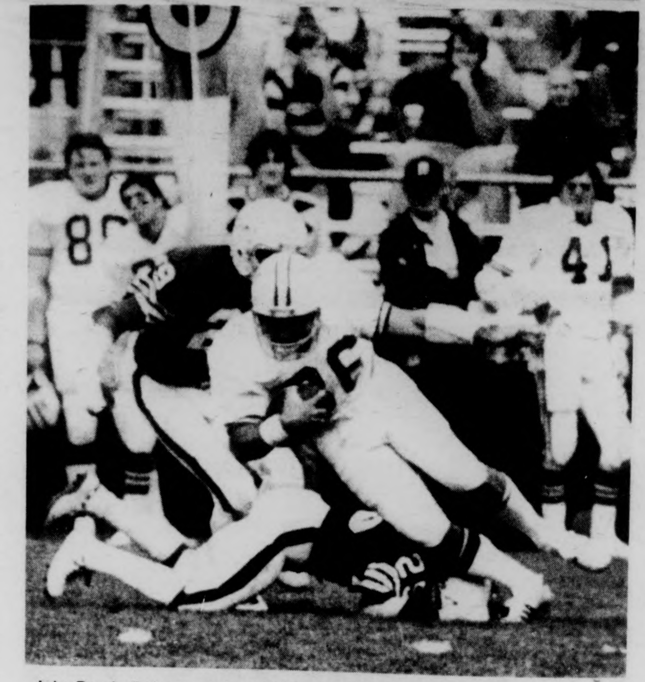
Enter half number two. More specifically, enter John Romboli.

Hank Sareault, UMass's starting fullback, was finding life rough on the ground during the game. Bothered by an injury, the junior could gain just 14 yards on seven carries for his day's work. And when the Minutemen got the ball with 5:11 left in the third quarter, out trotted Romboli to join the backfield.

The senior, who doubles as UMass punter, sparked the Minutemen's first scoring drive. Running like a man possessed, he personally gained 23 of the 72 yards (on only three carries) in the march.

Billy Coleman, who again rushed superbly all day (114 yards in 26 carries as he closes in on the 1,000 yard plateau), hurdled over the Husky line from six yards out to give UMass its TD and the only points it would eventually need.

TURN TO PAGE 15



John Romboli, the sparkplug of UMass's lone touchdown drive Saturday, rambles for yardage. (Staff photo by John Anderson)

Collegian Sports

Booters thwart UConn, 2-1

By MARK MARCHAND
Collegian Staff

STORRS, Ct. — Playing before a partisan UConn crowd in excess of 2,000, the UMass men's soccer team proved that it could win the big one as it upset the Huskies, 2-1, here on Friday afternoon.

"I just want to sit here and soak it up," said UMass defensemen Mark Vassalotti, sitting on the bench after the game. "Cap (UMass coach Russ Kidd) said that the best part would be sitting here and watching the UConn fans leave after the game and he was right."

The comments by Vassalotti just about sums up the feeling of the entire UMass team, which had been looking forward to this game all year and were pleased as punch to come away with the win.

The scoring was opened up by the Minutemen at 8:01 of the first half when Mike Shannon took a Tom Koutsoukos pass from deep in the left corner and lifted it past the UConn netminder to make it 1-0.

Less than two minutes later, Koutsoukos scored what proved to be the winning goal on a play set up by Joel Mascolo.

"My shot was partially deflected by a UConn player but it still went in the direction that I shot it," explained Kotsoukos.

Koutsoukos' goal brought his total to nine goals on the year with one assist.

The score remained at 2-0 until 9:58 of the second half when Medrick Innocent notched the sole UConn tally, beating UMass goalie Mark Hodgdon and ruining his bid for a shutout.

Hodgdon had a magnificent game in goal and couldn't be faulted on the UConn score. It was Hodgdon who kept the Minutemen in the game when UConn applied pressure as he came up with several astounding saves in the first half and especially in the last 10 minutes when the frustrated Huskies pressed for a goal to tie the game up.

"What can I say, they have an excellent team and came up with some good shots, but I guess I was playing them right," said the senior netminder. I'm really surprised that UConn has not been doing that well this year."

Hodgdon had some excellent support from his stalwart defense as Vassalotti, co-captain Larry Aronson, and awesome Pat Veale kept the Huskies scoring chances to a minimum. Mike St. Martin also made a sprawling save of a UConn shot late in the second half to help an out-positioned Hodgdon.

"He (Hodgdon) played the best damn goal I've ever seen," said Kidd after the contest. "The UConn pressure was excellent, but he came up with the saves."

Huskies' coach Joe Morrone said after the game that both UMass goals were scored on defensive lapses by UConn.

"That's been our problem all year, we just don't have the goaltending," said Morrone, a UMass graduate.

The win lifts the Minuteman ledger to 5-4 on the season while dropping UConn's record to 6-8.

The Minutemen were helped by a lot of hustle on the parts of Bob Abt, Willie Sorenson, Andy Moore, and Bill Leary, who kept the play in the UConn zone for more than half of the game.

"Bobby Abt is a tenacious player," said Kidd.

the Minutemen's next action is Wednesday when they host the Owls of Westfield State at 3:00 p.m.

Harriers 2nd in monumental battle

By DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

Harvard University, in only its second year of woman's running, captured the women's New England Cross Country Championship yesterday by edging UMass and Middlebury College on the tough apple orchard course.

Tina Francario hits the finish line. (Staff photo by Pete Paumann)

Crimson freshman Anne Sullivan led the way individually, as she shattered the course record of 17:18 set in last year's meet by UConn's Lavinia Muney, by running the three mile loop in 16:41 on her way to a 50-plus yard victory.

Harvard finished the meet with a score of 68, with UMass (75), Middlebury (78), Williams (108) and Vermont (179) trailing.

The next five finishers behind Sullivan were also under Muncy's old mark for the Minutewomen's home course, a tortuous, rugged, "mountain goat course," as head coach Ken O'Brien once described it.

Touted as "the best women's cross country race ever in New England," the meet was a delight to the purist and the novice cross crountry fan as well.

At least a dozen top names were on hand, an intense team struggle was predicted, and the weather was sunny and mildly cool — a good day to run.

"You'd do just as well to throw these three teams into a hat and pick the winner," said O'Brien before the meet, of UMass, Middlebury and Harvard.

Sullivan led the field of some 225 harriers through the first mile in about six minutes, then proceeded to lose everyone in the uphill orchard section of the course.

She floated down Eastman Lane and around the upper field at NOPE before finishing about 75 yards in front of teammate Johanna Foreman.

Two freshman once again swept the top two places on the New England's. Last year, it was Muncy and Amherst's Marina Buckley, this year Sullivan and Foreman.

"I think that will continue to happen," said UMass coach Charlotte Lettis. "The women coming into college have run more races than most of our women, many of whom didn't start running until they were already here."

Finishing third was one of the old guard, Kathy Whitcomb of Tufts, the first NE champ in 1975. She was followed by Middlebury's champion cross country skier, Lin Putnam, in fourth; Brown's Sue Adams in fifth and Dia Elliman of Hampshire in sixth to round out the record-breaking group.

UMass' top finisher was freshman Tina Francario, who finally got by teammate Jane Welzel after playing second fiddle to her senior co-captain all season. She finished eighth in 17:28, using a strong closing run to catch Welzel, Harvard's Sarah Linsley, and almost nipping Middlebury's Karen VonBerg.

Welzel was only six seconds back, but two places, as she crossed the line tenth in 17:34. The time was more than a minute under her effort last year, when UMass was a scant four point loser to Middlebury.

Coming through in 16th spot for the Minutewomen was freshman Priscilla Wilson, not showing the after effects of a cold, as she ran a steady race to finish in 18:00.

UMass' other co-captain, senior Sue Swartz, ran a gutty race to finish 20th in 18:13 after losing a shoe in a sinkhole in the orchard midway through the race.

Another frosh, Linda Welzel, came through to round out the top five in 18:24, good for 33rd.

Barb Callanan (37th) and Deb Farmer (43rd) filled the top seven.

"Our women looked strong when they finished," said O'Brien. "I was real impressed by their showing."

"This meet was everything we expected," said Lettis. "The times were really fast. We'll get them (Harvard) in the Eastern's, though."

---

The Bakke Decision

New York (LNS) "Overturn the Bakke Decision," "Defend and Expand Minority Admissions." These were among the placards carried by thousands of protesters throughout the country on October 8, the National Day of Protest Against the Bakke Decision.

Demonstrations were held in eight cities as the Bakke case was brought before the U.S. Supreme Court October 12. The Bakke decision, if upheld by the Supreme Court, will be a major step in the nationwide dismantling of programs designed to decrease racial and sexual discrimination in education and employment.

Allen Bakke, a 35-year-old white engineer, twice rejected from the University of California Davis Medical School, filed a suit against the school in 1975 charging that he was the victim of reverse racism. An assistant dean of the medical school Peter Storandt, had encouraged Bakke to challenge the school's minority admission program, which allows for 16 minority group admissions in a class of 100 students.

In 1976, the California Supreme Court ruled in favor of Bakke. The court's decision was based on Bakke's having a higher grade point average and test scores than some of the school's minority students. However, no consideration was given to Davis having admitted 35 whites with scores lower than Bakke's. Bakke had also been rejected by 12 other schools, which, in some instances, had neither minority students or programs for their eventual admission.

At rallies in Los Angeles and Bay area, members of the American Nazi Party attempted to break up the rallies by marching through them. In Los Angeles, several protesters were arrested when Nazi-provoked fights broke out at the back of the rally. Police officials had approved the hastily planned marches by the Nazis despite warning from leaders of the protests in both cities that fights would most likely occur.

NUMMO NEWS
BREAK THE CHAIN OF OPPRESSION THROUGH UNITY
VOLUME 4 ISSUE 8
MONDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1977
Supplement to the Collegian

"FBI FABRICATION" CHARGED

New York (LNS) — Once again, black political activist Assata Shakur is facing trial — this time charged with murder following an incident in a Brooklyn social club in January 1973. Defense workers say that in this case and in prior trials, federal and local law enforcement agencies have acted illegally in their prosecution of Shakur.

"We're going to ask for an evidentiary hearing on FBI fabrication of the case," said William Kunstler attorney for Shakur, noting that there is "hard evidence" of government misconduct.

On October 13, the defense filed a motion to obtain the release of all information, documents and memos relating to the defendant.

Kunstler cited specific details of the trials, as well as the Church Committee report on U.S. intelligence activities, in which "FBI employees admitted they were supposed to 'pile charge upon charge' on members of the BLA (Black Liberation Army)," of which police said Shakur was a leader. In addition Kunstler said: "The FBI 'COINTELPRO' program was shown to be the most vehement against the BLA."

Four Years of Trials

Shakur has been subjected to trial in New York and New Jersey over the last four years, and acquited three times on various bank robbery and kidnapping charges. But in March of this year, she was convicted by an all-white jury on charges of murdering a New Jersey state trooper. The case stemmed from a "Shoot first, ask questions later" state trooper attack on her and others in a car on the New Jersey Turnpike in 1973. The former deputy minister of the New York Black Panther Party, Zayd Shakur, was killed in that attack, and Assata Shakur was seriously wounded. She is now serving a prison sentence of 99 years plus 30 years. Her conviction will be appealed.

In another case against her, "the person she was supposed to have kidnapped was a paid FBI informant," said Kunstler, referring to a December, 1972 incident in Brooklyn. "And the other victim of a robbery during that incident was his girlfriend." Shakur was acquitted in that incident.

The case against black activist Andrew Jackson who was Shakur's co-defendant in her current trial was dismissed after government witnesses were unable to identify him in the courtroom.

Shakur's lawyers will press for hearing to show government misconduct, as a step towards having the court dismiss the indictment. "If we can get FBI informants and officials (like FBI Director Clarence Kelly) and witnesses (for instance Frank Church), we can wreak havoc," explained Kunstler.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER: CHILEAN TROOPS IN SOUTH AFRICA

NEW YORK (LNS) Chile's brutal military junta and South Africa's equally brutal white supremacist regime have apparently struck up more than a plantonic friendship. According to reports from both the South West African People's Organization (SWAPO) and the Chilean resistance, the junta has now dispatched Chilean troops to fight alongside South African forces against SWAPO guerillas in Namibia.

CALL FOR NBSA NATIONAL BLACK STUDENTS CONGRESS

ACROSS the united states there is an all-out attack on the education of Black people. We find that cutbacks in government funds to education are making it difficult, if not impossible, for Black students to get needed scholarships and grants. Black colleges and universities are under constant economic attack and in many cases are being closed or integrated out of existence. In white schools Black students must contend with culturally biased entrance exams and standardized tests. High schools are graduating Black youth that don't know how to read — it seems as though all-out war has been declared on Black education. Black students must organize to counter this attack and fight for better education for our people.

THE South Regional Coordinating Committee of NBSA is calling for a National Black Students' Congress to discuss strategy for dealing with the problems of Black education and to lay out our plans and programs for the next year. We intend to draw students from throughout the nation to participate in this important conference.

NBSA was formed at a National Black Student Solidarity Conference which was held at Tufts University in Massachusetts in February, 1976. Over 200 students from over 70 schools attended the conference. The participants agreed that there was a need for them to initiate the building of a national Black students' organization. The purposes of NBSA are to:

a. establish a strong line of communications between Black students across the country;

b. establish better communications and a better working relationship between Black students and the rest of the community; and

c. organize Black students across the country to do serious work around concrete programs and issues that will bring our people closer to Liberation.

NBSA is sponsoring a conference on November 4, 5, 6, 1977, at Atlanta University in Atlanta, Georgia. The purpose of the conference is to bring Black students from around the country together to discuss Affirmative Action cutbacks and other problems facing Black communities around the country. Come and bring ideas for positive action. For details about the conference contact: Brother Kojo Owusu — Southern Region, P.O. Box 92001, Atlanta, Georgia 30314, (4104) 758-8469. For more information on NBSA and the Congress contact: Northeastern Region, Brother Tony Vandermeer, 14 Harvard Avenue, Dorchester, Mass. 02121. West Coast Region, Brother Akinyele Umoja, c-o P.O. Box 61213, Greenmead Station, Los Angeles, Ca. 90059, and Darryll Matson Butterfield, 253-9961.

The Pendelton 14

New York (LNS) Anthony Matthews, the last of the Camp Pendelton 14 to face court martial procedings, will go before a military court on October 17, in Oceanside, California. He faces charges of assault and conspiracy to commit assault, stemming from a Nov., 1976 fight between black marines and suspected members of the Ku Klux Klan stationed at the base. All 14 charged were black Marines; nearly all have been tried and only one was acquitted. Twelve Klan members were merely transferred to other bases.

The Marines convicted have received sentences ranging from a few days to 2¼ years, with many bad conduct discharges that cause complete loss of veterans' benefits. The Pendleton 14 Defence Committee is still fighting for exonerations or sentence reductions for those already convicted. In this effort they stress that Marine Officers who conducted the courts martial covered up known Klan activities on the base.

DEDICATED TO THE RECONSTRUCTION OF THE BLACK LIBERATION MOVEMENT AND HUMAN RIGHTS!

STUDENT UNIONIZATION IN CHILE

Dr. Enrique Kirbeig

by Johanna Brassard

Dr. Enrique Kirbergh, an instructor of Latin American Studies at Columbia University in New York City, addressed a small gathering of students and faculty from the five-college community in the New York Room of Mary Woolley Hall at Mt. Holyoke College last Wednesday evening. His subject was "The Role of Students Under the Allende Regime." The speaker was a professor of Civil Electrical Engineering, and from 1968-1973, the president at the National Technical University in Chile. Salvador Allende, a medical doctor, and the first member of the Socialist Party to be elected president in a democratic society, served Chile from 1971 to 1973. Under the Allende Regime, Dr. Kirbergh performed an instrumental role in designing programs dedicated to the higher education of the Chilean working class. Such Programs were radical in the history of Chilean universities. The attendance at a university was by tradition a privilege reserved for the aristocracy.

Students in Chile had been active for university and social reform since the nineteenth century. In 1906 a national federation of Chilean students was formed. This Federation was powerful enough to overthrow the Gomez dictatorship in 1931. The students forced the Chilean government to restore democracy and human rights to the people. Dr. Kirberg stated that in general, students in Chile had been instrumental in gaining liberty against dictatorship, and have served as an example for students throughout the world.

In the 1960's students all over the globe began to realize that higher education was becoming out dated. The universities were out of touch with social and political realities; they were not keeping pace with the post — WW II expansion of knowledge in science and technology. Students unionized in Europe, the United States, Asia, Japan, and Latin America in order to effect constructive change. The reforms to the eight universities of Chile were great.

Only 2.2 per cent of Chilean University students were from the working class in the late 1960's. The student population began to work toward college for everyone, and proposed programs for the improvement of higher education in Chile, as well as the recruitment of working class people into all areas of education. All eight Chilean universities drew up new constitutions for their institutions in 1967 — even non-university persons were involved on the restructuring!

In order to expand the number of working class students in universities, a quota system was established in order that a specific percentage of working class people would attend a university. Tutoring programs were set up in each institution to help those lower class students whom had not had a sound primary education. In addition, all students were required to spend time during their school years at unpaid labor with workers. And faculty were asked to teach classes for working class persons who could not attend a university on a full time basis. Dr. Kirbergh himself taught a course in mathematics for members of the working class.

Everyone gained from these programs. But perhaps the most important thing accomplished was the raising of the students' social consciousness. They saw that it was possible to accomplish without monetary reward — to accomplish things which would benefit the entire country.

In 1971, Salvador Allende visited the National Technical University where Dr. Kirbergh was President. He publically lauded the students for their patriotism, and for their concern for the common good.

The Allende Regime fell on September 11, 1973. Allende, his ministers, and thousands of students were killed by a group of military generals who staged a well-organized coup d'etat.

The Chilean aristocracy had seen the socialistic and Marxist ideals of Allende and the students as a threat to their purses. They had turned to the United States (a country with a stake in Chilean corporations and a desire for the skills of the Chilean educated elite), for help. The CIA financed political parties and propagandistic newspapers which opposed the Allende Regime in order to pave the way toward its fall.

Those who staged the coup d'etat (the military Junta) destroyed every positive manifestation of the Allende Regime, including local governments, voter registrations and rights. All students involved in the federation were prevented from continuing their educations in Chile. Working class students had comprised 23 per cent of university student populations — they were expelled. Today, United States aid continues to be granted to the Junta government, despite President Carter's human rights campaign.

Dr. Kirbergh was one of many imprisoned by the Junta, but was released as a result of efforts by one of several organizations all over the globe which are pushing for the liberation of Chile. Although 85 per cent of the population in Chile oppose the Junta, only a few small liberties have been regained. This is because the Junta are favored by those organizations in Chile which hold most of the wealth, and because the Junta are the military, holding strength in armaments.

It is ironic that the United States should have had so great an influence in the dissipation of a regime which encouraged its members to live and work together, to educate one another, to work toward equality. It is ironic that we have fought in the battle to break the back bone of reform in Chile: student unionization. In 1973 the union of Chilean students and the Allende Regime were falling; but in the United States some students from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst were just beginning plans for their own student union. Today there is an American-wide campaign for all university students to unionize. How shall we, spawned by this predominantly capitalistic society, hope to initiate positive social change in the United States? We can see the destruction of many positive changes brought about by American student unions on the 1960's. Is Mr. Bakke merely a part of a general trend towards the policy of oppressing minorities in the United States? Finally, is the American (and for that matter, the U.Mass.) student union only a muscle on one arm of the population, working toward forcing a selfish bureaucracy to comply with its own selfish demands?

Cash compensation for race victims

CONTRAST

A sum of money, reported to be about $3,000 has been awarded seven men, victims of a racial incident a year ago in a northern mining camp near Thunder Bay.

The award has been made to compensate Owen Brown, Crichlow Alva, Carl Keane, Bevis Lodge, Lenord Marcano Carl Morton and Stanley Pinnock who were assaulted, run off the camp and told not to return by a group of about twenty-five white workers in August 1976. One of the men received a broken jaw.

In an interview, Naison Mawande, of the Ontario Human Rights Commission said the monetary award will also be accompanied by drastic changes in the working conditions and the regulations at the camp.

$3,000 was awarded to these victims of racism.

He said name calling, which precipitated the incident and led to violence, will now be met with stern discipline and physical attacks will result in dismissal.

The OHRC's investigation was through said Mawande and has also affected the town's police department. The police chief David Barnett, has since "retired" and the force will be expanded to deal adequately with similar situations.

"There were signs of trouble long before the incident occurred", Mawande said, "But they were ignored. The new measures will see that doesn't happen again".

He also said two of the workers have since returned to jobs at the camp and are satisfied with the conditions there.

In another case, concluded recently, but which was kept hush-hush, a woman won her case against a Toronto hospital for allegedly discriminating against her.

The woman claimed her application for a senior position with the hospital was repeatedly rejected because of her race.

Accordingly to unofficial reports, the monetary settlement was a substantial one and a precedent in human rights history in Ontario. Contrast has learned however, that the amount could not be revealed as a condition of the settlement. Contrast has also learned that in recent months the OHRC has won about $10,000 in settlement claims for victims of discrimination.

Vorster defends his regime's policy

AFRICA (UPI) — South African Prime Minister John Vorster Thursday defended his white supremacist regime's crackdown on dissent and said the U.S. government's protest was "totally irrelevant."

Police and Justice Minister Jimmy Kruger Wednesday shut down three newspapers, liquidated 18 anti-segregation groups and detained some 70 government opponents.

"I am prepared to say that I, as leader of the government, with my ministers, am perfectly prepared to take full responsibility with the minister of justice," Vorster told a political rally in nearby Alberton.

"Each and every one of us would have done the same thing. I would have done the same thing if I were still minister of justice because South Africa's safety and security is paramount."

Referring to the reaction of the Carter Administration to the crackdown, Vorster said, "As far as I am concerned I am not interested. As far as I am concerned it is totally irrelevant."

"I say that is none of my business whatsoever. That is Mr. Carter's business."

Two of the nation's best known editors — black, Harvard-educated Percy Qoboza of The World newspaper and Donald Woods, a white who was arrested an hour before leaving for the United States and talks with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance — were silenced in the crackdown.

Opponents of the regime said the "last lights of freedom" in South Africa had been extinguished.

Evidence indicates Bika was beaten to death in South African jail

JOHANNESBURG: A South African Sunday newspaper has indicated that Steve Biko, the Black leader who died in a South Arican jail recently suffered severe injuries to his breastbone and ribs as well as the brain damage that was reported earlier.

The Sunday Express, quoting unnamed sources said investigations showed Biko had severe injuries to the rib cage, where two ribs are reported to have been parted from the breastbone, and various burns about the body.

Last week, the Rand Daily Mail was reprimanded by South Africa's Press Council following complaints by police and Justice Minister James Kruger over its reporting of the Biko case.

The Rand had reported that its investigations supported reports that Biko suffered brain damage and extensive bruising. It also said there were no signs of Biko being on a hunger strike, as was suggested as the cause of Biko's death.

According to the Sunday Express report, Biko may have been unconscious for some time before he died as a result of cerebral damage. The paper said its information was gathered from sources close to the forensic investigation presently being conducted.

IF THERE
IS NO
STRUGGLE
THERE IS
NO
PROGRESS!

---

Rich pool of African talent awaits a free Zimbabwe

By GAMINI SENEVIRAINE
CONTRAST

Black-ruled Zimbabwe, whenever and however it replaces white-dominated Rhodesia, will have a large cardre of qualified and experienced personnel on which the independent cabinet could draw. A substantial number will be abroad when independence comes. This Brain Drain will have to be attracted back.

At least 6,000 Zimbabweans are being trained or, having their courses, are working outside the country today. This is the estimate of the Special Commonwealth Program for Rhodesians in London.

The SCPR itself has assisted over 2,800 Zimbabweans to study in Commonwealth countries since it was set up by the 1966 meeting of Heads of Government. Of these, some 800 are known to have qualified and are now practising their skills and professions.

The balance, 3,000 odd, are dispersed outside the Commonwealth and either training with help from other sources or already at work. Well over 1,000 are reckoned to be in the US and several hundred in the USSR.

The Special Commonwealth Program for Rhodesians believes there are "at least a handful" in 31 other non-Commonwealth countries. It does not, however, have details of numbers, courses, progress and employment. This information gap is now being bridged.

Following discussions with nationalist delegations at the time of the Geneva Conference in 1976, the SCPR accepted the task of mounting a manpower survey of Rhodesian exiles studying or working in the various countries. The survey is not concerned with the thousands (perhaps 50,000) of refugees, clearly classifiable as "non-military" who are in camps close to Rhodesia.

It is equally unconcerned with the fewer, though substantial numbers, under military training — whether in African countries or outside the continent. On the other hand it is anxious to arrive at a more detailed statistical analysis than an overall survey of skills.

For example, it would be relatively easy to find out how many doctors have been trained abroad since UDI", says Terence Dormer of the Special Program, "but that would be of little use without knowing who and where they are, what they are doing, whether they would be ready to return home and, if so, under what conditions."

The 6,000-odd letters sent out in early June are, therefore, intended for the individuals each would finally reach; even though most were initially distributed in batches to universities, professional and technical institutions and governments.

Each letter is accompanied by a registration form which the individual is expected to complete and return. In addition to the usual personal details it asks for the individual's education and employment records as well as his or her "choice of employment in Zimbabwe" after a "legitimate government" has been established.

The letter emphasizes, as do SCPR officials verbally, that the information will be treated as completely confidential. Officials say this is vital in view of the number of factions among the nationalist groups. No one of them will have access to the files until it is recognized as the "legitimate government" of Zimbabwe.

The letter says confidentiality will be maintained "until the emergence of a Government in Zimbabwe which the United Nations, the Organization of African Unity and the Commonwealth accept as truly representative of the people of Zimbabwe."

"When such a Government eventuates, the register will be put at its disposal. The information which the forms contain will not be disclosed to any other person or organization.

"It is now," as Dormer says, "up to the individuals to decide whether they wish to participate in the exercise."

Completing the form does not commit anyone to accepting employment in, or even returning to, Zimbabwe. If fewer than, say, a thousand, respond, the survey will prove less than useful.

Since early July, however, the replies have been coming to the SCPR at the rate of over 50 a week. The "educated guess' which the figure of 6,000-odd really is may turn out to be an under-estimate — though clues like applications from exiles for educational assistance from the Commonwealth Rhodesian Scholarship Trust Fund, which have risen from 411 in 1972 to 2,237 in 1976, are pretty reliable.

Dormer is confident that the response to the first round of letters will be "very good", and he will cheerfully send out more letters and forms if they are needed.

Late in July he began posting his second letter, addressed individually to those who answered the first, asking that the information is kept up to date as Zimbabwe progresses towards reality.

Affirmative Action or Reverse Discrimination?

Bakke Debate — Brian DeLima, moderator, panel from left to right, Playthell Benjamin, John Yong, Denise Carty Binia

By VUKANI MAGUBANE
Nummo News Staff

On Tuesday, October 11 a debate was held in Mahar auditorium on the Bakke case. The speakers arguing in favor of Bakke were Eric Greene, Professor of law at Boston University, Alan Kort prof of Russian History and Robert Corn a first year graduate student in communications at UMass. The anti-Bakke viewpoint was represented by Playthel Benjamin, historian writer and former member of the UMass Afro-Am department, Denice Cory Benta prof. of law at North-Eastern University and John Yong a member of the Asian-American student association.

The Bakke case has become a controversial case in terms of whether affirmative action programs designed to improve educational job opportunities for minorities and women are constitutional even if they seem to unfairly penalize white males. Critics of affirmative action argue that favoring minorities and sometimes guaranteeing them a number of places even when they appear to be less qualified than whites amounts to reverse descrimination.

The pro-Bakke sides main arguement was that the ability of Bakke became secondary and his race became the dominant factor and that the University of California at Davis used a special program that was a quota based on race.

"We are not against reverse descrimination they summarized but go about it in the right way." They felt that race based classification arouses racial competition which is dangerous for American society.

Arguing against th pro Bakke stand Deniece Benia said "America has always been divided along racial lines." Playthel Benjamin felt that the Bakke case came as no surprise and that the case was a rerun of American History. He pointed out that while 16 slots were reserved for non-whites, people neglected to mention that the other 84 slots were filled by whites. 35 whites icidentally has lower scores than Bakke. Deniece Benia in summarizing the important facts of the case said that Bakke had been rejected by 11 other Medical schools and that the Davis program did not arbitrarily reject whites.

Few people can rationally argue that minorities and women have been systematically discriminated against in American society. Affirmative action so far has been the answer in trying to bring about more equality in American life. In order for everyone to have an equal piece of the pie, those who have had the larger pieces will have to give up some of their share. There is no way around it. Somebody has to give up something, to bring about some type of equality.

White Collar crime 'pays'

By MUNIR UM'RANI
Reprint from Bilalian News

For years politicians, law makers and others have bombarded the public with the pervasiveness of "crime in the streets" while even greater crimes were going on in the executive suites.

This is the view of a number of security specialists, prosecutors, sociologists, and now, a large segment of the general public.

The dollar volume of crimes committed by businessmen, lawyers and other so-called "white collar criminals" is enormous.

Mark Lippman, head of Guardsmark, a large private security operation headquartered in Memphis, Tenn. estimates that white collar employees rip off "40 to 80 billion" dollars annually.

"That's more than all the violent crimes in America," Mr. Lippman said, adding that unlike street crime, white collar crime, with the exception of rare cases, "doesn't get any publicity."

In a recent report on the issue, CBS estimated that white collar crime costs every man, woman and child $185 a year.

But it doesn't stop there. It's a two-way street, according to some observers, who contend that while the employee is "ripping off" the company, the company is "ripping off" the consumer.

One Ralph Nader group associate estimated that big corporations may be hitting the American public with as much as $80 billion a year in overcharges.

Unfortunately, according to Benjamin R. Civiletti, an assistant United States Criminal Division attorney-general, "The concept of white collar crime does not fit into our traditional notions of crime and its causes."

Selective Punishment

Speaking to the American Society for Industrial Security on Sept. 8 in Orlando, Fla., Mr. Civiletti said it "must be recognized that the criminal justice system has for many years virtually ignored white collar illegality and funneled most of its resources into combating crimes involving actual or potential violence."

Prior to the Nixon-Watergate scenario, few American's could understand the concept of white collar-crimes. The situation still has not changed although most would probably brand the actions of Mr. Nixon, former Attorney-General John Mitchell and H.R. Haldeman's actions criminal.

Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Haldeman along with John Erlichman, Mr. Nixon's domestic adviser, are presently serving time for Watergate related crimes. John Dean, who helped to expose many of the doings of the Nixon White House is among prominent figures who now carry the label of white collar criminal.

Ironically, Mr. Nixon was never tried although legal experts contend that if the House of Representatives had decided to impeach him, he would have been ousted from office.

Omission by Design

While no clear-cut definition of white collar crime emerged as a result of Watergate, few know how to define the term because of its absence from legal perusal, except in isolated cases.

Some say white collar crime is lying, cheating and stealing. But the Justice Department goes a little further "and considers white collar crime those non-violent offenses which principally involve elements of deceit, deception, concealment, corruption, misrepresentation, and breach of trust."

Mr. Civilettie, the Justice Department attorney, said public losses from white collar crimes "far exceed the combined losses from more publicized crimes of robbery, extortion or burglary.

"Federal banks now lose three times as much from white-collar crime as from armed robberies," he said.

Law enforcement officials and sociologists say reading disabilities, poverty and other characteristics normally used to describe street criminals, do not apply to the white collar criminal.

Continued Page 5

NUMMO NEWS STAFF

| | |
|---|---|
| Editor-in-Chief | W.J. Wheeler |
| Managing Editor | Karien Zachery |
| Business Manager | Sura Long |
| News Editor | Vukani Magubane |
| Photo Editors | Edward Cohen andEdwin J. Peterson |
| Fine Arts | Kevin Jones |
| Associate Editor (Business) | Kenny Noel |
| Associate Editor (Managing) | Chaka Zulu |
| Advertisements Manager | Carl Watkins |
| Nummo News Advisor | Wadada Tzake |
| Layout | Oscar Bogus |
| Graphics | Jimmy Pickett |

They All Remembered Clifford

Left to Right: Bill Hardman, Jr. Cook, Warren Smith, Chris White

Left to Right: Chris White. Jimmy Owens

By KEVIN JONES

"They All Remembered Clifford"

Great people often go unrecognozed for their contributions to society. Black people especially throughout the years have created in all walks of life. The arts in particular have been an area where innovativeness and creation by blacks have been fruitful. Unfortunately their contributions as artists have been played down.

However, on Thursday, Oct. 6, a tribute to such an artist was presented in honor of the late trumpet great, Clifford Brown. Several of today's top musicians turned out for the event at N.Y.U.'s Loeb Student Center in N.Y.C. Gifted percussionist, composer and teacher Max Roach along with trumpeters Bill Hardman, Jimmy Owens, Ted Curson, saxophonist Jr. Cook, pianist Harold Mabern, drummer Warren Smith and bassist Chris White, made musical offerings to this giant of Black Classical Music.

Clifford Brown died tragically in a car accident with pianist Richard Powell and his wife at the age of 26. He, was one of the most renowned trumpet players of the early 50's, ranking high among trumpet greats as Miles Davis and Dizzy Gillespie. In 1953 he co-led one of the most exciting combos of that era, the Max Roach Clifford Brown quintet.

The mood of the concert was set by pianist Harold Mabern as he performed an inspiring solo piece, "I Remember Clifford". This preceeded touching words from Max Roach as remembered his one time friend and playing partner.

An aura set around the stage as Prof. Roach gave an impromptu account of the tragic accident that brought death to the young talent. "The quintet was to open in Chicago the next night ... Clifford had gone ahead to pick up a new trumpet in Elkhart, Illinois." He went on "When I arrived in Chicago I heard of the news ... I was asked if I wanted to go on and do the show without them in the spirit of 'the show must go on' ... I had to refuse."

Prof. Roach told of the lighter side of his relationship with Clifford, "I was very close to Clifford, we would often chat or play the piano together. When we were on the road we used to play chess to pass the time, he was quite a good chess player." He added "He was a consummate and creative musician, he was a responsible person and a clean liver, he never smoked or drank. We would often talk for hours about socio-political affairs, this led me to become involved in this subject very deeply."

In memory of Clifford he played an unaccompanied drum solo entitled "South Africa-Goddamn."

The evening was then interrupted by Emcee and producer Jack Kliensinger who cheapened the significance of the concert by his advertisement of 'Highlights in Jazz' t-shirts and ticket sales for upcoming concerts after Mr. Roach had left the stage. The quality of music that was presented thereafter wiped out the indiscriminant salesmanship of Mr. Kleinsinger.

Bill Hardman, Jimmy Owens, Ted Curson, all of whom are greatly influenced by Clifford Brown's style, each presented pieces which were played by the Max Roach-Clifford Brown quintet. Backed by a hard driving rhythm section each trumpet played tunes on flugel horns, piccolo trumpet and other members of the trumpet family. Renditions of 'Jordu', 'LaRue', 'Joy Spring', 'Blues Walk', 'Delilah' and 'Cherokee' were all performed by these masters with grace and skill. The music could best be described as music which could make one smile. It was emotional and full of life just as the type of person Clifford Brown was.

The music presented at this concert truly reflected the spirit of Clifford Brown's music. It is unfortunate however, that a man has to die before his greatness is realized. We, the exponents of this culture should take time to recognize the Clifford Browns, the Charlie Parkers, The Duke Ellingtons and the John Coltranes of today.

Max Roach

Mark Brinole

LORE AND LYRICISM: TWO SHOWS AT THE STUDIO MUSEUM IN HARLEM

By ZOE BEST

The Studio Museum in Harlem is hosting shows by a painter from Ghana and another born in Jefferson City, Missouri. Paintings depicting traditional-rural based life in Ghana hang in contrast to spatial, sculpted and stenciled configurations. Works by these two artists represent a continuum from African folk art to African-American contemporary expression.

In both we feel equatorial verdancy — life reflected in vibrantly patterned colors and hues. In the room exhibiting paintings by Andrews Ofori Danso, the panels shimmy with movement even though the human figures are stylized kinetically. Arrangements of strong toned colors dance rhythmically. On the other side of the partition, the works of Adrienne W. Hoard undulate or skate like tropical skyscapes reflecting the broad contours of lush land. Our eyes settle among the flat or angled planes that seem to unite nature, music and contemplation. Danso stresses the local lore while Hoard arches in flight away from North America in a quest to experience the African homelands. Danso's "A Village Chief Giving an Order" is narrative while Hoard's "Fertile Crescent" is symbolic. Still the cohesion and dynamic relationship between the shows stir wonderment with how "The Dark Crossing" (title to an acrylic work on a shaped canvas by Adrienne Hoard) has yielded such kinship. Jest and exaggeration play magically within Danso's village happenings and are described additionally by the titles of each painting — "Recovery of a Sick Person," "Consulting the Native Herbalist" or "The Fetish Priestess in Action." Truth and fiction tease in merriment or induce wariness in much the way that a hex or a hiss from a snake causes some mental discomfort.

Danso paints the past within the present. We see in his paintings how the present with its links to the "modern" world is identified by inclusion of such objects as streamers, planes, helicopters and liquor bottles. Tension between past and present is exemplified in one painting where indigenously dressed people share a scene with a uniformed policeman. The human presence is dominant. Danso's people can see themselves perceptually by looking into the mirror that is his canvas.

Adrienne Hoard projects cartographically surfaces as conceptual matter, clean of detail. A metaphysical rather than a magical mood transpires. Abstraction, an ancient African visual metaphor, resounds unhampered in Hoard's paintings. Abstraction is a derivative of nature and may or may not be vital, may or may not be static or may combine these basic polar elements into an involving syncretism. With Adrienne Hoard's work we sense a search in transit between worlds. We decide whether or not to be among her travelers.

Tradition is overt and oblique, direct and abstract with its treatment by these two artists. Danso has said, "Tradition is a story about something hanging from generation to generation ... "

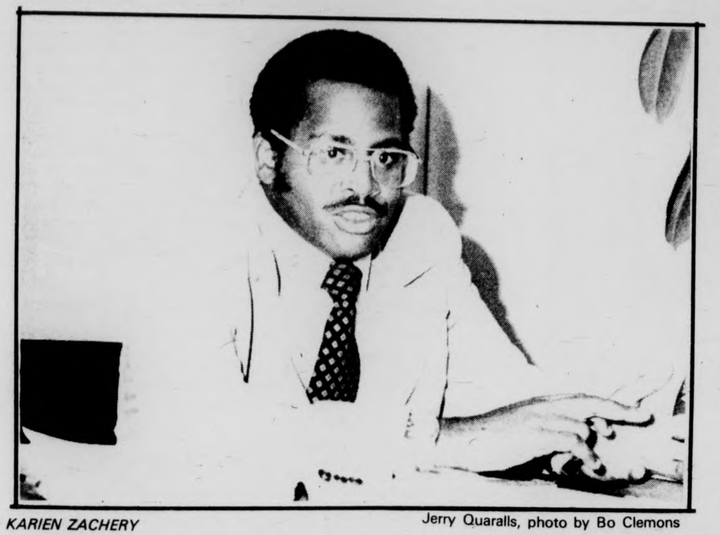
Tradition in all its forms are derived from the social economy that a people has lived historically. An artist chooses to incorporate this understanding into his or her works if commitment transcends wanting to use tradition only as a language for transmitting myth. Frants Fanon in "On National Culture" from THE WRETCHED OF THE EARTH dedicates a discussion to the role of tradition in the creative construction of society by a people and its utilization by that society's artists. He sums up:

Thus it is not enough to try and get back to the people in the past out of which they have already emerged; rather we must joint them in that fluctuating movement which they are just giving a shape to, and which, as soon as it has started, will be the signal for everything to be called into question. Let there be no mistake about it; it is to this zone of occult instability where the people dwell that we must come; and it is there that our souls are crystallized and that our perceptions and our lives are transfused with light ... We must not therefore be content with delving into the past of a people in order to find coherent elements

Continued Page 4

---

Interview with Jerry Qualles, Director of Housing, UMass Amherst



Jerry Quaralls, photo by Bo Clemons

By KARIEN ZACHERY

"The responsibility of the Housing Director is to provide information about everyone, on or off campus," Mr. Jerry Qualles informed Nummo News.

Jerry Qualles is the first Black director of Housing, to his knowledge, at UMass. He is presently responsible in the area of Housing for 11, 200 people in residence halls.

About how much money does the University generate from its Housing department? There are different rates for different dorms. However, in general, the dorms generate approximately 1 million dollars a year.

Prior to his employment as Director of Housing, he was the Head of Residence at Cashin and Brown dorms. When asked why he took the job as Housing Director, Mr. Qualles expressed that he was concerned and primarily sensitive to the needs of Black people. He could and can still see many things wrong with the present housing situation at UMass. Mr. Qualles calmly and confidently says, "but I'm going to fix them."

What about Third World Corridors? Are they a special priviledge from the Housing Department? Yes. Just as Italian, French or Spanish Corridors are special requests from the Housing Department. The purpose of these type corridors is to unite students of the same racial and ethnic background. The positive response is that they make the students more comfortable at the University; thus, indirectly improving their social and academic performance. The negative response in relation to Third World students, Mr. Qualles added, is that "there are no Black corridors in the world once you leave here. Are students getting the skills to help them deal with people by living in Black corridors?" Despite the numerous advantages Third World corridors may have, they are also used as a "security blanket" by many students. This hinders some students from being able to deal with the real world.

In response to the 'sardine situation' that developed at the beginning of this semester, as a result of the University enrolling more students than it could accommodate, Mr. Qualles said, "Each year the Housing Department has to play a "guessing game" with the number of incoming students, re-entering students, suspended students, seniors, etc. This year the University sent out approximately 12,000 acceptances, 56 per cent of these were Mass. residents. They (the University) calculate that approximately 1,200 students will not return yearly, Mr. Qualles said. This year only 600 students didn't return, leaving between 6 and 700 students without housing. Gradually the situation filtered out by tripling up some students and other students slowly moved off campus. The fact that seniors are not required to inform the University if they're moving off campus, makes the situation even more difficult.

If it appears that there are more men at the University than women, your observation is absolutely correct. "Too many men come to UMass and not enough women," says Mr. Qualles. "Basically society is racially and sexually diiscriminatory. Women are not encouraged to go to school." Consequently, there are approximately 2,200 more males than females at UMass. The ratio between coed and not coed is 65:35 per cent. The majority of the women live in one or two concentrated areas.'

The Residence Management is part of the Community Development Center. The Residence Management has different approaches to problems. Mr. Qualles says he has worked on both sides of the fence. He continues to say that, "if you are pleasing all management you are probably neglecting humanity."

When asked if he has detected any racism within the administration of his department, Mr. Qualles said that he has not felt threatened by racism or other people's attitudes. "Your politics have to be what you do and not so much what you say," he said.

His future plans in the Housing Department is to have more specialty programs for veterans, minorities, Asians, etc.

One of his personal goals is to get involved in "long range politics." Mr. Qualles confidently says that, "he is not afraid to make and live with his own decision." He concluded saying that "he wants to be a person who can open doors for other people." He continues to say that "he is not afraid of power. The only thing that makes power bad is what happens to people who are involved in it.

LORE AND LYRICISM: TWO SHOWS AT THE STUDIO MUSEUM IN HARLEM

Continued From Page 4

which will counteract colonialism's attempt to falsify and harm. We must work and fight with the same rhythm as the people to construct the future and to prepare the ground where vigorous shoots are already springing up. A national culture is not a folklore, nor an abstract populism that believes it can discover the people's true nature. It is not made up of the inert dregs of gratuitous actions, that is not to say actions which are less attached to the everpresent reality of the people. A NATIONAL CULTURE IS THE WHOLE BODY of efforts made by a people in the sphere of thought to describe, justify, and praise the action through which that people has created itself and keeps itself in existence.

Located between 125th and 126th at 2033 Fifth Avenue in Harlem, The Studio Museum is dedicated to sharing Black visual and plastic arts. Location and ceremonial openings provide more possibility for drawing people in from the streets while the typical museum or gallery is inaccessible to people. Cordiality offered by those working at the museum also works to build up a relationship between the diversity of peoples who views its shows and Black creative artists. This museum has definitely fed the rebellion against stark bareness of walls or the obscene visualities that neonize our environments with madness. In conclusion, this is a people's museum.

These two shows will be on exhibit until November 6th.

White Collar Crime 'Pays'

Continued from Page 3

In fact, as evidenced by the late Illinois Governor Otto Kerner, who was convicted on fraud charges, John Dean, H.R. Haldeman and other prominent figures, most white collar criminals are well educated, churchgoing, married and successful in their profession.

But apart from that, they are dishonest. Because of their education they are able to successfully engage in such crimes as price fixing, insurance fraud, kickbacks, credit card and check fraud, consumer fraud, petty larceny, embezzlement, forgery and bribery to name just a few.

Ironically, according to a recent New York Times - CBS poll very few Americans are concerned about white collar crime.

The poll found the 54 per cent are more concerned about the sale of illicit drugs to children, compared to 30 per cent who are concerned about being "ripped off" by corporations.

Significantly, many Americans go along with white collar crime because they don't consider taking things from an employer stealing in the way they would if a burglar entered their home.

This fact was borne out by a University of Cincinatti study of retail store employees.

Ronald Tatum, a marketing professor, interviewed by CBS, noted that "half the people we talked to admitted taking things and when they did they didn't consider it stealing. They said things such as 'it's okay because everyone does it. My boss really doesn't care because they take things too.'"

Mr. Tatum cited one case where merchandise was taken valued at up to $7,500. The person taking the merchandise said it was not stealing because it was an accepted practice.

Ironically, according to some observers, the white collar criminal is admired, especially if he doesn't get caught. And even if he is caught, he is admired because of the amount of time he went undetected in his criminal pursuits.

Why is white collar crime on the rise—?

According to some observers — greed: the affluent society syndrome, a desire for status, and in the case of some men, the desire to provide the "good life" for a wife or girlfriend or the family.

In some cases, women have led to the uncovering of schemes to milk the public by white collar criminals although it was not done out of a sense of altruism.

One case in point involves a woman who blew the cover on her lover-boss when he wanted to terminate the relationship. The action subsequently led to several indictments which resulted in a major scandal in Chicago which is the subject of a closely watched trail.

One management consultant has been heard to say that "when a man has a task beyond his capabilities he has two choices: to fail or to cheat."

The consultant said he has yet to hear a man tell his superiors to take back his title, his promotion or his bonus. The most likely thing the employer will do, the consultant said, is cheat, falsify or engage in other illicit activities.

Remember The Teachings Of Malcom X

Oh! Calcutta! Is it Dirt?

Oh! Calcutta! isn't great art, but neither is it sadistic, kinky, nor exploitive of either sex. And every once in a while it succeeds in holding the mirror up to our sexual nature.

By ANDREW GOODWIN
and KARIEN ZACHERY

For those of us who like dealing with reality and not hiding behind a dream, the production of 'Oh! Calcutta' was real, depicting exactly what is happening in today's sexual society. What millions of people do, even the so-called "big wheels" behind their mansion doors, was actually made into a musical production and put in front of the people's faces. People of today's society don't want anyone exposing any of their misgivings so they try to prevent this exposure. Thus, the ban of 'Oh! Calcutta'. But Springfield came through, out of the little prurient shell they have been sitting in for so long. Springfield has finally hatched.

"Oh! Calcutta! isn't great art, but neither is it sadistic, kinky, nor exploitive of either sex. And every once in a while it succeeds in holding the mirror up to our sexual nature," so says Stephanie Kraft of the 'Valley Advocate'. She was in attendance of both the play and the obscenity hearing, from which she gathered information and compiled a review of 'Oh! Calcutta'."

"It was pretty clear from the beginning of the hearing on Wednesday, Sept. 8, that the city of Springfield wasn't going after the play very hard. Only dultifulness and professionalism — what seemed to boil down to devotion to sound procedure and keeping the record straight on the parts of Judge John Greaney and two opposing lawyers saved the obscenity hearing on the play from being downright anticlimatic. As it was, those attending were treated to a study in the futility of trying to codify and enforce definities of what constitutes obscenity."

"Since the first requirement in the enforcement of laws designed to protect the public from obscene material is a thorough scrutiny of the filthy stuff by those appointed to enforce the laws, the first thing on the court's agenda was a two-hour showing of 'Oh! Calcutta!', on videotape, just by way of habeous corpus."

"Before the viewing even started Greaney tipped the attorneys the word that they would be able to rest their cases by the end of the afternoon."

"The only one who exhibited any tension in the early stages of the preceeding was Dyke Spear, the show producer."

Before the show Spear had said that he had been warned that his production should vacate Symphony Hall, where the production was shown, by 12:00 midnight. He also expressed his negligence to the warning and said that the show would go anyway.

"After the opening number, a large group dance in the nude, Spear explained nervously and with dead seriousness that the 'long view' of strategic antomical areas wasn't shown even when the dancers formed a chorus line."

However, the genitals of both sexes were totally exposed whether from a 'longview' or a shortview of the audience.

"After the next episode, entitled, "Jack and Jill,' during which a man pretends to measure a woman internally with a ruler, Spear assured the court again that nowhere can one see more inches of anyone's genitals. It was hard to decide which was more absurd, the swinger measuring the woman with the ruler, or the suggestion that the jury was there to measure pornography by the inch."

"In short the show that went to court made it to the stage in Springfield, Saturday night and played without the interference of Spfld's Crime Prevention Bureau."

And why shouldn't it have? If those who make the laws that supposedly protect the law from obscenity, can allow a film showing as obscene as 'Deep Throat' rated XXX, to appear on a college campus, why should they discriminate against 'Oh! Calcutta!' The only different between the two productions was one was a live production and one was a live production and one was a movie. In fact, X rated movies should be considered 10 times more obscene than a live production simply because the audience has a closer and clearer view.

"And for grossness, a society that can handle the liver that Portnoy had twice in one day — once around his cock and once in the end of his fork — ought to be able to handle 'Oh! Calcutta!', says Stephanie Kraft of 'The Advocate'.

However, it is not a question of society being able to handle 'Oh! Calcutta!', or pornography period. Granted that 'Oh! Calcutta!' justly won its fight in court to appear in Springfield under the law, but it is still pornography. If they are going to fight to ban pornography from corrupting society, they should fight against all of it.

Briefbags

Zippers and pockets inside and out. Shoulder straps, snaps, sliding handles, options galore - canvas with vinyl trim, camel, rust, brown, navy, black.

$6.95 TO $8.95

Faces of Earth

Next to the Amherst Post Office
Open: 9:30-6, Mon. thru Sat.

(Latin — Soul — Funk — Disco)

La Familia at Hampshire College is proud to announce a Benefit Disco for the Northampton Chapter of the Hispanic Council for Human Rights at Hampshire Dinning Commons on November 4, 1977 at 9:00 p.m.

We warmly extend an invitation to Clap your hands, Stomp your feet, and Shake your bootie for the sake of the survival of the Hispanic Northampton Community. The recorded music of Third World People (Latin-Soul-Funk-Disco) will provide the inspiration for our dancing feet and spirits. We are asking for a $1.00 donation; all proceeds will go to the Hispanics Council for Human Rights. Refreshments will be available but BYOB — bring your own bottle.

For those who relate to the social reality of the Rainbow struggle, a panel-discussion will precede the Dance at the (West Lecture Hall — Franklin Paterson at 8:00 p.m.)

The panel-discussion will consist of representatives from the Hispanic Northampton Community and is entitled: Crisis: International and Local Struggles of Hispanics. La Familia is a collective of Third World brothers and sisters that are dedicating their energies to the communities of oppressed peoples.

Black Mass Communication Projects

Schedule for Fall 1977, WMUA 91.1 FM Stereo

Sunday 9 a.m.-11 a.m.; Rev. Pearson, Jubilation (Black Classical Music)

Monday 10 a.m.-2 p.m.; 7 p.m.-10 p.m.; Bob Forrant, Concepto Latino (Bro. Miguel)

Tuesday 10 a.m.-2 p.m.; 10 p.m.-2 a.m.; Jose Tolson, Third World Women's Show

Wednesday 6 a.m.-10 a.m.; 7 p.m.-10 p.m.; Black Classical Music, The Medicine Show

Thursday 10 a.m.-2 p.m.; 10 p.m.-2 a.m.; BMCP DJ's, Felipe Nieves

Friday 10 a.m.-2 p.m.; BMCP DJ's

Saturday 2 p.m.-6 p.m.; 6 p.m.-10 p.m.-10 p.m.-2 a.m.; Bro. Rick, Alyssia Bryan, Greg Phillips

Public Service Announcement

Two very interesting and important events for CCEBS students will be coming up in the near future. Bill Johnson, President of Resource Placement and Development, Inc., will be demonstrating interviewing techniques by conducting mock interviews of students in the New Africa House. The time for this session on interviewing is Wednesday, November 9 from 2:30 - 4:30 p.m. in the second floor lounge of the New Africa House. In addition to this, on Wednesday, November 16 from 2:30 - 4:30 p.m., a similar session will be conducted by Mr. Johnson on resume preparation. This resume workshop will also be held in the second floor lounge of the New Africa. House. The importance of these two events cannot be over-emphasized. All interested CCEBS students must sign up for these two sessions with Brian Maher in room 208 of the New Africa House by Friday, November 4.

Announcement

Study Skills Workshops will be held Monday - Thursday (October 24-27) in Room 209 New Africa House. The workshop leaders will be available to help you with notetaking, writing skills, and preparation of reports etc. The schedule for the workshops is as follows:

Monday, 4-5:30 p.m.; Tuesday, 4-5:30 p.m. and 7-8:30 p.m.; Wednesday, 7-8:30 p.m. and Thursday 7-8:30 p.m.

All are welcome to attend. If you have any questions, contact Phil Hicks, Room 211, 5-0031.

---

Scenes from Chocolate Box Review

Bill Hasson intro Chocolate Box Review

Just a couple of down home boys

King of "The World"

Take it out!

Queen of "The World"

I thought I knew for sure

WOODY SHAW IN CONCERT AT U-MASS

Woody Shaw, noted jazz trumpeter and recording artist will perform at the U-Mass Student Union Ballroom Friday October 28th.

Appearing with Woody Shaw will be his concert ensemble featuring Cater Jefferson on tenor, Jimmy Vass on alto, Steve Turre on trombone, Onaje Allan Gumbs on piano, Cliff Houston on bass and Victor Lewis on drums.

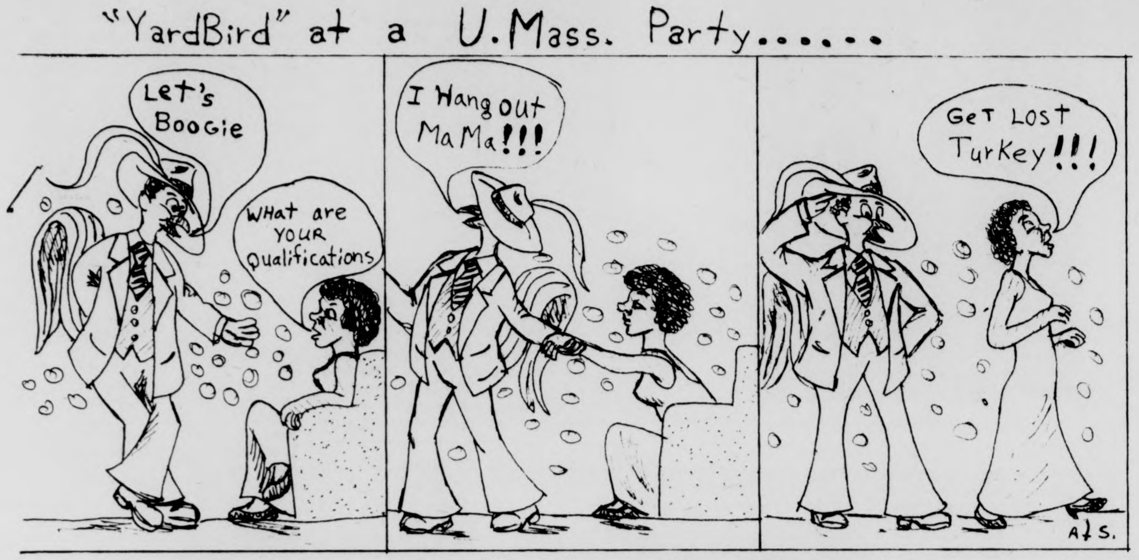
A veteran of the Europeon jazz scene, Woody Shaw's latest album, Live at the Berliner Jazztage, reflects Europes encouragement of the avant-garde.

Strengthened and more creative because of this influence, Woody Shaw and his ensemble should provide an exciting example of the kind of adventurous jazz being experimented with by Shaw and his other young contemporaries: Steve Lacey and Anthony Braxton.

Tickets are $2.50 (general admission).

They are available at TIX (UMass Student Union — across from Post Office). Also, they are available in Amherst at Faces of Earth, Backroom Records, and Sun Music, and the Sound Room in Northampton.

This event is being sponsored by Union Program Council in association with WMUA. Future events will include: A halloween party featuring Widespread Depression on October 31, and Bobby Hutchinson on November 19.



"YardBird" at a U.Mass. Party......
Let's Boogie
WHat are YOUR Qualifications
I Hang out MaMa!!!
GeT LOST Turkey!!!
A+S.

DISCRIMINATION IN NORTHAMPTON

Racial discrimination, also known as prejudice, is a preconceived judgement usually directed at groups or individuals because of their race or characteristics of their person.

It is an outgrowth of insufficient interracial knowledge and the resulting irrational attitude of suspicion and hostility.

We well know that discrimination does not only occur in the South (viz. South Boston) and that it has not been overcome by the Civil Rights movement. Everyday interactions between the races gives evidence of this; that discrimination is alive and well in Northamption.

Discrimination in one way or another affects all Third World people in the Valley. In this area, (Northampton), the main victims are Latinos, most of whom are Puertorriquenos, who came here under the illusion that they would find work, a better environment, and a better life for their children. The socio-economic conditions on their island homeland — a colonial possession of the U.S. for nearly a century — often made this the only alternative to poverty and despair.

For Puerto Ricans, as well as other Third World people, the American Dream never came true. The reason for this is obvious.

Nevertheless, in order to determine the vital needs of Latinos in our area, and to discover exactly where discrimination exists in this community, the Hispanic Council for Human Rights very recently conducted a survey of the Latino community. The Council, formerly known as the Puerto Rican Committee for Human Rights, is a group of individuals who in response to acts of harrassment and discrimination against Latinos, have organized themselves to combat this oppressive disease of American Society.

While the exact data and analysis of the study are to be presented in a thorough form in the weeks to come, much of what the Hispanic Council for Human Rights discovered only confirmed the obvious.

The majority of Puertorriquenos, both men and women, have been employed for at least three years, (contradictory to the myth of being on welfare), doing factory work, machine-operating, farmwork, housecleaning, secretarial work and cooking. The wages that most of these workers receive, however, is at (or below) the U.S. Govt. poverty level for a family of four.

Of all the people interviewed, nearly half have children of school age. These are Spanish-speaking families, who unanimously stated that they wanted their children to retain their culture and language; while at the same time acquiring the ability to speak, read and write English plus the skills that could lead to a better life.

Yet, what do they find? There is no adequate bilingual-bicultural education program in the area schools — even though this is mandated by law. (Ch.622-Act 71A).

In addition, it was discovered that access to employment, decent medical care and legal assistance is made nearly impossible by the lack of Hispanic or bi-lingual personnel in the hospitals, courts, welfare, and employment offices. The people interviewed unanimously agreed on the need for Hispanic employees and interpreters in these key agencies.

Social service centers, set up to attempt to alleviate these and other problems, such as H.C.A.C.'s Centro Hispano, find themselves facing the same discrimination. The Centro Hispano is presently fighting an eviction notice.

Educational centers like the FarmWorker's Council, which is run by people of the Hispanic community that it serves, offers courses in basic English and Math, High School equivalency exam preparation, and other pertinent services. Recently, their contract was terminated and funds that would enable their program to continue were channeled to other sources. Apparently, officials of this city (Northampton CETA) presume themselves more qualified to run a program for Latinos than the people from the Spanish-speaking community themselves, who have been running it successfully for two years.

These above-mentioned instances and many more are clear examples of discrimination. But cases of discrimination have been fought and beaten before through people's struggles, it can and must be combatted here and now. To do this, we must overcome the mistrust that divides us and come together to continue working to obtain justice in our community.

If you know of still other cases of discrimination, or want to help combat it, contact The Hispanic Council for Human Rights - 586-5537 or 584-0672.

In Unity There is Strength

Eno Washington

"Midnight Dance Improvisations"

Eno Donald Washington will perform this week at the Hampden Theatre at Midnight on Wednesday, October 26th and at the N'Fafa Gallery, 35 West Street on Saturday, October 29th at 8:00 p.m.

Wednesday's performance, "Midnight Dance Improvisations" will feature Black classical dance choreographed by Eno Donald Washington and hand drumming. The N'Fafa performance will again include music by conga players Gary Owens and Tony and will also peresent Ima Henderson reciting poetry.

Eno Donald Washington utilizes African and new world tradiational movements, rhythms, ceremonial garments and music to maintain his dedication to an art that has been usurped and deformed by a society bent to do the impossible, codemn it to extinction.

An Open Letter

by Fredrick Clayton

I am very upset at the bourgeoisie attitude that some people held toward the group "Pleasure." I talked with the members of the group individually and collectively they feel that the atmosphere at UMass could be compared to the body of a cold fish.

The members of the group were not warmly greeted upon arrival at UMass, they are professional recording artists that travel nationally on tour. When the group performs at College Campuses like UMass they are ravished by autograph seekers, well wishers, and admirers, but not here.

I was at a party held after the concert in Butterfield Dorm and I actually saw whom ever it was admitting people into the party try an charge "Pleasure" the admission fee of $1.00.

Whomever was in charge of the party should note that had "Pleasure" attended the party it would have been a grand occasion for students to talk informally with them about their experiences in the recording industry and their experiences about life in general.

In the long run this thing will back lash UMass. Recording artists in the future will avoid us if this type of treatment of artists persists.

I sincerely believe that someone should send "Pleasure" a letter of apology because the treatment they received was negligent and disrespectful.

---

Bring pumpkin, joint, lawyer to smoke-in

By JOAN FEENEY
Collegian Staff

"Bring a pumpkin, bring a joint", suggest the posters around campus announcing the Yippie (Youth International Party) — sponsored "Smoke-In" on Amherst Common this Thursday at "High Noon".

But bringing a lawyer might be more valuable, according to Amherst Police Chief Donald Maia, who "cautions students about possible arrests" because "these laws being protected are still on the books."

Maia yesterday said he would be in contact with the district attorney's office regarding the demonstration, and would take no preventive action at present.

Maia suggested the possibility of the demonstration being an advertising ploy to attract attention to groups currently working on drug law reforms in Massachusetts.

Maia noted the posters do not use the word marijuana. The Yippies, however claim the "weed" advertised will be marijuana.

Russ Swan, one of "about three dozen" people organizing the smoke-in, yesterday did not stress the importance of obtaining signatures Thursday to reform marijuana laws.

Swan, a sophomore from Andover, said in a phone interview the purposes of the smoke-in are to "set an example" in protesting drug laws, and "to get a lot of people high."

Swan explained the protest is being held in town rather than on campus to attract a larger number of people and "because it was easier to get a permit."

Maia, when informed the Yippies had obtained a town permit to assemble, checked the records and found a permit listed for an assembly with live music and a "pumpkin party".

The Yippies plan to smoke five pounds of "weed", which Swan said they acquired through "private donations". Steve Gibbons, another Yippie, would not say over the phone where the dope is being stored because he said he believes his phone may be tapped.

He said "3,000 pre-rolled joints" will be lit up and handed out.

Gibbons, a volunteer who said he does not smoke pot, added other volunteers would possess no more than one quarter of an ounce.

Gibbons said the smoke-in is "more of a protest than a party", and is geared to publicize the absurdity of existing drug laws "not to mayors and senators, but to those in the 18-30 year age group who might become involved."

Gibbons said while the Yippies are not representing the Marijuana Initiative Petition Committee on campus, they hope this demonstration will draw attention to such groups working for legislative reform.

The smoke-in organizers have been planning the event for over a month now and expect over 3,000 to attend.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 38
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1977
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA. 01003 (413) 545-3500

Experts argue Mid East views

By AMY KAPLAN
Collegian Staff

Four experts on the Middle East exchanged views in a heated debate last night. The many different viewpoints represented among the 100 people in attendance were expressed by much applause and booing as the different panelists' views were presented.

All the panelists agreed the path to peace is a clear one yet they disputed the methods toward achieving this goal.

During a question and answer period following the discussion, the panelists attacked positions using historical quotations, poetry, and personal experience to document the strife in the Middle East.

The four panelists took part in a debate entitled "Crisis in the Middle East" in the Campus Center Auditorium at 8. The debate took the form of a panel discussion where the four speakers each gave a fifteen minute speech addressing different aspects of the situation in the Middle East.

The four panelists included Columbia University Prof. David Sidorsky, John Hillson, founder of the Palestine Solidarity Committee, international journalist Bassem Mouallem, and Prof. Haim B. Gunner of Environmental Sciences and founder of Kibbutz Sasa in Israel. The discussion opened with Sidorsky outlining from a Zionist position five propositions supporting a peace settlement in the Middle East.

He said "the value of distributive justice for the Israeli nation and the concept of national self determination with regard to the Israel citizens' right to a nation are the two first important priorities in establishing peace in the Middle East."

He went further to note "the concepts of universal human rights, legitimacy of the contract establishing the nation of Israel, and the Israeli citizens' quest for peace" are facts showing the Israeli citizens' right to a land of freedom from oppression."

He said the "Israelis are willing to negotiate a settlement, yet the Arabs refuse to meet for a variety of reasons."

Hillson spoke next in direct opposing the Israeli position as outlined by Sidorsky.

"Zionism failed politically and the idea of the establishment of a Jewish state cannot work at present," he said.

He noted "Israel is a nation founded on racism, oppression, and inferiority, much like the former Jim Crow ideas of the United States South."

He stressed the poor conditions in Israel for Arabs including "Poor housing, unfair discrimination in Israeli universities, and the denial of Arab citizens' pleas for owning land."

He said the question in the Middle East situation is not whether Israel has a right to exist but whether Israel as an oppressive, racist state has the right to exist.

The account of Israel as outlined by Hillson was seen to Gunner as a "nightmare version of the Israeli state, dominated by the paranoia that has oppressed European Jews for centuries."

He stressed the need for students to examine Israel as a "progressive state that bears the mold of a democratic-socialist political tradition.

"The self transforming act of Israel is one that all humanity can be proud of," he said.

In order for a peace settlement to be reached in the Middle East, the Arabs and Israelis must recognize the legitimacy of the Israeli state and negotiations must be conducted with no intermediary countries taking part."

Mouallem spoke next about the need for a settlement to be negotiated only if Israel will recognize the Palestinian Liberation Organization as a legitimate body.

He said both states have the "potential for a peaceful coexistence and this can happen in the near future."

He said the holocaust of World War II must be forgotten and the anguish of both the Jews and Arabs understood before peace can be obtained.

"Our only hope is to forget; the college students are the answer to important decision making because the vigor of youth and their unbiased viewpoint can be channeled into the energy that can create lasting peace."

Four experts on the Middle East last night debated why there isn't peace there. Top, bottom, left and right, Bassem Mouallen, David Sidorsky, John Hillson and Haim B. Gunner. (Staff photo by Farhad Assari)

Inside

Reporter's Line

A bill that would extend the period of time a veteran can use his Educational Assistance Allowance has passed in the Senate and now awaits a vote in the House. See Ruth McGorty's story, Page 3.

Wire Line

President Carter laid wreaths on graves and spoke at Arlington National Cemetery in recognition of Veterans Day, observed yesterday by federal employes. See story, Page 5.

Weather

Mostly fair today, highs 65-70. Cloudy and cooler in the late afternoon with a 10 per cent chance of rain tonight. Lows in the 50s tonight. Chance of rain tomorrow, highs in the 60s. Good weather and times expected in New Orleans!

Durfee Conservatory

...a garden of knowledge

By BARBARA TETREAULT
Collegian Staff

Concealled in aa obscure section of campus lies an oasis of tropical plants virtually ignored by the majority of the student body. According to the greenhouse keeper, John Tristan, "a lot of people don't know this place exists."

Durfee Conservatory, located beside the University Health Center, contains 5,000 different species of tropical plants ranging from banana and palm trees to orchids. In the center of the conservatory is a small reflecting pool and fountain spanned by a wooden bridge. Eight thousand square feet of plants are spread throughout the four different temperature-controlled compartments of the conservatory.

The conservatory, however, receives few visitors even though it is open daily, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. "Occasionally people on the way to the Infirmary (Health Center) will stop in," said Tristan.

But aside from a few tours for parents and school children, Tristan said the majority of people who visit are students using the conservatory for their classes. In addition to Stockbridge agriculture and botany classes some students use Durfee as a laboratory for science classes, while others use the plants as subjects for art courses.

According to Tristan an important feature of Durfee is that all the plants are grown without the use of chemical pesticides. In what he said he hopes will become "a model for the state", Tristan has instituted a program without chemical pesticides that uses parasitic insect and insect growth regulators to control insects. This process, Tristan said, has proved to be very effective in Durfee.

"This shows that you don't have to use pesticides, that it can be done without them," said Tristan. The program also makes the conservatory a safer environment for people to visit.

"People don't have to worry about getting chemicals on their hands and clothes, especially if they have little kids with them," said Tristan.

The conservatory was build in 1867 and named after its benefactor, Dr. Nathan Durfee, the first treasurer of the first UMass, Massachusetts Agricultural College. Durfee donated $10,000 to help build the conservatory.

According to the annual report of 1867, Durfee Conservatory was designed for experiments in hybridizing, propagating, and cultivating useful and ornamental plants, as well as in teaching horticulture and systematic botany."

Durfee was originally built where the Health Center parking lot is located. The conservatory was rebuilt in 1909 and then moved during campus expansion to its present location in 1955. Tristan said the conservatory land and structure now are worth $250,000.

Tristan, a 1972 UMass plant and soil graduate, studied tropical plants and greenhouse management in Colorado before moving to Sweden where he commercially cultivated tropical plants. He has worked at Durfee for one year.

Besides his duties at Durfee, Tristan teaches a course on tropical plants in the University School of Continuing Education.

It was in Sweden that Tristan said he learned a lot of the insect control program which he has instituted at Durfee.

"In Sweden they have much more stringent safety standards. I like the standards I learned there and have tried to use them here," said Tristan.

One problem at the conservatory that seems to be unique to UMass is vandalism, Tristan said.

"I haven't heard of other colleges having this problem. I find this discouraging," he said.

There is no need for anyone to steal. It just ruins it for eveyone because some of the plants are irreplaceable. If anyone wants a cutting I will give it to them if I can without harming the plant," said Tristan.

Tristan has done a number of interesting things to Durfee besides the insect control program. One of his particular interests is a family of African plants known as Gesneriads. He also built the bridge over the pool. He said he hopes to see Durfee expanded in the future with greater student interest in the conservatory.

Brutality increases for bar owners

PROVIDENCE [AP] — Shakedowns of single bars and discotheques are becoming more blatant and brutal when the owners refuse to cooperate with organized crime figures, law enforcement sources say.

The sources said these shakedowns, which are being probed by the FBI, as well as state and local police, also involve new tactics, including demands to share cover charges.

"They still demand money payments, arrange partnerships and provide bouncers," one source said. "However, now they've started sending people to singles bars to collect cover charges.

"Anything that makes money, they'll be involved in."

Some of the more traditional shakedowns in the Providence area have been to frighten businessmen into using certain vending machines and a certain garbage collection service, a source said.

The sources, who have dealt with organized crime in New England since the 1960s, said the methods have changed and unwilling businessmen are more often being beaten.

An example of the violence arose this month when a band booking agent was assaulted at a Providence nightclub by "thugs" dispatched by the mob's top enforcer in Rhode Island, the authorities said.

The booking agent, Kenneth E. O'Brien, 36, of Cranston, needed more than 100 stitches to close head wounds and also suffered a broken left arm and hand. He refused to press charges, however.

"People like O'Brien have no way to retaliate," a source said. "They're afraid. They know the reputation of these guys."

Providence police have said the beating apparently resulted from an attempt by a Providence mobster to take over O'Brien's booking business, which is reportedly one of the largest in New England.

The mobster, who dispatched three "thugs" to beat O'Brien, is well known to Rhode Island authorities. They have said he has also taken over several Providence nightspots.

"They are more blatant and brutal than before," said a source. "But I don't think there has been an increase in shakedowns. It just seems that you hear about more of them now."

Until about two years ago, the chief enforcer for organized crime in the Providence area was Richard "Dickie" Callei, the source said. However, Callei's body was found in a shallow grave in Rehoboth, Mass., in early 1975. He had been shot, beaten and stabbed.

"Callei was well connected but he didn't do what he was told," a source said. "He was greedy. He shook down some of the wrong people. That just doesn't happen."

In interviews with the AP, the sources gave the following account of the shakedown operation.

Owners of restaurants and bars in Providence, Johnston, Warren and North Providence and other communities have been approached and told they must provide a share of their business.

Owners are given time to think over the proposal, but if they resist, some form of harassment begins.

The enforcer may scare customers away by dispatching some men to the restaurant or bar to start fights, throw furniture or employ several other disruptive tactics.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor William Mills

| | |
|---|---|
| Issue Assistant | Barbara Metzler |
| Editorial Layout | Paula Strollo |
| Wire Layout | Janis Worth |
| Ad Layout | Bert Dougan |
| Day Layout | Elaine Scannell |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Dan Voulimiere |
| Sports Layout | Walt Cherniak |
| Copy Editor | Rose Conway |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid . ˋmherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Selectmen outline DNA research group

By PAMELA LINDMARK
Collegian Staff

Amherst Board of Selectmen last night outlined necessary steps for appointing a special Recombinant DNA Study Committee. The establishment of the committee had been authorized in last week's Special Town Meeting.

The board at its meeting also voted to rephrase wording in Article Four of the Warrant Articles to attempt to insure its success in Amherst's mid-November Town Meeting. The board also approved an amended project budget for the Amherst Redevelopment Authority (ARA), and approved the town's continued participation in and expenditures for the Regional Resource Committee Project.

In dealing with the appointment of a Recombinant DNA Study Committee, the selectmen outlined some specific duties of the committee. As is outlined in Article 14 of the Warrant Articles, the committee would be responsible for collecting, summarizing, and disseminating related information to the town; examining social and ethical implications of DNA research; and assessing and defining any dangers in this research.

Chairman Diana H. Romer also specified the importance of this committee in evaluating existing and proposed controls dealing with the research. The committee is to work with the selectmen to implement a system of control for the town. However, Romer last night pointed to the committee as having a "much more detailed and specific task."

Selectman William C. Atkins pointed to the necessity of caution in appointing this committee.

"There was heated debate at Town Meeting last week," said Atkins. "Do not take it lightly, we must take the hiring of the committee seriously."

The board outlined three major steps to be considered in the appointments. First, said Romer, the board must work with the "institutors" to develop informal agreements on how to communicate with each other.

Second, there must be a clear outline of the role of committee members — what their function is to be.

And third, the criteria to be used in selecting committee members must be determined.

Romer also cited the need for a clear establishment of the qualifications of any candidates being considered. "References," said Romer, would be helpful when interviewing applicants.

In other business, the board also decided to rephrase the wording in Article Four of the Warrant Articles. As established in last week's Town Meeting, this article would authorize the appointment of a five-member Water Supply Conservation Committee to perform specific tasks in accordance with the water supply development program.

Selectmen last night voted to alter the article to read "To see if Town of Amherst will appropriate and transfer $1,000 in available water funds to expediate the study of water usage in conservation."

The board said it hopes this generalizing of a previously more detailed article will insure its passage in the November Town Meeting.

Selectmen unanimously decided to approve the amended project budget of the redevelopment authority by $200,000. This decision resulted from last week's Town Meeting decision to approve the budget, and would deal with continued funding of the Boltwood Walk Project, now underway behind businesses along No. Pleasant and Main Streets.

A decision was made also to continue participating in expenditures for the Regional Resource Committee Project. The proposed project is for a resource recovery facility to be located on property presently owned by the Monsanto Chemical Company in Springfield. The project would use a refuse-derived fuel to generate steam for Monsanto.

The town has been involved with this project for a year and a half already, in an effort to deal with the problem of resource refuse derived from waste as an alternative in the resource recovery area. Board members approved the expenditure of $2,000 and continuation on the project, anticipating future needs for land fill in Amherst.

Mark Bradley displays a 115-lb. pumpkin grown by his rommate's 12-year-old brother. The pumpkin will share living quarters with Bradley until Halloween when...(Staff photo by Chris Bourne)

Vets ask support

By RUTH McGORTY
Collegian Staff

ATTENTION ALL UMASS VETERANS: The Veterans Service Organization [VSO] urges you to write to your United States representatives concerning the new bill in Congress dealing with Veteran's benefits. A table will be set up in the Campus Center today where you can get information and addresses.

A bill in the U.S. Senate, introduced by Sen. John Durkin D-New Hampshire, would provide a 6.6 per cent cost of living increase, waiver for two year rule, and accelerated payments for veterans.

An amendment introduced by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-California, would extend the period of time that a veteran can have to use the GI Bill Educational Assistance Allowance.

According to Arthur L. Hilson, director of the Veterans Affairs Office, "Under current law, a veteran has or had ten years from the date of discharge or until May 31, 1976, whichever date is later, to attend school under the GI Bill.

"On May 31, 1976," Hilson said, "over 3.6 million post-Korean, cold war and Vietnam era veterans lost entitlements to the GI Bill benefits. Of this number approximately 482,000 veterans were enrolled in training. Since that date, Vietnam era veterans have lost entitlements every day as a result of the ten year delimiting period."

The Cranston amendment would allow eligible veterans to extend their benefits up to two years to complete their degree program, provided they are full-time students in their tenth year. During the eleventh year, the veteran would be eligible for half the normal benefits, and during the twelfth year, a third of the amount, according to Hilson.

Cranston's press aide, Peg Lotito Friday said the bill passed in the Senate with a vote of 91-0 and is now awaiting a House vote. She said she wasn't sure when the vote would take place.

Hilson said "the chances don't look optimistic for the passage of the bill." He said veterans should send letters to representatives, expressing concern.

"If they (representatives) have not heard from the vets, they think the vets are happy," he said.

Jodi Essig, coordinator of VSO said she hopes the bill would pass and feels the "attitudes from the general public towards veterans is poor." She said she especially feels this attitude because she is a female veteran.

"Women in the service are definitely looked down upon by society," Essig said, adding she hopes this attitude will change.

Another VSO member, Ron Corriveau, is anxious to see the bill passed. He said he feels the money given to veterans is not enough to cover the costs involved in tuition, books, and living expenses.

Essig said the veterans "have to get through school just like anyone else. We need money to survive."

Walk for Heart Fund

Walkers are being recruited in the Campus Center concourse today, tomorrow and Friday for the Heart Fund Walk Saturday to raise money for the American Heart Fund. Sign-up tables will be set up to register the walkers and distribute pledge sheets for the walk.

The walk, a twelve mile course beginning and ending at Haigis Mall in front of the Whitmore Administrative building, is sponsored by the national service sorority Gamma Sigma Sigma and fraternity Alpha Phi Omega. In previous years the Heart Fund Walk has raised an average of more than $1,000 in pledges.

Proceeds from this year's walk will be sent to the Western Massachusetts chapter and the national headquarters of the American Heart Fund. Money is collected through pledges of five cents or more per mile for the twelve mile hike.

The organization collecting the most money will receive a plaque and trophy from the Heart Fund. The award is passed on from the previous year's winner, in this case the UMass ROTC program. Walkers may represent themselves, a dormitory, Green House or any organization.

Information about Saturday's walk and the service sponsors is available at the walker sing-up table on the concourse this week or in room 304 of the Student Union.

More debate on Bakke case

Gregory Banks, a member of the National Student Conference Against Racism speaks on the Bakke case tonight at 8 in Mahar Auditorium. He is sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Program.

A member of the local Bakke coalition is also speaking.

Banks, formerly of Galveston, Texas, became active in NSCAR in 1975 after attending its national conference in Boston. He also helped organize a Houston group to participate in a NAACP pro-busing march in Boston.

Banks has been active in organizing activities defending Southern African political prisoners and backing black majority rule. Banks last summer worked with the American Coordinating Committee for Equality in Sport and Society to build a picket line at the United States Open Tennis Tournament protesting the participation of an all-white South African team.

Banks also is involved with setting up a bilingual education center in New York City and an October convention about deporting unauthorized Latino workers from this country.

CAC tables decision on films

by JULIE EAGLE
Collegian Staff

The Central Area Council (CAC) last night voted to table the decision to provide $142 for four films on nuclear energy. Eric Sandquist, of Wheeler dormitory, asked the council to provide funds so Wheeler can show the free movies "some time this semester."

Sandquist said the movies will represent both the pros and cons of using nuclear energy in today's society. The movies advocating nuclear energy are "Verses" and "Nuclear Power in the United States," both free.

Opposing nuclear energy are "War Games," which would cost $75, and "House Aide to Nuclear Power," $60. Sandquist said Wheeler also wants $7 for film publicity expenses.

"Nuclear power is a big issue...the films are pretty informative...and say a lot," said Sandquist.

In other business, council Treasurer Rich Fryer told the representatives the Orchard Hill-Central Area governments "want to work out something so dorms can have dorm parties and have it legal."

He told the council about a proposal made by the residential area Associate Director William W. Taylor which says "students dispensing alcohol" at dorm parties "must stay sober." Taylor also suggests guards must be posted at the dormitory doors of these functions, and guests of residents must pay for alcohol in advance.

"The whole thing gets down to having restricted access," Fryer said. He added that this proposal — which would first affect Orchard-Hill-Central Area and then possibly the entire University — is "very indefinite," and that a decision will be voted on "maybe next semester."

The Council also discussed the idea of having an area radio station. Council Activities Coordinator Jay Flynn, when asked about costs for the project, said "We have not gotten the figures yet."

Flynn said sources for funds would come from Program Supporting Funds (PSF) and from each area government. He added it is unsure whether Orchard Hill will want to join Central in the project.

Flynn also questioned whether the Council will receive funds from PSF. Flynn said that if the council did receive PSF money, the council would have to allocate "about $500" of its own funds. The reality of a radio station "will depend on the money we receive and whether Orchard Hill goes in on it with us," Flynn said.

"Reasonably, the best place to put the station would be in Van Meter dormitory...considering the antenna is only about 150 feet away, you'd get good reception...and should be able to cover just about all of Orchard Hill and Central," said Flynn.

He added the radio station would "reach a lot of people...and an excellent example of how the area government can spend its budget."

ARMY ROTC ORIENTATION WEEKEND

NEW HEIGHTS

By Doris Gallegos
Army ROTC

Last weekend's change of weather couldn't have come at a better time for about 99 Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) cadets who participated in the annual orientation trip to Fort Devens.

Planned and implemented by junior and senior cadets, the weekend enabled students to become familiar with the M-16 rifle, rapelling and orienteering. Also junior and senior cadets in leadership or staff positions had the opportunity to practice leadership techniques discussed in ROTC classes.

Freshmen cadets Friday night were exposed for the first time to Army life upon arriving at the troop billets where they were issued linen and assigned to eight-person rooms. Later, they not only ate meals in a military dining facility, but they also had their first taste of sea ration lunches.

After Friday night classes given by two cadet instructors, freshmen, sophomore, and junior cadets spent Saturday at a rifle range familiarizing themselves with the M-16 rifle. Cadets planning to attend Advanced Summer Camp remained at the range to obtain marksmanship qualification, while underclass members were introduced to rapelling by Bay State Special Forces (BSSF) cadets.

Despite their spending almost nine hours firing weapons and/or rapelling followed by a quick dinner and the tedious,but neccessary, ritual of cleaning weapons, most cadets changed clothes that night and took advantage of post facilities such as the Officer's Club or the movie theater.

Sunday morning found juniors and those sophomores planning on attending Advanced Summer Camp taking the Advanced Physical Fitness Test. Beginning shortly before sunrise, cadets wondered whether their graders, senior cadets, would insist that they be tested in front of the bus so that its headlights could be used. However, testing began and sunshine emerged soon after.

Land navigation proved challenging Sunday when cadet instructors led students on terrain tours, explaining the basic fundamentals of compass reading, pacing, and terrain identification. Cadets then applied what they had been taught by setting off to find five points on one of two courses. Although seniors had made conjectures about the liklihood of having to go out and search for lost people, most cadets returned withn their two-hour limit, and the rest wandered back shortly thereafter. All appeared tired, hungry, and slightly muddy.

IN ADVENTUROUS TRAINING

Photos by Randy Glenn & Steve Overton

The General's Place
35 E. Pleasant St.
Amherst 549-6166

- •100 per cent cotton shamois shirts $14.95
- •Flannel shirts from $5.49 (extra talls $6.49)
- •Corduroy Shirts $9.95
- •Sweatshirts from $3.98
- •Sweatpants $4.89
- •Wigwan Ragg Socks from $2.29
- •Large selection of rainwear and panchos from $1.98

● sweaters ● bags ● flannel shirts ● vests ● jackets ● belts ● blouses ●

genesis II
quality merchandise
recycled & new

COUPON SPECIALS

$5.00 for any pair of recycle JEANS and cord pants with coupon 10/24-11/5

25% off ARMY coats, jackets and shirts with coupon 10/24-11/5

$3.00 OFF NAVY PEACOATS with coupon 10/24-11/15

65 university dr.
amherst, ma.

549-2747

mon & sat 10-6
tues-fri 10-8

formerly Old Weird Harolds

---

ARLINGTON, Va.: Pres. Carter became only the third president to deliver the Veterans Day speech in the Arlington National Cemetery Amphitheater and the first to bring his family. Carter walks along with the First Lady and his daughter. (UPI)

Pres. Carter places wreath on grave to observe Veterans Day

WASHINGTON [AP] — President Carter, observing Veterans Day, called on the nation yesterday to join him in a "demonstrable will to preserve freedom in order to prevent war."

This, he said, would serve as "gratitude for those in the past who have given their lives and those who were willing to give their lives for the preservation of the greatest nation on earth."

Carter spoke at the Memorial Amphitheater at Arlington National Cemetery after placing a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

A crowd of 3,000 stood in mute reverence while the ceremony unfolded, as it has each year for six decades, with a 21-gun salute, a muffled drum roll, a bugler playing "Taps" and a minute of silence as honor squads from each service stood at attention.

Carter was accompanied by his wife and their daughter, Amy. On hand were Secretary of Defense Harold Brown, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and representatives of other government agencies, Congress and the Supreme Court.

National leaders or representatives of most of the nation's veterans groups were present. Flags were handed out and waved in a massive display after the playing of the national anthem.

Carter was introduced by his longtime friend, Max Cleland, the head of the Veterans Administration who lost both legs and an arm in Vietnam.

He told the President, "Your presence here means more than words can say about your personal commitment against war and for those who gave their best for this country."

Canal Treaty approved with opposition

AUGUSTA, Maine [UPI] — The national commander of the American Legion yesterday said he was encouraged by Panamanian opposition to a plan to take control of the Panama Canal, even though Panamanians approved the proposal by lopsided margin.

"Our primary concern and one of the greatest concerns of all Americans should be the matter of the proposed Panama Canal treaties," Robert C. Smith of Springhill, La., told a news conference at the Maine Statehouse.

The treaties which would turn control of the canal and its adjacent zone over to Panama by the year 2000 were approved by a 2-to-1 margin, but Smith said Panamanian leaders had indicated there would be no strong opposition.

"We would think a 2-to-1 showing means that all is not as we've been told. Maybe there's more opposition down there than meets the eye. We expected approval, but this vote indicates more opposition than we had counted on," he said.

Smith — silver-haired leader of the 2.7 million member veterans' organization — said he would travel to Washington, D.C., Tuesday to meet with other groups opposing the proposed treaties.

Smith, wearing his red American Legion cap and a grey three-piece suit, reaffirmed the Legion's opposition to the plan on military and economic grounds.

"We're opposed to any change in the sovereignty of the Panama Canal. Our main reason is the canal is needed greatly for our military security. We do not have a two-ocean navy. We need the canal to transit from one ocean to the other as the need arises," he said.

Smith said the Legion's effort against the canal proposal was "one of the largest issues and challenges we (the Legion) have combined on in a number of years" and one of the Legion's largest lobbying efforts ever.

The Legion commander concluded a two-day swing through Maine. He had also spoken out against the canal treaties during a Sunday stop at Waterville.

Smith succeeded past national commander William J. Rogers, the first Maine native elected to head the legion.

Nuclear arsenal created by Israel's thefts of uranium

NEW YORK [UPI] — Israel has assembled a secret nuclear arsenal through uranium thefts in Europe and America, which were subsequently covered up, according to an article released yesterday by Rolling Stone.

"The CIA estimates Israel has 15 nuclear bombs, and that's a conservative figure, and we've heard reports which are unconfirmed that they have up to 150 bombs," Howard Kohn, who co-authored the article with Barbara Newman, told a news conference at the magazine's headquarters.

The story was denied by the office of the Israeli consul general in New York, which said, "The entire story is baseless and pure speculation and is being circulated by the enemies of Israel to blacken the reputation the official Israeli stand that Israel will not be the first country to introduce nuclear weapons to the Middle East.

The article said Mossad, the Israeli intelligence service, set up a special commando unit in 1967 or 1968 that carried out four uranium hijackings in Europe — two with the cooperation of the French and West German governments.

Israel took to hijacking after it was forced to stop a 10-year smuggling operation at the Nuclear Materials and Equipment Corp. processing facility in Appolo, Pa., which netted 200 to 400 pounds of bomb-grade uranium, the article said.

"That's enough for two Hiroshima-type bombs," Kohn said.

Rolling Stone said the stolen material was used to give Israel a "last-resort military alternative" in its conflict with the Arabs.

The two authors said their two principal sources were a highly placed Pentagon consultant and former official for the National Security Agency.

The General Accounting office and three congressional committees currently are investigating the thefts of nuclear material in the United States.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission has estimated that some 8,000 pounds of uranium and plutonium are "missing" in the United States since the nuclear program began 20 years ago, including "a significant amount of nuclear material" from a plant in Irwin, Tenn., the authors said.

The magazine claimed the CIA brought the Pennsylvania operation to the attention of President Lyndon Johnson in 1966, but Johnson ordered then CIA director, Richard Helms, to keep the matter secret.

"The Ford White House was also briefed..... and the same information was handed over to the Carter White House in early 1977. It has now become a point of contention in the ongoing debate over whether to indict Helms in the unrelated CIA-Chile case," the article said.

"Helms has indicated he might feel compelled to divulge certain government secrets if he is indicted, and Carter administration officials allegedly are worried that the Pennsylvania case and Johnson's coverup may be among them," it said.

To decriminalize or not...

BOSTON [AP] — A bill to decriminalize possession of small amounts of marijuana was shipped off to the Senate Ways and Means Committee, where it is expected to die this year.

The bill would provide a $50 fine, handled similarly to a parking ticket, for those found in possession of one ounce or less of marijuana.

Sen. James A. Kelly Jr., D-Oxford, chairman of Ways and Means, said he personally favors the bill but does not see enough support for it in the Senate this year.

Sen. David H. Locke, R-Wellesley, opposed sending the bill to Ways and Means and said he would rather see it killed outright. Locke said as long as the bill remained in Kelly's hands he feared it would reappear during one of the late night sessions that usually precede the legislature's adjournment for the year.

MICHELOB
BEER
LOWENBRAU
MOLSON
GOLDEN ALE

Tonight!
BOTTLE NIGHT

12 oz. Bottles for 60¢ 9 til 1

THE PUB
AMHERST

News in Brief

Tiny Tim divorced by Miss Lickie

[UPI] — Victoria Budinger, who married Tiny Tim eight years ago before 45 million viewers of the Johnny Carson show, won a divorce from the singer yesterday.

Superior Court Judge Paul Lowenguib granted the divorce following a 90-minute hearing.

Tim, a long-haired, falsetto-voiced singer, did not show up in court. His attorney, Philip Paley, told the judge that he could not get in touch with his client, who was reported to be appearing in Atlantic City during the weekend.

Miss Budinger met Tim while he was signing autographs in a Philadelphia department store and married him on Dec. 19, 1969, on the Tonight Show. She was 17 years old at the time.

Miss Budinger, who had been separated from Tim for some time, had been seeking divorce on religious and residency grounds.

James Ray wants to replace lawyer

(UPI) — James Earl Ray, convicted killer of Martin Luther King Jr., asked yesterday that his attorney, Jack Kershaw of Nashville, be replaced by New York attorney Mark Lane, who wrote a book on the King assassination.

Kershaw, the latest of 10 attorneys Ray has had since his 1968 arrest, responded to the request by claiming that Ray is incompetent and requires a psychiatric examination before his upcoming trial on escape charges.

Ray made his request in preliminary motions filed with Criminal Court Judge Lee Ashbury in connection with his trial on charges of escaping from Brushy Mountain State Prison June 10. The trial is scheduled Thursday.

Ashbury took Ray's request under advisement.

Lane was co-author of "Code Name Zorro," an account of the King assassination which he wrote with Dick Gregory, a civil rights activist. He was Gregory's runningmate in a 1968 write-in campaign for president.

Totie Fields has been hospitalized

[UPI] — Comedienne Totie Fields has been hospitalized for an indefinite period suffering extreme exhaustion, her manager said yesterday.

Howard Hinderstein said Miss Fields, 47, entered Los Angeles New Hospital Sunday night and will undergo tests for several days.

Miss Fields' upcoming engagements at the Circle Star Theater in San Carlos, Calif. and at the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas were canceled.

Hinderstein said Miss Fields has had an extensive concert schedule since she returned to performing in March, following the amputation of her left leg in April 1976.

Doctors said her exhaustion resulted from a vigorous performing schedule.

Almost a year after the amputation, the entertainer underwent eye surgery. That operation stemmed from a complication of the diabetes that contributed to the phlebitis condition in her leg.

Last Thursday, she was honored as entertainer of the year by the Conference of Personal Managers West at the group's 21st annual banquet.

Eskimos cannot hunt bowhead whale anymore

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Chief Justice Warren Burger yesterday issued a last-minute rebuff to Eskimos seeking to continue their native custom of hunting the bowhead whale this spring.

Burger refused to order Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to object to the International Whaling Commission's ban on bowhead hunting for next spring's hunting season. Any objections had to be filed by a deadline of midnight London time, or 8 p.m. EDT.

The action topped a hectic day of legal activity which started when the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Cojumbia set aside an order in the Eskimos' favor, handed down last Friday by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

The chief justice denied a request by lawyers for the Eskimos who argued for a stay of the appeals court ruling.

If Burger had reinstated Sirica's order, the United States' opposition would have blocked the ban so far as the Eskimos are concerned, allowing them to continue their native tradition.

But the appeals court, in reversing Sirica, said opposition to the international agency's action could injure the United States by hindering its efforts to protect other whales and marine mammals.

South Africans go back on their word about weapons

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The State Department said yesterday South African Prime Minister John Vorster formally assured the United States two weeks ago that his nation will not develop any type of nuclear weapon — a "promise" Vorster now denies making.

The latest clash between the administration and the Pretoria government came on an issue which Washington apparently believed to be settled.

The State Department said it got "formal assurances" Aug. 21 that South Africa had no plans to develop nuclear explosives for purposes "peaceful or otherwise."

That assurance, the department said in a statement issued yesterday, was "repeated in a letter from Prime Minister Vorster to President Carter transmitted on Oct. 13, 1977."

Vorster, however, saw the situation differently.

During an interview with ABC-TV taped in Pretoria Oct. 17 and broadcast in the United States Sunday, he was asked: "Was President Carter medling when he obtained a promise from your government a couple of months ago that South Africa wouldn't develop nuclear bombs or nuclear weapons of any sort?"

Vorster replied, "I am not aware of any promise that I gave President Carter. I repeated a statement which I have made very often that, as far as South Africa is concerned, we are only interested in peaceful development of nuclear facilities."

But the State Department said South Africa has agreed not to develop the weapons for any purpose.

It said U.S. Ambassador William Bowdler asked South Africa's foreign ministry on Aug. 20 for three assurances:

"That South Africa does not have or intend to develop nuclear explosives for any purposes, peaceful or otherwise; that the Kalahari facility we had described to them is not a testing facility for nuclear explosives; that there will be no nuclear explosive testing of any kind of South Africa."

Roman Polanski faces prison for seduction

[UPI] — Director Roman Polanski, facing a prison term for seducing a 13-year-old girl, told a judge yesterday he had gone to Munich to "sell" his latest movie, not as a beer-drinking tourist at the Octoberfest surrounded by "bimbos".

The 44-year-old Polanski appeared before Superior Court Judge Laurence Rittenband to explain what he was doing in Germany instead of being in the South Seas working on the film, "The Hurricane", as he had promised.

Rittenband last month had given Polanski a minimum three-month sentence after he pleaded guilty to unlawful sexual intercourse with the girl. The judge put off execution of the sentence until Dec. 19 so he could proceed with the movie.

Rittenband ordered Polanski into court after appearance in American newspapers of a United Press International photograph showing him at a table in a Munich restaurant surrounded by pretty women.

The judge yesterday accepted Polanski's explanation that it was a business trip but warned him that he must show up Dec. 19 to begin the term at the California men's prison at Chino. The judge said he had not understood the film was still in the pre-production stage.

Dino DiLaurentis, producer of such films as "King Kong" and "The White Buffalo" who hired Polanski to direct "The Hurricane", also testified that he asked Polanski to go to London and Germany.

DiLaurentis said Polanski's principal mission was to "sell" the latest movie to German distributor Horst Wendtlandt and to get a $1 million advance from Wendtlandt to help meet anticipated production costs of $10 million.

Polanski said he was in Munich less than two days and spent most of his time with Wendtlandt. He acknowledged that he dined out in a Munich restaurant one night and went to a beer ball with Wendtlandt the next.

"The picture made it appear that I was sitting at a table with a bunch of people, drinking, smoking a cigar and surrounded by a bunch of bimbos," he said indignantly.

Actually, Polanski said, the photo was made in a restaurant where he had gone with three men friends and their wives and girlfriend.

Polanski, former husband of slain actress Sharon Tate, has been ordered to undergo psychiatric tests during his three-month term to determine whether he should be committed to a mental institution or perhaps given a longer sentence.

THE DEAN OF BEER'S QUICKIE QUIZ.

Q: The figure "130" represents:
a) The number of mailmen in the U.S. answering to the name of Louie.
b) Any combination of the numbers 70 and 60.
c) The number of times the word porcupine can be written on a zucchini.
d) The number of Schlitz taste testers.
e) Both (b) and (d).

A: (e) I can think of no combination of 70 and 60 that does not equal 130. (If you can, you now know why you are flunking math.)

I also can't think of anything better than being a Schlitz taste tester. Except, perhaps, owning Kuwait.

And Schlitz maintains a trained panel of over 130 of them. They're qualified and requalified experts who make sure your taste for quality is never disappointed.

Because Schlitz knows the final test for flavor is yours alone.

Class dismissed.

THERE'S JUST ONE WORD FOR BEER.

SCHLITZ

AND YOU KNOW IT.

Siglinda Steinfüller
Dean of Beer

Notices

CONTRACEPTION EDUCATION

Sessions open to all women and men. University Health Services room 302, Mondays and Thursdays 3 p.m., Wednesdays 7 p.m. Session especially for couples is on Tuesdays at 7 p.m.

1976-1977 HOCKEY CHEERLEADERS

Members of last year's Varsity Hockey Cheerleading Squad wishing to cheer this winter season, attend a meeting on Thursday, Oct. 27th at 7:30 in Boyden Lobby. Questions: Contact Sandy 546-7457.

STYLES ARE CHANGING

Sigma Kappa and The Hair Shack are sponsoring a hair cutting demo Tues., Oct. 25, 1977 at 7:15 p.m. All university women invited. We are located at 19 Allen St. Call 256-6887 for more info.

WORK WEEKEND

The Stockbridge Freshmen Class is holding a work weekend Oct. 28-30. Persons interested in this service should contact the Senate Office: 545-0189 or ATG: 545-2186, by Oct. 27th.

PUBLIC HIGHER EDUCATION REORGANIZATION

Meeting tonight at 7:30, to discuss the implications of State Sec. of Education Paul Parks' plan to reorganize the state college and university system.

COMMUNION

Tonight from 8:15 to 8:40 p.m. a brief, simple candlelight communion in the round for anyone seeking depth, inspiration, and close fellowship. 428 Student Union, celebrated by Pete Sabey, UCF campus minister.

BIBLICAL EXPLORATION

Tonight at 7:15 to 8:15 a free and open exploration of passage of scripture at UCF, 428 Student Union, facilitated by Pete Sabey, campus minister.

SAILING CLUB

Meeting tonight at 9 p.m. to discuss next regetta CC 915.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE CLUB

Meeting of the Fruit and Vegetable Club, Wednesday at 2:00 in room 168, CC. Please attend.

S.B.A. STUDENTS

Executive Association meeting on Oct. 25 at 4:00 p.m. Dean Wolfe will be the guest speaker. Room will be announced.

ISSUES IN AGRICULTURE

Betsy Cornwoman of the Valley Land Trust will be speaking at 7 p.m. tonight (Tues.) in Campus Center 165.

FILM SHOWING

Product reel shown from Films, Inc, in CC 165. Oct. 26 at 3:30 p.m.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

Meeting tonight at 6:30, CC 177. All are welcome.

SKI CLUB MEETING

Ski movies, door prizes, great people, new members welcome, Thompson 104 8 p.m.

PE MAJORS CLUB

Meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. in NOPE. Everyone be there.

BICYCLE CLUB MEETING

We are forming a racing team. USCF and others are urged to attend this meeting. Martha's Vineyard Tour will also be discussed. All are welcome.

UMASS FIRE AND FIRST AID UNIT

Meeting tonight at 9:30 p.m. in 903 CC. Topics: new constitution, new officers, November details and announcement of new members. All people interested are invited to attend. Those members not able to attend must call Bob (6-9821) prior to this conference if possible.

SEMINAR ON MEDICINE PART 5

Dr. David Koffman will speak on Chiropractic and natural health care system. In 201. GRTW at 7:00 p.m. tonight. All people interested in taking the seminar on Medicine collequia may sign up at this lecture.

NATIONAL STUDENT EXCHANGE PROGRAM

There will be meetings on Tuesdays, 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. (beginning Oct. 11th) in Campus Center 903 for anyone interested in applying to The National Student Exchange Program.

STUDENT UNION GALLERY

Presents a video installation in the gallery space and outdoors by Kit Fitzgerald and John Sanborn, Oct. 24-28.

FREE INSTRUCTION

Individual and group instruction in photo darkroom, also individual instruction in silver jewelry. Ask in Craft Shop for times-dates. Lower level, Student Union.

ATTENTION PLANT AND SOIL SCIENCE MAJORS

Important club meeting Oct. 25 at 7:30 p.m., CC 170. Activities will be discussed.

PEWTER CLASS

Free instruction in pewter crafting, Thurs. mornings. 10:30-11:30. Craft shop, lower level Student Union. Free, pay only for supplies.

MORTAR BOARD

Members! We have a meeting today in Campus Center 905-909.

STUDENT HEALTH ADVISORY BOARD

The board will meet tonight at 5:30 in C.C. 168. New members welcome.

RAPE TASK FORCE

There will be a presentation tonight at 8 p.m. in Dickinson Main Lounge. All welcome to attend.

TO ALL JUDGES AND INTERESTED PARTIES

There will be a mandatory meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in Campus Center 173. Issues discussed will include trial procedure and selecting clerk of courts.

OUTING CLUB

Final equipment hours, Monday, Wednesday 3:30-6:30, Tuesday, Thursday 3:45-6:30, Friday 1-3 p.m. Canoe rentals are now by arrangement through the locker — previous hours now void.

COMMUTER COLLECTIVE MEETING

There will be a Commuter Collective meeting tomorrow at 5:30 p.m. in the Commuter Lounge.

LOST AND FOUND

If you lost a money order in the Campus Center — contact Charles Donahue philosophy department.

PHYSICAL THERAPY CLUB

Meeting tomorrow in NOPE 22 at 7:30 p.m.

WATER POLO

Team meeting tonight, 6 p.m. at Boyden pool T-shirts given out, discussing Yale and AAV Nationals.

LET US HELP YOU

Do you find the process of volunteering time-consuming-troublesome? We can help you find a volunteer agency. Whether your interest is youth, elderly, alcoholism, women, then we can help. Call 253-2591. Ask for Val or Roger. We are located in the basement of Jones Library.

RESOURCES JUDAICA

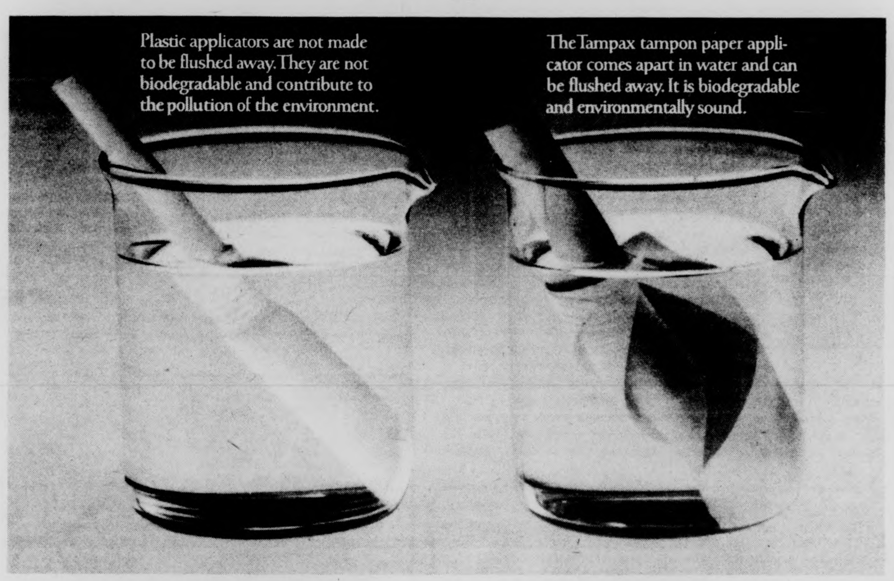
The general membership is tonight at 7:30 in Campus Center 172. Everyone invited.



Only Tampax tampons have an applicator that is flushable and biodegradable

Plastic applicators are not made to be flushed away. They are not biodegradable and contribute to the pollution of the environment.

The Tampax tampon paper applicator comes apart in water and can be flushed away. It is biodegradable and environmentally sound.

The applicator on the left is plastic and its manufacturer clearly warns "do not flush." You can throw it into a waste receptacle, but no matter how you dispose of a plastic applicator, it remains hard, non-biodegradable material indefinitely. That is why plastic applicators pollute our land, rivers, lakes and beaches.

The Tampax tampon container-applicator – like the tampon itself – is completely disposable and biodegradable. It is made of spirally wound strips of paper that quickly begin to delaminate and unwind when they come in contact with water. (See the illustration above at the right.) The paper strips are as easy to dispose of as a few sheets of bathroom or facial tissue.

What's more, the hygienic Tampax tampon applicator is designed to make insertion easy and comfortable. Slim, smooth and pre-lubricated, it guides the tampon into the proper position to give you reliable protection. Your fingers never have to touch the tampon. In use, the Tampax tampon expands gently in all three directions – length, breadth and width – so there is little chance of leakage or bypass.

Tampax tampons offer you hygienic menstrual protection without the worry of environmental pollution. This is one of the reasons why they are the #1 choice of more women than all other tampons combined.

TAMPAX® tampons

MADE ONLY BY TAMPAX INCORPORATED, PALMER, MASS.

The internal protection more women trust

Quality ed, not reorganization

Editor's note: the following editorial was submitted by the Students United for Public Education [SUPE]. SUPE describes itself and its goals as follows:

Students United for Public Education is an independent student group which organized last year at UMass and Westfield State College to fight budget cuts and any other threats to quality public education. Our program is No Budget Cuts, No Tuition Hikes, No Public Monies to Private Schools, No Students or Faculty on Committees which Recommend Places to Implement Budget Cuts, and No to the Parks Plan for Reorganization or any plan like it.

By S.U.P.E.

The reorganization of public higher education in Massachusetts has been suggested by various officials in the state government for the last few years as a "solution" to the problems plaguing the colleges and universities. This summer, the Secretary of Education, Paul Parks, issued a "Working Paper on Public Higher Educational Planning" for discussion purposes only. Briefly, the plan proposes that the 30 public colleges and universities in Massachusetts be reorganized on a regional basis, but co-ordinated centrally so that "inefficient duplication" or other kinds of questionable expenditures are eliminated. Superficially, it sounds rather sensible. However, if the direction implicit in this draft is any example of what these top officials see for the future of higher education, then the public colleges and universities of the Commonwealth are in serious trouble.

Reorganization is being discussed now because it is really a method of cutting down on the costs of education. It is an attempt to implement large budget cuts under the guise of "eliminating duplication" or "regionalization," so that the traditional opposition to budget cuts by students, faculty, staff and community will be stifled. "When money is tight and budgets must be cut, painful choices must be made. These can to some extent be minimized by more effective use of available resources" (p. 75). But the implications of reorganization a la Parks go further than mere reshuffling.

Although this proposal has no clearly stated educational goals, the recommendations clearly illustrate a point of view and therefore, certain goals. This plan, if implemented, will change the whole direction of education so that academic freedom, interchange and conflict of controversial ideas and the integration of students from diverse backgrounds will not be possible. In addition, the vocationalization emphasis for most of the two year institution and the need to face 'fiscal constraints' will mean a second class education for those at public universities, while the private schools continue to provide first-quality education for the few who can afford it. Furthermore, these private schools will continue to receive federal and state funds and yet will not be subject to the strictures of this proposed reorganization. A closer reading of the plan illustrates these points. On Tuesday, October 25, at 7:30 p.m. in Machmer W-17, S.U.P.E. will be having a meeting to discuss the implications of the reorganization plan. We urge all interested students to attend.

The Parks proposal sees education as a business where administrators are managers, faculty job security is deemed undesirable, tuition prices are set to 'encourage demand' and public monies continue to support private schools so that they remain 'competitive'. We reject this whole notion.

On page 70 of the Parks plan, it is suggested that business managers become college presidents, thereby laying bare the plan's intentions. Managers are hired to maximize 'output' of some sort, and they are concerned with the quality of the process only in so far as it increases 'output'. Therefore, the question is not 'who is more qualified to serve as a college president — a senior professor or a businessman?' because the decision depends upon the goals of the educational process. If Publich Higher Education is limited to a static service where "consumers" can purchase basic skills and "career training," then managers are in order. But if the colleges and universities are viewed as the place for career training in conjunction with the development of critical thinking and analysis, this necessitates the conflict of diverse ideas and philosophies. In this context, there is no place for managers, only educators and educational administrators.

Secondly, in the spirit of good business management, Parks recommends that tuition be raised for the second two years at all institutions because "serious students will demonstrate their commitment by directly meeting the increased expense or by working with the financial aid office to solve their problems" (p. 53). In other words, students who are "serious" about their education will be willing to pay the higher tuition. But in a society as inequitable as our own, commitment is not reflected in ability to pay. Actually, education is a service which the government provides to us with our own tax dollars, so we should not be paying for it again through tuition.

In line with the philosophy that views

Turn to page 10

On the value of criticism

greg tarpinian

It is often frustrating to be the object of criticism. In the United States the concept of criticism has assumed an unpleasant connotation. Instead of being supportive and constructive in our criticism of one another's ideas we maintain a predilection towards a type of self-aggrandizement which calls for criticism to take the form of uncompromising attack. Self-indulgence leaves no space for the method of criticism which is based on the desire to reach a common goal.

When on "60 Minutes" James Kilpatrick and Shana Alexander argue over the relative merits of conservative and liberal tax packages, it becomes painfully clear that each of these stalwarts has placed individual ego gratification before the question of the betterment of the society in which they live.

In order to facilitate the progressive movement of society it is imperative that those who fashion themselves as both "politically aware" and as agents of change develop both a critical and self-conscious posture.

"Critical" is used in the sense of developing a coherent conception of the world, which has as its basic premise the desire to advance civilization to a "higher" level. From adherence to this basic persuasion we witness the emergence of the need to remain positive, constructive and honest in the process of criticism.

By self-conscious I am referring to a way of living and viewing the world which centers on the continuous reevaluation of that very "living" and "viewing". In other words, one should constantly be questioning one's perceptions, motivations and behavior. This, of course, takes place in a particular context, which places the individual in a specific role in the community in which he or she exists.

The UMass campus is a community. There is a diversity of activity in this community which touches all spheres of human discourse: political, cultural, recreational and so on.

Politics occupy an interesting place in student life at UMass. All political perspectives seem to have adherents. Within the left, right and middle there are splits. Within the splits there are splits.

Whether one is involved directly in political activity at UMass is irrelevant to the question of our existence as political beings, for indecision and non-involvement are themselves political acts. None of us are apolitical. Each of us aids in the maintenance of a certain set of political beliefs, whether through inaction or action.

At any rate, criticism plays an important part in the dynamic which maintains the separation between the various student political groups on campus. This editorial section of the Collegian is a forum for criticism and debate. Unfortunately, the words which cover these pages are often times placed in an adverse light, which many times serves to distort the position under attack. More times than not, criticism is founded on misconception and a self-righteous inanity which obscures what should be the most basic ingredient of student politics: the desire to better the students' position in the university.

This column is a plea to those students involved in student political activity to recognize our commonality as students, and to then place criticism in that light. Only then will students be able to seize the power necessary to alter the course of education at UMass.

Grabbing hold of the traditional mode of criticism merely serves to perpetuate a situation in which students are left to fight among themselves, and they will by no means be able to assume a role in the shaping of an institution which exists for one basic reason: to shape them.

Greg Tarpinian is a student senator who is active in the Student Organizing Project.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003/ (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Joseph A. Quinlan, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Richard J. Pioli, Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Fifine D. Ball, Women's Coordinator.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

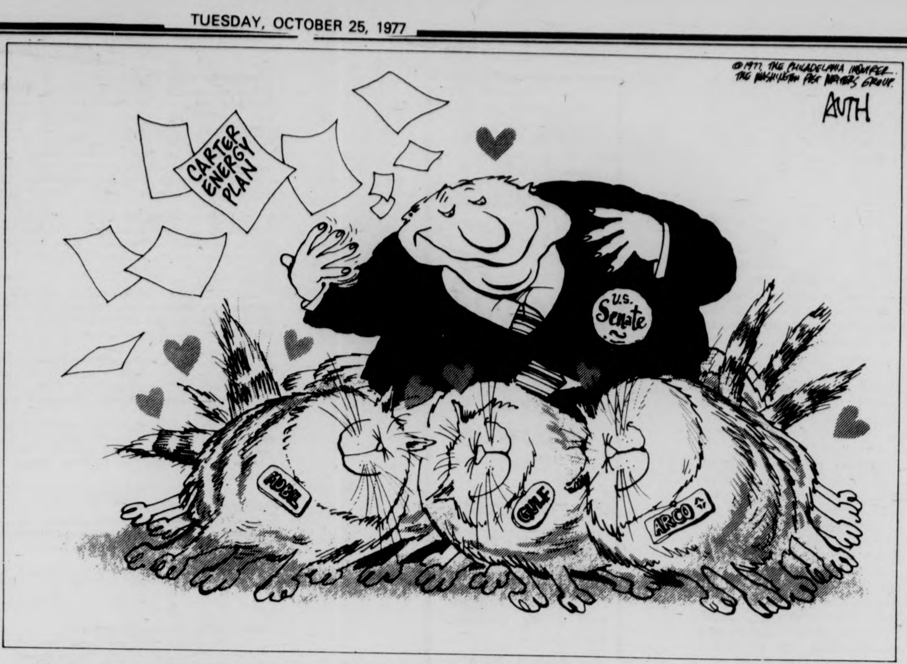
The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.



CARTER ENERGY PLAN
U.S. Senate
MOBIL
GULF
ARCO
© 1977, THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP
AUTH

In support of deviant technology

b.j. roche

My kitchen table is a good one. It's a small mahogany oval, once owned by my Aunt Kay. Aunt Kay was my grandmother's sister (the Irish side of the family), and was a practicing ecologist before it became hip. Only in those days they called it "being tight". Aunt Kay even recycled used band-aids. And it was rumored (although never confirmed) that she knew how to turn back her electric meter. When she cruised on up to that Filene's Basement in the sky, I was given her table.

It was Aunt Kay's spirit (along with Uncle Jack Daniels') that influenced a group of friends sitting at that table one night to devise a new branch of study at the University, Deviant Technology.

What is deviant technology? It can be anything that responds to mainstream technology in the interests of the people. It is counter-technology in a sense, fighting oppressive technology on its own battlefield. Solar power is a form of deviant technology. Theoretically, MassPIRG is a group of deviant technologists. Roget's classifies "deviant" as "off the beaten path", and if that beaten path to nukes, neutron bombs and number-names is leading us to oblivion, let's do a little bush-wacking.

Now Aunt Kay would say that a study needs not only a philosophy, but a curriculum as well. Herewith is a listing of potential course offerings:

DT 100 (A) Basics of Deviant Technology-Explanations of the basic software of technology, i.e. checkbooks, insurance policies, and prime time. Also included is hardware awareness, a study of telephones, cable television, computers, automated toll booths and electric meters.

DT 100 (B) Independent Study — field work on a deviant technology project. Such past successful projects have included:

- —Construction of a Black Box for less than $1. (A Black Box is a device which prevents long distance phone calls from being recorded on billing equipment.)
- —Conversion of an entire apartment complex to cable television with only one apartment actually hooked up.
- -Receipt of 20 albums a month for free from the Columbia Record Club.

DT 200 Software Awareness — this course concerns itself with various techniques dealing with everyday "soft" technology. Included are: How to get financial aid; Consumer Guerilla Warfare; How to retrieve the entire security deposit on a rental; How to stop an Amherst Towing Tow Truck.

DT 500 Master's Practicum — For the advanced deviant technologist, the field of research is wide open. Possibilities for these include: Living a Monday schedule when it's really Friday — a study of the effects of the University's practice of instituting two Mondays in certain weeks during the semester.

and: Behavioral patterns in climate controlled shopping malls — Is it true that turning up the heat makes people buy more? A study of consumer patterns in climate controlled shopping malls, this paper asks the eternal question, "Why did that woman buy a bikini when it's 10 below zero outside?"

It seems this is not the only campus where deviant technology has taken hold. A recent New York Times article stated that at Lehigh University in Bethlehem Pennsylvania, students had paid at least $2,000 to a "mysterious stranger" to have their grades altered just before entry into the school's computer. The result was that 25,000 grades had to be checked with professors grade books before issuance.

UMass, being the progressive institution that it is, could now take the lead in deviant technology. The study could be given majors status, and various speakers prominent in the counter technology field, such as Sam Lovejoy, Amory Lovins and Ralph Nader could be invited to give seminars.

In fact, I can envision ten years from now the Massachusetts Institute of Deviant Technology (M.I.D.T.) right here on this campus. The Dining Commons food would be locally grown (as opposed to Del-Monte grown) and the chairs in the dining room would be bought at tag sales, all mismatched. After all, I think Aunt Kay would have wanted it that way.

— — —

Note: I am interested in hearing about others' experiences with deviant tech. Send them to (Ms.) B.J. Roche, c-o Collegian, Campus Center, and they will be shared with the rest of the campus.

B.J. Roche's column appears every other Tuesday in the Collegian.

Rent on C.C. space a threat to co-ops

Among the most successful and encouraging ventures at UMass have been the student co-ops, which provide students with a variety of services at reasonable costs. Particularly pleasing is the fact that many of the co-ops are fully self-sufficient and thus don't represent a drain on the students' finances.

There is some talk that because the co-ops have been so successful, the Campus Center administration is considering charging them rent for the space they occupy in the building, despite the fact that students already pay some $79 per year in their Campus Center fee. threaten to replace them. One effective way of eliminating student-run competition would indeed be for the C.C. administration to charge them rent, since most co-ops run on a break-even level and would be forced to raise prices or drop out of business were they charged rent.

Charging rent to revenue-raising co-ops might also set a precedent for charging other groups, such as the Collegian, which generate some of their own income. Eventually students would end up paying for Campus Center services twice — once in their fee, and again in higher prices or SATF fees that While no co-ops are presently required to pay rent, a precedent of sorts was set in past years in the leasing of space to the Student Federal Credit Union at one dollar per year. If rent is indeed a possibility (and there have been only rumors to that effect), then students have much cause for concern.

Operators of Campus Center businesses (e.g. the coffee shop and the University Store) may be concerned that student-run businesses are becoming all too successful and may eventually would be required to cover the rent.

A campus organization called the Co-op Coalition will be gathering signatures on a petition in the CC concourse this week to demand that rent not be charged to any Recognized Student Organization. This action deserves your support to ensure that the present quality and diversity of student services on campus is maintained.

All unsigned editorials represent the opinion of a majority of the Collegian Board of Editors.

Rhetoric not answer to racism

To the Editor:

I would like to address myself to some of the overt signs of racism that have surfaced in the UMass area of late. While it is preposterous to think that racism had disappeared and is merely resurfacing, most would agree that two cross burnings signal a more public appearance of racial hatred. Those incidents are barbaric, contrary to all human dignity, and intolerable. The perpetrators of such acts, as well as those who tolerate them, do not belong in this community. Nevertheless, my thoughts and those of of the many Collegian columnists represent nothing but rhetoric. Is there any solution besides seething editorials and sympathetic letters?

One major obstacle to any improvement in racial understanding is that, with some exceptions, very few white students are familiar with non-white students on this campus. It is clear that one cannot force a bigot to think enlightened thoughts, nor does understanding spring from reading the various radical-liberal treatises available. Would it seem naive to suggest that interaction between various cultural groups might serve as a vehicle to a deeper understanding of the problems, both historical and current, that non-white people face today? Would it seem too "corny" to suggest that the SGA, which theoretically represents us all, might arrange some situation where interaction could take place without debate, confrontation or competition? A place where people could get together to talk and realize that although we are not the same and certainly not good friends, we are all human beings with equal claim to freedom and opportunity.

A final thought on the subject. Regarding Terrell Evans' column of 10-21, Mr. Terrell opines that, " ... it takes a certain mentality to do something like this [cross burning] and it probably exists in the minds of 99 per cent of the people in this country." A statement of this nature indicates a gross misunderstanding of reality. No, I'm afraid 99 per cent of all people in this country do not have that "certain mentality." Certainly there are many who do. Many others are deeply saddened by racial hatred and are interested in positive change. To make outlandish accusations of universal racism serves no benefit to the goal of better understanding between us all.

It is past time for caring people on this campus and in the five college area to stand up and get involved. As Mr. Terrell correctly pointed out, "no stance is a stance." Rhetoric has its limits; human love knows no such limit.

Stephen F. Kirsch

Bakke attack not justified

To the Editor:

I am not a person who gets upset easily when I see something I do not agree with. This, however, is not the case. I am referring specifically to the cartoon which appeared in last Wednesday's editorial section.

I have mixed emotions about the controversial "Bakke Case" which will be heard by the Supreme Court. I also have mixed emotions about reverse discrimination, and "Affirmative Action." It is a serious problem when an individual who has the better qualifications is rejected solely because of his color. It is also a serious problem that disadvantaged minorities are unable to improve their positions because they are unable to attain the credentials of someone who has had greater opportunities.

Still another problem has evolved from this case. The problem is that a responsible newspaper allows such a racially slanted cartoon to be printed. This cartoon attacks Mr. Bakke as a self-centered, callous individual, whose only motive to attend UCal Medical School is the pursuit of the "Almighty Dollar." In turn, it depicts his black counter-part as someone with great humanitarian ideals. Mr. Bakke is not being attacked as an individual who is fighting a decision in which, he feels, his rights were violated. He is being attacked because he is a white who is fighting a decision that he feels to be a violation of his rights.

Donald Bly

'Ate Hate Eight' disgusting

To the Editor:

The Collegain's Below the Salt section of last week disgusts me to the point that I feel compelled to write this letter. Your two-faced attitude toward bigotry and stereotyping leaves me aghast. I am referring to the caricature accompanying the page four poem, entitled Ate Hate Eight. In view of recent racial tension in the Amherst area [and the entire world], is it truly in the best interests of the community to depict the white male as a Neanderthal-type man? I think not.

But the Collegian editors are honorable people. Were I to compose a poem and place next to it a caricature of a black male with a bone through his nose, or an American Indian with a bottle of firewater in his hand, would this be deemed printable material by the Collegian editors? I think not.

But the Collegian editors are honorable people. Why then, in times of controversy about the equal treatment of races [i.e., the Bakke case], is the white male debased and maligned so by the always fair [but sometimes blind] Collegian?

But the Collegian editors are honorable people. Therefore, we must conclude that to have printed such a caricature of the white male was a gross oversight by the Collegian Editorial Staff. I would hope that we, the readers, are mature enough to forgive such an impropriety. But, alas, there may be some among us who would appreciate an apology for the insult rendered by the Collegian. For these are times that try persons' souls.

It is my opinion that reverse discrimination is discrimination indeed. Et tu Collegian?

Geoffrey L. Cohler

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Excutive Editor, c-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. the day preceding that date.

More letters on page 10

★ Parks plan

CONT. FROM PAGE 8

education as a business, the Parks draft specifically proposes reorganization along regional lines, with each region servicing students from surrounding areas. Institutions would then be specialized to include "...vocational programs...geared to marketable skills, particularly those manpower needs that exist within a region" (p.77). This structure incorporates the needs of the area business community within the goals of the educational system, thus making public institutions the training grounds for area businesses.

Regionalization also provides a neat rationalization for cutbacks in many programs. This is because the plan recommends that each region specialize in areas of program strengths that already exist there. "Unnecessary program duplication and inconsistencies must be reviewed, specifically nursing, engineering, education and graduate program duplications" (p. 88). Thus, if there is a large nursing program at Worcester and a large engineering program at Lowell, then these same programs at UMass Amherst are "duplications". There is no concern in the report for providing a well rounded education, so that future nurses, engineers, sociologists and forest rangers can take an English class together. Instead, narrowness and parochialism will be fostered by this pragmatic cost-benefit approach to education.

Thus, it is clear that this type of regionalization would only magnify existing conditions and patterns of segregation, and lead to a homogeneity of ideas and values. One can envision a person attending elementary school, high school and college in a particular region and then being fit into a job slot in this same region! What chance has this person of understanding other cultures and peoples, of developing alternate points of view and critical reasoning from those surrounding him or her? Surely, then, the proposed plan runs counter to the role education should take of enlarging a person's experiences and exposing a person to diverse ideas and points of view.

In order to streamline or regionalize the system, the Parks report recommends measures to keep the facolty "in line." The report launches a direct attack on tenure and therefore academic freedom, but couches it in a concern for "change, flexibility and fiscal responsibility. ...The prognosis for flexibility let alone for change is grim indeed unless policies are adopted and practices employed to reduce the number of tenured faculty in public institutions in Massachusetts" (p. 26). This assault on tenure constitutes a major threat to the security of faculty members. Although its total abolition is not proposed, the plan sees tenure as a disadvantage and seeks to "reduce the overall percentage of tenured faculty to no more than 52 per cent." (p.26). One cannot help but wonder what other "reductions" await faculty in the future. Indeed, if we are in the midst of a "no growth" period, and must alter programs to accommodate the problem, the future of job security and quality public higher education looks grim.

Quality education depends upon many things, one of the most important being job security for faculty. That security is only attainable through the offer of tenure. One way in which the plan proposes reductions is by "reassignment to administrative vacancies where appropriate (with tenure not transferable)" (p. 27). If faculty job security is undermined, surely then, academic freedom is also undermined, with the opportunity for critical thinking, reasoning and analysis severely threatened. Few professors will be willing to discuss unpopular ideas if their jobs are always on the line. By reducing the percentage of tenured faculty and undermining the security that even those tenured would have, the state will lose its ability to attract quality instructors to its institutions.

The reorganization draft is a dressed up plan to cut public expenditure on higher education and dilute the quality of education in the process. It has no cohesive, philosophically based set of educational goals to which it may be held accountable. Yet the expedient proposals of this draft, including the recommendation for a Board of Overseers, reveal a set of assumptions about public higher education which run directly counter to our goals.

Education should give all people the tools they need to understand their world, to feel themselves as more than powerless objects moved by forces they cannot understand. Education is the structured environment in which people of diverse backgrounds all feel welcome to learn and share new ideas, to expand their potentials and develop their understanding of the world together. A public university is the only place where this can happen. It is the only place where all students—black, white, Hispanic and Asian, working class and middle class—can attend in large numbers. This is in contrast to their token representation in private schools through special programs for so called 'underprivileged' students. And it's at the public universities that we must fight for the type of education which the Parks proposal can only serve to destroy.

The requirements for the recommended Board of Overseers in the Parks draft typify the conflict between the above goals and those of Parks. The plan states that this board must be made up of "independent, lay overseers who represent the public interest and not those of the segments." In other words, the board members will be taken from outside the university system, just like the proposed "college-president-managers." But who do we want making policy decisions for public higher education other than representatives of the segements or various members of the university community? Who are these "independent lay overseers?" Bank presidents? Corporation managers? Real-estate brokers? Or other political appointees? The governor's proposal for a Board of Overseers (whose points the Parks plan Parks plan recommends be followed) states they cannot be "employed by or derive regular compensation from any higher educational institution, public or private, or be employed by or derive regular compensation form the Commonwealth..." (See House Bill 5756, Submitted by the Governor to the House 4-7-77). The only interest that these people will be independent of is the interest of the public university system!

We must oppose this plan and any plan like it at all levels. We must work together in an effort to stop this backward movement that is rolling us ever away from the goals of quality education. It is time that we set the wheels rolling forward again. This is an issue for all students.

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER
"GREASE" IS BACK!
"The dancingest show in town" Daily News
Grease
Friday, October 28 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public-$7, 6, 5. UMass students and senior citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
THE NATIONAL TOUR OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST MUSICAL
EDWARD MULHARE ANNE ROGERS
LERNER & LOEWE'S My Fair Lady
ALAN JAY LERNER FREDERICK LOEWE
OLIVER SMITH
CECIL BEATON
KEN BILLINGTON
AL FIORILLO
ROBERT RUSSEL BENNETT and PHIL LANG
TRUDE RITTMAN
CRANDALL DIEHL
JERRY ADLER
Thursday, November 3
3:30 pm and 8:00 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale for both performances. General public-$7.50, 6.50, 5.50. UMass students-$3.75, 3.25, 2.75. Other students and senior citizens $6.50, 5.50, 4.50.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations.

more letters

A change for the better

To the Editor:

Like Steve Feldman [Letters, 10-20], I am Jewish. Also like him, I believe that Jesus was a rabbi. And since he was a rabbi, I assume that he would neither lie nor be seriously deluded about something so basic as his own identity. Yet if we study his claims, we will find that he claims to be both Messiah and God. He left us little choice. If we reject him as God, we must declare him a liar, a fool, or a demoniac. There is no middle ground.

I have chosen not to reject him. Looking at his life and teachings, I see that he exhibits none of the characteristics of the other three possibilities. That is why he can be called a rabbi by those who don't consider his main claim — to be God. This is the only part of his teaching rejected by most. I don't reject it because of its consistency with everything else he said, and everything else he did, especially the most important act: he died a sacrificial death and was raised to life again by the Father, and was seen by many eyewitnesses both after being raised and when he ascended into heaven.

Another reason I believe him is the lives of his followers whom I have met. They are not perfect, but they are forgiven, and are continuously becoming more like him. As for those people who have killed "in the name of Jesus", they must be false because Jesus took a stand of total non-violence against other people, and rebuked his own disciples when they tried to use force against his captors.

The final reason I have to believe in Jesus is the change in my own life over the past several years since I have known him. I am not claiming to be better than anyone else, only better than I was before. Jesus has the ability to change the lives of those who ask him, to forgive and to make whole. We each have the choice. I've made mine.

Russell Goodman

Stroudsburger sets record straight

To the Editor:

In listing the top ten colleges in the Lambert Cup voting on October 20, the number 6 ranked school, East Stroudsburg, was spelled incorrectly. As the only resident of East Stroudsburg, Pa. [that I know of] presently attending UMass, I feel it my duty to do my best to get this gross injustice corrected. Please be more careful in the future.

John Maleyeff

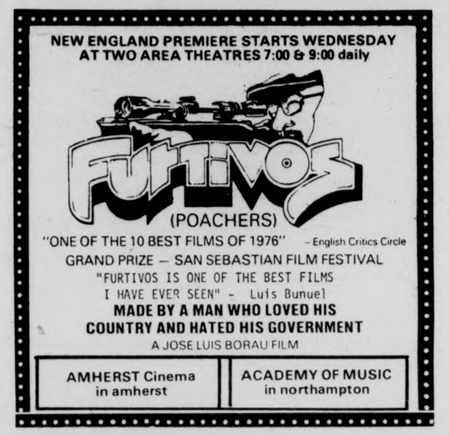
University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
LAZAR BERMAN
Legendary Soviet Pianist
"The Phenomenon of the Music World", Emil Gilels
Wednesday, October 26 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale Gen. Pub.-$7, 6, 5. UM-A-$3.50, 3, 2.50. Others students and senior citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations.

HARRY SALTZMAN and ALBERT R. BROCCOLI present Sean Connery as James Bond 007 in IAN FLEMING'S "Diamonds Are Forever"
PANAVISION® TECHNICOLOR® United Artists
PLUS MARX BROTHERS and THREE STOOGES SHORTS
S.U.B. Tues. Oct. 25 7:15 and 10:00 $1

---

Charlie's
U MASS NIGHT
10% OFF
ALL FOOD & DRINK W/ID
I PRAY ST. AMHERST 549-5403 Next to The PUB



NEW ENGLAND PREMIERE STARTS WEDNESDAY AT TWO AREA THEATRES 7:00 & 9:00 daily FURTIVOS
(POACHERS)
"ONE OF THE 10 BEST FILMS OF 1976" – English Critics Circle
GRAND PRIZE — SAN SEBASTIAN FILM FESTIVAL
"FURTIVOS IS ONE OF THE BEST FILMS I HAVE EVER SEEN" - Luis Bunuel
MADE BY A MAN WHO LOVED HIS COUNTRY AND HATED HIS GOVERNMENT
A JOSE LUIS BORAU FILM
AMHERST Cinema in amherst
ACADEMY OF MUSIC in northampton

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
Adults $2.50—Students with AMC Card $2.00—Children $1.25—Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50 Special Engagements Excluded
1 SORCERER Four outlaws... risk the only thing they have left to lose. Starring ROY SCHEIDER PG Today at 6:00, 8:30 Twi-lite tickets 5:30/1.00
2 A long time ago in a galaxy far, far away... STAR WARS MARK HAMILL HARRISON FORD ALEC GUINNESS CARRIE FISHER PG Today at 6:00, 8:30 Twi-lite tickets 5:30/1.00
3 JAMES BOND 007 in "THE SPY WHO LOVED ME" PG Today at 6:00, 8:30 Twi-lite tickets 5:30/1.00
4 Welcome to L.A. City of the One Night Stand R Today at 6:15, 8:30 Twi-lite tickets 5:45/1.00
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

What's Happening

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

Everyone is welcome to attend our organization meetings. Inspiration is our forte.

COLLOQUE

"Practical Orchard Skills", one credit, aimed at rejuvenating the abandoned orchard behind Orchard Hill. Meet Wednesdays, Butterfield Lounge, 7-9 p.m. Newcomers welcome. More information, call Teresa, 253-2871.

MEETINGS

Executive Association meeting, 4 p.m., SBA, room to be announced. All interested SBA students — come hear Dean Wolfe as our guest speaker.

SEMINARS ON MEDICINE

Part 5, Tues., Oct. 25, 7:00 p.m., 201 G.R.T.W. Dr. David Koffman from Northampton will speak and discuss chiropractic and the natural health care system.

DAILY

WALKATHON

7th Annual Heart Walkathon will have sign up this week, Oct. 24-28, Campus Center Concourse. The walk will be Sat. Oct. 29, starting at 10 a.m.

WORKSHOP

The Health Education Division of the University Health Services provides dormitory workshops on a variety of women's health issues, including breast self exam, pelvic ex m, vaginal ecology etc. Call 549-2671, ext. 181 to request a workshop for your dorm.

FELLOWSHIP

The Fund for Theological Education is offering financial assistance to Black North Americans planning to pursue their Master of Divinity Degrees at accredited theological schools in the U.S. or Canada. The grants are based on individual need and more info. may be obtained by contacting UCF 5-2661.

TICKET SALE

"Tom Jones" ticket sales in Bowker Auditorium Box Office, Stockbridge Hall. $2 students 2.50 adults. Roister Doister production Oct. 28, 29 and 30, and Nov. 4, 5 and 6.

INDEX SENIOR PORTRAITS

The INDEX senior portrait program is now in progress. Seniors who are graduating in December, or who won't be on campus next semester, should sign up now for an appointment for their senior portrait. Appointments may be made by going to Campus Center 811, or by calling 545-2874 to insure your senior picture in the 1978 INDEX.

Argentine labor film shown

By ZOE BEST

"Rebellion in Patagonia", an Argentine film, will be presented as part of a double showing tonight at 8 and 10 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. The film has not arrived to this area without a fight. It was made in 1973-74 during a brief relaxation of repression in Argentina preceding the return of Peron. Later, when it was to be released, the military blocked this, triggering a major debate in the National Congress. For a short period it was shown throughout Argentina. Until it was banned, long lines signaled the significance of this film for the Argentian people.

Internationally, the film has won awards and was chosen to inaugurate the 19th International Film Festival of Karlovy Vary with its heralded review in Taormina, Sicily. Hemispherically, it recounts a history specifically national, but also one that is intricately woven with those of nations throughout the Americas.

The film originated with Oswaldo Bayer's book, "The Avengers of Tragic Patagonia." The film presents the life cycle of the labor movement in southern Argentina in the 20s showing the conflict between the urban workers, the peasants, the gaunchos — all pitted against the absentee and foreign landowners. A strike of massive and dangerous proportions spreads. Commander of federal troops, Lieutenant Colonel Zavala, who first signed a labor agreement on behalf of the government and landowners, eventually serves out an order to break the agreement. What ensued was a violent massacre.

Judith Crist in the Saturday Review wrote of this film: ".... Olivera's film offers a remarkable study of class warfare and, more importantly, a dramatic detailing of the makers and breakers of the dream of social justice. His is an epic re-creation of a revolution that failed, with thousands of martyrs — but one that is still being fought."

This film is among the Progressive Film Series sponsored by Commuters Collective. There is no admission.

AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426
"Zany, lively, uninhibited sexual odyssey." –N.Y. TIMES
"Dirty Duck is a free-association trip." –Tom Allen, VILLAGE VOICE
DIRTY DUCK
ANIMATED & X-RATED
EVES 7:15 & 9:00
SAT & SUN MAT 5:30
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

SPEND AN EVENING IN STYLE
The Hair Shack and Sigma Kappa are sponsoring a Hair Demo Oct. 25, 1977 at 7:15
We are located at 19 Allen St. Call 256-6887 for more info.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

We Buy Cars for cash 253-5384 323-5010

68 Galaxy 500 Ford. $700. 527-5746.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

1971 Pinto, New exhaust system, good tires, needs some engine work. Call 546-7945 evenings. Price negotiable.

Fiat 128 priced for quick sale. $1,250. or Best Offer. Call 323-7384 evenings.

1967 Datsun 411, mechanically sound, new battery, radials, $295. or B.O., 584-4307.

71 MGB exc. cond. $1,900 or B.O. 549-5993.

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

SUPER BIKE '74 KAW. Z-1 900cc. In very good condition. Kerker pipe, Denselube chain. OFFERS? 665-3031.

FOR SALE

Fender Bass-Music Master. Excel. cond., also Arthur E. Smith Maple Leaf 5-string Banjo. Excel. Cond. Best offer on both. Call Brian at 549-3796.

SAVE up to 50%on TENNIS SHOES! Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18.-30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181

1 mth old FM stereo- fits in dash of most foreign cars. B.O. 546-5001.

2 Continental stud-snow radials 175-14 $160., 4 Fireston radials 155-13 $80.. 64580 ask Bill, evenings.

Ollie is a 7 month old Gordon Setter. He is completely housebroken and excellent with children. If interested call 549-6739.

Stereo 8track AM-FM, Best Offer! Green Suede Coat size 9. Margie 584-9468.

Gold Couch & Chair. Exc. cond. $150. 734-8464 after 5PM Spfld.

2 Continental stud-snow radials 175-14 $60., 4 Firestone radials 155-13 $80. 64580 ask for Bill, enenings.

68 Galant elec. guitar w/hardshell case, Univox 50 watt AMP w/reverb etc. $135. takes all. 546-7985 after 7P.M.

1970 Fiat 850 Spyder Sport conv. Very good condition. Must be seen. $600. or best offer. 533-6025 Roger after 6:00P.M.

MXR Dynacomp. Call Keith 546-6875.

FOR RENT

2 Bedrm. Apt. avail. imed. On bus line. Allows pets. 549-0839. 1 mile off campus.

Lg. Rm. avble. imm. Echo Hill Apt. $110/mo. Inc.:patio, w/w carpet, etc. 253-5288.

WANTED TO RENT

1 Bdrm. in Apt. complex. available immed. $70./mo. Call Mitch 253-5487.

ROOM WANTED

Quiet undergraduate male seeks room in quiet house to hang his hat and study for spring semester, possibly January and for next two years, including summers. Willing to pay for own bath and kitchen, or easy access to them. Will live anywhere in area. Please call 545-3503 Mon. nites and ask for Joe or leave message for rm. 209 - 50724.

TO SUBLET

To sublet 2br. on bus route for sping semester and summer. Call 665-3536.

HELP WANTED

Vets-with Military Police experience- part time day work on weekends. Al Lasota 256-6381 eve.

OVERSEAS JOBS- Summer/Year-round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500.-$1,200. monthly. Expenses paid, sightseeing. Free inform.-Write: International Job Center, Dept. MC, Box 4490, Berkeley, CA 94704.

Experienced Waitresses. Apply Poor Richards 11 to 1p.m. daily.

Woman 21+ w/car to stay wkends and holidays at home for 4 adol. girls. $20/day. Send resume to Sojourn, 142 Main St., Northampton 01060 by October 28.

Bus companion wanted for 5 yr. old visiting Boston on weekends and returning. Some pay 586-4386.

LOST

T.I.SR-40 Calculator. Somewhere in or between Goes. 152 and Bluewall on Sept. 28 after 8p.m. Desperately need it for doing my assignments! Please return - Reward and No Questions asked. 256-6059.

TI Calculator between Southwest and Mahar, about October 10th. If found call 546-8921 REWARD.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low price & full service. All models avail. T-159-$225., 58-$99.95, 51-$49.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. Models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators. 549-1316.

ENTERTAINMENT

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco, Monitor Music, 546-4731, Rea.

SERVICES

For A Good Layer Cake: Custom made & beautifully decorated birthday etc. Cakes on 2 days notice. Right on campus, (not associated with Campus Ed Service). Laurie 546-9576.

Expert Typing, only 40cents/page. Call after 6, Mon.-Thurs., 256-8484.

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models, low prices. Jack 586-0610.

Collegiate research papers. Thousands on file. All academic subjects. Send $1. for mail order catalog. Box25918-2, Los Angeles, Calif. 90025 (213) 477-8474.

BIRTHDAY CAKES!! All occasion cakes beautifully decorated to order on 2 days notice. Delivery available. Call Laurie 546-9576.

LUNCHEON & DINNER Served by HRTA Students. Oct. 24-27 Serving cider shrub,hrts. lettuce, beef au jus, pot., veg. rolls, apple crisp w/ice crm, & wine. Only $1.75. Rm.219 Chenoweth. Tix must be bot there in advance. Meals served Tues, Wed, & Thurs at 4:30 promptly.

PERSONALS

If your don't want to be locked into a 10 or 12 month lease-check with us about our new rental agreement. We have 1 and 2 bedroom townhouse and garden units starting at $195. plus utilities-call SOUTH MEADOW-256-0166 for more details.

Sisters of Tri-Sigma welcome our new Pledges- Beth Audesse, Darlene D'Amour, Tobi Lomker and Patti Maples. We'll sing in the sunshine of Tri-Sigma!!!

To'my Shepsala: Happy 22nd anniversary of life. All my love to you, Rachel.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

School of Education schedules interviews

In order to assist undergraduate students in gaining admission to the Teacher Education and Non-Teaching Programs within the School of Education, the school has released the following schedule on individual program interviews. Appointments for interviews should be made through the appropriate program offices listed below.

AMHERST-PELHAM
ELEMENTARY PROGRAM (APEP)

Today 9:00-12:00 and 1:00-3:00 at the Wildwood School tomorrow 1:00-3:00 at the Wildwood School.

EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

Tomorrow and Friday, 11:00-12:00 in Room 357 Hills South, tomorrow 3:00-5:00 in Room 353 Hills South and Thursday, 4:00-5:00 in Room 353 Hills South.

INTEGRATED DAY PROGRAM

Thursday, 9:00-11:00 in Room 224 School of Education.

NEW MEXICO
CROSS COUNTRY PROGRAM

Tomorrow 11:00-1:00 in Room 262 Hills South and Thursday, 10:30-2:00 in Room 262 Hills South.

CENTER FOR URBAN EDUCATION PROGRAM

Today 9:00-4:00 in Room 202 School of Education, tomorrow 12:00-4:00 in Room 202 School of Education, Thursday, October 27, 1:00-4:00 in Room 202 School of Education.

EXPLORATIONS

Today 9:30-12:00 and 1:00-4:00 in Room 368 Hills South, tomorrow 9:30-12:00 in Room 368 Hills South, Thursday, 2:00-6:00 in Room 368 Hills South.

For the following programs please contact the Program Directors for an interview:

ENGLISH EDUCATION

Charles Moran, 545-0533, Bartlett Hall.

SECONDARY MATHEMATICS

Portia Elliot, 545-2889, Room 12 School of Education, Donald Hall, 545-0268, Room 106 School of Education.

SECONDARY SCIENCE

Leverne Thelen, 545-1570, Room 101-A School of Education.

SECONDARY SOCIAL STUDIES

Albert Anthony, 545-1570, Room 103 School of Education.

EDUCATION FOR A CHANGING WORLD

Neil Norris, 545-0981, Room 164 Hills South.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION

William Thuemmel, 545-2731, Room 431 Hills North.

BILINGUAL BICULTURAL EDUCATION PROFESSIONS

Gloria DeGuevara, 545-1506, Room 223C School of Education.

EDUCATIONAL RESEARCH

Mary Quilling, 545-1534, Room 158 Hills South.

JUVENILE JUSTICE

Janice Gamache, 545-3620, Room 489 Hills South.

Resources Judaica

General Membership Meeting

Tues., Oct. 25

7:30 P.M. C.C. 172

SALE!
9th ANNIVERSARY
SALE!

sale 8.99
WOVEN FLANNEL SHIRTS

sale 11.99
PURITAN SHETLAND SWEATERS

1/3 off
JUNIOR BLOUSES & SHIRTS SOLIDS, PLAIDS & PRINTS EXPAND YOUR WARDROBE NOW AND SAVE!

50% off
SPECIAL SELECTION JUNIOR FALL DRESSES BY PLAIN JANE

HURRY... FINAL DAYS!

sale 11.99
MEN'S CASUAL SLACKS

1/3 off
JUNIOR SWEATERS

1/3 off
JUNIOR SLACKS, CORDUROYS, FLANNELS, GABERDINES

Open till 9 P.M.
Thursdays & Fridays

WEAR-HOUSE

IBM NEEDS
OUTSTANDING PEOPLE

And we can offer outstanding career opportunities in Marketing, Engineering or Computer Science. We will be interviewing at

The University of Massachusetts on November 7 & 8, 1977.

To find out about IBM and let us find out about you, sign up for an interview at the Placement Office or write to: W.A. Dickert, College Relations Manager,
IBM Corporation,
99 Church Street
White Plains, NY 10601.

IBM
An Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer

---

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

ARE YOU STILL GOING OVER TO LIVE IN THE DORM FOR A COUPLE WEEKS, MIKE?
UH-HUH. DID YOU CHANGE YOUR MIND ABOUT COMING?
I HAVE TREMENDOUS MISGIVINGS ABOUT THIS PROJECT, MIKE, JUST TREMENDOUS!
DOES THAT MEAN YOU'RE COMING?
YEAH.. I GUESS. I'LL GO PACK..
WHAT ARE YOU KIDS TODAY WEARING, ANYWAY?
OH..UH, KNITS, WOOLS.. WE'RE AFTER A SENSIBLE LOOK.
10-25
GBTrudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

WE'RE GOING TO HAVE THE WORST WINTER IN HISTORY!
WHO SAYS SO?
I JUST SAW A WOOLLY WORM!
EVERY YEAR WE SEE WOOLLY WORMS!
.....WITH SKI MASKS?
10-25
hart

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc
10-25
BEGIN SCENIC ROUTE
END SCENIC ROUTE
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Is that cactus the only plant you have?
water me...
Yeah. I've got a black thumb. It's the only plant that hasn't died on me.
—yet.
That's because you never have to water a cactus.
Lies! All lies!
Ranney 10/25

WHAT NEXT? by Dick Janssen

HI, HOW ARE YOU??
WELL, IN VIEW OF CURRENT TRENDS, AND TAKING INTO CONSIDERATION THE GENERALLY FAVORABLE CLIMATE....
..AND OF COURSE WITH ADAQUATE SEASONAL ADJUSTMENT, IN A COMPARISON WITH INDEXES FOR THE PARTICULAR FACTIONS IN AN OVERVIEW OF THE CURRENT BALANCE.. FINE THANKS
THAT'S THE LAST TIME I TRY TO MAKE CONVERSATION WITH AN ECONOMICS MAJOR..
10/25

UM by Marty Maceda

INSIDE THE WIZID'S CASTLE.
BAM! BAM!
BAM! BAM!
WHAT'S ALL THE BROUHAHA?
BANG!
NOW WHAT?
YOU THE WIZID?
OF COURSE HE IS! HI WIZ!
MACEDA 10-25

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

GERALD WILL RETURN TOMORROW, AS WE CHECK ON GUIDO KRATCHMER...
A JOINT! YOU'RE UNDER ARREST!
POOR GUIDO SPENDS A YEAR IN JAIL...
WHEN HE GETS OUT, HE IS HAPPY TO SEE PETITIONS TO DECRIMINALIZE AND LEGALIZE POT!
CHUBBY!
Petition to Decriminalize
Petition to Legalize
HEY KIDS! YOU CAN SIGN THESE PETITIONS TOO! FIND THEM ON DISPLAY AT YOUR LOCAL CAMPUS CENTER!
LAFLER 10/25
NOTE: YOU GOTTA BE A REGISTERED VOTER TO SIGN!

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 25 - Born today, you one who suffers in silence. You don't often verbalize your discomfort. Rather, you make every effort to right things on your own, doing whatever is needed to transform failure into success. An insistence upon independent action may bring you into conflict with those who want to help you. But in the end they should understand that to be on your own is essential to your confidence and success.

You're not very interested in the commercial aspects of your creations. Indeed, you almost hold an "art for art's sake" attitude about your artistic pursuits. You wouldn't hesitate to give to a chosen few, paintings, sculpture, whatever you have produced. Someday, you may discover the advantage to loved ones of accepting a fee for your work, but probably not soon.

Energetic, original, progressive, and productive, you should seldom be without a project. But, you desire an outlet that is interesting, exciting, and that gives you a sense of personal achievement. Those who know you well know how important time alone is to you and; in consequence, they generally give you a clear berth when the creativity urge is upon you.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 26

SCORPIO (Oct.23-Nov.21) - Make an effort to hide your emotional involvement with one who is ill suited to you. Happiness is at home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.22-Dec.21) - This is one of those days when change can create as much difficulty as it solves. Have a care!

CAPRICORN (Dec.22-Jan.19) - Guard against false starts. You could easily upset the timing important to the success of a project by jumping the gun.

AQUARIUS (Jan.20-Feb.18) - Partnerships thrive in this day's particular climate. Romance may cause you some concern late in the day.

PISCES (Feb.19-March 20) - A good day for beginning a new enterprise. Take care not to be overconfident. Prepare well for "take-off."

ARIES (March 21-April 19) - Stick to what you know. Details could make it impossible for you to progress at the rate you'd like. Ask for help in P.M.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) - Don't give up a tried and true activity unless you have something comparable to put in its place. Avoid conflict at evening.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) - Technicalities may bog down progress today. Don't be alarmed, however; better days are on the way.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) - A day replete with clouds, few seem to have a silver lining. But, appearances are deceiving. The lining is there.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) - Business and pleasure can mix easily today if you don't give either the advantage of additional time.

VIRGO (Aug.23-Sept.22) - A change in surrounding circumstances should lead you to a new and more profitable stage of your work. Welcome strangers.

LIBRA (Sept.23-Oct.22) - New faces, new places make this a special day to strike out on your own, even if only temporarily.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc

Today's Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate

ACROSS

1 Asian kingdom
5 Young animal
9 European nation
14 Spanish boy
15 Away from the wind
16 Its capital is Valletta
17 Newspaper item
19 Down —: Australia, etc.
20 Cancel a penalty
21 At once
23 Facetious person
24 Vehicle
27 Intimate
29 Vacillate
31 Pays for another's food
35 A prior time: Prefix
37 Attempt to equal
39 Italian island
40 Supports
42 Flower leaf
44 Small barracuda
45 Not liquid or gaseous
47 Restrict
49 A grain
50 Vogues
52 Move to a lower job
54 Sailor's specialty
56 Standings
59 Swelter: Informal
62 "It — a Very Good Year"
64 Prefix with pot or chat
65 English royal family name
67 Upside-down situation
70 Frenchman's name
71 Reclined
72 Modified organism
73 Light rays
74 Sent with haste
75 Rents

DOWN

1 Very slow to move
2 Document amendment
3 In a lively manner
4 Spot
5 Jalopy
6 Moslem leader
7 Have a preference
8 Burglar
9 Dallas inst.
10 Gland of the body
11 Operatic soprano
12 Brain canal
13 Aromatic plant
18 Aquatic animal
22 — blanket
25 Actor — Skinner
26 Make merry
28 Move in a curve
30 Speedy
32 "The Sorcerer's — —"
33 Card having three pips
34 Place of an event
35 Leave behind
36 Turbulent disturbance
38 More feeble
41 Eria
43 Capital of Peru
46 Scout unit
48 Carrier
51 Spread thickly
53 Gaudy but valueless
55 Coin side
57 Former British coin
58 Requests to go
59 Pierce with a dagger
60 Harmony
61 Icelandic epic
63 Utter abruptly
66 Thing: Law
68 Exchange in rivalry
69 Extremity

Monday Puzzle Solved:

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| C | O | N | G | S | ■ | C | A | V | E | ■ | O | C | A | S |
| A | B | O | U | T | ■ | O | B | I | T | ■ | U | R | G | E |
| L | O | R | N | A | ■ | N | O | A | H | ■ | T | O | A | D |
| F | E | A | S | T | E | D | ■ | S | Y | N | C | O | P | E |
| ■ | ■ | ■ | H | I | D | E | R | ■ | L | O | A | N | E | R |
| P | L | I | O | C | E | N | E | ■ | E | S | S | ■ | ■ | ■ |
| A | I | N | T | ■ | ■ | S | C | H | N | I | T | Z | E | L |
| R | A | T | ■ | A | T | E | L | I | E | R | ■ | A | V | A |
| C | R | O | S | S | E | S | U | P | ■ | ■ | S | L | E | W |
| ■ | ■ | ■ | T | I | L | ■ | S | L | I | T | H | E | R | S |
| I | N | S | I | D | E | ■ | E | E | R | I | E | ■ | ■ | ■ |
| B | O | W | L | E | G | S | ■ | N | E | V | A | D | A | S |
| A | R | A | L | ■ | R | A | N | G | ■ | O | R | A | T | E |
| R | I | M | E | ■ | A | L | I | T | ■ | L | E | N | I | N |
| S | A | I | D | ■ | M | E | S | H | ■ | I | R | K | E | D |

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

Although in her October 12 column ["ABC FLexes its Bankroll"], Judy Van Handle apparently seeks to attack ABC and its shoddiness, she ends up doing an injustice to the sport of baseball and the broadcasters who report it.

So ABC got the Series this year because it shelled out the "big bucks." Fine. That's the way things are, like it or not. So ABC thrives on shows which don't exactly test one's intelligence, i.e. "Charlie's Angels." Fine. People watch 'em.

What ABC does with baseball probably won't hurt the sport too much. But what Ms. Van Handle says about baseball is exactly what baseball doesn't want people like Ms. Van Handle to say.

She calls it "a calm, serene, slow-paced game ... " Kind of like watching the foliage and leaves turn red. Or maybe the ground freeze. People don't watch sports because they are "low-keyed," they watch 'em because they want to see action, fast moving action, excitement and thrills.

No? What do people like most in ball games? Home runs, diving catches, Willie Mays running into the wall to save a game winning hit.

To infer that baseball is different from other sports because it is "a 'thinking man's sport' " is to say that other sports, especially violent ones, don't take brains to play. No way.

Was Bill Russel [and is Bill Walton] such a good player because he was tall as a giraffe and strong as an ox. Nope. He wasn't even as tall or strong as Wilt and many other centers in the NBA, yet he could think. He played 'smart' basketball and he played it beautifully.

Even in boxing, the epitome of violent sports, brains has more weight than brawn. Witness Ali against the younger, stronger and better conditioned George Forman just a few years back. Did Ali win because Foreman had a hangover and wasn't in good physical shape? Ali won because he boxed an intelligent fight. He let Foreman tire out and then he took him. Is there beauty in a fight like that or is it just two massive hulks swatting at each other?

The problem with baseball is that it is basically boring. After the Yanks final game with the Royals, what were most viewers talking about? The fight that Brett and Nettles had. That's right. Good ole American action and violence, even in baseball.

If Howard Cosell wants to yip and yell and say intelligent things like, "I've never seen a baseball player that could fight," fine — it's better than watching Sparky Lyle chew tobacco.

Broadcasters make baseball bearable, sometimes even interesting. They're an integral part of the sport that, by the way, is not even close to being America's "number one sporting spectacle." That's just a Bowie Kuhn myth.

When you think about it, what would baseball be without Phil Rizzuto's "holy cow's"? Or Tony Kubek's witty comments about astro-turf being made for Freddy Patek? Would you rather Shana Alexander debated Billy Martin's politics on "60 Minutes' " Point-Counterpoint. If so, bring a lot of coffee.

John Rosenmiller

UMass defensive tackle John Willis (84) prepares to cash in on UConn quarterback Maron Clark (10). Willis and the rest of the defense blanked UConn, 10-0.

JV booters beat HCC for 4th win

By BILL TARTER
AND JUDY KEEFE
Collegian Staff

The sun shone brightly on the UMass junior varsity soccer squad yesterday as it breezed to its fourth consecutive victory by defeating Holyoke Community College, 4-1.

The Minutemen dominated from beginning to end, supplying two goals in the first half. They peppered the beleaguered Holyoke goalies with a total of 20 shots and supplied constant pressure throughout.

Holyoke coach Jim Golas summed up the domination: "UMass has a powerful team with many fine players. In the final outcome the major difference between our two squads is that Umass had strength in every position."

UMass' opening tallies came from forward Dave Mains. His first goal was midway through the first half with an assist from Jay Nass. Mains' second came off a penalty shot, leaving the score at 2-0 at halftime.

The highlight of the game came on UMass' next goal when Mark Miskin blasted a 20-yard shot into the corner. Holyoke spoiled Mark Marilla's bid for his fourth straight shutout with a late goal coming off the receiving end of a corner kick. It was the first goal the defense had surrendered all season.

UMass coach Joel Dryer was not reassured by the lopsided action, stating, "Though everyone individually played well there was something lacking in the team's overall play." Dryer hopes to have the minor problems ironed out when UMass takes on its toughest opponent to date Friday at Springfield.

Notices

HOCKEY — All men and women interested in playing ice or street hockey — there will be a meeting Thursday at 9 p.m. in room 20 Hasbrouck.

WATER POLO — Important team meeting at 6 p.m. tonight at Boyden Pool. The meeting will deal with Yale and the AAU nationals. T-shirts will also be given out at this time.

INTRAMURALS — Boyden gym free play hours for the remainder of the semester are Monday-Friday 12:00 - 5:30 p.m.

Volleyball started yesterday — all managers should have picked up their team's schedules.

NOPE basketball courts will be closed tomorrow and Saturday for volleyball games.

Football playoffs are set to start this week.

AMHERST AUTO PARTS
USED CAR PARTS
JUNK CAR?
WE PAY $10 and up.
Replace Glass
Buy and Sell Cars
Located ½ mile past the Rusty Scupper on Rt. 9, behind Amherst Landfill.
Mon.-Sat. 8-4
Phone 256-6409

FALL SALE
CROMPTON CORDUROY prints, solid & wale -
10% off
CANTONI VELVETEEN
100% cotton, from italy, prints & solids -
15% off
WOOLS - selection from our regular stock -
20% off
plus more . . .
week of Oct. 24
thru Oct. 28 only natural textiles
"amherst's fabric center"
228 triangle st.
amherst 549-3853
hours: mon.-sat. 10-6 thurs. 'til 8

POSITION OPEN

•Applications are being accepted for salaried position of Student Government Association Director of Communications.

•The director is responsible for keeping students aware of SGA activities and aiding the exchange of information within the SGA.

•Duties include the production of advertising, brochures, flyers, and booklets as well as issueing press releases and administering a staff of three persons working in the Office of Communications.

•Experience in any field of communications is desirabe. Pick up applications in Rm.420 Student Union. The SGA is an affirmative action equal opportunity employer.

Student Government Association

TUNE-UP SPECIAL
4 cyl. $29.95
6 cyl. $34.95
8 cyl. $39.95
TUNE-UP:
•replacement of plugs, points and condenser
•adjustment of timing & carburetor
•checking distributor cap & rotor, wire, filters and emission systems
North Amherst Motors, Inc.
Automotive Service, Autobody Repair
Towing and Used Car Sales
40 Montague Rd., No. Amherst, Mass. 549-2880
Just above No. Amherst Center on Rte. 63

The rusty nail Inn
presents
TUES., OCT. 25 &
WED., OCT. 26
BONGO MOON
THURS., OCT.27
ZONKARAZ
FRI. & SAT.,
OCT. 28 & 29
JAMES COTTON
also Ed Shaw and the Howlin' Wolf Band
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47 / Tel. 665-4937

POSITION AVAILABLE

University of Massachusetts Graduate Student Senate invites applications for the position of ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT. The Administrative Assistant works with Graduate Student Senate officers. The position, one of a part-time, 20 hr/wk position, offers a maximum salary of $5,000.00 over a 12 month period. Hourly salary range is up to $4.80/hr. This is an "03, no fringe benefits position."

Graduate students and those directly involved in graduate student activities are especially, encouraged to apply.

Graduate Student Senate and its officers actively support employ of women, handicapped, and ethnic minority persons. Their applications are therefore, actively sought.

Resumes for this position are now being accepted. Please bring or send your resume to Graduate Student Senate offices, 919 Campus Center. The deadline for receiving resumes and applications is Thursday, November 3, 1977. Interviews will be scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, November 7th., and November 8th.

Please direct questions and/or requests for more information to Graduate Student Senate as shown above.

Graduate Student Senate does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, sexual or affectional preference, color age, handicap, marital status, national origin, or ancestry.

Minutemen Joe McLaughlin (51), left and Billy Coleman (40), right, were both named yesterday to the ECAC honor roll for their efforts in UMass' 10-0 win over UConn.

ECAC cites Coleman; McLaughlin honored

Two UMass football players have been awarded ECAC and Yankee Conference honors for outstanding individual performances in Saturday's win.

Halfback Billy Coleman was named co-winner of Yankee Conference offensive player of the week honors and was also named to the weekly ECAC Division II honor roll.

Linebacker Joe McLaughlin was also chosen for the ECAC honor list, as well as earning honorable mention on the Yan Con all-star list.

Coleman, a 5'11", 199 lb. senior from Ipswich, scored the Minutemen's only touchdown in their 10-0 win over UConn. He gained 114 yards rushing on 26 carries in UMass's sixth straight victory.

McLaughlin, a 6', 215 lb. junior from Stoneham, had six solo tackles and five assists to lead the UMass defense. He also caused a fumble which led to the Minutemen's final score of the game.

Rhode Island quarterback Steve Tosches shared Yan Con offensive honors with Coleman for his play in the Rams 31-22 triumph over Boston University. Tosches completed 16 of 20 passes, good for 154 yards and a touchdown.

New Hampshire linebacker Greg Donahue took home defensive laurels in the Yan Con picks. He was in on nine tackles, intercepted a pass, and broke up two others in the Wildcats' 28-13 win over Northeastern.

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
JUNIOR VARSITY SOCCER — UMass 4 Holyoke CC 1
TODAY
VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY (6-1-2) — vs. Plymouth State Away- 2:30
JUNIOR VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY — vs. Plymouth State Away 3:45
TOMORROW
VARSITY MEN'S SOCCER (5-4) — vs. Westfield State Home 3:30
JUNIOR VARSITY VOLLEYBALL — vs. Franklin Pierce-Berkshire CC Home 6:00

Women booters top BC

The UMass women's soccer club won its sixth straight game of the season Saturday, when it trounced Boston College, 13-0, in an away game.

Kelly Tuller and Ellen Mahoney scored two goals apiece for the Minutewomen. The other nine goals were spread out among nine UMass players.

Toddie Ellis and Diane Buckout each played a half in goal for the Minutewomen.

UMass, which raised its record to 6-0 with the victory, "played really good," according to coach Louie Macedo.

"It was their Homecoming, but a big crowd of our players' friends and parents came to the game," Macedo said in explaining the big margin of victory. "Plus the astroturf and the night game really psyched them up."

UMass's next activity is this weekend, when it plays in the Tufts tournament.

on any reg. price
$5.00 OFF
with this ad
Leather Boots
10/25-10/29 '77

coupon
coupon
the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst, ma.

SCER GRADUATE "MINI-GRANT" PROGRAM

SCER, with funding from the Graduate Student Senate, is sponsoring a "Mini-Grant" program to encourage graduate students to conduct "Student Interest Research". The program offers one assistantship to a person willing to coordinate the program and provide research assistance as well as a limited number of $200 stipends to graduate students willing to conduct research on such topics as:

Collective Bargaining at UMASS--what's in it for Graduate Students

The "$3,600 syndrom": The problems of obtaining a degree with low pay and high expenses

Alternative investment possibilities for University funds. What do with the money no longer in South Africa

These are only some ideas. Any topic will be considered so long as it affects graduate education or student life at UMASS.

APPLICATION DEADLINE IS NOVEMBER 18th, 1977. Mini-Grant proposals will be reviewed on a "rolling" basis. Early application improves chances of funding.

APPLICATIONS ARE AVAILABLE AT SCER
scer STUDENT CENTER FOR EDUCATIONAL RESEARCH
Campus Center Box 18 University of Massachusetts Amherst 01003 (413) 545 2892
406 Student Union

Campus Travel Center
Ft. Lauderdale $249
Includes:
· Round trip air transportation
· Hotel accomodations at Lauderdale Beach Club
· Round trip transportation between airport and hotel
· Taxes and gratuities
· Baggage handling
Air only from $119
Campus Travel Center
Campus Center
U-Mass
3rd level
545-6600

Stickers try today for 8th win

By MISSY GALLAGHER
Collegian Staff

The UMass field hockey team hopes to get back on the winning track today when it visits Plymouth State.

co-captain Cheryl Meliones said her team is "looking forward to a good game." The Minutewomen hope to duplicate last year's 1-0 victory over Plymouth.

The UMass stickers' first defeat of the season came Saturday when it was shut out, 3-0, by the powerful University of New Hampshire squad.

The Wildcats seized the contest with their aggressive syle of play. The three UNH tallies were the most scored upon UMass this year.

A positive aspect did come out of the loss. According to Meliones the UNH clash released pressure which resulted from not having been beaten all season.

The Minutewomen seek to increase their record to 7-1-2. The homestretch hold some tough opponents for the UMass stickers, including Smith on Thursday.

The Minutewomen face off against Plymouth after a four-hour bus trip at 2:30.

UMass field hockey players Julie Hall, Judy Kennedy, and Sue Kibling (left to right, in dark shirts) chase after the ball in a recent contest. The Minutewomen hope to regain their winning form today when they travel to Plymouth State. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

O'Connell out as GM in Red Sox turnover

BOSTON [UPI] — The trust that runs the Boston Red Sox fired General Manager Dick O'Connell and two other club executives and named owner-designate Haywood Sullivan as the team's chief of operations.

In a prepared statement issued yesterday, the executors of the estate of Thomas A. Yawkey announced they had "informed executive vice president Richard H. O'Connell, vice president Gene Kirby and assistant general manager John Claiborne that their services are terminated immediately."

The three-member trust — made of Mrs. Jean Yawkey, Joseph H. Lacour and James A. Curran — chose Sullivan's 13-party group over four other bidders seeking to buy the Red Sox. Mrs. Yawkey reportedly invested $3 million to become a limited partner in the combine headed by Sullivan and Edward "Buddy" Leroux.

The sale, announced Sept. 29 for a reported $16 million, was to be finalized Oct. 31 pending approval of a three-fourths vote by the other 13 American League owners, Nov. 3.

Lacour and Mrs. Yawkey informed the three administrators of the firing Monday in separate late morning meetings. At an afternoon press conference after Mrs. Yawkey had left, Lacour said the executors made the decision to relieve the burden from Sullivan's group.

"It was a dirty job and I wasn't going to leave it for them. You don't have someone (like O'Connell) around for 31 years and leave it for them to do. I admit I'm a coward — I hoped they all would get jobs during the World Series."

None of the three fired administrators was available for immediate comment and there was no indication of their future plans.

Sullivan, the Red Sox' vice president of player personnel who was hired by O'Connell 12 years ago, was named at this time, according to the prepared statement, because:

"For the past several months we have been concerned about the operation of the Red Sox in the period from the selection of a buyer to the date American League approval is given. We and others have recognized this as a critical period in the club's operation.

"To get the club through this period with the least possible disruption, we have decided to appoint Haywood Sullivan as general manager effective immediately."

O'Connell was hired out of the Navy by the late Tom Yawkey in 1946 as business manager of their Lynn, Mass., farm team in the New England League and became the Parent Club's general manager in 1965. He reportedly had fallen out of favor with Mrs. Yawkey over the past few years.

Kirby joined the Red Sox organization as vice president for administration in the fall of 1973 while Claiborne, the chief negotiator for Oakland owner Charles O. Finley in the early '70s, came to the Red Sox in August 1975. Clairborne hammered out the long-term contracts signed in 1976 by Carlton Fisk, Fred Lynn and Rick Burleson — who were on the option years of their contracts.

Two Gophers suspended

MINNEAPOLIS [UPI] — In an effort to lift an indefinite NCAA probation on all sports, a University of Minnesota committee reversed itself yesterday and declared basketball stars Michael Thompson and David Winey ineligible for violating NCAA rules.

The Assembly Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics, in a 9-5 vote, also:

—appealed to the NCAA eligibility committee to give Thompson and Winey a prompt rehearing and consider prompt restoration of their eligibility; —and appealed to the NCAA infractions committee to lift the indefinite probation on all university sports.

The University already had accepted NCAA probation for the Minnesota basketball team until next March 4 despite the fact it considered the infractions "minor".

The action hurts Minnesota's basketball prospects for the coming season. Thompson, a 6-foot-10 senior center, holds Minnesota and Big Ten scoring records and Winey, a 6-10 senior forward, was named the most improved player on the team after his sophomore year.

But the vote is expected to take indefinite probation off other university teams, including the football team, which upset No. 1 rated Michigan Saturday 16-0, spurring hopes for a bowl bid.

Thompson was accused of selling his complimentary season tickets valued at $78 for $180. Winey was cited for spending two holidays at the home of a basketball booster and his family early in their university careers.

Player Phillip Saunders also was charged with a violation. But he since has been graduated and is head basketball coach at Golden Valley Lutheran College.

The NCAA ordered probation for the basketball team from March 4, 1976, until March 4, 1978, and asked the school to declare Thompson and Winey ineligible.

The university accepted probation for the team but the committee refused to declare the players ineligible on grounds their offenses were minor and they didn't get "due process" hearings. The NCAA then put Minnesota's entire athletic program on indefinite probation.

Collegian Sports

Russ Smith

Cities: first, their teams

On a sports page, the schedule is printed up thusly: Baltimore at New England, Dallas at Tampa Bay, Chicago at Cleveland, etc. Standings are kept on that team's performance (say the Colts) and their overall record determines whether they make post-season play or not. Cut and dry.

But what of the city as a whole? What city in America can claim to have the best overall teams and fans?

This 'story' will attempt to clarify the dilemma.

Oh, before I forget, in order to qualify, the state must have at least one participant in each of the four major leagues (NFL, NHL, NBA, and Major League Baseball). Which means only nine of fity states are eligible (and their cities).

And please don't attempt to lump Washington, D.C. with Maryland.

The leagues: Eastern — New York, Massachusetts, Georgia; Western — California, Ohio, Illinois; Central — Michigan, Missouri, Pennsylvania.

Point system: For each team in a city that is decent, the city will receive a point in the win column. A bad team will be denoted by a point in the loss column. And for those unsure or shaky squads, a tie is added on. Understand? (if not, go back to the beginning and read over, or ask your roommate to explain).

Here goes: Eastern division:

Boston (4-0-0): One of the few cities with all winners in the rejuvenated Patriots (yeah, I know it's actually New England) and returning Red Sox. The Celtics are always up there and the Bruins, though not as powerful as in Orr's day, are still respectable.

New York (2-6-0): The only two teams keeping the Big Apple from being the 'Land of the Zeroes' are the Islanders and Yankees. Meanwhile, they're hurt by the sad set of the Jets, Mets, Giants, Nets (N.Y. tried to pull a fast one by calling them the New Jersey Nets), Rangers and Knicks.

Buffalo (1-2-0): Thank God for the Sabres. The Bills need more than O.J., and could do without one basketball team (Braves).

Atlanta (0-3-1): Will this city ever get a winner? Probably not. Falcons are attempting to make good in the NFL. Someday they might achieve the tie-status of the Flames.

Central Division:

Cincinnati (2-0-0): How can anyone knock Pete 'Mr. Hustle' Rose (you'd hustle too if you got paid what he did)? The Bengals? Ah, they've just fallen upon hard times; they'll recover.

Cleveland (2-2-0): The Indians fired Frank Robinson, but nothing could help this poor excuse for a team. The Barons aren't actually in the NHL are they? Browns and Cavs are a o.k.

Chicago (1-4-0): White Sox had first and choked. They were setting a bad example for the Cubs, who went down the Pike also. Not much can be said for the Bears. And the Black Hawks reign ended years ago. Rumor has ist the Bulls want out of the city.

Western division:

Los Angeles (3-0-1): Hey, they'd be 4-0-0 if they had a Ram team with a decent QB. The Lakers and Kings are consistent. And even though the Dodgers lost to you-know-who at least they tried.

Philadelphia (3-1-0): The Flyers are flying high while the Eagles are taking a dive. The 'Slam-dunk' has returned for another season. The Phillies-well, they lost to the eventual champs.

Pittsburgh (2-1-0): With a name like 'Penguins' how can you expect 'em to be tough? The Steelers are on the move and the Pirates got super uniforms.

St. Louis (1-1-1): Football Cardinals account for the win, and the baseball Cards account for the tie. Guess what the Blues got?

Oakland (1-1-1): Raiders are looking forward to a rematch with Denver this weekend which is why they took the Jets so lightly. The Athletics ended up behind an expansion club, which tells you how good they are (they did play one more game than Seattle, however). Golden State Warriors are a ?-mark.

Kansas City (1-2-0): Fantastic waterfall backs up the Royals. And they have Freddie Patek too. What else could you ask for? (the removal of the Chiefs and Kings!!)

Detroit (0-3-1): Tigers and Red Wings are attempting trades. Lions not bad. Pistons are.

San (Diego, Francisco) — take your pick. 0-2 either way. Does San mean lousy in Spanish?

Part two on fans and their influence, next week......

---

OUTFRONT

Vol. 3 No. 1

UMass 545-1585 An Independent News Supplement To The Collegian October 27, 1977

Issues to Burn Instead of Crosses

Mark Lewis - Outfront Staff

For every burning cross a dozen burning issues never see the light of day or night. Take children for instance: that's exactly what two state troopers and two welfare workers came to do late one Friday night. There were eight children on their list. Before they were finished, two parents were jailed and seven children were taken. Their parents, all members of The Free Church, Inc. of Shutesbury practiced what they called, "Learning as Healing". These parents and their alternative church openly confronted the public schools. Objecting to what they called racist, sexist and competitive learning, they refused to enroll their children in state or state-approved schools. What remains of The Free Church and its one surviving family is an issue too hot for valley media, let alone the Franklin County Juvenile Court, to handle. Outfront staff want this story told.

Schooling vs. Learning

We've mistakenly fused together under the rubric "education", the idea of schooling and the idea of learning. In this landmark case, now before the Massachusetts Superior Court on appeal, the two pieces fall apart. At stake is the Wilson family's custody of their own children, the legality of compulsory education, the abuse of religious and civil liberties by The Children's Protective Service, the invasion of privacy by the Department of Public Welfare, and the jobs of two district court judges of Franklin County. Outfront wants to fan this issue to flames.

More Questions Than Answers

On April 5th, 1977, seven children were ripped off from their parents with an illegal Child Care and Protection Paper, brought forward by The Children's Protective Service, Greenfield in an ex parte hearing. 'Ex parte' means that the parents of these children had no knowledge of these proceedings nor of the judge's order assigning their children to Welfare. Some of these children were

Even Evelyn Wood Can't Help

Last March 26, following weeks of frustration over classes and career choices, University of Texas student John O'Neal turned, smiled to a friend he was walking with, ran to the edge of a building and leaped head-first to his death. One year ago Margaret Silva Boutin, a UMass Continuing Education student, died of self-inflicted gunshot wounds.

O'Neal and Boutin are just two of the ever growing number of students who, unable to cope with the increasing stress of college life, committ suicide.

In the past fifteen years the suicide rate among college students has doubled and now ranks second behind accidents of all kinds as a cause of death. While it would be difficult to discern all the factors involved in this dramatic upswing, some indicators are evident.

Students have become more concerned with sagging job prospects, the declining value of college degrees and grade competition. "Students have no time to be bothered with societal problems--jobs have become more important. Now students take easy classes where they don't ask questions and are assured of good grades," observed one UMass student.

Another student wonders if "I wear my hair longer, will it hurt me when I apply for a job? I don't agree with what that professor says in lectures, but I'll give it to him the way he wants it because I need the grade to get a good job."

Fears over the inability to find a job either while a student or immediately upon graduation are well grounded. Unemployment among people aged 16 to 24 is running about 14 per cent--double the national average--and among young urban blacks nearly 40 per cent. Certainly, the Amherst area supports the statistics.

A recent article on student work in "Fresh Ink" described the Pioneer Valley's economy as "depressed for almost as long as today's college students have been alive". The article further commented "you are more likely to see a PHD working as a secretary or tugging a tap at Sheehan's than a Horatio Alger type artist turned advertising executive".

Yet despite the bleak job situation now and in the future, students continue the destructive competition against one another rather than seek cooperative solutions.

Employers, no doubt, are content to see 20 qualified candidates apply for a job instead of one or two. Wages remain static and employees are reduced to giving furtive glances over their shoulder because "someone else can always take your place".

It would be better for students if they developed a structure to enhance their job opportunities without encouraging a frantic-suicidal-educational environment.

If students choose to create a union, negotiating with academic departments and university administrators, job placement services will be sharply upgraded. The University will be then required to provide indepth, concrete job placement and counseling programs instead of the now sketchy listing of potential positions.

Also, instead of viciously vying for grades, students will control departmental curriculum, have access to teacher/course evaluations and, act as resources for one another.

Clearly, a student union will not stimulate the national or state economics to provide more jobs. But it will transform the direction of UMass so that students will not be afraid to take challenging classes or contradict a professor for fear of jeopardizing future opportunities.

Unless such steps as these are taken, UMass like so many other universities will be periodically haunted by students, who because of overwhelming pressures, find more comfort in leaping to their deaths.

Who Owns UMass?

The Caretaker's Cottage

OUTFRONT SPEAKING

From its birth in the fall of 1975, Outfront covered and continues to cover many issues and events neglected by the commercial press. We look around us and find the alternative media being co-opted: New Times, Ms., East-West, New Age Journal etc. Catering more to advertisers than their reader's needs such media resort to slick packaging with the wrappings of "alternative" instead of the substance of radical issues.

In our most recent issue, March 1977, Ourfront presented a broad spectrum of information and analyses of women with an issue dedicated to International Women's Day and Week. In that issue, for the first time, Outfront had a defined theme: Women.

Witness the Valley Advocate as it responds to a women's column which appeared briefly in its pages last spring. After a couple of good articles on women working and unionizing clericals in Greenfield, the column abruptly ceased. Because, "it wasn't necessary". Merely, "editorial discretion". Or the fact that these women, writing and editing the column, were also unionizing themselves - the Advocate production crew?

Getting wind of the organizing efforts among the staff, the publishers called each worker into the company's inner sanctom, the publisher's office, to have a word with the management:

"You aren't doing that good a job that you are indispensible. Either shape up or...".

One by one management spelled out the alternatives. Veiled threats work. For the time being organizing at the Advocate ceased. But this strikes a disonant chord right at the heart of that paper's self-proclaimed role as the "Alternative in the Valley". Alternative to what? Hip, capitalist, with a new age consciousness the wrapper of a throwaway culture. Nothing new here.

Yet who heard the story? It wasn't in that paper. Heard over the radio? Small chance. Worker and boss, woman and man, black and white, the oppressed and the oppressor - an old story. Yet where was the copy? An untold epic. Largely in response to this problem of access and control OUTFRONT was born.

OUTFRONT is more than a newsrag. It offers the community a voice... OUTFRONT offers participants the opportunity to learn journalistic and media skills in a non-alienating supportive environment. Of course we are still located in the baseness of the Campus Center. We do not have an Editorial Bored of the Ellect. As a collective our goal is consensus and an open airing of our individual needs and problems as they arise. We can use skills in writing, photography, typesetting, editing, all aspects of production and are seeking business reps to gather community support in the form of ads. Women, men of every race, color, sexual preference encouraged to apply. Work-study is available.

OUTFRONT CC 107 545-1585/2145 (Commuter's)

* * * * * * * *

OUTFRONT has filed suit against several campus administrators in a legal claim arising from the loss of the paper's complete stock of back issues, graphics files and reference collection of publications.

The claim dates January, 1977 when OUTFRONT student staff returned after intercession to find their materials missing. Letters and discussions with Campus Center administrators led to their denial of any liability in the case. The Operations Committee of the Campus Center/Student Union Board of Governors decided to support OUTFRONT's efforts to recover damages. Board Co-chairperson Michael Pill, a graduate student who is also a lawyer filed claim with the University's insurance carrier which was also denied.

Finally, attorney Jim Starr of the Student Legal Services Office prepared the court papers for a lawsuit. As a last attempt at settlement, these papers were sent to University legal counsel in August 1977. A month passed without a formal response from the University and the lawsuit asking for $1000. damages was filed at the beginning of October.

* * * * * * * * *

OUTFRONT is a student organization at the University of Massachusetts. The OUTFRONT Collective is responsible for its content and no faculty member, administrators or Massachusetts Collegian staff or editors read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication".

An Independent Newspaper Distributed Through The Collegian

Who Owns Education?

Education is not owned by, does not belong to anyone. The place where we discover the truth is not the property of anyone -- it belongs to the people as a whole: either education will be given to the people or the people will have to take it.

Che

Human Rights at UMass, Inc.

Student interests and rights can only be won through unionization by arguing the premise of individual legal rights. Does the state through its university system have "compelling interests" over the individual by simply enrolling him as a "student"? If so, what are these compelling interests? Students have a right to assemble and form governments that secure their needs in the same way that other groups have that right, according to Legal Service Office attorney, Jim Starr.

"Unionization" is only a tool toward the organization of individuals needs and rights. These always take precedence over the role of "student". Why else does the Student Unionization Issue Survey reveal "check cashing" as the highest ranking grass-root concern? The wholesale stripping of an individual's right to convenient currency transactions in the name of student status is at worst discriminatory and at best an insult. Isn't the focus of unionization the contractural relationship between the individual and the corporation called The University.

"What is the learner compelled to divest in individual rights in order to learn?"

The apparant problem is gaining a "student government" recognized by administrators and [illegible] problem is how to translate the language of student government, interests and rights vs. the university into the language of individual government, interests and rights vs. the state. Here you have the legal base to organize, unionize and even deinstitutionalize the student as learner.

Empty Words

Take the present student senate now operating at UMass, for example: that so-called governing body is not even officially recognized by the trustees. It is not a legal governing entity; it is defacto, organized for the "student" as schooled, not for the individual as learner. At any time, the student senate could, if the trustees chose to do so, be labeled as not representative and therefore unable to effectively represent students. As attorney Starr says, "Governing becomes, in a sense, an empty word". Organization and unionization does too! But let these students organize as individuals and the trustees and administration must recognize them as individuals. Their politics, their freedom is secired on the issues of individual liberties, not institutional priviliges, on the issues of free learning, of free learners of individual constitutional liberties that cannot be abridged. Not by the state or its institutions; not in the name of school or university enrollment.

What is the learner compelled to divest in individual rights in order to learn? What are the latent conditions of learning with respect to individual [illegible] what [illegible] instance, if it refused [illegible] "privileges" because one was a "student"!

Unionization when won will be futile if it doesn't first attend to such concrete human needs which underlie the issues of human rights: Why else would "student control over the campus center" and the "increase of student cooperatives" rank lowest as issues of concern in the unionization survey?

Human Needs

The compelling interest of the state to institutionalize learners as students through its university system discriminating against their basic needs as individuals is the radical issue behind unionization. Organizing at the level of these human needs will mobilize sufficient response for the litigation that would secure legal rights. The focus of litigation would be the contract between the individual as learner and the university as resource.

Sufficient law is already established to secure this contract on both constitutional and civil grounds. Tuition in escrow and incorporating student activity fees are some of the more potent tools to raise the issue. Class actions can redeem civil liberties. Politics can only support them when it doesn't undermine them; politics can hardly represent them. Outfront holds that unionization will bring the individual out front.

Student Government; Forum or Farce?

Charged with grooming students for their role in industrial society, the modern university rationalized a "community of interests" shared by administration, faculty, staff, and students alike. As ultimate goals of these groups were seen to be mutually compatible, governing structures arose to meet common interests. This view is too simplistic. Rather than a community of shared interests, the university is a never ending tug-of-war between groups of divergent interests.

SGA, a Joke at UMass

Student government is the forum for student interests. The UMass Student Government Association is the organization charged to act on the behalf of students.

There are problems. Student government on this campus is inadequate to student interests. Organizationally tangled in the webs of its own procedures, Student government lacks grass-roots participation. Elections are characterized by apathy. Representatives are viewed with disdain. As a decision-making body, student government lacks ultimate authority over most of the subjects it debates. Even as allocator of student fees, student govt. can't break from established patterns without subtle administration "advice" to conform to past practice. No wonder student government is seen by most students to be an ineffective means of influencing university policies which affect us. Student governance today is a joke here at UMass.

Speaker of the Student Senate, Brian Delima, has made many attempts to contact administrators over issues of concern to students only to be met with excuses.

When Push Comes to Shove...

It comes down to power: student government, when push comes to shove, has no real power. Our university administration, argues that student's interests are generally compatible with their own. Student government, as an institutional form, is based on this assumption.

Whether the focus is overcrowded dorms, tuition hikes, dorm policies, or whatever when student's interests are at stake, power is the issue. Student interests are sacrificed, not because lack of input leads to misunderstanding on the administration's part, but because lack of organized pressure leads to powerlessness on our part.

Unionized Faculty

University faculty have likewise suffered from this powerlessness. Historically, UMass faculty control over working conditions and contracts has been minimal. The early 1970's saw the UMass faculty looking towards unionization as a means of guaranteeing input. Subsequent to a vote for "no agent" in 1973-74, the faculty voted for union representation in the Spring of 1977. Establishment of formal ground rules for collective bargaining between the faculty and university administration started this summer.

Faced with the reality that student government was largely ineffective because students did not "share" all interests with the administration and faculty, UMass students undertook a long-range student unionization program in 1973 with the creation of the Student Organizing Project. In 1976 this unionization effort was given high priority because of the impending faculty vote and student concern that their power become equalized with that of the faculty and administration.

Troubling Trend

Preliminary work revealed that like most student governments, our Student Government Association is built on the model of a representative body. The elected senators are expected to represent the interests of their constituencies on the Senate floor by making proposals, taking part in floor debate, and voting on issues deemed important to the student interest. A study of the history of representative forms of student government revealed a troubling trend:

1. Mechanisms guaranteeing effective communication between the representative and the represented rarely survive the distances created between the two by the governance structure.

2. As the Senate is seen as "the place where the action is", passivity is fostered among students at the departmental and dormitory levels where the senate has minimal impact.

3. The important decisions made from week to week are made by the representatives (who are sometimes ill-informed) instead of the students themselves.

4. Students do not feel like becoming personally involved in the implementation of student empowerment policies because they have not been actively involved in the process of creating these policies.

5. In the last analysis the only power representative student governments have within university systems is that which is extended them gratis by the university administration, and board of trustees. And that which is theirs to give is also theirs to take away.

Understanding their position, the UMass Student Senate approved a resolution last spring declaring its intent to reconstitute itself with the purpose of enhancing student power through unionization. The committment was to electorally and administratively reconstitute the SGA as a union of students, guaranteeing that the governance of the union itself was a matter of self government by the student via decentralized student councils throughout the university, each determining in its own way the policies of the union as a whole. Through this union vehicle, the power base would be built from which students could collectively bargain with various power centers of the University, from departments to trustees.

YEAR OF THE UNION

Resolved that we, the Undergraduate Student Senate, declare this to be the "Year of the Union." We are tired of regulations that dictate where we must live, what we must eat, and what we must study. We are tired of being powerless and we refuse to be satisfied with mere "student input." We commit ourselves to a structure of self-governance that guarantees real power for students. As the recipients of our educations, we demand the right to play a role in all decisions pertaining to the terms and conditions of our relationship to the University.

We seek an organization which reflects the reality of the University. Our organization must be rooted not in the halls of Whitmore or the offices of the Student Senate. Rather, it must stem from broad-based student participation. Our strategy calls for the formation of a decentralized network of Student Union Councils in departments, in dormitories, in apartment houses, and among Third World students. These Councils would be the basis for meaningful power and will provide us with the authority to negotiate on many levels for our advancement.

As we build such a structure, we focus our work on the concerns expressed by our fellow students. Thus, we look to the Union Issue Survey as a starting point. We demand a decent education that prepares us for a meaningful life and we strive for greater student influence over the curriculum, the residence halls, and the offices and programs that affect our lives. We make good on our slogan, "LET THE STUDENTS DECIDE" by going among the students to identify and fight for our mutual needs.

September 21st marks the start of a new phase of the student movement. We began as a core of organizers knowing that our work will take us throughout the campus, building our commitment, our numbers, and our ability to effect change. We are unified in our vision for a Union which is both potent and responsive and we affirm our right to a quality education at a democratic University.

umass student unionization

The Dialogue of Delay

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION
STUDENT SENATE
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST 01003 (413) 545-0341

November 5, 1976

TO: Chancellor Bromery
FROM: Brian DeLima, Speaker
SUBJECT: University Governance

Although the student governance unit has been far and away the most faithful to the process in the past, the system is perceived not to adequately meet students' needs.

We are not interested in destroying the governance process. On the contrary, we have acted in good faith since the passage of the process in 1973. But we cannot continue to subscribe to a system that is not true to itself. It is our belief that the problems inherent in the present governance process can only be identified and acted upon if all parties to the decision-making process use the system as it was intended.

We stand ready to make yet another attempt at causing the governance process to serve the needs of the community. As we gain further insight and experience, we will initiate discussion of the process at every level of decision-making; among the governance units, the administration, and the Board of Trustees. We anticipate the cooperation of all parties in an attempt to establish an equitable and viable governance process.

Perhaps an early topic of discussion will be the nature of "appropriate consultation" in the area of academic policy and the extent of student participation in the initiation of policy recommendations in academics. We look forward to your earliest response to these suggestions.

---

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION
STUDENT SENATE
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST 01003 (413) 545-0341

December 30, 1976

MEMO FOR: Vice Chancellor Robert Woodbury
FROM: Brian DeLima, Speaker, Student Senate
SUBJECT: University Governance

Soon after the Student Affairs retreat, I sent a memorandum to the Chancellor concerning some of the areas of concern to students regarding University Governance, I enclose a copy of that memorandum in the event that you did not receive one at the time.

I recently received the Chancellor's response to that memorandum, in which he suggests a conference be held among representatives of the several governance units to discuss the problems of the process, and propose solutions to those that are soluble.

We think this to be an excellent idea, and stand ready to assist in the organization of such a conference in whatever ways we may be of use.

Unfortunately, it seems that the dialogue concerning the governance process has lagged somewhat since the retreat, and we feel the proposed conference is an essential first step in reviving that discussion. The sooner the conference can be held the better, I believe, and I look forward to hearing from you in the near future.

Brian DeLima
Speaker
Student Senate

Office of the Speaker

cc: Jay Martus/Paul Cronin
Chancellor Bromery
BDeL:bch

---

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
AMHERST · BOSTON · WORCESTER
OFFICE OF THE CHANCELLOR
WHITMORE ADMINISTRATION BUILDING
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS 01002

December 21, 1976

TO: Brian DeLina, Speaker
Student Senate
FROM: Chancellor Randolph Bromery
SUBJECT: University Governance

Thank you for your memorandum concerning the University governance process. I apologize for my delay in replying.

In a university community where units are interdependent, it is difficult to define certain areas as belonging exclusively to the faculty, or to the students, staff, administration, etc.

However, I do not subscribe to your contention that the governance process does not work, nor to your recommendation that all policy recommendations go through the governance process.

I would propose, therefore, to attempt to resolve some of the problems you see in the implementation of the governance system by having representative(s) from each governance unit meet to discuss the governance process.

If you would like to proceed on such a decision or a first step, pleast contact Vice Chancellor Woodbury so that we can make arrangements.

R.W. Bromery
Randolph W. Bromery
Chancellor

We cannot continue to subscribe to a system that is not true to itself

---

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
AMHERST · BOSTON · WORCESTER
OFFICE OF THE VICE-CHANCELLOR FOR STUDENT AFFAIRS
WHITMORE ADMINISTRATION BUILDING
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS 01002

February 9, 1977

MEMO TO: Brian DeLima, Speaker
Student Senate
SUBJECT: University Governance

Please excuse my delay in responding to your memorandum regarding the workings (or failings) of the governance process and your request for a meeting with concerned individuals to attempt to outline the problem areas as each involved group perceives them and to seek resolution of such.

My hesitation to bring a group together to begin discussing this complex issue is twofold: 1) your request for a meeting came during intersession when many of the individuals who probably should be involved in such a discussion were not on campus; and 2) the imminent vote of the faculty on unionization which raises a number of uncertainties.

I would be pleased to get such a group together to discuss this important issue after a faculty decision has been made and we have a better idea of what its implications for governance might be.

I'll keep in touch.

Bob Woodbury
Robert L. Woodbury
Acting Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs

rw/sb

An Equal Opportunity Employer

---

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION
STUDENT SENATE
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST 01003 (413) 545-0341

December 30, 1976

MEMO FOR: Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery
FROM: Brian DeLima, Speaker, Student Senate
SUBJECT: University Governance

Thank you for your reply to my memorandum concerning University Governance. While I appreciate the many demands made upon your time, it is my hope that our dialogue will progress at a more rapid rate in the future, as we become more familiar with the issues and problems of governance.

First, it is not now and has not been in the immediate past the wish of the Senate to "categorize areas of decision-making into neat little compartments".

Rather, our concern has been centered on the demonstrable absence of joint effort in formulating policy in some areas, particularly academics. That students have a concern in academics is undeniable, and we like to feel we have a competence born of familiarity.

Second, our suggestion that all policy recommendations be required to go through the governance process was an attempt to strengthen, not weaken, the process. The viability of a process that does not remain true to itself soon comes into question, and it is our belief that selective application of the requirements of so fundamental a process serves only to invite abuse. We do not wish to see the governance process subverted into a system of convenience in which a different standard is applied to the recommendations of different governance units (educational triad, students, faculty, administrator).

Finally, we concur in your suggestion of a conference among representatives of the governance units, and we will be contacting Vice Chancellor Woodbury in the very near future to make arrangements. We look forward to picking up the pace of this dialogue, and hope to come to a mutually agreeable settlement at the earliest possible date.

Brian DeLina
Speaker
Student Senate

cc: Jay Martus/Paul Cronin
Robert Woodbury
BDeL:bch

---

Were I possessed of the least knowledge,
I would, when walking on the great way, fear only paths that lead astray. The great way is easy, yet people prefer by-paths.
  The court is corrupt,
  The fields are overgrown with weeds,
  The granaries are empty;
  Yet there are those dressed in fineries,
  With swords at their sides,
  Filled with food and drink,
  And possessed of too much mealth.
  This is known as taking the lead in robbery.
Far indeed is this from the way.

Tao Te Ching

If you would have a thing shrink,
You must first stretch it;
If you would have a thing weakened,
You must first strengthen it;
If you would have a thing laid aside,
You must first set it up;
If you would take from a thing,
You must first give to it.
This is called subtle discernment:
The submissive and weak will overcome the hard and strong.
The fish must not be allowed to leave the deep;
The instruments of power in a state must not be revealed to anyone.

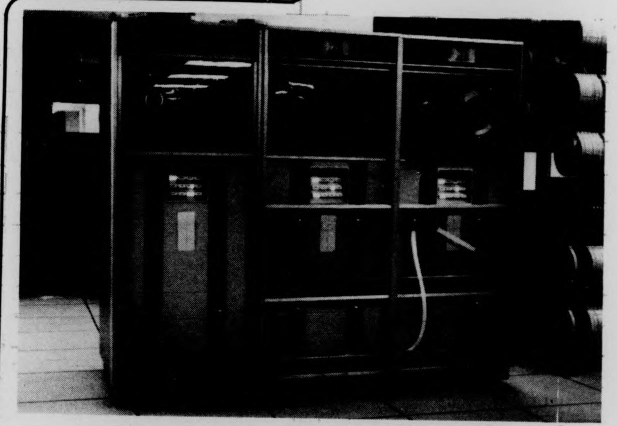
Lao Tzu



MY FEAR IS A COMMON ONE DESPAIR
SHARED BY MANY AND UNIQUE IN ME
ONLY IN ITS BEING MINE TOO
THAT MY FUTURE IS BEING DETERMINED
BY OTHERS AT A DISTANCE
MECHANICAL MEN SEATED STIFFLY IN METAL CHAIRS
AT POLISHED DESKS BEHIND GLASS WALLS
THROUGH WHICH I CANNOT SEE
AND MY REALITY CANNOT BE SEEN
JUDGING MY VALUE FOR THEMSELVES
FROM THE FACTS THAT THEY PUT IN MY FOLDER
AND THE RANDOM LOTTERY OF THEIR NUMERICAL STATISTICS

GARY TARTAKOV

Who Owns UMass?

Who owns Exxon
Who owns ITT
Who makes the world go round
And keeps us safe and free,
Who sells us processed food
TV, cars and sex
It's the multinational corporation man
He always knows what's best

Who owns UMass
Who owns the Board of Trustees
Who hikes tuition costs
And raises student fees
Who charges 100 bucks
For half a concrete cell
It's the Massachusetts corporate elite
With an education to sell.

Who makes the power plays
With the politicians and banks
Who eats in fancy joints
While we pay for his office so swank
Who used education
To build his political power
It's the education broker Robert Wood
He sells us out by the hour.

Who hides from students
In his mansion on Orchard Hill
Who ignores all our needs
Until we shout we've had our fill
Who never fails to give
Into the status quo
He's their yes-man Chancellor Bromery
But his word to students is "No!"

Who lies right through his teeth
When students begin to rise
Who squashes our demands
And tries to rule our lives
He knows just what we need
To keep us quiet and good
It's Gage of UMass bureaucracy
He'd gag us if he could

So you think I'm foolin'
You think he isn't real
You think I'm handing you the ol'
Communist appeal
Well, I might be a red
But you might be a fool
If the multinational corporation man
Keeps makin' up your rules.

TO THE TUNE OF "MULTINATIONAL CORPORATION MAN" ON PAREDON'S
"WHAT NOW PEOPLE?"

OUTFRONT IS BACK

COMMUNITY SHORTS

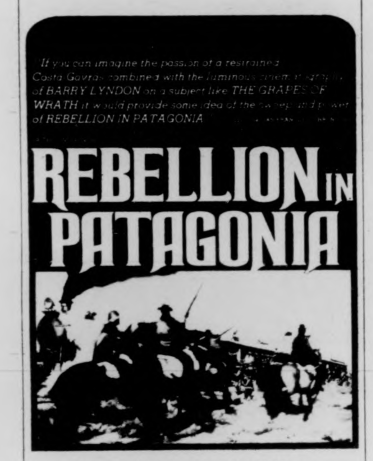
placed in foster homes; one was placed in the psychiatric ward of a local hospital. When questioned as to the grounds for this action, Judge Harvey Kramer of The Greenfield District Court declared to the parents. "there are other kinds of abuse - emotional and educational". Outfront's investigation raised more questions than answers.

Why were two of these parents, Nancy and Lou Wilson, jailed on $7,500 bail with fugitive warrants from Rhode Island so lacking in probable cause that the Massachusetts Governor's legal counsel, Ben Jones, sent these papers back to Rhode Island? Why was the eight year old child of one of the Directors of The Free Church found completely "normal" by the therapists at Franklin County Hospital when they objected to his court-ordered admission to an adolescent drug-treatment unit? Why did Judge Harvey Dramer refuse to disqualify himself from hearing an action brought forward in his court by an agency he served on as President of the Board of Directors? Why, after a summer of hearings in Judge Kramer's juvenile court, weren't these parents allowed to bring forth witnesses or even take the stand in their own defense? Why didn't these hearings justify the allegations brought forward against the parents, and the reasons their children were taken and made wards of the state? Why were these children placed alone and apart from each other and their parents without any recourse to an attorney? And why have the media of the valley covered this story so badly?

Outfront is looking for answers to these questions. The Wilson's, the only remaining family of The Free Church, got a stay against an end-of-the-summer, District Court Order to have their children tested and placed in public schools. Only now that their home is foreclosed and their economy ruined, does this family find growing support for its issues in the valley. A People's Organization for Religious and Civil Liberties has been formed to support the secular issues of this case. A support committee has organized to help sustain this family and fund their appeal.

More than the Wilson's children are at stake. For all of us the pieces have fallen apart. One of the pieces is the institution of schooling; the other is the individual as learner. The space between them is revealed as dry rot. As Ivan Illich observes, human perfection can only be seen in the progressive elimination of the institutional intermediary between people and the truth they want to learn. Berkely, Columbia and Paris witnessed the dry rot bursting into flame. What the students were seeking was that direct relationship to truth, that authentic mode of being and knowing Illich writes of, that the Wilson's practice on behalf of the cross and that Outfront now raises as a burning issue in place of a cross.



If you can imagine the passion of a restrained Costa Gavras combined with the luminous cinematography of BARRY LYNDON on a subject like THE GRAPES OF WRATH it would provide some idea of the sweep and power of REBELLION IN PATAGONIA
REBELLION IN PATAGONIA

Tuesday, October 25 at 8 and 10 p.m.
Student Union Ballroom

Progressive Calendar

25 - The Progressive Film Series Presents "Rebellion In Patagonia" S.U.B. UMass - 8 pm and 10 pm.

26 - A Benefit film showing for the Che-Lumumba School -"Carman Jones" Starring Dorothy Dandridge and Harry Belafonte "Stormy Weather" with Bill 'Bojangles' Robinson and Lena Horne These two films are the best of a handful of "All Black Films" Student Union Ballroom - 4:00 pm and 8:00 pm.
These films are free but the school would appreciate a donation

26 - The Native American Solidarity Comm. will hold an open meeting for new members. There will also be a slide show on the work done by the N.A.S.C. Unitarian Church in Northampton, 7:30 pm.

28 - 30 - Daniel Berrigan and Judge Bruce Wright speak on Human Rights - UMass and Hampshire College
For further info. call OUTFRONT Office 545-1585

28 - Woody Shaw Concert, Student Union Ballroom - 8:00 pm (FREE?)

29 - Demonstration is planned for the unconditional release of the four remaining Nationalist prisoners in front of the Northampton Court House from 12:00 to 2:00 pm.
For further info. call 584-3862

30 - A celebration of the 2nd Republic in Jayuya Puerto Rico
Time - location and listing of activities will be announced on WMUA

November 1 - The Progressive Film Series presents "Blow For Blow" Thompson 102 8:00 pm FREE UMass

1 - The World famous Chilean Folk Music group "Quilapayun" will be in concert at UMass in the Campus Center Aud. sponsored by The Chile Solidarity Comm. $3.00 Donation

4 - Panel discussion of Hispanic Community Leaders. West Lecture Hall, Hampshire College, 8:00 pm followed by a Latin Disco Benefit to help raise money for the Hispanic Council for Human Rights, 9:00 pm

$8000 in Missing Accounts at Campus Center

Over $8,000. is missing from the Campus Center Conference Service Accounts, according to three confidential sources. The sources claim that the money has been missing since at least last summer.

Director of the Campus Center William Harris denied the allegation of missing funds. However, Harris did admit "the accounts are in disarray. They've been moved... can not be found. Talk to Pat Henry about that."

Henry, an auditor for the University Accounting Office, has been working since the summer in an effort to locate the missing accounts. Henry could not be reached for comment.

Earlier this year the Campus Center was cited for irregularities in a "management letter" to Chancellor Bromery from the auditing firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. The July 8 letter points out that "during 1976 and prior years there was no formal system of record retention and control. We encountered numerous instances of lost or misplaced accounting records. For example, the book of original entry for several departments for the years of 1973 and prior could not be located."

Assistant Director of Campus Center Conference Services, Bud Wilkes, conceded that there are some "irregularities but any speculation at this point would be hearsay." Of his own personal knowledge he knows of no missing funds or accounts".

Marty Fallon, former Acting Assistant Manager of the Campus Center Conference Service declined to discuss the situation "until the audit was completed."

The letter also states that the Campus Center accounting systems "are uncoordinated, result in duplication of effort, and do not provide the information and degree of control that they should.. In summary, the present accounting systems are cumbersome, redundant, inefficient and not as responsive as they could be to the needs of management and to the objective of timely financial reporting."

Board of Governors Co-Chairperson Michael Pill refused to comment on the missing funds because "two years ago the Board got stomped on by the administration for spilling the beans about financial mismanagement in the Campus Center."

Notices

Tues. Oct. 25 -- Union Planning Council at 5 pm in Student Union Council Chambers.

Wed. Oct. 26 -- Student Senate Union Caucus at 5:30 pm, back of the Hatch.

Thurs. Oct. 27 -- Smoke-in to Protest Marijuana Laws. Five lbs. homegrown in Amherst Common. YIPPEE! BYOG

WAITING FOR THE BARBARIANS

What are we waiting for, assembled in the forum?

The barbarians are due here today.

Why isn't anything going on in the senate?
Why are the senators sitting there without legislating?

Because the barbarians are coming today.
What's the point of senators making laws now?
Once the barbarians are here, they'll do the legislating.

Why did our emperor get up so early, and why is he sitting enthroned at the city's main gate,
in state, wearing the crown?

Because the barbarians are coming today
and the emperor's waiting to receive their leader.
He's even got a scroll to give him,
loaded with titles, with imposing names.

Why have our two consuls and praetors come out today wearing their embroidered, their scarlet togas?
Why have they put on bracelets with so many amethysts, rings sparkling with magnificent emeralds?
Why are they carrying elegant canes beautifully worked in silver and gold?

Because the barbarians are coming today
and things like that dazzle the barbarians.

Why don't our distinguished orators turn up as usual to make their speeches, say what they have to say?

Because the barbarians are coming today
and they're bored by rhetoric and public speaking.

Why this sudden bewilderment, this confusion?
(How serious people's faces have become.)
Why are the streets and squares emptying so rapidly, everyone going home lost in thought?

Because night has fallen and the barbarians haven't come.
And some of our men just in from the border say there are no barbarians any longer.

Now what's going to happen to us without barbarians?
Those people were a kind of solution.

C.P. Cavafy Collected Poems
Translated by:
Edmund Keeley &
Philip Sherrard
(1904)

COLLEGIAN LABELS NUMMO NEWS AND OUTFRONT "COMMUNIST PUBLICATIONS" OUTFRONT STAFF HARASSED

Branded as "communist publications", by Tony Armelian, Business Manager of The Collegian, NUMMO NEWS and OUTFRONT were the subject of heated discussions at last Wednesday night's Collegian staff meeting. Laurie Wood read the controversial statement, arguing that NUMMO NEWS and OUTFRONT should be struck out as weekly inserts.

The following morning at 9:45 am, Britt Warren of the OUTFRONT Collective, walked from his office, thirty feet to the Graphics area to do a line shot and reduction in the darkroom. Phil Goldstein, assistant manager of the Graphics Department stood at the door:

"This is the Collegian's. You can only use it on weekends."

The room was empty. None of the machines were being used. "I just want to do this one shot", Britt urged. "I'm going to use it so either come in or go out, but don't leave the door open or it will expose the negatives".

"If you don't leave, I'm going to call the police", Phil warned.

Britt went ahead with the line shot, halftone, set the button, pushed it. Two minutes and he was back in the OUTFRONT office.

Fifteen minutes later, the door of the OUTFRONT office flew open. State Trooper Ford, followed by Phil and "Dudley", pushed in.

"You know why we're here!" Trooper Ford offered.

"No." Britt declined.

"We got a complaint from Phil about where you weren't supposed to be."

"Can I quote you on that?" Britt smiled.

"This is serious, possible grounds for arrest", Ford warned.

"Can I quote that too?" Britt persisted.

"Yes - and don't get smart with me", Ford rubbed his chin".

"Are you threatening me?" Britt moved from behind his desk.

"No, I just want to get the whole story".

"No story to tell", Britt said. "This is my office, OUTFRONT's office. We're an RSO group".

"Who's we"? Ford asked, drawing out his pad and pen. "Who works here?"

"That's no concern of yours - why do you want to know?" Britt turned to the hotplate and poured himself a mug of coffee. Ignoring Ford, he turned to Dudley.

"Do you know how we can get a better lock? We've been trying to keep a handle on our files".

Right then, Dudley and Phil left, ignoring Britt.

Ford saw his opening. "I've dealt with over 200 cases like this". he explained. "I have to decide what to do. Look, we don't want trouble do we? When I want a police car, I don't just hop in one and go driving off somewhere. I go ask my captain. You see, if you want to use something, you have to ask for it!" You have to go through proper channels."

Britt moved back slumped in his chair, gripping his plastic mug of black coffee. "I don't really think you know why you came here?" he suggested.

"I said, don't get smart with me, fella"

"Who's equipment is this?" Britt asked gently.

"The Collegian's".

"No its not", Britt explained. "It's the graphics department of the students, under the auspices of the Board of Governors. They've no right to call you in here".

Ford shifted his weight, stroking his mustache.

"Look, I'm only doing my job. I don't want there to be any trouble".

"Look", Britt argued, "You came into my office! Or don't you know what's going on behind a closed door".

"Well, I'm a policeman". Ford explained, rubbing his big hand over his short cropped, curley hair. "And I go behind doors".

"Well, you come in here", Britt pressed, "intimidating me, looking like you're going to draw..."

"Ready to draw what", Ford stepped back, his eyes dropped to his hip, checking.

"Conclusions..." Britt finished. "About things you know nothing about".

At that Ford more or less backed out of the room. "You going to be around?" he asked, with mixed hope and suspicion.

"Sure", Britt responded, wishing he'd offered him coffee. "Come back at 6:00. Just please knock".

THE FIGHT AGAINST RADIOACTIVITY... TOO HOT TO HANDLE

Sixty-four members of the Clamshell Alliance who occupied the Seabrook nuclear plant site May 1 have been called into Superior Court on Nov. 7 for the appeals of their District Court sentences. They were chosen by the court from among 1414 people arrested in a non-violent occupation of the Seabrook site to stop construction of the plant.

The defendents are preparing for individual jury trials. It is the hope of the Clamshell to put nuclear power on public trial. After hearing evidence on the hazards of nuclear power, the jury has the power to decide if the occupiers were justified in their attempt to stop the Seabrook plant through non-violent direct action. The occupiers feel civil disobedience is the last option open to them after legal intervention and town votes against the plant had been unsuccessful in stopping construction.

The trials will be held in Rockingham Superior Court in Exeter, N.H. Those who may want to be there to support the occupiers, go to the Courthouse Nov. 7 or contact the Clamshell Alliance, 62 Congress St., Portsmouth, N.H. 03801, tel. (603-) 436-5414.

---

Ed King to run for governor

BOSTON [compiled services] — Edward J. King, former head of the Massachusetts Port Authority, yesterday unveiled his challenge to Gov. Michael S. Dukakis in the 1978 Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

King is the first candidate of either party to officially enter the race. House Minority Leader Francis W. Hatch, R-Beverly, is expected to announce his bid tomorrow for the GOP gubernatorial bid.

Citing the need for an "end to economic stagnation and lost opportunity," King opened his campaign for the gubernatorial nomination at a news conference in front of the statehouse.

Standing in front of the State House, King said, "The people of Massachusetts need and desire government by leadership, not staged media event." He added, "I'm not talking about this one news conference, of course."

A crowd of about 50 people looked on as King made his announcement.

King, 51, of Lynnfield, served as director of the Massachusetts Port Authority from 1963 to 1974. He resigned Monday from his post as president of the New England Council.

"I'm basically for growth," King said. "I'm not against refineries, highways, seaports, airports or any of those things.

"Without a healthy economic climate, the quality of life in Massachusetts is diminished for all of us," King said. "It is time to end this vicious circle of economic stagnation and lost opportunity."

King criticized Dukakis, saying under the governor, "state income and sales taxes have increased dramaticaaly," state spending has increased 47 per cent despite the governor's pledge to take a meat cleaver to the state budget and auto insurance rates "have jumped astronomically.

"That is the legacy of Mike Dukakis," he added, "a tale of promises made and not kept."

King said he favors capital punishment, and is opposed to abortion — two positions directly opposite those of the governor.

Although some political observers have said King should feel more comfortable in the Republican Party, King said he has been a Democrat for at least 16 years, adding "it's the Democratic philosophy I believe in."

He added that his own polls show the governor is vulnerable to a primary upset because of a strong backlash, particularly among the business community.

King estimated his campaign would cost between $750,000 and $1 million. According to records on file yesterday in the state office of Campaign and Political Finance, King's campaign committee had a zero balance while Dukakis' war chest showed a balance of $48,714.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 39 WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1977
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts · Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

Some tickets not half price

FAC raises student prices

By NIEL MOELLER
Collegian Staff

Student prices for tickets to the musical "Grease" and several other upcoming "special attractions" in the Fine Arts Center (FAC) concert series will be higher than normal because those attractions were booked late, according to FAC Publicity Director David Letters.

The UMass Arts Council, responsible for the 50 per cent ticket price discount usually accorded students, had already allocated and approved their budget for the fiscal year July 1, 1977 to June 30, 1978 at a meeting last February when the special attractions were added, said Letters in a press release issued yesterday.

Thus, according to Letters, the $70,000 approved to subsidize student tickets covered only those events on the FAC concert series established at the time of the February meeting.

At a September meeting, the council voted to subsidize the special attractions as well, but only in part, said Letters, because the budget would not allow for a 50 per cent discount.

According to FAC Acting Director John Jenkins, "The council determined in September that, according to projections, if student response (to the announced series) continued as strong as it had been up to that point, the money budgeted for discounts would soon be exceeded. Therefore, it was decided at the very least not to subsidize the full 50 per cent reduction of student ticket prices.

"We would have honored a discount," he said," but we have a deficit ourselves, so rather than do anything that might add to the deficit, we decided to publish the prices according to the new Arts Council Decision."

That decision resulted in discounts on UMass student tickets as follows: "Grease", Oct. 28, $1; Chuck Mangione, Oct. 30, $2; National Ballet of Spain, Dec. 10, $3; Marcel Marceau, Feb. 24-25, $1; and the Canadian Opera Company, Feb. 16, $3.

Commenting on the situation, Letters said he had heard the Arts Council, which is allowed to spend its $120,000 budget as it sees fit and is not obligated to provide a discount on student ticket prices, will not use money for discounts next year, and instead will sponsor its own shows, as it has in the past.

Frederick Tillis, special advisor on the arts to Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury, said he thinks less Arts Council subsidizing of student tickets may be "the wave of the future.

"I think they may decide in the future not to subsidize student tickets so heavily because the funds are used up so quickly that way," he said. "I think it was too heavy (a financial burden).

"They want to use the money for other purposes too — visual arts and some programming of their own. They want to do a variety of things," he said.

Smoke-in part of national movement

By JOAN FEENEY
Collegian Staff

This would seem to be the season of the smoke-in. Amherst is not the only scene of a harvest smoke-in; New York, Cleveland, and San Francisco are all hosting similar smoke-ins this month, according to the Yipster Times.

Peaceful smoke-ins have been held in both Berkeley, Calif. and Ann Arbor, Mich., and according to Russ Swann, sponsor of the Amherst smoke-in, there is no reason why the "First Annual Great Pumpkin Festival and Yippie Smoke-In," scheduled for tomorrow afternoon on Amherst Common, should not be "highly successful."

Swann said there will be a gathering tomorrow at 11 a.m. in front of the Student Union and the group will proceed to Amherst Commons. "This is intended as a peaceful protest," he said. Some details he offered on tomorrow's events:

There will be 100 security persons, wearing black "Yippie" armbands, who will advise and assist the crowd. Also on hand will be people with first aid experience, should it be needed.

Volunteers working for Swan will also be there taking detailed notes of the happening, should they be later needed for legal purposes.

The following is taken from the Yipster Times Smoke-In Handbook and its advice may be helpful, according to smoke-in veterans. Above all, suggests Swann, do not resist arrest, should any occur.

"Busts, if any, come down around the fringes of the crowd. Urge people to pack tight, and only distribute near the center. If being chased, always run into, not away from, the center of the crowd. A quick trade of clothes, and your hair tied back, and you're back in action."

Inside

•More on Bakke

Another opinion was added to the current Bakke reverse discrimination case last night when Gregory Banks, a member of the National Student Coalition Against Racism, spoke here as part of the Distinguished Visitors Program. See Page 3.

•Senate preview

The Undergraduate Student Senate will consider several proposals in their meeting tonight, one of which will be a motion to attempt to recall Student Senator Craig Sherwood, a white student elected on the Third World ballot. The senate will also hear a full report on the inquiry into the possibility of obtaining Stevie Wonder for the Black American Music Festival. For both stories, see Page 3.

•Pianist tonight

Considered to be the world's greatest living pianist, Lazar Berman of Russia will perform tonight at the Fine Arts Concert Hall. See the story on Page 6.

•Statue occupied

Puerto Rican Nationalists yesterday occupied the Statue of Liberty in protest of the jailed Puerto Rican terrorist who took part in the 1954 attack on the House of Representatives. See Page 2.

Weather

The rain will come again today,
Not a hint of the sun, not even a ray
Clouds will prevail,
It might even hail
Other than that, it'll be pretty grey.

Group demands terrorist's release

Statue of Liberty occupied

NEW YORK [UPI] — Puerto Rican nationalists took over the Statue of Liberty yesterday, ousting hundreds of tourists and a movie crew and demanding the release of terrorists serving life prison terms for the 1954 attack on Congress.

The 30 unarmed demonstrators said they represented the Supporters of the Puerto Rican Independence Movement and the New York Committee to Free the Five, a reference to four Puerto Ricans who shot up the U.S. House of Representatives in 1954 and wounded five congressmen, and a fifth who took part in an assassination attempt against President Harry Truman at Blair House in 1950.

They were sentenced to life prison terms, but President Carter recently commuted the sentences of one of the gunmen.

U.S. attorneys obtained an injunction ordering the demonstrators to leave the island as FBI agents and National Parks Service officials negotiated with the nationalists.

A spokesman for the National Park Service, which has custody of the 151-foot national monument, said the demonstrators boarded the first sightseeing boat to Liberty Island, located 1½ miles from Manhattan in New York Harbor.

Once inside the pedestal of the monument, some members of the group chained themselves to the structure and ejected more than 200 sightseers, many of them schoolchildren.

Also ousted were 20 members of a crew filming the movie "Matilda," starring Robert Mitchum and Elliot Gould. Neither actor was at the scene, but a cameraman in an overhead helicopter filmed the entire incident.

The demonstrators hung a Puerto Rican flag from the brow of the statue, and at the base was a sign saying "Independence for Puerto Rico" in Spanish.

Dozens of newsmen crowded along Battery Park in Manhattan, but police refused to allow any ferries out to the Island.

---

A demonstration-picket will be held Saturday from noon to 2 p.m. in front of the Northampton Court House to demand the unconditional release of the remaining Four Nationalist prisoners.

What student entering Bartlett Hall wouldn't trade places with this lazy canine? (Staff photo by Bob Higgins)

Southwest carnival loses thousand dollars

By MATHEW KOVARY
Collegian Staff

Last week's Southwest carnival, sponsored by the Southwest Assembly (SWA), experienced a $985 deficit but the assembly is still satisfied because the money served the Southwest community, Joni Mersky, carnival coordinator said last night.

Last week's carnival was hampered by expensive rides and bad weather. "Fifty cents is high for rides," one customer said, "But it's a good way to raise money for Southwest."

The expensive tickets did just the opposite however. They discouraged students from staying and contributed to the deficit.

One of the rainiest autumns in years also added to the problem. The playing field where the carnival was held became soggy and carnival employes had to spread 25 bails of hay over the mud, like sawdust on a bar room floor.

"The carnival was supposed to be run earlier in the semester, when the weather was drier and warmer," Bonnie Ward, co-treasurer of the assembly said. "Had that been the case we would have made a profit."

In other action, the SWA last night voted to elect Peter Torkildsen acting vice president until a popular election could be arranged; allocate $250 for the Che-Lumumba School, a progressive school for children ages five through nine located in the New Africa House, and to appropriate $200 for Quilapayun, the Chilean folk music group scheduled to perform in the Campus Center Auditorium Nov. 1.

The "lack of experience" was the main reason the assembly lost money on the carnival, Mersky said.

It was the first carnival on campus, the first time LMC Amusements catered to a university and the first time the SWA sponsored such a production.

Poor Women's Task Force changing misconceptions

By ELLEN DAVIS
Collegian Staff

It used to be that poor women, especially women on welfare, and single mothers were accused of becoming intellectuals or stepping out of place if they tried to return to school.

As a result, child care and educational services for these women were considered unimportant.

But thanks to groups like the Poor Woman's Task Force at UMass, these misconceptions are changing.

The Poor Woman's Task Force is one of six groups which make up the Everywoman's Center in 506 Goodell.

Since its founding in 1972, the task force has offered admissions, financial aid, and academic counseling to the more than 1,000 women on welfare or aid to families with dependent children who attend UMass.

They also try to explain University "red tape" to those interested in coming to UMass.

The task force is staffed by Martini Emhart, a UMass graduate, Sunyeen Pai, and a work-study student.

Every semester, Emhart and Pai meet both individually and in groups with women who want their services. Last year they saw 450 women.

Besides counseling, the task force offers referral services for women who need housing, child care, or welfare information.

"We also want to make other campus agencies more informed about our services," said Pai.

Emhart added they "want to develop more of an outreach program and cut down on incorrect referrals to other places."

The idea for the Poor Woman's Task Force was modeled after a similar group at Tufts Unvversity, said Emhart. Since the UMass task force has been in operation, they have been copied by other schools, including the University of Montana, she added.

Police Beat

Several cars stolen

By MATHEW KOVARY
Collegian Staff

Several automobiles were stolen and vandalized last week, campus police said.

One of the stolen cars, a '73 Audi Fox belonging to Robert Goldfarb of 359 Dale St. in Chicopee, was pulled out of the Connecticut River Monday by state police after being stolen Sunday night from campus parking lot 21, police reported. The car, valued at $2,265, was equipped with a CB radio and FM radio-cassette player.

In another incident, Joan Sherman of Glen Cove, N.Y. parked her car in the Campus Center garage late Saturday night only to find it jacked up on cinder blocks Sunday morning with four tires missing, police said. A campus garage employe said Sherman will receive free parking until the car can be removed.

A stolen '66 Buick Skylark, belonging to UMass student Laura Dooley of 218 Mary Lyon, was reported missing last week from lot 25, police said. The car was valued at $600.

Vandals slashed the roof of a '68 Pontiac Firebird convertible belonging to Robert Sawin of 207 Brown while it was parked in campus lot 44 sometime between Wednesday and Friday of last week, police said. Damage was estimated at $125.

The glass front of a vending machine on the first floor lobby of Bartlett Hall was smashed Saturday between 7:30 and 8:30 p.m. and stole the candy. Damage was estimated at $150, police said.

UMass student freed in Ohio

The UMass student arrested Saturday during the Kent State University gym protest was released from the Portage County jail yesterday on $8,000 bail.

Robert Bolandrina, a student senator from Mackimmie dorm was charged with trespassing, assault and battery on a police officer and aggravating a riot.

The additional charge of contempt of court was also placed on Bolandrina and the five others arrested Saturday because they violated the court injunction issued by Judge Philip Jones.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled Friday for Bolandrina.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Mark Leccese

| | |
|---|---|
| Assistant Issue Editor | Kathy Tobin |
| Black Affairs Layout | Terrell Evans |
| Editorial Layout | Eileen Foley |
| Sports Layout | Mike McHugh |
| Wire Layout | Maureen Carney |
| Day Layout | Emily Bakerman |
| Ad Layout | Karen Libucha |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid . ^mherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

---

Eric Sandquist and Sue Boissenvain catch a few sets before the return of the rain. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

Advocacy services Senate topic tonight

By DAN HUSE
and GEROLD KASSNER
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate will tonight consider a motion to give the Senate Coordinating Committee the responsibility of coordinating the student advocacy services.

The motion for an amendment to the senate by-laws would make the Coordinating Committee "responsible for coordinating the activities of the advocacy agencies: Student Organizing Project, Student Center for Educational Research, Legal Services Office, and the Economic Development Coordinator." There is currently no formal means for coordinating these agencies.

The senate will also consider a motion which, if passed, would attempt to recall Student Senator Craig Sherwood, a white student who was elected on the Third World ballot.

Introduced by the Third World Caucus, the motion states, "Sherwood is unaccountable to his Third World constituents" and "is not aware of the Third World experience."

Student Government Association co-President Jon Hite said the issue is "a tough one.

"Sherwood was elected with 100 and something votes," Hite said. "I don't know whether we should expel him or not based on last week's motion which defined Third World."

Sherwood said, "I feel that I can effectively represent my constituency, who did duly elect me. However, if they feel otherwise, it is within their constitutional rights to subject me to a recall election."

The senate last week passed a motion defining Third World students to be "African-Americans, Asian-Americans, Latinos, Native Americans and Chicano peoples, and other people of color; we identify ourselves among racial and ethnic lines. We are people of color within the United States who share a common heritage of political economic, and cultural exploitation ... "

In other business, the senate will consider a proposal for a student-run towing service to be established on campus.

The Committee to Stop Amherst Towing, an RSO group, has presented the senate with an in-depth proposal for a student-run towing service. In the proposal, Committee Coordinator Roger Sturgis says that over the last two years, 9,000 towing victims have paid a total of $175,000 to Amherst Towing. The proposed service would reduce the cost to students and keep the money within the University community.

According to Hite, the first proposal would require that every motion introduced before the senate be sent to committee before bring brought before the full senate. Hite said the purpose of the motion is to avoid the passage of legislation which is introduced to the senate on the same day as the vote.

The second motion would require that student senators report to their respective house councils each week. Hite said the accountability of senators to their constituents would be improved if communication between senator and house council is required.

Other benefits to students would include extra employment (up to 280 hours per week, according to the proposal) and a more convenient on-campus site for storing towed vehicles.

The major obstacle facing the advocates of the towing service is the large initial cost. The proposal calls for a $29,000 capital outlay, which includes the cost of two tow trucks, and equipped office trailer, and fencing and lights for the storage lot.

Sturgis claims that 90 per cent of the students he has talked to have been in favor of a student tow service.

In addition, two motions dealing with senate by-laws will be discussed at tonight's meeting.

Banks speak at Mahar

Bakke case "coming down on blacks"

By DAVID OLMOS
Collegian Staff

"The Bakke case is an attempt to legally justify the turn away from affirmative action programs," warned Gregory Banks, a member of the National Student Coalition Against Racism (NSCAR).

Banks, speaking in Mahar Auditorium last night as part of the Distinguished Visitors Program, stressed that the Bakke decision "is just one of the many things coming down on blacks and minorities these days."

Banks pointed out that Bakke seems to have specifically made an attack on the affirmative action program at University of California at Davis. He said he feels this was part of a desire on the part of Bakke and UCal-Davis to end the affirmative action programs there.

Gregory Banks stresses a point during his anti-Bakke speech in Mahar Auditorium last night. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

"Bakke chose to attack the university despite the fact that at least eight admitted white students had lower test scores and 36 admitted students had lower grade point averages," explained Banks. He noted that Bakke did not chose to contest the real reason for his refusal, which was his age.

Banks also spoke about the lack of any legal testimony by UCal-Davis concerning the past history of minority student enrollment. Banks said the state of California has over a 25 per cent minority population and that before implementation of minority programs at the campus, there was only a one per cent minority enrollment.

Banks said part of the cause is the recent economic recession; affirmative action programs and minorities "get the axe first" because the programs are costly.

"This kind of action threatens to destroy the last vestiges of the affirmative action battle we won in the 1950's and 60's," said Banks. He added that anti-reverse discrimination is "simply a code name for plain old ordinary white racism."

Banks expressed dismay at the United States government position on quotas in affirmative action programs. He quoted U.S. Attorney General Griffin Bell as saying, "There is a line between goals and quotas, and when you cross the line we would oppose quotas." Banks explains that without quotas, affirmative action is only left with the good intentions of employers and school administrations.

Banks said there is a real need to "get back into the streets" to fight the attacks on affirmative action. He said he feesl there has been a decline in the Civil Rights movement which won blacks and other minorities the gains they are now in danger of losing.

Specifically, Banks said he would like to see NSCAR and other minority oriented groups such as the NAACP get together and discuss the best way to fight for minority rights. The last such meeting according to Banks, was the 1963 meeting to organize a march on Washington led by the late Martin Luther King.

Reporter's Notebook

In the crowd at Kent State

By KAREN POLLENS
Collegian Staff

---

Karen Pollens is a UMass freshman and a member of the Inquiry Program. She travelled to Kent State last weekend and this is her account of the Saturday demonstration.

---

Long live the spirit of Kent and Jackson State!

One harmonized murmur. Students from all over the country — Florida, Maine, California — piled up on Kent State commons. Over 800 students; T-shirts, flannel shirts, dungarees, packs, sleeping bags, bright cloth on their faces, and a common expression: subdued terror, nervous and smiling excitement. What happened to all those Frisbees?

I am too short to be a reporter. I climb up on a stone wall so I can look at the whole field. A woman, over 60, short and thin, wearing a white cotton shirt buttoned tightly around her throat, stands beside me. "Are you in sympathy with the demonstrators?" I ask her. "I AM a demonstrator," she replies. She tells me she is a resident of Kent, Ohio. "Most of the older people in Kent agree with us, I think. But they get turned off by the torn jeans and frizzy hair." Hair and pants. Symbols. Symbolic of what? I look at my dungarees, touch my hair. I don't know.

At the far end of the field there is a row of policemen, at least 100, with green military vests and clubs. Someone is reading the court injunction into a megaphone. I see him, but I can't hear him. The chanting is too loud. Everyone knows what he is saying. It is illegal to be here. You are breaking the law. Judge Jones and the university president agree. Huge men in vests push through the crowds throwing printed court orders at the students. A guard presses one between my arm and open notebook. I jump back and let it slide to the ground. Touch the paper, go to jail.

Charlie Bagli, Revolutionary Student Brigade (RSB) member and organizer of UMass protestors, runs up to the wall. He says, angrily, "If you're not going to stick with the group, leave now. Otherwise, get into your line, and stay there. And cover your face."

Now, as I look through my notes, I see it on every page. "Why don't I cover my face? Why don't I cover my face?" And here, written in bold, dark, pencil, "There is no reason to cover my face. I am no bandit and no criminal."

The police regroup into neat, disciplined lines, shoulder to shoulder, knee to knee. They begin walking forward, in step, small

TURN TO PAGE 7

Senate to get report on concert

The Undergraduate Student Senate will receive a full report today from Kwaku Saunders concerning his two-week trip to Los Angeles to obtain Stevie Wonder for UMass' Black American Music Festival.

According to the minutes of the Sept. 28 senate meeting, Saunders made a motion "to appropriate $450" to send him to Los Angeles to make an agreement with Stevie Wonder. This motion was the subject of "considerable controversy" said senate Treasurer Priscilla West. After a 20-minute discussion the motion was passed.

On Oct. 3 Saunders was flown to Los Angeles. Although he returned a week ago, Saunders has been unavailable for comment on the progress of his trip.

At a noon interview yesterday, coordinator of the Office of Third World Affairs San Kinard said Saunders was "out of town" but said Saunders had conducted a "series of meetings with Stevie Wonder's manager and felt optimistic about Wonder coming to UMass.

Kinard also added "I would also like to say that the motion to send Saunders to Los Angeles was carried unanimously."

Black Affairs

"VIEWPOINT"

Viewpoint is a column designed for our readers to express their views on various subjects. In this manner, the staff of Black Affairs hopes to establish an open line of communication between our readers and us. Viewpoint does not necessarily represent the views of the staff of Black Affairs. All articles must be typed.

In response to 'Asian Women React to Poem'

A poet-philosopher-historian has the responsibility of raising the conscious level of the masses to the heights that allow us to erase the ignorance, superstitions and misconceptions that oppress us. Not to remind us of what we already know about the laments of 'hard times meant for crying and my baby's gone' (Black Affairs, Wednesday October 19, 1977, Troubled Times, Annie Carpenter). And not to tell us the things that we want to hear, or the things that we believe or consider about ourselves.

For those Asian students who were offended by Mr. Rasool's poem, perhaps you should conduct a thorough research of the words, terminology and the origins and definitions of these words that both you and Mr. Rasool have used. And if your sources are reliable, you will find that the ancient historians often refer to Asia and Africa, in totality, as 'Asia'. And that it was not until Leo Africanus, a European explorer, 'founded' this portion of the continent, that it was then called 'Africa'. So you see, you do not exclusively have the rights of 'Asian beginnings.'

Paradoxically, you refer to yourselves as 'Third World', a term shrouded with negativity by those who coined it. And a term that is filled with confusion and ignorance by those who refer to themselves by that term. (Nummo News, Political Analysis, Nkrumah Lumumba Olinga, Why Be Called Third World). Of course we know what it implies and what it is supposed to mean. But what does it mean, where did it originate, and what does it mean by those other than ourselves? Again, as Mr. Olinga points out, we must begin to see that language is a large part of our oppression.

We must all carefully examine what we call ourselves, in both personal names and collective names and be re-educated into the knowledge of our origins. And it is only through this type of meticulous research and total knowledge that we will not allow our oppressors to define who we are and to further manipulate our existence.

With peace,
Arifah Nasir

By ARIEL M. HALL

There seems to have been a gross oversight made on the part of the editor of The Asian American Review in her reaction to 'The Request'. While the 'anger and surprise' expressed in her letter of Oct. 17 was not totally unfounded, it should not have overshadowed the issue itself: the appreciation of poetry.

If we of the twentieth century, neglected to consider the life-styles, values, beliefs; the culture surrounding the literature which has come down through the ages then the work of scholars and critics, reknown for their insight, would be nothing more than a room full of essays debating the universal acceptance of Zeus, Jesus Christ or existentialism. The total appreciation of any literary endeavor, especially poetry, requires an understanding of allusions ranging from the mathematics in Carroll to the American transcendentalism in Whitman. Asking the poet, as Ms. Lee asked Mr. Rasool, not to speak 'in a language they (the masses) do not understand without explanations' is a plea for literary transparency which rids the reader of almost an intellectual responsibility.

While a publication such as the Collegian leaves little room for a total understanding of the philosophies of its contributors, Ms. Lee's treatment of Mr Rasool's work as a totally political-cultural statement, rather than as a poem concerning politics-culture, was perhaps an indication of her philosophical perspective on poetry.

Why be called Third World?

By NKRUMAH LUMUMBA OLINGA
Political Analysis
Nummo News

Question, do people who use the phrase Third World really understand the origin and connotations it denotes. This article is timely and important because most people of color progressive and non-progressive permit others to put them into a numerical digit that negates being first. It is serious and dangerous for a people to continue to use Third World without investigating its origin.

Charles Deguale first used the phrase when he had to give a report to the then European power block of the world at that time. Deguale was apologizing for losing the war to Bro. Ho Chi Minh in North Vietnam. The great countries of the world at that time were afraid of the outcome of people of color really controlling their own destiny. Back in the early 50's one could see the eventual fight between the Soviet Union and The Republic of China. The struggles of Mao Tse-Tung is a prime example of people of color organizing among themselves to fight against the powers of Europe.

People of color must realize their

TURN TO PAGE 5

Theatre review of a minstrel show, 'Chocolate Boy Review'

By ANGELA THOMAS
Black Affairs Editor

The Chocolate Box Review performed at Amherst College this past Friday, October 21, in the Buckley Recital Hall.

A full house consisting of about 200-250 people turned out to view the performance, billed as an "authentic minstrel and vaudeville show."

Never having viewed an "authentic minstrel and vaudeville show," my expectations were high, as I settled back comfortably in my seat.

The opening act is painful to remember. The performers were barely audible due to problems with acoustics. The four dancing Gibson Girls had two members who had extreme difficulties in synchronizing their dance routine to those of the other two dancers.

In all fairness, there was an announcement made prior to the show, announcing that two students were to perform with the dance line that night. I'll just say that the audience and myself all knew who the two students were.

A one man band, known as "Moon Dog Wheaton," was supposed to be an added attraction on the program. We were reminded constantly by him that, "Moon Dog from New York City is in town." Those that did not fall asleep during his performance (there were many, because I checked), were probably wishing like I was for the 'Big Apple' to come claim her lost one.

Sandra Gibson, alias The Red Wagon Girl, projected all the stereotypes that many people have of black women. The truly sad part of this act, (the act on the whole was sad) is the feeling I have of the audience. I wonder if they understood what Gibson was portraying in relation to the show. The show was minstrel-vaudeville in nature, representing how black people, in order to feed themselves, were forced to present themselves in a manner that whites believed blacks to behave.

If people did not grasp this important aspect of the show, especially Gibson's act, it was and is truly sad.

Gil Nelson, Charles Cooke, Ralph Brown, and Bert Gibson, were most definitely the high point of Friday's performance.

Nelson possesses and demonstrated such an enchanting and moving voice for singing, that the audience found it hard to let him leave the stage. He was called for an encore time and time again. Nelson's version of "Lost in the Stars," "Almost Like Being In Love," and "Without a Song, No Love At All," created vivid images of loveland.

The 'Evolution of Dancing,' was presented by Cooke, Brown, and Gibson. "If you couldn't dance, you weren't nothing!" said Cooke.

The loudest response from the crowd was for tap dancing. Cooke is regarded as one of the best dancers of a by-gone era of tap.

The audience was shown many aspects of tap such as 'Time Step,' a step that helps a performer to keep time, and a skit on, 'Breaking In New Pair of Boots.'

Those billed as the main attraction of Chocolate Box Review, were indeed that, and more. Those that weren't, I know why.

Bert Gibson ( 1) Charles Cooke, and Ralph Brown performed at Amherst College this past Friday, October 21, as part of 'Choclate Box Review'.

Five college chapter of NBSA sponser trip

Across the United States there is an all-out attack on the education of Black people. We find that cutbacks in government funds to education are making it difficult, if not impossible, for Black students to get needed scholarships and grants. Black colleges and universities are under constant economic attack and in many cases are being closed or integrated out of existence. In white schools Black students must content with culturally biased entrance exams and standardized tests. High schools are graduating Black youth that don't know how to read — it seems as though all-out war has been declared on Black education. Black students must organized to counter this attack and fight for better education for our people.

The Southern Regional Coordinating Committee of NBSA is calling for a National Black Students' Congress to discuss strategy for dealing with the problems of Black education and to lay out our plans and programs for the next year. We intend to draw students from throughout the nation to participate in this important conference.

NBSA was formed at a National Black Student Solidarity Conference which was held at Tufts Univers[illegible] Massachusetts in February, 1976. Over 200 students from over 70 schools attended the conference. The participants agreed that there was a need for them to initiate the building of a national Black students' organization. The purposes of NBSA are to:

a. establish a strong line of communications between Black students across the country;

b. establish better communications and a better working relationship between Black students and the rest of the community; and

c. organize Black students across the country to do serious work around concrete programs and issues that will bring our people closer to Liberation.

NBSA is sponsoring a conference on November 4, 5, 6, 1977, at Atlanta University in Atlanta, Georgia. The purpose of the conference is to bring Black students from around the country together to discuss Affirmative Action cutbacks and other problems facing Black communities around the country. Come and bring ideas for positive action. For details about the conference contact: Brother Kojo Owusu — Southern Region; P.O. Box 92001; Atlanta, Georgia 30314; (404) 758-8469.

For more information on NBSA and the Congress contact: Nrumah L. Olinga 546-4538.

Northeastern Region — Brother Tony Vandermeer; 14 Harvard Avenue; Dorchester, Mass. 02121.

West Coast Region — Brother Akinyele Umoja; c-o P.O.Box 61213; Greenmead Station; Los Angeles, Ca. 90059.

Note:
UMass transportation free to and from Atlanta. Deadline for conference conformation October 28, Friday. Accommodations — $6 per person for weekend, $2 registration fee. Food will not be provided.

Annie's Poetry Corner

Sweet Togetherness

Oh, my sweet friend
I can't see our time ending
How long has it been Since in your arms I've been Since you first made known our love
Since we looked into each other's eyes to see our souls
How much longer will it be for our true love to begin Cause in my heart I know we will never end
But, to begin again and again
Our love will grow
This we both know
Side by side
Hand in hand
Sweet togetherness will be ours
Annie Carpenter 9-12-75 (c)

---

Black Affairs

High notes...

This week I'm going to focus on some very interesting singles for folks who may be interested. Those who aren't please sit tight, I'll have something for you in a minute.

The import craze goes on but it has become somewhat more serious lately. One of the hottest things on the scene is a single by Chic called Dance, Dance, Dance (Yowsah, Yowsah, Yowsah). This side has bounced between stateside labels for about a month now and seems to have found a home at Atlantic. Buddah looked like they would land the rights to this smoker, but their records are pressed by RCA and I hear that they are doing nothing this month but pressing Elvis Presley records. The side is mixed by Tom Saravese, a fellow DJ who does his thing on the New York scene. The 12' disc should be available commercially on Atlantic (their first market disco pressing).

Remember "Love Ballad", and a group called L.T.D.? Well, they're back with a biggie called (Every Time I Turn Around) Back In Love Again. It's from the LP Something To Love. The LP version at 4:30 or so was bad to say the least, but the new disco pressing (available to DJ's only at the moment) is the bomb at 8:37. If this one hits the market, don't hesitate! In the meantime, the LP is out there just waiting to be heard.

Now for you album buyers, grad hold of a copy of the new Mandrill LP and don't let go! I know there's a lot of Mandrill folks out there and with this one I give it the seal of funk appeal.

BLACK MASS COMMUNICATIONS RADIO SCHEDULE '77-'78

Monday
10am-2pm Bob Forrant
7pm-10pm

Tuesday
10am-2pm Jose Tolson
10pm-2am Third World Women's Show

Wednesday
6am-10am Black Classical Music Show
7pm-10pm The Medicine Show

Thursday
10am-2pm BMCP Disc Jockeys
10pm-2am Felipe Nieves

Friday
10am-2pm BMCP Disc Jockeys

Saturday
2pm-6pm Brother Rick Grant
6pm-10pm Sister Alyssia Bryan
10pm-2am Brother Greg Phillips

Sunday
9am-11am Gospel with Rev. Pearson

Craemen Gethers awareness week

By CHARLOTTE TRENCHARD
Collegian Staff

This week, October 26 to November 2, has been designated Craemen Gethers Awareness Week by the New Africa House Steering Committee.

On August 7, 1974, McDonalds on Rte. 9 in Amherst, was robbed. Shortly thereafter, Craeman Gethers, then a student at UMass, was informed that he had participated in the robbery. His friend, Earl Brown, was also told that he had taken part in the robbery. The police took them away and they were put on trial.

The Gethers-Brown trial resulted in a hung jury. The two men were taken and tried individually. Both were convicted. Brown received a sentence of 3-5 years while Gethers got 8-12. Two sentences for the same crime.

The grounds that Craeman was convicted on was: 1) The testimony of two McDonalds employees. Women who claim to be able to positively identify Craemen — a man they saw briefly, who was wearing a red belt across his forehead and a pair of sun glasses, who is black, and who they saw at 11:30 p.m. Also one woman identified two photographs of two different men with the same name as one and the same man — the first photo of the student Gethers, the other was of a Springfield minister also named Gethers. Shows just how "positive" the woman is in her testimony. 2) Evidence not presented to the court after two trials and four "defense" attorneys includes: two polygraphic tests taken by Craeman, both with positive results; the fact that he had a sprained ankle on the night of the robbery, physically disabling him from jumping over the counter as the real robber did; witnesses that can testify to Craeman's whereabouts on the night of the crime.

Craeman Gethers was convicted on circumstantial evidence. He, and Earl Brown, were the unfortunate victims of not only being in the wrong place at the wrong time, but also of being members of a minority group and not being able to afford sufficient funds to support their own cases.

Brown is back at UMass now, but is on parole until 1980. Gethers remains at Norfolk where he has already suffered 26 months of hell.

What happened to Craeman Gethers could have, and still can happen to any one of us, and if it did, it would be nice to know that at least our fellow students cared enough to help us out.

WHAT YOU CAN DO TO HELP

1) Sign a petition that is being circulated in Craeman's behalf; help to circulate it.

2) Come to hear Craeman speak — he will be talking at New Africa House on Tuesday, Oct. 25 at 6 p.m. We will be announcing further speaking engagements at later dates.

3) Give $ to his defense fund — it is badly needed as he is going back on trial once again. A fund raising Disco is being planned for Nov. 18th. To help plan it call Stan Kinard at 5-0794. if you can't help in the planning — please come.

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

LOOK! THEY'RE BRINGING PEE WEE HOME IN A POLICE CAR!
I WONDER WHY!
10-13
©1977 LOS ANGELES TIMES
HIS CLASS VISITED THE AIRPORT TODAY AND HE SAID HE ALWAYS WANTED...
...TO RUN THROUGH AN AIRPORT LIKE O.J. SIMPSON!
BRANDON JR

REGENCY
HAIRCUTTING FOR MEN & WOMEN
Stop by to have your hair analyzed!!
189 N. Pleasant
253-9526
253-7341
CELLAR

SALE!
9th ANNIVERSARY SALE!
sale 8.99
sale 11.99
Levi's
1/3 off
50% off
HURRY... FINAL DAYS!
1/3 off
sale 11.99
1/3 off
Open till 9 P.M. Thursdays & Fridays
WEAR-HOUSE

★ Third World

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 4

potential as oppressed people and become critical thinkers. A lot of progressive people think the term Third World is exceptional because of Franz Fenon. (The African Psychiatrist who used the phrase in his two major books, The Wretched of the Earth and Black Skin White Mask). People of color soon forgot his brother's contradictions that he eventually admitted to in the Wretched of the Earth. He did not support the oppressed Africans in Algeria until he came to the conclusion that there was a war going on between the Oppressed and the Oppressor, and then had to decide like other Freedom Fighters who desire freedom from the common oppressor who they will support, Bro. Frantz came to his conclusion almost too late, he had treated many French soldiers for their emotional problems they received from killing and emotionally defeated the oppressed Africans.

People of color must begin to see that language is a large part of their oppression. Today in the U.S. and other parts of the world oppressed people have not yet realized that they hold a balance of power in the world today. People of color must refuse the phrase Third World, comments or disagreements can be directed to Nummo News, 103 NAH, Amherst, Mass. 01003.

(Reprint from Nummo News)

Announcements

Two very interesting and important events for CCEBS students will be coming up in the near future. Bill Johnson, President of Resource Placement and Development, Inc., will be demonstrating interviewing techniques by conducting mock interviews of students in the New Africa House. The time for this session on interviewing is Wednesday, November 9 from 2:30-4:30 p.m. in the second floor lounge of the New Africa House. In addition to this, on Wednesday, November 16 from 2:30-4:30 p.m., a similar session will be conducted by Mr. Johnson on resume preparation. This resume workshop will also be held in the second floor lounge of the New Africa House. The importance of these two events cannot be over-emphasized. All interested CCEBS students must sign up for these two sessions with Brian Maher in room 208 of the New Africa House by Friday, November 4.

CCEBS

CCEBS students interested in law should note that on Saturday, October 29, 1977 there will be a minority recruitment conference held at Syracuse University College of Law in Syracuse, New York. This conference will run from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. This conference is specifically aimed to interest minorities and women into the legal profession. Refreshments will be served throughout the day. if anyone has any questions concerning this conference, please contact Brian Maher in Room 208 of the New Africa House.

MALCOM X CENTER

"Attention all Third World students, The Malcom X Center will be showing films every Wednesday at the Malcom X Center. These film will be on different cultural events that have taken place in the various black community.

This week the film that is being shown at 8:15 is the last grave at Dimbaza. So come on down and check out the flick.

Reginald Price
Communication Coordinator
For the Malcom X Center

PROGRESSIVE CALENDAR

Nov. 2 Native American solidarity Comm. will lead a discussion on the issues that threaten the lands of native people.

Nov. 9 J.P. Stevens Boycott Comm. will show the film "Testimony" and discuss the current status of the boycott.

For times and locations, please call 586-4237.

Thoughts

"Not to be outdone by the high cost of living, the cost of dying has gone up too."
David M. Warren

Russian pianist to get heavy security tonight

By HERB BRODY
Collegian Staff

One thousand seats are still available for tonight's concert by Lazar Berman, a man many consider to be the world's greatest living pianist. The performance will begin at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall. The top ticket price is $6 ($3 for UMass students.)

Berman is a 47-year-old Russian who until two years ago was virtually unknown outside of his own country. He made his United States debut at the University of Miami at Ohio in January, 1976. Music critics quickly acclaimed his talent as equal to or greater than that of all other pianists, with the possible exception of Horowitz.

Harold C. Shonberg, a music crictic for the New York Times, described Berman as "fearsome...capable of wringing an audience dry."

Security for tonight's concert will be intense, said Fine Arts Center Publicity Director David Letters. "We're taking precautions that we do for no other performer," he said. An armed, uniformed police officer will guard the stage from the pit during the concert. Adding to the tight control will be uniformed University guards in the wings, as well as the usual Fine Arts Center security personnel. Absolutely no one will be admitted backstage unless they have proper identifications, said Letters.

The reason for this extra security is the possibility of an assault on Berman, Letters said. In the past, Russian performers have had paint thrown on them, acid splashed at them, and attempts made on their lives. Berman's 1976 Carnegie Hall concert was marred by shouts of "Free Soviet Jews." Berman, a Jew, didn't miss a note.

Music lovers who make it to Berman's concert will be in for an awesome display of keyboard prowess, if past performances are any indication. Berman is especiaaly noted for his rendition of the works of Franz Lizst. His recording of "Transcendental Etudes," considered by some almost umplayable, won him first place in a piano competition.

Berman's playing of Liszt's E-flat concerto was described by Irving Kolodin of the Saturday Reivew as thus "Passages normally muddied or glossed over were immaculate and lovingly caressed; figurations that come from the fingers of some as sequins had, in the Berman treatment, the sparkle of diamonds."

Berman was one of thos child prodigies who defy all reasonable rules of development. He started playing the piano at age 2; but before he could read a note of music he entered a contest for musical prodigies. He began attending the Moscow Central Music School at age nine, then studied at the Moscow Conservatory until 1956.

Berman's latest recording of Rachmaninoff's Third Piano Concert has been chosen this month's classical music Record of the Month. The pianist has also been given much recent press publicity; Sunday's New York Time Magazine did a long piece on him, and coverage of his United States concerts has been heavy.

"He sits quietly at the keyboard with a minimum of fuss, but he has the ability to drive audiences into a frenzy," wrote Shonberg of the New York Times.

Berman will also give a free lecture-demonstration of his various styles and techniques this morning at 10. Though he speaks no English, Berman will be able to communitcate with the audience through an interpretor.

Music critics from the New York Times and the Boston Globe are expected to attend tonight's concert.

Russian pianist Lazar Berman displays his music 1 talents which are "capable of wringing an audience dry." There are one thousand tickets left for his concert tonight at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall.

Commercials come to the movie theatres

NEW YORK [AP] — If you hope to escape the noisy barrage of commercials on television by taking in a movie, you may be in for an unpleasant surprise.

Beginning today, up to three minutes of commercials will appear during each feaaure on the silver screens in 1,800 theaters in major U.S. cities.

But the big-screen commercials won't be as obnoxious as many of those on television, says a spokesman for one theater chain.

Because the cost of the movie commercials is high — about $18 per 1,000 viewers compared withabout $4 per 1,000 viewers for many television commercials — industry officials expect a "high class" product in the movie houses.

"These will be soft, entertaining commercials, not the kind of hard-sell commercials you see on TV for deodorants," said one spokesman.

"They'll be scenes like beautiful footage of skydivers falling through the sky and landing into logos of soft-drinks. That sort of thing."

In addition, spokesmen say that, unlike TV commercials, the movie ads will not interfere with the continuity of the show.

"Sure, the initial reaction might be resentment," said a spokesman for New York-area movie exhibitors. "After all, people leave their homes and televisions because they don't want to see commercials."

But he and others involved in the new trend say commercials in movie theaters are needed to help offset declining earnings. And, under one plan, proceeds from the commercials will be used to produce movies to counter what some theater owners say is a shortage of films.

A few theaters around the country have been experimenting recently with local ads for neighborhood businesses and some theaters have for years used still slides to advertise local businesses. But two new operations are set to begin using the commercials in movie houses on a nationwide basis.

Roger Hautchuel, a Frenchman whose firm already sells $20 million worth of movie-housing advertising each year to European clients, said the American operation will begin tomorrow in 1,800 walk-in theaters in New York, Los Angeles, Chicago and other major cities.

Under Hautchuel's plan, each theater will run three minutes of commercials before each feature film. Movie-house owners will share in one-third of the proceeds.

Another firm, Cinemavision, Inc., of Nashville, Tenn., plans to begin producing three-minute blocks of commercials by mid-November. Within three months, the firm expects to be serving 4,000 theaters.

The two programs together would involve 5,800 theaters, most of them walk-ins. There are about 16,000 theaters, including drive-ins, in the United States.

SAVE-ON-TIRES. Inc. ROUTE 9, HADLEY 3 Miles from Northampton 3 Miles From Amherst

OPEN MON., TUES., WED., & FRI. 9:30-5:30, THURS., 9:30-7, SAT., 9:30-3 P.M.

TIRES CASH & CARRY
Wholesale to the public
WE CAN ARRANGE TO HAVE YOUR TIRES MOUNTED.

MICHELIN - FIRESTONE - PIRELLI - GOODYEAR - LEE - GENERAL - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - CONTINENTAL - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS. SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS.

PRE-SEASON MAJOR BRANDS SNOW-TIRE SPECIALS

BIAS PLY — made by major U.S. tire mfgr's. Goodyear, Firestone, Lee, Seiberling, and many more.

FIRESTONE GOODYEAR LEE ZENITH

| SIZE | TYPE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| 600x12 | Custom Sno White | 20.95 |
| 600x13 | LaHarve Sno White | 22.95 |
| A78x13 | Goodyear Black | 17.95 |
| A78x13 | Goodyear White | 20.95 |
| B78x13 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 19.95 |
| B78x13 | Custom Snow White | 24.95 |
| C78x13 | Custom Snow White | 24.95 |
| C78x13 | Fire. T&C Black | 27.95 |
| 700x13 | Goodyear Black | 24.95 |
| C78x14 | Custom Snow White | 24.95 |
| C78x14 | Lee Magna Grip White | 27.95 |
| E78x14 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 26.95 |
| F78x14 | Lee Mag. Grip Blk. | 28.95 |
| F78x14 | Lee Mag. Grip Wht. | 30.95 |
| F78x14 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 28.95 |
| F78x14 | Fire. T&C Belt. Blk. | 33.95 |
| G78x14 | Lee Magna Grip Blk. | 30.95 |
| G78x14 | Lee Magna Grip White | 32.95 |
| G78x14 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 30.95 |
| G78x14 | Fire. T&C White Blem. | 31.95 |
| H78x14 | Lee Magna Grip Blk. | 32.95 |
| H78x14 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 32.95 |
| H78x14 | Fire T&C White Blem | 35.95 |
| 560x15 | Pirelli (VW) Black | 20.95 |
| 600x15 | Penn. Mud & Snow White | 24.95 |
| 685x15 | Fire. T&C Mini/Sport Blk. | 28.95 |
| F78x15 | Fire T&C White Blem | 29.95 |
| G78x15 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 30.95 |
| G78x15 | Zenith Snow Power White | 32.95 |
| H78x15 | Lee Magna Grip Blk. | 33.95 |
| H78x15 | Zenith Snow Power Wht. | 35.95 |
| H78x15 | Fire T&C White Blem | 35.95 |
| J78x15 | Fire T&C Belt Blk. Bm. | 37.95 |
| L78x15 | Seiberling Sno White | 35.95 |
| L78x15 | Fire T&C Belt. White | 39.95 |

ALL PRICES PLUS F.E. TAX AND SALES TAX.

RADIAL SNOW TIRES

METRIC SNOW RADIALS

| SIZE | TYPE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| 165x13 | Fulda Stud-Less | 34.95 |
| 185x14 | Fulda Stud-Less | 44.95 |
| 155x15 | Fire. T&C Bk. | 24.95 |
| 165x15 | Fire. T&C Wht. | 37.95 |
| 165x15 | B.F.G. GT700 Bk. | 35.95 |

AMERICAN SIZE SNOW RADIALS

| SIZE | TYPE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| BR78x13 | Fire, Run Silent, Blk. | 36.95 |
| ER78x14 | Lee Stud-Less | 47.95 |
| FR78x14 | Lee Stud-Less | 48.95 |
| GR78x14 | Fire, Run-Silent Blem | 56.95 |
| HR78x14 | Lee Stud-Less | 56.95 |
| GR78x15 | Lee Stud-Less | 54.95 |
| HR78x15 | Lee Stud-Less | 56.95 |
| LR78x15 | Fire, T&C, W | 49.95 |

MICHELIN XM&S SNOW TIRES AT over 25% DISCOUNT

CONTINENTAL-CONTACT
STUD-LESS STEEL RADIAL SNOW TIRE

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 145x13 | $33.95 | 165x14 | $43.95 |
| 155x13 | $37.95 | 165x15 | $42.95 |
| 165x13 | $39.95 | | Plus Taxes |

ALL PRICES PLUS F.E. TAX AND SALES TAX

RECAP SNOW'S $15.95 PLUS TAXES
ANY SIZE

SAVE-ON-TIRES, INC.
ROUTE 9 HADLEY
Cash and Carry or Bank Americard Master Charge
Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9:30-5:30 Sat. 9:30-3 Thurs., 9:30-7 p.m.
586-2544

The People's Gay Alliance
cordially invites all people
to a
Halloween Disco
Fri.. Oct. 28, 1977 9:00 pm
Costumes Welcome!
CC 10th floor $ 1.00 donation

Considering a Career in the Legal Profession?

If you are seeking a career opportunity — WSU offers several ways in which you can enter the legal profession. Full-Time Students: Can earn a J.D. Degree and be eligible to take the California State Bar Examination in 2½ or 3 years. Part-Time Students: Can graduate in 3½ or 4 years of study with the same degree as a full-time student by attending class an average of 3 times per week, 3 hours per class. There are schedules to fit many needs — classes are offered days, evenings and weekends. Western State University College of Law has a Whole Person Admissions Policy - applicants are screened for academic background, personal aptitude, general experience, maturity and motivation. Applications are now being accepted for Spring Semester from men and women with two or more years of college credits. To obtain catalog fill out and mail advertisement to either of our two campuses.

Western State University College of Law. Dept. C11

1111 N. State College Blvd.
Fullerton, CA 92631
Phone (714) 993-7600

1333 Front Street
San Diego, CA 92101
Phone (714) 231-0300

(Print) Name
Street
City State Zip

APPLY NOW FOR SPRING SEMESTER. CLASSES START JANUARY 16.
Although the cost of professional education continues to spiral, tuition at WSU remains among the most moderate in the nation.

Western State University College of Law

Fully accredited by the State Bar of California and by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.
Students eligible for Federally Insured Student Loans.

BIG record sale
and cassette tapes too!
$1.98 - 14.98
Classical, Rock, Blues, Folk, Jazz starts this week!
hurry for the best selection
UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

★ Reporter's notebook

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

steps, clubs raised. Students patroling the sidelines shout, "Rows of eight. Lock arms. Stay tight!" Most of them are members of the RSB or the May 4th Coalition. Self-consciously we move out as an army.

Long live that spirit!

"What is the spirit of Kent and Jackson State?" I ask my friend David, my right arm linked with his left. ("What the hell we fighting for? Move the gym! Move the gym!" The chant changes, instantly, almost spontaneously.) "Students here agree on three things: we think the death of the four students was an injustice. We don't want the gym built. (New chant: "Fight Oppression.") And we want to battle injustice. But what statements go in between? What do people picture? We aren't fighting to move the gym, we're fighting for something the gym is symbolic of. What? We all have different ideas about and experiences with oppression, and the symbol of the gym probably means something different to every person here, even though we're all saying the same things, in unison."

David begins chanting in iambic pentameter, "What. Is the. Spirit. Of Kent. And Jackson. State?" Only people right near us can hear him, and they don't like it. The boy on my left says to me, "Think about the gym. Remind yourself of the four students."

We march into the courtyard in the center of the dorm complex. "Join us, join us, join us," we yell to the students in the windows. The most belligerent Kent students are the ones who are opposed to the demonstration.

> "Join us, join us," we yell to students in the windows.

They lean their heads out and scream, "Build that gym." Oh goody, a parade — some students click snapshots with Kodak pocket instamatic cameras. The others watch us with confusion, shyly. I pass by a low window and see a girl inside in purple pajamas. We look at each other. "Right on." she says. "Join us." I say sincerely, and then look around, surprised, because hundreds of students have said it with me. "I can't," she said, "I'm in my nightgown."

We move to a hillside on campus. People sit down, still in rows, with people from their universities. A white pick-up truck with a loud speaker system is driven onto the lawn.

We watch a series of speakers. All the special interest groups are represented. What is oppression? The Bakke decision, apartheid, the death of Steven Biko, the Panama treaty, Jimmy Carter, Veterans' Day parades and the Shah of Iran. Only one girl from the May 4th Coalition speaks, because earlier the university published a list of members that would be arrested if they participated in the rally. One boy holds a small white sign, with red ink letters: "Move the Gym. Fight for the Right to Demonstrate." Everyone can support that.

David and I discuss the speeches. A lot of the logic, we think, is confused, and we openly criticize them. This time no one minds. We are on the lawn, we have plenty of time (we think), and an opportunity for reflection. For the first time I feel like I am part of the group. There is no chanting now, no idioms or rhetoric. The speakers are well prepared, approaching clarity. I think to myself, members of the university staff will have to admit that these students have produced some pretty good essays.

The university responds. Twenty policemen on horseback ride across the lawn. We try to move in our ranks, and I hold David's arm tightly. Pat, on David's right, is holding a wheat stalk that she pulled up behind a restaurant. The horses step up, hooving closer and closer, long legs and heavy feet, prancing and nibbling on Pat's dried wheat. David and Pat and I become isolated, surrounded. Jo Ann, another student from UMass, angrily throws her sleeping bag at a horse and it ka-thuds to the ground. (I have never been afraid of a horse before.) A horse steps between me and David. I am alone and then part of the frantic retreating crowd. Students patrol the edges and shout, "Stay together, walk slowly, but MOVE!"

We stumble donw a hill and over uneven terrain. The chanting, broken, softly, begins again. Another, unfamiliar noise is added. A whirring, sputtering, the rotating sound of machinery. A row of policemen assemble in front of us, put black masks on their faces, with plastic windows which frame their eyes. Each one of them has a long cylindrical gun. Smoke.

Another name for tear gas is Lachymater. I had heard of it before. Sure, it's sort of like fog, only it makes you cry, like when you're sad. You blot the corners of your eyes with a hanky, and everything is all right. "Lachymater is a gaseous substance which on contact burns the membrane of the eyes, throat, and sinuses." And face. I would like to refer to tear gas as Internal Inflammation Respiration Destruction Death Gas throughout the rest of my article.

Students adjust the cloths on their faces. Of course, I think. It has nothing to do with identity, it's no symbol at all. It's protection from the gas, so you can breathe. So you can breathe.

The lines break down and people are running. The police are an efficient team. They herd us off in one direction and meet us on the other side. The whirring, the coughing of the machine, and the whole open field is clouded. I see one policeman holding a boy while another shoots gas in his direction. I stop, students whoosh by me. I see a policeman directly behind me. He is slightly overweight. I look through his little window and I see brown eyes and greying hair. I see him reach for a small metal grenade, throw it at my feet, and the smoke explodes in my face.

I lose a shoe. I lose my way. I pull at my eyes with my hands and my glasses fall off. I bend down to pick them up, hold on to my notebook. I can't breathe, so I can't turn. A car with police passengers cruises through the swarm of students, toward me. I can run.

We meet on a fraternity lawn. Red, burning, faces, running noses, drooling mouths, brimming eyes. A boy is crying, real tears, because he was clubbed over the head. A line of people wait at a mud puddle, rinse their faces, swoosh the muddy water around their mouths, splash it loosely on their eyes. I look hungrily at the mud, but the line is too long. The smoke begins to rise, more red faces appear. I wonder if the girl in the purple nightgown closed her window quickly enough.

> "The lines break down and people are running, the police are an efficient team."

The confusion finally siffens us out into two large groups: Western U.S. and Eastern U.S. It is impossible to have a complete conversation, but we try to discuss our next move. Shall we go back? Try to talk to Kent students? Move up to the site? The big question: How will the media respond? One girl suggests, "Why don't we go back to the commons, and just sit down and rap. Then when they gas us it will look really good."

Jim Paulin, of the Collegian, begins his article on Kent State: "The May 4th Coalition spent last afternoon playing war games with the police force from Kent State University, the town of Kent, and the Portage County Sheriff." Sound bitter, sarcastic? Maybe, but it's one practical, sensible way of dealing with the demonstration.

Almost everyone went back, marched through the center of campus and onto the hill. I didn't. I left with 11 others from UMass, in a van. When finally we rumbled off campus there were 12 simultaneous shouts of joy. And then silence, for a long time.

One girl, with flaming red eyelids and a moist face, said, "We are going to have to find a new way to talk about this, to think about this."

Arab official killed

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates [AP] — A top official of the United Arab Emirates was shot and killed yesterday in a burst of gunfire apparently meant for Syria's foreign minister.

Khaddam, who was not harmed, later told reporters in Damascus there were several gunmen and "they came from Baghdad," seat of the government in Iraq. The two countries are ruled by rival factions of the socialist Baathist party.

Syria has blamed Iraq for several terrorist attacks in Damascus in the past year, including an attempt to assassinate Khaddam Dec. 1. Two gunmen on a motorcycle wounded him in the arm.

Police sources said a white-robed Palestinian gunman from Syria was arrested while trying to hijack a Czechoslovak cargo plane after the shooting at Abu Dhabi airport, but three other gunmen escaped.

Saif bin Ghobash, 47, minister of state and No. 2 man in the foreign ministry, was shot while seeing off Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam. Ghobash suffered bullet wounds in the chest and arm and died at a nearby military hospital.

The Syrian government is also opposed by extremist Palestinians who object to its stated willingness to reach a political settlement with Israel and its intervention that ended Lebanon's 1975-76 civil war.

There was little doubt in this emirate confederation at the mouth of the Persian Gulf that Khaddam, one of Syrian President Hafez Assad's closest advisers, was the target of yesterday's attack.

"Ghobash had no political enemies that we know of," a well-informed source said.

Ghobash had been minister of state for foreign affairs since 1973. He had studied civil engineering and international relations in Iraq and the Soviet Union. He and his Russian-born wife had four children.

Alleged Nazi collaborator begins deportation trial

ALBANY, N.Y. [UPI] — Deportation proceedings against alleged Nazi collaborator Vilis A. Hazners opened yesterday with testimony from an Israeli that Hazners pushed people inside a Latvian synagogue which burned, killing those inside.

The hearing by the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service was to decide whether to deport the 73-year-old Hazners, on grounds he concealed his alleged collaboration with the Nazis when he immigrated to the United States in 1956.

The first witness, Ber Mandelorn, 52, now an electrical worker in Tel Aviv, Israel, spoke through an interpreter. At times there was confusion about his testimony due to translation from Hebrew to English.

Mandelkorn testified he was a native of Riga, Latvia — where the alleged collaboration between Hazners and the Nazis took place in July 1941 when the Germans invaded the country. He said he was struck by Hazners after being taken to a police station in Riga during World War II.

Under questioning by prosecuting attorney Ralph Smith of Boston, Mandelkorn said he later escaped from a work detail and went to a relative's house across the street from the Great Synagogue of Riga.

There, he testified he saw guards force "busloads" of people into the building.

He said he also witnessed prisoners and guards roll barrels into the synagogue and then saw and heard "smoke, fire and screams."

He said Hazners, now a resident of Whitehall, N.Y., was among guards who pushed persons into the building.

Hazners, white-haired and balding, sat silently in the courtroom while Mandelkorn delivered his testimony. Under questioning from Smith, Mandelkorn identified the defendant as the man he saw in 1941.

Defense attorney Ivars Berzins objected several times to tactics used by the prosecution. At one point Berzins said they were "turning the proceeding into a circus."

In his cross-examination of Mandelkorn, Berzins concentrated on establishing Mandelkorn's identity and background. Earlier, Berzins accused the government of "stonewalling tactics" in his effort to obtain documents relating to the case. "Mail has been lost and requests to the State Department have gone unanswered," he said.

Visitors to the hearing — many from the area's Jewish community — were searched with metal detectors before being allowed to enter.

Marion's son awaits proof from abductors

SHERBROOKE, Que. [UPI] — The son of kidnaped banker Charles Marion asked for proof that his father was still alive yesterday only hours before the deadline set by his captors for his execution if a $50,000 ransom is not paid.

Pierre Marion, 30, said a color photograph received from the kidnapers Monday showing his father bound around the neck with a padlocked chain was not sufficient proof that he was still alive after 30 days in captivity.

"It's not clear one way or the other. I'll require more proof," Marion said.

The younger Marion awaited a response from the abductors also to his Monday night television broadcast that he was ready to deliver the $50,000 ransom.

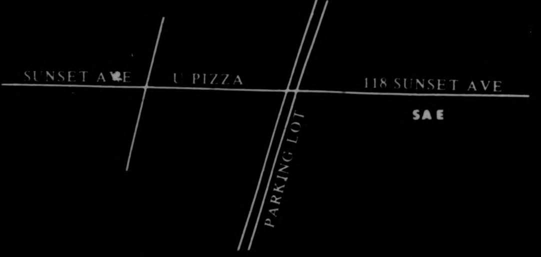
The rusty nail Inn

FRI. & SAT., Oct. 28-29
JAMES COTTON BAND
ED SHAW AND THE HOWLIN' WOLF BAND

WED., NOV. 2
POUSETTE-DART
SPECIAL GUESTS
THE BRICKER BAND

rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665-4937

RUSH
SAE FRATERNITY
WEDNESDAY, OCT. 26
★ COME DOWN AND MEET THE BROTHERS ★



FREE RESFRESHMENTS
FOR RIDES CALL 545-2151

There IS a difference!!! Our 39th Year

PREPARE FOR:

NEW MCAT · DAT · LSAT
GMAT · GRE · OCAT
VAT · SAT

Our broad range of programs provides an umbrella of testing know-how that enables us to offer the best preparation available, no matter which course is taken. Over 38 years of experience and success. Small classes. Voluminous home study materials. Courses that are constantly updated. Permanent centers, open days, evenings and weekends all year. Complete tape facilities for review of class lessons and for use of supplementary materials. Makeups for missed lessons at our centers.

LOCAL LSAT class opens 11/1 for 12/77 EXAM
CALL our local Rep. at 546-7853

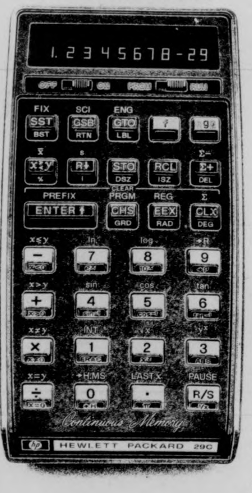
CLASSES IN AMHERST
Call Boston for info
25 Huntington Ave
Boston, MA 02116
617-261-5150
Outside NY State Only
CALL TOLL FREE
800-221-9840

Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938

Centers in Major U.S. Cities

Choose your second calculator first.

Choose the new HP-29C from Hewlett-Packard.



The new HP-29C could be the last calculator you'll ever need. Because it has the programming power of calculators costing much more—and it has Continuous Memory.

Saves your programs and data.

Switch the calculator off, then on and your problems are still there, ready to solve your programs day after day. The HP-29C's Continuous Memory retains the data stored in 16 of its 30 addressable registers and in the display register.

Write programs of 175 keystrokes.

Each function—one, two, three, or four keystrokes—requires only one step of program memory. And with 98 steps of continuous program memory, that means you can easily write programs of 175 keystrokes or longer.

Powerful programming features.

The HP-29C gives you conditional branching, three levels of subroutines, indirect addressing, relative addressing, labels, increment/decrement conditionals, pause, indirect storage register arithmetic, and more.

Easy editing.

Review your program quickly and easily and insert or delete operations as necessary. You can even run your program one step at a time and check intermediate answers.

Sooner or later, chances are you're going to buy a Hewlett-Packard calculator. And the sooner the better.

Come in and see the new HP-29C Advanced Programmable with Continuous Memory today. Only $195.

at the calculator store
UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

OUR PRICE $175.00

---

Stop & Shop Coupon J20 — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — Fab Laundry Detergent 49 ounce box 99¢ — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one box per customer. 263 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon J16 — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — Nabisco Premium Saltines 1 pound box 39¢ — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one box per customer. 259 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon J15 — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — Orange Juice Stop & Shop 6 ounce can frozen 9¢ — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one can per customer. 258 — Frozen

Stop & Shop Coupon J21 — With this coupon — Save 50¢ 9 ounce tube Colgate Toothpaste — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one tube per customer. 264 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon J22 — With this coupon — Save 50¢ 4 ounce can Final Net Hair Spray Reg. or Unscented — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one can per customer. 265 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon J19 — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — Ivory Liquid Dish Detergent 32 ounce bottle 99¢ — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one btl. per customer. 262 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon J17 — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — Blue Bonnet Margarine 1 lb. pkg. qtr. lb. sticks 39¢ — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one pkg. per customer. 260 — Dairy

Stop & Shop Coupon J18 — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — Heinz Ketchup 26 ounce bottle "The slowest ketchup in the west" 49¢ — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one btl. per customer. 261 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon J23 — With this coupon — Save 35¢ 10 ounce jar Chock full o' Nuts Coffee — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one jar per customer. 266 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon J24 — With this coupon — Save 40¢ 100 count pkg. Red Rose Tea Bags — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one pkg. per customer. 267 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon J25 — With this coupon — Save 30¢ 24 oz. pkg.-Stop & Shop Fresh Chicken Pie — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one pkg. per customer. 268 — Meat

Stop & Shop Coupon J29 — With this coupon — Save 25¢ 16 oz. pkg.-Stop & Shop Cheese Pizza with Sausage-Frozen — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one pkg. per customer. 272 — Frozen

Stop & Shop Coupon J27 — With this coupon — Save 25¢ 32 oz. jar-Stop & Shop Salad Dressing — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one jar per customer. 270 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon J28 — With this coupon — Save 25¢ 32 oz. jar-Stop & Shop Spaghetti Sauce Meat, Meatless or Mushroom — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one jar per customer. 271 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon — Save 12¢ 32 ounce package Aunt Jemima Complete Pancake Mix — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one pkg. per customer. 280 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon — Save 15¢ 40 ounce pkg. Betty Crocker Bisquick — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one pkg. per customer. 273 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon — Save 10¢ 15 ounce box General Mills Cheerios — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one box per customer. 274 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon — Save 10¢ 18 ounce pkg. Quaker Oats Quick or Old Fashioned — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one pkg. per customer. 275 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon — Save 25¢ 75 count pkg. Glad Food Storage Bags — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one pkg. per customer. 276 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon — Save 15¢ 7 ounce pkg. Bakers' Angel Flake Coconut — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one pkg. per customer. 279 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon J26 — With this coupon — Save 40¢ 64 ounce bottle Nu Soft Coconut Fabric Softener — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one bottle per customer. 269 — Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon — Save 40¢ Gallon Jug Wisk Heavy Duty Liquid Laundry Detergent — Good Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29. Limit one jug per customer. 277 — Grocery

ONE OF THE STOP & SHOP COMPANIES
Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS

Save over $6 with these coupons!
Come and get your Stop & Shopsworth.

Self-Service deli specials
Extra Mild Franks Stop & Shop 1 lb. pkg. 79¢
Stop & Shop Bacon Sliced-Reg., Maple or Thick-1 lb. pkg. $1.19
Nepco Beef or Jumbo Franks 1 lb. pkg. 89¢
Nepco Knockwurst 1 lb. pkg. $1.19
Nepco Cold Cuts Sliced-Bologna, P&P, Olive or Mock Chicken-8 oz. pkg. 69¢
B&G Half Sour Pickles qt. jar 79¢

Pick these up at our deli ...
Avail. at stores with service delis
Morrison & Schiff Beef Franks $1.19 lb.
Beef Bologna Morrison & Schiff per lb. $1.29
Beef Salami Morrison & Schiff per lb. $1.39
Domestic Muenster Cheese per lb. $1.59
Roasted Turkey Breast Stop & Shop qtr. lb. 79¢
Stop & Shop Baked Ham qtr. lb. 79¢
Stop & Shop Macaroni Salad per lb. 59¢
Greek Style Rice Pudding Stop & Shop per lb. 59¢
Stop & Shop Ham Salad per lb. $1.69
Corner Deli Egg Rolls 12 oz. pkg. 59¢

Make a meal with Stop & Shop Kitchen
Macaroni Salad 1 pound pkg. 59¢
Get your Stop & Shopsworth.
Fully Cooked Chicken Roasted or B-B-Q Style White Gem per lb. 89¢

For a change of pace ... have ...
Flounder Fillets Stop & Shop Frozen $1.69 lb
Cooked Salad Size Shrimp Stop & Shop 1 lb. pkg.-Frozen $2.49
Cooked fish-nics Stop & Shop 20 ounce pkg.-Frozen $1.39

Our freezers are full of specials.
Stop & Shop 100% Natural Ice Cream $1.39
Assorted Flavors-Half Gallon Tub
Tony's Cheese Pizza Thick Crust 15 oz. pkg. 99¢
Heinz French Fries Deep Fried-24 oz. pkg. Regular or Crinkle Cut 69¢
Batter Dipped Fish N' Chips Taste O Sea 16 oz. pkg. 89¢
Batter Dipped Fish Portions Gortons 15 oz. pkg. $1.29
Buitoni Veal Parmigiana With Spaghetti Twists in Sauce-19 oz. pkg. $1.29
Sausage & Peppers Buitoni-With Mostaccioli Rigati in Sauce-19 oz. pkg. $1.69
Green Giant Vegetables in butter sauce 2 10 oz. pkgs. 89¢
Niblets Corn, Cut Green Beans, Medium Sweet Peas, Mixed Vegetables or Leaf Spinach
Howard Johnson Toasties Corn or Blueberry 2 7½ oz. pkgs. 89¢
Morton Mini Donuts Sugar and Spice 10 oz. pkg. 69¢
Ice Milk Combo Bars Stop & Shop Vanilla 20 count 35 oz. pkg. $1.19

Save on these dairy items ...
Light N' Lively Yogurt 3 8 oz. cups 89¢
Stop & Shop Biscuits Buttermilk or Homestyle 8 8 oz. pkgs. of 10 $1
Deluxe American Cheese Stop & Shop White or Yellow 12 oz. pkg. 99¢
Rich's Whipped Topping 9 oz. car. 59¢

Stop & Shop GREAT BEEF QUALITY PROTECTED USDA CHOICE
"Great Beef" USDA Choice
Beef Top Round Roast $1.19 lb
If you enjoy roast beef with rich flavor, this is for you. Lean, juicy beef from end to end ... and very specially priced all week. Your money back if you don't enjoy our "Great Beef". That's a promise.
Beef Top Round Steak $1.69 lb.

You'll end up with more meat to eat with...
26%* Ground Beef 3 to 5 pound package 69¢ lb
*26% Ground Beef contains not more than 26% fat.
Less than a 3 lb. pkg. 79¢ lb.
20%* Lean Ground Beef 3 to 5 lb. package 99¢ lb
*Contains not more than 20% fat.
Less than a 3 lb. package $1.09 lb.

Perdue Chicken Breast 3-4 lb. pkg. 99¢ lb
Chicken Legs White Gem 2½-3 lb. pkg. 79¢ lb.
Chicken Wings White Gem 2½-3 lb. pkg. 59¢ lb.
U.S. Grade A 10-13 lbs. Fresh Turkeys 65¢ lb
Corned Beef Brisket Nepco-Point Cut (Flat Cut $1.19 lb.) 99¢ lb.
5 lb. Canned Ham Cudahy Bar "S" Brand $7.99
Fresh Pumpkins 10¢ lb.
Jumbo White Florida Seedless Grapefruit 4 for $1
9 lb Bag Apples McIntosh or Cortland U.S. No. 1-2¼" min. $1.99
Fresh Cider gal. 99¢ Fresh Roasted Peanuts 22 oz. bag 99¢ Popping Corn Yellow 4 lb. bag 99¢

Superb quality Hearthside Stoneware
Casual Elegance Dinnerware
Salad Plate With each $3 purchase 49¢ ea.

You'll love our own bakery items ...
Stop & Shop Big Daisy Bread 3 20 oz. loaves 89¢
Stop & Shop Daisy Donuts Plain or Sugar 2 11½ oz. pkgs. of 12 $1
Stop & Shop Lemon Pie 22 oz. pkg. 89¢
Chocolate Brownies or Butterscotch Stop & Shop 9½ oz. pkg. 89¢

Prices effective Mon. Oct. 24 thru Sat. Oct. 29. In fairness to all our customers, we reserve the right to limit sales to three packages of any item except where otherwise noted. Items offered for sale not available in case lots or to other dealers or wholesalers. ©Copyright 1977 by Stop & Shop Supermarkets. All rights reserved. Not responsible for typographical errors.

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

Nigeria urges U.N. embargo in S. Africa

UNITED NATIONS [UPI] — Nigeria urged the U.N. Security Council Tuesday to impose a mandatory oil and arms embargo on South Africa and ban investments in the white-ruled country in retaliation for its crackdowns on dissidents.

In Washington, President Carter said he had reached a decision on whether to back sanctions against Pretoria but did not say what the decision was.

Carter said he was trying to coordinate the U.S. decision with America's European allies and "also among friends we have among African leaders."

"There are various kinds of sanctions against sale of weapons, various degrees of economic sanctions," Carter said. "But what we want is a resolution of the South African threat against peace in Namibia and of course the rights of the South African peoples themselves protected."

"So we'll try to modify our position to bring about all three of those things," Carter said. Nigerian Foreign Minister Joseph N. Garba, speaking in a Council debate on South Africa's arrest of 62 black and white leaders and the shutdown of two black newspapers, appealed to the West to join in taking "prompt and effective measures to arrest the present deterioration of the situation."

"Our delegation will not be satisfied with a mere condemnation of the arrests, acts of brutality, repression and terrorism," Garba said. "This has been done several times without any satisfactory effect on the regime in Pretoria."

Garba urged the Council to "now move forward by imposing particularly an oil and arms embargo according to Chapter VII of the U.N. Charter."

"All member states, particularly friends of South Africa, should reinforce these measures by promptly halting new investments into South Africa and taking steps to dismantle their existing investments in that country."

Chapter VII of the U.N. Charter provides mandatory sanctions in "case of threat to international peace and security."

Vorster assures no nuclear test

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The administration Tuesday insisted South Africa promised the United States it would not develop and test nuclear explosives — and released a high-level diplomatic letter to President Carter to prove its point.

But neither the White House nor the State Department could explain a comment by South African Prime Minister John Vorster, in an ABC-TV interview taped in Pretoria on Oct. 17, in which Vorster said he was "not aware of any promises" he made to Carter in the Oct. 13 letter.

Vorster also said he made clear in the letter that "as far as South Africa is concerned, we are only interested in peaceful development of nuclear facilities."

The State Department said it considers Vorster's latest letter to Carter a "formal assurance" the white-ruled nation has no plans to develop or test nuclear explosives.

The department said it issued such a statement Monday after consulting with South Africa's Washington embassy and "they regard it as a statement of fact."

President press secretary Jody Powell said the United States considers the Vorster letter a commitment. But he told reporters who questioned the discrepancy: "You may place whatever interpretation you wish in the obvious face of the personal letter."

Force battles pot smugglers

BOSTON [UPI] — Federal drug officials have assembled a task force to battle ocean-going international marijuana smugglers, who they say have relocated off New England's jagged coastline because of of tougher enforcement in the South.

The tast force — operating from the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration office in Boston and including tax, customs and Coast Guard experts — is aimed at stopping smuggling rings which officials say supply the entire Northeast.

"During the past six months to a year, there's been a vast increase in multi-ton smuggling of marijuana into New England by vessel," said Edward Cass, regional DEA director.

New England's isolated coastal niches and remote islands are attractive to smugglers squeezed out of Florida and the Gulf Coast by stricter law enforcement there, he said yesterday.

The task force began its unglamorous work this month, plowing through documents in hopes of gaining a good profile of the typical smuggler.

Coast Guard experts are compiling a portrait of a typical "dope ship," and Coast Guardmen are getting beefed-up training in drug enforcement. Internal Revenue Service officials — with an eye to building tax evasion cases — are calculating costs of running a smuggling operation.

DEA investigators are checking through documents such as real estate records, to see who's bought remote property that might be a drop-off point.

"We're going to cross-train each other," Cass said. "What we need in Boston is a lot of expertise in a hurry."

"We're going to swarm all over them like locusts and suck all the information from them — phone numbers, gasoline receipts — and we'll get a conspiracy together and bring them to court," he said.

"We're not interested in the captain of the ship. We're interested in who put the whole operation together and financed it. We're dealing with conspiracy cases," Cass said.

Timberland

10301 —
This fashionable, 16″ women's boot is completely waterproof. The tan, silicone-impregnated leather is fully lined with soft glove leather and insulated to −20°. The lace-up front combines eyelets and speed hooks for comfort and styling. A heavily cushioned and insulated insole covers a tough steel shank, and the stylish wedge sole is genuine Vibram®.

Mathews Shoes
395 S. Pleasant St.
Amherst

Unusually heavy demands may require our setting reasonable quantity limits on some of the items in fairness to all customers.

Bradlees
One of The Stop & Shop Companies

Treat yourself to The Beatles!

These records and tapes on sale now thru Saturday, Oct. 29

7.99 LP SERIES 1198
THE BEATLES:
Love Songs
8-TRACK SERIES 1195 7.99

3.44 LP SERIES 498
HALLOWEEN HORRORS

3.74 LP SERIES 698
THE BEATLES:
Revolver
8-TR. SERIES 795 4.94

3.74 LP SERIES 698
THE BEATLES:
Rubber Soul
8-TR. SERIES 795 4.94

4.44 LP SERIES 798
THE BEATLES:
Abbey Road
8-TR. SERIES 795 4.94

6.99 LP SERIES 1098
THE BEATLES:
1962-1966
8-TR. SERIES 1295 7.99

6.99 LP SERIES 1098
THE BEATLES:
1967-1970
8-TR. SERIES 1295 7.99

7.99 LP SERIES 1298
THE BEATLES:
White Album
8-TR. SERIES 1395 8.99

1.49 REG. 1.99
Vinyl carry case holds fifty 45 rpm records.

2 PKS. 1.00 REG. 89¢ EA.
45 rpm record inserts, 30 per pack.

10-3-2

Bradlees King St. Northampton

---

A 10-15 hour work-study position is open in the Collegian news department. Typing, filing and answering phones. Sunday through Thursday, two to three hours a night. See Bernard Davidow in the Collegian office.

Nuclear fusion project underway in England

LUXEMBOURG [UPI] — The European Common Market broke a deadlock yesterday and agreed to build its long-debated nuclear fusion project in England to seek clean, safe and unlimited power in the 21st century.

A dispute over where to build the doughnut-shaped reactor known as a "Joint European Torus" — or JET — to harness the same forces that make the sun shine had threatened to scuttle the project altogether.

Finally the choice boiled down to Garching, near Munich in West Germany, and Culham, near Oxford in England where a design team has been at work for several years.

To break the impasse, Germany agreed to accept a majority decision, rather than the unanimous vote usually demanded in the nine-nation community on vital matters.

Six countries voted for Culham and just two — Germany and Luxembourg — for Garching. Italy abstained.

British Energy Minister Tony Wedgwood Benn said the decision "opened up a new option of a very important kind for the 21st century."

The JET project will be used in an attempt to create sustained fusion of light atoms of Tritium and Deuterium under 100-million-degree temperatures generated by a magnetic field.

Scientists say the process in effect harnesses the same forces that make the sun shine and would create limitless energy — and harmless helium — from materials nature supplies in abundance.

If proven feasible, it would be a godsend to countries now hovering on the brink of a potentially dangerous plutonium economy. Several Common Market nations may face a severe energy gap within a decade if, as expected, supplies of imported oil diminish.

Guido Brunner of West Germany, the Common Market commissioner in charge of energy and research, predicted the JET reactor would take five years to build and eventually employ 320 scientists and technicians.

"On paper, ours is the most advanced project in the world," he said, even though the two-year search for a site had whittled down a valuable technological lead over projects in the United States, Russia and Japan.

House votes kid-porn ban

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The House yesterday voted unanimously to make it a federal offense to use children under 16 in pornographic movies and to transport boys across state lines for immoral purposes.

It was the second time the House voted to make it a crime to use children in pornographic movies. But backers said that unlike an earlier bill, this one would prove constitutional.

The measure was passed 420-0 and sent to the Senate which already has approved a bill that would provide for prosecution of distributors of the films as well as producers. Some House members felt this would make the entire bill unconstitutional.

The measure was passed 420-0 and sent to a conference committee with the Senate, which already has approved a bill that would provide for prosecution of distributors of the films as well as producers.

Some House members felt that provision would make the entire bill unconstitutional, but the House voted 358 to 54 to "instruct" its conferees to accept the Senate position on the issue.

Although such "instructions" aren't binding on conferees, it appeared that the heavy vote would force House conferees to accept the Senate language if a compromise is to be reached.

The House measure, like the Senate bill, also would revise the Mann Act to make it illegal to transport boys across state lines for prostitution. The act now covers only girls.

Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., manager of the bill, said it was better to limit its coverage to producers of child pornography and not include distributors of films, books or other materials depicting "acts of sexually explicit conduct."

Conyers said this would protect the measure from the possibility of being ruled unconstitutional because of First Amendment freedom of speech rights.

The earlier House-passed measure to include producers and distributors was part of a child pornography section added to a child abuse bill.

"We need a strong prosecutable law to protect children," Conyers said.

Rep. Harold Volkmer, D-Mo., said: "In the opinion of our Judiciary Committee this bill will pass constitutional muster."

Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, said the bill would be ineffective without inclusion of distributors, and Rep. Robert Dornan, R-Calif., said "distributors of this type of garbage know exactly what they are carrying in their trucks as much as illegal drug peddlers or distributors of gut-rotting whiskey."

COMPARE

d'amour's BIG Y

3 convenient locations ... all next to BIG 'Y'
- HAMP PLAZA KING STREET ROUTE 5 NORTHAMPTON
- FAIRVIEW ROUTE 33 MEMORIAL DRIVE BIG 'Y's SHOPPING CENTER
- BRECKWOOD WILBRAHAM ROAD SPRINGFIELD

WINES & LIQUORS AT LOW PRICES!

BARTON RESERVE
90 PROOF 1.75 litres WHY PAY $11.75? 8.99

INVERNESS 12 YR. OLD SCOTCH
86.8 PROOF 1.75 litres WHY PAY $17.99? 13.99

COSSACK VODKA
80 PROOF WHY PAY 9.79? 1.75 litres 7.69

HARWOOD CANADIAN
80 PROOF 1.75 litres WHY PAY $13.45? 8.99

NUYEN'S 80 Proof GIN
1.75 litres WHY PAY $10.19? 7.69

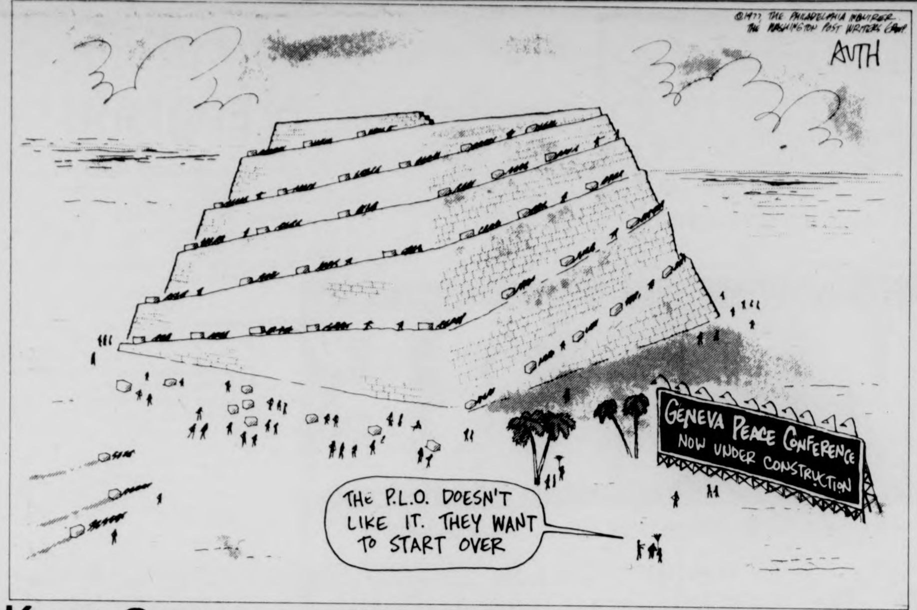
BALLANTINE ALE WHY PAY $6.49?
24-12oz CANS 4.99

BOTTERINO LAMBRUSCO
70oz Bottle WHY PAY $4.39? 2.99

PAUL MASSON BRANDY
80 Proof Quart WHY PAY $6.45? 5.99

BAHIA-BRAZILIAN COFFEE LIQUEUR
23oz WHY PAY $9.99? 6.99

PREMIUM BEER
"MILWAUKEE" 24-12oz N.R.'s WHY PAY $4.99? 3.59



©1977, THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP
AUTH
GENEVA PEACE CONFERENCE
NOW UNDER CONSTRUCTION
THE P.L.O. DOESN'T LIKE IT. THEY WANT TO START OVER

Kent State: spelling it out

When you know something's wrong, but you're a little confused about why; sometimes it helps if somebody spells it out for you. 1500 students from all over the country met at Kent State this weekend and got a real lesson in spelling.

For six months, students at Kent State have stood strong in the face of court injunctions, over 300 arrests, and personal harassment in their fight to stop the K.S.U. administration from building a gym on the site where four students were killed by National Guardsmen in 1970. For the third time this semester, students from UMass and the rest of the country joined the May 4th Coalition for a peaceful demonstration on that site.

The Kent State administration has already spent more on suppressing this struggle than it would have cost to move the gym. Since 1968, the Kent State administration has discussed plans to build a new gym. In that year, 17 acres of land were purchased at a cost of millions of dollars. Even in 1973 the plans still included eight other sites. Saturday showed us all just how far they are willing to go to squash the spirit of Kent and Jackson State, just how far they are willing to go to cover up the murders of 1970. It showed us all just how far the students united throughout the country are willing to go to make sure that the spirit lives.

We were greeted by a new fence, 15 feet high, a $30,000 investment — the latest in the administration's efforts to stop the growing movement of unity and strength. Kent police, in full riot gear dropped injunctions onto the crowd. Students defiantly refused to take them. President Golding of K.S.U. pushed another injunction through the courts last Wednesday stating that no demonstrations could be held on the Commons. These are the same courts that acquitted the National Guardsmen in 1970 along with their accomplice, Gov. Rhodes; the same courts that passed one injunction after another to keep students off the site of the gym that would desecrate the already tarnished memory of May 4th.

They threw everything at us this time. Riot gear cops armed with sticks, clubs and cattle prods forced the rally to move three times. Horses and cars sped through the crowd as the cops hurled tear gas and pepper gas at the fleeing students. Overcome by the fumes, people still found the strength to pick up some of their gas bombs and throw them back. In the face of this show of brute force, the students remained tight and disciplined. The Vietnam Veterans Against the War led the way as they helped maintain order.

The students regrouped to discuss plans to march back to the site. The focus of the discussion was whether we would back down in the face of this intimidation or would we show these bastards just how far we are willing to go to prove the strength of the spirit of Kent and Jackson State. Most people agreed that we should go back. Plans included marching through the dorm areas to inform students of what was happening on their campus. Those who felt that they could not face the tear gas terrorism of Golding's boys again stayed behind.

Our return to the site was cheered by hundreds of Kent State students who had joined the demonstration. Chants of, "The people united will never be defeated" rang out. Students shouted from dorm windows, "PIGS OFF CAMPUS." Deja-vu? No, this is the reality people in this country face when they stand in opposition to the rulers. Our unity was so threatening to their stranglehold grip that they were forced to expose themselves in their most vicious forms of repression. Again the cops moved against the crowd with tear gas. More than 150 cops stood inside the fence as students surrounded the site and shook that $30,000 investment in the rulers war against the people. Again the cops relentlessly and ruthlessly marched against the crowd. As students locked arms and jogged quickly off campus, they just kept coming, viciously assaulting our ranks with gas.

The final decision to leave campus came through a deal worked out with the cops. They were so afraid of our strength and unity that they agreed to pull down their road blocks if we would just please go home.

Yes, a spelling lesson at Kent State this weekend. Throw in a little geometry and it's crystal clear that the lines of the early 60's and 70's still go from point to point. The Kent State administration has gone to tremendous lengths to squash the struggle and the spirit of unity and strength of the May 4th Coalition. Not since May 1970, not since the end of the Vietnam War Era has a college campus been the scene of such an intense struggle. And just as in 1970, students stood up against the rulers unjust war for profit in Vietnam, so they stood on Saturday to prove that they can still unite and stand opposed to the same kinds of injustices that confront us today. And just as in 1970, the administration and it cronies proved that they stand with the rulers in opposition to the will of the people. Yes, it was clear to me what was spelled out on the Kent State campus this weekend.

Ellen Gitelman is a member of the Revolutionary Student Brigade.

Homo politicus

AMHERST, Mass. — Beginning at the start of the school year and continuing with great intensity through Thanksgiving, a strange kind of activity carried on by a rare, well-equipped and enthusiastic type of creature can be seen taking place in the Five-College area.

This creature, termed Home politicus by some and unscientifically and underservedly referred to as "pests" by others can be seen on, in and around streets, doorways, shopping malls, campus centers, and the country-side in search of registered voters. It is not clear exactly what motivates politicus to act in its characteristically determined and single-minded way, but it is known that the goal of his-her activity is to obtain the signatures of his-her victims.

> "It is not clear exactly what motivates politcus to act in its characteristically determined and simple-minded way, but it is known that the goal of his/her activity is to obtain the signatures of his/her victims."

It seems that during late August and early September, there begin to circulate in Massachusetts (and twelve other states in the country) what are known as initiative petitions. These petitions contain certain proposals which may become state law. First, however, each proposal must receive the backing of (in the case of Massachusetts) fifty-seven thousand signatures of registered voters. If that is accomplished, the specific proposal is then brought before the state legislature for consideration.

If a majority of the legislature vote is favorable upon the proposal, it immediately becomes state law. If it is rejected, ten thousand more signatures of registered state voters must be obtained, and once that is accomplished, the proposal is placed directly on the state ballot the following November for the voters to either accept or reject. In other words, the initiative forces the legislature, which in Massachusetts has lately been composed of drag-ass bureaucrats reluctant to pass progressive legislation, to at least consider an issue. The legislature is then by-passed for a public vote if the "public servants" reject the proposal.

Scientists, sociologists, and psychologists all term Home politicus (also called "petitioners" because they are the ones who circulate the initiatives) as being "absolutely harmless, easy to approach and to talk to, and open to making new friends." Despite this, petitioners are often ignored, and lack support in their activities. Polly Sigh, one of the leading researchers in the study of petitioners, offers the following:

"The fact that petitioners are looked down upon or ignored by lots of people is really sad because petitioners are in need of friends to help them carry the signature — gathering lead. Some people are really rude; they walk away or cross over to the other side of the street to avoid signing the petition. I have seen other more obnoxious types physically harass petitioners and overturn their tables. Yet these same people will claim that they support free government, the rights of others, or the need for change."

It must be understood that petitioners play a necessary part in the workings of the so-called "democratic" system, defective though that system may be. Petitioning represents a small, but none-the-less important component of a small step in the larger process of overall political change. And voters and non-voters alike can assist in this effort.

Whether or not one is in favor of the proposal being circulated on a particular initiative petition is not the point to be taken into consideration when approaching, or being approached by a petitioner. One's opinion can be expressed as a "yes" or "no" vote on election day. The objective is to get the proposal on the ballot, so that others (who may not even know about the proposal until election day) may have the right to decide on the issue in an open, elective way.

So, give freely of yourself. Please offer your services, however small. Please give your autograph, however messy. And be kind to a petitioner.

Damon Thomas is a Collegian commentator.

The born-again virgin

Good day, darlings. My too outrageous friend, Victoria Leahy, came up with yet another one of her grand epiphanies this morning over coffee — and. "Virginity is a state of mind." Really, it is just too true, Victoria is but one of several of my little group who have become Born-Again virgins. And believe me they all run around making such bizarre statements. Born-Again virgins are just all the rage this year. What better way to cope with that dreadful morning after when memory sounds like a rude alarm, than to feign purification of the soul. The excess amount of everything one has passed through the poor body in a night of debauchery is but the means by which one is purged of those nasty, nasty words and deeds. The Born-Again virgin arises to a day of innocence and purity. One may again stand with dignity and walk self-assuredly past the furtive glances of others.

Really, you must try this new coping mechanism. The too horrible dating-mating scene becomes the ludicrous obsession of cretins who are positively beneath you. The dark caverns of the bars become places to observe from loftier heights. And one may look through unjaded eyes upon the form and figure of a member of the opposite sex without simian urges curdling the blood. Ah yes, the Born Again virgin may go home alone after the fabulous night out, but the lone departure is welcomed, if not revered.

And of course the B-A virgin experiences a marvelous flight from reality. The bliss is just too, too sweet. In such an etherial state the trappings of sexual interactions are transformed into a form of entertainment. Members of the opposite sex are relegated to the level of friends only rather than objects of pursuit. And those of your own sex are never, ever to be rivals. (Our little group is so very hetero, so we do confine our comments to those of our persuasion.)

The attitude of the Born-Again virgin is far more aesthetic than our soiled counterparts. I mean really now, the physical aspect of a relationship is sent soaring into the metaphysical. And fantasies, oh darlings, I could not describe the satisfaction of a fantasy. The miserable disappointment of a less than lovely rendezvous is never felt. And guilt over simply wild affairs is a relic of the past.

> "Really, you must try this new coping mechanism. The too horrible dating-mating machine becomes the ludicrous obsession of cretins who are positively beneath you."

One absolutely terrif thing about being Born-Again is the conversation. One is so very in control. All those quaint phrases and gesticulations that were formerly employed to arouse certain desires are cast aside. Since the conversation does not have to lead to the boudoir, it may instead be led to an intelligent conclusion. And of course dear, you must understand if you are to try this wonderful remedy for depression, that all those cute flashes of flattery you would use to turn a smile and invitation too neglected. Compliments are given sincerely as they are not needed to cajole attention from another being.

Of course our little group has adopted the Born-Again dressings of virginity to bolster our too fragile egos. Uninterested in base involvements we must rely on our own inner strength to carry us through those nights when our sighs land softly on but the echos of our room.

The Born-Again Virgin is saving herself-himself, and collecting interest. We are not prizes to be paraded before the highest bidder. We are the appraisers of our won self-worth. The quality of emotion is better sensed and appreciated from an objective distance, my dears.

For decadence, without costly embarrassment, let the light of the Born-Again Virgins shine upon you. Such a simple, marvelous philosophy you will not be seeing again for quite the while my sweets. Rather than remain followers of Our Lady of the Perpetual Bummer, do try our adorable mode of thought.

Oh, and I really do not mean to be cheeky, but should one decide to fall from grace, do opt for style. It is so important for the ego. The Born-Again Virgin appreciates absolutely everything on a higher aesthetic plane than the average plebian. And is ever so much more susceptible to falling in love. Do fall in love. Victoria swears that it is the most dignified excuse for a tryst or two.

Pamela Davenport is a Collegian Commentator.

Capitalism: "I love it"

By STEPHEN MATHIEU

I've read so much anti-capitalist print in this leftist newspaper that I'm beginning to go crazy with anger. And all of you anti-capitalists are a bunch of hypocrites, and I say that with fact to back it up.

First, let me define "capitalism" for all of you no-minds who claim to hate capitalism.

Webster's New Collegiate dictionary 1975 defines capitalism as: An economic system characterized by private or corporate ownership of capital goods, by investments that are determined mainly by competition in a free market.

Tell me, which one of you has not at one point in time sold something you owned for a price that you set? And if told that I would give you five bucks if you spell the word "cat" which one of you would not spell the word, or at least make an attempt?

Having been a little kid once, and having observed parents handle them, how many parents do you know that don't at one point in time say something to the kids like "Johnny, if you're a good boy I'll buy you an ice cream, or I'll let you stay up another half hour to watch T.V.?

I don't know one parent who doesn't. It's a form of capitalism. You have some goods that you will deliver to that child for a price.

The price being the good behavior of the kid. You Capitalists, you bribed the kid.

But tell me, what is more basic in human nature than trying to satisfy your wants and desires?

Capitalism is the only system that has been with us since the beginning of time. And I love it. Because of capitalism, I can bargain, make deals with people, and try to sell my goods and services to people at a price that I set. And other people can do the same to me. Sometimes I don't like the prices that they set, but tough shit. I have the option to go out and try to make a deal for the same product elsewhere, or the option of going without. It's as simple as that.

However, the socialists, commies, marxists, and all the rest of the self proclaimed anti-capitalists seem to think that it is their right to have a telephone at their desired price, their right to own a house, their right to have all of the luxuries in life, without having to work or pay for them. You can all go to hell.

The only rights that you have are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Suppose that you lived in some under developed tribe on an island in the Pacific. Would telephones be a right? Would homes and cars be a right?

The capitalists have given you such a high standard of living by their constant competition for the almighty dollar, and you have life so easy because of them (us) that you have come to believe that this easy life is your right. Bull Shit. Go live in some underdeveloped country for a while and then come back and tell me what your rights are.

You might find yourself so busy just trying to stay alive that you won't have the time to talk about politics.

Capitalism is the system here in this great country. It is capitalism that built this country and gave us our standard of living. If you don't like it, get the hell out of here. You'd be doing yourself and the proclaimed capitalists like myself a big favor.

Go forth, hypocrites, and tell the world what a shafting we gave you. Maybe if you're lucky, someone will give you a shoulder to cry on, or better yet, a muzzle and a harness to shut you up and make you work.

Stephen Mathieu is a Collegian Commentator.

Paulin accused of "playing games"

To the Editor:

Many tactics are commonly employed by the mainstream press in mobilizing opposition to any and all attempts by people to take control over their own lives. One such tactic, used particularly often when student protests are the target, is the attempt to portray those engaging in the actions as acting out of personal frustration, as seeking a cause with which to identify, and as being immature; in short, as playing at a game in which the playing itself is more important than the goal.

The advantages of these tactics are obvious: attention is diverted from the object of the action to the motives of the participants, attacking by implication the importance and validity of the goals; cynicism toward that particular action is invited, while apathy toward personal involvement in general is fostered; divisions amongst students are encouraged as individual students are provided a reason for disassociating themselves from the "immature" and rash actions of their colleagues.

This tactic was commonly directed at student protests against the Vietnam War. Student protesters were portrayed as "acting out" the same impulses which earlier had prompted them to stage panty raids, swallow goldfish, or cheer on their football teams. Thus, it wasn't the war that was unreasonable, but the students who protested it. The culmination of this type of reasoning occurred in 1970 with the attempt to blame the murders at Kent State on the immature actions of the students themselves, rather than on the Guard, Rhodes, Nixon, or the corporate-government priorities responsible for the insanity of the Cambodian invasion itself.

It is thus disappointing to find a student newspaper using this same tactic in its coverage of the May 4th Coalition's protest against the attempt to cover up student history with a gym. We refer, of course, to Jim Paulin's front page story on the October 22nd demonstration. The events seven years ago at Kent were not a game; neither is the present effort to resist that cultural imperialism which would deny, or at least dilute, the importance of that earlier student involvement, a game. Unfortunately, this is not only Paulin's view but is also the attitude that Moss' front page cartoon would have us adopt. If Jim Paulin thinks it's a game he should at least have the good sense to argue this in an editorial, not insinuate that opinion into a front page article purporting to accurately report what happened. An event with such overtones for students deserves sympathetic, or at least neutral coverage, especially from someone who, through his own participation, should have related to those who weren't there an undistorted account of what happened.

Perhaps, however, it is Jim Paulin who is engaged in a game, the game of using the pages of the Collegian to learn the "tricks of the trade" necessary to gain admittance, after graduation, to the big game of establishment journalism. The pity is that we, the UMass community, must endure his training period.

Sincerely,
Martha Brandon
Larry Gresock

"Jews for Jesus' apologize

To the Editor:

As leaders of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, we would like to respond to letters that appeared in the Collegian concerning the recent Jews for Jesus concert.

First, we would like to apologize to those who were offended by the concert. It is our belief that whenever the gospel is presented in a manner that is insensitive to the needs of the hearers, a tragic mistake has been made. The gospel, preached without love and truth, is not really the gospel at all.

As for the militancy of the Christians on campus, the message we share is indeed a militant one, for it speaks of the necessity of a revolution within a man's heart and soul. It is not a message of intolerance, but rather one of divine tolerance and forgiveness to Jew and Christian alike through the Messiah, Jesus Christ.

As for the Jews for Jesus, they are neither a well-financed nor ill-intentioned group. If their presence on campus has caused a misunderstanding, we do apologize on their behalf and invite anyone who would like to speak to us personally to do so by calling Neil Vanaria at 546-9254.

Kathy Locicero
Core Group, Inter-Varsity
Christian Fellowship

Show-down at 'high noon'

To the Editor:

Marijuana laws as they currently exist are unenforcable. This is a well known fact. Nevertheless, marijuana laws remain on the books, even though only a small minority of those who smoke marijuana ever get arrested.

An awful lot of college students smoke dope. Dope then becomes a criminal charge on which the police can arrest college students if they want to bust them, but have no grounds for doing so. Dope laws are a tool for political oppression.

As the Yippies state "Police power comes only from a toleration of the policed, and this power is broken by a conscious collective action." Dope laws work only because individuals are singled out. When a large group assembles, the police are powerless. There exists no facilities in Western Massachusetts for mass arrests. If the police really set their heart to busting all the tokers they will be able to arrest less than one per cent of those attending.

Stand up for your rights! Come to the Yippie Smoke-In, Thursday, High noon.

Russell Swan

Defense Fund for student senator

To the Editor:

I have just learned that Bob Bolandrina, the UMass Student Senator arrested at Kent State this past weekend, has had his bail set at eight thousand dollars. A defense fund is being set up for Bob at the R.S.B. table in the Campus Center. PLEASE go down and contribute what you can.

Jimmy Blihar

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Joseph A. Quinlan, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Richard J. Pioli, Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Fifine D. Ball, Women's Coordinator.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Jury convicts Cochran, hit crowd at KKK rally

AMERICUS, Ga. [AP] — A jury of six blacks and six whites yesterday found Buddy Cochran guilty of eight counts of aggravated assault for ramming his car into a crowd at a Ku Klux Klan rally in President Carter's hometown.

Only hours earlier the panel had reported it was deadlocked after eight hours of deliberation, but Superior Court Judge William F. Blanks ordered the nine women and three men back to the jury room.

A woman juror wept as she delivered the verdict about 3 p.m. The jury had deliberated for 13 hours.

Cochran's wife Mary Sue also cried, but Cochran remained calm.

Cochran could be sentenced to 10 years in jail for each of the eight counts. But no sentencing date was set, and Blacks said Cochran will be sent to Central State Hospital in Milledgeville for mental testing prior to sentencing.

Cochran, who is white, was accused of driving his sports car into the crowd at the July 2 rally in Plains, Ga., injuring at least 32 persons, none of them Klansmen.

His attorney said the racist atmosphere of the rally cuased the 20-year-old Americus mechanic to become temporarily insane. But the prosecution said Cochran was intoxicated.

Defense Attorney Robert Bryan admitted that Cochran drove his car into the crowd and said his client felt guilty about it.

But he argued: "It has been said that the KKK is not on trial. That is legally correct. But I contend racism is as much a part of this trial as the air that permeated that rally."

He said racism has "a place in the trial because it has a place in Buddy's mind," adding, "The real issue is what state Cochran's mind was in at the time. Buddy's state of mind was certainly not the behavior of a normal person."

Cochran had testified that his closest friend in the Marines was a black man who "got me through overseas" and later was killed in Vietnam. He also recalled seeing two black Marines who had been hanged in North Carolina shortly after a Klan rally was held nearby.

Prisoners to be exchanged at Christmas

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Some 225 Americans held in Mexican prisons and a smaller number in Canadian jails could be transferred to U.S. prisons in time for Christmas under a bill passed yesterday by the House and sent to President Carter.

The measure, which has cleared the Senate and is expected to get swift approval from the President, would implement prisoner exchange treaties made with the two nations.

It also would authorize similar treaties with other nations in the future.

The bill is designed to spare Americans from abuse in foreign prisons. It gives them the option to voluntarily return to a U.S. prison and offers the corresponding alternative to Mexicans and Canadians held in American jails, so long as the prisoner has been convicted of an offense which is against the laws in both countries.

Americans would be eligible for parole under the U.S. system but commutation of sentences or reversal of convictions could not be made except in the sentencing country.

The Justice Department estimated there are 570 Americans in Mexican jails, of which about 225 would be eligible and willing to return to U.S. jails. There are between 140 and 170 U.S. offenders in Canadian jails but the department said "only a small percentage will elect to return."

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.
Adults $2.50—Students with AMC Card $2.00—Children $1.25—Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded

CARRIE
She's back... TO SCARE YOU AGAIN!
R
1 Wed. at 6:15, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 5:45/1.50

A long time ago in a galaxy far, far away...
STAR WARS
MARK HAMILL HARRISON FORD ALEC GUINNESS CARRIE FISHER
PG
2 Wed. at 6:00, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 5:30/1.50

JAMES BOND 007™ in "THE SPY WHO LOVED ME"
PG
3 Wed. at 6:00, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 5:30/1.50

HERE COMES THE COMEDY ROMANCE OF THE YEAR!
"A 70's American Graffiti!"
Between the Lines
R
4 Starts Fri.
Ends Thurs.: WELCOME TO LA
6:15, 8:30

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

MYRA BRECKINRIDGE
X
CHOOSE ONE OR THE OTHER
Raquel Welch
Farrah Fawcett Mae West

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
BOTH START AT MIDNITE
PHANTOM of the PARADISE
PAUL WILLIAMS

YOUR MONEY'S WELL SPENT AT Archer Kent

Archer Kent
DISCOUNT HEALTH & BEAUTY AIDS

OPEN SUNDAYS
AMHERST 191 N. Pleasant St.
Quantity Rights Reserved
PRICES EFFECTIVE THRU OCT. 30, 1977

Clairol Herbal Essence Shampoo $1.15 normal oily 8oz.

Gleem 79¢ 5 oz

CANDY FOR HALLOWEEN
Peter Paul
Mounds
Almond Joy
York pattie mints bite size bags
99¢
Hershey's Milk Chocolate
snack size
M&M Plain fun size bags
Milky Way fun size bags
$1.19

NOXZEMA 79¢ price includes 20¢ off label 6 oz.

Short & Sassy conditioner $1.15 regular with body 7 oz.

Shower to Shower 99¢ 8 oz.

CONTAC 10 capsules 99¢

Kleenex 4 boxes for $1.00 100 tissues per box

ANACIN 50 tablets

WE DISCOUNT OVER 3000 ITEMS EVERY DAY

Finast SUPERMARKETS
MEAT STREET, U.S.A. GUARANTEED VALUE.

MEAT STREET U.S.A.

Frozen Turkey Breast 88¢ lb.
Fresh Marval Turkey Breast 98¢ lb.
Fresh Marval Turkey Drumsticks 48¢ lb.
Fresh Marval Turkey Wings 58¢ lb.
Fresh Marval Turkey Thighs 78¢ lb.

Fresh Perdue Chicken Legs
Whole 78¢ lb.
Whole Breast 98¢ lb.
Assorted Pork Chops $1.18 lb.
Fresh Pork Lean & Meaty Spareribs 98¢ lb.
Country Style Pork Ribs $1.18 lb.

Whole Bone In Shells of Beef
Untrimmed $1.68 lb.
Top Loin Shell Steaks Bone In 1.98 lb.
Boneless Stew Beef $1.28 lb.
Boneless Beef Round Cubed Steak $1.68 lb.
Colonial Master Smoked Shoulders 88¢ lb.

Boneless Top Round Steak
USDA CHOICE $1.68 lb.
Top Round for London Broil 1.78 lb.
Boneless Roast Top Round $1.48 lb.
Boneless Round Beef Kabobs $1.58 lb.
Extra Lean Fresh Ground Beef $1.28 lb.

Green Giant Golden Corn
Whole Kernel, Cream Style 3 17 oz. cans $1

More Grocery Values at Finast!
Red Cabbage Greenwood . . 3 16oz jars 1.00
Greenwood Beets with Onions . 3 16oz jars 1.00
Snows Clam Chowder . . 15oz can 68¢
Shasta Diet Soda. . . . . 7 12oz cans 1.00

BEER & WINE
Budweiser Beer case of 24 12 oz. cans case only $5.99
Falstaff Beer case of 24 12 oz cans . . . . case only 4.99
Fonzia Chianti magnum and Vine Rose . . . . . 2.49
Tosca Lambrusco . . . . . 24oz bot 1.79
Beer & Wine Items Available only in Finast of Hadley

PRODUCE
Western Baking Potatoes 5 lb. bag 79¢
Long Green Fresh Cucumbers 8 for $1
Fresh 12 oz. pkg. Mushrooms 89¢ pkg.
Mushrooms Available Tuesday thru Saturday

"First of the Season"
Fresh Florida Tangelos 100 count 18 for $1
Delicious Apples
Washington State Red and Golden Extra Fancy 2¼" min. 39¢ lb.

MR. DELI
Roast Beef Cooked Under U.S. Gov't. Specification $1.89 lb.
Cooked Ham Domestic Freshly Sliced $1.99 lb.
Available Only in Stores with Service Deli Depts.

In-Store Bake Shop Features!
Fresh Italian Bread . . . . 4 7oz lvs 1.00
Assorted Turnovers . . . . . 4 for 89¢
Fresh Cake Donuts Plain Sugar Cinnamon . doz 69¢
Available Only in Stores with In-Store Bake Shops

BAKER STREET
English Muffins Finast Fresh 3 pkgs. of 6 $1
Sandwich Wheat Bread 2 21oz lvs 99¢
Brown & Serve Rolls . . 2 12oz pkgs 89¢
Plain & Sugar Donuts . 2 pkgs of 12 1.00
Danish Pecan Ring. . . . . 14oz pkg 99¢
Halloween Cupcakes. . . pkg of 6 79¢
Big Round Top White Bread 3 20 oz. lvs. $1

FROZEN FOODS
Freezer Queen
Char. Br. Beef Patties, Spagh. & Meatballs, Salis. Stk. w/Gravy, Turkey Croquettes 2 lb. pkg. 97¢
Pumpkin Pie Mrs. Smith's . . . . 26oz pkg 1.09
Hawaiian Punch Red . 3 6oz cans 1.00
Finast French Fries Crinkle Cut or Regular 4 9oz pkgs 89¢
Finast Lemonade . . . . 3 12oz cans 1.00
Tree Tavern Pizza . . . . 16oz pkg 1.19
Orange Juice Finast Frozen 3 6 oz. cans 95¢

Sunrise Fresh Dairy Values!
Low Fat gallon plastic jug Finast Milk $1.19
Grapefruit Juice Indian River . . . . ½ gal cont 89¢
Finast Ricotta Cheese Whole Milk 2 lb cont 1.69
Orange Juice ½ gal. cont. Richmond 89¢
American Cheese Finast Slices 16oz pkg 1.39
Brookside Apple Cider . . . ½ gal cont 89¢
Corn Oil Margarine Finast 2 1 lb. pkgs 99¢

You Save 38¢
Pillsbury Plus Cake Mixes 2 18½ oz. pkgs. $1
FN Finast with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products Good Oct. 23-29, 1977 Limit one coupon H 688

You Save 41¢
Finast Butter 1 lb. Quarters pkg. 88¢
FN Finast with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products Good Oct. 23-29, 1977 Limit one coupon H 689

25¢ OFF
1 any size Chunk or Stick Finast Muenster Cheese
FN Finast with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products Good Oct. 23-29, 1977 Limit one coupon H 690

Extra Bonus
Finast Fresh Large Eggs White or Brown 39¢ doz.
FN Finast with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products Good Oct. 23-29, 1977 Limit one coupon H 772

Prices effective Sunday October 23 thru Saturday October 29, 1977
We reserve the right to limit quantities
Not responsible for typographical errors

Around New England

State employees protest raise delay

BOSTON [UPI] — State employees across Massachusetts will leave their jobs to attend a noon rally at the Statehouse next week to protest the delay of their $16.1 million pay hike, the head of the union Alliance said yesterday.

Asked if the Tuesday demonstration would constitute a one-day work stoppage, Thomas Sharkey, chairman of the Alliance, said "I think most employees are so damn mad that they are just going to leave their jobs and come down."

The pay hike for 37,000 state employees was negotiated last June to begin August 1. However the raise, funded in a supplemental budget now before the legislature, is being held hostage by anti-abortion groups.

An amendment filed by Rep. Raymond L. Flynn, D-Boston, and attached to the budget would prohibit the use of state funds for abortions except to save the life of a woman. The amendment affects medicaid recipients and state employees whose health plans are paid up to 85 per cent by the state.

Lawyer charged with embezzlement

PITTSFIELD, Mass. [AP] — A Pittsfield lawyer has pleaded guilty to embezzling more than $100,000 from his clients and has been sentenced to 2½ years in jail.

Berkshire Superior Court Judge John J. McNaught imposed the sentence after listening to arguments for leniency from Donald J. Shaker's defense attorney, who admitted his client was a chronic gambler who used the stolen money to pay off betting debts.

But District Attorney Mathew J. Ryan Jr. told the court Monday, "I have very little sympathy for him. He used his education instead of a gun."

Shaker signed clients' names on checks which had been made payable jointly to Shaker and the clients as payment for damage and other court settlements, Ryan said.

Electric Boat yard to layoff workers

GROTON, Conn. [AP] — The Electric Boat shipyard will lay off up to 4,000 workers to avert potential major losses in its Navy submarine construction program, according to reports yesterday.

The new general manager of the yard, P. Takis Veliotis, said 3,000-4,000 workers would be laid off at Groton, according to U.S. Rep. Edward Beard, D-R.I. Beard said Veliotis told him another 700 would be laid off at Electric Boat's Quonset Point, R.I., plant.

Some of those cuts, aimed at countering delays and errors in submarine production that have led to huge cost overruns, will take effect immediately, Beard said.

Company officials would not comment on the situation.

The Norwich Bulletin reported that the shipyard, a division of General Dynamics Corp., would lay off between 3,000 and 10,000 workers this week. The yard employs 28,000 persons, including 5,000 at the Quonset Point, R.I., plant, most of them involved in producing Trident and 688-class nuclear submarines for the Navy.

Restrictions voted on revoked licences

BOSTON [UPI] — The Massachusetts Senate Tuesday approved legislation to allow the state to grant restricted licenses to some people whose driver's license has been suspended or revoked.

On a roll call of 23-10, the Senate gave initial approval to a bill which would allow a driver whose license has been revoked or suspended to appeal on the grounds of hardship to the state Board of Appeal on Motor Vehicle Liability.

If the board decides the revocation or suspension has caused an undue hardship to the driver — if it, for example, prevents the driver from getting to work — the board could direct the state registrar of motor vehicles to issue a license with recommended restrictions.

Under an amendment adopted, 30-1, by the Senate, such licenses cannot be granted to those who have been convicted more than once for the same offense.

An amendment approved on a voice vote by the Senate Monday would not allow a driver whose license has been revoked on the grounds of vehicular homicide to obtain such a license.

Holyoke man confesses arson

SPRINGFIELD [UPI] — A Holyoke detective yesterday testified that Kenneth Keane, who is accused of setting a September 1976 fire that killed two women, confessed to the crime after the incident.

Keane, 33, is charged in the deaths of Florence McClain, 45, and Elizabeth Wailgum, 77, both of Holyoke.

Detective Lt. John McMullen, in the second day of the trial, read a statement in Hampden County Superior Court allegedly given by Keane one day after the fire.

"When I drink, I like to light fires and see them burn," Keane allegedly said.

Police crack down on forged drugs

AGAWAM, Mass. [UPI] — Police have made one arrest and say they plan more in connection with a rash of incidents of forged prescriptions used to obtain drugs at pharmacies.

Valerie Simmons of Springfield was arrested Oct. 14 at the Feeding Hills Pharmacy where she allegedly handed the druggest a forged prescription for 50 capsules of percodan, a relaxant. A court hearing was set for Nov. 17.

Detective Richard Light said his department has uncovered about 50 false prescriptions after checking records at local drug stores.

PUCA approves increase in gas and electric bills

HARTFORD [AP] — The Public Utilities Control Authority neared approval yesterday of a $35 million rate increase that would raise monthly gas and electric bills of Northeast Utilities' 857,000 customers about 5 per cent.

The three authority members hearing the Northeast case, Albert Kleban, Miriam Butterworth and David Harrigan, worked yesterday morning and afternoon ironing out minor problems in a tentative decision.

The decision also requires Northeast to offer cheaper electricity at night and on weekends to encourage people to use more power when the demand is the lowest.

The increase is about 40 per cent of the $90 million the company sought. Northeast has said an award of that size would severely damage the firm and could lead to more blackouts.

The peak hours of power usage will be 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday. Northeast will have to install new meters for customers who opt for time-of-day rates so the firm can tell when the electricty is consumed. The cost of the meters, which hasn't been specified, will be borne by the customer and the program will be limited at first because of inadequate supplies of the new meters.

"This is a break for customers who heat their homes with electricity and for others who want to convert their lifestyles," said one commissioner.

roister doisters' drama society presents

TOM JONES
based on the Fielding novel

Bowker Aud., Stockbridge Hall, UMass

Show dates
Oct. 28.29.30 Nov. 4.5.6
Prices
$2.00 stu. senior citizens
$2.50 general
Group rates available

Tickets available at Bowker Box Office
545-0783

for information 549-3905

HEY!
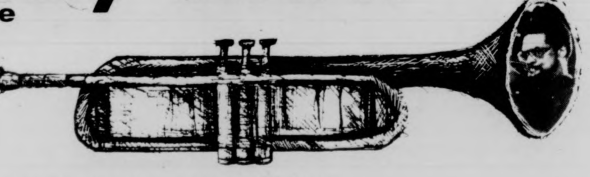
YOU MISSED IT?... but we'll be showing the product reel from Films, Inc. again!
DON'T MISS IT AGAIN!
(esp. if you plan to show a movie next semester)
OCT.26—3:30-5:30—CC 165

TAXI DRIVER
Robert DeNiro
Wed., Oct. 26 7:00, 9:15, 11:30
Campus Center Auditorium
$1.00

UMASS
Union Program Council in association with WMUA
Presents
The Woody Shaw
concert ensemble



Friday October 28th 8 pm admission $2
at the Student Union Ballroom
Tickets:
Tix, Sun Music, Backroom Records
and The Sound Room in Northampton

584 9153
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
ROUTE 9 - HADLEY
★ STARTS FRIDAY ★
THE COMEDY ROMANCE OF THE YEAR!
"Loose, Funky, Engaging!"
"A 70's American Graffiti!"
Between the Lines
R
Directed by JOAN MICKLIN SILVER Produced by RAPHAEL D SILVER Screenplay by FRED BARRON A MIDWEST FILM PRESENTATION

What's Happening

VALLEY TALKS

C.A.O.S. director David Baillie and Counseling Coordinator Lynn Simek will discuss Counseling Assistance for older and non-traditional students at 6:00 p.m. on WMUA 91.1 FM. The program informs the public of programs and services available in the valley. People are encouraged to call in.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

The International Club is a group of foreign and American students that sponsor and coordinate cultural and recreational activities. We encourage anybody with ideas and initiative to come join us. Tonight we will discuss the possibility of an International House at UMass, Campus Center 168, 7:30 p.m.

NUCLEAR POWER COALITION

Stop Nuclear Power Alternative Energy Coalition meets tonight and every Wednesday night at 7:30 in Converse Hall 304, Amherst College. It is the local affiliate of the Clamshell Alliance.

DANCE

Eno Don Washington, master dancer, will present "Midnight Improvisations" in Hampden Student Center at midnight. Washington has worked with Reed College's Master Dance classes; Diana Ramos and the Unity Ensemble; and KGW T.V. The multimedia piece will include percussion and dance. Admission is free.

FILM

Jack Swedberg, the official photographer for the Mass. Fish and Wildlife Service, will do a presentation on Mass. wildlife, including footage from the Quabbin Reservation. Holdsworth Hall 305, 7:30 p.m.

COMMUTER COLLECTIVE MEETING

There will be a Commuter Collective meeting at 5:30 p.m. in the Commuter Lounge.

TOMORROW

HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE THEATER

Hampshire College Theater will be presenting a new musical entitled, "The Sculpture Garden" tomorrow, Thursday and Friday. It will be performed at Hampshire College's Performing Arts Center, in Emily Dickinson Hall, at 8 p.m. For reservations and information, call 549-4600, ext. 351. There will be a special midnight show on Friday.

HEALTH SERVICES DIABETES MEETING

A diabetes discussion will be held tomorrow in Health Services 302. Open to all interested persons.

INDEX

The INDEX senior portrait program is now in progress. Seniors who are graduating in December, or who won't be on campus next semester should sign up for now for an appointment for their senior portrait. Appointments may be made by going to Campus Center 811, or by calling 545-2874.

IF I SHOULD DIE

A three-screen multi-media show portraying different views on death. It uses five projectors, hundreds of visuals and music by groups such as, Black Sabbath, Blood, Sweat and Tears, and Jim Croce. Student Union Ballroom, tomorrow at 8 p.m.

SLAUGHTERHOUSE FIVE

Award-winning adaptation of Kurt Vonnegut, Jr.'s world-wide best seller. Mahar Auditorium, tomorrow at 7, 9, and 11 p.m. $1.

POLISH HORROR FILM

A Polish horror melodrama "Lokis," based on a Merimee story, will be shown tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Thompson 102. Director Janusz Majewski will be present to answer questions. The film is in color with English subtitles. Free.

ATTENTION KENT STATE SUPPORTERS

All those interested in discussing the latest developments, including the Oct. 22 Demonstration at Kent. Meeting tonight at 7:30 Student Union 413A. The second half of the meeting will focus on future plans for continuing the struggle to move the gym, as well as raising funds for the legal defense of a UMass student arrested at the Oct. 22 demonstration.

CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE

The University Christian Movement in New England, a branch of the World Student Christian Federation, invites students to its Third Annual Conference — this year at Brown University, Nov. 4-6. Theme: What is the University Preparing You For? Keynote speaker is Howard Zinn, professor of Political Science at BU. Workshops on Black Studies, Women's Studies, and Alternative Educational Systems. For further info contact UCF at 428 Student Union, 545-2789.

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER
"GREASE" IS BACK!
"The dancingest show in town" Daily News
Grease
Friday, October 28
8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public-$7, 6, 5. UMass students and senior citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
THE NATIONAL TOUR OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST MUSICAL

EDWARD MULHARE ANNE ROGERS
LERNER & LOEWE'S
My Fair Lady
ALAN JAY LERNER FREDERICK LOEWE
OLIVER SMITH
CECIL BEATON
KEN BILLINGTON
AL FIORILLO
ROBERT RUSSEL BENNETT and PHIL LANG
TRUDE RITTMAN
CRANDALL DIEHL
JERRY ADLER
Thursday, November 3
3:30 pm and 8:00 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale for both performances. General public-$7.50, 6.50, 5.50. UMass students-$3.75, 3.25, 2.75. Other students and senior citizens $6.50, 5.50, 4.50.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations.

Maine's married seals expecting

ROCKPORT, Maine [UPI] — Andre the seal is pacing the cage and his wife, Smoke, has been fasting. Their trainer thinks Maine's only married seals may be expecting their first pups.

Harry A. Goodridge said he was "hoping that Smoke is pregnant. About a month ago she went on a hunger strike and was acting kind of funny. I don't know if it was because she started getting fresh fish and was spoiled or if maybe she's pregnant."

Andre gained national attention with his annual swims from his winter home in Boston to his summer home in Rockport. The seals were united in a watery ceremony last June that included singing the traditional march and the exchange of a kiss. Since then they've been living at Andre's summer home.

But it's almost time for Andre to be flown back to his winter home at the New England Aquarium in Boston. Smoke made the journey last week.

Goodridge said it was difficult to convince her to leave her husband. It took three hours to coax her from her pen and into a van so "the seals' love must be real," he said. Goodridge said that the spearation doesn't agree with Andre, either.

"The seals got along so well. Now Andre paces back and forth in his pen. He looks so lonesome," Goodridge said.

The trainer said the pacing may be good for Andre, though, since he ate all of Smoke's leftovers during her fast and gained weight.

Goodridge hopes the couple will be spending their summer together again next year.

"Id just as soon have her here if the aquarium will let me. I know Andre will want her," he said.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

We Buy Cars for cash 253-5384 323-5010

68 Galaxy 500 Ford. $700. 527-5746.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

1971 Pinto. New exhaust system, good tires, needs some engine work. Call 546-7945 evenings. Price negotiable.

1967 Datsun 411, mechanically sound, new battery, radials, $295. or B.O., 584-4307.

71 MGB exc. cond. $1,900 or B.O. 549-5993.

1975 Volvo 164, AC, cruise control, Michelins and snows, leather interior, excellent condition inside and out. Best Offer. Call 253-5349, you won't regret it.

72 Toyota Carina std., good condition. $1,100. or Best Offer. Call weekends or after 6P.M. 665-4925.

72 Vega Wagon. Good stereo system. Good cond. $850. Call 546-6879.

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

SUPER BIKE '74 KAW. Z-1 900cc. In very good condition. Kerker pipe, Denselube chain. OFFERS? 665-3031.

FOR SALE

Fender Bass-Music Master. Excel. cond., also Arthur E. Smith Maple Leaf 5-string Banjo. Excel. Cond. Best offer on both. Call Brian at 549-3796.

1 mth old FM stereo- fits in dash of most foreign cars. B.O. 546-5001.

2 Continental stud-snow radials 175-14 $160., 4 Fireston radials 155-13 $80.. 64580 ask Bill, evenings.

Ollie is a 7 month old Gordon Setter. He is completely housebroken and excellent with children. If interested call 549-6739.

SAVE up to 50% on TENNIS SHOES! Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18.-30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181

2 Continental stud-snow radials 175-14 $60., 4 Firestone radials 155-13 $80. 64580 ask for Bill, enenings.

G78,14 Snow Tires $40. Call 546-9617.

68 Galant elec. guitar w/hardshell case, Univox 50 watt AMP w/reverb etc. $135. takes all. 546-7985 after 7P.M.

1970 Fiat 850 Spyder Sport conv. Very good condition. Must be seen. $600. or best offer. 533-6025 Roger after 6:00P.M.

Gold Couch & Chair. Exc. cond. $150. 734-8464 after 5PM Spfld.

Men's size 44 brown leather coat. Almost new. $50. Call John at 549-0494.

Attention!! Joggers, B Ball players, S&G Enterprises sells excellent qualtiy sneakers at prices students can afford. Many famous brands GUARANTEED lowest prices anywhere. Call us before going to a high price retail. 546-9611.

FOR RENT

2 Bedrm. Apt. avail. imed. On bus line. Allows pets. 549-0839. 1 mile off campus.

Lg. Rm. avble. imm. Echo Hill Apt. $110/mo. Inc.:patio, w/w carpet, etc. 253-5288.

TO SUBLET

To sublet 2br. on bus route for sping semester and summer. Call 665-3536.

WANTED TO RENT

1 Bdrm. in Apt. complex. available immed. $70./mo. Call Mitch 253-5487.

Furnished Apt. on bus route. 1 bedroom $195.-All utilities included. 253-3336.

ROOM WANTED

Quiet undergraduate male seeks room in quiet house to hang his hat and study for spring semester, possibly January and for next two years, including summers. Willing to pay for own bath and kitchen, or easy access to them. Will live anywhere in area. Please call 545-3503 Mon. nites and ask for Joe or leave message for rm. 209 - 50724.

HELP WANTED

Vets-with Military Police experience-part time day work on weekends. Al Lasota 256-6381 eve.

Experienced Waitresses. Apply Poor Richards 11 to 1p.m. daily.

Bus companion wanted for 5 yr. old visiting Boston on weekends and returning. Some pay 586-4386.

LOST

Notebooks in Hampden D.C. Reward 546-5389.

T.I.SR-40 Calculator. Somewhere in or between Goes. 152 and Bluewall on Sept. 28 after 8p.m. Desperately need it for doing my assignments! Please return - Reward and No Questions asked. 256-6059.

TI Calculator between Southwest and Mahar, about October 10th. If found call 546-8921 REWARD.

Ladies silver Lucien Picard watch, near Newman Center on Sunday Oct. 16. Blue face and stem. Reward call Brian Dingman 5-0070 and leave name.

FOUND

Woman's glasses found in S.W. Call 68953.

ENTERTAINMENT

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco, Monitor Music, 546-4731, Rea.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low price & full service. All models avail. T159-$225., 58-$99.95, 51-$49.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. Models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators. 549-1316.

SERVICES

For A Good Layer Cake: Custom made & beautifully decorated birthday etc. Cakes on 2 days notice. Right on campus, (not associated with Campus Ed Service). Laurie 546-9576.

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models, low prices. Jack 586-0610.

BIRTHDAY CAKES!! All occasion cakes beautifully decorated to order on 2 days notice. Delivery available. Call Laurie 546-9576.

Expert Typing, only 40cents/page. Call after 6, Mon.-Thurs., 256-8484.

Collegiate research papers. Thousands on file. All academic subjects. Send $1. for mail order catalog. Box25918-2, Los Angeles, Calif. 90025 (213) 477-8474.

LUNCHEON & DINNER Served by HRTA Students. Oct. 24-27 Serving cider shrub,hrts. lettuce, beef au jus, pot., veg. rolls, apple crisp w/ice crm, & wine. Only $1.75. Rm.219 Chenoweth. Tix must be bot there in advance. Meals served Tues, Wed, & Thurs at 4:30 promptly.

PERSONALS

If your don't want to be locked into a 10 or 12 month lease-check with us about our new rental agreement. We have 1 and 2 bedroom townhouse and garden units starting at $195. plus utilities-call SOUTH MEADOW-256-0166 for more details.

I would like to express my gratitude to all those who supported my candidacy in the BOG Election. Mark L. Curelop.

Sisters of Tri-Sigma welcome our new Pledges- Beth Audesse, Darlene D'Amour, Tobi Lomker and Patti Maples. We'll sing in the sunshine of Tri-Sigma!!!

INSTRUCTION

PRACTICAL ACUPUNCTURE will be taught. Everybody has the chance to become a MEDICAL DOCTOR. Info Oct. 27, PM7:40,CC917.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Notices

FOUND
Men's prescription glasses found near Graduate Research Tower on Monday, Oct. 24. Steve 546-6936.

CHESS
There will be a meeting of the UMass Chess Club tonight, Wed., Oct. 24, in room 911-915 of the Campus Center from 7:30 till close.

YIPPIE SMOKE-IN
There will be a Yippie! Smoke-in at Amherst Commons on Thurs., Oct. 27 (Raindate Fri., Oct. 28) at High Noon. Live Music.

LOST
Cherry red leather pocketbook. Reward! If found contact Sue 549-1122.

ACCTS. ASSOC, AND BAP
Tomorrow Mr. William Curly of Arthur Anderson & Co. will be our guest speaker. This will be in Grad. Research on sixteenth floor.

PARACHUTE CLUB
Meeting tonight in CC 170 at 7:00. Home-movies by Ed Tompkins will be shown. All are welcome.

SKI PATROL
Important meeting for all patrollers and candidates. Please bring your dues. Thurs. 10-27, 8:00 p.m., CC 169.

LITTLE SISTERS
Meeting 7:30, Wed., Oct. 26th at Phi Mu Delta Pledge Chapel to be held at 8:00 for New Little Sisters. All girls welcome.

STUDENT UNION GALLERY
Presents: "Vidio Works" by Howardena Pindell, Mon., Oct. 31 – Fri., Nov. 11.

PRE-DENTS
Dr. Levine, Dean UConn dental school will speak tomorrow CC 165 at 1:30 p.m. All interested in dentistry urged to come.

LOST
Lost in Hampshire House Fri. Wilson tennis racquet (Billie Jean King Model). If found please contact 549-1202.

UMASS FIELD HOCKEY CLUB MEETING
Meeting today 8:00 p.m. Hamlin Meeting room (basement). Open to everybody.

BLOOD DONORS NEEDED
The Red Cross Blood Donor Center is located in the Public Health Center, N 344, and is open Tuesday 5-9, Wednesday 2-8, Thursday 5-9:30 — Take a study break and drop in.

MOBILIZATION FOR SURVIVAL
Meeting of anti-nuclear weapons group to discuss future strategy Oct. 26, Rm 306-SUB, 6:30 p.m. All invited.

PSYCHOLOGY MAJORS
Important Meeting tonight, 7:00 p.m. in 304 Tobin. Guest speaker from Community Development Center. Please try to attend!

UMASS HANG GLIDING CLUB
Meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m., Campus Center 101 for members willing to work on fund raising events to purchase hanggliders. We need help. Come if you want club hanggliders.

ASTRONOMY CLUB
Meeting tonite at 7 p.m. in Hasbrouck 44. John Briggs will give a talk on his Variable Star Work at the Maria Mitchell obs.

PASS-FAIL GRADING SYSTEM
An open hearing on the School of Education Course Grading System (presently pass-fail) will be held tomorrow at 10:00 in Campus Center 101. All interested students and faculty are invited to participate.

AIKIDO
UMass Aikido Club practicing at Boyden Gym 237 Monday and Friday 7-9 p.m., Sunday 2-4.

LOST
Green knapsack lost outside of Hatch, near bicycle rack. Call David at 549-0544.

DANGEROUS
Games of skill and death, whist, petal throne, Alpha-Omega; etc. All brave souls welcome Campus Center 904-908 Wednesday 3 p.m. to close.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE
The Fund for Theological Education is offering 3-year fellowships to all students who are graduating seniors or currently hold a bachelor's degree and plan to attend an accredited school of theology in the Fall. Grants are based on individual need. For more info contact UCF 428 Student Union 545-2789.

FORESTERS
The Society of American Foresters will meet in either Room 203 or 305 Holdsworth Hall at 7 p.m. Everyone is encouraged to attend.

SKI CLUB MEETING
Ski movies, door prizes, great people, new members welcome. Thompson 104, 8 p.m.

COMMUTER COLLECTIVE
Meeting today at 5:30 in the Commuter Lounge.

Jazz trumpeter, Woody Shaw will appear in SUB on Friday

Woody Shaw, noted jazz trumpeter and recording artist will perform at the Student Union Ballroom Friday.

Appearing with Woody Shaw will be his concert ensemble featuring Cater Jefferson on tenor, Jimmy Vass on alto, Steve Turre on trombone, Onaje Allan Gumbs on piano, Cliff Houston on bass and Victor Lewis on drums.

A veteran of the European jazz scene, Woody Shaw's latest album, "Live at the Berliner Jazztage", reflects Europes encouragement of the avant-garde.

Strengthened and more creative because of this influence, Woody Shaw and his ensemble should provide an exciting example of the kind of adventurous jazz being experimented with by Shaw and his other young contemporaries: Steve Lacey and Anthony Braxton.

Tickets are $2.50 (general admission), available at TIX Student Union — across from Post Office. They are also available in Amherst at Faces of Earth, Backroom Records, and Sun Music, and the Sound Room in Northampton.

This event is being sponsored by Union Program Council in association with WMUA. Future events include: A halloween party featuring Widespread Depression on Oct. 31, and Bobby Hutchinson on Nov. 19.

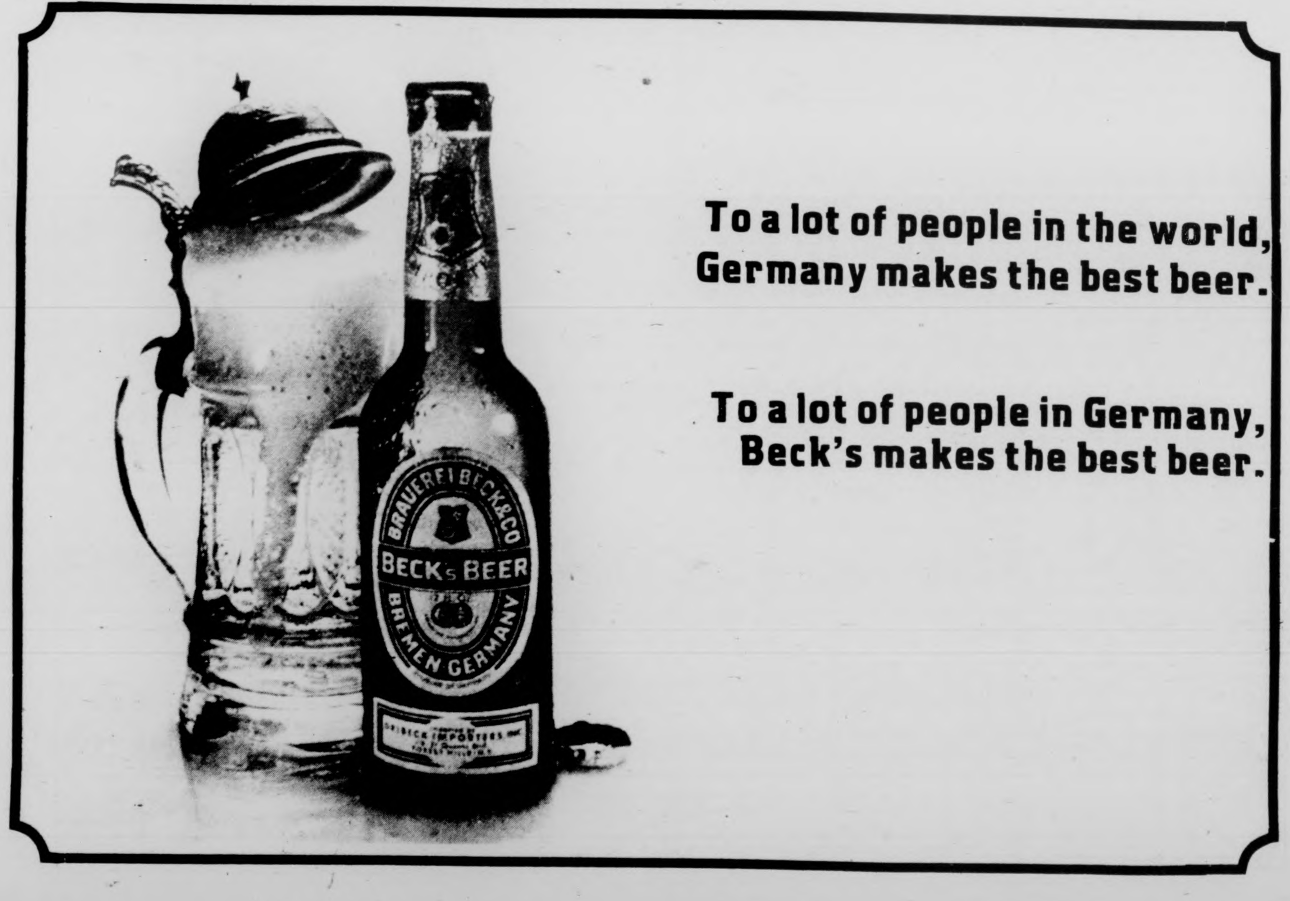
Sip into something Comfortable... great with COLA, TONIC, 7UP, BITTER LEMON, GINGER ALE, ORANGE JUICE, — even MILK!
So smooth. Easy to sip. Delicious! Comfort®'s unlike any other liquor. It tastes good just poured over ice. That's why it makes mixed drinks taste much better, too. Sip into something Comfort®able.

Southern Comfort®

© 1977 SOUTHERN COMFORT CORP

SOUTHERN COMFORT CORPORATION 100 PROOF LIQUEUR ST. LOUIS, MO 6313



BRAUEREI BECK & CO
BECK's BEER
BREMEN GERMANY
To a lot of people in the world, Germany makes the best beer.
To a lot of people in Germany, Beck's makes the best beer.

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

WELL, IT DOESN'T SEEM TO HAVE CHANGED MUCH, MIKE!
COLLEGE DORMITORIES HAVE A WAY OF ENDURING, ZONKER..
I CAN'T WAIT TO START STACKING EMPTY BEER CANS IN A PYRAMID ON THE MANTLE!
OH, YOU ROMANTIC!
BUT CAN YOU BELIEVE IT? WE'RE LIVING IN A DORM AGAIN! AN ACTUAL COLLEGE DORM!
THAT WE ARE, 'OL' BUDDY!
YOU PUT UP THE HOBBIT POSTERS! I'LL START MAKING THE CINDER BLOCK BOOKCASE!
IN A MINUTE! I WANT TO UNWIND WITH A LITTLE VONNEGUT FIRST..
© 1977 G. B. Trudeau UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE
10-26
GBTrudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

BOY, WE'RE IN FOR A ROUGH WINTER, ... LOOK AT THE SIZE OF THOSE WOOLLY WORMS!
WE'RE IN FOR A TOUGH WINTER, ACE, LOOK AT THE SIZE OF THOSE BUNIONS!
10-26
hart

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

HEY, STUPID CAT!
YOU HATE EVERYBODY, DON'T YOU? HOW DO YOU KEEP TRACK OF ALL THE PEOPLE YOU HATE?
SLASH!
THAT'S A GOOD SYSTEM
© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc
10-26
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

How long has it been since you've been watered?
Well, last April someone spilled beer all over me...
... but that doesn't count.
I never could hold beer.
Ranney 10/26

WHAT NEXT? by Dick Janssen

YOUR HONOR, ALTHOUGH THE ACCUSED IS ONLY ELEVEN YEARS OLD, HE IS CHARGED WITH MULTIPLE COUNTS OF ASSAULT AND ATTEMPTED MURDER.... WE WILL SHOW HOW HE BRUTALLY STABBED HIS TEACHER IN THE SIDE...
OBJECTION YOUR HONOR..
...THE DEFENSE INTENDS TO PROVE HOW THIS YOUNG BOY HAS BEEN BRAINWASHED BY LARGE DOSES OF TELEVISION.... IT HAS BEEN EXCESSIVE EXPOSURE TO MEDICAL PROGRAMS THAT CAUSED HIM TO TRY AN APPENDECTOMY....
...HE IS ALSO CHARGED WITH ASSAULTING HER ACROSS THE BACK OF THE HEAD WITH A HOCKEY STICK.....
..... YOUR HONOR, EXCESSIVE VIOLENCE IN TELEVISION SPORTS HAS AFFECTED THIS FRAGILE YOUNG MIND...
....AND HE IS FURTHER CHARGED WITH STUFFING HER INTO A LIGHTED OVEN....
.......WE HAVE GRAHAM KEAR AND JULIA CHILD AS EXPERT WITNESSES ON THE DANGEROUS INFLUENCES OF COOKING SHOWS
DJ 10/26

UM by Marty Maceda

MACEDA 10-26
LET'S GET OUTTA HERE! I DON'T LIKE THE VIBES.
I'M WITH YOU!

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

ONE DAY, BENB GETS HIS PHONE BILL.
FONE BENB
HE DECIDED TO GO OUT, BUT HIS CAR GOT TOWED!
LAFLER 10/26
THEN HE RECIEVED A CALL...
BENB? THIS IS ASSOCIATED CREDIT. YOU OWE 798.50 IN BACK PHONE BILLS!
BENB WAS SO BUMMED OUT, THERE WAS ONLY ONE THING TO DO...
SNIFF!

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 26 - Born today, you are a person of extremely high standards. Moral codes are to be maintained despite temptations. Those who fail to live up to their own standards are, in your view, cowardly and unprincipled. You enjoy competition but won't go out of your way to compete. You will go out of your way to find the company of the witty and wise.

You believe in your own ability to look into the future with accuracy. You base your conclusions regarding the future upon an instinctive understanding of the process of cause and effect – but in the eyes of friends and admirers, you are something of a profit, able to predict events with an uncanny accuracy. You are objective, fair, and straightforward, without being tactless.

Not one to be easily influenced, your independence of mind and body may lead you into some peculiar situations, but never into boredom. You may not know quite what your ultimate destiny will be, but you generally know what it will not be, which can be just as important and often just as exciting. Nerves play no part in your daily life; you are cool as a lawyer.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27

SCORPIO (Oct.23-Nov.21) - Though you may have to take a detour on the road to success, you certainly need not turn back. Time lost can be made up.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.22-Dec.21) - If you consolidate recent gains, you should be able to save almost all you've earned. Consult an expert.

CAPRICORN (Dec.22-Jan.19) - Intuition leads you where you want to go today. Take advantage of your ability.

AQUARIUS (Jan.20-Feb.18) - The insight you have into the motives of others might well be spent looking into your own motives.

PISCES (Feb.19-March 20) - Act ONLY upon reliable information with impunity. Otherwise, be prepared for a series of setbacks.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) - Your easy conversation and good humor makes you a welcome guest today. Bring calm to troubled waters in P.M.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) - Idealism and generosity go hand in hand today – as do idealism and overdoing a good thing. Take care with possessions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) - Your dynamic presence brings excitement to a dull project. Others welcome you today; be receptive.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) - Interest in a variety of subjects needn't mean less interest in particular favorites. You can't spread yourself too thin.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) - Excess and egotism are partners today. Don't over-indulge. Conceit brings you into a dangerous position late in the day.

VIRGO (Aug.23-Sept.22) - A knowledge of the causes of failure can help you avoid it, at least for today, from the docket.

LIBRA (Sept.23-Oct.22) - A hazardous adventure early in the day may cause you to hesitate when it comes to a new endeavor later on. Avoid superstition.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc

Today's Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Limping gait: Slang
5 Had an obligation
9 Cottage
14 Something unique: Slang
15 General reputation
16 — one: Easy mark
17 Mr. Harbach
18 Cause to stumble
19 Glazed items
20 Stews
22 Most forceful
24 Painfully
26 Finch
27 Water bodies
29 Dunce —
30 Scotland Yard chap
33 Overall scheme: 2 words
37 Grotto
38 — in the right direction
39 Have dinner
40 Kind of breath
41 Told a fib
42 Make over
44 Game of marbles
45 Interjection of surprise
46 Climb swiftly
47 Robt. A. and Wm. Howard
49 Light refracting devices
53 Odd-ball
57 Plant with blue berries
58 Kind of beet
59 He raised Cain
61 Total admission receipts
62 Wash lightly
63 Legal allegation
64 An Adams
65 Complete
66 Force to go
67 Enraptured: Slang

DOWN
1 Makes a faux pas
2 Musical passage: Informal
3 Length unit
4 Objected to
5 Ottawa's prov.
6 — of the Roses
7 Sends forth
8 Protests against
9 Feline delicacy
10 Place in a row
11 Peevishness
12 Actor Burl —
13 — egg
21 Rest period
23 Algerian port
25 Quick to the helm
28 Radar-patrolled areas: 2 words
30 Familiar farewell
31 Newt
32 Yield
33 Fountain creation
34 Great land mass
35 Meat-vegetable dish
36 Fall behind
37 Vehicles
40 Upholds
42 Great amount: Informal
43 Not our pub.
45 Newfoundland airport
47 Effectively concise
48 Edge along indirectly
50 Sole of a plow
51 Of the A.M.
52 Rain-snow mixture
53 Beige
54 Short memorandum
55 Isn't able 56 French city
60 Insane

Tuesday Puzzle Solved:

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| I | R | A | N | | C | A | L | F | | S | P | A | I | N |
| N | I | N | O | | A | L | E | E | | M | A | L | T | A |
| E | D | I | T | O | R | I | A | L | | U | N | D | E | R |
| R | E | M | I | T | | | N | O | W | | C | A | R | D |
| T | R | A | C | T | O | R | | N | E | A | R | | | |
| | | T | E | E | T | E | R | | T | R | E | A | T | S |
| P | R | E | | R | I | V | A | L | | C | A | P | R | I |
| A | I | D | S | | S | E | P | A | L | | S | P | E | T |
| S | O | L | I | D | | L | I | M | I | T | | R | Y | E |
| S | T | Y | L | E | S | | D | E | M | O | T | E | | |
| | | | K | N | O | T | | R | A | T | I | N | G | S |
| S | T | E | W | | W | A | S | | | E | N | T | R | E |
| T | U | D | O | R | | I | N | V | E | R | S | I | O | N |
| A | N | D | R | E | | L | A | I | N | | E | C | A | D |
| B | E | A | M | S | | S | P | E | D | | L | E | T | S |

Lyle wins Cy Young; beats out Palmer, Ryan

NEW YORK [UPI] — Sparky Lyle, a rubber-armed southpaw whose rescue operations saved the AL East title for the New York Yankees, became the first relief pitcher in American League history to win the Cy Young award yesterday when he outpointed three-time winner Jim Palmer of Baltimore in a balloting of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

PASTAL WINNERS

1958 — Bob Turley, New York Yankees
1959 — Early Wynn, Chicago White Sox
1961 — Whitey Ford, New York Yankees
1964 — Dean Chance, California Angels
X-1967 — Jim Lonborg, Boston Red Sox
1968 — Dennis McLain, Detroit Tigers
1969 — Mike Cuellar, Baltimore Orioles, and Dennis McLain, Detroit Tigers (tie)
1970 — Jim Perry, Minnesota Twins
1971 — Vida Blue, Oakland A's
1972 — Gaylord Perry, Cleveland Indians
1973 — Jim Palmer, Baltimore Orioles
1974 — Jim Hunter, Oakland A's
1975 — Jim Palmer, Baltimore Orioles
1976 — Jim Palmer, Baltimore Orioles
1977 — Sparky Lyle, New York Yankees

(X-prior to 1967 only one Cy Young award was given. Beginning in 1967 the award was presented to a recipient from each league.)

The 33-year-old Lyle, who saved 26 games and posted a 13-5 record with a 2.17 earned run average in 72 appearances during the regular season, received nine first place votes and 56-½ points to edge Palmer by 8-½ points in the most diversified balloting in the history of the award. Nine pitchers in all received votes from the 28 voting members of the BBWAA — two from each AL city — and Lyle won despite being left off 13 ballots.

The only other relief pitcher ever to win a Cy Young award was Mike Marshall of the National League's Los Angeles Dodgers in 1974.

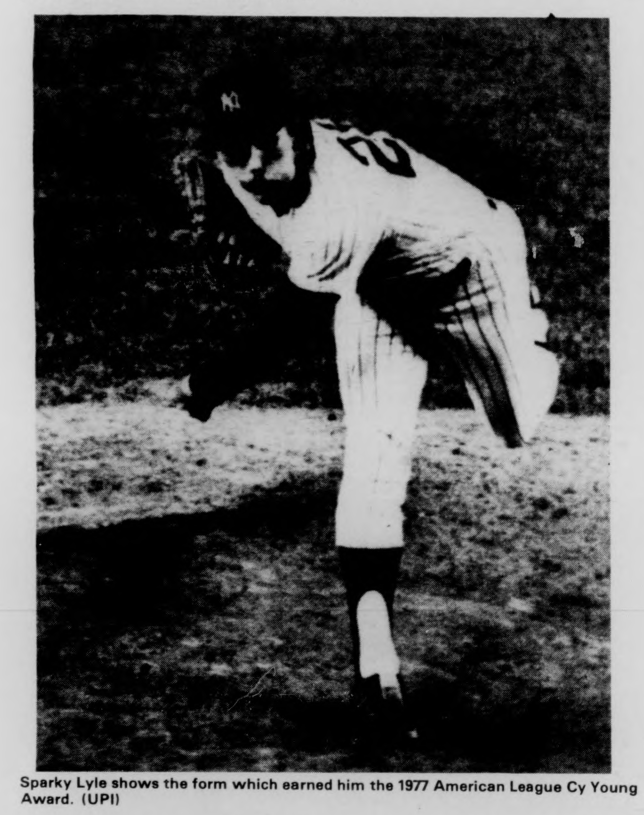
"I was shaking when I heard I'd won the award. It was the first time I've ever been nervous," confessed the normally cool and confident Lyle when reached by telephone at his Demarest, N.J., home. "There had been talk I was a candidate but I knew the only other relief pitcher ever to win a Cy Young was Mike Marshall and I wasn't in 110 games.

"I was hoping very much. Baseball has given me everything that I have and it's amazing that you keep getting more and more. Someday I hope I can give something back to the game."

Palmer, a 20-game winner for the seventh time in his career and the winner of the Cy Young award the previous two seasons, had six first place votes and 48 points to nose out strikeout king Nolan Ryan of the California Angels for second place. Ryan, a 19-game winner and the Major League leader in strikeouts with 341, also had six first place votes and received 46 points.

Dennis Leonard of Kansas City, another 20-game winner, finished fourth with 45 points, followed in order by relief ace Bill Campbell of Boston (25-½), 20-game winner Dave Goltz of Minnesota (19), Ron Guidry of New York (5), rookie Dave Rozema of Detroit (4) and Frank Tanana of California (3).

Lyle joins Bob Turley (1958) and Whitey Ford (1961) as the only Yankees ever to win the Cy Young award since its inception in 1955.



Sparky Lyle shows the form which earned him the 1977 American League Cy Young Award. (UPI)

O'Connell leaves with relief

BOSTON [UPI] — Former Boston Red Sox general manager Dick O'Connell yesterday expressed relief at being away from pressures of running a baseball team, and said he doesn't have any plans to move to another Major League city.

O'Connell, fired Monday after 31 years with the Red Sox, was interviewed by WH-DH radio at a Tuesday luncheon for John Kiley, longtime organist for Boston sports teams.

"I feel better than I did yesterday," he said. "As a matter of fact, I don't seem to have the worries I had in the last few months. It just feels very good at the present time. What the future holds, I do not know."

O'Connell was fired by the executors of late owner Tom Yawkey's estate. Also dismissed were vice president Gene Kirby, who handled the team's television and radio contracts, and assistant general manager John Claiborne, who did most of the player contract negotiating.

O'Connell, general manager since 1966, brought the Red Sox two pennants during his tenure. He said while running a team like the Red Sox is difficult, his years with the team were good ones.

"It's kind of difficult to run an organization such as the Red Sox," he said. "You have the press on you, undue publicity, and the religious attitudes people have toward the team. But all in all, it's been a good period of years. Something has to end, and it just ended."

Halloween Masks
&
Halloween Make-up
at
A.J. Hastings
45 S. Pleasant St.
Amherst

SCER GRADUATE "MINI-GRANT" PROGRAM

SCER, with funding from the Graduate Student Senate, is sponsoring a "Mini-Grant" program to encourage graduate students to conduct "Student Interest Research". The program offers one assistantship to a person willing to coordinate the program and provide research assistance as well as a limited number of $200 stipends to graduate students willing to conduct research on such topics as:

Collective Bargaining at UMASS--what's in it for Graduate Students

The "$3,600 syndrom": The problems of obtaining a degree with low pay and high expenses

Alternative investment possibilities for University funds. What do with the money no longer in South Africa

These are only some ideas. Any topic will be considered so long as it affects graduate education or student life at UMASS.

APPLICATION DEADLINE IS NOVEMBER 18th, 1977. Mini-Grant proposals will be reviewed on a "rolling" basis. Early application improves chances of funding.

APPLICATIONS ARE AVAILABLE AT SCER

scer STUDENT CENTER FOR EDUCATIONAL RESEARCH

406 Student Union

HATCH
presents
FAT
Thursday-Saturday
Oct. 27-29
Thursday Cover $1.00

TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT
U.MASS SKI CLUB MEETING
SKI MOVIES 8PM
DOOR PRIZES THOMPSON 104
New Members Always Welcome

NEW ENGLAND PREMIERE STARTS TONIGHT AT TWO AREA THEATRES 7:00 and 9:00 daily BANNED IN SPAIN
FURTIVOS
(POACHERS)
"ONE OF THE 10 BEST FILMS OF 1976"
English Critics Circle
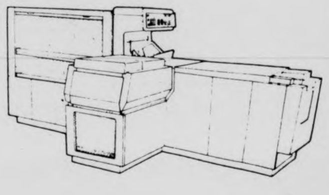
GRAND PRIZE — SAN SEBASTIAN FILM FESTIVAL
GRAND PRIZE — SOUTH AMERICAN FILM FESTIVAL
THIRD PRIZE — CHICAGO FILM FESTIVAL
MADE BY A MAN WHO LOVED HIS COUNTRY AND HATED HIS GOVERNMENT
A JOSE LUIS BORAU FILM
"FURTIVOS IS ONE OF THE BEST FILMS I HAVE EVER SEEN" - Luis Bunuel
AMHERST Cinema in amherst
ACADEMY OF MUSIC in northampton
No Dollar Nights This Attraction



COPYGRAFIX
358 NO. PLEASANT STREET
AMHERST Tel. 549-5266
HIGH QUALITY REPRODUCTIONS
ON XEROX 9200
DUPLICATING SYSTEM ...
1—99 one side 5¢ ea.

WE SPECIALIZE IN...

RESUMES & DISSERTATIONS
BINDING
COLLATING, PADDING
STAPLING
ENVELOPES (Min. 4 X 9)
BOOK COPYING
TYPING
ENVELOPE ADDRESSING
BUSINESS CARDS
LETTERHEADS AND STATIONARY
LAYOUT WORK REDUCTIONS

POSTER SIZE COPIES
20# WHITE
11 x 17 25 ea
14 x 18 35 ea

AMPLE FREE PARKING
MON-THURS 8:00-8:00
FRI 8:00-5:00
SAT 9:00-1:00

Collegian Pizza Bowl

Circle Team you think will win

Ties are losses

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1. New Hampshire | at | Rhode Island |
| 2. Boston College | at | Air Force |
| 3. Washington | at | UCLA |
| 4. Pennsylvania | at | Princeton |
| 5. Oklahoma State | at | Nebraska |
| 6. USC | at | California |
| 7. Indiana | at | Minnesota |
| 8. Oakland | at | Denver |
| 9. Pittsburgh | at | Baltimore |
| 10. Houston | at | Cincinnati |
| 11. Buffalo | at | Seattle |
| 12. San Diego | at | Miami |

Winner is determiend by person who picks most games correctly. In case of tie, winner is person coming closest to picking score of New England game.

New England —— New York Jets ——

If still tied, winner will be drawn.

Contest is open to all UMass students and employees. Entries (limit one per person) are due at the Collegian Sports Desk, 101 Campus Center, by 5 p.m. Friday.

Prize is one large plain pizza and a small soft drink at THE HIDEOUT, 103 N. Pleasant St.

NAME ———————
ADDRESS —————————
PHONE ——————————

Pizza Bowl wrap-up no. 2; a battle down to the wire

The Collegian Pizza Bowl for the weekend of October 22-23 was won by Mark Mordecai of Cliffside Apts., Sunderland. He correctly guessed 11 of the 12 games, the only blemish on his record being the USC-Notre Dame game.

As happened last week, the contest went down to the Monday night game. Mark and Tim Connors, a Dwight resident, were tied after the Saturday and Sunday games.

But Mark correctly picked Los Angeles after Minnesota, while Tim picked it the other way around. Better luck this time!

Since there is no UMass football game this weekend (due to an open date on the schedule), contestants are asked to pick the score of the Patriots — NY Jets game.

Good luck!

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

Re: The sports "columnists" of the Collegian:

Well, I know that you people must be in a state of shock right now — that is, if you haven't already committed suicide. I mean, what other alternative is there? Life just isn't worth living if the Yankees are known as the World Champions, is it? And for the rest of us, the poor souls who have to read your daily garbage on "those Yankees", what are we going to do? How can a day go by without at least one tasteful put down of the Yankees? And to think that Reggie Jackson — make that reggie jackson — had a small part in the victories, well, we don't want to hear about that, but then again, you people probably weren't even going to mention it, anyway. Don't worry, you don't have to. We realize that to write anything remotely resembling a compliment about the Yankees — make that the yankees — would just be too much for your sacred pens to handle.

But there were just so many things that New York — make that new york — did wrong, that I'm sure we'll be hearing about all of them soon enough. Didn't Jackson make a bad relay through in that 6th game? Sure he did, you can read all about that and many other Yankee tragedies in the Globe from that fabulous [fabulously stupid] Bob Ryan. [Does he write for the Collegian?) And didn't Jackson look foolish waving his hat to the crowd after his third homer? Jim Rice looked much better when he popped his clutch three. You remember those — he hit them against that Western Division powerhouse in a loss that helped the Yanks back into the pennant. They had to be a powerhouse if they beat the late, great Red Sox — make that the RED SOX. And didn't Jackson look stupid watching all those homers hit over his head [actually, two were to left], off to Catfish Hunter [right, catfish hunter]?

But enough of Jackson, we all know how bad he really is. So don't write about him, or Munson, or Guidry, or Torrez, write about Nettles, and Chambliss, and Hunter. After all they are the ones who really played the way we know the Yanks should. But I won't mention any of their plights, you can take care of that during the next few weeks. We'd all love to hear about them, about last year's Series with the Reds, and above all, about that great '75 Series that Sox fans still can't stop talking about [at least if they had won ... ]. And even if you mercifully don't write about them, I realize that I won't be without your words of wisdom for long. I'm sure that we'll be reading soon enough about the Rangers and Knicks — make that the rangers and knicks — and the rest of those awful teams from the Big [rotten?] Apple.

Corey Rinker

The UMass equestrian drill team is seen here practicing at Tillson Farm prior to its exhibition before 8,000 people at Ledyard '77.

Hercule Poirot investigates UConn hex over UMass

By MICHAEL McHUGH
Collegian Staff

.... and the mystery continues.

The winless UConn Huskies went into their "upset" act again last Saturday at Storrs, and almost beat a far superior UMass Minutemen 11. The UMies barely escaped the Huskies' fangs by eking out a 10-0 victory.

You might say the UMies won by the skin of the Huskies' teeth.

The Huskies, with an 0-6 record, were supposed to go home at halftime and concede the second half of their Homecoming to the powerful UMass Minutemen. Right?

Wrong.

Past history of UConn-UMass sports encounters has dictated the contrary. With as much mystery and intrigue as an Agatha Christie novel, the Huskies have mysteriously managed to become the No. 1 thorn in the UMies' side.

But why?

How could an 0-6 team even challenge a 5-1 team, which had outscored its opponents by a whopping 177-35 (excluding the Army opener)?

"Je ne comprends pas, Monsieur. You vant me to go down to zee store and find zee dog on zale? Then you vant me to find zee mysterious torn in zomeone's zide? Zat vill cost you a lot of money and time."

"No, No, No. I want you to go down to Storrs, Connecticut and find out 'why' the UConn football teams manage to defy logic and reason by beating or almost beating superior UMass football teams. Comprendez-vous?"

"Oui. I vill go immediately. But remember it vill cost you zots of money."

Hopping back into his chopper, Hercule and his pilot just missed a head-on crash with JFK Tower and took off in the direction of Storrs.

Then, the agonizing wait. Minutes turned into hours, hours into days, and days into weeks.

I had just about given up hope when a wine-drenched, tazmanian devil type of guy spins into the Collegian office and screams:

"Voila. I huv zolved zee mystery."

"Great! What is it?"

"First, I vant zee money."

Grudgingly I pulled out $7.50 and gave it to the stingy guy. Then I said, "Okay Shoot?" (forgetting I was talking to a foreigner).

Commentary

How could an 0-6 team even walk on the same field with a team that had a defense with two shutouts in six games?

How could an 0-6 UConn squad slip into Alumni Stadium last year and beat a 4-1 UMass team by a 28-6 score?

The answer isn't simple.

That's why I contacted my good friend Hercule Poirot in Brussels, so that I could hopefully find someone who could untangle this mysterious caper.

Now Hercule is one of those unconventional types that has to do things secretively, but I never expected him to land his Belgium helicopter on top of the library.

"I thought you were gonna land on Whitmore?"

"I wuz Monsieur, but I heard that zee hard heads in Whitmore vould make for zee hard landing. However, I heard that zee librarie wuz sinkin' and deesided that it vould make zee softer landin'."

"Alright," I retorted, "enough of the foolishness, I've got a big job for you. I want you to go down to Storrs and find out 'why' the Huskies are a thorn in the Minutemen's side."

Hercule pulled out his gun, but realizing my mistake I rectified the situation by saying: "I mean — tell me UConn's secret for upsets."

Hercule sat down and spilled out the mystery: "it'z zimple. Before each ZooMass game, zee ZooConn coach defies zee logic by tearing zee physics books into little pieces. Zen, he vrites on zee locker vroom vall that Einstein was for the oiseaus (birds), Newton bites, and Copernicus iz a sun of a bitch. Copernicus iz zee name of zee Huskies mascot that has rabies. Vhen he hears that his mother wuz a bitch, Copernicus goes crazy and bites zee Zoo-Conn players before zee ZooMass games. Zen, all zee ZooConn players go crazy with zee rabies in their zystem and allows them to defy zee logic vhen play ZooMass."

Hercule stood up from his chair and said straight-faced: "It'z az zimple az that. Au Revoir, Monsieur."

As Mark Twain might say, it sounds like a "real stretcher", but coming from the super sleuth from Belgium it might be the truth.

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY — UMass 1 Plymouth State 0
TODAY
VARSITY MEN'S SOCCER — vs. Westfield State Home 3:00
JUNIOR VARSITY VOLLEYBALL — vs. Franklin Pierce-Berkshire CC Home 6:00

Sports Notices

HOCKEY — All men and women interested in playing ice or street hockey — there will be a meeting tomorrow night at 9 p.m. in room 20, Hasbrouck.

INTRAMURALS — Boyden gym free play hours for the rest of the semester are Monday — Friday 12-5 p.m.

Volleyball started last Monday — all managers should have picked up their team's schedules.

NOPE basketbaal courts will be closed today and Saturday for volleyball games.

Drill team shows off

By SUSAN SCANLON
Collegian Staff

The days, weeks, and months of difficult training all paid off for the UMass equestrian drill team last Sunday, as it dazzled the audience at Ledyard '77.

An estimated crowd of 8,000 plus the television cameras of Channels Four and Two, and the film crew of MGM's new movie, International Velvet, were there to enjoy what was considered by many to be the highlight of the final day of the Ledyard International Three-day Event.

The luck was surely with UMass that day, as the sun appeared only once; during the drill team performance. The brilliance of the horses and riders, combined with the precision of each movement ridden to classical music, brought many of the viewers to their feet in applause.

For the UMass equestrian drill team, the months of hard work were well worth it. With its great success comes international recognition and quite possibly some strong financial support to fulfill its long-hoped for dream of an indoor riding school for the UMass riding program.

Try-outs for openings in the 1978 equestrian drill team will be held next Monday at 4:30 at Tillson Farm. For more information, call 545-0260.

Weaver named top manager

BALTIMORE [AP] — Earl Weaver, who led the Baltimore Orioles to 97 victories and a surprising second-place Eastern Division tie behind the world champion New York Yankees, was named American League Manager of the Year yesterday in a landslide vote.

"It's certainly an honor, and I'm proud," Weaver said, "but it's a tribute to the Baltimore organization and the ballplayers. Nothing counts unless the guys a manager calls on to do the job can do it."

Weaver received 248 votes in a nationwide poll of writers and broadcasters conducted by The Associated Press. Whitey Herzog of the Western Division champion Kansas City Royals was a distant runner-up with 54 votes.

Chicago's Bob Lemon, who had the White Sox in contention in the West most of the season, was third with 52, followed by Billy Martin of the Yanks with 38. Martin won the award last year with the Yanks and in 1974 with the Texas Rangers.

Billy Hunter, a longtime Weaver coach who rallied the Rangers after becoming their fourth manager of 1977 in July, received 12 votes. Don Zimmer of the Boston Red Sox, who tied the Orioles for second, was named on seven ballots and Gene Mauch of the Minnesota Twins received the remaining five.

"It seems like a lot of times the voters look for a dark horse," Weaver said before heading to Hilton Head, S.C., and Hialeah, Fla., for a month's vacation. "But I think the honor belongs to the winner."

Weaver expressed similar feelings when the voters overlooked him back in 1969-71 when the Orioles won a league record 318 games in three consecutive seasons and advanced to the World Series each time.

The fiesty skipper originally didn't win Manager of the Year honors until 1973.

UNITED TRANSMISSION EXCHANGE INC.
all make car and truck transmissions
Repaired Rebuilt Exchanged
236 Pleasant St
Northampton, Mass
584-6790

POSITION OPEN

•Applications are being accepted for salaried position of Student Government Association Director of Communications.

•The director is responsible for keeping students aware of SGA activities and aiding the exchange of information within the SGA.

•Duties include the production of advertising, brochures, flyers, and booklets as well as issueing press releases and administering a staff of three persons working in the Office of Communications.

•Experience in any field of communications is desirabe. Pick up applications in Rm.420 Student Union. The SGA is an affirmative action equal opportunity employer.

Student Government Association

Styles by Deborah for men & women
ARE YOUR HAIRCUTS
ALWAYS A SURPRISE?
Now there's a haircutter who will tell you how your hair will look before you sit in the chair.
Call or Drop in for a Free Consultation
549-5610
65 Univ. Dr. Amh.
We use and recommend REDKEN
shampoo, cut & style dry $7.50
Long Hair Slightly More
with this coupon on Tues. or Wed. only
Offer limited to new customers.

The rusty nail Inn
FRI. & SAT., Oct. 28-29
JAMES COTTON BAND
ED SHAW AND THE HOWLIN' WOLF BAND
WED., NOV. 2
POUSETTE-DART
SPECIAL GUESTS
THE BRICKER BAND
rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665·4937

PROFESSIONAL OFFICE
AMHERST CENTER
$150 includes all utilities
D.H. Jones Real Estate Agency
200 Triangle St
Amherst, Mass 01002
(413)549 3700

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
LAZAR BERMAN,
Legendary Soviet Pianist
"The Phenomenon of the Music World", Emil Gilels
Wednesday, October 26 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale Gen. Pub.-$7, 6, 5. UM-A-$3.50, 3, 2.50. Others students and senior citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations.

The rusty nail Inn
presents
Tonite, Wed., Oct. 26
BONGO MOON
Thurs., Oct. 27
ZONKARAZ
Fri. & Sat., Oct. 28 & 29
JAMES COTTON
also ED SHAW and the HOWLIN' WOLF BAND
Every Sunday
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/Tel.665-4937

Best showing ever

Netwomen 6th in NE

By ELLEN DAVIS
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's tennis team ended its season last week by placing sixth in the New Englands, the best a UMass team has ever done.

In the season finale, held at Amherst College Friday and Saturday, the Minutewomen were competing against 84 singles players and 82 doubles teams from 40 schools.

The team scored 15 points, one for each match won.

Representing UMass were singles players Cathy Maher and Lee Robb, and the doubles teams of Jennifer Ranz and Dawn Minaai and Cathy Sullivan and Sherrie Lurie.

Fifth-seeded Ranz and Minaai made it to the quarter finals, before losing to Harvard, 1-6, 2-6. In their first three matches, they defeated Springfield, 6-3, 6-1, Southern Connecticut, 6-3, 6-1, and Williams, 6-7, 6-2, 6-3.

In the singles competition, Maher netted three points for Umass, before being stopped by third-seeded Wendy Jenning of Trinity, 0-6, 1-6. In her earlier matches, Maher beat Fairfield, 6-4, 6-0, Amherst, 6-3, 2-6, 6-1, and Brown, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Lee Robb was stopped by fourth seeded O'Halleron of Boston University, but not until after she had defeated Keene State, 6-0, 6-2, and UMaine, Presque Isle, 6-0, 6-1.

The New Englands came at the end of a 5-4 season for UMass. Coach Bill Yu said the Minutewomen would have had a 7-4 record, but two easy matches at the end of the season were cancelled.

The five victories they had were over Springfield, Smith, Boston College, Keene State, and Southern Connecticut, while their losses were to UNH, Tufts, Mount Holyoke, and Dartmouth.

Although the fall season is over, the Minutewomen are going to continue playing the rest of the year, said coach Bill Yu.

They will be practicing over the winter at the indoor courts at Hampshire, in preparation for more competition in the spring.

To raise money for the extra spring season, the team is having an "Alumni Phone-a-Thon" tonight and Thursday night.

The money raised will enable them to schedule matches in the Boston area, which would be more competition, according to Yu.

"We have already scheduled local matches," said Yu.

Junior Cathy Sullivan has been elected captain for the Spring season.

Celts snap losing skid

HARTFORD, Conn. [UPI] — Dave Cowens scored 23 points and helped the Boston Celtics survive several second-half counterattacks by the Atlanta Hawks to carve out a 110-103 triumph last night for their first National Basketball Association victory of the season.

Boston never trailed but was never able to pull away from the tenacious Hawks.

Boston rolled to a comfortable 32-18 first period lead and was up 59-48 at intermission. Twice in the first half, the Celtics held 16-point margins.

Then, with John Drew leading the way, Atlanta closed the gap and tied the score, 69-69, on a jump shot by Drew with 3:41 left in the third period.

Ageless Celtics Captain John Havlicek sent the Celtics ahead with a hook shot. Two free-throws by Curtis Rowe, followed by two more by Dave Bing, boosted the Celtics ahead, 75-69. Several times in the remaining minutes Atlanta cut the lead to three points. But the Hawks were unable to tie the game.

With a little more than one minute to go, the Hawks trailed 106-103, but foul shots by Sidney Wicks and Jo Jo White built Boston's final seven-point margin.

Just before the finish, referee Wally Rooney ejected Atlanta Coach Hubie Brown. The coach tried to reach Rooney apparently with a fight in mind but was held back by Atlanta players.

Cowens, who fouled out with 3:06 to go had 23 points. Wicks scored 19, White 17, Havlicek 17 and Bing 10. Top shooters for Atlanta were Drew with 24 and Charlie Criss with 21.

John Havlicek, who scored 17 points, drives around Steve Hawes in last night's game. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

URI dumps JV gridders, 10-0

By KIRK MACKEY
Collegian Staff

The UMass junior varsity football team dropped a tight one to Rhode Island Monday, 10-0, in an away game. Coach Clarence Brooks blamed the loss on "basically showing no offense at all."

The Rams converted on a couple of the many UMass mistakes, and it proved to be all that was necessary to register the victory.

A bad UMass punt snap in the second quarter gave Rhody the ball deep in Minuteman territory. The Rams then broke through the stubborn Minuteman defense and drove in for their 7-0 halftime lead. Good U.R.I. field position was again the reason for its third quarter field goal which closed out the scoring.

The UMass JV's offense was a comedy of errors throughout the entire day. Unable to sustain any real drives, it became first down, second down, third down, punt. When the Minutemen did manage to get something going major penalties, turnovers, and mental errors halted them.

The defense, on the other hand, contributed the only source of pride for the afternoon. In the hole most of the day, it held its ground and URI was lucky to score the points it did. Pete Lambert's and Jack Mula's interceptions were major highlights as the defensive secondary continued its rugged leadership.

The Minutemen are looking for a more pleasant outcome and hope to put a scare into the AIC JV's Monday on Halloween at Alumni Stadium.

Texas grabs grid top spot

NEW YORK [UPI] — The eyes are on the University of Texas this week as the nation's no. 1 college football team, but the Longhorns would have to have a short memory to forget last year's 31-28 loss to Texas Tech when they meet the Red Raiders this Saturday.

Texas, a back-to-back national champion in 1969-70, ripped Southern Methodist, 34-14, last Saturday as All-America candidate Earl Campbell shredded the Mustang defense for 213 yards rushing.

With Michigan toppled from the top rating to no. 6 by Minnesota's 16-0 upset, the United Press International Board of Coaches elevated Texas from second place to no. 1 with 38 first place votes and 398 points. Texas brings a 6-0 record into Saturday's game against a 5-1 mark for 13th ranked Texas Tech.

The surprising Longhorns were figured no better than a no. 4 choice in the Southwest Conference in pre-season ratings after finishing 1976 with a 5-5-1 record.

"I know you probably won't believe it, but we haven't talked that much about the ratings and polls," Texas coach Fred Akers said before learning of the no. 1 ranking. "Our problem is a little bit closer to home and a little bit more immediate."

Alabama moved into the no. 2 slot on the bases of 338 points, including one first place vote, and Oklahoma, a 35-16 victor over Iowa State, jumped three notches to no. 3. The Sooners' lone loss in seven games was a 13-6 defeat at the hands of Texas.

Ohio State, suffering its only setback when Oklahoma beat the Buckeyes on a last minute field goal, was voted into fourth place, while Notre Dame climbed into the top 10 with a devastating 49-19 upset over Southern California.

Arkansas shut out Houston, 34-0, and rose one place to no. 7. Penn State, 6-1, also moved up one spot to no. 8 following a 49-28 triumph over West Virginia.

★ 14 All new Dial-a-Fabric Maytag washers and dryers
★ 2 Large load heavy duty washers
★ 4 Large all temperature dryers
MAYTAG LAUNDRY
Rt 116 Sunderland
(next to 7-11)
open 8:30 am - 9pm
7 days a week
Attendant on duty

Collegian Sports

Lyle cops Cy Young award, p. 20

Netwomen place sixth in NE, p. 23

Booters to meet Westfield today

By JACK ATKINSON
Collegian Staff

The UMass soccer team will take on the Owls of Westfield State this afternoon at 3:00 behind Boyden.

The Minutemen bring a 5-4 season's record, including two victories in their past two games, into the contest while Westfield checks in at 12-2.

UMass, though, is the only Division I team that the Owls have on their schedule, as most of their opponents have much smaller enrollments than the Minutemen's.

Not that Westfield will be any sort of a pushover: 12-2 is still excellent record. The Owls' scoring is concentrated among Chris Roukas, Frank DaSilva, and John Vassalla. Westfield is also quite solid in the net, as its record indicates. Overall, the Owls should give the MInutemen a good run for their money.

"We have to win all the games we have left," says UMass coach Russ Kidd, "and by our schedule, I think we should. If we do win them, then we could just sneak into the ECAC playoffs. If we don't win them, we don't deserve to make it. We have nothing to gain (in the New England rankings) by winning, we can only lose."

After today's game, UMass will take on the Eagles of Boston College in a home match on Saturday afternoon.

NEW ENGLAND RANKINGS

| | PTS |
|---|---|
| 1. Brown (6-4-1) | 47 |
| 2. Vermont (9-21-1) | 46 |
| 3. Dartmouth (6-2-1) | 43 |
| 4. Rhode Island (5-3-1) | 35 |
| 5. Harvard (4-2-3) | 29 |
| 6. BU (7-4-2) | 27 |
| 7. Yale (7-4-0) | 22 |
| 8. UMass (5-4-0) | 21 |
| 9. UConn (6-8-1) | 15 |
| 10. Bridgeport (5-7-0) | 8 |

YANKEE CONFERENCE

| | W | L | PCT. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Rhode Island | 4 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Vermont | 5 | 1 | .833 |
| New Hampshire | 2 | 2 | .500 |
| BU | 2 | 3 | .400 |
| UMass | 2 | 3 | .400 |
| UConn | 2 | 3 | .400 |
| Maine | 0 | 5 | .000 |

Lynsie Wickman (r) scored the only goal yesterday in the UMass field hockey team's 1-0 win at Plymouth State. The victory raised their record to 7-1-2 on the year. Kathy Gipps posted the shutout for the Minutewomen. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Mike Fallon rejoices after scoring a touchdown. He and his teammates are now rated fifth in the country. (Staff photo by Dave Rodman)

UMass climbs to fifth; UNH tops in nation

The UMass football team has moved up to fifth spot in the latest National Division II poll.

In the rankings released yesterday from NCAA headquarters in Mission, Kan., the Minutemen garnered 45 votes to take over the spot, which was held last week by North Dakota State.

North Dakota State moved up to fourth, while New Hampshire inherited the top spot, which was held last week by North Carolina State. The Bulldogs dropped to second.

UNH, by virtue of a 28-13 win over Northeastern and a South Carolina State 13-13 tie against Newberry College, received 59 votes to the Bulldogs' 56.

Montana State, which last week was third, dropped out of the top 10 due to a loss to Idaho. Northern Michigan moved up a notch to third from its previous fourth ranking.

DIVISION II

1. New Hampshire (7-0) 59
2. South Carolina St. (6-0-1) 56
3. Northern Michigan (7-1) 48
4. North Dakota St. (5-1-1) 47
5. Massachusetts (6-1) 45
6. Tennessee Tech (7-0) 44
7. Nevada-Reno (6-1) 38
8. California-Davis (6-0) 28
8. Winson-Salem (N.C.) (6-0) 28
10. Bethune-Cookman (Fla.) (6-1) 27
10. NE Missouri St. (6-1) 27

Judy Van Handle

The showdown looms

This is getting to be very interesting.

As short a time ago as last weekend, a lot of college football fans thought that the Nov. 12 game between UMass and New Hampshire would mean little else except the Yankee Conference title.

But now, with yesterday's release of the latest Division II football rankings, a new twist has been thrown into the proceedings.

If all goes as expected between now and that afternoon in Durham, the clash between the Minutemen and the Huskies could very possibly be for the number one ranking in the national Division II poll.

UNH is now considered to be the number one middle-sized football school in the nation, while UMass is now regarded as number five.

Of course, Southern Carolina State, Northern Michigan, and North Dakota State, the schools ranked between the Huskies and the Minutemen, probably have something to say about that, but the feeling I get is that the Nov. 12 meeting may be one of the biggest football games that New England has seen for a long time.

Consider these facts: before its season-ending clash with UMass, New Hampshire will play Rhode Island and Springfield.

Now although the Rams beat Boston University behind a healthy Steve Tosches, they realistically pose little threat to the UNH steamroller.

And Springfield, though playing very well, has yet taken on a team of the Wildcats' caliber.

The Minutemen, after this Saturday's open date, will play Holy Cross in their last home game of the season. And the Crusaders aren't exactly what you'd term a football powerhouse.

Thus the probable setting: 9-0 UNH against 7-1 UMass,. with two of those Minutemen wins having come at the expense of Division I schools.

The Minutemen have been creeping up in the Division II national rankings all season. They have climbed another step up the ladder each week, while the Wildcats, after a South Carolina State tie against a tiny school named Newberry College and a win of their own over Northeastern have finally gained the top spot.

It seems a bit unfair that New Hampshire should be ranked so high. Okay, so the Wildcats have gone undefeated, won all their games by impressive margins (save for a couple), and boast one of the best running backs around. But just how good are they?

You'll never be able to tell from their schedule. New Hampshire plays exactly one Division I team, and the Division II squads they take on in independent games could hardly be considered powerhouses.

Not that any other highly-ranked Division II schools play bigger schools, either. But it seems a gross injustice that a team that plays Division I opponents like Harvard and shuts them out would not be rated just a little higher.

But that's the way the pollsters operate. Often times it doesn't matter who you play, just if you beat a team and beat it big.

All a school like UMass would have to do if it wanted a higher divisional ranking would be to play the Central Connecticuts, the West Chester States, and the Springfields and lay it on them but good.

The Minutemen, though, schedule Division I teams. Of their five independent games, only one is against a Division II school. And Youngstown State, the only Division II non-Yankee Conference opponent, is certainly a cut above the independent schools New Hampshire plays.

In essence, the first time New Hampshire will be tested all season will be in its final game of the year. An upset can happen in the interim between now and Nov. 12, but the Wildcats will most likely be laying their undefeated record on the line when it takes on UMass.

Even if New Hampshire loses, chances are good that it will be invited to post-season competition in the form of the national Division II playoffs. But for UMass, a victory over the Wildcats is an essential if the Minutemen hope to be chosen for the playoffs.

It is shaping up to be a super game, this battle in two weeks between the class of the Yankee Conference.

Most people can't wait already.

---

HAHJEE'S PLACE

Midway between Amherst & Northampton on Rt. 9. Discover a unique restaurant featuring PERSIAN SPECIALTY FOODS.

Our DINNER MENU offers a selection of PERSIAN SPECIALTIES, SHISHKABOBS, CREPES, VEGETARIAN DISHES, SEAFOOD DELIGHTS. After dinner enjoy a delightful Dessert Crepe, Parfait or Baklavah with a cup of Turkish or Arabic coffee. Enjoy a refreshing cocktail or glass of beer or wine with your meal.

Mon.-Thurs. 4:30-11:00p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 12-2
Sun. 12-11
584-9797
Rt 9 Hadley

THE RESTAURANT IS NOW OPEN!!!

Featuring:

FRESH FRUIT & VEG. JUICES
SOUPS & SALADS
BAGELS & PASTRY

OPEN Mon.-Sat. 9:30-6:00

★LOCATED AT FACES OF EARTH★

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN

NOW OPEN 'TIL 2 A.M.

Sandwiches · Cold Cuts
Bagels · Salads
OPEN AT 9AM · 7 DAYS · 549-6314

BURGER KING

Buy one WHOPPER® sandwich, get another WHOPPER free.

Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer. Void where prohibited by law. This offer expires Nov. 2, 1977
Good only at:
Mountain Farms Mall
Hadley, Mass.

BURGER KING

Have it your way.®

HUNAN GARDEN RESTAURANT
(Formerly South China)
家 酒 園 南 湖
Mandarin Szechuen Cuisine
* Open 7 days a week *
Mon.-Thur. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri.-Sun. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.

Specials
LUNCHEON $1.25 & up
DINNER $3.95
main course: choice of Szechuan Spiced Chicken or Sweet & Sour Shrimp
Dinner includes: spare rib eggrole, chicken wing, fried rice & hot and sour shrimp
Mon.-Wed. 5:00-8:00 pm

10 Belchertown Rd.
Rt. 9, Amherst
256-0251
256-0252
Banquet Facilities

WHERE CAN A PIZZA LOVER FIND SATISFACTION?

University Pizza

located across from Southwest dorms at UMass

549-5592

Whole Wheat Trading Co.

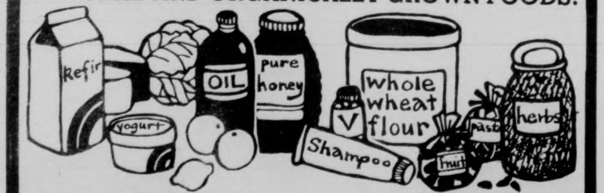
SUPPLYING THE AREA WITH A FULL LINE OF NATURAL AND ORGANICALLY GROWN FOODS.



181 N. Pleasant St., Amherst, 253-5169

Largest Subs in the Amherst Area!!

Eric's Giant Subs

— HOT & COLD SUBS —
Turkey, Roast Beef, Hot Pastrami, Sausage & Egg, Tuna, Ham, and more!

Try Us & See
if they aren't the tastiest subs in the Amherst area.
also
FRIED CHICKEN, SEAFOOD and SOUPS

Rte. 9 253-9521 314 College St.

Dining Out in Amherst-

There's something for everyone in Amherst. From pretzels to chopsticks, any connoisseur will find satisfaction from the area's many delights. Without a doubt, you'll find good food and enjoyment in the many restaurants, delies, and bakeries Amherst has to offer.

by Debbie Snyder

Sundaes good any day of the week

by Lauren Traub
Collegian Staff

The jaunt through neighborhood ice cream threatened to wreak havoc with my figure, yet the research was never a chore. Herewith a representative sampling of what can be found in the name of hot fudge sundaes in the greater Amherst area.

The five contestants were two national ice cream chains, a smaller chain, and two small independents. Baskin Robbins, Howard Johnsons, McManus, Just Desserts, and Bart's Ice Cream Corner. (Although Bart's on Main Street in Northampton is more than a short hop from campus, it is convenient from the Smith College Five-College bus stop, and is well worth mentioning.)

The sundaes were rated on: the ice cream, hot fudge, whipped cream, nuts, relative price, and since no sundae is an island, the atmosphere setting the mood for each sundae. Calorie content was not a consideration.

For ice cream quality, Howard Johnson's was the leader. The ice cream was hard enough to withstand the hot fudge so that it slid off in rivulets and was very creamy with a good coffee flavor. Bart's ice cream, which we rated second, is made off the premises but under the strict, watchful eye of the senior staff members. Bart's features "basic" flavors, and deluxe flavors for 10 cents more per scoop. We tried one of the basic flavors. The deluxe flavors have a higher butterfat content and fresh fruit, or double the flavoring. For example, Dutch chocolate has twice the cocoa content of basic chocolate.

McManus ice cream was average; no compliments, but no complaints. Just Desserts' ice cream, made right in the shop, has a tendency toward ice crystals, and on a few occasions I found it too soft. Baskin Robbins has a large repertoire of flavors, but the texture is too soft, with no body or personality, and leaves a bogus, sweet, harsh aftertaste.

Baskin Robbins' hot fudge also left an aftertaste, and didn't taste chocolatey. Just Desserts and McManus both had pretty good hot fudge. HoJo's had a good bittersweet chocolate flavor, and Bart's was

Turn to page 6

Cover photo by Lauren Traub

Bell's Pizza House

"Remember the name because you'll never forget the taste."

Bell's Pizza.

Free Delivery on Campus Sun.-Thurs.

253-9051
549-1311
65Univ. Drive

Bring a Friend!

Sunday—Noon to Nine

BUY 1
GET 1
FREE

The EXCALIBURG
PLATTER

featuring 5 ounces of 100% Pure Beef, on a Bulkie Roll, with Lettuce, Sliced Tomatoes, Cole Slaw, and French Fries.

and... 4 to 8 pm
SUNDAY GOODTIME HOUR

Qt. Pitchers of Beer for $1⁰⁰

THE PUB
AMHERST

PLAN TO EAT AT

The Hideout

Pizza-Grinders-Sandwiches-Cold Drinks
103 North Pleasant Street Amherst

Hours 11:30-1 a.m. Daily
til 2:00 on Weekends

home baked breads and rolls — our specialty

LUNCHEON SPECIALS DAILY

OUR EXCLUSIVES: Canadian Pizza & Eggplant Parmesan Grinders

FASTEST DELIVERY IN TOWN

We deliver every day from 5:00 till closing, from 3:00 on Sunday.

DELIVERY SPECIALS

256-0441

Buy a large combo pizza
& get a quart of Coke FREE!
10/26-10/30

Buy two large grinders and get a plain pizza FREE!
10/26-10/30

Spookiest Issue
of the month!!

It's a Happening Monday, October 31st.....

the soup kitchen
MENU

homemade soups,

★
salads,
★
chili,
★
desserts,
★
dinner specials
★

159 Main St. Northampton

BANQUET FACILITIES
FOR 175

The Elmwood Inn
RUSSELL RD. HADLEY, MA.

LUNCHEONS
Tues.-Sat.
11:00-4:00

DINNERS-
Tues.-Thurs.
4:00-9:00

Fri. & Sat.
4:00-10:00

FREE glass of wine
with this ad

DINNER SUNDAY
12:00-9:00

A FINE NEW ENGLAND RESTAURANT
LOCATED ON SCENIC ROUTE 9 , HADLEY
JUST BEFORE THE BRIDGE

★ Sundae delights in town

Continued from page 5

the only one that could have been called gooey. It actually stuck to the back of the teeth when the ice cream hardened it. Bart's fudge was the high scorer in the hot fudge category.

Just Desserts and Bart's both make their own whipped cream. The only reason Just Desserts outrated Bart's in this class is because Just Desserts ran out of it, and made up a fresh batch before our eyes. The taste and texture of that freshly whipped cream was suberb. The other three establishments used aerosol real cream toppings, and were all similar.

In toppings, Bart's boasts 26 or so glass apothecary jars on its marble counter, all filled with toppings to delight the wildest imagination. Five varieties and combinations as well as nuts, chocolate, and butterscotch chips, broken Heath bars, gum drops, candy bars, chocolate almond bar pieces, malt powder, and granola were included. My personal preference of sundae toppings is pecans, and Bart's was the only establishment on my tour which offered them. Just Desserts offered a tasty topping of cashews and plump raisins, besides its gorp, granola, Heath bar, and other toppings. The chain stores offered nuts with no patron preference. Baskin Robbins' nuts were toasted and buttered something or others, and were good. McManus and Ho-Jo's had walnuts, which are not a favorite of mine, but McManus gave you a lot of them and free chocolate sprinkles too.

All the sundaes were about the same size, and for the same ingredients rang in at: 90 cents at Bart's, 95 cents at Just Desserts, $1.05 at McManus, and $1.10 at both Ho-Jo's and Baskin Robbins.

As for decor, Just Desserts has a comfortable atmosphere which invites people to spread out their newspapers on the butcher block tables and read beneath the skylights and hanging plants, even after they've finished eating; good music, too. HoJo's, believe it or not, was our second favorite. Where else can you eat a sundae in a softly lit, clean, comfortable booth overlooking the rainbow of lights on Rte. 9? Barts is done in "ice cream parlor updated" with its high marble counter and mirrors on the wall behind it.

Baskin Robbins has no seating facilities, but still scored higher than the bustle and din of McManus. The most offensive element at McManus, tho, has to be the harsh lighting, unasthetic after a rough night out. Sitting in the dark at HoJo's is much more pleasing. For the purists among you who think price and decor are extraneous factors in the gesalt of a good hot fudge sundae, excluding those two factors gave the same result in my tally with the exception that Baskin Robbins came in last instead of the fourth it made when considering the overillumination at McManus.

Ice Cream Ratings

| | ice cream | hot fudge | whipped cream | nuts | decor | price | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| McManus | 3 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 5 | 5 | 25 |
| Baskin Robbins | 5 | 5 | 4 | 3 | 4 | 3 | 24 |
| Ho Jo's | 1 | 2 | 4 | 5 | 2 | 4 | 18 |
| Just Desserts | 4 | 3 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 2 | 13 |
| Bart's | 2 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 3 | 1 | 10 |

Establishments were placed 1 thru 5, with 1 being the highest rating and 5 the lowest

DELANO'S
57 North Pleasant Street
Champagne Dining at Beer Prices
Fine Food and Spirits
Join us for lunch and dinner
Soup, Omelettes, Burgers, Steaks plus Daily Specials
253-5141

the Hungry U Restaurant
We've created a little quiet...
To enjoy our unique sandwiches, pizza and vegetarian specialties served with your favorite spirits.
55 University Drive
Amherst, Mass.
549-5713

Page's Loft
IF YOU HAVEN'T BEEN TO PAGE'S LOFT LATELY—
YOU HAVEN'T BEEN TO PAGE'S LOFT!!
COLONIAL HILTON INN
Rtes. 91 & 5, Northampton, Ma. 01060 (413) 586-1211

---

Foreign foods provide taste of other lands

by Lauren Traub
Collegian Staff

The greater Amherst area boasts a diversity of restaurants featuring foods of different cultures and nationalities. Since 'variety is the spice of life'and the majority of these restaurants are very reasonably priced, why not try one for your next meal out on the town?

Outside of pizza parlors, you really have to leave Amherst for a full sit-down Italian dinner. Northampton has three quaint Italian restaurants. Uncle Joe's Cafe on Market St., Roberto's on Pleasant St., and Carlo of Naples on State St. where you can bring your own bottle of wine, are all casual and inexpensive. The Aqua Vitae on Rte. 9 in Hadley just before the bridge, and Dimo's in Sundersand are also places to partake of the pleasures of la cucina italiana.

What Amherst lacks in Italian restaurants, it makes up for in Chinese. Three Chinese restaurants are located in a chop, stick, and a jump (oh, no!) from each other. Amherst Chinese Food on Main St. is another place that invites guests to bring their own alcoholic refreshment if desired. Kim Toy, next to the Amherst Cinema on Amity St. is a take-out only service, but there are interesting and unusual things to visually explore while waiting for your order. Glass refrigerator cases hold mysterious -looking Chinese foods, pastries, and convenience foods in this Oriental grocery-health food-take-out restaurant. Down Rte. 9 next to Poor Richard's is the Hunan Garden, which used to be the South China. Now Szechuen (hot!) and vegetarian dishes are offered in addition to more standard Chinese dishes. The Wok on Rte . 9 in Hadley is an attractive, cozy place to dine.

Its sister restauarnt, the Wok II in Northampton has unfortunately gone the way of South China restaurant and the Dodo bird, and is soon to become a Wendy's hamburger franchise.

For Japanese cuisine, the Goten on Rte. 116 in Sunderland sizzles up vegetables, noodles and meat right on the grill which is built into each table. Dining there and watching the handiwork of the chef at each table, listening to the soy sauce on the sizzling grill surface, and inhaling the aromas is truly a feast for all the senses.

For Middle Eastern mastication, Rachid's in the Mt. Farms Mall shows itself to be more than merely a disco. Moroccan food is served there, and Hahjee's Place on Rte. 9 in Hadley specializes in Persian foods, all artfully herbed and spiced. A French inspiration is also evident in some of the dishes. The only Greek restaurant around is Zorba's on Green St. in Northampton. Shish Kebab, pizza, and outrageously handsome pastries are served at this favorite Smith College spot.

Amherst can finally boast of its very own French restaurant. Although featuring a much more limited menu than Beardsley's in Northampotn, guests this summer at Judi's were able to dine al fresco beneath striped umbrellas, and watch the world go by on busy North Pleasant St. The umbrellas have been folded up and put away for the winter, and work is now underway on enclosing a porch area out front for the sipping of cocktails. An expanded menu is also in the works.

For German food, a wide variety of dishes are represented at the New Town House Restaurant on Rte. 9, just over the Belchertown line.

There are so many good thing s to eat besides hamburgers and french fries. Make your next lunch or dinner out an international affair!

You can not only get a taste of Japanese food at Go Ten in Sunderland, but you can also watch it being prepared right in front of you. (Staff photo by Chris Bourne)

9th ANNIVERSARY SALE!
sale 8.99
WOVEN FLANNEL SHIRTS 25% OFF! REGULARLY $12
sale 11.99
PURITAN SHETLAND SWEATERS ...SAVE 30%! REG. $16
Levi's
1/3 off
JUNIOR BLOUSES & SHIRTS SOLIDS, PLAIDS, & PRINTS EXPAND YOUR WARDROBE NOW AND SAVE!
50% off
SPECIAL SELECTION! JUNIOR FALL DRESSES BY PLAIN JANE HURRY...FINAL DAYS!
ROYS ULARLY $20
sale 11.99
MEN'S CASUAL SLACKS $5 OFF! REGULARLY $17
1/3 off
JUNIOR SWEATERS, BULKY KNITS...33% OFF
1/3 off
JUNIOR SLACKS, CORDUROYS FLANNELS, GABERDINES...
WEAR-HOUSE
Amherst Open till 9 P.M. Thursdays & Fridays
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

Charlie's
ANNOUNCES
WEDNESDAY NIGHTS
MOST MIXED DRINKS
75¢
come in and try our delicious crepes or omelettes along with our full line of sandwiches and dinners
1 PRAY ST.
AMHERST
NEXT TO THE PUB

Dining Out Guide

PIZZA PARLORS

Bell's Pizza - 65 University Drive, Amherst - 549-1311

Campus Pizza - 206 Russell St., Hadley - 586-3880

The Hideout - 103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Hungry U - 55 University Drive, Amherst - 549-5713

Superior Pizzeria - 17B Montague Rd., Amherst - 549-0626

University Pizza - 173 Sunset Ave., Amherst - 549-5592

Whole Wheat Pizza - 363 Main St., Amherst - 256-8587

Pappa Gino's - Mountain Farms Mall, Hadley - 584-6904

Subway - E. Pleasant St., Amherst
Sylvan Subway - McNamara House, Sylan

FOREIGN FOODS:

Amherst Chinese Food - 62 Main St., Amherst - 253-7835
Aqua Vitae - Russell St., Hadley - 584-9892
Beardsley's - 140 Main St., Northampton - 586-2699
Carlo of Naples - 45 State St., Northampton - 584-9722
Go Ten of Japan - Old Amherst Rd., Sunderland - 665-3628
Hahjee's - 206 Russell St., Hadley - 584-9797
Hunan Garden - Rte. 9, Amherst
Kim Toy - 32 Amity St., Amherst - 253-9946
Judi's - N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Rachid's - Mountain Farms Mall, Hadley - 584-9080
New Town House Rest - Amherst Td., Belchertown
253-7561

Uncle Joe's Cafe - 33 Market St., Northampton - 584-3168
The Wok - Rte. 9, Hadley - 586-1202
Zorba's - 8 Green St., Northampton - 586-4040
Roberto's - 223 Pleasant St., Northampton - 584-0204

FANCY EATING:

Ambrosia Cheese - 264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst - 253-3324
Amherst Delicatessen - 233 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
549-6314

Chequers - University Dr., Amherst - 549-5861
Copper Lantern - 1 Pray St., Amherst - 549-1154

Drake's Village Inn - 85 Amity St., Amherst - 253-2548
Elmwood Inn - Russell St., Hadley - 584-6813
Equinox - 51 N. Pleasant St., Amherst - 256-0240

Gas Lite I&II - Amherst - 253-3343, 253-2291
Gerry's - Russell St., Hadley - 585-9617
Grist Mill - Mill Valley, Amherst - 253-2843
Lighthouse Seafoods - Amherst Rd., Sunderland - 549-6622
The Log Cabin - Easthampton Rd., Holyoke - 536-7700
Lord Jeffery Inn - 30 Boltwood Ave., Amherst - 253-2576
Moe's - 57 N. Pleasant St. Amherst - 256-8280
The Pier - Rte. 5, Northampton - 586-0027
Jolly Bull - 322 Russell St., Hadley - 584-2769
Rahar's - 7 Old South St., Hadley - 584-4100

Rusty Scupper - Rte. 9, Amherst - 256-8551
St. Regis - 76 Pleasant St., Northampton - 584-1543

The Steak Out - 351 Northampton Rd., Amherst - 256-8557
Wiggins Tavern - 36 King St., Northampton - 584-3100

BREAKFAST SPOTS:

McManus - Rte. 9, Amherst - 256-6889
Miss Florence Diner - 99 Main St., Florence - 584-3137
Rooster's - 1177 N. Pleasant St., Amherst - 253-9908

Red Lion Diner - 10 Strong Ave., Northampton - 584-3229
Stables - Rte. 9, Hadley - 586-4305

QUALITY DOWN VESTS
Don Gleason's has the best quality down vests in the area. Filled with PRIME NORTHERN GOOSE DOWN with colorful rip stop nylon outers. Assorted colors. XS thru XL.
ONLY $29.95
ALSO VISIT US TO BROWSE THRU OUR VAST SELECTION OF OUT DOOR CLOTHING FOR FALL AND WINTER
Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
Weekdays 9-5:30
Saturday 9-5:00

Poor Richards
Rte. 9
Amherst
WEDNESDAY
50¢ DRINKS
THURSDAY
ROCK N' ROLL
AND OLDIES
Rolling Rock Beer
50¢ also Gin, Vodka, Rum, Tequila 85¢

BLUE WALL
K ROCK DISCO
Wed.
Oct. 26
9pm - 1am
2 for 1 Tuborgs
CHRIS RHODES BAND
Thur-Sat
Oct. 27-29

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 40 THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1977

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA. 01003 (413) 545-3500

PUMPKIN SALE
sponsored by Alpha Zeta
25¢

The Campus Center Concourse is starting to sprout signs of Halloween as students gear up for Monday's celebration. (Staff photo by Jon Anderson)

Senate proceeds along road to reorg

By JON KLEIN
and DAN HUSE
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate voted to bring the student-financed Advocacy Services under formal control of the Senate by establishing a committee which would coordinate Senate efforts in the different agencies, in a move which places the senate one step closer to a union model of government.

The Advocacy Services include Legal Services Office, the Student Organizing Project, the Student Center for Educational Research and, the Economic Development Coordinator.

In other business, it was reported that Kwaku Saunders is still attempting to finalize an agreement with Stevie Wonder for a future concert date at UMass. Another concert was approved by granting the Union Program Council $5,000 to secure Roberta Flack for the end of this semester.

Donald Bishop of Governmental Affairs Committee reported that Third World students are now being registered in accordance with the recently adopted definition of "Third World." In keeping with the new definition of Third World students will vote on the proposed recall of Craig Sherwood, a white student who was recently elected on the Third World ballot.

The Advocacy enactment passed last night was a compromise between the original motion and a proposed substitution which from the Governmental Affairs Committee.

Susan Birmingham, sponsor of the original motion, said the Coordinating Committee was the best body to handle the Advocacy Services since it has "representatives from almost every aspect of interest within the Senate."

Senator Adam Auster, who introduced the compromise, said the Committee already has too much work to do. Senator Greg Tarpinian said the proposal allowed the Coordinating Committee to do its own work. The suggested sub-committee would do "the dog work of the committee staff", he said.

Tarpinian added that the Advocacy Services sub-committee would be accountable to both the Coordinating Committee and the Senate. Tarpinian added since the Coordinating Committee is representative of the Senate the sub-committee would also be representative.

The original motion proposed the Coordinating Committee assume the responsibilities for coordinating the efforts of the Advocacy Agencies.

Governmental Affairs proposed the formation of an Advocacy Services Committee to coordinate the Agencies efforts.

The compromise introduced by Senator Adam Auster proposed the Coordinating Committee form a sub-committee to handle coordination efforts. This sub-committee would consist of one designee of the Rents and Fees Committee chairperson Bob Dion announced the establishment of a Lease Task Force, whose purpose is to secure a lease for dorm residents. According to the report: "Through a random sampling of 52 universities nationwide, it was established that UMass-Amherst is the only institution without a lease. The establishment of such a lease is necessary to legitimize a landlord-tenant relationship, with all relevant and customary rights, between students and the administration at this University".

Coordinating Committee and four other members chosen by the nominating sub-committee and approved by the Senate.

In the past the agencies have been under control of individual boards. Undergraduate members were appointed by the Student Government Association Co-Presidents.

Coordinating Committee members are the Speaker and Treasurer of the Senate, the President of the SGA and Chairpersons from Governmental Affairs, Finance and Budgets. There are also three members from the Senate and two Third World Senators.

Legislature forming group on higher ed reorg. plan

By MEGAN O'REILLY
Collegian Staff

A legislative commission currently being established to reorganize higher education in the state could cause UMass to lose some of its independence in the future, Student Government Co-President, Jon Hite said last night.

The 27-member commission will likely take most of next year to prepare a report proposing changes in the state higher education system to the 1979 legislative session, Hite said.

The commission will be made up of five senators, 10 members of the House of Representatives, and 11 appointees of the Governor. Hite said at present it appears that students will not be members of the committee.

"The Governor would have to either use up three or four of his appointees, or choose which school will be represented. As a result, student's roles will be primarily advisory. They will not have a legal vote," Hite said.

Hite said the commission will consider reorganization proposals ranging from retaining the present structure to setting up one highly centralized administration under a single Board of Trustees.

Sen. John W. Olver pointed to the need for establishing the study commission, citing

TURN TO PAGE 3

inside

•local
JEWS FOR JESUS?
Patti Troped examines this paradoxical gospel group and their "new Jewish" identity. See story, photo Page 2.

•local
PLANS FOR A "SMOKE-IN" to protest state marijuana laws quietly burned out yesterday following negotiations between Amherst police and organizers. See Joan Feeney's story on Page 3.

•local
PROBES INTO IRREGULARITIES in the Northampton Police Department will open to the public, thanks to a recent ruling by the Hampshire County District Attorney. For Karen Parmenter's story on Page 2.

•weather
Not cold at all doesn't seem like fall enjoy your play
it'll be a warm day.

•local
THE MASS. STATE SENATE voted earlier this week to lift "Blue Laws" on Sunday store closings between Thanksgiving and Christmas. John Moran sifts through local reaction to the move on Page 6.

•wire
THE US SPACE SHUTLE "ENTERPRISE" bumped to Earth yesterday after a rocky test flight. See Page 5.

•people in the news
PEOPLE IN THE NEWS today features TV star David Soul, Well bustin', fire-eatin' Red Adair and his boys, Edith Bunker on ERA, and Kermit the Frog. Page 5.

•wire
DECRIMINILAZATION OF MARIJUANA came a little closer to reality yesterday after the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee tentatively agreed to decriminialize possession of less than one ounce of the drug. See Page 3.

•wire
COMPLETE NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL news roundup can be seen on Page five.

•sports
THE SOCCER TEAM ROARED to its third win in a row yesterday, trouncing Westfield State 5-1 on the strength of three goals by sophomore Mike Shannon.

Below the Salt

•salt
Ras Tapunk Ram Dass uses a unique approach this week to rid the valley of Nazis and other cretins.

Jeff Frotz, a worker in the New England branch of the "Jews for Jesus", distributes pamphlets on campus yesterday explaining the group's philosophy. (Staff photo by John Anderson)

Jews for Jesus visit; member explains group

By PATTI TROPED
Collegian Staff

UMass students may have noticed last Tuesday a group of Jewish "gospel singers" who set up their "Liberated Wailing Wall" outside of the Student Union Building. This group is a small part of the growing "Jews for Jesus" organization begun in 1970 in San Francisco.

"Jews for Jesus" are people of Jewish heritage who believe that Jesus is the true Messiah of Israel. Although many traditional Jews argue it is impossible to be Jewish and yet believe the Messiah has already come, "Jews for Jesus" say they believe this is completely unjustified.

Jeffrey Fritz, spokesperson for the Boston branch of the national organization, was back again yesterday handing out pamphlets explaining the movement. He said, "Judaism is more than just a religion; it is a way of life as well. Jews have a proud heritage, and by believing in Jesus as our Messiah we are by no means denouncing our Jewish identity."

Fritz went on to say, "The surest proof we can offer to disbelievers is in the prophecies of the Jewish Bible concerning the Messiah. The prophets who predicted the coming of the Messiah were very specific in pinpointing when and under what conditions the Messiah would come. Jesus, as well as the conditions existing during his life, death, and resurrection (a factor in itself), fits these prophecies exactly."

Fritz further explains that all followers of Jesus were Jews to begin with, as was Jesus himself. "Jews for Jesus" believe both the Old and New Testaments are true. The writers of the New Testament were Jewish; they were Jews who believed Jesus the Messiah had died for their sins, and would eventually return to bring peace and deliverance to all the world," he said.

"Believing the Messiah has come does not make me less of a Jew, it makes me a more fulfilled Jew," Fritz said.

Based in San Francisco, the "Jews for Jesus" organization has branches in New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, Miami, and Boston. According to Fritz, "We are not trying to 'recruit' or 'convert' anyone. We are trying to tell people to try to overcome their prejudices that Judaism and Christianity are entirely exclusive of one another, they are not."

Fritz said he feels there was a high degree of interest generated by UMass students: much more so than at other schools he has visited. The reason for some antagonism and hostility here was due to curiosity, and perhaps shock, he said. "But even the antagonism was good; at least people listened to us," he said.

Fritz will be speaking tonight at the Turner's Falls Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m. His talk, entitled "Christ and the Passover," will explain the Passover Seder service.

Jews knock Mideast policy

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Jewish community leaders voiced their "concern, frustration and anger" at America's Middle East policy in a 90-minute confrontation yesterday with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

The head of the group, Rabbi Alexander Schindler, told reporters "The Jewish community expressed its concern, its frustration and its anger. This was the voice which came not only from the national leaders, but from the grassroots represented here.

"The frustration and the anger are that we perceive certain policies on the side of the administration which in our judgment will not achieve those noble purposes, but in fact will pervert them."

A U.S. official who attended the meeting said the main concern of the Jewish leaders centered on a recent Soviet-American statement on the Middle East, the establishment of a Palestinian state on the West Bank and the possible representation of the Palestine Liberation Organization at a Geneva conference.

Schindler said the Jewish community was "outraged" by the statement issued by Vance and Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko. American officials said it came up "again and again" in the dialogue between the secretary and the 80 Jewish leaders.

"One of the issues which we raised was the seeming escalation in the area of the PLO and the constant endeavor to make it more and more possible for the PLO to be involved in these negotiations," Schindler said.

Greeks give gift funds to handicapped affairs

By KAREN QUINN
Collegian Staff

The Greek Council last night allocated $500 in funds raised from a Tropical Plant Sale last month to the Handicapped Affairs program for the blind.

The council debated for four weeks on how the money should be spent.

"I'm very happy to see this issue resolved and that we've decided upon a worthwhile cause to contribute to," said Paula A. Reardon, Greek Council Treasurer.

"Hopefully in the future the charities will be earmarked before the money is raised," added Reardon.

The money will be used for braille literature, braille typewriters, and other needed facilities for the blind students on campus.

In other business, the Greek Area Review Board was re-established by a unanimous vote. The board was established for hearing complaints concerning questionable behavior by fraternities and sororities at the University. Individual fraternities and sororities, or any other persons may file a complaint with the review board.

Richard Wellend, chairman of the Fraternity Managers Association Board of Directors, announced that Paul Hammel, Assistant to the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs will serve as acting Fraternity Manager in place of Fraternity Manager Joseph E. Sexton.

Sexton is recovering from an illness. Dick Ashenfelder has been selected as the Alumni Relations Chairman as announced by Joseph Barboza, Assistant Greek Area Director.

Barboza also announced that the Greek Alumni newsletter is now in circulation for Fall semester '77.

Paul Leahy, Greek Council President, announced that the Greek Area has been given a seat on the Student Government Association Student Judiciary Board. Leahy said he would like to appoint a person as soon as possible.

Steven Aznavourian, greek council activities co-chairman, discussed plans for future Greek Area events, including a Christmas Party to be held in the first two weeks of December, and Winter Carnival to be held at the beginning of the Spring semester.

Kathy Bradford, greek area future planning and goals chairman distributed questionnaires on the condition of the Greek Area and how it should be changed. Two representatives of the houses that make up the council. The questionnaire will be distributed throughout all five residential areas, alumni, and University administrators.

Hearings will wait

KENT, Ohio — A hearing on the cases of seven persons arrested at Kent State University last weekend has been postponed to Nov. 10, when a permanent injunction banning all protests on campus will be decided, a Kent Legal Defense Fund spokesman said yesterday.

The seven persons were arrested Monday following a weekend of protests against the construction of a gym on the site four university students were killed by national guardsmen on May 4, 1970.

According to the defense fund spokesman, six persons were charged with criminal trespassing. One was also charged with resisting arrest and assaulting a police officer.

Rate hike impact could affect nuke

MONTAGUE, Mass [AP] — A spokesman for Northeast Utilities says it's still too early to say what impact a $35 million rate hike in Connecticut will have on a proposed $2.3 billion nuclear installation here.

William Keveney said yesterday that utility officials were preparing to study a final order issued Tuesday night by the Connecticut Public Utilities Control Authority.

The board gave Northeast slightly more than one-third of the $90 million it requested.

Northeast officials had indicated that if the rate increase were insufficient, the utility might have to pull out of the Montague project.

But Keveney said, "Right now we are continuing on the licensing path, including the pre-license hearing conference in Boston this week."

The conference is a prelude to public hearings which probably will be held in western Massachusetts.

In issuing the rate decision Tuesday night, the Connecticut rate agency said it would force Northeast to cut back construction plans for nuclear power plants in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

Notices

There will be a meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in the Black Mass Communications Project Office, 402 Student Union Building, for individuals interested in keeping the disco program in the Blue Wall.

Former UMass student Craemen Gethers will speak at 4 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 1, in Campus Center room 168. Public invited.

Northampton police group will open its meetings to comply with state law

By KAREN PARMENTER
Collegian Staff

NORTHAMPTON — An eight-member study commission investigating irregularities in the Northampton Police Department will open its meetings to the public, in compliance with the state's Open Meeting Law, a city official said yesterday. Still undecided, however, is the issue of whether or not the commission's three-member interview panels must also be held in open session.

William F. Hurely, chairman of the study commission, said the commission would hold open meetings following Hampshire County District Attorney John M. Callahan's ruling that the Open Meeting Law did apply to the commission. The three-member panels, said Hurely, will continue to hold private interviews with individual police officers until an opinion can be obtained from the city's legal department.

The Open Meeting Law states "All meetings of a governmental body should be open to the public." A governmental body is defined as "every board, commission, committee, or sub-committee of any district, city, region or town, however elected, appointed, or otherwise constituted."

Callahan rejected the opinion of the city's legal department, which stated the commission did not fit the definition of a governmental body. The District Attorney, in a written opinion, stated the commission was a governmental body by virtue of Mayor David W. Cramer's October 6 executive order creating the commission.

Callahan's ruling came at the written request of City Council candidate Paul Bixby. The District Attorney's office is responsible for enforcing the Open Meeting Law.

The commission was created by the many to study a number of alleged irregularities in the city's police department over the past few months. These included the arrest of an officer for theft and illegal sale of firearms, and the disciplining of two officers for alledged abuse of prisoners.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Mary Brown

| | |
|---|---|
| Wire Layout | Julia Linnell |
| Copy Editor | Mike Simons |
| Editorial Layout | Eileen Foley |
| Day Layout | Bobo |
| Sports Layout | Mark Marchand |
| Head Tech | John Anderson |
| Photo Staff | Robert Higgins |
| Ad Layout | Carol Hubbardsty |
| Weather Rhyme | JAM |
| Headline Headaches | JRK |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid at Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

---

The library glistens through Wednesday night's rain. (Staff photo by Patrick Dobbs)

Smoke-in scrapped; legal problems cited

By JOAN FEENEY
Collegian Staff

Pack up your pipes, protesters.

Today's planned "smoke-in" to protest State marijuana laws has been cancelled.

After being advised of possible legal repercussions by their attorney yesterday, the organizers of the planned "high-noon" demonstration on the Amherst Common scrapped their plans for distributing five pounds of marijuana in 3,000 joints to demonstrators.

Attorney David Kaplan of Northampton and Yippie (Youth International Party) member Russ Swan yesterday met with Amherst Police Chief Donald Maia and released a statement cancelling the smoke-in. The Yippies earlier this week said they expected 3,000 demonstrators at the demonstration.

Maia last night told the Collegian that Police and Yippie volunteers would be at the common today to turn away would-be protesters.

Maia said the meeting yesterday morning at the Amherst police station was held to discuss alternatives to the planned "illegal demonstrations". Swan said Kaplan approached Maia for the meeting. No mention of possible arrests or criminal charges was made at the meeting, Maia said.

Swan last night said he was advised by Kaplan that it would be unwise to continue with the plans for the demonstration.

Maia said a statement withdrawing a permit application for the Yippies to assemble at the common had been prepared by Kaplan and Swan. Swan signed the statement at the police station.

Yippies had originally received a permit to assemble at the common for a "great pumpkin festival" with live music.

Swan, a sophomore living at 326 Pierpont Dormitory, said he did not know who was being billed for the legal advice from Kaplan, who could not be reached for comment last night.

The UMass Legal Services Office, which provides free legal service to University students, could not represent Swan at the meeting because the office provides only "emergency" advice, according to office attorney Jim Starr.

Swan said he did not want to say whether the Yippies would plan any other demonstrations for the Amherst area.

The Yippies, however, will not keep the five pounds of marijuana to smoke themselves. According to Swan, the pot for the smoke-in was pledged over the telephone by would-be protesters. Swan said the "donations" will be kept by these individuals.

Senate says pot use law may loosen

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The Senate Judiciary Committee tentatively agreed yesterday to decriminalize possession of up to one ounce of marijuana — the first time a congressional committee has ever approved such a step.

The provision, passed 6-4, was offered by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., who said he was seeking a more realistic revision of federal laws dealing with marijuana possession.

The vote was tentative in that same committee members were absent and will be polled later on the question.

And Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, was so furious at the outcome of the vote that he threatened to seek stiffer penalties for possession of even small amounts of marijuana.

Bayh sought to amend a section of a bill revising the federal criminal code that would have legalized possession of up to 10 grams of marijuana or about one-third ounce.

Bayh said 10 grams was an unrealistic amount since most marijuana is sold in ounce-weight "lids" which he said is the amount a casual user most likely would have on hand.

Also, he said, a $100 civil fine should be retained rather than flatly legalizing even a small amount of the substance.

Hatch and other opponents had claimed earlier that an ounce of marijuana could yield up to 70 "joints" or cigarettes, and Bayh argued 30 was more accurate.

Bayh then demonstrated his point. In the midst of discussion, Bayh produced four plastic bags — two containing a marijuana-looking substance in quantities of 10 grams and one ounce and two more with the equivalent number of joints from each amount.

Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., the committee chairman, glared at Bayh.

Sens. James Abourezk, D-S.D., and Sen. Joe Biden, D-Del., asked jokingly whether Bayh wanted to share a smoke later, and Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., asked if Bayh planned to light up.

Others in the jammed committee room laughed.

Bayh finally confessed "it's only oregano."

His point was made, however: 10 grams yielded seven joints, while an ounce yielded 28.

Voting for the Bayh amendment were Bayh, Abourezk, Biden, and Sens. Dennis Deconcini, D-Ariz., Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., and John Culver, D-Iowa. .

After being cornered by other conservatives, Laxalt later indicated he may not have understood what he was voting for.

Voting no were Eastland, Kennedy, Hatch and Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

★ Legislators form commission

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

a rapidly decreasing birth rate as a prime factor in forcing down the number of 18-20-year-old students. Olver was recently named to the newly formed commission.

The public system will have to offer more and more in the way of continuing education and re-education programs as people adopt new careers and vast changes in technology force citizens to re-educate themselves. We will attempt to devise an administrative structure more suited to the 1980's, he said.

The present the state higher education system is composed of 30 campuses. There is limited coordination of programs and goals, Hite said.

Former SGA Co-President Paul M. Cronin cited duplication of programs at the Campuses as the biggest problem at present. Cronin, who is on the search committee for a new UMass president, said duplication in fine arts, education, nursing and engineering programs are the most obvious examples.

Cronin also pointed to a great rivalry between the different institutions for funding. "Everybody is fighting over scraps and they will end up cutting the other institutions throats," Cronin said. Olver, said one of the most important tasks of the group will be to explore the impact of restricted state funding on the system.

The complex roles of higher education in teaching, research, and public service will have to be examined carefully because of the serious budget constraints we are experiencing today. We will have to see that the limited state dollars can most effectively be used to benefit the citizens of Massachusetts, Olver said.

At present, two formal plans for reorganization are scheduled to be considered by the commission. Secretary of Educational Affairs Paul Parks has proposed a controversial plan which would regionalize the 30 campuses. The plan calls for the regrouping of the institutions into five regional associations, each with its own board of trustees and specialized areas of study. A board of overseers would act as a statewide coordinating agency. The plan has been formulated in part by Gov. Michael S. Dukakis.

This plan, however, has come under wide criticism from state politicians and university administrators. UMass-Amherst Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury said the regionalization would allow the "political arm" to get too much control over public higher education.

Stanley Young, UMass-Amherst Faculty Senate Reorganization Committee Chairman, said the biggest danger of the regional plan lies in the fact that 14 members of the overseeing committee would be gubernatorial appointees.

A recent report issued by the committee blamed a "total failure" of the Board of Higher Education to live up to the "high expectations" of the most recent higher education reform effort in 1965. The Faculty Senate will consider the committee's recommendation to formulate their own reorganization plan at their bi-weekly meeting this afternoon at 3:30.

McBee to talk to staff group

By DAN MONTUORI
Collegian Staff

Vice-chancellor James L. McBee will speak today at the second general meeting of the Professional Association of UMass-Amherst (PAUMA). The meeting will be held at noon in Campus Center 165.

PAUMA is an informal governance body for professional, non-academic staff. It is made up of thirty senators from various university departments, such as the Campus Center, library, office of residential life, and financial aid office.

PAUMA was formed over 8 years ago after professional staff expressed interest in having a formal say in campus policy and input on policies affecting the professional staff. Any professional staff member is a member of PAUMA.

One of McBee's responsibilities as Vice-Chancellor is personnel relations, an area of primary importance to PAUMA.

In a telephone interview last night McBee said he intends to speak about his philosophy of personnel policy, particularly with regard to professional staff.

The balance of the meeting will consist of reports by various PAUMA committees, including the ad hoc committee on Governance Recognition. As yet, PAUMA is not recognized by the university trustees.

In a telephone interview yesterday, Harry Brooks, chairman of the PAUMA Recognition Committee, said the first step toward recognition is simply talking to the trustees.

"The trustees really aren't familiar with PAUMA. We will have to begin to negotiate with them, and take it from there," Brooks said.

'MUA to cover away basketball games

By MICHAEL SIMONS
Collegian Staff

The Student Senate Finance Committee voted unanimously yesterday to give WMUA an additional $1,350 over their budget of $33,161 to cover expenses of broadcasting away basketball games.

WMUA spokesman A.J. Quitadamo told the committee the money was needed to send two station people to cover the Minutemen's five away games this season. With this year's budget, Quitadamo argued that WMUA wouldn't be able to cover even one away game, and the additional funds would enable the station to match last year's budget.

"Because of an FCC ruling, WHMP Northampton no longer covers UMass basketball games. Unless we cover the games, no one will be able to hear them," he said.

The committee also granted WMUA $248 to send two station people to the National Collegiate Broadcasting Conference to, as Quitadamo said, "strengthen the quality of the on the air product."

Since these requests totaled more than $500 they were brought with committee recommendations before the Student Senate last night were it was unanimously passed.

In other committee business, the Boltwood Belchertown Project was appropriated $300 to transport handicapped students to Project events.

SPECTRUM, the UMass fine arts magazine was granted half of the $1,467 they requested for additional filing cabinets to house art work for the magazine. The request passed committee only after it was argued that people refused to send Spectrum their best work because of fear it would get ruined and additional filing cabinets would alleviate this fear.

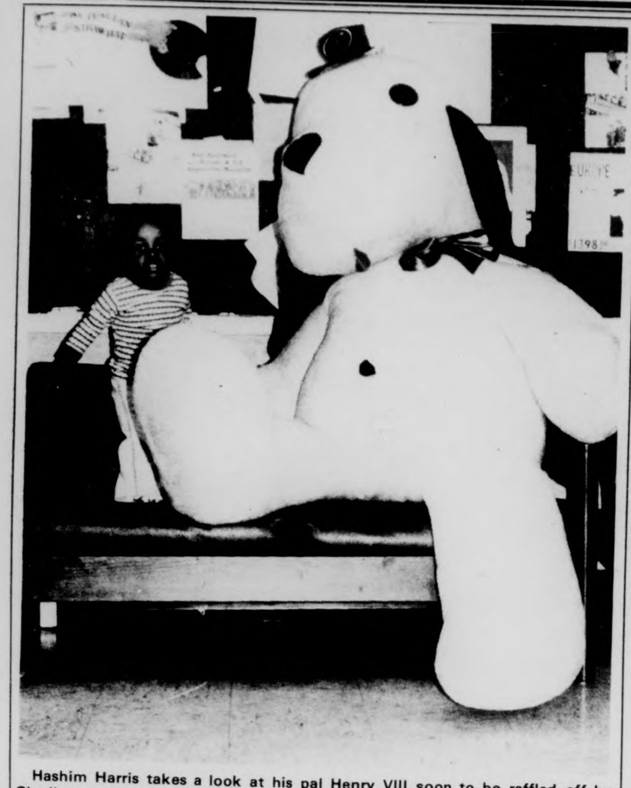
The Asian-American Student Association halved their request for $1,206 to $650 to sponsor a coffeehouse on November 19th at the Campus Center.

They argued before the committee that in the past the only major university-wide events sponsored by the AASA have been discos and a conference held last spring. "This coffeehouse is an attempt to make the Association more responsive to the University as a whole and to promote an awareness of Asian American music and literature and the Asian American experience," an AASA spokeswoman said.

The request with Finance Committee passage was brought before the Senate and passed.

A motion by JQA Tower Upper for money to pay a male issues awareness counselor was defeated because the committee believed it to be a Southwest Assembly issue.

Permission for the Orchard Hill Area Government to deficit spend $1500 to start a snack bar in the area was tabled because the committee felt the opening of a new snack bar might endanger the snack bar in Greenough which is just starting to break even financially.



Hashim Harris takes a look at his pal Henry VIII soon to be raffled off by Chadbourne House. Hashim is the son of Chadbourne's head of residence Bill Hashim and his wife Rochelle. The 25 cent tickets will go on sale November 1. The drawing will be held in early December. Proceeds will go to the dorm. (Staff photo by John Anderson)

Congress spurs solar energy

WASHINGTON [UPI] — House and Senate negotiators agreed yesterday on a $100 million program to spur solar energy use in American homes by providing families with cutrate loans of up to $8,000 for equipment and installation.

The measure, approved by the House-Senate conference committee on energy after just 34 minutes of deliberation, was the second program involving low-interest conservation loans the panel has put together.

Last week, the conferees agreed on a $5 billion, federally backed home insulation program providing $2 billion in loans at prevailing rates and $3 billion at cut rates for poor and middle-income people.

Panel Chairman Harley Staggers, buoyed by fast action on the solar energy question, said he hoped the committee is entering the home stretch in its attempts to meld conflicting House-Senate approaches to saving fuel — the first of several energy categories it faces.

Progress slowed, however, as House members twice rejected by 25-0 votes a Senate effort to impose mandatory energy efficiency standards on electric motors and pumps.

Rep. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, said such standards could save the equivalent of 250,000 barrels of oil a day, and he charged House conferees were not seriously interested in saving energy, since they also had voted against a ban on gas-guzzling cars.

After an hour of sometimes heated debate Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., leader of the Senate conferees, told his colleagues the House position against mandatory standards appeared so solid that a compromise would be necessary.

The committee then agreed on a $5 million program requiring efficiency labels on small industrial motors and it directed the Energy Department to conduct an 18-month study on whether mandatory motor efficiency standards are needed.

On the solar energy program, the conferees agreed on a five-year loan program to be handled by the Government National Mortgage Association, which would buy, insure and handle low-interest loans for installing solar heating panels or other equipment to turn the sun's rays into energy.

Families planning such installations could get loans for up to 15 years at interest rates ranging from about 7.5 per cent to 12 per cent, with no penalty for early repayment. The maximum loan would be $8,000, less any tax credit taken for the solar equipment under other parts of the energy legislation.

Energy legislation passed by the House did not provide for such loans. The Senate version would have allowed a family to get a subsidized loan or take a tax credit, but not do both.

FIGHT RISING PRICES!

AUTOMATIC MARKDOWN BOOKSALE

We have a tremendous selection of books for this sale—hardbound and paperback.

All automatically marked down each Monday—if they are still there.

Mon. Oct. 24—3/4 original price

Mon. Oct. 31—1/2 original price

Mon. Nov. 7—1/4 original price

Come early for the best selection—but don't wait too long.

at "the bookstore"

UNIVERSITY STORE

campus center/univ. of mass/amherst

Pianist entertains crowd from first to last note

By STEVE WALDMAN
Below the Salt Staff

When Emil Gilels first appeared in the U.S. he spoke glowingly of a younger colleague who could play Liszt's Feux follets "as if it were nothing." Twenty-one years were to elapse before Lazar Berman would tour the U.S. and have his name put alongside that of Ashkenazy, Horowitz, Michelangeli, Richter, etc. ... as a pianistic giant.

Heard in this country before his debut by only a small group of piano connoisseurs through a series of difficult to obtain Russian Melodiya recordings, Lazar Berman has since become something of a legend and a still maturing legend at that.

Once known for his obsession with physical agility at the keyboard (the fastest clocking ever of one of Chopin's etudes) he has in recent years become increasingly preoccupied with color, voicing and melodiousness of phrase. He was quoted in High Fidelity, Jan. 76 as saying: "nothing more overjoys me than having my playing compared to bel canto singing." That he now plays with compelling lyricism and great discernment within his present repertoire was demonstrated again last night with a marvelously poetic reading of Liszt's great work for solo piano, the Sonata in B minor. From first to last note Berman held the audience's attention with an unexpectedly straight-forward and yet at the same time deeply moving interpretation. In fact, his tempos in the slow middle section were slower and to better effect than those in his present recording of the sonata.

Busoni's transcription for piano of Bach's "Chaconne" received a Romantic-minded interpretation which worked out very well. While perhaps lacking in subtlety it was impressively constructed and charged with intensity. Similarly, his playing of Liszt's Funerailles was played from the heart and yet was also distinguished by a consistent musical vision.

the arts

His program in fact, was notable for its lack of a sheer bravura piece. Clearly, Berman is a pianist of notable maturity as well as a pianist with great technique. That we were lucky enough to hear him at UMass is but another good reason for thanking the Fine Arts Center people for their efforts. Now ... how about getting Maurizio Pollini?

ARF!
LEAPIN' LIZARDS! I CAN SEE AGAIN, WITH MY "SOFLENS"™ CONTACTS FROM THE AMHERST OPTICAL SHOPPE!

Amherst Optical Shoppe

195 N. PLEASANT ST./256-6403
170 UNIVERSITY DR./253-5412

FASHIONABLE EYEWEAR
CONTACT LENSES/SUPPLIES
HEARING AID CONSULTANTS

A COMPLETE OPTICAL SERVICE

sweaters • bags • flannel shirts • vests • jackets • belts • blouses

genesis II
quality merchandise
recycled & new

COUPON SPECIALS

$5.00 for any pair of recycle JEANS and cord pants with coupon 10/24-11/5

25% off ARMY coats, jackets and shirts with coupon 10/24-11/5

$3.00 OFF NAVY PEACOATS with coupon 10/24-11/15

65 university dr.
amherst, ma.

549-2747

mon & sat 10-6
tues - fri 10-8

formerly Old Weird Harolds

The Chequers Saloon
Amherst, Massachusetts

WEEKEND SPECIALS

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI $3.95

BAKED STUFFED SCALLOPS $4.50

QUICHE LORRAINE w/salad & roll $2.50

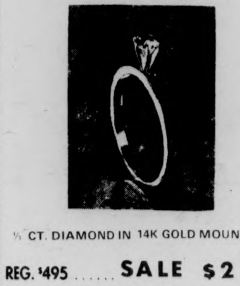
University Dr. 549-5861

---

THINKING ABOUT GETTING ENGAGED?

WITH DIAMOND PRICES LIKE THIS,

WHAT ARE YOU WAITING FOR?



⅓ CT. DIAMOND IN 14K GOLD MOUNTING

REG. $495 ...... SALE $295

Upstairs at

albert kershon co.
Nationally Known Diamond Remount Specialists
ESTABLISHED 1935
1562 MAIN STREET - 2nd Floor
SPRINGFIELD, MASS. 01103
VISA & MASTERCHARGE ACCEPTED

Poor Richards
Rte. 9
Amherst

Miller Nite

BOTTLES
Miller
&
Miller Lite

50¢

8 - 11 pm

T - shirts and Prizes

People in the news

Edith Bunker for ERA amendment?

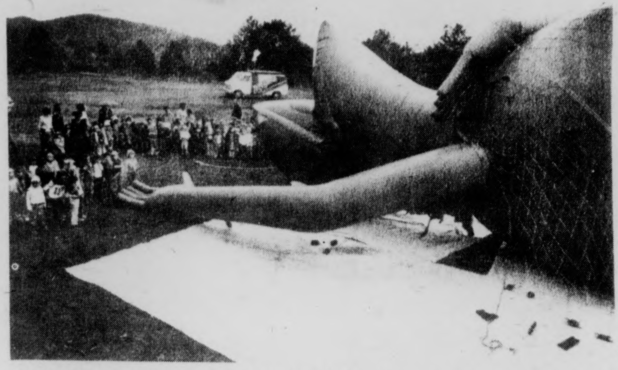
WASHINGTON [UPI] — Jean Stapleton, who plays Edith Bunker on the television show "All In the Family", believes Edith supports the Equal Rights Amendment.

Ms. Stapleton, a member of the International Women's Year Commission, told a news conference Wednesday there is no reason why Edith would be opposed to feminist causes.

"The image of Edith Bunker is good for the women's movement because Edith is a homemaker," she said. "It allows me to express the fact that the women's movement and ERA.... is intending to dignify the homemaker and under the law evaluate the homemaker's contribution in the economy."

She added she did not think Edith would join the growing opposition to ERA.

"Edith Bunker is the soul of justice, and of course to me the ERA is a matter of simple justice," she said. "I feel if Edith were faced with a vote, I think she'd vote for it if she understood it."



ROCKMART, Ga. (UPI) — Kermit the frog lies tied down while school children get a close look at the 63 foot tall helium filled balloon character which will be used in the Macy Parade in New York Thanksgiving. The balloon was made by Goodyear.

Hutch thinks songs were bad

SHREVEPORT, La. [UPI] — A federal court judge plans to rule by December whether songs recorded by actor David Soul may be sold, despite his contention that they are so bad he does not want his name associated with them.

Soul, who appears as "Hutch" on the television show "Starsky and Hutch", Tuesday asked U.S. District Judge Tom Stagg to block Sound City Recording Co. from using or selling recordings he made for the company eight years ago.

Women and teen-agers packed the courtroom for Soul's testimony, and afterwards many tried to get autographs and pictures.

Soul said the 1969 recordings were worse than the songs he records now because his voice is much stronger and more versatile.

Soul asked that he be declared the owner of the master tapes and Sound City Recording permanently blocked from using them.

Sound City filed suit against Soul for a judgment that it owns the tapes and Soul filed a counterclaim.

Stagg took the matter under advisement.

David Soul

Pro fire fighter tackles oil fire

TAFT, Calif. [AP] — Flames from a raging oil well fire spewed unchecked into the sky yesterday as a crew headed by fire fighter Red Adair made plans to use plastic explosives to snuff out the blaze which killed three trapped workmen.

A searing column of fire towered more than 100 feet over the ruptured well near this southern San Joaquin Valley community. The flames were fed by a virtual bottomless pit of fuel — the estimated one billion gallons in the nation's third largest oil reserve, smaller only than reserve fields in east Texas and Alaska.

The three workmen, dangling helplessly in a basket 15 feet in the air, were killed Tuesday afternoon when the well exploded at the Elk Hills Naval Oil Reserve, 140 miles north of Los Angeles.

Ray changes plea, switches attorneys

WARTBURG, Tenn. [UPI] — James Earl Ray, his past and present attorneys feuding, goes on trial Thursday on charges of prison escape.

A conviction could add five years to the sentence he received for murdering Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., but Ray is expected to argue that he was coerced into pleading guilty to the King slaying and thus was illegally confined.

Ray and six others escaped from Brushy Mountain State Prison June 10. All were captured in a manhunt involving the FBI, bloodhounds, and helicopters equipped with infra-red manhunting devices.

Ray, 49, has been represented by Nasville attorney Jack Kershaw for the past 10 months, but he fired Kershaw earlier this week and hired attorney Mark Lane, co-author with comedian Dick Gregory of "Code Name Zorro," a novel about the King assassination.

Ray and Lane accused Kershaw of profiting from the sale of James Earl Ray T-shirts and said Kershaw received $15,000-$20,000 as the result of an interview which Ray granted to Playboy Magazine. Playboy later reported that a lie detector test administered to Ray during the interview indicated that Ray killed King and acted alone in the assassination.

To avoid a possible death sentence, Ray entered a guilty plea to the King murder, but has since changed his story and claims he did not kill the civil rights leader.

Prince of Wales tours, speaks in U.S.

LOS ANGELES [UPI] — The British Commonwealth is a thriving "family association" seeking to help develop third-world countries and Britain itself is not as bad as pictured economically, despite some opinions to the contrary, the Prince of Wales said yesterday.

The heir apparent to the British throne, making his first major speech in the United States, also cited "mutual trust and affection" between his country and the United States as a factor in maintaining peace in the western world and helping solve world problems.

In his 15-minute speech before a luncheon meeting of the Los Angeles World Affairs Council, Prince Charles drew frequent laughter with his small jokes about his own lack of authority as well as prolonged applause from the crowd of 1,500 persons.

He opened his talks by disclaiming any status as a world statesman, saying:

"I have no identifiable profession about which I can speak with authority or knowledge. It's true. I am not a politician and that's true as well. In Britain, along with convicts, lunatics and peers of the realm, I am ineligible to vote."

PONTIAC JAGUAR RENAULT MG SAAB

The New
CARTELLI PONTIAC Inc.
QUALITY SPECIALISTS IN Auto Painting & Body Work
PLUS
COMPLETE AUTO GLASS SERVICE
★ FREE ESTIMATES ★
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC CARS
"Where Quality Comes First"
CALL 'ROD' CHAMPOUX, Body Shop MGR.
THE NEW Cartelli Pontiac Inc.
140 HIGH ST. HOLYOKE
536-2240

GRADUATE STUDIES PROGRAMS -
SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT
RECRUITING VISITATION - SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY, SYRACUSE, NY

The School of Management of Syracuse University, Syracuse, NY, will be interviewing interested applicants for their Graduate Studies Programs on Wednesday, November 2

9:00AM - 4:30PM

For further information and appointment, please contact the Placement/
Career Services office on your campus.

UMass reacts to Blue Law repeal

[The Massachusetts Senate voted earlier this week to allow retail stores to remain open on Sundays between Thanksgiving and Christmas. Although Gov. Michael S. Dukakis has said he opposes the move, he nonetheless told the Senate he will sign the legislation. Collegian reporter John M. Moran surveyed local merchants and residents on their reaction to the move.]

By JOHN M. MORAN
Collegian Staff

Reaction to the nearing possibility of the repeal of Sunday "Blue Laws" was predictably varied among local stores and members of the UMass community. Those who could comment on the possibility of the Sunday opening of their stores generally felt they would remain open. Clergymen were predictably opposed to the move, and students took diverse positions on the question.

Some representative samples:

Thomas Keene, a manager at Zayre in the Campus Shopping Center in Hadley said he had been directed not to comment on any aspect of the Sunday closing laws and to refer any inquiries to the chain's Consumer Affairs Office.

Zayre has challenged the state's right to force stores to close on Sunday in the past by opening several stores. Consumer Affairs Office spokespersons were unavailable for comment last night.

Spokesmen at both Stop & Shop and Finast were unable to say if they would open on Sundays if there was such an option.

"We have no word from our office," said the spokesman from Finast at the Mountain Farms Mall. "I imagine if the competition opens, we will also."

Harold Hartzler, Department Head of General Business and Finance in the School of Business Administration said that while evidence shows that the more days a store is open the more business it will do, he doubts that many of the stores in the center will be open.

Father Leo Leclerc from the Newman Center said he would not approve of the repeal of the blue laws for the four Sundays between Thanksgiving and Christmas, but stated he would not oppose the change from the pulpit.

"My gut feeling is that I'm glad it's only for four Sundays out of the year. But I wonder if this is the sign of things to come. I think it's unfortunate for people who might be obliged to work on Sunday.

It has become the only day that families can be together as families.

The reasons of students for liking or disliking the proposed change in the Sunday "blue laws" ran from wanting to be able to use every day of the week to not wanting to work on Sunday and from wanting to see the package stores open to seeing no need for the change.

The People's Gay Alliance
cordially invites all people
to a
Halloween Disco
Fri. Oct. 28, 1977 9:00 pm
Costumes Welcome!
CC 10th floor $ 1.00 donation

THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $4.95 served every day
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $5.95
HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
come to our
4th ANNUAL HALLOWEEN COSTUME PARTY
Thurs., Oct. 27th
Damon Rd., Northampton

QUALITY DOWN VESTS
Don Gleason's has the best quality down vests in the area. Filled with PRIME NORTHERN GOOSE DOWN with colorful rip stop nylon outers. Assorted colors. XS thru XL.
ONLY $29.95
ALSO VISIT US TO BROWSE THRU OUR VAST SELECTION OF OUT DOOR CLOTHING FOR FALL AND WINTER.
Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
Weekdays 9-5:30
Saturday 9-5:00

Poor Richards
Rte. 9
Amherst
Miller Nite
BOTTLES
Miller
&
Miller Lite
50¢
8 - 11 pm
T - shirts and Prizes

C & C LIQUORS
BEHIND THE POLICE STATION
FOR SUDDEN SERVICE DELIVERY 253-3091
GREEN DEATH 16 oz. N.R. $7.15 case $1.79 six
BALLANTINE ALE 16 oz. RET. $5.25 case & deposit
KNICKERBOCKER 16 oz. RET. $5.25 case & deposit
ALMADEN CHABLIS & BURGUNDY MAGNUMS $3.49
20% OFF
MIRASSOU WINES

FALL DISCOUNT
You may not have the most economical engine in your VW.
You can't have it when your VW is not performing properly. It's what you bought your VW for: lower gasoline bills, performance with economy. Let your VW continue to give you the economy you paid for with our Engine Performance Special.
Please bring this coupon with you to qualify for this Special.
REPLACE PLUGS, POINTS • SET TIMING AND DWELL ANGLE • ADJUST VALVES • TEST COMPRESSION • CLEAN AIR CLEANER • LUBRICATION • CHANGE OIL • FILTER REPLACEMENT
Engine Performance Special
$39.95
(Reg. $52.00)
Valid until 11/11/77
All work is done by trained VW mechanics, using genuine VW parts. We personally guarantee all work on your car for six months or 6,000 miles, whichever comes first, in normal use.
Models with air conditioning slightly higher: ask for special price.
NORTHAMPTON VOLKSWAGEN BMW, INC.
246 KING STREET • RT. 5
NORTHAMPTON, MASS. 01060
PHONE 584-8620 • HOLYOKE 534-0791
SPECIAL COUPON

---

FREE FRYE BOOTS
We will give away a
FREE PAIR OF FRYE BOOTS
· your choice · each week for the next 6 weeks. Come in and register.
No purchase is necessary.
Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
10-6:00 Mon.-Sat. 253-5135

News in Brief

Enterprise test run comes down hard

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. [UPI] — The space shuttle Enterprise, on what was supposed to be its final free flight test, yesterday experienced its roughest landing so far, bouncing three times on a concrete runway after gliding from the back of its jumbo jet mothership.

Project officials said another test may be necessary.

At a news conference following the flight, which was witnessed by Britain's Prince Charles, former astronaut and project manager Donald "Deke" Slayton proclaimed the series of five tests a "success".

"We consider this the last test," Slayton said, "but that's not conclusive. We may fly one more after looking at the flight data."

Chicopee man real auto inventor

CHICOPEE, Mass. [UPI] — A local official wants the western Massachusetts home of Charles Duryea — the man who invented the American automobile — designated a national landmark.

Family records show Duryea, a bicycle manufacturer, built the first four American "horseless carriages" in a shed at the rear of his Front and Grape Street home in the 1870s, according to alderman Thaddeus Drewniak.

Later, Duryea moved his operation from the shed, which has since been demolished, to leased space at a Springfield plant.

U.N. to embargo arms to S. Africa

WASHINGTON [AP] — President Carter will support a U.N. embargo on arms sales to South Africa to demonstrate American distaste for mass arrests and the banning of black publications by the Pretoria government, it was learned yesterday.

U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young yesterday consulted with French, British, West German and Canadian diplomats in New York in an effort to frame a joint strategy within the Security Council for dealing with the South Africa issue.

The council is debating a request by African countries for a mandatory arms embargo and a resolution calling on all governments to halt new investment in South Africa.

Young said earlier this year that sanctions on new investment for fixed periods might be an appropriate course of action against South Africa's policy of racial segregation.

Nuke Commission to visit Seabrook

MANCHESTER, N.H. [AP] — Reporters and the public will not be allowed to accompany the Nuclear Regulatory Commission next Monday when it tours the Seabrook nuclear power plant site, the Public Service Co. of New Hampshire said yesterday.

Norman Cullerot, a spokesman for the utility, which owns half of the proposed plant, said it was not allowing the public to attend because it considered the tour a "working session" rather than a public hearing.

Bill coming up for solar heating loans

WASHINGTON [UPI] — House and Senate negotiators agreed Wednesday on a $100 million program offering low-interest loans to people installing solar energy devices at home, but killed a "vanpool" ride-sharing program President Carter had proposed to save fuel.

The negotiators predicted they would have the first section, or conservation segment, of the new energy bill virtually complete by Thursday evening.

Banks investigated because of Lance

WASHINGTON [UPI] — As a result of the Bert Lance case, the nation's 14,700 federally insured banks have been ordered to supply information to Congress on several banking practices such as overdrafts, it was announced yesterday.

The three federal regulatory agencies which oversee operation of the nation's insured banks — the Comptroller of the Currency, the Federal Reserve System and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation — said forms would be mailed to the banks in the next few days seeking information on several subjects.

In addition to overdrafts, the regulatory agencies said they also requested information on bank stock loans, loans to officials and major stockholders of other banks and inside loans.

The order is going out to the banks at the request of the Senate Banking Committee "to assist it in considering the need for legislation pertaining to commercial bank lending and overdraft practices," an announcement said.

Social Security may soon go broke

WASHINGTON [AP] — The House voted yesterday against bringing more than six million government workers under Social Security, a change that would have reduced the stiff tax increases needed to save the system from going broke.

The 386-38 vote came as the House considered amendments to a bill to bail Social Security out of its financial troubles by nearly tripling Social Security taxes for many American workers over the next 10 years.

Footwear Sale
15% off.
CLOGS, FRYES or ROCKPORTS.
15% off Men's or Women's clogs, boots or shoes between now and Saturday, October 29, 1977.
DANCEWEAR and LEOTARDS
For dancing, jogging, exercising, tennis, swimming or evenings out.
MILLISKIN LEOTARDS by DANSKIN
CAPEZIO LEOTARDS
Fall colors and styles
PATCHWORK QUILTED VESTS
For Women, Reg. $14.95
For one week only.
$9.95
CREW NECK SHETLAND SWEATERS
For Men, only $12.95
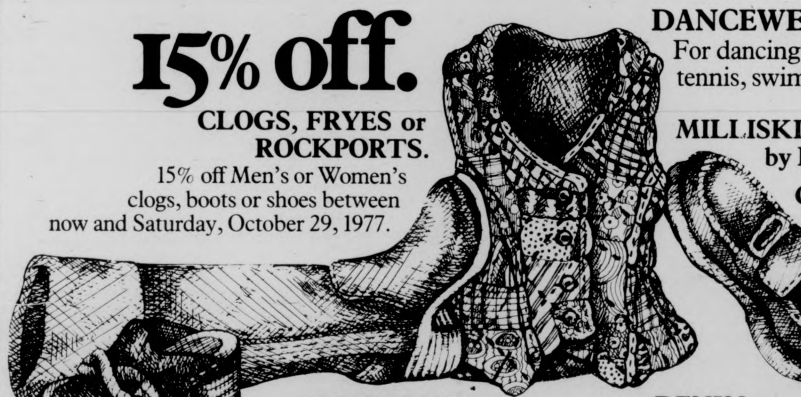
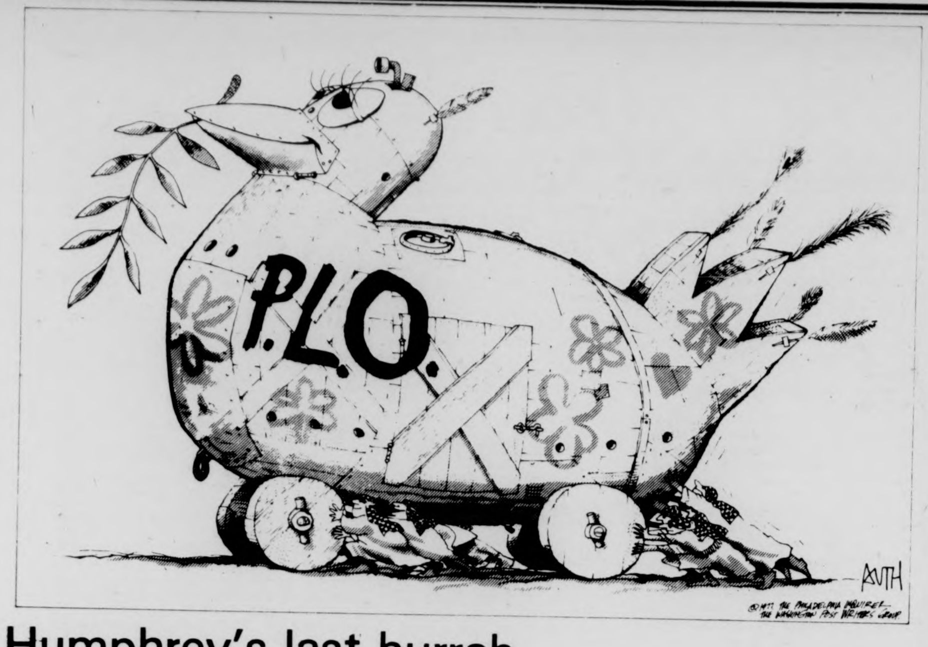
DENIM WRAP SKIRTS
$14.00
SWEATSHIRT ROBES
$12.00
Amherst, Rt. 9—next to McDonald's, 584-9690
Store hours: Monday to Friday 10-9, Saturday 10-6.
THE LODGE at harvard square ®





P.L.O.
AUTH
©1977 The Philadelphia Inquirer
The Washington Post Writers Group

Humphrey's last hurrah

When Jimmy Carter arrived in Minneapolis last Sunday it was to witness the beginning of the end of a political era, as much as to close out his badly backfiring 3-day campaign to renew his mandate from the people. He had come to escort Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey back to Washington. The crowd gathered at the airport had come to say goodby, perhaps for the final time, to their "Happy Warrior" and not really to greet the President.

Humphrey, stricken by a cancer his doctors have called "terminal", looked closer to 86 instead of 66. He said, "I am happy to report to you that I do feel so much better. Everything, of course is relative."

His voice is still strong, and though he is reported to walk now with a slight limp, all his strength has not yet deserted him. If the smiles of Carter and his wife, Muriel Humphrey, seemed strained, the Senator's own good humor and high spirits were more than enough to send thoughts of human mortality packing. His vitality and optimism managed better than all the maudlin sentiment of well-wishers to dispel the gloom overlying the occasion. He spoke eagerly of returning to Washington, calling it "good therapy".

In triumph, Humphrey, who was first elected Senator in 1948, returned after a three month absence to his home on Capitol Hill Tuesday. Amid standing ovations and speeches of praise from leaders of both parties, Humphrey rose to praise friendship as the greatest gift.

"Without the friendship, kindness, and generosity of friends there is no healing," he said of qualities he himself exemplifies.

He served as mayor of Minneapolis from 1945 to 1948 when, as a delegate to the Democratic convention he rose to national prominence by leading the successful floor fight to incorporate what was then considered a liberal civil rights plank into the party platform, a move which precipitated the walk-out of southern Democrats.

"He has been," said UMass political science professor Jerome Mileur Wednesday, "a champion of civil rights throughout his career."

"He's certainly been the leading liberal spokesman of this time," said Mileur, noting Humphrey was a major spokesman for poverty and civil rights programs of the 50's and early 60's.

Of Humphrey's character Mileur said, "I had occasion to do some advance work for him in '64 on college campuses; I found he's precisely the same person in a hotel room working out the last miserable detail of the campaign as he is in front of the T.V. cameras — instantly likeable. He is a remarkably genuine article."

The memories Edwin Gere, Jr., also of the UMass political science department, has of Humphrey, are on an equally personal level.

"I remember reading a story a while ago by a reporter who interviewed him. The only time he was available for the reporter to see him was late at night at his home. When the reporter got there it was 10:30 or 11:00 o'clock at night and Humphrey was painting the kitchen. I'm sure it didn't contribute very much to his political expertise, but it tells you a lot about the man," said Gere.

"He's always had this very human, down-to-earth quality," he said. "I went to graduate school with a fellow who went to Washington on a fellowship and was assigned to Humphrey. He said it was one of the greatest experiences of his life. It means a lot more when a third person, a friend, says something like that."

"He's always had a very progressive outlook on life," said Gere. "It's really a shame he was never elected President."

Humphrey, of course, was narrowly defeated by Richard Nixon in the 1968 Presidential election.

In his words to the Senate Tuesday, Humphrey acknowledged that he would not run for office again, but he spoke, as always, of the future. "I don't want anything," he said. "But I can help."

Niel Moeller is a Collegian Commentator.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003/(413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Joseph A. Quinlan, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Richard J. Pioli, Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Fifine D. Ball, Women's Coordinator.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the, Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Jabber, jabber, talk to the sky

steve dubin

The most challenging question of modern man in our stupified television age seems to be, "What to say during a commercial break?"

It is said that one of man's greatest inventions is "language." Unfortunately "babble" soon followed. Is the function of talking so we can finally shut-up?

The rightful purpose of language is to disseminate information that is vital to the species. Much of the exercise of language is foolish conversation, babble, and idle chatter; the icing on the icing.

This brings to mind a simple tale I read as a child. There was a very bewildered little boy. He was confused by the many shortcomings of communication through speech.

He saw a group of friends meet on street corners embarrassingly kicking pebbles while groping for something to say. The staple conversation topic of weather usually arose.

The little boy observed at his parents' cocktail parties that the most popular guest was always the guy that was fashionably leaning on the piano. This amusing man would fill the room with many words without saying anything worth hearing. The man wasn't even pretending to be profound. He was just filling in the awkward periods of silence. His theory seemed to be, "If you've got nothing to say, say it!"

The little boy realized the puspose for speech was being sorrowfully abused, that of communicating a meaning. People just talked to entertain themselves and pass the time.

He was puzzled and soon ceased to open his mouth except to eat. He would listen if the speaker was saying something substantial or relevant. His rare response was a smile or a frown.

When the little boy was approached with comments of crude witisism or rambling idiocy he spoke his only words, "Goodbye."

Discrimination in the long run

The theory that Apartheid is really a form of Affirmative Action probably will not be widely accepted. All the same, it is quite consistent with the Justice Department's pro-Affirmative Action brief in the Bakke case.

The brief's major premise is that "society" must "restore" victims of discrimination to the position they would have occupied but for the discrimination against them or their forebears." That is, as long as it evens out in the long run, it is okay to discriminate. Just make sure that every group gets its day in the sun.

This is, of course, exactly what the South Africans are doing, except that they're doing it in opposite the way it's done in the States. And they're really much more clever than us. By discriminating against the majority first, the minority not only is assured of a good time for awhile, but when the majority finally has enough, the minority will be easy to crush.

The American way of equalizing discrimination is much less efficient, since it ignores the fact that majorities are notoriously loathe to surrender their powers. Just consider the unreasonable opposition by many reactionaries to current Affirmative Action policies such as the obviously invaluable educational quotas.

No, what we keep forgetting is that it is only fair to let each group be unjust to the others. We're just reluctant to change roles from time to time. Actually discrimination is like Alka Seltzer. If one puts in only a little water, it tastes terrible, but it's over very quickly. But if it's very diluted, it doesn't taste as bad, but really lasts a long time.

What we keep forgetting is that it is only fair to let each group be unjust to the others.

So as long as we insist on judging everyone according to the sins or sufferings of their ancestors, here's a proposal for getting the whole thing over with rather than agonizing over the amorphous vagaries of Affirmative Action forever. Why not give the minorities in America everything, but only for a short while. For example, if the exchange rate were, say, 10 years of minority dictatorship for every 100 years of past majority discrimination (though certain bitter types would prefer a 1-1 ratio), then by 2017, we'd all be even up and be able to treat each other as individuals.

Of course that might not be as much fun as decades of litigation, but it would be a great savings as we would not then need to hire a multi-racial, multi-ethnic, multi-sexual group of accountants and assessors to figure out how many generations it will take to achieve "restoration" by the present methods.

We could of course stop this discrimination nonsense immediately, but history, human nature, and common sense being what they are, this probably will be an unpopular course. So the majority might as well get on with the task of paying up and purging themselves of real or imagined sins. I'll gladly do my part: while none of my ancestors even came close to the Mayflower, and while I myself did not become an American citizen until 1968, I hereby voluntarily renounce the position Harvard Med school would of course have offered me due to my WASPness, on condition that they leave my spot in the Law School alone

Jan van Tol is on vacation in an egalitarian society.

Shirking freedom

jerry rogers

First, a little background. Last Sunday, over 300 miles from Amherst, a story was told. The setting was an organic chemistry class at the State University of New York (SUNY) at Potsdam. It seems that representatives of the Student Association of the State University (SASU) had recently informed the students at Potsdam about the possibility of organizing students on all the SUNY campuses into a union.

In juxtaposition with this report on unionization was the organic chemistry class story. In this particular organic class the students had the right to select when the exams would be scheduled, as long as they scheduled three allowing for the semester's material to be completely covered.

It was not until late in the semester, around midway through, that someone made a motion to schedule an exam. Heated discussion ensued during which alliances were formed and stands on the issue were determined by class (academic not economic) schedules. The decision was put off many times for flimsy reasons, and the first exam has yet to be scheduled.

At one point during the debates one woman suggested to the professor that he set a date for the exam because the class could not come to an agreement. When you give people a democracy, they always want someone else to make the decisions for them, he responded.

The thinking that led this woman to seek benevolent leadership from the professor closely parallels the thinking of the anti-union radical fringe operating on this campus. It has been suggested that the group is operating with the support of some of the younger members of the university administration.

They and other young administrators-in-training would have us all believe, as it is told by the anti-union RSO, that the freedom students would receive upon unionization would not be worth the accompanying responsibilities and the burden of making administrative decisions.

One philosophy behind the shirking of freedom of choice and responsibility assumes people are unable to make decisions independently because they crave the security of being among a majority.

The whole strength of any dissident group lies in its ability to transmit the impression that it is representative of a potential majority, if not an already established majority.

That a small band of anti-unionists can attract so much attention and convey this image only points out our hierarchical, class consicous history of development. It promotes a culture that accepts only that which is accomplished through our allegedly democratic institutions as valid and assumes that access to the decision making processes is equal for all. while equality has historically been a premise of governments, it has also been historically obvious that most governments fail to assure their people this right.

The whole strength of any dissident group lies in its ability to transmit the impression that it is representative of a potential majority, if not an already established majority.

It is no wonder that the move against unionization has the weight of this history behind it. The anti-unionists claim to be protecting freedom of choice, but there is no freedom in accepting their position. They promise divine democratic leadership from the administration. To accept an administration rooted in centuries of government fostered class division as capable of true democracy is archaic response.

Jerry Roger's columns appear every Thursday in the Collegian.

Debater termed antagonistic

To the Editor:

The debate on the "Crisis in the Middle East" had the potential of being a debate of high merit. However, the quality of this debate was brought down considerably by the presence of one man. John Hilson.

The report in the Collegian [Tues., Oct. 25] was wrong in reporting that all four panelists "agreed the path to peace is a clear one." Three of the four were talking peace. John Hilson, on the other hand, never once mentioned peace. Instead he vehemently attacked Israel and Zionism and even at one point made some very sarcastic remarks to the Jews present in the audience.

His method of attack was a feeble attempt to make a point. He brought up the faults of Israel without mentioning the incredible amount of faults that infects the Arab nations. He totally ignores the fact that Israel is the only stable democracy in that area of the world.

His solution to the Mid-East crisis is clearly obvious: Remove one of the parties involved, meaning Israel, and you won't have a crisis. But this type of reasoning only leads to war and all the horrors that war entails.

John Hilson's actions during the time that the pro-Israel speakers were talking makes one wonder about the maturity of this man. His sarcastic smirks and attacking nature makes him nothing more than a professional antagonist not worthy for a debate with the statesman like qualities of the other three members of the panel.

We are suggesting that the Young Socialist Alliance has brought its integrity down by inviting such a man to speak.

Jeff Santis
Elise C. Goldman
Bruce Smith
Julia Mack

Whistle-stop testing criticized

To the Editor:

The Course I dropped at UMass

A whistle blows. No, this is not an athletic field — or an assembly line. This is Marketing 301, an introductory course in the Fundamentals of Marketing. In here, the whistle signals the start of a [surprise] quiz. The first of four multiple choice questions is flashed before you via an opaque projector. You have 45 seconds to decide on, and record the answer to, each of the four questions. Three minutes later, the whistle blows again. Time's up — surrender your test card.

Professor Charles Schewe, who teaches the course, has devised this technique to prevent cheating. He also utilizes this approach to force people to keep up with his course material. But we are, after all, in a university. At this level it's not an instructor's responsibility to force us to learn; students have come here to study and if they mean to learn, they will. Aside from penalizing a not insignificant category of intelligent students who cannot work under split-second pressure [and who tend to have difficulty, incidentally, when taking their SAT exams], this classroom practice is generally demeaning both to the student body and to the university. It's the kind of approach that contributes to the school's being called a factory.

With regard to the principles of teaching and learning, an exam administered in this fashion tests one's ability to speed-read far more than it does one's knowledge of the particular subject matter. And at best, it tests for rote answers. It's hard to see the relationship to the real business world. A person who tried to make a sound marketing or other business decision within 45 seconds is unlikely to remain in business very long. Moreover, this method seems especially uninviting and inappropriate for use in an introductory course in the field.

Because exams of this sort prevent students from thinking about a question and attempting to reason out an answer, they particularly penalize students like myself whom I referred to above because we like to think things out slowly and carefully and often cannot function well under this kind of pressure. But this is not written as a personal gripe — rather to hopefully affect a needed change.

Donald C. Haas

'Is this really America?'

To the Editor:

This past Saturday I went to Kent State to demonstrate. I had been there twice before, and in no way did I expect to experience what I and about a thousand others did at the hands of the Kent State and Portage County police.

Last Thursday, K.S.U. President Golding succeeded in obtaining an injunction banning all rallies on campus by any non-recognized student groups. When we began gathering on the Commons around noon in violation of that order, we were facing about fifty police officers in full riot gear standing in formation less than a hundred yards away [their numbers would later grow to over a hundred]. Sheriff's deputies began handing out copies of the injunction to protesters, who were advised not to accept them. From across the field, a deputy on a bullhorn began reading the injunction to the protesters, who in turn began to chant, rendering his words unintelligible. I had been asked to serve as a marshall along with about a couple of dozen others for the purpose of keeping the line together and to serve as a bulwark between the police and demonstrators. In concert with the cacaphony of chanting and the mechanical voice of the deputy, the riot troops moved toward the crowd, lined up, and in some macabre, choreographed dance, began half-stepping towards us with their clubs held straight in front of them. We formed ranks quickly and began to move out. As I stared into those faceless visors, I was filled with fear; not so much for my physical safety, but more in amazement and wonder at what this was coming down to.

We moved to a higher spot on campus and began the rally. After about forty-five minutes, some people began yelling, "They're coming up the stairs!" Again, we began moving to another part of campus, with the riot squad silently following a short distance behind us.

This time we marched to where a pick-up truck had set up a sound system. The crowd listened to speakers for about an hour before the police moved us once more, this time led by four mounted police who drove their horses into the crowd in an effort to disperse it. I'll always remember the horseman closest to me, the hatred in his eyes and displayed in his voice everytime he struck the beast's haunches with his club and shouted, "Hyah," to both his horse and to us, for it seemed that in his eyes we were equals.

We were forced across the street and onto the side of a hill. There was chaos and confrontation. I later heard that a few rocks had been thrown, but there couldn't have been many, because I personally saw none. It was at this point that Bob Bolandrina, a Student Senator at UMass, was arrested.

Despite the confusion that reigned, the demonstrators regrouped on the road and re-entered the campus. We got as far as the dormitories when we were again confronted by the police.

We stopped in our tracks and continued chanting. I heard a loud whirring sound, like that of a helicopter flying close overhead. I looked and saw none. Then I smelled something like vinegar. Suddenly clouds of pepper gas wafted through the crowd. It was not yet thick, so we tried to continue marching through it. The police then shot tear gas canisters and began moving into the crowds with the pepper gas machines. We were forced to disperse and make a run for it.

My only previous experience with the effects of tear gas is what I had seen on television: the victim emerges from the crowd with teary eyes and a cough. It is difficult to describe what it's really like, but I'll try: as you're running you're breathing as hard as you can, but it feels as if you're suffocating, and drivel runs down the front of your shirt as a result. Mucous pours out your nose. Your face and eyes burn and you can barely see.

There was screaming all around me. The police drove cars through the crowd at 40 M.P.H., shooting canisters out the windows. A demonstrator had his ankle broken by one. A man in a wheelchair had to dive out of it to avoid being hit by another. He lay on the ground, choking from the fumes until other demonstrators put him back in his chair, and wheeled him to safety.

When we finally ran to safety ourselves, a seeming eternity, many of us surrounded a mud puddle, splashing our faces and rinsing our mouths; anything to get some relief. The shock turned to anger and many had tears in their eyes which were not a direct result of the gas. The muddy water had washed more of the gas residue from my face into my eyes. As I wandered blindly, another demonstrator came and held me tight. At that moment, the love of two brothers flowed between us, and all I could think was, "Is this what America does to its children? Sweet Jesus, is this really America?

Monday, six people were arrested at the Kent State Campus Center for reading aloud the first amendment. At this writing, Bob Bolandrina is in Kent awaiting trial, out on eight-thousand dollar bail. He faces a stiff fine at the very least. A defense fund is being set up for Bob at the RSB table in the Campus Center. Contribute something, anything, and rap to the people there. Come to S.U.B. room 413A at 7:30 Thursday night for a discussion on what has happened and future plans. The question of freedom concerns us all.

Jimmy Blihar

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Excutive Editor, c-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. the day preceding that date.

Quilapayun, world-famous Chilean folk group.

The world famous Chilean folk group, Quilapayun, will perform on Nov. 1 at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium. Tickets are $3.

The seven-member group has played in more than 30 countries since its exile from Chile after the miliatry coup Sept. 11, 1973. The members had served as cultural ambassadors of the Chilean Government under Salvador Allende, before the takeover.

Quilapayun's first U.S. tour in April 1975 met enthusiastic response. The Washington Post called them "superb artists." The New York Times, praising their "urgent intensity," declared that "the long wait had not been in vain." At UMass, more than 1,000 people witnessed a moving and musically memorable event. Quilapayun's combination of "scholarship, high artistry, passion, and dramatic fervour" (The Guardian, London) was evident to all.

The group plays a multitude of flutes, lutes and percussion instruments used in the traditional music of the Andes. Their roots in Latin American folk music fuse with lively lyrics expressing social and political themes to form a contemporary musical style which is a leading force in the "New Song Movement" of Latin America.

During the Allende years, Quilapayun played at rallies to audiences numbering in the hundreds of thousands throughout Chile and abroad, on television, and at informal concerts in factories, cooperative farms and shanty towns.

Their record "Cueca de la Libertad" won the French Grand Prix International du Disque in 1974 under the category foreign popular song. In the U.S. their records are available on the Paredon label.

The songs they have written since the coup express solidarity with those who, like fellow folk singer Victor Jara, have been killed by the military government, and reaffirm the group's faith in the popular movements of Latin America. Quilapayun donates a portion of its earnings to suppor Chilean refugee and resistance groups.

The concert is sponsored by the Western Massachusetts Chile Solidarity Committee.

Four Seasons
Package Store
"DISCOUNT LIQUORS"
RUSSELL ST., HADLEY at the Mt. Farms Mall

Schlitz Beer
12oz. cans
$5.79 case

Yago
SANT' GRIA
$1.79
23.5 oz. bottle

Dumont
coffee
&
brandy
$5.29
1.75 liter

Old Milwaukee
BEER
12 oz. N.R.
$4.99
case

Tuesday October 25 to Saturday October 29
We reserve the right to limit quantities

DC Menu

TODAY

LUNCH — Macaroni & Cheese, Italian Hoagie, Basics; Macaroni and Cheese, Garbanzo Beans & Rice Provencal.

DINNER — Baked Chicken, Reuben Sandwich, Bread Buffet, Basics; Baked Chicken, Pota-o Mushroom Delight, Bread Buffet.

TOMORROW

LUNCH — Fishburgers, Turkey Divan, Basics; Vegetable Hot Pot, Turkey Divan.

DINNER — Steak, Baked Fish, Basics; Baked Fish, Crusty Soybean Crowd Pleaser.

Halloween party features Widespread Depression

The Union Program Council's Halloween party Monday at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom will feature the fabulous swing orchestra: Widespread Depression Orchestra. The 10-man band, reminiscent of the Count Basic Orchestra, will play the goodtime music of the swing era. Celebrities like Count Basie have deemed Widespread Depression Orchestra a "great band," and Charlie Harrison (Duke Ellington's manager) calls them "a fabulous group; the best I've seen in years."

Admission is $1 with costume, $2 for everyone else. Tickets can be purchased at TIX in the Student Union (across from the Post Office). There will be a cash bar and prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS

COSTA DE SOL
$2.95
NOW
$2.25

ICE COLD
KEG BEER
$21.00
And Up

SCHMIDT'S
12 oz cans
$5.90 case $1.50 six

In-door Savings too good to be advertised.
Come see for yourself!
- UNLIMITED QUANTITIES ON SALES ITEMS
- NO EXTRA FOR DELIVERY
- AMHERST'S CLOSEST LIQUOR STORE TO UMASS

In Amherst Center, across from the green 253-5441

WARE FACTORY SHOE OUTLET
EAST ST., WARE, MASS.

FACTORY TO YOU SAVINGS
OF 25% to 50%

FAMOUS NAME WOMEN'S SHOES!!
Including: AFTER SKI BOOTS, & FASHION BOOTS

New Fall Arrivals

WARE FACTORY SHOE OUTLET
HOURS: - Mon. thru Sat. 9 to 5 P.M.
Also: PICK - A - DILLY FACTORY SHOE OUTLET
64 North St. Pittsfield Mass.
Tel. 1-967-9753

---

HATCH
presents
FAT

Thursday-Saturday
Oct. 27-29
Thursday Cover $1.00

Notices

ALL UNIVERSITY WOMEN INVITED

All University women invited to a fashion show tonight at Chi Omega Sorority. For more info and rides call 545-0162 or 545-2092.

ATTENTION NORTHEAST

This week's Area Government meeting will be held in the Hamlin House Conference Room, 6:30. All reps should attend this meeting.

DIABETES MEETING

Tonight, diabetes discussion open to all Health Services 302, 7 p.m.

FREE HALLOWEEN PARTY

Free admission. Featuring the Band Marz. Free mixers and Munchies. Bottle watcher to watch your bottle (B.Y.O.B.) Costume Contest with $15, $10, $5 gift certificate at local record store. In Grayson Dorm Main Lounge, 9 a.m. to 1 a.m. Orchard Hill.

LOST

—Tennis racquet left in Grad. Research Tower rm. 316. If found PLEASE! call 6-7076.

—One Radio-Shack stereo amplifier from the Signal Theory Lab in Eng. East. My senior project (7 mos. work so far) can't be finished without it. If whoever took it returns it to where they found it, no questions will be asked. Please, bring it back now.

—A black key case was lost in vicinity of Southwest or in the Campus Center. If found please call Chris, 6-4105.

NAIADS

Meeting tonight. We'll discuss swimsuits, t-shirt designs, and December show.

EQUESTRIAN DRILL TEAM

Tryouts Monday, 4:30 p.m. at Tillson Farm. For info call 5-0260.

FOUND

Set of 6 keys, brown leather case, includes 2 for an AMC car. By the Campus Pond, library-side. Oct. 25. Call 256-8038.

WORK WEEKEND

Stockbridge Freshmen class is holding a work weekend tomorrow to Sunday. Persons interested contact senate office 545-0189 or ATG 545-2186.

WELCOME TO KAPPA

Sisters of Kappa Kappa Gamma welcome the new Pledges into our home.

KENT STATE SUPPORTERS

Meeting on Thursday, Oct. 27, 7:30 p.m. rm. 413A S.U. Discussing latest developments, including the Oct. 22 Demonstration at Kent.

NON-UNIONIST STUDENTS

Membership and strategy talks. All welcome, 6:30-7:30 p.m. CC 169.

GAY ALLIANCE COFFEEHOUSE

Entertainers needed to perform at a coffeehouse Friday November 4, from 8:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. at the Hampden D.C. Theatre. Call People's Gay Alliance Office 545-0154 or Mark at 546-6253.

PETITION TO DECRIMINALIZE MARIJUANA

Meeting of all volunteers in CC 904-908 at 9:30 Thurs. Oct. 27th. New volunteers welcome.

CONSUMER BOYCOTT

J.P. Stevens Boycott Education Committee will hold a discussion on the current status of the boycott. CC, 7:30 p.m.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

Sunday from 9 a.m. - 1 p.m. on 10th floor Campus Center — for Sylvan residents; music by South Station.

UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL

Important general meeting for all members, 7:00 rm. 415A S.U.

UMASS HOCKEY TEAM

Interested in playing ice hockey or street hockey? Meeting Thursday 9 p.m. in Hasbrouck 20.

UMASS HANG GLIDING CLUB

Meeting tonight at 8, CC 101. We have 2,000 to post to advertise for our movie.

UMSFCU SHAREHOLDERS

Meeting Thurs., Nov. 3rd at 7:30 p.m. in CC rm. 804-808. All C.U. members are urged to attend.

VOLLEYBALL CLUB

Practice 6-8:00 p.m. Boyden Gym. Please bring $2 for dues.

WOMEN THERAPISTS

Nov. 3, 8:30 p.m., 6th floor lounge, Thompson. Informal discussion with four women therapists.

CFLSA

Meeting 8 p.m. New Africa House, first floor, finalizing plans for Workshop on Racism.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

68 Galaxy 500 Ford. $700. 527-5746.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Res. 665-4384.

73 Vega Wgn. 4spd. VG cond. New tires. $1,200 Tom 549-4600 ext. 323.

68 Dodge 1-ton Pick up. 6 cyl., 4 spd. std Mech. O.K., cab rotted. $245. 256-0681.

1967 Datsun 411, mechanically sound, new battery, radials, $295. or B.O., 584-4307.

71 MGB exc. cond. $1,900 or B.O. 549-5993.

1975 Volvo 164, AC, cruise control, Michelins and snows, leather interior, excellent condition inside and out. Best Offer. Call 253-5349, you won't regret it.

72 Toyota Carina std., good condition. $1,100. or Best Offer. Call weekends or after 6P.M. 665-4925.

72 Vega Wagon. Good stereo system. Good cond. $850. Call 546-6879.

74 Chevy Pick-up Low mi. 2300 Call eve. 584-1094.

71 Tor. Runs well. Look Bd. $125. 549-6382.

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

SUPER BIKE '74 KAW. Z-1 900cc. In very good condition. Kerker pipe, Denselube chain. OFFERS? 665-3031.

FOR SALE

2 Continental stud-snow radials 175-14 $160., 4 Fireston radials 155-13 $80.. 64580 ask Bill, evenings.

Fender Bass-Music Master. Excel. cond., also Arthur E. Smith Maple Leaf 5-string Banjo. Excel. Cond. Best offer on both. Call Brian at 549-3796.

SAVE up to 50%on TENNIS SHOES! Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18.-30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181.

1970 Fiat 850 Spyder Sport conv. Very good condition. Must be seen. $600. or best offer. 533-6025 Roger after 6:00P.M.

Gold Couch & Chair. Exc. cond. $150. 734-8464 after 5PM Spfld.

Attention!! Joggers, B Ball players. S&G Enterprises sells excellent qualtiy sneakers at prices students can afford. Many famous brands GUARANTEED lowest prices anywhere. Call us before going to a high price retail. 546-9611.

69 Gibson Guitar J45 $225; 75 Martin Guitar D18S $350; Old Martin Roundback Mandolin $150. Negotiable. 253-5333 eves.

2 Continental Stud-snow radials 175-14, $60., 4 Firestone radials 155-13 $80. Call Bill 64580 evenings.

4 piece Oak Set Desk, 5 Draw Chest, 2 Cabnets. Asking $145. Call 253-7462.

68 Galant elec. guitar w/hardshell case, Univox 50 watt AMP w/reverb etc. $135. takes all. 546-7985 after 7P.M.

FOR RENT

Lg. Rm. avble. imm. Echo Hill Apt. $110/mo. Inc.:patio, w/w carpet, etc. 253-5288.

2 Bedrm. Apt. avail. imed. On bus line. Allows pets. 549-0839. 1 mile off campus.

TO SUBLET

To sublet 2br. on bus route for sping semester and summer. Call 665-3536.

WANTED TO RENT

1 Bdrm. in Apt. complex. available immed. $70. mo. Call Mitch 253-5487.

Furnished Apt. on bus route. 1 bedroom $195. All utilities included. 253-3336.

3 women seeking to sublet apt./house. Spring sem. On bus rte. Call Lisa 253-9066.

ROOM WANTED

Quiet undergraduate male seeks room in quiet house to hang his hat and study for spring semester, possibly January and for next two years, including summers. Willing to pay for own bath and kitchen, or easy access to them. Will live anywhere in area. Please call 545-3503 Mon. nites and ask for Jue or leave message for rm. 209 - 50724.

HELP WANTED

Vets-with Military Police experience-part time day work on weekends. Al Lasota 256-6381 eve.

Mature responsible person for child care and light housekeeping. One child nine months old. Monday through Friday 8:15-5:30. Own transportation. References. Call 253-7203 after 6P.M.

Bus companion wanted for 5 yr. old visiting Boston on weekends and returning. Some pay 586-4386.

Experienced Waitresses. Apply Poor Richards 11 to 1p.m. daily.

LOST

T.I.SR-40 Calculator. Somewhere in or between Goes. 152 and Bluewall on Sept. 28 after 8p.m. Desperately need it for doing my assignments! Please return - Reward and No Questions asked. 256-6059.

Notebooks in Hampden D.C. Reward 546-5389.

Ladies silver Lucien Picard watch, near Newman Center on Sunday Oct. 16. Blue face and stem. Reward call Brian Dingman 5-0070 and leave name.

Lost in Hampshire House Wilson Tennis racquet. If found contact 549-1202.

Lost pocketbook near Gorman Sunday night-If found call Sue 549-1122. REWARD!

FOUND

Woman's glasses found in S.W. Call 68953.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low price & full service. All models avail. T159 $225., 58-$99.95, 51-$49.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. Models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators. 549-1316.

SERVICES

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models, low prices. Jack 586-0610.

BIRTHDAY CAKES!! All occasion cakes beautifully decorated to order on 2 days notice. Delivery available. Call Laurie 546-9576.

Collegiate research papers. Thousands on file. All academic subjects. Send $1. for mail order catalog. Box25918-2, Los Angeles, Calif. 90025 (213) 477-8474.

ENTERTAINMENT

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco. Monitor Music. 546-4731. Rea.

PERSONALS

If your don't want to be locked into a 10 or 12 month lease check with us about our new rental agreement. We have 1 and 2 bedroom townhouse and garden units starting at $195. plus utilities-call SOUTH MEADOW 256-0166 for more details.

John, we've made it through a long and lonely time. Thank you for your strength and love. Forever together, Suanne.

Happy Birthday Pam Kathy Judy-the 18th.

INSTRUCTION

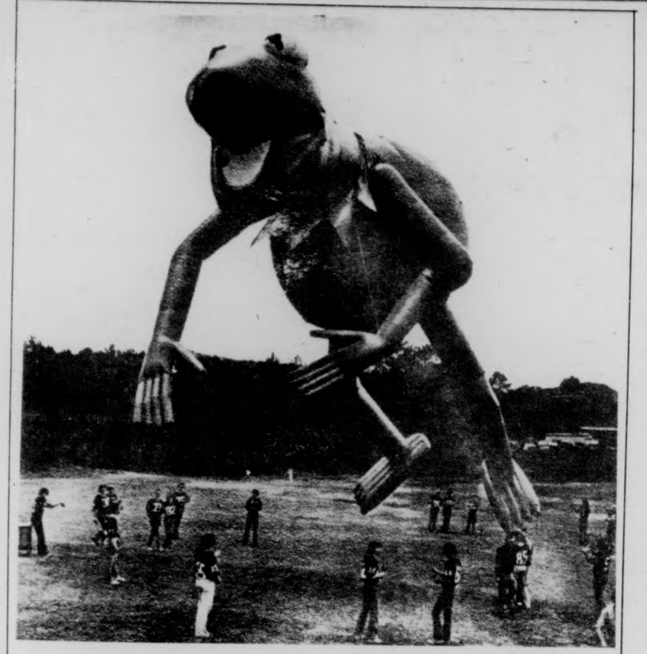
PRACTICAL ACUPUNCTURE will be taught. Everybody has the chance to become a MEDICAL DOCTOR. Info Oct. 27, PM7:40,CC917.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!



ROCKMART, Ga. — Kermit the Frogis held down by the Rockmart High football team. The balloon is made of a paper thin nylon fabric coated with a special synthetic rubber. It took three months to build. (UPI)

What's Happening

TODAY

COURSE

Parenting classes to be conducted by the division of nursing, at the Newman Center. The four-week course starts today. Interested persons should register by calling 549-0300 or by attending the first session. Additional information call 545-1338, or 545-1341.

FLORIDA SAILING — INTERSESSION

Mandatory meeting for those persons going to Florida. All others interested please do not attend. Prices, deposits, transportation plans, etc., need to be finalized by that weekend. CC 9th floor, October 27, Thurs., 7:30 p.m.

Honors Program offers research reimbursement

The University Senior Honors Program provides a limited amount of funds to reimburse students for expenses incurred by the research of thesis projects. These grants are available to any students currently undertaking a senior honors thesis whether a member of an honors program or not.

The absolute deadline for submitting signed applications with supporting statements is tomorrow. Application forms are available in the Honors Office, E-23 Machmer Hall.

Students applying for more than $50 are encouraged to make appointments for interviews with the Honors Office to discuss their grant requests.

FRANKENSTEIN

7, 9 and 11 p.m. — Campus Center Auditorium, $1.

LECTURE

The Department of Germanic language and literature will host a talk by Klaus Rifbjerg, Danish author and critic. He will read from selected English translations of his works. Mr. Rifbjerg will be accompanied by the critic, Torben Brostrom, 6th floor lounge, Herter Hall, 4 p.m. For further information contact Prof. Frank Hugus, 545-0310.

LECTURE

Prof. F.G. Friedmann, director of the America Institute at the University of Munich, will speak on "Civic Initiatives: A New Element in German Politics," Friday at 10 a.m., CC 905-909.

Bloodmobile scheduling continues today in CC

Scheduling for the Red Cross Bloodmobile's major fall blood drive continues today on the Campus Center concourse from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The blood drive is next week, Nov. 1 through Nov. 3, in the Student Union Ballroom. For more information call 549-0170.

EARN OVER $600 A MONTH FOR THE REST OF YOUR SENIOR YEAR.

If you are interested in math, physics or engineering, the Navy has a program you should know about.

It's called the NUPOC-Collegiate Program (NUPOC is short for Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate), and if you qualify it can pay you as much as $611 a month for the remainder of your senior year. Then after 16 weeks of Officer Candidate School, you will receive an additional year of advanced technical education, education that would cost thousands in a civilian school, but in the Navy we pay you. And at the end of the year of training, you'll receive a $3,000 cash bonus.

It isn't easy. Only one of every six applicants will be selected, and there are fewer than 300 openings. But those who make it find themselves in one of the most elite engineering training programs anywhere. With unequalled hands-on responsibility, a $24,000 salary in four years, plus travel, medical benefits and education opportunities.

For more details on this program, ask your placement officer when a Navy representative will be on campus, or call the Officer Program Office listed below; or send your résumé to Navy Nuclear Officer Program, Code 312, 4015 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va. 22203. The NUPOC-Collegiate Program. It can do more than help you finish college; it can lead to an exciting opportunity.

OFFICER PROGRAMS OFFICE, NAVY RECRUITING DISTRICT, 518-472-4424/4462

NAVY OFFICER.
IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.

---

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

YOU KNOW, Z, I'D FORGOTTEN HOW FUNKY THESE OLD ROOMS ARE!
MAKES A BODY ALMOST WONDER WHAT HE'S BEEN MISSING ALL THESE YEARS, EH?
ALMOST. WHERE YOU GOING?
THINK I'LL CHECK OUT THE SITUATION ACROSS THE HALL!
WELL, DON'T TAKE TOO LONG. I'M GOING TO NEED A HAND SETTING UP THE STEREO..
OH, WOW!
WHAT'D YOU FIND, ZONK?
GIRLS! LOTS OF 'EM! COME QUICKLY!
10-27
GBTrudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

WHAT DO YOU THINK I'D LOOK LIKE IN A DORTHY HAMILL HAIRCUT?
BOBBY ORR IN DRAG.
10-27

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

SEE THAT HOLE IN THE TREE?
IF YOU WATCH LONG ENOUGH SOMETIMES YOU'LL SEE AN OWL POKE HIS HEAD OUT...
© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
OR EVEN SOME OTHER STRANGE CREATURE
10-27
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Just because I'm a cactus, no one ever waters me.
I never look thirsty, they say.
I can't help it if needles don't wilt.
Ranney 10/27

WHAT NEXT? by Dick Janssen

...THIS IS A PUBLIC SERVICE MESSAGE..... SATURDAY MARKS THE END OF DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME .....
.... BE SURE TO TURN YOUR CLOCKS FORWARD OR BACKWARD ONE HOUR....
10/27
DJ

UM by Marty Maceda

IDEAS INC. featuring BILL LOON
MACEDA 10-27
AND THEN...
THE SLOG AND THE WOMAN SLIP OFF AS THE WIZID REACHES A FEVER PITCH.
HE FLIPS AND TRANSFORMS HIMSELF AND HIS HECKLERS INTO GIANT EXOTIC EDIBLE MUSHROOMS.
WE CALL IT WOK ON THE WILD SIDE!
THEY'LL NEVER BUY IT!
SOUNDS MOLDY TO ME!

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

OHHH! I REALLY GOT BELTED IN THE HEAD!
YOU BIG DUMPTRUCK! HOWCUM YOU HIT ME?
WELL... ER...
SHE WAS UNDER ORDERS FROM ME TO BRING YOU HERE!
YOU! SO YOURE THE ONE WHOSE BEEN CAUSING ALL THE TROUBLE!
LAFLER 10/27

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27 - Born today, you are a person of widely diversified talents, none of which, however will aid you in exploiting the others. Which means, it will be important for you to choose early in life one or two of your talents to develop. Somewhat restless, you must be careful to begin the next project immediatly after the completion of the present one. Otherwise, you could waste time, money and valuable energy.

You have an very retentive mind, seldom having to be told anything more than once. This is as advantageous to you when young as when mature, whether in school or career. Self-confident and ambitious, you should seek work that will put your talents to the test. Otherwise, you may never employ your gifts to their fullest and, thus, never reach the heights you are capable of.

Don't confuse nervous energy with creative energy. You may believe yourself to be in the best of health, ready to meet challenges successfully, only to find that what you took for energy was really no more than the "high" created by frayed nerves. Don't let yourself to be talked into more activities than you can manage in a calm way.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28

SCORPIO (Oct.23-Nov.21) - Be sure another knows your taste. Otherwise, you can't expect to receive a gift that suits you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.22-Dec.21) - Gains of the last few days should satisfy you for the time being. Look over recent purchases; detect a pattern.

CAPRICORN (Dec.22-Jan.19) - Recognize the point at which progress ceases to be continuous, and you will be able to pinpoint where error lies.

AQUARIUS (Jan.20-Feb.18) - See to upkeep of real property. Change and a chance for sale come your way today; make the most of both – your way.

PISCES (Feb.19-March 20) - Use your charm to gain your own ends, whether at home or at work. Don't, however, be obvious.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) - Be certain of the facts and figures you give to another to work with. If you're wrong, they will be wrong too.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) - Be cautious with new ventures. It may be you are about to jump out of the frying pan into the fire.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) - Friends and companions, at home or at work, make this an especially rewarding day. Open your heart and share memories.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) - Unless you are certain you have all the facts at your disposal, postpone a decision for or against change.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) - Guard against loss early in the day. Unless you protect your interests, you could fall far behind by day's end.

VIRGO (Aug.23-Sept.22) - You will have to use common-sense and all the wisdom you can muster by way of memory and past experience to combat ill fate today.

LIBRA (Sept.23-Oct.22) - If you force an issue early in the day, you may find you have permanently injured your cause. Remain open minded.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

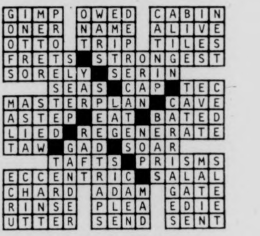
UNITED Feature Syndicate

Wednesday Puzzle Solved:



GIMP OWED CABIN
ONER NAME ALIVE
OTTO TRIP TILES
FRETS STRONGEST SORELY SERIN
SEAS CAP TEC
MASTERPLAN CAVE
ASTEP EAT BATED
LIED REGENERATE
TAW GAD SOAR
TAFTS PRISMS
ECCENTRIC SALAL
CHARD ADAM GATE
RINSE PLEA EDIE
UTTER SEND SENT

ACROSS

1 Hinged back of a book
6 "Like two peas in - —"
10 Kon Tiki, for one
14 Means of mass communication
15 Rage
16 La femme
17 Fairly well known fact: 2 words
19 Partiality
20 Civets' relatives
21 Do business with 23 Journeys
25 Draw, in sports
26 Upper atmosphere
27 Calendar abbr.
29 Opportune
31 Annoy by complaining
33 Shellac ingredient
34 Slander
36 Opposite of heads
40 Bedouin
42 Rowed
44 Go awry
45 Part of Britain
47 Arrayed
49 Grassland
50 Long-snouted fish
52 Electrical device
53 Be in operation
54 Dwelling unit: Abbr.
57 Conducted a band
59 Confer a name upon
61 At elevation zero: 2 words
64 "The — of Wrath"
67 Septet less four
68 Very bad disposition: 2 words
70 Numerical prefix
71 — of Sharon
72 Spermaceti component
73 Relaxation
74 Being: Sp.
75 General tendency

DOWN

1 Murky atmosphere
2 — le Moko
3 Same
4 Forty —: S.F. footballer
5 Spring holidays
6 — de Triomphe
7 Portion of a whole
8 Not concealed
9 Keep waiting
10 C.S.A. soldiers: Informal
11 Assumed name
12 P.R. man
13 Irritable
18 Yukon or Alaska native
22 Adroit
24 Asparagus part
27 Imperfection
28 — avis: Unusual person
30 An — — corn
32 Idle talk: Slang
35 Present opposing evidence
37 House of — —
38 Stead
39 Breadth
41 Ask humbly
43 Blueprint
46 Shopper's mecca
48 Take away a part
51 1775 alarmist
54 Early U.S. fur merchant
55 Gaspe Peninsula's — Rock
56 Honey possoms
58 Breed of cattle
60 Belay word
62 Spoils
63 Careen
65 Emerald Isle
66 Drive
69 Big name in Virginia

Pats prep for Jets

FOXBORO, Mass. [UPI] — The New York Jets aren't a team to be taken lightly, New England Patriots head coach Chuck Fairbanks said yesterday.

The Jets, although 2-4, have beaten some of the National Football League's contenders. They beat the Patriots 30-17 on Oct. 2, and last week took a 13-point lead over the Oakland Raiders into the fourth quarter before losing, 28-27.

Sunday the Jets travel to Schaefer Stadium to visit the Patriots, and Fairbanks doesn't think his team will be flat.

"I don't see how that can happen," he said. "They already beat us once. And I'm really impressed with the Jets. The quarterback (Richard Todd) has been outstanding during the last three weeks. They have good receivers, their backs are good at catching the ball, and they have good pass protection."

The Jets weren't highly regarded during preseason. But Fairbanks feels the team has changed its offensive philosophy to become a better team.

"I remember hearing the coach (Walt Michaels) saying during preseason he'd take a conservative approach to offense," Fairbanks said. "I think that was because he didn't know how his defense would turn out. But in the last three weeks they've really opened up their formations, and now they're leading the league in passing."

Todd is the reason the Jets lead the league in passing. The second-year Alabama graduate struck for over 300 yards last Sunday against Oakland. He is mobile enough to move out of the pocket when he gets into trouble.

"I think defensing him is going to be tough," said New England nose guard Ray Hamilton. "You have to be careful with a guy like him. It's harder to defend against the kind of guy who can move around back there."

Boston Celtic Charlie Scott drives past John Drew of Atlanta for a jump shot in Tuesday's Celtic win in the Hartford Civic Center. The Celtics' next action is tomorrow night when they travel to New Jersey. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Notices

CPR — A CPR lecture-type course will be held in NOPE for those who wish Basic certification. The course satisfies one part of the First Responder Law. Each full session is required and will meet from 4:15 - 6:15 p.m. on the following days: Nov. 1, 3, 8, 15, and 17. The class is limited to 20 persons. Register with the secretary in NOPE by next Monday at 4:30 p.m.

HOCKEY — All men and women interested in playing ice or street hockey — there will be a meeting tonight at 9 p.m. in room 20 Hasbrouck.

LET'S GO BOWLING

Bowling Alley located in basement of Boyden Bldg. open Monday-Saturday 4-10:30

50 cents a string

FANTASTIC IN 3-D
CREATURE FROM THE BLACK LAGOON
Starring
RICHARD CARLSON
JULIA ADAMS
A UNIVERSAL PICTURE

SAT OCT. 29 S.U.B
6:30 8:15 10:00 11:45

Confessions of a sports neurotic

By BILL TARTER
Collegian Staff

In this era of medical science and technological advancement, it seems as though man has uncovered all the mysteries that have surrounded him. Yet there will always remain a few elusive secrets that even the greatest intellects cannot comprehend.

Freud, for example, with all his wisdom would never fully understand a popular modern day neuroses that plagues people today called Sport 'Madness.'

If he ever tried to unlock the minds of those inflicted with this malady I am sure he would misinterpret the results.

I can just imagine Freud probing into a subject's subconscious, and producing some confusing flashbacks.

"All right now, I want you to remain relaxed and think back to all those events that are troubling you. Just let it all out."

Suddenly the hypnotized subject mumbles "Dorsett is going to go all the way, the Cowboy cheerleaders are going wild."

Commentary

"Go ahead, any other thoughts and impressions come to mind?" Freud asks.

"Fisk's got two balls on him as he leans into the box," continues the subject.

"Fascinating," says Freud, suddenly jotting down notes furiously, "Go on."

"Martin couldn't surprise the Twins with the squeeze that time!"

"Hmmm 'twins" you say!" Freud is suddenly leaning at the edge of his seat.

"Cashman is hoping to have better luck scoring against the Canadiens than he did against the Penguins."

"Very interesting," says Freud as he closes his note book, certain that he has gotten to the root of the problem.

Getting back to reality, the problem of sport 'madness' is no flight of fancy. It is far worse than people realize. I know because I have a terminal case of 'SM.'

I am what you call an incurable sportaholic. Unlike others I am not ashamed to admit it. I came to grips with the problem and learned how to live with myself.

There were periods when I assumed I would outgrow it and develop a normal perspective on life, but alas that is the way I was destined to be. It was tough on my family. They kept blaming themselves asking, "Where did we go wrong?" Eventually they acknowledged I was just different.

Sometimes I envy those more well-adjusted people who can cope with sports, with a take it or leave it attitude. For me I need my constant sports fix. Upon waking up in the morning I need that fresh whiff of sports to recover from the intoxication of the stale events of the night before.

Often I may be suffering withdrawal symptoms from the 'Firecracker 500' or maybe the 'Pro Bowlers Tour.' I need to hear the reassuring voice of the radio broadcaster with his-her endless number of scores to steady my nerves.

To get into the proper rhythm of the day I must consume the sports section of the daily paper. (The rest of the paper gets thrown around the room like the wrapping paper off your Christmas presents)

That takes top priority over everything else. Regardless of whether I may be late for my 9:05 I can not allow the possibility of a major upset or trade to elude me.

Unfortunately its not enough for a sportaholic to know merely who won the day's big game. He-she has the unquenchable urge to know obscure results and facts. Things such as Towson State beating Frostburg State, or that Doug Palm was the second place finisher in the 'Island Holidays Tourney' in Kaanapii, Hawaii. You notice that 'Dancing Femme' paid 4.40, at Santa Anita, and you wonder why the owner chose to name his horse that with the infinite number of options at his disposal.

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
open 'till 11 p.m. daily
SPECIAL - OF - THE - WEEK
MIRASSOU CALIFORNIA WINES
MONTEREY RIESLING
CHENIN BLANC
JOHANNISBURG RIESLING
CHABLIS
15% off regular prices
REFRIGERATORS ARE HERE AVAILABLE NOW
338 College St. (Rt. 9) Amherst 253-5384 256-8433 EZ Parking

Women spikers meet Lyons at Mt. Holyoke

By ELLEN DAVIS
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's volleyball teams face Mount Holyoke tonight, in an away match.

Starting at 7:00, the junior varsity spikers will play the best two out of three sets, followed by the varsity in a three out of five set duel.

With 11 matches left in the season, UMass coach Dianne Thompson hopes to raise her team's record, which is currently 4-9.

"Our goal is .500," she said, "We'd like to make the rest of the season 9-2."

Thompson said her team started its turnaround Saturday, when it won two out of three matches in a four-way meet and also played very consistently.

Last year, the Minutewomen defeated Mount Holyoke 15-5, 15-8, in their regular season match, but lost to the Lyons in the state tournament, 15-3, 9-15, 7-15.

Mt. Holyoke lost three starters this year, but has three veterans returning. The Lyons are led by first-year coach Anne Hennis.

WESTERN AUTO
WESTERN VILLAGE
SKI SHOP

CROSS-COUNTRY PACKAGE #1
Jarvinen Stepfiber Skis
Trak Sierra Boots
3 Pin Binding and Poles
Installation:
Reg. 104.95
NOW 85.00

CROSS-COUNTRY PACKAGE #2
Jarvinen Glass Skis
Trak Sierra Boots
3 Pin Binding and Poles
Installation:
Reg. 111.00
NOW 90.00

CROSS-COUNTRY PACKAGE #3
Jofa Step Touring Skis
Trak Sierra Boots
3 Pin Binding and Poles
Installation:
Reg. 98.95
NOW 82.00

32 Main St.
Northampton, Mass.
OPEN THURS.
'til 9:00

rainbow prisms

A fine collection of hand cut strass quality crystal, high lead content and exquisite shapes project color and form when hung in a window. A perfect gift for your home, from $1.75 to $20.

Faces of Earth
Open 9:30 to 6 Mon.-Sat.
Next to Amherst Post Office

This one got away. The Minutewomen will be trying to prevent more of these when they play at Mt. Holyoke tonight. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
MEN'S VARSITY SOCCER — UMass 5 Westfield State 1
TODAY
VARSITY VOLLEYBALL — vs. Mt. Holyoke Away 7:00
VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY — vs. Smith Away 2:30
JUNIOR VARSITY VOLLEYBALL — vs. Mt. Holyoke Away 8:00
JUNIOR VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY — vs. Smith Away 3:45
TOMORROW
MEN'S JUNIOR VARSITY SOCCER — vs. Springfield Away 2:30

JV spikers win tri-meet

By JEFFREY GLYNN
Collegian Staff

The UMass junior varsity volleyball team now has a winning record, thanks to a first place finish in a tri-match played last night at NOPE gym. Its record now stands at 4-3 after being 0-3 at the start of the season.

The Minutewomen defeated Franklin Pierce College and Berkshire Community College handily. They made very few mistakes in either contest, and seem to showing a greater degree of confidence than they did at the beginning of the year.

UMass played Franklin Pierce first, and immediately built up scores of 4-0, 9-1, and 13-4, before winning the game 15-4. Serving was the key to the first game, as the Minutewomen used powerful serves to obtain most of their points.

As the second game began, the hapless Franklin team took a very surprising 4-0 lead, due to some confusion between the UMass players. However, the Minutewomen pulled together and decimated Franklin the rest of the way by the score of 15-5. In this game, UMass could do no wrong after the 4-0 deficit as its service, net play, and setups all worked to perfection.

UMass played Berkshire Community in the final match and had a 7-5 lead when Brenda Simmons, one of its star spikers, injured her ankle fairly seriously and had to sit out the rest of the game. Nevertheless, the Minutewomen rolled out their steamroller and crushed Berkshire 15-6, 15-10.

Coach Bonnie Buongiorne, quite pleased by the team's performance, attributed the victory to the team's improved serving ability and their spirit. "The players performances were very consistent today," she said.

Bus trip off for UNH game

On November 12th, approximately ten Western Mass. buses could have been departing from the Campus Center Circle. Destination-Durham, N.H. Goal-support of UMass football team in contest vs. UNH's Wildcats.

They could have been departing.

But they won't be.

Plans were in the making of a mass exodus of say, 500 UMies, via those buses, to the game of the season.

Unfortunately, a call to UNH revealed that the school (as of last night) had only 200 tickets remaining for sale.

Mathematically, that means that if 500 UMies did attempt the UNH package deal, 300 would be without tickets.

So the trip, in its planning stages, has been abandoned.

Any available tickets will be on sale at the game for $4.50.

Kurt Vonnegut Jr.'s
Slaughterhouse Five
Tonight!
Mahar Aud. (next to SBA)
7, 9, and 11
The only showing this year!

Booters bomb Owls, 5-1

By JACK ATKINSON
Collegian Staff

Sophomore forward Mike Shannon pumped in three goals, including the winner early in the second half, to power the UMass soccer team to a resounding 5-1 victory over the Westfield State Owls in a game played yesterday afternoon behind Boyden.

Tasso Koutsoukos and Billy Leary provided the additional scoring, while Chris Roukas accounted for the lone Westfield score. The win lifted the Minutemen's record to 6-4, including their last three in a row, while Westfield dropped to 12-3.

If it was going to be a rout, it didn't look that way in the first half. UMass missed three golden opportunities when Leary, Shannon, and Joel Mascolo narrowly missed on shots from close range. For Westfield, it was worse: the Owls faced a tenacious Minuteman defense which held them in check all afternoon.

Roukas' goal, scored at the 37:55 mark of the first half, was scored from close in on a rebound on which UMass goaltender Mark Hodgdon had no chance. It temporarily tied the game at one all. But that was to be it for Westfield, as the Minutemen defense closed the door.

Not only was the UMass offense awesome, it was also quite entertaining: three of the goals could easily be described as picture plays.

Shannon's first, coming at 15:39 of the first half, came about when he totally faked out the defender and popped it past the goaltender.

Koutsoukos' was a real beaut: he lined up John Smith style and booted the ball, in perfect field goal fashion, past the astonished goaler.

Leary's, at 35:32 of the second half, was a clean breakaway where he faked out his defender and scored.

This was an especially sweet victory for the Minutemen because it was a total victory: both the offense and defense had excellent games. In addition, everybody got a chance to play.

Will Temby replaced Mark Hodgdon in goal for the final 23 minutes and looked impressive, handling two particularly difficult shots. Sub goaler Preston Kise also took a turn at fullback, in the shirt of Mike St. Martin, and looked good. It was, indeed, a satisfying win from all angles.

Westfield State coach John Kurty was impressed: "What can I say? UMass is a nice team. I don't think that they're four goals better, but they're a nice team. That Greek kid (Koutsoukos) is about the best that we've seen all year," he said.

UMass coach Russ 'Cap' Kidd was happy, but relieved. "So many of our guys played well, but I didn't feel well 'til we got our fourth," he said.

Hat-tricker Mike Shannon echoed his coach's sentiments. "Everybody played well. After those early misses we came right back, which is the sign of a good team," Shannon remarked.

The only negative aspect of the win was the crowd, or lack of same. The bulk of the audience were passers-by who stopped to see what was going on, and then soon left.

FOOT-NOTES: Kidd gave the team today off, although several players plan to work out on their own... Sad to see co-captain Ed Niemiec, out for the season due to an injury, pacing the sidelines... special mention goes to Arthur Quinton, combination Physics prof and assistant coach, whose insights to the game of soccer have been an invaluable asset to UMass' success thus far... BC is the next home match, Saturday at 1 p.m.

Minuteman Bobby Abt follows through on a shot directed towards the Westfield State netminder in yesterday's 5-1 victory over the Owls. The win was the third in a row for the streaking Minutemen. (Staff photo by Bob Higgins)

Judy Kennedy and Sue Kibling (14) battle for the ball in a recent game. UMass travels to Smith today in search of another win. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Women stickers travel to Smith country

By MISSY GALLAGHER
and JIM GLEASON
Collegian Staff

The 7-1-2 UMass field hockey team travels to Smith today at 2:30 in quest of its eighth win. The game was originally scheduled as a home contest, but poor field conditions at NOPE necessitated a change.

Smith should give the Minutewomen little trouble. Smith is traditionally known as being one of the weaker clubs on the schedule.

UMass coach Judith Davidson is expecting a good performance from her team, especially from the offense. "If we can score some goals, we will win," she said.

By virtue of Tuesday's shutout win over Plymouth, Kathy Gipps lowered her goals against average to 0.70. It was her sixth shoutout of the year.

The Minutewomen defeated Plymouth, 1-0, on co-captain Lynsie Wickman's tally which came four minutes into the second half. The goal resulted from one of the 15 penalty corners in the clash.

According to Davison, the game was not as close as the score indicated. The UMass stickers earned 15:17 of penetration time, the best this season, compared to only 3:44 for Plymouth.

Davidson credited her team with a "very strong second half." Even its hits were strong, she said.

Receiving plaudits from their UMass mentor were Ginger Bulman, Julie Hall, Gayle Hutchinson, Laura O'Neal, Kelly Salls and Kathy Gipps.

Hall, at left wing, came on in the second half and contributed strong centering passes.

Bulman, at right outside, was outstanding, Davidson remarked.

The only aspect of the team that Davidson is concerned about now is its mental attitude. "Against New Hampshire, we weren't aggressive and we weren't concentrating. Our physical skills are good, we just have to be ready to play our kind of game," she said.

The game with Smith should give the Minutewomen a good chance to play a strong game before a tough UConn team visits next Tuesday.

Collegian Sports

Rich Eckel

Give 'em a chance

There was a ballad that became popular during the late sixties when campus demonstrations against the Vietnam war were in vogue. It was called, "Give Peace a Chance."

Well, the Boston Bruins and Celtics would have to be excused if one of these nights they decided to appear at Symphony Hall and sing out a slightly revised version entitled, "Give Us a Chance."

Their respective NHL and NBA schedules have just begun, but already fans are mumbling about the teams' performances and have taken up their favorite ritual — second guessing the coaches.

What's wrong with the Celts? Why's Cherry (Bruins coach) using three goalies? Has Havlicek finally reached the end of his career? Why wasn't Brad Park in the game during the final minute when Vancouver tied the Bruins the other night?

These type of questions have been heard in the dining commons, on sports talk programs and, of course, in the fans locker room — the local barroom.

As of Tuesday night the Bruins had compiled a 2-2-2 record, while the Celtics had crawled to a 1-3 mark. Now obviously these records are nothing to write your friend in New York about, but don't fret and write off the winter season as a total loss for our Boston representatives.

It is just too early to become excited about the outcome of these early season games. That may say something about the overlap in sports schedules, but that's a different matter.

Who could blame Gerry Cheevers for being more interested in the results at Saratoga instead of the happenings on the ice in Boston Garden? And what if John Havlicek is more excited about the Ohio State football team than he is in the pick and roll? These guys are only human, it takes time for players to get psyched about another reason.

When you came back to school in September, you didn't spend your first night in the library. When a new president is elected he's given the time between November and January to acquaint himself with the surroundings. Everyone feels better that the new commander-in-chief is given this transition period as a time to adjust to his new responsibilities.

But it seems that sports fans everywhere are unwilling to accept the excuse that their team is just adjusting and won't be in full stride for another month. It appears that in the back of every sports fans mind there is a belief that this year's team could go undefeated. And as soon as the team loses its first game, fans feel cheated and want to know what's wrong with the team.

Bill Campbell, the Red Sox million dollar relief specialist, lost his team's first game this season and suddenly all Red Sox fans were asking why had the Sox decided to go after this stiff!

In fact, a sign was posted in the bleachers saying, "Sell Campbell and bring back the $1.50 bleacher ticket." The man had hardly had time to set foot on the Fenway mound before he was booed and ridiculed by the fans and the media.

By season's end, Campbell had silenced his early detractors and in August another banner appeared on the bleachers' back wall. It said, "BUY ANOTHER CAMPBELL AND RAISE BLEACHER SEATS TO $2.50."

The present playoff structure in the NHL and NBA is so generous that the Bruins and Celtics could afford to sleep through the month of October and still be assured a playoff spot in March.

The often-used cliche that every game counts still holds true, but now with any team that plays over .500 ball making the playoffs, the adage has lost some of its intensity.

Relax, the Bruins and Celtics will eventually put it together and your early season worries will be put to rest. Don't bother to stop doing your calculus in order to find out whether the C's or B's have won. That ritual is senseless at this time of the year, because the REAL season hasn't begun.

So just give 'em a chance.

---

Below the Salt

Volume 6 Issue 8 October 27, 1977

It don't mean a thing if it ain't got that swing - Duke Ellington

The rusty nail Inn

FRI. & SAT., Oct. 28-29
JAMES COTTON BAND
ED SHAW AND THE HOWLIN' WOLF BAND

WED., NOV. 2
POUSETTE-DART
SPECIAL GUESTS THE BRICKER BAND

rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665-4937

FITZGERALD/SANBORN
Video installation
Student Union Gallery
October 18-28, performance-
Screening: Friday the 28th, 7:30

bfa, mfa?

DEGREE PROJECTS

The Student Union Gallery has openings for Degree Projects for Spring 1978.
Please submit, 1. portfolio and/or slides, 2. written proposal, with name phone etc.

DEADLINE NOV. 15
DECISIONS DEC. 15

Below the Salt

Volume 6, Issue 8

Editor: Bob Armstrong
Assistant Editor: Ken Shain
Art: Lesley Lawrence
Books: Cheryl Sreiberg
Dance: Leila Bruno
Film: Skip Tenczar
Music: Ross Nerenberg
Theater: Debbie Wallace

CONTRIBUTORS
RasTapunk Ram Dass
Bheki Langa
Jennifer Haywood
Patti Rosenberg
Marrio Barros
Paul "Whizz"
Tom Anderson
Tom Aversa
Phillip Milstein
Scott Haas
Gerard Hallaren
Habib Mouallem
Britt Warren
Phillip Goldstein
Lisa Wait
Zoe Best
Rick Alvord

Below the Salt is the weekly fine arts supplement to the Collegian. Do not let the term "fine arts" lead you to believe that we will print only material that deals with "high culture" or impressionistic, individually-oriented art. We are of the many roles which various forms of art may play in a society. Therefore we welcome the submission of any material that deals with anything in an artistic context, we repeat; anything. One stipulation is that if this material is typed it should be double-spaced at sixty-seven spaces per line. Please have whatever you want published in Sunday night in order to insure publication in the following Thursday's issue. Our office is located in the Collegian complex on the first floor of the Campus Center. If no one from the staff is at the office when you come down, you may leave your material in the appropriate folder on the file cabinet or leave a message on the wall.

ATTENTION

There will be a meeting of all those interested in working for Below the Salt tonight in the BTS corner of the Collegian office at 7:pm. All those with ideas are encouraged to attend.

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

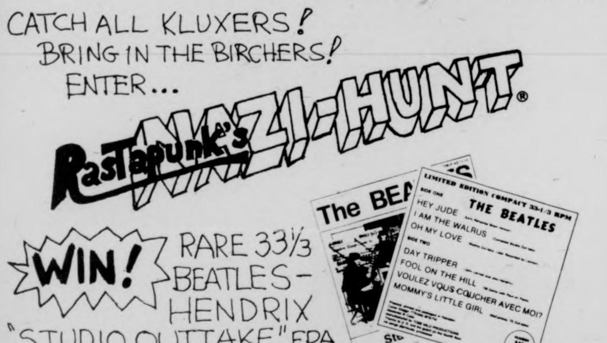
GREAT AMERICAN SAYINGS:

I know why nobody eats here;

it's too crowded -

Yogi Berra

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★



CATCH ALL KLUXERS!
BRING IN THE BIRCHERS!
ENTER...
RasTapunk's NAZI-HUNT®

WIN! RARE 33⅓ BEATLES-HENDRIX "STUDIO OUTTAKE" EPA

YOU TELL US: WHO BURNS THE VALLEY CROSS?

PRIZES GALORE!
First Prize: Rare valuable Beatles-Hendrix Jam!
Second Prize: "Life With the Lennons" EPA!
Third Prize: Dolly Parton and Stella Parton LPs!
ANYONE CAN ENTER ANYONE CAN WIN!

RULES:
1. Fill out coupon
2. Mail to: RasTapunk Collegian UMass Campus Center
3. Contest expires on Nov. 15, 1977

Mail entry to: RasTapunk Collegian/UMass Campus Center
Name:________
Address:________
City:_____ State:_____
Phone:_____ Zip:_____
________ burns crosses.

---

BOOKS:

Jimmie Lunceford Orchestra (Collection of Duncan Schiedt

THE COTTON CLUB
by Jim Haskins
Random House
$7.95 169 pp.

Welcome to the coffetables and catalogs of this expansive land of ours is Jim Haskins' new contribution to the research and litersture of the African-American experience, The Cotton Club. Bound with pictures, sepia-toned and set in an art-deco style, this book chronicles the life and times of The Cotton Club, Harlem's and the worlds's night spot for over a generation and the single most famous institution and symbol of the "Jazz Era." Aided by literary superstar Toni (read her if you haven't) Morrison, Haskins presents us with a well researched pictorial and social history of this well-spring of talent; its establishment, its galaxy of stars, its notoriously racist "whites only" admittance policy, and its ultimate demise.

Parralleling the influx of Blacks into the New York metropolitan area during and after the First World War, The Cotton Club rose and became established as the talent showcase of the world. Seating was reserved for whites and the only Blacks allowed in the club were performers. A great deal of American cultural mythologicalization finds its roots here. On stage, we saw a succession of stars performing dances and sounds that kept the "white world" alive with interest. Duke Ellington, Bill Robinson, Cab Calloway, Ella Fitzgerald, Lena Horne, Ethel Waters, and Louis Armstrong were all super-exploited by The Cotton Club management at one time or another. Packing the tables, invariably to get "ideas," were All-America's Jimmy Durante, Irving Berlin, Fred Astaire, Ethel Merman, and Florenz Ziegfield.

In fact, most of so-called American cultural innovation was stolen, lterally, by whites from Blacks. Case in point: How many of you readers out there know that the popular phrase "Keep On Truckin'" originated not with R. Crumb and his Zap Comix but was coined by Jimmie Lunceford in the spring of 1935 as the name of a song and a dance keeping white audiences at The Cotton Club swinging all through the depression? Haskins reveals for us in his book this obscure but important detail. Uncovering these details without malice, Haskins takes us back to when Irving Berlin would sit and listen to the Duke for hours, how both Fred Astaire and Shirley Temple learned form Bill Robinson the finer points of dancing, and how, finally, when the rise of the recording industry, among other factors, hastened the demise of the Cotton Club, it was these same white stars who upstaged their mentors. It is Benny Goodman who is known as the "King of Swing," not Jimmie Lunceford or Duke Ellington; while Ethel Waters recently passed away in relative obscurity.

With clarity and wit, Jim Haskins has put together the story of The Cotton Club. Through Prohibition, Depression, and war, the memory still lingers. Thanks to Mr. Haskins, it has been preserved forever in this magnificent paperbound tribute.

-Kenneth Shain

* * *

On the Cover: Earl "Snakehips" Tucker, circa 1925. Earl could twist his haunches and thigh joints into unbelievable contortions, earning the nickname "Snakehips" and becoming an immediate sensation. He is also the grand-daddy of UMass' own Cheryl Hunter Shain...whose own family did not possess a picture of him 'till this day!

The Photographer's Handbook
John Hedgecoe
Alfred A. Knopf
$16.95

Although there are dozens of books published each year supposedly telling the reader all the secrets of photography, I have never yet come across one that was clear, thorough and not trying to sell a product...until now. This book is exactly what it claims to be, "A complete reference manual of photographic techniques, procedures, equipment and style." Compiled with the help of over a dozen people, it gives both a visual and verbal explanation of any question any photographer could have. If it has any fault it is in the problem of time already it is dated, missing some of the latest ideas in photography; for example, the new line of color-slide film by Kodak which enables fast film to retain the brilliant colors only found in slower films of the past. But, considering the limitations of most photography books, this one is truly a gem.

Starting with the very basics, explanations of various cameras, lenses and films, it proceeds into explanations of processing, printing and enlarging both black and white and color film. This is accomplished in the first seventy pages and from there on the book really becomes more valuable. Using hundreds and hundreds of actual photographs, as well as very clear instructive language, the basic principles of actually taking photographs are explained and the possible creative potential of each area explored. For me the most helpful section was in dealin g with the natural elements, especially light. Without the necessity of expensive, extra equipment, the book showed dozens of examples of really good photography that was accomplished through an understanding simply of available light, weather, etc.

Each photograph used in the book was accompanied by the information concerning what lense was used, the type of film, aperture and lense speed. Discussions on color theory, filter effects, close-up photography, perspective and viewpoint are only a few of the techniques discussed. The latter part of the book covered the actual darkroom procedures and the many special effects that could be accomplished, such as masking, adding texture, zooming, and progressive development. If the technique exists, then it is at least mentioned, if not always explained. For $16.95 the book really could be a great help and a great time saver for most amateur as welll as many professional photographers.

Cheryl Sreiberg

A 10-15 hour work-study position is open in the Collegian news department. Typing, filing and answering phones. Sunday through Thursday, two to three hours a night. See Bernard Davidow in the Collegian office.

GMAT

For those who were disappointed by John Sexton, and any others interested, we offer a weekend intensive course prior to the November 5 exam. Call Test Prep Services at 256-6462 or write Box 28, Amherst.

TEST PREP

The rusty nail Inn
presents
Tonite, Thurs., Oct.27
ZONKARAZ

Fri., Oct. 28
& Sat., Oct. 29
JAMES COTTON
Also ED SHAW
and the
HOWLIN WOLF BAND

Every Sunday
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION

Mon., Oct. 31
L & M and the SOUL DRIVERS

Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel.665-4937

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS

ANTHONY
NEWMAN,
Harpsichordist
All baroque program

WITH

SPRINGFIELD
SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
Robert Gutter, Conductor

Wednesday, November 2 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

Tickets now on sale. General Public $7, 6, 5. UMass students $3.50, 3, 2.50. Other students and senior citizens $6, 5, 4.

Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

IF I SHOULD DIE...
45 MINUTES OF WIDE SCREEN MULTI-MEDIA WIZARDRY

...an experience you'll never forget!

Dramatically explores life, death . . . and beyond.
Multiple imagery and hard-hitting music carry you beyond death into reality.
Music from Blood Sweat & Tears, Jim Croce, Bloodrock,
Black Sabbath and others. Don't miss it!

TODAY!
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27
8:00 P M · S.U.B. FREE

PARAGON EXPERIENCE A touring production of Campus Crusade for Christ

9th ANNIVERSARY SALE!

sale 8.99
WOVEN FLANNEL SHIRTS 25% OFF! REGULARLY $12

sale 11.99
PURITAN SHETLAND SWEATERS ...SAVE 30%! REG. $16

1/3 off
JUNIOR BLOUSES & SHIRTS SOLIDS, PLAIDS, & PRINTS EXPAND YOUR WARDROBE NOW AND SAVE!

50% off
SPECIAL SELECTION! JUNIOR FALL DRESSES BY PLAIN JANE

Levi's

MEN'S CASUAL SLACKS $5 OFF! REGULARLY $17

sale 11.99

1/3 off
JUNIOR SWEATERS, BULKY KNITS...33% OFF

1/3 off
JUNIOR SLACKS, CORDUROYS FLANNELS, GABERDINES...

HURRY...FINAL DAYS!

Amherst Open till 9 P.M.
Thursdays & Fridays

WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

Viking Hus

clogs clogs
clogs

New shipment for school and the Fall Fashion!

The Largest Selection of the Original

Swedish,
Danish and Austrian Clogs

ALL SIZES
Bastard - Mia -
Gunilla and Mengen

BRING IN THIS AD FOR A
3.00 DISCOUNT-CLOGS

Eastfield Mall Springfield ,MA
Auburn Mall Auburn MA
Liberty Mall Danvers, MA
Methuen Mall Methuen MA

Lunar Phases

photo by Jeff Stone

Luna Preview

Orchestra Luna, you may already know, ceased to exist as of September 28 of this year, three of their four frontmen (including two frontwomen) having left to pursue musical careers elsewhere. Left behind are bassist Chet Cahill, keyboardist Bob Brandon, guitarist whiz kid Steven Perry, co-keyboardist, lead singer and songwriter Richard Kinscherf (the only remaining member of the original Orchestra Luna) and a new fantastic drummer whose I still don't know (he replaced Ace Holleran this past June; Holleran, incidentally, placed a letter to the editor in the current issue of Rolling Stone). The new five-member band has shortened its name to Luna (crossing out the word "Orchestra" in their letterhead and cutting it off the top of their business card) and plans to continue as such, with more emphasis on the music and less on the razzmatazz that characterized Orchestra Luna, according to the band's manager, Billie Jean Best. Many of the old songs will undoubtedly be scrapped, being given any justice at all only as full production pieces; some of the more straight-ahead songs will remain, and some new ones are sure to be included. The show will, of course, look very little like an Orchestra Luna show, but if Kinscherfs past integrity and genius still exist (as I'm sure they do), we can expect rock&roll excitement of the highest magnitude. And the first test of that in this area will come this Tuesday, November 1, at the Rusty Nail in Sunderland (prime Western Mass. haunt of the old band, as well.) According to Best, the band is negotiating a recording contract with the venerable purveyor of New York new wave, Sire records. One of the problems with Orchestra Luna's 1974 Epic LP, and one of the problems with putting any other form of that band onto vinyl, was in translating the wild theatrics of their stage show. But if Luna is as non-Broadway and mostly-music as I expect, this band should produce a fantasticdisc, and may even--finally--earn that aboveground stardom that they have for so long deserved. Tuesday at the Nail. Check it out.

-Phillip Milstein

Humor

Mickey's Musings

RING BEFORE ENTERING

On Transience or Why House Plants Rarely Last A Season Or Two

You are in your room or on a bus. It's an ordinary afternoon in late Autumn. This morning you woke, showered, and ran off in pursuit of the day, sleep gauzed all over your face. Hey -wait a minute--you like ice cream! I mean, that's just the kinda guy you are! But right now, you look at your hands and think: "One day, sooner than I imagine these fleshy babes are gonna be wrinkled and shaking! I don't want to grow old!"

Sitting there thinking about it is actually a waste of the little time you have left. It is also quite unusual. Unusual? Well, you don't think other people have the same anxieties about aging, loss, and death? They do not. You are completely alone. Wait! Is there something you can do?

There is nothing you can do. Haven't we been through this?

Ah, but you might prepare yourself for the future! Consider how unfair it all is. Consider...

Mickey Yablonkowitz stopped writing and placed the pencil back on his desk, pausing to look out the window. "All those leaves," he thought, "each like a fleeting memory blowing past me. How can we take hold of our past?" At that moment, he leaned back in his chair and fell onto the floor. "Oh, the little rug hairs, like swarming memories, trees, pillars, hairs from a nostril. I have no sense of humor," he mused sadly.

He was 23. Life meant losing family, friends, and loose change for the laundry. Sometimes he feared growing close to people for fear of losing them. On occasion he had the urge to become a professional bowler and leave everything behind.

"Up until now," he thought, "I've been having a great time!" Indeed, young Yablonkowitz had been living it up. He was the life of the party with his brilliant imitations of Lou Costello and his card tricks. When his uncle Frank died and left him the bourbon distillery in Tennessee, all seemed simply perfect. Still, the death made him think. He spoke to his girlfriend Dotty about it all.

"My uncle died."

"The seasons pass. We age quietly. Prices go up."

"I don't know what to say or do."

"We must compromise. As we age, we gain weight."

Late that night he wrote in his journal:

Tomorrow pick up tomatoes, bananas, chopped meat, and macaroni. I fear I am losing control.

At first Yablonkowitz's fears were remote. He thought of death, cold and ominous, only when he went to buy basic foodstuffs. Slowly though, the fear spilled into each waking moment of his life. His only peace was sleep; but even his night was filled with awkward dreams like this one:

A man walks into a European village. He buys a hat, but the size is too small. In the distance a boy cries out. A church bell rings. A door flys open. A window is broken. When he is about to sell his trousers to a second hand store, an exceedingly short person smashes his kneecaps and steals all his buttons. When he recovers, he finds himself as guest host on the Johnny Carson show, drunk and unprepared. His guests are Lola Falana, Don Rickles, and the Muppets. In the dream's final sequence, the man is an acrobat falling. There is no net.

When Yablonkowitz woke from his dreams, only to meet days filled with constant thoughts of death, his panic increased. Soon his life became a torrent of sheer panic. He put some of the panic into gift boxes; the rest he saved for lazy, rainy days. He made a fortune from panic, selling millions of boxes in Montana, where people never seemed to have a care. With the money, he opened a health bar and beauty salon in Schenectedy, New York.

"Hey!" thought Yablonkowitz. "I've beaten death! I'll live forever. Well, if not forever, then at least long enough to...

At that very moment, by the strangest of coincidences, he fell over and died.

Yes, Mickey Yablonkowitz died. You still have a chance. Preparation for the future lies in having more fun than one knows what to do with. Yet if you believe that, you are a very drunk person. The choice is yours.

Scott Haas

---

MORE BOOKS:

PORTRAIT OF A ROMANTIC
Steven Millhauser
373 pp. $9.95

Adolescence is a peculiarly twentieth-century malaise. Gone is the impressionable, credulous youth with a stubborn faith in "this the best of all possible worlds". Candide's stupid cheerfulness still lives in on in Seventeen magazine and certain remote sections of Iowas perhaps, but the continued popularity of Catcher in the Rye speaks of our affinity with its petulent, bad-humored protagonist. Steven Millhauser's Arthur Grumm, who takes "the hideous inadequacy of the universe" (p. 102) as a given, is a young anti-hero tailor-made for (and by) the seventies: an artistic, intellectual version of Holden Caulfield but even more bored and resentful.

Self-indulgent, rude, true to form, Arthur begins with a meandering discertation on his childhood in Connecticut, soon interrupting himself with a tirade: "and suddenly it is all so boring that I cannot really continue. My mommy, my daddy, my boring childhood, did they exist at all? And if so what of it? Let them rest in peace, let them rot in peace, let us stop this nonsense at once. And how long I to mock you, how I long to insult you!-you, Reader, you dull, smug reader; frowning at the page at this very moment. Oh, it is all so boring, so boring"(p. 4). And then like the creature he is, a precocious fourteen-year-old already wise to the fact that contradiction is the stuff of life, he resumes his description of growing up weird in suburbia.

Despite its very contemporary scope, there is something delightfully quaint about Portrait of a Romantic:Millhauser's (or Grumm's, for those who wish to resist the modern notion that a work of fiction is nothing but a machine) attention to trivia, his love for the well-turned phrase, his ability to capture the "high sense of order in the scheme of things: the folded napkin and the closed drawer, the pressed pantsleg, and the polished toe, the ironed hour and the tucked in afternoon." (p. 9)

Throughout, a delicate counterbalance is maintained between the style and the content, the mundane and the mysterious, the will to resist and the need to resign. The result is a whimsical examination rather than another book full of indictments that ultimately indicts itself more than anything else, Arthur Grumm is not an especially original figure, nor, in the hands of many writers would he likely be a very appealing one. But Portrait is redeemed from the banal wasteland of clever novels about overly-educated and indulged refugees of affluence. Millhauser has, as they say, created a charmer with teeth.

Patti Rosenberg

BALLETOMANIA THEN & NOW
by Arnold Haskell
Alfred A. Knopf
$12.50 303pp.

Balletomania is a book about an obsession-obsession with classical ballet and all it encompasses. Haskell admits he has a bad case of balletomania, or passionate love of ballet, and notes frequent examples of it. One of these, Nicolai Simeonov, strongly concerned with the bad press and destruction of ballet, committed suicide having believed in ballet enough "to die, to rouse others in its defense."

Other well known dancers mentioned here include-Anna Pavlova, Serge Diaghilev, Tamara Karsavina, Marie Rambert, Lydia Sokolova, Frederick Ashton and Agnes de Mille to name a few. Haskell has seen these dancers perform, analyzed their movements, talked with them, become their friend. This is what makes this book so enjoyable and alive, firsthand eyewitness knowledge of many tragic and amusing antedotes of the life of a ballerina. What stands out above all is the dancers determinism, wholehearted enveloping dedication to dance. If there was not this dedication ballet would be lost for it has the least recognition from the world than any other art.

Ballet. Its didcipline is handed down from one great dancer and teacher to the next., "One forgetful generation and ballet would be dead forever, but there is no risk of that, it can survive..."

Is this book worth an audience? Well, for those of you that waver on the edge of interest and love, Balletomania could be the start of your addiction to a highly specialized art.

Jennifer Haywood

POETRY:

nocturne

who knows of the violence buried in sleep?
illusion painting the dreams. technicolor inversions. sleep the brutal betrayal. lies
